FIFTH REPORT from the COMMITTEE OF SECRECY, &c.

FIRST MARATTA WAR.

APPENDIX, No. 46.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal; dated the 3d March 1775.

Par. 32. HAVING taken into our moſt ſerious Conſideration the Circumſtances which induced our Preſident and Council to ſuſpend payment of Tribute to his Majeſty Shaw Allum, we muſt declare, that his own conduct has rendered that Meaſure not only expedient, but abſolutely neceſſary.

33. We have heretofore ſignified our earneſt deſire to have his Majeſty accommodated, if poſſible, with a ſuitable Reſidence within the Limits of Bengal, in order to avoid thoſe Evils which we ſoon found would reſult from a continual drain of the circulating Specie of the Provinces; but notwithſtanding we were aſſured, that ſuch Reſidence would have been for the King's real advantage, yet as his Majeſty diſcovered an averſion to the Meaſure, we never abated in our attention to his Perſon, which is fully evinced by the regular Payment of the ſtipulated Tribute. We thought it incumbent on us to lay our Sentiments before his Majeſty, but we took no ſteps whatever which could be conſtrued as intended to reſtrain him from acting on the occaſion as he ſhould think proper. It was however with deep Concern we obſerved the King's views were ſuch, as appeared to us altogether inconſiſtent with his circumſtances. Inſtead of availing himſelf of a ſituation ſo eligible as that, which the Provinces might have afforded him, his Majeſty gave us early Proofs, that nothing leſs than the poſſeſſion of Delhi could ſatisfy his deſires; and the Meaſures adopted and purſued by him for that Purpoſe were utterly repugnant to the intereſts of the Company.

34. The junction of his Majeſty with the Marattas, the Defeat of his Army by their Troops, and the ceſſion of the Provinces aſſigned for his Support, were Circumſtances ſo alarming, that it became the indiſpenſable duty of our Preſident and Council, to ſeize the opportunity which then offered for preventing thoſe Provinces from falling into the Hands of the Marattas; who were not only become formidable to our Ally Sujah ul Dowlah, but were evidently aſpiring to univerſal Conqueſt.

35. Although the Provinces of Corah and Allahabad were reſerved to the King by the Treaty of 1765, we can by no means allow that his Majeſty acquired by that Treaty a right to reſign them into the hands of our Enemies. As the Vizier of the Empire is the firſt officer under his Majeſty, and as the Territories in queſtion were formerly held by the Vizier, we cannot but be of opinion, that our Servants acted with great propriety, in committing them again to his Management when it became abſolutely impoſſible for his Majeſty to hold them in his own immediate Poſſeſſion. And as the King had not only withdrawn himſelf from our Protection, and abandoned the Countries aſſigned to him, but alſo continued by his preſence to countenance the depredations of the Marattas, we fully approve the Reſolution of our Preſident and Council, under thoſe Circumſtances to ſuſpend payment of Tribute to his Majeſty; as we think the general principles of Self-preſervation warranted them to withhold Reſources, which if ſent, they knew muſt fall into the hands of the Marattas, and which they had every reaſon to believe would be appropriated to the uſe of their Army, and contribute towards enabling them to commit hoſtilities in our own Provinces, or in thoſe of our Allies.

36. For the above reaſons, we, upon the matureſt Deliberation, confirm the Treaty of Benares; and we alſo hereby direct, That no further Remittances be made to the King without our expreſs permiſſion firſt obtained for that purpoſe.

37. If the King's Vakeel ſhall voluntarily, or by order of his Majeſty, remain at Calcutta, we conſent for the preſent that he be allowed the Sum appointed by our Preſident and Council for his ſupport.

38. And if you ſhall be of opinion, that it may be in the power of Nudjiff Khan to render us future Services, and therefore that it will be prudent to pay his Stipend, we direct, that in ſuch caſe it be continued.

49. By Letters received over Land from our Select Committee at Fort William, dated the 14th and 19th of May 1774, we are informed of the defeat and death of Hafez Rhamut Khan, Chief of the Rohillas, and of the probability of that Country being ſpeedily ſubdued by Sujah ul Dowlah; and notwithſtanding the pecuniary advantages which the Company have gained by the event, we are exceedingly concerned to find that our Arms have been employed in the conqueſt of the Rohillas, though we muſt confeſs the conduct of their Chiefs, in refuſing to fulfil their ſolemn Stipulations with the Vizier, ſeems to have drawn upon them the calamities they have ſuffered.

50. After noticing the cautionary Terms ſettled with Sujah ul Dowlah previous to the march of our Troops, we can have no doubt of his having fulfilled the Conditions of the Agreement by which he became entitled to our Aſſiſtance; and had the object in view been extended no further than to compel Payment of the 40 Lacks of Rupees due to the Vizier and the Company for the protection afforded the Rohillas, we ſhould have had leſs objection to the meaſure; though it would have been much more agreeable to us, if the Rohillas had faithfully complied with their engagements, which were entered into for the immediate and mutual defence of the contracting Parties, and in which alſo the Intereſt of the Company was concerned.

52. The Treaty of Allahabad compels us to aſſiſt the Vizier in defending his Dominions in caſe they ſhall at any time hereafter be attacked; but in regard to new Conqueſts, or to any warlike Enterprizes beyond his own Territories, we abſolutely prohibit you from employing our Troops on ſuch Expeditions, on any pretence whatever.

53. We much approve the Alteration made in the ſecond Article of the Treaty of Allahabad, reſpecting the Terms upon which our Aſſiſtance is, in caſes of neceſſity, to be granted to Sujah ul Dowlah, as thoſe Terms were very inadequate to the Service to be performed, and conſequently very improper.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bengal; dated the 7th March 1775.

Par. 3. By a Letter from our Select Committee, dated the 24th of Auguſt 1774, we are informed that a Brigade of our Troops, which by former Advices was expected to have been returned within our Provinces, had nevertheleſs, at the ſolicitation of Sujah ul Dowlah, penetrated into the centre of the Rohilla Country on the oppoſite ſide of the Ganges: The above Advice cannot but alarm us exceedingly; more eſpecially when we attend to the ſituation and circumſtances of the neighbouring Powers, and are informed in the Letter above-mentioned of the ſteps taken by the King, and the probability there is of the Marattas being ſufficiently diſengaged from their inteſtine broils, to turn their Arms againſt our Poſſeſſions, if they ſhall deem it for their intereſt to commit depredations therein.

4. Under the above Circumſtances we could not omit the preſent opportunity of teſtifying our concern on ſending ſo conſiderable a part of our Army at ſuch a diſtance from our Territories, and ſo employed as to render it difficult for them to repair within the Provinces in time to prevent the ravages of an Enemy, in caſe the tranquillity of Bengal ſhould be ſuddenly interrupted.

5. We therefore direct, that you on no Account permit our Troops to remain beyond the line of Defence originally ſettled with Sujah ul Dowlah; but that you forthwith take meaſures for their recal, in caſe they ſhall not be returned before the Arrival of theſe our Orders.

6. And as the hazard to which our Poſſeſſions are expoſed by undertaking ſuch diſtant Expeditions appears to us very great, and the meaſure ſo very repugnant to every idea of ſound Policy, we hereby abſolutely reſtrict you from all attempts of this nature in future: And we poſitively direct, That you never conſent to employ our Troops beyond the Limits of our own Provinces, or thoſe of our Ally Sujah ul Dowlah; including therein ſuch Territories only as we are by Treaty obliged to defend, in caſe his dominions ſhall at any time be actually invaded.

From Nudjiff Khan; received 2d January 1776.

I have been honoured with your agreeable Letter, expreſſive of the ſincereſt Friendſhip, which filled me with the greateſt pleaſure.

I perfectly comprehend what you write, that you had applied to the Company for their orders reſpecting the continuation of my Annuity, and received their approbation for that purpoſe, but that the carrying it into execution is delayed till my Anſwer can be received. To the charge of encouraging and entertaining Deſerters from the Company's Service, and Enemies of the Engliſh Nation, and particularly the Aſſaſſin Sumroo, I have already written you very fully on this ſubject, and muſt repeat, that after the Conqueſt of Ackbarabad, when the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah determined upon the Expedition to Rohilcund, in which he was joined by many Engliſh Gentlemen and a Brigade of Engliſh Forces, he repeatedly wrote to me in the moſt preſſing terms, to join my Forces to his in that Expedition, and to prevail on his Majeſty to give him a meeting on the banks of the Ganges. I accordingly got his Majeſty to march from Shahjikanabad, but he afterwards went back again. I joined the Nabob's Army, who received me with the greateſt kindneſs, and gave the management of the affairs of the Vizerut into my hands, and returned himſelf to Fizabad. I ſet off on my Return to Sejchanebad; before my arrival his Majeſty had ſent for that villain Sumroo, who had been long in the ſervice of the Jauts, and taken him into his own ſervice, giving him Paunput and other Mahals for his ſubſiſtence.

Whilſt I was with the Army of the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah, I viſited an Engliſh Gentleman who was at that time attached to his Army, who told me that his Majeſty having engaged in his ſervice an Enemy of the Engliſh Company, it was my duty to cauſe him to be driven from thence. Accordingly, on my Arrival at the Preſence I applied to his Majeſty for that purpoſe, who was pleaſed to anſwer me, That he and Sumroo were inſeparably connected, and that from the conduct of the Engliſh Chiefs he was under no obligation to diſmiſs Sumroo at their requeſt. As I was intimately acquainted with the Company, I made uſe of my utmoſt endeavours to effect this point, but his Majeſty would never hear of it. Eight or nine Months paſſed in this manner, of which you muſt have received information from the News-papers. At laſt his Majeſty, by the Advice of Aboulabaa Khan, in oppoſition to me, called Sumroo to his Preſence. As they were not pleaſed with my having the management of the affairs of the Vizerut, or with the endeavours which my connection with the Engliſh Company led me to make uſe of, for the Expulſion of Sumroo, they determined to ſend for him and break with me. I clearly ſaw that the arrival of Sumroo would cauſe the greateſt diſturbances; and no other remedy preſented itſelf than that of encouraging Sumroo, and detaching him from his Majeſty, as the Engliſh Army was at that time cantoned at Bereilly in the Rohilla Country. The apprehenſions entertained by Sumroo on account of its vicinity, induced him to quit his Majeſty's Service, and hearken to me. It being my deſign to keep him in continual vagrancy, and prevent him from eſtabliſhing himſelf in any ſettled habitation, I diſpatched him towards Jeypore. A number of ſurprizing Events happened at that time. The Gauts and Ragopours, with an Army of 80 or 90,000 Horſe and Foot, excluſive of the Maratta Forces, made an Invaſion into the Country under my authority: this producing the moſt ruinous conſequences, I found it neceſſary to quit Shahjehanabad, and march againſt them at the head of my Army, taking with me 3 Battalions of the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah's Forces which he had left with me before I left Biſſolie. I was at this time joined by Sumroo, with the detachment which I had ſent forwards to Jeypore. The Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah dying at this period, the new-raiſed Miniſters of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, on the very eve of an Engagement, when the two Armies were in

in ſight, recalled the whole of the Nabob's Forces which were with me. The report of the Diſ-union between me and his Majeſty's Miniſters had already gained ground; and the Recal of the Nabob's Forces giving riſe to an opinion of a Breach between him and me, increaſed the ardour of the Enemy, and ſpread the Flames of War. By the bleſſings of the Almighty, and under the auſpices of your Favour, I chaſtiſed them whenever they appeared in the Field, and obliged them to make a diſgraceful Retreat, and ſhelter themſelves in the Fort of Deeg, as they were unable to continue the War, having made trial of their utmoſt ſtrength. The Rajepouts ſeparated themſelves and made their ſubmiſſion, agreeing to the payment of a Tribute. Relying on their oaths, I reſtored to them all the places I had taken from them. Two or three Rohilla Chiefs who were in my ſervice (on account of my joining the allied Armies of the Engliſh and the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah at Biſſolie, in the progreſs of whoſe Arms Hafiz Rhamut was ſlain) entertaining an apprehenſion of their own ſafety, quitted the advanced detachment of my Forces before my departure from Shahjehanabad, and went over to the Jauts. Theſe Men are now in Arms, at the head of 20,000 Horſe and Foot, under the walls of Deeg, and are continually augmenting their Army with great numbers of Rohillas from Rohilcund; they have been alſo joined by 7 or 8,000 Maratta Cavalry: This has encouraged the Jauts to perſevere in their obſtinacy. Theſe ſeveral events have obliged me to continue Sumroo in my ſervice; were I to diſmiſs him at this time, he would undoubtedly go over to the Jauts (in whoſe ſervice he was from the time of the defeat of the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah at Buccar till his Majeſty ſent for him to the Preſence) and cauſe the utmoſt detriment to affairs. I have already intercepted Letters from him to the Chief of the Jauts and Marattas; but as things are now circumſtanced I have not thought proper to take any notice of it; but have given the ſtricteſt charge to all the Hircarrahs to be vigilant, preventing any correſpondence between him and the Enemy. The Marattas at Indore and Aujene, who are engaged in a Civil War, have made application for Sumroo. I am well acquainted with his villainy, and ſee the impropriety of retaining him in my ſervice, would the ſituation of my Affairs admit of my diſmiſſing him; but this is not a time to take ſuch a ſtep. I am well convinced, that were I to apply to the Company for the aſſiſtance of a Body of their Forces, they would be immediately ſent me, yet I cannot think it adviſable to diſmiſs him at preſent. As ſoon as I am in poſſeſſion of the Fort of Deeg, I will give the villain his diſcharge, and will endeavour to diſtreſs and ruin him. With ſuch as look no further than the outſide of things my character will ſuffer for a conduct which neceſſity has impoſed upon me; no other conſideration could have induced me to take into my ſervice an Enemy to the Engliſh Company, and thereby to incur a bad name: That I have done ſo, has been entirely owing to neceſſity. I entertain the ſincereſt attachment and ſubmiſſion to the Company, and will never act contrary thereto: I declare from the bottom of my heart, that I regard all the enemies of the Company as my Enemies, and their Friends as mine. The Friendſhip and Connection eſtabliſhed between the Company and me ſhall never be broken on my part. You may reſt aſſured, that I am amongſt the number of thoſe who pay implicit obedience to the Company. I have faithfully related to you the events that have happened in this quarter. As ſoon as I am relieved from the difficulties of the preſent undertaking, you will ſee whether I mean to encourage him or not, and may then judge of the ſincerity of my profeſſions. Soon after the deceaſe of the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah, the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, with the advice of his new-raiſed Miniſters, diſpatched Mahomed Elich Khan to the Preſence, to negociate the affair of the Kellats of the Vizerat Toopeckana, &c. who accordingly applied himſelf to the execution of the truſt repoſed in him. In the mean time the Miniſters inſtilled groundleſs opinions into the mind of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, that Mahomed Elich Khan was not approved of by his Majeſty as the Negociator of the affairs of the Killats; that it was therefore neceſſary to ſend ſome other perſon, by whom it might be brought to a ſpeedy concluſion. The Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah immediately recalled Mahomed Elich Khan, and ſent another agent to the Preſence; notwithſtanding which, he has not to this day obtained the ends propoſed. Mahomed Elich Khan began his journey to the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah by this route, and meeting with my Army, he ſtopped and paid me a viſit. In the mean time the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah deprived Mahomed Elich Khan of every one of his poſts, and beſtowed them on Morteza Khan. Mahomed Elich Khan mentioned to me, that the Miniſter of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah being jealous of him, would never reſt whilſt he was employed by the Nabob: That he was under apprehenſion for his life and honour; and that he could not venture to proceed to the Preſence of the Nabob, except through the means of the Engliſh Chiefs. I wrote to Mr. Briſtow, the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, and Morteza Khan, on this ſubject, in which I repreſented that Mahomed Elich Khan having fallen under the Nabob's diſpleaſure, and being deprived of all poſts without having been guilty of any crime, was under apprehenſions for his life and honour, ſhould he proceed to the Nabob's Preſence; that if a Caulnama under the ſeal of the Engliſh Chiefs was ſent to Mahomed Khan, ſtipulating that the accounts ſhould be fairly adjuſted from the papers under the ſignature of the late Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah, and that without ſuch an adjuſtment no Perſon ſhould touch the life, honour, or property of Mahomed Elich Khan, he was ready to return and obey all the Nabob's orders: That he had been brought up in the Nabob's Family, and was averſe at the thoughts of quitting it. This was not approved of; but Mr. Briſtow wrote Mahomed Elich Khan a Letter calculated to encourage him, but did not ſend the Caulnama requeſted by him; neither did the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah ſend him a Caulnama. This created ſuſpicions in his breaſt, and fearing for his honour and life he remained at Achabarad, as the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah had held him in high eſtimation, and raiſed him to the honours; and as he was the channel of the negociations between the Nabob and me, I could not on that account refuſe him an Aſylum. I repeatedly wrote to the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, deſiring that if Mahomed Elich Khan ſtood indebted to him, he would ſend an account thereof, and that the ſaid Khan would diſcharge whatever appeared by the accounts to be due from him: This propoſal was likewiſe rejected. If the Engliſh Chiefs will even now ſend Mahomed Elich Khan a Caulnama, and will give him encouragement, he will immediately proceed to the Preſence of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, where he will either meet with reward or puniſhment, according as he is found to be deſerving of either. The Miniſters of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, of their own Authority, wrote to the Forces ſtationed with Mahomed Buſhere Khan in Rohilcund, to put their Chiefs in confinement; all the Troops under his command aſſembled accordingly, and coming into the public Durbar, raiſed a diſturbance, and endeavoured to ſeize on his Perſon. By his bravery he eſcaped out of their hands, and proceeded alone, naked and on foot, to the River ſide, where he embarked in a boat, and croſſed over to this ſide of the Ganges. He made a viſit to Mahomed Elich Khan, and conſidered it as a peculiar piece of good fortune that he had been able to preſerve his life: All his wealth fell into the hands of his Troops. In conſideration of his miſerable ſituation, and of his having been brought up in the family of the Nabob Sujah ul Dowlah, I endeavoured to comfort and encourage him. The Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah will probably write reproachfully to you concerning me on this Account. The Affair is as I have repreſented: On this you may depend, Abdulaed Khan, who conſiders it as the part of his wiſdom to promote diſſentions, has been frequently heard to ſay, "I have no Army at my command, by the fear of which the Sirdars might be led to attend on me; but I will create ſuch diſſentions among them, that they ſhall not have time to eat or drink, by which means they will be reduced to the neceſſity of applying to me." How can I repreſent to you the particulars of the extenſive correſpondence he has held, and ſtill holds with the Jauts and Marattas, and Robillas? But the moſt ſurpriſing of all is, that for theſe four or five months he has been continually writing to Coſſim Ally Khan, and inviting him to the Preſence by the promiſe of being favourably received by his Majeſty. The ſaid Khan is accordingly arrived, and is encamped without the city. You will learn further particulars from the News-papers.

As you have received the approbation and orders of the Company reſpecting my Annuity, I have no doubt of your complying therewith, and favouring me with the payment thereof. It is well known that I am entirely attached to the Company, and that as long as I have life I ſhall never act otherwiſe than with the moſt implicit obedience to them. Conſidering me as at the diſpoſal of the Company, you will confer favours on me, and regard me as your own; and till I have the happineſs of an interview, will frequently let me have the pleaſure to hear from you.

From Nejif Khân; received 6th February 1776.

It is now eight months ſince I arrived in this Country with a deſign to bring to puniſhment the Jauts and Rajeputs, who withdrawing from their duty and allegiance, raiſed diſturbances, and committed depredations in my Territories. In this ſpace of time Lacks of Rupees have been expended in the ſupport of my Army, and other neceſſary charges; and I am indebted Lacks of Rupees to the Bankers. In hopes to bring this Affair to a happy concluſion, I have taken up from the houſe of Lalljee, Lackery, &c. Bankers, the ſum of two Lacks of Rupees, and diſburſed it for the ſupport of my Army, &c. As I formerly ſent you by Mahd Aſkurrie a Merchant, a Receipt for the Sum of 33,333. 7. in part of the two Lacks ſettled on me per annum by the Company, I now ſend a Receipt for the ſum of Rupees 1,66,666. 9. the Balance of my Annuity of two Lacks, through the channel of the aforeſaid Bankers. I am hopeful that you will give directions for the payment of the ſaid ſum on my ſealed Receipt being preſented to you, by which means the ſaid Bankers will be encouraged to act in my Affairs hereafter. The ſooner you direct the payment of this money to the Bankers, the greater will be my obligation to you. As I am bound by the ties of gratitude to the Company, and have the ſincereſt attachment to you, I look to your friendſhip on every occaſion, with confidence, that it will be exerted in my favour.

Regarding me as your own, I hope you will continually favour me with accounts of your welfare, on which my happineſs depends.

Copy of a Letter from Nujiff Khan; received 8th June 1776; dated 25th Rubby-ul-awul, 17th Sun of the King's Reign.

On the 8th of Rubbee-ul-awul I received your Letter of the 17th October. With reſpect to what you mention on the ſubject of the countenance I have given to the Enemies of the Engliſh, and particularly to Sumroo, I have before written, and now repeat, &c.

After writing that "in caſe he had diſmiſſed Sumroo "during the ſiege of Deig, Sumroo might have yielded "to the impulſe of his bad diſpoſition, and joined the "Jauts, whom he had long ſerved," he proceeds—He (Sumroo) wrote ſome Letters once to the Jauts and Marattas, which I diſcovered; but the times were ſuch that I could not take any notice of them; however, I ſtationed Hircarrahs to watch his correſpondence, and by this means it was ſtopped. The Marattas, who are engaged in a civil War in the Decan, have been applying to him for his aſſiſtance. You well know his evil Diſpoſition. I inveſted the Kella of Deig four months, the which time was a time of Battle. When I had ſurrounded the Kella with my Army, as with a circle made with a compaſs, I effectually cut off Proviſions from the Kella, and it was with difficulty the beſieged prolonged their lives; but by the bleſſing of God, and your good auſpices, I took the Kella on the 10th of Rubbee-ul-awul, and the Jauts with their Families were deſolate on the plain of Misfortune, whilſt victory and ſucceſs crowned the Arms of the glorious Warriors. By means of Victory and Succeſs I have obtained Poſſeſſion of the Kella of Deig, and I offer my thankſgiving at the throne of the Almighty. May the undertakings of you and all my Friends be bleſſed with the ſame proſperity!

Since this arduous War has at length been concluded, I will diſmiſs Sumroo from me; but it will offend him. Although the unfortunate juncture of the times, which involved me in ſuch a variety of difficulties, and obliged me to connect myſelf with him ſo long, may prejudice me in the opinion of thoſe who judge only from appearances, yet how could I really have been deſirous of bringing reproach upon my ſelf by [illegible] an Enemy of the Company? It is to be attributed to the neceſſity of the times, and a variety of accidents. I who am in the ſincerity of my heart a well-wiſher of the Company, and obedient to them, will never be guilty of a behaviour inconſiſtent with their will. I know the Company's Enemies are my Enemies, and their Friends my Friends. As I am one of thoſe who are obedient to the Company, by God's bleſſing, I will never deviate from a devotion to their will, and a compliance with their pleaſure. Believe me ſincerely your's, and favour me with the Allowance which I owe to your goodneſs, and for the payment of which you have obtained the leave of the Company, that I may not be left in manifeſt diſtreſs (by diſmiſſing Sumroo) as I am remedileſs.

I derive my ſupport from you, and am ſenſible of the obedience due from me to the Company. Raja Diaram attends your Preſence: I requeſt that you will conſider him as one regarded in a confidential light by me, and hearken to his repreſentations; and that you will favour him, and pay to him my Allowance, that he may remit it to me.

To Nejuff Khan; written 13th June 1776.

I have had the Satisfaction to receive your Letters (vide received 2d January, 6th February, and 8th June) aſſuring me of your attachment to the Company, and your Intention of diſmiſſing Sumroo, the ſiege of Deeg having been ſucceſsfully terminated by the reduction of that Fortreſs; and informing me of various particulars, all which I very clearly underſtand.

I place the greateſt confidence in theſe declarations and profeſſions, and do not doubt of their being followed by effective proofs of your zealous Attachment to the Company's intereſt.

I rejoice exceedingly to hear that the Fortreſs of Deeg has been reduced by your victorious Army. May this event prove fortunate to you and to all your well-wiſhers; and may all your undertakings be crowned with proſperity, and daily add to the reputation that you have already ſo juſtly merited and acquired! I wait with impatience to hear that you have diſmiſſed Sumroo; and not only him, but Maddoc, and the other Europeans to whom you have given Commands in your Army. If you require European Officers for your ſervice, and will inform me of it, I will ſupply you with Men, whoſe birth, education, and knowledge in the Profeſſion, will enable them to be of great ſervice to your Affairs, and a credit to your name; but ſuch Men as Sumroo and Maddoc are a contagion to every fair and honourable Character, and they are alſo the impediments to the renewal of the connection which formerly ſubſiſted between you and the Company. May that union be reſtored, and endure for ever! This is my earneſt wiſh; and ſuch is the eſteem which the Engliſh have conceived for you, that they will with pleaſure revive and confirm the ties of friendſhip with you. But reflect that a real and laſting friendſhip cannot exiſt between two Parties whoſe views and inclinations are oppoſite. It is for this reaſon, and that nothing may remain to caſt even a ſhadow of doubt between us, that I earneſtly recommend to you to prevail upon Mirza Saudit Ally either to return to his obedience, and to the Preſence of his brother Aſoph ul Dowlah Behadre, or to accept of the aſylum which has been offered him in the Province of Bengal; but on no account let him remain with you; for although thoſe who know you and know him will entertain no ſuſpicion of your intentions, the uninformed part of the world will attribute ſuch appearances to hoſtile deſigns in both, and that Opinion may be in the end productive of real miſunderſtandings.

When you ſhall have complied with theſe terms, there will be no obſtacle remaining to my carrying into execution the Orders of the Company for continuing to grant you the allowance of two Lacks of Rupees per annum, which you formerly received from them.

From Nudjuff Khan: Received 22d October 1776.

I have received your Letter of the 13th June, conveying to me your congratulations on the occaſion of my Victories, and the reduction of the Fortreſs of Deeg. It has penetrated me with a ſenſe of your kindneſs, which will ever be retained in my mind. I am convinced that I owe this ſucceſs, which has been imperceptibly effected by the aid of the Almighty, and the opening dawn of his Majeſty's illuſtrious name, to the ſtrength which I have derived from the zeal and regard of my Friends. May the event be proſperous to the Engliſh Gentlemen, and all my Friends and well-wiſhers!

The prevailing ſway of hoſtile and miſchievous nations had long involved the Empire of Hindoſtan in darkneſs and ruin; and it never ſuggeſted itſelf to man that it could be reſtored to its priſtine ſplendor. But God has diſpenſed his gracious aid, and the clouds have in a very ſhort period been diſperſed, and the diſorders ſuppreſſed; and the bleſſing of God, the happy influence of his Majeſty's name, and the ſupport of your friendſhip, and that of the Engliſh Chiefs, will accompliſh what remains.

You have deſired me to diſmiſs Sumroo, Monſieur Maddoc, and the other Europeans to whom I have given Commands in my Army, aſſuring me at the ſame time, that if I require European Officers, you will ſupply me with Men whoſe birth, education, and knowledge in the Profeſſion, will enable them to be of great ſervice to my affairs, and a credit to my name. This aſſurance has rejoiced me, as it has imparted to me new ſtrength in the hopes which, by the means of your friendſhip, I repoſe in the Company. May God grant to you health and happineſs to enjoy the virtues which he has implanted in your breaſt! I will in the time of need avail myſelf of this liberty, to trouble you with my requeſts. My Friend! when I took my leave the ſecond time of his Majeſty in order to extirpate the Jauts, I engaged with them in the Field, but the worthleſs Syeks who are more numerous than Ants and Locuſts, at the inſtigation of various men in power, who profeſſed themſelves, and now profeſs themſelves, the pillars and ſupporters of the Empire, but being deſirous of injuring my affairs, have paid no regard to the welfare of the State, have diſturbed the peace of his Majeſty's territories, and poſſeſſed themſelves, and now poſſeſs themſelves of Country dependant on his Majeſty. On one quarter Runjeet Sing, who is maſter of fortreſſes ſtronger than Deeg, promotes commotions and bloodſhed, and has ſent his own Mother to the aid of the Army to the South, as you muſt have heard. However, I beſtow no thought on theſe difficulties which ſurround me, though they are of a very alarming nature; but the pleaſure of God, whatever it may be, will be manifeſted, Arrears to a very conſiderable amount are due to my troops, and particularly to theſe men of infamous character, in conſequence of the ſucceſſive diſturbances and wars of the Jauts and Rajepoots; and you muſt have heard that they were mutinous; and entering into combinations, they added ſtrength to the Jauts, &c. and diſtreſſed my affairs. You may have alſo been informed that I have been diſappointed in the hope of ſupplies from Deeg, as I did not find a tenth part of what I expected, and failed of the means of quelling the diſorders which prevailed in the Army, and regulating the affairs in a proper manner. His Majeſty iſſues to me the moſt poſitive commands to attend his Preſence to ſettle the account of the Treaſure. His Commands are ſuperior to any other rule. I cannot deſcribe the minuteſt part of my ſincere regard for the Company, and zeal for their welfare; and my pen is unequal to the taſk of repreſenting the kindneſs which I experience from you, in a diſtinguiſhed degree, above the other eminent Perſons of Hindoſtan. You have always been the protector of my honour from the time when we were firſt united by the chain of friendſhip, and are now the protector of my honour. The ruin of two men of ſuch infamous character (Sumroo and Maddoc) would at one time have been an inſtance of attention to your pleaſure, and would have increaſed our friendſhip, as well as confirmed the rights to which I am entitled from the Company: But ſince they had been before entertained by the chiefs of Hindoſtan, and this was a breach of friendſhip on their part, as you well know, and it is an act which is paſt, now when the ſpark of contention has aſcended towards heaven, to diſmiſs them both immediately would be attended with the moſt dangerous conſequences. I foreſee that they would join the evil-diſpoſed, and the Rajahs of Hindoſtan, and Syeks, and raiſe a flame. I have however in contemplation a plan by which they will in time be ſo effectually ruined, that neither the name nor any trace of them will remain. I have accordingly effected the foundation of the expulſion of Monſieur Maddoc and other Frenchmen, and cauſed them to tread the deſart of diſſatisfaction; and I will effect the expulſion of the others in time. I requeſt that you will not entertain a doubt of what I have written, but communicate the contents of my Letter to the Gentlemen of the Council, that they may weigh the conſequences. Since I entertain ſuch a friendſhip for the Company, that I ſhould without reluctance ſacrifice my life, on what ſhould I beſtow any conſideration? But thoſe infamous men would annihilate the good which it has coſt me years of trouble to effect; and the Country of Hindoſtan would relapſe into its former ſtate of confuſion and diſturbance, and be a prey to its enemies. But I am now encouraged by the poſſibility and proſpect of advancing my power and honour in this Country by the means of your friendſhip, even beyond my wiſhes.

You deſire that I will prevail upon Myrza Saudit Ally, either to return to his obedience, and to the Preſence of his brother Aſoph ul Dowlah Behadre, or to accept of the aſylum which has been offered him in the Province of Bengal; but on no account let him remain with me. My Friend! if you ſuſpect that I have invited the Commandants and other Officers from the Battalions of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, and that I had an unfriendly motive in entertaining Myrza Saudit Ally Khan, you do an injuſtice to my ſentiments, and to the ſincerity of my heart. It is a law of hoſpitality, which is obſerved not only in Hindoſtan but in Europe, that if any one enters your roof, he is not to be turned out. In compliance therefore with my duty as a friend, and the ſolicitations of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, who wrote to me on the ſubject, I preſerve Mirza Saudit Ally from other connections, and give every encouragement which may render his life eaſy to him here. Since his arrival he has exhibited every appearance of attachment, and of a deſire of entering into a Treaty: Should I check him in his intention of returning, this would afford grounds for ſuſpicion; but while he remains with me, he will not be able to raiſe any diſturbance. But ſhould he be apprized of the contents of your repeated letters, and leave me, miſchief might enſue. I hope that after the peruſal of my letter, and the aſſurance of my zeal and ſincerity, you will no longer entertain ſuch groundleſs ſuſpicions; for I have never acted, and never will act, inconſiſtently with my friendſhip.

You have informed me that you have received the orders of the Company for the continuation of my allowance, for which I conſider myſelf indebted to your kindneſs. But if you will befriend me by carrying theſe orders into execution, the appearance will ſtrike a terror into my Enemies, as it will be a token of the Company's favour. I requeſt that you will oblige me with frequent letters, till I ſhall have the pleaſure of an interview.

Minutes and Proceedings of the Court of Directors and the Court of Proprietors, on Bengal Affairs, before the Arrival of the Anſon.

At a Court of Directors held on Tueſday the 10th of October 1775.

The Court proceeding to take into conſideration the ſtate of Affairs in Bengal under the conduct of the Governor General and Council there, the following Particulars were read; viz.

An introductory Letter from General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis, dated the 30th November 1774:

Another Letter from thoſe Gentlemen of the ſame date, fully adviſing their Proceedings:

Minute of Mr. Richard Barwell of the 23d November:

Mr. Francis's Obſervations on Mr. Barwell's Minute.

The Court then entering particularly into the Conſideration of the 70th Paragraph of the ſecond Letter above-mentioned, it was, on the Queſtion;

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee of Accounts to conſider the State of the Company's Affairs in Bengal, and to report their Opinion thereupon: and that each of the Directors who ſhall think proper to attend the ſaid Committee ſhall have a voice therein.

Letter from the three above-mentioned Gentlemen, dated the 1ſt December 1774, addreſſed to Edward Wheler, Eſquire:

Letter from Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, dated the 3d of ſaid December:

Mr. Haſtings's Minute of the 8th of that Month, in Support of the Aſſiſtance given to the Vizier againſt the Rohillas;—were alſo read.

And then the Court poſtponed the reading of the remainder of the Advices relative to the Affairs of Bengal until a future day.

At a Court of Directors held on Wedneſday the 18th October 1775.

The Court proceeding in the Conſideration of the ſtate of Affairs in Bengal under the conduct of the Governor General and Council there;

The Letter from the Governor General, containing his Remarks, &c. dated January 1775; alſo,

The Minute of General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis, dated the 11th of ſaid January, to the end of the 53d paragraph;—were read:

And then the Court poſtponed the reading of the remainder of the Advices relative to the Affairs of Bengal until a future day.

At a Court of Directors held on Wedneſday the 25th October 1775.

The Court proceeding in the Conſideration of the Advices lately received from the Governor General and Council of Fort William, part of a Letter from General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis, dated the 11th January 1775 (No. 1.) beginning with the 54th and ending with the 75th paragraph, was read.

At a Court of Directors held on Friday the 27th October 1775.

The Court proceeding in the Conſideration of the Advices received this ſeaſon from the Governor General and Council of Fort William, the following particulars were read; viz.

The Remainder of the Letter from the Governor General, dated the 22d February, beginning after his remark on the 75th paragraph of the Charge in the Minute of General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis, dated the 11th January 1775 (No. 1.):

Letter from the Governor General, dated the 23d February laſt:

Minutes of General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis, dated the 25th (No. 2. and 3.):

Minute of General Clavering, dated the 18th of ſaid February; and

The Governor General's Reply thereto.

At a Court of Directors held on Tueſday the 21ſt of November 1775.

The Court proceeding to take into Conſideration the ſtate of the Company's Affairs in Bengal, according to the Advices received from thence in the courſe of this year; it was thereupon Ordered, That it be referred to a Committee of the whole Court, to conſider of the ſame, and report their Opinion thereon;

And the Court then reſolved itſelf into the ſaid Committee accordingly.

At a Court of Directors held on Tueſday the 28th of November 1775.

A Report from the Committee of the whole Court, dated the 21ſt inſtant, being now preſented, containing their Proceedings on the reference of this Court of the ſame date, to conſider of the ſtate of the Company's Affairs in Bengal, according to the Advices received from thence in the courſe of this year,

The ſaid Report was read; and, after very mature Conſideration thereof, it was Reſolved, That this Court doth agree with the ſaid Committee in their Opinion, That, it appearing that differences of opinion have ariſen in the Superior Council in Bengal, and that debates have been carried to great height, and in many inſtances with great warmth, it is neceſſary for the Court of Directors to give deciſive opinions upon ſubjects ſo material to the intereſts of the Company, that their Councils abroad may have in full view the ground on which they ſhall act.

And an Amendment being propoſed to the Committee's ſecond Reſolution, by ſtriking out the following Words at the cloſe thereof, viz.

"And were alſo contrary to thoſe general Principles of "Juſtice which the Company wiſh ſhould be ſupported;"

And after a debate, and the queſtion being put, That the ſaid words do ſtand as part of the ſaid Reſolution;

The

The ſame paſſed in the Affirmative; and it was thereupon

Reſolved, That this Court doth agree with the ſaid Committee in their Opinion, That the Agreement made with Sujah Dowlah and the then Governor, for the hire of a part of the Company's Troops for the reduction of the Rohilla Country, and the ſubſequent ſteps taken for carrying on that War, were founded on wrong policy; were contrary to the general Orders of the Company for keeping their Troops within the bounds of the Provinces, and for not extending their conqueſts; and were alſo contrary to thoſe general principles of juſtice which the Company wiſh ſhould be ſupported.

And then it was further

Reſolved, That this Court doth agree with the ſaid Committee in their Opinion, That the whole Correſpondence between the Governor General and Mr. Middleton ſhould have been laid before the Members of the Superior Council, who ought to have received every information reſpecting the tranſactions of the Company's Agent at Sujah Dowlah's Court, in order to regulate their conduct at that critical period.

And it was thereupon, on ſeveral Motions,

Ordered, That a General Court be ſummoned to meet at this Houſe on Wedneſday the 6th of December next, on ſpecial Affairs.

Ordered, That in the Advertiſement for the meeting of the ſaid Court, it be ſignified to the Proprietors, that the Papers relating to the diſputes between the Members of the Superior Council at Bengal will lie in the Secretary's office for their peruſal.

At a Court of Directors held on Wedneſday the 29th of November 1775.

A Report from an open Committee of Accounts, dated the 28th inſtant, being read;

Reſolved, That this Court do agree in opinion with the ſaid Committee, that it is neceſſary to wait the arrival of the Anſon, or ſome further Advices from Bengal, before a preciſe judgment can be formed relative to the future reſources of that Preſidency.

At a Court of Directors held on Friday the 1ſt of December 1775.

The Court now conſidering their Reſolution paſſed the 28th of laſt month, in conſequence of the Report from the Committee of the whole Court of the 21ſt of the ſame month, which Reſolution is as follows; viz.

" Reſolved, That this Court doth agree with the ſaid " Committee in their Opinion, that the Agreement made " with Sujah Dowlah and the then Governor, for the hire " of a part of the Company's Troops for the reduction " of the Rohilla Country, and the ſubſequent ſteps taken " for carrying on that War, were founded on wrong " policy, were contrary to the general Orders of the " Company for keeping their Troops within the bounds of " the Provinces, and for not extending their conqueſts, " and were contrary to thoſe general principles of juſ- " tice which the Company wiſh ſhould be ſupported."

After a debate thereon, a Queſtion was propoſed, Whether the Words [and the then Governor] between the Word [Dowlah] and the Word [for] ſhould ſtand as part of the ſaid Reſolution;

And the Queſtion being accordingly put,

It paſſed in the Negative.

Another Queſton being propoſed, for amending the ſaid Reſolution, by inſerting the words [frequently repeated] between the word [Company] and the word [for];

And the Queſtion being put,

The ſame paſſed in the Affirmative.

And another Queſtion being propoſed, Whether the words [of juſtice] between the word [Principles] and the word [which] ſhould ſtand as part of the ſaid Reſolution;

And the Queſtion being accordingly put,

It paſſed in the Negative;

And thereupon the ſaid Reſolution, as now amended, was agreed to, and ſtands as follows; viz.

Reſolved, That this Court doth agree with the ſaid Committee, that the Agreement made with Sujah Dowlah, for the hire of a part of the Company's Troops for the reduction of the Rohilla Country, and the ſubſequent ſteps taken for carrying on that War, were founded on wrong policy; were contrary to the general Orders of the Company, frequently repeated, for keeping their Troops within the bounds of the Provinces, and for not extending their conqueſts; and were alſo contrary to thoſe general principles which the Company wiſh ſhould be ſupported.

At a Court of Directors held on Tueſday the 5th of December 1775.

Two Reports from the Committee of the whole Court, dated the 29th and 30th November laſt, being preſented and read, containing their further Proceedings on the reference of Court, dated the 21ſt of that month, to conſider of the ſtate of the Company's Affairs, according to the Advices received from thence in the courſe of this year;

It was, on the Queſtion,

Reſolved, That this Court doth agree with the ſaid Committee in their Reports, that the meaſure of recalling the Troops from the Rohilla Expedition, as ſoon as it could be done with propriety, was agreeable to the ſpirit of the Company's general Orders; but, conſidering the ſituation of Affairs at that time between the Company and Sujah Dowlah, and other circumſtances, the Court think the recalling them ſo haſtily might have been attended with inconveniencies.

At a Court of Directors held on Wedneſday the 6th of December 1775.

The Reſolutions of this Court of the 28th and 29th November laſt, and the 1ſt and 5th inſtant, relative to the Company's Affairs at Bengal, were read.

At a General Court of the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the Eaſt Indies, held at their Houſe in Leadenhall-ſtreet, on Wedneſday the 6th of December 1775, at twelve o'Clock at noon;

PRESENT,

John Roberts, Eſquire, Deputy Chairman,
With moſt of the Directors, and a very numerous appearance of the Generality.

The Deputy Chairman acquainted the Court, That the Court of Directors having taken into conſideration the differences which, according to the Advices received in the courſe of this year, appeared to have ariſen in the Superior Council in Bengal, had paſſed ſeveral Reſolutions thereon, which are ready to be ſubmitted to this Court.

And the ſaid Reſolutions being thereupon called for, were read, being as follows; viz.

" Reſolved, That this Court is of Opinion, that the " Agreement made with Sujah Dowlah, for the hire of a " part of the Company's Troops for the reduction of " the Rohilla Country, and the ſubſequent ſteps taken " for carrying on that War, were founded on wrong " policy; were contrary to the general Orders of the Com- " pany, frequently repeated, for keeping their Troops " within the bounds of the Provinces, and for not ex- " tending their Territories; and were alſo contrary to " thoſe general principles which the Company wiſh " ſhould be ſupported."

" Reſolved, That this Court is of Opinion, that the " whole Correſpondence between the Governor General " and

« and Mr. Middleton ſhould have been laid before the « Members of the Superior Council, who ought to have « received every information reſpecting the tranſactions of « the Company's Agent at Sujah Dowlah's Court, in order « to regulate their conduct at that critical period."

" Reſolved, That this Court is of Opinion, that it is « neceſſary to wait the Arrival of the Anſon, or ſome « further Advices from Bengal, before a preciſe judg- « ment can be formed relative to the future reſources « of that Preſidency."

" Reſolved, That this Court is of Opinion, that the « meaſure of recalling the Troops from the Rohilla « expedition, as ſoon as it could be done with propriety, « was agreeable to the ſpirit of the Company's general « Orders; but, conſidering the ſituation of Affairs at « that time between the Company and Sujah Dowlah, « and other circumſtances, the Court think the recalling « them ſo haſtily might have been attended with in- « conveniencies."

The Court taking the above Reſolutions into conſideration;

An Amendment was propoſed to the firſt Reſolution, by prefixing to it the following words, viz.

That, notwithſtanding this Court hath the higheſt opinion of the ſervices and integrity of Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, and cannot admit a ſuſpicion of corrupt motives operating on his conduct without proof, yet they are of opinion with their Court of Directors;

And the Court conſidering of that Amendment;

And the 32d paragraph of the Letter to the Select Committee at Bengal, dated the 11th November 1768; alſo the 45th paragraph of the Letter to the Select Committee at Bengal, dated the 28th Auguſt 1771; and

The Inſtructions from the Governor and Select Committee at Bengal to Sir Robert Barker, dated the 30th April 1772, entered on the ſaid Committee's Conſultations of the ſame date;

After a Debate of great length, and the Queſtion being put for the ſaid Amendment,

The ſame paſſed unanimouſly in the Affirmative:

And then the Queſtion being put on the ſaid amended Motion, it was

Reſolved unanimouſly, That notwithſtanding this Court hath the higheſt opinion of the ſervices and Integrity of Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, and cannot admit a ſuſpicion of corrupt motives operating on his conduct without proof, yet they are of opinion with their Court of Directors, that the Agreement made with Sujah Dowlah for the hire of a part of the Company's Troops for the reduction of the Rohilla Country, and the ſubſequent ſteps taken for carrying on that War, were founded on wrong policy; were contrary to the general Orders of the Company, frequently repeated, for keeping their Troops within the bounds of the Provinces, and for not extending their Territories; and were alſo contrary to thoſe general principles which the Company with ſhould be ſupported.

The Court then having conſidered the ſecond Reſolution of the Court of Directors, on the Queſtion, Reſolved unanimouſly, That this Court do agree with the opinion of the Court of Directors, that the whole Correſpondence between the Governor General and Mr. Middleton ſhould have been laid before the Members of the Superior Council, who ought to have received every information reſpecting the tranſactions of the Company's Agent at Sujah Dowlah's Court, in order to regulate their conduct at that critical period.

The third Reſolution of the Court of Directors being alſo conſidered, and the Queſtion put, it was Reſolved, That this Court do agree in opinion with the Court of Directors, that it is neceſſary to wait the Arrival of the Anſon, or ſome further Advices from Bengal, before a preciſe judgment can be formed relative to the future reſources of that Preſidency.

And then the Court, on conſidering the fourth Reſolution of the Court of Directors, on the Queſtion, Reſolved, That this Court do agree in opinion with the Court of Directors, that the meaſure of recalling the Troops from the Rohilla expedition, as ſoon as it could be done with propriety, was agreeable to the ſpirit of the Company's general Orders; but, conſidering the ſituation of affairs at that time between the Company and Sujah Dowlah, and other circumſtances, the Court think the recalling them ſo haſtily might have been attended with inconveniencies.

A Motion being then made,

" That it is the Opinion of this Court, that the in- « ſinuations thrown out by three Members of the Council « General of Bengal; in their late Diſpatches, againſt Mr. « Haſtings, (whereby it is inſinuated, " that his motives « for engaging in the Reduction of the Rohillas were not « the oſtenſible motives he has aſſigned, and that he « acted therein contrary to his judgment,") are injurious « to the Character of Mr. Haſtings, and ought not to « have been made uſe of, unleſs accompanied with the « grounds and reaſons on which ſuch inſinuations are « founded, whereby the Company might have been « enabled to judge for themſelves on a point of ſo much « importance to it as the character of the Governor « General of Bengal."

And it being thereupon moved to adjourn;

The Court, on the Queſtion being put,

Adjourned accordingly.

Extract of Letter from the Court of Directors to the Governor General and Council at Fort William in Bengal, dated the 15th of December 1775.

Par. 1. While we were indulging the hope that ſo perfect an harmony would have prevailed amongſt the Members of the new Adminiſtration in Bengal, as is neceſſary to give vigour to the acts of Government, as well as dignity to your councils, how great muſt our concern and diſappointment be, on finding that Diſſentions have ariſen ſo early, and operated ſo far as they appear to have done, from the ſeparate Addreſſes of our Governor General and the Majority of the Board, as well as from the Minutes on your public Records! We are far from diſapproving a difference of opinion on any meaſure; on the contrary, we conſider it as the duty of every Member of your Board to expreſs his ſentiments with freedom on every ſubject. Our concern proceeds ſolely from obſerving a warmth of altercation, which threatens to deſtroy that mutual reſpect and confidence we were ſo ſolicitous to promote, when we recommended harmony among yourſelves.

2. As the ſeparate Addreſſes of our Governor General, and of the Majority of Council, to the Court of Directors, and of the latter to our late Chairman and Deputy Chairman, are entered upon your Records, we ſhall conſider them as Proceedings or Minutes of Council, and as ſuch reply to thoſe particulars which require our obſervation, direction, or determination; and herein we ſhall be guided by that equal regard which we bear towards every Member of your Board, expreſſing our approbation of ſuch meaſures as are right, and reprehending thoſe which appear to us deſerving of cenſure: But before we proceed to thoſe particulars, we think it neceſſary to communicate to you the following Reſolutions, agreed to by a General Court of Proprietors, held on the 6th inſtant, relative to ſundry objects on which you have been divided.

" Reſolved unanimouſly, That, notwithſtanding this Court hath the higheſt opinion of the ſervices and integrity of Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, and cannot admit a ſuſpicion of corrupt motives operating on his conduct without proof, yet they are of opinion with their Court of Directors, that the Agreement made with Sujah Dowlah, for the hire of a part of the Company's Troops for the reduction of the Rohilla Country, and the ſubſequent ſteps taken for carrying on that War, were founded on wrong policy; were contrary to the general Orders of the Company, Company, frequently repeated, for keeping their troops within the bounds of the provinces, and for not extending their territories; and were alſo contrary to thoſe general principles which the Company wiſh ſhould be ſupported.

Reſolved unanimouſly, That this Court do agree with the opinion of the Court of Directors, that the whole correſpondence between the Governor General and Mr. Middleton ſhould have been laid before the Members of the Superior Council, who ought to have received every information reſpecting the tranſactions of the Company's Agent at Sujah Dowlah's Court, in order to regulate their conduct at that critical period.

Reſolved, That this Court do agree in opinion with the Court of Directors, that it is neceſſary to wait the arrival of the Anſon, or ſome further advices from Bengal, before a preciſe judgment can be formed relative to the future reſources of that Preſidency.

Reſolved, That this Court do agree in opinion with the Court of Directors, that the meaſure of recalling the Troops from the Rohilla expedition, as ſoon as it could be done with propriety, was agreeable to the ſpirit of the Company's general orders; but, conſidering the ſituation of affairs at that time between the Company and Sujah Dowlah, and other circumſtances, the Court think the recalling them ſo haſtily might have been attended with inconveniencies.

3. Having thus laid before you the ſenſe of the Proprietors at large on the above ſubjects, taken after the moſt candid examination of your Records, we proceed to make ſuch further Obſervations, and to give ſuch orders and inſtructions, as from the nature of your advices, and the ſituation of our affairs in Bengal, appear to us neceſſary.

4. We diſapprove all ſuch diſtant expeditions as may eventually carry our forces to any ſituation too remote to admit of their ſafe and ſpeedy return to the protection of our own provinces in caſes of emergency.

5. We alſo utterly diſapprove and condemn offenſive wars; diſtinguiſhing, however, between offenſive meaſures unneceſſarily undertaken, with a view to pecuniary advantages, and thoſe which the preſervation of our Honour, or the protection or ſafety of our Poſſeſſions, may render abſolutely neceſſary.

6. The Attention paid by the majority to the tenor and ſpirit of our orders on this ſubject is highly agreeable to us; and it is our moſt poſitive direction, that no deviation from thoſe orders be permitted but upon the moſt urgent and abſolute neceſſity, as that alone can juſtify a departure from them; for the proſpect of any advantages, however alluring, can in no wiſe be adequate to the pernicious conſequences which muſt reſult from examples of diſobedience to our orders.

7. The ſentiments expreſſed by the majority in the 36th paragraph of their addreſs, coincide exactly with our own. Their determination to endeavour to maintain Peace in India, and vigorouſly to defend our poſſeſſions and Allies, cannot be too much applauded; we therefore ſtrictly enjoin every Member of our Council to concur heartily in ſuch meaſures as may be neceſſary for accompliſhing theſe deſirable purpoſes.

8. We have already, in our Letter of the 3d of March 1775, expreſſed our extreme concern on finding that our arms had been employed in conquering the Rohilla Country for Sujah Dowlah, and diſapproved the meaſure; and we have no reaſon to alter our ſentiments reſpecting that tranſaction.

9. We not only condemn the principle which eventually produced the Rohilla War, namely, the including of their country in the line of defence marked out for our Commander in Chief, as being contrary to the ſyſtem we had adopted, and repugnant to the general tenor of our orders, but we alſo totally diſapprove the engagements entered into by our ſervants with Sujah Dowlah, when Hafez Rhamet Khan had failed in the performance of his ſtipulations.

10. On a ſuppoſition that General Barker's ſanction to the Treaty between Sujah Dowlah and the Rohillas gave him a right to call upon us to ſee that Treaty fulfilled, it is nevertheleſs evidently certain, that every principle of policy forbad our ſervants to extend their views beyond the ſtrict accompliſhment thereof, and the obtaining of a proper indemnification for charges to be incurred in calling the Rohillas to a juſt account; and we think there was great probability that thoſe ſalutary meaſures might have been accompliſhed without proceeding to hoſtilities. But in all events, inſtead of entering into an agreement with the Vizier, which left no room for accommodation with the Rohillas, it was certainly the duty of our Preſident and Council to have given an immediate and abſolute refuſal to all requiſitions ſo injurious to the reputation of the Company, and eſpecially for engaging in a diſtant expedition, wherein want of ſucceſs might have been attended with fatal conſequences.

11. It is with great ſatisfaction we find, that although hoſtilities were commenced with an apparent determination to exterminate the Rohillas, a more honourable end has been put to that War, and that a proviſion is made for the Son of Hafez Rhamet Khan. This circumſtance is the more agreeable to us, as it ſeems to have been effected by the interpoſition of our Commander in Chief, and will, we hope, tend to efface any unfavourable impreſſions which the part taken by our Servants againſt the Rohillas may have occaſioned amongſt the Natives of India.

12. The return of our troops from the Rohilla country is an event highly acceptable to us; and from the general tenor of your advices we are led to hope, that the Money then due from Sujah Dowlah has been received; but if, from unforeſeen accidents, payment of any part has been delayed, we direct that you inſiſt upon the diſcharge thereof.

13. We by no means approve the idea of continuing to defend the Subah of Oude in the Rohilla country; you are therefore in future ſtrictly to confine yourſelves to the letter and ſpirit of our orders on that ſubject, dated 7th March 1775.

14. It is with equal ſurprize and concern that we obſerve, on your Minutes of Council of 13th February 1775, among ſeveral ideas ſuggeſted on the ſubject of a Treaty to be concluded with the ſucceſſor of Sujah Dowlah, that any ſervant of the Eaſt India Company ſhould propoſe the relinquiſhing of a conſiderable part of our property, and giving up the Rohilla country to the King, in order to facilitate the obtaining from Shah Allum a grant of the Sovereignty of Bengal and Bahar to the Crown of Great Britain.

15. We take it for granted that the impropriety of the Minute alluded to muſt have appeared to you in a light ſo ſtriking, as to have precluded all concurrence therein; we nevertheleſs think it neceſſary to iſſue the moſt ſpeedy and peremptory orders and inſtructions for your future guidance, and therefore direct, that no propoſal of a like tendency be ever made by you to Shah Allum, or agreed to if propoſed by him, or by any other perſon, on any account or pretence whatever.

16. Although the death of Sujah Dowlah may render it neceſſary to make new arrangements with his Succeſſor, we cannot agree with our Council that our Treaties with the State of Oude expired with the death of that Nabob.

17. The keeping of a brigade in the ſervice of the Subah of Oude is a meaſure we entirely approve (provided it be done with the free conſent of the Subah, but by no means without it) as it enables us to increaſe the real ſtrength of our Army, without incurring additional charges thereby; but the whole pay and contingent charges muſt be borne by the Subah.

18. The death of the late Vizier affords an opportunity for rendering this meaſure ſtill more ſatisfactory. His Succeſſor cannot but be ſenſible how much depends upon our ſupport, and therefore will, we perſuade ourſelves, readily conſent to defray the whole expence of a brigade, to be employed in the defence of his dominions.

APPENDIX, No. 46. 47.

The neceſſary ſtipulations on your part will be, that our troops ſhall not march beyond the line of thoſe territories which Sujah Dowlah poſſeſſed in conſequence of the Treaty of 1765, and the provinces of Corah and Allahabad, which were ceded to him by the Treaty of Benares; and that they ſhall be at all times ſubject to your recall, in caſe they ſhall be wanted for our own immediate ſervice. Upon theſe principles we direct you to conclude a Treaty with Sujah Dowlah's Succeſſor, and to aſſure him, that the moſt effectual aſſiſtance ſhall be afforded him by us, in caſe his country ſhall at any time be invaded.

19. We find the brigade lately employed with Sujah Dowlah, conſiſted of two battalions of Europeans, ſix battalions of Sepoys, and one company of Artillery; and this object appears to us of ſo great importance in every point of view, that we think a complete brigade ſhould be ſtationed in future with the Nabob of Oude, and paid by him, as before directed.

20. And as a good body of Horſe would not only be of great uſe in time of action, but alſo of ſingular ſervice in preventing the incurſions of Indian Enemies, who frequently ravage the country with cavalry, and retire before infantry can come up with them, we ſhould deem it an eſſential ſervice rendered the Company, if you could prevail on the Nabob of Oude to keep up a body of Horſe, to be diſciplined and officered by Europeans, and under our command.

21. In negociating a defenſive alliance of this nature and extent, no pains muſt be ſpared to convince the Nabob, that our Views terminate ſolely in the preſervation of his country, and that the troops ſo to be kept for his defence will not occaſion a great additional charge to him, becauſe his own forces may be diminiſhed in proportion to the ſtrength acquired by our Aſſiſtance.

22. The ſafety of ſo large a part of our Army requires the utmoſt attention; you will therefore be particularly careful that the reſpective corps be ſo ſtationed as to admit of a ſpeedy junction in caſes of emergency.

23. Whatever number of troops may be thus entertained by the Subah of Oude, we muſt again repeat, that the whole expence muſt be borne by him; but due care muſt be taken that ſuch expence be not increaſed by any unneceſſary charge whatever.

24. As the important fortreſs of Chunargur was ceded to the Company by Sujah Dowlah, you are by all means to keep poſſeſſion thereof. A proper number of Europeans muſt be ſtationed there, and the command of the garriſon muſt be entruſted to none but able and experienced Officers.

25. We direct that the fort of Chunargur be forthwith repaired in ſuch manner as ſhall be neceſſary. It is nevertheleſs our order, that the charge of thoſe repairs be included in the ſum already authorized to be expended on public works, and that the ſtricteſt frugality be obſerved in conducting ſuch repairs.

26. Although the office of Vizier of the Empire was confirmed to Sujah Dowlah by our influence, we are uncertain how far the paſt conduct and preſent ſituation of Shah Allum may render it prudent for us now to interfere in the Appointment of an officer of ſuch nominal authority in his ſervice; but in caſe, from particular circumſtances, it ſhall appear to you neceſſary to take a part in the recommendation of a perſon to fill that office, or that it may contribute to the preſervation of Peace in the country, we ſhall approve of your acting accordingly.

27. The conduct of our late Council in empowering the Preſident to prepare inſtructions for Mr. Middleton, as Agent at the Court of Sujah Dowlah, without ordering them to be ſubmitted to the Board for their inſpection and approbation, was very improper; and it is our expreſs direction, that no ſuch independent or ſeparate authority be ever delegated to any Governor or Member of Council, or to any other perſon whatſoever; but that all inſtructions to public Agents be laid before the Council, and ſigned by a majority of the Members, before they be carried into execution.

28. As the Appointment of Mr. Middleton was made by our Preſident and Council, his correſpondence ſhould have been addreſſed to them, or ſpeedily and unreſervedly laid before them by the Preſident; and we cannot avoid expreſſing our diſapprobation that any part thereof has been withheld from the peruſal of our Supreme Council.

29. Obſerving that Extracts of Letters have been laid before the Board, we direct, that whenever the Governor General, Commander in Chief, or any of our Council, ſhall introduce to the Board any Letters or Correſpondence wrote to them, or to, or by any of them, or by any perſon whatever, by their or any of their directions or privity, relating to the affairs of the company, the whole of ſuch Letters and Correſpondence ſhall be produced to, and laid before the Board.

APPENDIX, No. 47.

Extract of the General Letter to Bombay, dated the 18th Mach 1768.

Par. 91. THE intimation you gave to our Preſident and Council of Fort Saint George, to uſe their endeavours with the Marattas to obtain a grant of Salſette and Baſſein to us, we highly approve of; and we now recommend to you in the ſtrongeſt manner to uſe your endeavours, upon every occaſion that may offer, to obtain theſe places, which we ſhould eſteem a valuable acquiſition. We cannot directly point out the mode of doing it, but rather wiſh they could be obtained by purchaſe than War.

Copy of a Letter to the Preſident and Select Committee at Bombay, dated 1ſt April 1772.

The laſt Letter we wrote to you was dated the 12th June 1771; and we now give you our ſentiments and inſtructions on ſome important points, to which we expect you will pay the ſtricteſt attention.

We have attended to the Treaty with Hyder Ally, concluded in Auguſt 1770, and obſerve by the 3d Article that the Company was to have the excluſive right of purchaſing all the pepper and ſandal-wood in his dominions; the amount whereof, or ſo much as the Company ſhould think proper, was to be paid in warlike ſtores, and the balance in ready money.

The firſt operation of this Treaty is communicated to us in your Letter per Northington, dated 4th February 1771; in which you repreſent that Hyder Ally, upon Mr. Church's leaving him, gave a liſt of ſuch Articles as he wanted; and that you were determined, in conſequence thereof, to ſend Hyder Ally twenty-ſix pieces of cannon and a quantity of ſmall arms, though you wiſhed to have evaded complying with his requeſt for ſuch articles.

Your Advice per True Briton informs us, that our Reſident at Onore repreſents the Supply ſent to Hyder Ally as by no means affording him ſatisfaction; and that upon his defeat by the Marattas, and his preſſing ſolicitations, you had further ordered the ſaid Reſident to furniſh Hyder Ally with all the arms which could be ſpared; and this meaſure you doubt not we ſhall approve, conſidering the readineſs he has ſhewn before and ſince the War, to grant us every advantage of trade in the countries ſubject to him.

We are exceedingly concerned to find in the 3d Article of your Treaty with Hyder Ally, a ſtipulation reſpecting warlike ſtores, ſubjecting you to act contrary to our inclination and intereſt, the operation whereof muſt muſt be dangerous in its conſequences, and the meaſure itſelf by no means warranted by neceſſity. Nor indeed, do events prove that Hyder Ally deems himſelf bound on his part by the ſaid ſtipulation.

The advantages ariſing from indulging Hyder Ally with warlike ſtores, have hitherto chiefly centred in the emolument of individuals. No ſandal-wood, of which the whole produce of his country was to have been the Company's, has been yet received on the Company's account; but thoſe of your ſervants who concluded the Treaty, and to whom Hyder communicated his requeſt for warlike ſtores, have engroſſed the whole.

In this general view we muſt condemn your conduct, both for permitting the inſertion of this article in the Treaty, and alſo for ſuffering the perverſion thereof (after it had been concluded) for the benefit of individuals; and although as the Treaty now ſtands we cannot abſolutely and totally prohibit you from ſupplying Hyder Ally with the articles therein enumerated, yet it is our earneſt deſire that you evade it by all means in your power; and we could even conſent to relinquiſh the proſpect of trivial advantages reſpecting Inveſtments, rather than contribute, by a ſupply of warlike ſtores, particularly large cannon, to enable Hyder Ally to renew his demand, and peremptorily inſiſt upon receiving ſuch ſupplies from us in future.

Another powerful reaſon againſt our furniſhing Hyder Ally with the implements of War is, becauſe it is ſcarcely poſſible ſuch circumſtances ſhould be concealed from Mhada Row, with whom we are deſirous, on many accounts, to cultivate a good underſtanding. We wiſh to be uniform; and it is our earneſt deſire, that the ſtricteſt neutrality be obſerved reſpecting Hyder Ally and Mhada Row at your Preſidency as well as at Fort St. George; and we hope this will be practicable, becauſe we ſee no other proſpect of enjoying peace at thoſe ſettlements. Whenever we take part in any quarrels of the powers of India, we neceſſarily create enemies; but by a ſteady adherence to a neutral plan, and by keeping up a reſpectable eſtabliſhed force, ready to repel and chaſtiſe invaders, we hope and truſt tranquillity will be maintained.

We write confidentially on this delicate ſubject; our ſentiments thereon are not to be rendered public; but we have communicated them to our Preſident and Council of Fort Saint George, who have alſo been inſtructed in general to obſerve a ſimilar conduct towards Mhada Row and Hyder Ally; and we direct that you adviſe with them on all important tranſactions relative to thoſe powers: And here we cannot ſuppreſs our diſpleaſure at your not waiting for their anſwer to your propoſitions for a Treaty, before you put the finiſhing hand thereto: You could not but ſuppoſe them intereſted in ſome degree in the event, and we have reaſon to believe they would have adviſed you againſt complying with a condition, which appears on the ſlighteſt examination to be repugnant to ſound policy, becauſe it cannot with ſafety be fulfilled.

We are, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 48.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bombay, dated 1ſt April 1772.

Par. 38. IN our advices dated the 7th February laſt, we intimated our intention that Mr. Moſtyn ſhould proceed to Poona, and reſide there in order to advance our intereſt, and facilitate the accompliſhment of our views with Mhada Row. And we ſhall now expreſs ourſelves more fully, both in reſpect to thoſe objects and his reſidence, as the means by which we hope to attain them.

Par. 39. As an introduction to our having a fixed Reſident at the Court of Mhada Row, we have judged it adviſable to ſend him a Letter, together with a preſent of a Gold Sword and Cattarah; and therefore, unleſs ſome unexpected event has happened to render it abſolutely neceſſary to defer ſuch meaſure, you are to direct Mr. Moſtyn to repair forthwith to Poona in the public character of Reſident: and you muſt furniſh him with ſuch inſtructions as you ſhall deem neceſſary for his conduct, and moſt likely to effect the ends we propoſe to ourſelves by ſuch reſidence; which are, to acquire upon ſafe and honourable terms ſuch privileges and poſſeſſions as would not only be beneficial to our commerce, but greatly contribute to the ſecurity of our ſettlements on the coaſt of Malabar.

APPENDIX, No. 47, 48.

Par. 40. The advantages which the Company would receive from the poſſeſſion of Salſette, Baſſein, and Caranja, are ſo obvious, that theſe muſt neceſſarily be the principal objects of your attention; and we are the more inclined to hope that Mhada Row may be prevailed on to cede to us theſe iſlands, as the tribute he receives from them is not ſo conſiderable but that we may be able to offer in exchange what he may deem an equivalent for ſuch ceſſion.

Par. 41. With reſpect to thoſe points on which you are to inſtruct Mr. Moſtyn, we ſhall not attempt to lay down any preciſe plan for your guidance, ſince ſo much will depend on circumſtances and events, that local information and your own judgment muſt govern you therein; and eſpecially as much muſt ſtill be left for our Reſident to effect by a prudent choice of meaſures, and an unremitted attention to the intereſts of the Company: But though from theſe conſiderations we are ſenſible that your inſtructions to Mr. Moſtyn can be but general, we ſhall here point out to you ſuch particulars as are eſſentially neceſſary to be noticed to him, viz. That he let no favourable circumſtance eſcape him; that he be careful not to give Mhada Row any cauſe of diſguſt by frivolous punctilios, which we are perſuaded he may avoid, and ſtill preſerve the reſpect due to his ſtation in our ſervice; that he be particularly watchful of that Prince's temper, and avail himſelf of every apparent diſpoſition in our favour: and above all, that he endeavour to conciliate the minds of his Miniſters, and cultivate a friendſhip with them.

Par. 42. The inclination which we are informed Mhada Row has to Rajapore, from its being the birth-place of his family, and to the poſſeſſion of Fort Victoria, from a religious regard which the Gentoos pay to the river and to the Pagoda near the Fort, may be uſefully employed on this occaſion. And therefore, in caſe great difficulties ſhould ariſe in obtaining Salſette, the Reſident may be inſtructed to ſuggeſt to Mhada Row, that in conſideration of our being put in poſſeſſion of Salſette, Baſſein, and Caranja, we ſhall not oppoſe his acquiring Rajapore from the Sciddee, nor heſitate to yield to him the poſſeſſion of Fort Victoria; and we doubt not, but that in ſuch caſe, every difficulty would be removed.

Par. 43. Having thus marked the outlines of inſtructions to be given to Mr. Moſtyn, on his proceeding to Poona as our Reſident, we ſhall here only obſerve, that by an exertion of your abilities, and ſteady attachment to our intereſt, in carrying our preſent deſign into execution, you will juſtify that confidence we hereby place in your conduct.

Par. 44. By our ſhip Marquis of Rockingham you will receive our Letter to Mhada Row; but as we are unacquainted with his titles and complimentary mode of addreſs, we have left a ſpace in our Letter for you to fill up in the cuſtomary manner; and we herewith tranſmit you a copy of our Addreſs, which muſt be accompanied by a proper tranſlation. On Mr. Moſtyn's repairing to Poona, you will commit our Letter and Preſent to his care, and direct him to deliver the ſame to Mhada Row, with ſuch ceremonies and marks of reſpect as are ſuitable to the occaſion. And we ſhall only add, that as by the incloſed copy of our Addreſs to Mhada Row you will perceive that we intend no more than to maintain a ſtrict ſtrict harmony and alliance with him, you muſt govern yourſelves accordingly in all your negociations.

Copy of a Letter to Mhada Row.

After the uſual compliments:

Impreſſed as we are with an ardent deſire to increaſe the intercourſe and ſtrengthen the harmony which has long ſubſiſted between your Government and the Engliſh Company, we could not but receive a ſenſible pleaſure upon finding by your Letter to Mr. Moſtyn you entertain the ſame diſpoſition to cultivate a mutual friendſhip, and are equally deſirous that it ſhould be eſtabliſhed on a ſure and laſting Foundation.

The Satisfaction which your kind profeſſions afford us, is however in ſome degree allayed by your ſuppoſing that our Servants at Bombay and Surat are not ſincerely inclined to further that deſirable end; but as they are fully convinced that we earneſtly wiſh to ſecure your eſteem, and to prove ourſelves worthy your confidence, we truſt they would not do any act which would tend to defeat our hopes of your concurring in the ſame views. We perſuade ourſelves that their conduct muſt have been repreſented to you by ſome malevolent or deſigning perſons who wiſhed to interrupt that concord and cordiality which could not but redound to our reciprocal advantage.

Unwilling therefore that you ſhould remain under the leaſt uncertainty of our diſpoſition to perpetuate our friendſhip, we have directed Mr. Moſtyn to repair to Poona, and reſide at your Court, that we may have the ready means of manifeſting our ſincere intentions of removing every impediment to that amity, which we hope neither time nor the malice of our Enemies will deſtroy; and we are happy to find that the confidence we have of his good conduct is confirmed by that favourable opinion and kind regard with which you are pleaſed to diſtinguiſh him.

We have ſent to our Preſident and Council a Sword and Cattarah, which Mr. Moſtyn will have the honour to preſent to you, and we requeſt your acceptance thereof, as a ſmall token of our reſpect, and a pledge of the ſincerity of our deſire to maintain the ſtricteſt harmony with you and your Government.

We ſhall here only add our warmeſt wiſhes, that your days may be crowned with health and honour, and that your dominions may flouriſh in peace and plenty.

In witneſs whereof we have hereunto affixed our Great Seal in the City of London, this 1ſt day of April, in the year of our Lord 1772.

Extract of Bombay Select Conſultations, the 26th September 1772.

Copy of Inſtructions to Mr. Thomas Moſtyn.

To Thomas Moſtyn, Eſq.

Sir,

The Honourable Company having been pleaſed to direct that you ſhould reſide at the court of Mhada Row, advance their intereſt, and facilitate the accompliſhment of their views, we ſhall now proceed to communicate to you our Honourable Maſters expectations therefrom, and give you ſuch inſtructions as are ſuitable to the occaſion; previouſly acquainting you, that all your letters on the ſubject of your negociations are to be addreſſed to the Select Committee.

As an introduction to our having a fixed Reſident at Poona, the Honourable Company have addreſſed a letter to Mhada Row, which is now delivered you, together with a preſent from them of a Gold Sword and Cattarah, which are to be given with ſuch ceremonies and marks of reſpect, as are ſuitable to the occaſion; and, in addition to the preſent ſent out by our Employers, we have provided ſundry articles, amounting together to rupees 11,617, as per liſt incloſed, which are to be diſtributed as preſents, in ſuch manner as you may judge moſt likely to remove any difficulties which might ariſe to impede the execution of our intentions, which are to acquire from him, upon ſafe and honourable terms, ſuch privileges and poſſeſſions as will not only be beneficial to our commerce, but contribute to the ſecurity of the Honourable Company's poſſeſſions on this ſide India.

You are alſo to uſe your utmoſt endeavours to penetrate into any deſigns of the Marattas, which may at all affect the Honourable Company's poſſeſſions in Bengal, or the Carnatic; and ſhould you be able to diſcover any thing important, relative to either of the other Preſidencies, you muſt immediately ſend the neceſſary notice thither, and communicate the ſame to us, that we may furniſh you with ſuch inſtructions as ſhall appear proper; though in the interim, and eſpecially if the occaſion ſhould be very preſſing, we permit you to take ſuch ſteps as your own prudence may dictate.

By the incloſed atteſted copy of the paragraphs of the Honourable Court's commands of the 1ſt of April laſt, you will be fully apprized of the expectations they have from your reſidence at Poona of getting poſſeſſion of Salſette, Baſſein, and Caranja, and of the idea they have formed that they may be acquired by the ceſſion of Fort Victoria to the Marattas, and a promiſe on our parts not to oppoſe their acquiring poſſeſſion of Rajapore from the Sciddee.

It is out of our power to lay down any preciſe plan for your guidance on the occaſion, at leaſt till we may learn from you the light in which theſe poſſeſſions are reſpectively looked upon by Mhada Row or his Miniſters; and even then we are ſenſible much muſt be left to a prudent choice of meaſures on your part, and an unremitted attention to the intereſt of your Honourable Employers, inſomuch as to ſuffer no favourable circumſtance at any time to eſcape you, whether reſpecting this or any other part of your negociations; and we direct that you at all times particularly avoid giving any cauſe of diſguſt to Mhada Row by frivolous punctilios, which we entirely concur with our Honourable Employers in opinion, may be well avoided, and at the ſame time the reſpect due to them and to your ſtation be preſerved.

Propoſals having been lately made us by Futty Sing to enter into an alliance with him, which have been referred to the Honourable Company, we judge it neceſſary you ſhould be acquainted thereof, and accordingly incloſe an atteſted copy of a Letter from that Chief at Surat, which contains the offers made us by him; but at the ſame time we muſt obſerve to you, that as the Honourable Company expreſsly declare it to be their intention to maintain a ſtrict harmony and alliance with the Marattas, you muſt therefore govern yourſelf accordingly in all your negociations.

The poſſeſſion of the Maratta ſhare of the Surat revenue has been an object our Honourable Employers have had long in view, and you muſt therefore acquaint us, after due enquiry, how far they may be induced to give it up, and what equivalent they may expect for it.

As it will be highly neceſſary you ſhould be well acquainted of Mhada Row's temper and deſigns, as well as of the intrigues of his Miniſters, that you may avail yourſelf of every apparent diſpoſition in favour of our Honourable Employers, we therefore permit you to diſburſe ſuch ſums of money for theſe purpoſes as may appear to you really neceſſary; and we at all times recommend to you to conciliate the minds of his Miniſters, and to cultivate a friendſhip with them.

We encloſe copies of different Treaties with the Marattas, and of the correſpondence between the Preſident and Council of Madras and the King's Miniſter, that you may govern yourſelf accrodingly.

A copy of the ſmall cypher, with the inſtructions to it, is herewith delivered to you, leſt you ſhould judge it neceſſary neceſſary at any time to make uſe of it; in your correſpondence with the other Preſidencies it may be highly proper.

Mr. Edmund Veale Lane is appointed to accompany you as your Aſſiſtant, and the neceſſary number of Sepoys are ordered to attend you.

You are to keep a regular Diary of your proceedings, two copies of which you are annually to tranſmit hither.

The Honourable Company having been pleaſed to allow you the ſum of 5,000 Rupees annually, we permit you to charge the ſame in your Accounts, or it ſhall be paid here as may be moſt acceptable to you.

We ſincerely wiſh you ſucceſs in your Negociations; and are

Your loving Friends.

Extract of the General Letter from Bombay; dated 4th December 1772.

Par. 10. Mr. Moſtyn, on his arrival from England, was admitted to a ſeat at our Board, and ſhortly after the receipt of your commands of the 1ſt of April laſt, he ſet out for Poona with ſuitable Inſtructions for accompliſhing the points your Honours have in view by his reſidence at the Maratta Durbar: He has acquainted us that Mhada Row and his Miniſters acquieſced in his continuing there as a fixed Reſident, and that in general he had been very well received: He alſo advises us, that he ſhortly expected an anſwer to your Honours letter, which we hoped to have received in time to have ſent in the Duke of Cumberland Packet; but Mhada Row's death, which happened on the 18th ultimo, after a lingering illneſs, we ſuppoſe prevented it. He has been ſucceeded by his Brother, Naroon Row, and we do not find that any internal diſturbance is likely to happen on this occaſion.

APPENDIX, No 49.

Extract of General Letter from Bombay; dated the 12th April 1771.

Par. 12. THE Preſident laid before us in Conſultation the 19th ultimo, a Letter he had received from the Nabob of Surat, as alſo his ſentiments on the ſubject of that Letter, and the nature of the Surat Government's Demand on that of Broach, both of which are tranſmitted in the packet under No. 36, by which it appearing, as alſo from our own knowledge of that affair, that the Broach Government was very largely and juſtly indebted to that of Surat for the Phoorza of Broach, which for upwards of forty years the former had collected owing to the inability of the latter to obtain redreſs; and alſo that the Nabob of Broach had, contrary to Treaty with us, collected a duty of 2½ per cent. for near ſeven years, on all goods the property of Merchants under our protection, whereas the ſame had been ſettled at 1½ per cent. which alone amounted to full a lack and a half of Rupees to this time; all which being conſidered, and the advantage which would in all probability accrue to your Honours by our obliging the Nabob of Broach to give ample ſatisfaction for both theſe points, and the preſent opportunity, when our Troops were ſo near his territories, being as favourable as could preſent itſelf, we therefore directed your Servants at Surat to make a peremptory demand on the Nabob for the difference of the Cuſtoms he had collected, as alſo for the arrears of the Phoorza, and to put the ſame on a proper footing in future; and ſhould he endeavour to retard or evade the ſame, they are to direct Colonel Gordon to tranſport the troops under his command towards his territories to compel him to enter into the beſt terms poſſible, which we doubt not will induce him to pay at leaſt ſome ready Money, and ſettle a mode for an annual future payment, as alſo to put the Cuſtoms on the ſame footing as ſettled by Treaty.

Par. 13. The Broach Phoorza belonging to the Nabobſhip, and not to the Caſtle of Surat, we have directed your Servants previouſly to enter into an agreement with the Nabob to make over the greateſt part, if not the whole, to your Honours, in conſideration of the expence you will thereby incur; and that they likewiſe ſtipulate the largeſt ſhare of what may be in future annually received, ſhould be on your account, which we doubt not he will readily agree to, as he well knows without our interfering he could never expect to recover any part thereof. We hope our expectations herein will not be diſappointed, and that this meaſure will meet with your entire approbation. APPENDIX. No. 48. 49.

Extract of Bombay General Conſultations; the 19th March 1771.

PRESENT,

The Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor,

The W° Benjamin Jervis, Eſquire, David Wedderburn,
Nathaniel Stackhouſe, John Watſon, Brice Fletcher, William Taylor.
William Shaw, indiſpoſed.

The Preſident lays before the Board the Tranſlate of a Letter from the Nabob of Surat; as alſo his ſentiments on the ſubject of that letter, and the meaſures moſt eligible to be purſued, both of which are entered hereafter; on conſideration of which, it is reſolved, The Chief and Factors be inſtructed to make ſuitable application to the Nabob of Broach for the difference of the Cuſtoms he has collected, as well as for arrears of the Phoorza; and that they endeavour to enter into a Treaty with him, to put the ſame on a proper footing in future, which if he ſhould evade, they muſt be directed as ſoon as the preſent ſervice will permit, to order Col. Gordon to tranſport the Troops under his command toward his territories, to compel him to enter into the beſt terms poſſible; which we flatter ourſelves will induce him at leaſt to pay ſome ready Money, and ſettle a mode for the certain payment of an annual ſum in future; as alſo to put the Cuſtoms on the ſame footing as ſettled between the late Nabob and Mr. Hodges, when Chief of Surat. Preſident lays before the Board a Letter from the Nabob of Surat, with his ſentiments thereon.

As the Phoorza of Broach was granted to the Nabobſhip of Surat, and not to the Caſtle, it becomes neceſſary the Chief and Council ſhould enter into a private agreement with the Nabob of Surat at leaſt to give up the greateſt part of what may be recovered, and hereafter annually received, as well as to pay the expence incurred thereby. Directions in reſpect to the Amount which may be recovered.

Tranſlate of a Letter from Meer Haſſizoodeen Ahamed Cawn Bhadur, Nabob of Surat; dated the 4th, and received the 8th March 1771.

After compliments:

I was very glad to hear that your Honour has got the Government of Bombay, on which I take the liberty to congratulate you. Your Honour, I hope, will encourage and favour me, looking on me as your Well-wiſher, and be pleaſed to command my ſervices. Tranſlate of a Letter from the Nabob of Surat.

The Phouſdar of Broach was under this Government for a number of years; whereas Neeknam Cawn (the Father of Mazad Cawn, the preſent Phouſdar of Broach) did break that old rule of obeying this Government, and took away the property of the Surat Nabobs; and as your Army is lately marched againſt the Coolies and maſtered their country, I hope your Honour will direct the Commanding Officer of that Force to march therewith into the country of Broach to ſettle the ſaid diſpute, relating to the Phouſdar as aboveſaid, and to oblige the ſaid Mazad Cawn to pay me all the Cuſtoms which he has received for ſo many years, it being my property; and that the ſaid Phouſdar may in future be put into my poſſeſſion; doing which I as well as the Honourable Company will have profit.

APPENDIX No. 49.

The Resident's sentiments on the Nabob of Surat's Letter.

The Surat Government has large and juſt demands on that of Broach, and as we have a large and ſufficient force to the Northward, and as I underſtand the Nabob of Broach is under great apprehenſions of their being employed againſt him, it is a good time to make demands on him, which his fears may bring him to a compliance. The firſt demand is for the produce of the Broach Phoorza, granted about 150 years, by the Mogul unto the Surat Government, and poſſeſſed by them till about 40 years, when the Broach Nabob finding himſelf ſtrong enough refuſed to pay it, and threw off his dependance; the Phoorza was computed at about R^{s} 70,000 a year, which amount the Surat Government uſually recovered from it, and now amounts to twenty-eight lack. The next demand is for a conſiderable difference of Cuſtoms, which, contrary to an expreſs Treaty, the Nabob of Broach has collected on all merchandize belonging to thoſe trading under the Company's protection to Broach. In the time of Mr. Hodges's Chiefſhip the Nabob of Broach (the Father of the preſent one) entered into a Treaty with him for ſettling the duties to be paid at Broach, on all goods belonging to thoſe under the Engliſh protection at 1¼ per cent. and according to this agreement the duties were collected two or three years, but afterwards, without any reaſon aſſigned, the Nabob raiſed them to 2½; and this difference, one year with another, has amounted to about R^{s} 25,000, and as about ſix years have elapſed ſince it was impoſed, the demand on this account may be reckoned R^{s} 150,000, ſo that the juſt demand the Government has on that of Broach, is about 30 lacks. The Broach Phoorza was by Phirmaund granted to the Nabobſhip of Surat, and not to the Caſtle; but that, I apprehend, may be eaſily ſettled with the preſent Nabob: as he himſelf can have no hopes of recovering it by his own power, I preſume he will have no objections to transferring his right and title to the Company, who has the means in their hands of conducting them to good purpoſe and advantage, if he is to receive a ſmall part thereof. The demands for theſe arrears, and for the future poſſeſſion of the Broach Phoorza Revenue, and the duties on Engliſh goods being collected, as ſettled with Mr. Hodges, are in themſelves juſt and proper to be made; and no time can be more convenient than the preſent one, when we have ſo large a force that way, and the Nabob himſelf frightened, and apprehends we have deſigns againſt him. I therefore propoſe, that the Chief and Council ſhould be directed, to demand in the moſt peremptory manner, of the Broach Nabob, immediate payment of the arrears due on the Phoorza; alſo the difference of the Cuſtoms collected from the Merchants, and full ſecurity for the annual payment of the produce of the Phoorza in future, and the duties on Engliſh property being collected as ſettled with Mr. Hodges, I apprehend the Nabob of Broach would be ſo much intimidated on receiving this letter which makes the demand, that he will immediately enter into a Treaty, and conſent to very advantageous terms, without our forces proceeding againſt him; if ſo, a proper Treaty might be concluded with him, and he remain and be ſupported in his Territories.

Extract of the General Letter from Bombay; dated the 5th June 1771.

Par. 13. Your Honours have already been fully adviſed of our motives for undertaking an Expedition againſt Broach, which we doubt not will prove ſatisfactory to you; and from the directions we gave to your Servants at Surat, to embark all the forces employed againſt the Coolies and proceed on board the veſſels up the River of Broach, with the utmoſt expedition, we doubted not but that affair would have been ſhortly brought to a ſpeedy and ſucceſsful iſſue.

14. But on the 21ſt of April (when we had reaſon to conclude our forces were before Broach, from the orders we had given to your Servants at Surat, and which they had previous to that date acquainted us they had directed to be carried into execution) we received a Letter from them, adviſing us that they had given directions for the forces to return to Surat, in order to march from that place by land againſt Broach; and that they were induced to act thus, in direct oppoſition to our orders, on the Chief having been acquainted by a man who had been long in the ſervice of the Broach Nabob, and whoſe relations they acquainted us ſtill ſerved him, that it was in his opinion the moſt likely method of enſuring ſucceſs againſt it.

15. We acquainted them in reply thereto, that the mode of proceeding they had adopted, appeared to us liable to many impediments and delays, all which we pointed out to them; and that we could ſee little proſpect of ſucceſs againſt that place, as the river, which was both broad and rapid, would thus be between the Troops and the town, which would in our opinions unavoidably occaſion at leaſt a great delay in their proceedings; whereas, had the Troops proceeded immediately up the river, they might have landed on the ſide on which the town is ſituated, and attack it with much greater probability of ſucceſs; and as the ſeaſon was ſo far advanced, it behoved them to avoid every unneceſſary delay, as we could by no means permit of the Troops belonging to this garriſon being abſent during the rainy ſeaſon, and therefore at all events they muſt be embarked for their return hither by the 20th of May; at the ſame time we informed them, that ſhould our hopes of ſucceſs be fruſtrated by their deviation from our orders, we ſhould deem them anſwerable for it.

16. The Chief and Council, inſtead of endeavouring to rectify the miſtake they had committed, by liſtening to the advice of a man evidently intereſted to render the Expedition unſucceſsful, ſtill perſiſted in their error, and vindicated their conduct, notwithſtanding our objections reached them time enough to have altered it; and though they themſelves experienced the juſtice of ſome of our remarks on it, by the delay that happened in their ſetting out from Surat, owing to the want of Carts and Bullocks for the Artillery, and neceſſaries, which prevented their leaving it ſome days after their arrival there.

17. The troops however at laſt ſet out from thence the 27th of April, under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Cay, who was inſtructed to obſerve all orders he received from Mr. Gambier. The Nabob of Surat alſo ſent about 700 men on this Expedition, to act in conjunction with our Forces, under the command of the Buxey, who likewiſe ſet out at the ſame time.

18. On their march, they were attacked very briſkly by about 2,000 of the Nabob's Forces, but beat them off with a very ſmall loſs on our ſide, though the Broach Troops, it is ſaid, ſuffered conſiderably.

19. They arrived on the banks of the river oppoſite Broach on the 1ſt of May, and then found that, contrary to the report of the perſon who furniſhed the Chief with his information, the river inſtead of being about 200 yards broad, was in reality 1,400 yards; but that there was an iſland in the middle of it, of which they took poſſeſſion, and from thence attacked the Town. A breach was made which was once judged to be practicable, and intended to be ſtormed; but on the Troops having embarked for that purpoſe, they were by the rapidity of the ſtream carried much below the intended place, and therefore it was at that time laid aſide; and it ſhortly after appeared that the Enemy had eſtocaded the breach quite acroſs with ſtrong timbers, in ſuch a manner as to render it, in the opinion of the Engineer, &c. impracticable. So much time was then elapſed as to put it out of their power to make another, which, together with the loſs of almoſt all their ſhells by the blowing up of a magazine, induced Mr. Gambier to apply to the Commanding Officer for his opinion, whether it was poſſible to reduce the place, ſo as to have the Troops embarked by the 20th, agreeable agreeable to our orders, and he having given it in the negative, orders were given for their return to Surat, which they ſhortly reached, and embarked by the time we directed, and ſince returned hither.

20. But in order to obviate the diſgrace which would otherwiſe have been incurred by the Siege being raiſed, Mr. Gambier, in conſequence of ſome overtures which had been made him by the Nabob of Broach, induced him (previous to the Troops marching from thence) to make his public requeſt that they ſhould be withdrawn; and his Duan and ſome other of his principal people accompanied Mr. Gambier to Surat, to endeavour to ſettle affairs with the Chief and Council, by which the march of the Troops thither was unmoleſted.

21. As it ſtill appears to us, that had our firſt directions regarding this affair been carried into execution, the iſſue of it would have been very different from what it is at preſent, we therefore propoſe to make a ſtrict Enquiry into the cauſe of the failure of it, for which purpoſe we have already appointed a Committee; and your Honours may depend that wherever it may appear the blame may lay, a ſuitable reſentment ſhall be ſhewn by us for thus trifling with the credit of your Arms.

Extract of Bombay Select Conſultations; the 27th November 1771.

The Preſident acquaints the Committee, that he calls this Meeting purpoſely to inform them, that he has for ſome days paſt been endeavouring to bring the Nabob of Broach (now here) to an accommodation for the Honourable Company's demands upon him, as ſet forth at the time our Forces went againſt him, and for the charges incurred thereby. Tranſlates and Copy of the Papers which have paſſed on this occaſion he now lays before us, which are read as entered hereafter: and the Tranſlate of the laſt Papers from the Nabob are his ultimate propoſals, as the Nabob deſired in caſe they were not accepted, that he might return to Broach; and as the propoſals were ſuch in his opinion by no means admiſſible, he immediately acquainted the Nabob of it, and directed the veſſel to be ready for his accommodation.

The Committee entirely concur in opinion with the Preſident in reſpect to the Nabob's propoſals, and unanimouſly approve his proceedings herein.

As the Nabob therefore is now on his return, without any terms being ſettled between the Honourable Company and him, we deem it highly neceſſary to have recourſe to force, as well to obtain ſatisfaction, as to recover our credit, loſt by the laſt expedition, after the Nabob is ſafely returned thither. But Hyder Ally may make ſuch offers for our aſſiſtance, in conſequence of our former reſolution, as we may judge for our Honourable Employers advantage to accept; and as that is an object of much greater importance, Reſolved, that we defer coming to a final determination with reſpect to either, until we receive an account of Hyder's Offers for aſſiſtance, which we hope will now ſhortly arrive; and in the interim it is agreed, that every thing neceſſary ſhall be prepared to carry into execution ſuch meaſures as may hereafter appear moſt for our Honourable Employers intereſt, reſpecting which the Preſident will give the neceſſary directions.

The Preſident lays before the Board Tranſlate of a Writing from the Nabob of Cambay, binding himſelf not to moleſt the ancient poſſeſſions of the Rajah of Bonnagur and Gopaljee Servia, as entered hereafter, in conſequence of what was reſolved by the whole Board on the ultimo,

The Preſident lays before the Committee, Tranſlate of two Letters from the Nabob Hyder Ally, which are now read as entered hereafter.

Tranſlate of a Letter from the Nabob of Broach to the Governor. APPENDIX, No. 49.

I was on my arrival here extremely glad to ſee your Honour, and was, God knows, mightily pleaſed with your friendſhip, goodneſs, and greatneſs. I am much obliged to you for your entertainment and civilities; I have experienced your friendſhip more than what is offered in the Company's agreements; that is to ſay, "That we "may part in ſtronger friendſhip than ever." I have hopes that our friendſhip ſhall be encreaſed more and more in future. Your Honour may believe me to be your true Friend, and look upon the Broach and Bombay as one, and my Forces as yours. Whenever you ſhall want me I ſhall join you agreeable to this agreement.

A long while ago I have no friend at Bombay, nor do I keep friendſhip with any body here; nobody knows me, nor do I know any body at Bombay, and have no correſpondence with any body by Letters. I look upon all the Gentlemen here as favourable to me, but there is no mediator between us; for your Honour is every thing to me; I only know you: Whatever friendly offices you will do me, looking upon me as yours, and agreeable to writing, I ſhall take as if you had done them to me from your own generoſity, and will never fail on my part in my friendſhip to you as long as I may live.

If you will think about having the country of Guzerat into your hands for the Company, I ſhall, agreeable to your order, be ready with my Forces, being very well acquainted therewith. This affair ſhall be ſettled, ſo that you will be much pleaſed thereby, and it will bring in large income and profit, becauſe all the country is empty (meaning, without proper Forces to guard it). The whole of this country can be conquered within a year: The revenues are more than one crore of Rupees. When you will ſettle about this affair, and reſolve to undertake this enterprize, I ſhall give you all the particulars regarding it, after your Honour's pleaſure.

On my coming here and meeting you, my heart was entirely cleared, inſomuch that nothing is remained there. You have agreed in your Security Paper, "That a friendſhip ſhall on my arrival at Bombay be made agreeable to your wiſhes;" ſo that if your Honour will keep your ſight on your ſaid writing, I ſhall be much pleaſed if you will grant me a written Agreement conformable to the copy which I have ready by me; in doing which it ſhall be looked upon as if you have complied with your writing; if not, there is no matter, for I ſubmit to your pleaſure.

Every body knows that you have held my hand, and made me wait upon you, though my Anceſtors who governed Broach upwards of 50 years had been no where. It is right your Honour will always protect me in the abovementioned manner.

God knows I can't make you a return for all your favours, civilities, entertainment, &c. for I am empty pocket, all which I doubt not but you muſt have heard from others, I having more expences than income, eſpecially upon account of the Marattas trouble, who had ſurrounded my place till three years, in which I ſpent my ſtock, and am largely indebted to the Merchants and my Troops for their Pay. What can I ſay more?—As I look upon you as my true Friend here, have therefore given you an account of my caſe.

Luttoboy Mazmandar (who has lately opened a correſpondence with your Honour, is neither mine nor the Marattas ſervant) has his ſhops at many places in the Guzerat country, as alſo at Surat; and if your Honour will pleaſe to grant him your Purwannah, or Order, under the Honourable Compay's Seal, he will carry on the affair of his ſhops at Surat and Bombay freely, and I will ſend you a copy thereof if you will grant his requeſt.

Tranſlate

APPENDIX. No. 49.

Tranſlate of the Terms offered by the Nabob of Broach, 14th November 1771.

I the Nabob Imtyazood Dowlah Maazud Cawn Bahadar Dutterjung may live at the Port of Broach freely and contentedly, believing me your Friend for ever; whatſoever diſpute and unpleaſantneſs I had in my heart is now quite cleared, and a firm friendſhip is become with the Honourable Company agreeable to our wiſhes, and more firm than heretofore. Should any enemy proceed againſt Broach, we ſhall not fail in ſuch caſe to aſſiſt you on the part of the Honourable Company, and ſhall join you, Sir, with neceſſaries. I ſhall not in future hear the perſons who may be in neceſſity, their Informations againſt you, and ſhall look upon Broach as mine, and you may, Sir, look upon Bombay as yours. We give you this writing fairly, and with the Honourable Company's word, that we ſhall not fail in our friendſhip to aſſiſt you whenever required; for which purpoſe I have given you this everlaſting Agreement from the Honourable Company, that no manner of difference there will be, either Sir or your Children. You may if you chuſe come to Bombay with your Family; for your coming or going, as well as for the performance of all the conditions herein abovementioned, this Agreement will ſerve now and in future. Should any Merchants of Broach, or the perſons under your protection, chuſe to trade to this Port, I agree to their doing it freely, paying the uſual Cuſtoms of this place.

The Governor's Anſwer to the above Propoſal.

What is obſerved in the firſt article of the Nabob's Paper, that is to ſay, that we may part in a ſtronger friendſhip than ever, which is my hearty wiſh; and if it ſo happens, it will give me great ſatisfaction and pleaſure, and will be much for the intereſt of both parties: But the Nabob cannot be ignorant of the demands we have on Broach, thoſe that he was acquainted with laſt April before our Troops went that way, viz. that of the Phoorza, which has been withheld from the Government of Surat for 40 years; the overcharge in the Cuſtoms in the Merchants trading under the Company's protection for near ſix years paſt; and the heavy charge we were at in ſending our Troops that way; all which it is neceſſary the Nabob ſhould take into ſerious conſideration, and what he has to ſay regarding them.

The whole amounts to many Lacks, but notwithſtanding that, if he has or chuſes to make any propoſals for accommodating this matter, I am very ready, and will not be unreaſonable in my demand. Beſides agreeing to pay a certain ſum annually on account of the Phoorza in Surat, with proper Security, the Cuſtoms to be paid at Broach by thoſe under the Company's protection, as was ſettled with his Father by Mr. Hodges when he was Chief at Surat. Then will we take into conſideration his propoſals regarding Guzerat in his third article, and will ſettle ſuch a ſtrong Alliance with him as cannot eaſily be broken, which I hope he will conſider of, that we may part with the friendſhip of Brothers.

Before the Honourable Company's Troops were diſpatched, I wrote your Honour a Letter, in which I have mentioned to you all the particulars; which Letter be pleaſed to take out of the office and peruſe it, what I have therein ſaid regarding your demands.

I have already given in, an anſwer regarding the Phoorza of Broach, in my former Letter, which you will pleaſe to re-peruſe.

There are performing the agreements mentioned in the time of Mr. Hodges, when Chief of Surat; notwithſtanding which, if you want more favours therein, I am ready.

Through the advice of Mr. Draper and Gambier, the Honourable Company's Troops were ſent; they are therefore anſwerable for the charges thereof, for I did not begin myſelf.

Your Honour ſay, "That I ſhould take all the matters you have above expreſſed into my ſerious conſideration, and what I have to ſay regarding them;" to this I reply, that I have given you anſwers before to all the above matters; after conſidering, therefore, it is too far for your Honour, &c. to talk about theſe things now, for you wrote me about the time of my coming to Bombay, that nothing ſhall be talked of, about what was paſſed before.

As you have poſitively wrote to me now, that you will not act unreaſonably with me, therefore it is right that you ſtand to your ſaid writing, as I depend upon your word.

I have already given you an anſwer to your 7th Article, in this Paper, Article 2d, therefore need not to repeat it again.

You wrote me concerning the cuſtoms; to which I reply, that what was ſettled in the time of the deceaſed Nabob, by Mr. Hodges, is acceptable to me, and I will charge no more.

What you ſay regarding Amedavad is true.

Your Honour gave me fair writing under the Company's Seal, that on my coming to Bombay nothing ſhall be talked of about me what was paſſed before, and a firm friendſhip ſhall be made agreeable to my wiſhes, and we may part in a ſtronger friendſhip than ever without difference. You have likewiſe wrote me concerning the Money, that I muſt be thoroughly ſatisfied that there can be no truth in ſuch kind of news, for there is not the leaſt foundation for it; notwithſtanding all which, I was greatly ſurprized at your friendſhip and kindneſs. I hope you will, keeping your ſight upon your writing, order your Munſee to give me a fair writing, conformable to my foul copy which I gave you the 14th inſtant, doing which you will comply with your word, and I ſhall return to Bombay and from your Honour well pleaſed.

Tranſlate of what the Nabob wrote on the back of the Governor's Anſwer to him.

If you had ſuch an intention on your heart, why did you call me here on your word? This thing is too far from your greatneſs. You will pleaſe to obſerve all the particulars on a ſeparate paper.

The Governor's Reply.

Upon the whole, you ſay you have already given me anſwers to every thing: if ſo, you have nothing more to ſay.

But I wiſh for your own ſake, and it will be for your own intereſt, to adjuſt every thing in ſuch a manner as to make the Company your Friend, which will ſecure you againſt your Enemies; and further, may enable you and them to purſue much greater things hereafter, as pointed out by yourſelf; which will bear no compariſon with your preſent ſituation. I have for all this time been ſilent, in expectation that you would of yourſelf have ſaid ſomething towards an accommodation; but as you have not, and you deſired I will ſign the Paper you cauſed to be ſhewn me, I was obliged to ſend you the Memorandum my people ſhewed you to-day, as it is impoſſible for me to ſign ſuch a Paper, when you have made no offer to ſettle our demands. But if you are determined not to accommodate matters, you may reſt ſecure I ſhall keep my word in replacing you in your own City agreeable to my promiſe, after having given you more Honours than than were ever given to any perſon whatſoever at this place; and that you are as ſecure as if you were in your own Houſe, or more ſo; but I muſt ſerve my Maſters.

Tranſlate of a Letter from the Nabob of Broach:—received the 24th inſtant.

After Compliments:

I have received your Honour's Letter, and obſerve the contents of the five paragraphs you wrote me therein. I readily believe what you ſay, that you will ſend me to Broach ſafe; for I have no manner of doubt with regard to your complying with your word. Now I give you a plain Anſwer to your above five paragraphs, that as you have held my hand, and brought me to Bombay, the ſhorteſt way to accommodate matters is, that your Honour ought to write me plain, ſuch as I can afford to accept, agreeable to my inability: You will write me ſo plain, that I may clearly underſtand. The loſſes and ſcarcity of Caſh which I am ſuffering theſe three or four years, is very well known to your Honour; therefore what you order me you will do it, keeping your ſight on my inability, and on the Company's Security Paper you have granted me; that is to ſay, that on my arrival at Bombay a friendſhip will be made, agreeable to my wiſhes. I know that every thing can be done by your favour. I agree to what your Honour ſays in your firſt letter to me, regarding the Cuſtoms, and will abate therein as much as you will ſay.

Tranſlate of another Letter from the Nabob:—received the 25th inſtant.

After Compliments:

I have ſent your Honour an Anſwer laſt night, which I doubt not you have received. I have a long hiſtory of my circumſtances to tell you, which I wiſh I could ſpeak to you perſonally; but my tongue does not permit me to do it: I did therefore make Nanna Bhoy ſit down with me till two o'clock this morning, and have communicated to him all the particulars. Your Honour will ſend for him; hear all from him, and favour me with your Anſwer to the above letter, and his information.

The Preſident's Account of the Negociation with the Broach Nabob.

Having ſignified to the Nabob of Broach his having been here ſome time, and had not yet heard any thing from him with reſpect to our demand on him, only that he had delivered me a paper with ſome Propoſals of his own, without any mention towards an accommodation of our demand, I ſent him, wrote in Perſian, what was neceſſary he ſhould ſettle before he returned to Broach, as he intends ſetting out ſoon; and that I could not think of ſigning a paper he ſent me a tranſlate of, until he had come to ſome agreement about ſettling that buſineſs; which he attempted to evade by ſaying, that we had ſigned a Security Paper, that every thing ſhould be ſettled agreeable to his deſire, which is, that every thing ſhould be forgot, as he had condeſcended to come to Bombay, and delivered his Perſon into our hands on the faith of our writing; and that now he wanted to return back. To which I replied, that he might depend on our complying with; but that I thought it behoved him to think well before he went, and ſettle every thing before he went away; and that I would not be unreaſonable in my demands; on which he ſent me yeſterday a Paper, wherein he deſires I will write him plain, that he may clearly underſtand what we expect.

The following is what we demanded of him in April laſt:

The demand on account of the Phoorza of Broach is eſtimated at 70,000 Rupees a year, which having been withheld for 40 years paſt, amounts to 28 lacks; but the Nabob ſays it has not been paid this 50 or 60 years, which increaſes the demand proportionably. This was granted by Phirmaund from the Mogul to the Nabobſhip of Surat, about 150 years ſince.

The next is, for what has been collected on account of Cuſtoms from the Merchants trading under the Company's protection for about ſix years paſt, eſtimated at Rupees 25,000 a year, amounts to Rupees 150,000.

Next, the charge of the Expedition laſt May, amounting to between two and three lacks of Rupees, which makes the whole demand on him amount to about 33 lacks; and that he ſettles a certain ſum to be paid in Surat annually, in the month of July, on account of the Phoorza; viz. 12, 15, or 20,000 Rupees a year, with proper ſecurity.

If we can get 5 or 6 lacks for our demand, it will be well, or more if poſſible, when I think we may enter into an Alliance with him, and take into conſideration what he has pointed out regarding Guzerat.

Propoſals made by the Nabob of Broach, as the baſis of a Treaty to be made between the Honourable Company and him.

1ſt. That we ſhall promiſe to get him and his ſubjects paid their juſt Debts, after being proved, from many of their Debtors.—Refuſed.

2d. Upon account of his making a firm friendſhip with us, ſhould the Marattas quarrel with him, or otherwiſe, we ſhall in ſuch caſe join him with our Troops, Balls, and Powder, &c. and he ſhall on his part do the ſame.

3d. At the time of our marching againſt the Nabob, Futtee Sing took his Bond for certain ſums of money to be paid him at the opening of the ſeaſon, which he now demands, and we muſt promiſe to get back from him, by writing him letters, or any other means.—Refuſed.

The particular Payment of Two Lacks of Rupees.

1ſt	Payment in the	Month of	Moharam	1186	Rupees	50,000
2d	D°	D°	D°	1187		50,000
3d	D°	D°	D°	1188		50,000
4th	D°	D°	D°	1189		50,000
					Rupees	2,00,000

Pray don't diſcover this to any body.

Tranſlate of a Writing from the Nabob of Cambay.

The Paper of Agreement between the Honourable Engliſh Eaſt India Company, and Meinam Cawn, Nabob of Cambay.

Agreeable to what I have been requeſted by Mr. John Torleſſe, Reſident of Cambay, I now do promiſe, that ſhould Goge at any time fall again into my hands, and the Honourable Engliſh Company be deſirous of having a Factory there, I will grant it to them: On no account whatſoever ſuffer any other European Nation to ſettle there. Alſo, from the long friendſhip ſubſiſting between the Honourable Engliſh Eaſt India Company and me, I have hearkened to the recommendation they have been pleaſed to give to Eckarajee and Gopaljee Servia. I will on no pretence whatſoever meddle with or trouble the ancient poſſeſſions of Eckrajee, the ſon of the late Bowſting, nor the Town or Fort of Bownagur, no more than what has always been uſual for the poſſeſſor of the Bunder of Gogo to take, and what I took when I was in poſſeſſion thereof, and no more will I demand. With reſpect to Gopaljee Servia and his Town, I will give neither moleſtation. But I do requeſt, that after this Agreement the Honourable Company will not recommend any more perſons of that country to me, and by the help of God I and my Heirs will ſtand to all Agreements hitherto entered into between us. Extract of Bombay Select Conſultations; the 30th November 1771.

The Preſident acquaints the Committee he has deſired this Meeting to inform them, that the Nabob of Broach having made ſome further Overtures, he had ſent proper perſons to repreſent to him the impropriety of his going from hence, without coming to terms of accommodation with the Honourable Company for their demands upon him, and the diſadvantage which muſt accrue to himſelf therefrom; in conſequence whereof the Nabob had at length offered to pay to the Honourable Company the ſum of 4 lacks of Rupees, provided it be accepted in full of all demands; and to make over to the Honourable Company his ſhare of the Cuſtoms collected on goods imported at Broach by Britiſh Subjects, or others trading under the Engliſh Paſs and Colours. On due deliberation therein, it is agreed to accept thoſe propoſals, provided the Nabob agrees to the payment of the ſtipulated ſum within a conſiſtent time, but we wiſh he could be induced to pay at leaſt a part thereof in ready Money.

The Nabob being immediately acquainted thereof, repreſented his utter inability to pay any part in ready money; but at length offered to pay one-half within ſix months, one lack more within twelve months from the date of the firſt payment, and the remainder within the following year: A Treaty agreeable thereto being drawn up, and the Nabob conſenting to ratify the Articles of it, it is therefore reſolved, that it be laid before the whole Board for their approbation and concurrence.

Adjourned.
Geo. Skipp, Sec^y.

Approved, W^m Hornby, Nath^l Stackhouſe, David Wedderburn, W. Taylor, Jn^o Watſon.

Articles for a Treaty of Peace and firm Friendſhip between the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor, &c. Council of Bombay, in behalf of the Honourable United Engliſh Eaſt India Company, and the Nabob Imhjazood Dowlah, Maazage Cawn, Bahawder Ditter Jung, of Broach, &c. &c.

1ſt. Peace and Friendſhip to ſubſiſt uninterrupted in future, between the Honourable Company and the Nabob of Broach, his Heirs and Succeſſors.

2d All Britiſh ſubjects or perſons trading under the protection of the Honourable Company's ſealed Paſſes and Colours, ſhall pay no Cuſtoms at Broach, &c. places in the Nabob's country, except ſuch as the Honourable the Preſident and Council ſhall impoſe, which ſhall be levied by ſuch perſons as they ſhall appoint on account of the Honourable Company; and the Nabob engages for himſelf and Succeſſors, that no Fees, Dues, or Exactions of any ſort, ſhall be levied on the ſaid trade by himſelf or them, on any pretence whatever.

3d. The Honourable the Preſident and Council ſhall have free liberty to ſettle a Factory wherever they think proper, and a ſuitable portion of ground for building the ſaid Factory on, or a convenient houſe ſhall be allotted for that purpoſe.

4th. The Dutch have already a Factory at Broach, but in future no other European Nation ſhall be permitted to ſettle a Factory at Broach without the conſent of the Honourable the Preſident and Council.

5th. The Nabob engages never to aſſiſt the Enemies of the Engliſh Nation, but obliges himſelf to aſſiſt the Company in any Wars they may be engaged in with 1,000 private Sepoys and 300 Cavalry, with their Officers; or ſuch larger number as they may want, and he can ſpare, at the following rates; viz.

Each Horſeman, rupees 15 per month;
Each Sepoy, — rupees 7½ per D°; or at ſuch rates as it ſhall appear they ſtand him in.

6th. The Nabob will not engage in any War with any of his Neighbours without the conſent of the Preſident and Council; but in all Wars which he ſhall engage in with their conſent, or if he ſhall be ſuddenly attacked in his territories, they ſhall give him effectual ſupport and aſſiſtance, he paying the Troops on the following terms;

To each European, rupees 15 per month;
To each Sepoy, - - - 7 D°.

N. B. The Commiſſion Officers of the Company, and the ſuperior Officers of the Nabob, to be paid at the diſcretion of the party aſſiſted, but with the concurrence and approbation of the party aſſiſting.

7th. The Nabob agrees to pay unto the Honourable Company, in conſideration and acquittal of all demands to this day, the ſum of four lacks of Rupees, which the Honourable the Preſident and Council agree to accept in full for their claim on him for the Phoorza, and exactions of Cuſtoms on Britiſh Merchants, on condition he ſhall inviolably adhere to the terms herein contained; and in failure thereof it is hereby declared, that the above ſum of four lacks ſhall be deemed and taken to be for repaying the expence incurred by the Expedition only, and the Honourable the Preſident and Council in ſuch caſe hereby declare themſelves at free liberty to purſue the moſt effectual means for the recovery of any demands which they or their Allies have, or hereafter may have, upon him. The ſaid four lacks of Rupees are to be paid within two years and a half from the date hereof, at the following ſtated periods; viz.

Two lacks within ſix months from the date hereof;
One lack more within twelve months from the firſt payment; and the One lack remaining in the following year:

For which he will enter into a Bond, binding himſelf and Heirs, and mortgaging his whole territories.

8th. In caſe any Expedition ſhall hereafter be undertaken, and ſucceſs attend it, the Honourable the Preſident and Council will take care that the Nabob of Broach ſhall have a recompence adequate to the aſſiſtance he may afford.

9th. In conſideration of the friendſhip eſtabliſhed between the Honourable Company and the Nabob, he ſhall have firm friendſhip with all their Friends and Allies, particularly the Nabobs of Surat and Cambay, with whom he ſhall enter into Treaty; and ſhall conſider all their enemies as his, and they ſhall conſider all his enemies as theirs. For due performance of this article, we, on the part of the Nabobs of Surat and Cambay, become ſecurity.

Separate Article entered into with the Nabob of Broach.

You the Nabob Sahib Imhjazood Dowlah, Maazul Cawn, Bahawder Dillejung, may live at the Port of Broach freely, believing us your Friends for ever. We have given up the demand of Phoorza, its produce for forty years, overcharge in the Cuſtoms on goods belonging to the Merchants under the Honourable Company; and charge of the Expedition ſent againſt you. Our hearts are quite cleared, and we have made a friendſhip agreeable to your wiſhes. No demands nor anſwer now remain to make with you: we have given you this acquittance in full for all demands as above-mentioned.

We ſhall get paid yours and your ſubjects juſt debts from any perſon or place under our Government, on being proved. We ſhall admit no information againſt you: We look upon Broach as ours, and Bombay as yours. This Protection Paper is granted to you from the part of the Honourable Company, with their word, as well as our word and honour, that we ſhall not fail in our friendſhip and aſſiſtance of Force and Ammunition upon occaſion, for which purpoſe this everlaſting Protection Paper is given you. All the Counſellors are bound that no difference will be either with you or your Children, and the friendſhip ſhall be daily increaſed more and more. You may, if you chuſe, come to Bombay with your Family. For your coming and going, as well as for the performance of all the conditions herein above-mentioned, this Agreement will ſerve you as a voucher which we agree to perform with the Honourable Company's word and honour. Should any Merchants of Broach, or the perſons under your protection, chuſe to trade to Bombay, we agree to their doing it freely, and paying the uſual Cuſtoms of this place, without hindrance on the part of the Honourable Company.

Tranſlate of the Nabob's Bond to the Honourable Company.

Know all men, that I Imbjazood Dowlah, Mazood Cawn, Behawder Dillejung, Nabob of Broach, have this day agreed and acknowledged myſelf indebted unto the Honourable United Engliſh Eaſt India Company; the ſum of four lacks of Rupees, current Money of Bombay, for the payment of which to be well and truly made unto the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor, &c. Council of Bombay, at the following ſtated periods, I hereby bind myſelf, my Heirs and Succeſſors, and mortgage my whole territories, to be at the diſpoſal of the ſaid Company in caſe of failure; viz.

Two lacks within ſix months from the date hereof;
One ditto more within eighteen months D°;
One ditto more within two years and ſix months D°.

In witneſs whereof I have hereunto voluntarily ſet my hand in Bombay, this 30th day of November 1771, in the preſence of

My Brother, My Uncle,
My Codjee, My Moreſſee,
My Vackeel; who have alſo ſigned to this Bond, as witneſſes of its being my Act and Deed.

APPENDIX, No. 50.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bombay; dated 1ſt April 1772.

Par. 34. IN regard to the Expedition againſt the Nabob of Broach, in which you appear to have engaged from motives as unjuſtifiable as the former, the ſame was altogether ſo vague and ill conducted, that we are ſurprized you ſhould attempt to exculpate yourſelves from blame, which you ſeem to think due only to want of Succeſs. We ſhall not here point out every circumſtance which has excited our diſpleaſure, but we muſt declare, that you have not only weakened our confidence in your Adminiſtration, by involving us in unneceſſary expence, but brought diſcredit on our Arms by Enterprizes which afforded no probable proſpect of advantage, and the more ſo, as the above Expeditions were wantonly undertaken at a time when you declared yourſelves under the greateſt difficulties to raiſe Supplies for the indiſpenſable occaſions of your Preſidency; and which you urge as a reaſon for deviating from our expreſs commands on another ſubject, namely, for exceeding the rate we had fixed for Bills of Exchange. APPENDIX. No. 50.

35. We obſerve with what earneſtneſs you charge the ill ſucceſs of the Broach Expedition to the miſconduct of our Servants at Surat, and indeed, we ſee enough to convince us how unfit they were for ſuch an undertaking. Their liſtening to the information of a Man who might have juſtly been ſuſpected of being in the intereſt of the Nabob, and their marching the Forces by Land, when they might with more ſecurity and diſpatch have proceeded on Veſſels immediately to Broach, are inſtances of Error and Miſconduct we know not how they will juſtify to us; but as you have directed a ſtrict Enquiry to be made into the cauſes of this Failure, we ſhall ſuſpend our final condemnation of their proceedings until we ſhall be furniſhed with every particular relative thereto, and which we require you to tranſmit by the firſt opportunity.

36. There however appears one cauſe which may have contributed to your diſappointment, which cannot be aſcribed to our Servants at Surat; namely, your putting the Expedition under the direction of Civil Servants, who muſt be ſuppoſed ignorant of military operations, and might therefore not deem themſelves concerned in the event; whereas, had the Expedition been left wholly to the conduct of the Military Commander, his Honour would not only have been engaged in its ſucceſs, but he would otherwiſe have been anſwerable for any miſconduct in the progreſs of it.

37. Upon the whole, we are as little ſatisfied with the reaſons you have urged for permitting Expeditions againſt the Coolies and the Nabob of Broach, to take place, as with the meaſures you took for carrying them into execution; we therefore deem you reſponſible for all Expences incurred thereby; and direct, that you fail not to tranſmit us a full and particular Account thereof, by the returning Ships of this Seaſon.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bombay; dated 1ſt April 1772.

Par. 32. The Reaſon aſſigned by you for ſending a Land Force againſt the Coolies is ſo very ſingular, that we cannot find words to expreſs our aſtoniſhment thereat. Having determined to inveſt Ali Novas Cawn in the Naibſhip of Surat, we obſerve you reſolve to enforce your recommendation of Ali Novas Cawn to the Nabob by a very conſiderable Armament; but as the Nabob, upon your pledging the Company's honour for the conduct of Ali Novas Cawn, conſented to receive him as Naib without drawing the Sword, upon receipt of his Letter you found your Troops ready to embark, but the intended Expedition rendered unneceſſary by the Nabob's compliance; whereupon it occurred to you, that an Expedition againſt the Coolies had been ſubmitted to your conſideration in a former Letter from Surat, and you now inſtantly reſolve, that it behoved you to extirpate the ſaid Coolies, and upon this momentary conſideration, you venture to weaken your Garriſon and that of Surat, in order to commence and proſecute a War, not, becauſe upon mature conſideration it had been found abſolutely neceſſary (for if ſo, it ought to have been done ſooner) but, becauſe you were determined at all events to employ your Troops.

33. However ſatisfied you may be with the iſſue of this Expedition, we muſt here declare the ends propoſed by it do not appear to us to be completed by the Treaty you have entered into with the Nabob of Cambay, and by the ſum he has ſtipulated to pay for your ſurrendering Toolajee Fort into his hands; ſo far are we from conſidering this meaſure as likely to anſwer your expectations, that we own ourſelves apprehenſive that greater miſchiefs may enſue from the Fort being in his poſſeſſion than in that of the Coolies; and with reſpect to the ſum of Rupees 75,000, for which you have made this ceſſion, you will not expect us to conſider it as an equivalent for the Charges which muſt have attended a Land Expedition.

The Paper of Agreement between the Honourable Engliſh Eaſt India Company and Moinan Cawn, Nabob of Cambay.

Tranſlate of a Writing from the Nabob of Cambay.

APPENDIX, No. 51.

Extract of the General Letter from Bombay; dated the 20th November 1772.

Par. 42. IN the 8th Paragraph of our Addreſs of the 18th June laſt, we informed your Honours of the expectation we were then in of an Anſwer from the Nabob of Broach, by which we hoped to be enabled to determine clearly as to his intentions in reſpect of the Treaty which was entered into on the 30th November laſt year.

43. On the 14th July the Preſident laid before us Tranſlate of a Letter the Nabob had addreſſed him on the ſubject, in which he requeſted Mr. Morley might be ſent back to Broach; but as the Letter was in general vague and inconcluſive, we were of opinion it would be improper to comply with this requeſt till the Nabob might convince us of the ſincerity of his intentions, by remitting the firſt ſtipulated ſum, being two lacks of Rupees, by Bills either on this place or Surat, the time for the payment of it being elapſed.

44. The Preſident accordingly acquainted the Nabob of our determination, who in reply addreſſed him another Letter, which was laid before us on the 19th Auguſt, wherein he urges the impoſſibility of ſending Bills, as it was not in his power to procure them to ſo large an amount; but he therein declared, that the Money was actually ready, and deſired a Veſſel with Mr. Morley on board, might be ſent for it; and as he at the ſame time mentioned, that he did not even deſire Mr. Morley ſhould land till the Money was ſhipped off, we were induced to believe that he really intended to abide by his Agreements; and therefore, in order to do every thing in our power to bring it to an happy iſſue, we determined to ſend a Veſſel with Mr. Morley as ſoon as the ſeaſon opened.

45. Mr. Morley accordingly arrived there on the 1ſt October, when the Nabob, inſtead of adhering to the Treaty he had ſolemnly entered into, or paying any regard to the repeated promiſes he has ſince made to abide by it, moſt baſely and perfidiouſly evaded the ſame, as your Honours may ſee at large in the ſeveral Letters from Mr. Morley and the Nabob, a Copy of all which is tranſmitted under N° 48.

46. On the 21ſt October the Preſident in Conſultation acquainted us, that the Select Committee had taken the whole of this affair under their conſideration; but the voices thereon being equally divided on the Queſtion, Whether immediately to ſend an Armament againſt the Nabob for chaſtiſing him for his baſe and perfidious conduct? or, Whether to wait your determinations on the ſubject? it had been agreed to refer the ſame to our determination. A Copy of the Preſident's Minute is tranſmitted under N° 49.

47. The Brigadier General at the ſame time laid before us a Letter, containing his reaſons for the vote he gave at the Select Committee on this occaſion, as entered in our Diary on the ſame day; a copy of which is alſo tranſmitted in the Packet under N° 50.

48. We deferred till the following day the conſideration of this ſubject, and the whole being then before us, as alſo your Honours ſentiments and opinion on the firſt Expedition againſt the Nabob of Broach, contained in your commands of the 1ſt April laſt, the Majority reſolved, after the moſt mature deliberation, immediately to fit out a ſuitable Armament, to procure ample ſatisfaction for the inſults he had dared to offer to your Honours, and for the baſe violation of every Article of the Treaty he had ſolemnly entered into; in purſuance of which the neceſſary Marine and Military Force was ordered to be got in immediate readineſs, becauſe it was deemed inconſiſtent with your honour and real intereſt to admit of any longer delay. By our Minutes of the 22d ultimo, your Honours will pleaſe to obſerve the whole of our proceedings herein; and the Reaſons aſſigned by Meſſrs. Draper, Watſon, Stackhouſe, Shaw, and Garden, for diſſenting to an Expedition at this juncture.

49. Thoſe Gentlemen addreſſed us a joint Letter on the 30th ultimo, aſſigning their Reaſons at large for their diſſent to the meaſures which were reſolved on, a Copy of which, agreeable to their requeſt, is incloſed in the Packet, under N° 52; and Meſſrs. Fletcher and Taylor the ſame day laying before us, each a Letter, containing their reaſons for voting for the Expedition being immediately undertaken, we incloſe Copies of them under N° 51, for your Honours information.

50. The Brigadier General and Superintendant having tendered their ſervices to command the reſpective departments, which we accepted, and every thing having been prepared with the utmoſt diſpatch that the ſervice would admit, the Veſſels with the Troops on board ſailed from hence on the 2d inſtant; and as the Fleet had arrived at Surat Bar on the 7th, and Mr. Morley in his Letters acquainted us, that the Nabob had not above two thouſand Soldiers in his pay, and thoſe as well as the Inhabitants of the town in general much diſaffected, we therefore have very little doubt, but it would become an eaſy conqueſt, and that in the latter part of this Addreſs we ſhall be able to adviſe your Honours, that the diſcredit which your Arms had ſuffered by the failure of the former Expedition has been amply regained, and that they have been reſtored to that credit in the eyes of the Country Powers which they formerly uſed to hold; and we are in hopes that it will be attended with many other conſiderable advantages, and that the expence which will be incurred by it will be but ſmall.

51. Our inſtructions to Meſſrs. Wedderburn and Watſon, who command the Military and Marine Departments, and whom we appointed for conducting this ſervice, are entered under the 1ſt November, in our outward Letter Book;

Book; and under N° 53. is Copy of the Tranſlate of a Letter the Preſident received from the Nabob, under the 31ſt October, which is couched in the ſame evaſive ſtile as his former ones, and therefore merited no notice.

52. In our Diary is entered, under the 14th July, a Letter from Mr. Morley to the Surat Chief and Council, containing a better account of the Broach Nabob's Forces and Revenues than we have otherwiſe procured; and from this Letter your Honours will obſerve, that the Plea of Inability which the Nabob made uſe of, to evade diſcharging the ſum due by Treaty, muſt have been falſe, and done only with a deſign to amuſe and deceive; we therefore flatter ourſelves you will approve the meaſure we have purſued, more eſpecially as thoſe Gentlemen who diſſented from it were of opinion with us, that ſuch a ſtep would have been really neceſſary, had not the conſtruction they put upon your commands of the 1ſt April laſt, and the other conſiderations ſtated in their Letter, induced them to wiſh to defer it only till what they eſteemed a more proper juncture, and they could have your ſentiments on the whole.

The conduct to be obſerved towards the Nabob of Broach, referred by the Select Committee to the Board.

The Preſident then acquainted the Board, That ſince the Meeting of the 13th inſtant, the Select Committee had conſidered of the advices which have been received from Mr. Morley, containing an Account of the Broach Nabob's deceitful and perfidious conduct; and as the voices were therein equally divided, Whether immediately to ſend an Armament againſt him to chaſtiſe him for his behaviour? or, To wait the Honourable Company's Directions? it had been reſolved therein to refer it to the Board for their determination; he therefore propoſes the following to their conſideration:

The Preſident's Queries reſpecting the Nabob of Broach.

Firſt, Whether our ſitting down quiet with the treatment we have received from the Nabob of Broach, will be for the intereſt or credit of our Honourable Maſters; and if we do, may we not expect to meet with the like treatment from other Powers?

Secondly, It is true the Honourable Court of Directors have ſignified to us their diſapproval of our having acted hoſtilely againſt him at firſt; but now they are adviſed of the Treaty we made with him, do you not think they will expect that he make the ſame good, or that we oblige him to do it, both for their Honour and Intereſt; and that we ſhall be highly blameable, ſhould we ſuffer ourſelves to be thus trifled with, and not reſent it? I am therefore of opinion, that it is both for the Honour and Intereſt of our Honourable Maſters, that immediate ſatisfaction ſhould be taken for ſuch his behaviour, and which, I make no doubt, will be approved by my Honourable Maſters. It is their credit and intereſt I make my motive for urging it, and a better opportunity cannot well offer than the preſent, when moſt of His Majeſty's Squadron will be laying here.

Mr. Wedderburn gives his Opinion on the Meaſures purſued with the Nabob of Broach.

The Brigadier General lays before the Board a Letter aſſigning his Reaſons for the Opinion he gave at the Select Committee, on the Meaſures neceſſary to be purſued with the Nabob of Broach, as entered after this Conſultation.

The Board deeming the above of too much importance to be directly determined on, do agree to meet To-morrow Evening at ſix o'clock, for this purpoſe; and do therefore now adjourn till that time.

APPENDIX. No. 51.

A Letter from the B. General, containing his Reaſons for the Opinion he gave on the Meaſures neceſſary to be purſued againſt the Nabob of Broach.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

As military Men in India have ſometimes been ſuppoſed to be fond of promoting military Enterprizes, more from a love of Glory, or ſelfiſh views, than from any proper conſideration of the Expences neceſſarily attending ſuch undertakings, or a juſt calculation of the advantages which their Employers may expect to reap from their Conqueſts; and as the Preſident has laid before the Board what paſſed at the Select Committee, I think it incumbent on me to ſtate to this Honourable Board my ideas on the ſubject of the Conſultation of the 13th inſtant, and the Reaſons for the Opinion I have given, that fair and impartial Men may judge of my motives.

I reckon it a very lucky circumſtance that I am not ſingular in my opinion of the meaſures proper and neceſſary to be purſued on the preſent occaſion. The Gentlemen whom I have the Honour to concur with, will I believe, be acquitted of ſuſpicion of intereſted views in an Expedition againſt Broach. As to myſelf I declare, I never ſaw, ſince I have been a Soldier, a ſervice that I ſo little deſired as the ſervice againſt Broach; and were it not from a ſenſe of the duty I owe to the Honourable Company, I would rather chuſe to decline than to undertake it.

Every Member of this Board is now ſo well acquainted with Broach, that if 6 or 800 trained Europeans, and twice as many diſciplined Sepoys, were to atchieve the conqueſt and reduction of the place in 24 hours, they would think it might be done in a ſhorter time: If every thing were to ſucceed in the happieſt manner poſſible, little credit would be acquired by the Troops, or by the commanding Officer; but if they were to fail, if their ſucceſs was by any accident delayed ever ſo little, they would be overwhelmed with diſgrace, perhaps loaded with obloquy.

Every thing moſt precious to a Soldier may be loſt on ſuch an undertaking, and there is nothing to be gained. Every Man of Reflection muſt know, that in ſuch an Enterprize, depending on ſo many combined circumſtances, many untoward accidents may happen which no human prudence could foreſee or prevent, and which may overſet the beſt laid Plans, and render ineffectual the beſt concerted Deſigns.

The commands of the Honourable Court in their Letter to this Preſidency, under date the 1ſt April, are ſtated as the principal grounds on which the Opinions are founded that incline to tamely ſubmitting to the groſs and repeated inſults and violations of Treaty on the part of the Nabob of Broach, and to pacific meaſures for the preſent. While I continue in the Honourable Company's ſervice, I will endeavour to be as obedient to the Orders of the Honourable Court as any Gentleman of this Board; but I confeſs, after the moſt attentive peruſal of the Honourable Court's commands of the 1ſt April 1772, I cannot put the ſame conſtruction on them as theſe Gentlemen do, who have voted for pacific meaſures; I cannot perſuade myſelf that the laſt Directors, (who in the whole of this Letter have juſtly laid much ſtreſs on the advantages of local information, and have ſtudiouſly avoided giving ſtrict and poſitive orders in matters of Importance, but have left their Preſident and Council at liberty to purſue ſuch meaſures, as from circumſtances and events, might appear moſt for the Honour and Intereſt of their Conſtituents) could ever intend to iſſue orders in April, which ſhould bind this Board, or influence their conduct in conjunctures which it was impoſſible for them to foreſee, and which have not happened till October.

From the 32d Paragraph to the 38th, I find ſevere cenſure on the paſt conduct of this Board, in the Expeditions againſt the Coolies and Broach. I find particularly in the 34th and 37th Paragraphs, that the Honourable Court is diſpleaſed with the motives upon which theſe Expeditions were undertaken, and diſſatisfied with the reaſons urged by this Board for permitting them to take place. But I muſt confeſs I cannot conceive that the motives upon which theſe Expeditions were firſt undertaken, and the motives which, in my humble opinion, ſhould now impel this Board to proceed hoſtilely againſt the Nabob of Broach, are in any reſpect ſimilar. That the Honourable Court diſapprove and blame reviving old and doubtful Claims upon the Nabob of Broach, in order to frame a pretext for attacking him, does by no means imply that they intend, in the ſituation to which the Honourable Company's affairs are now brought at this Preſidency, that the Preſident and Council ſhould in the preſent circumſtances remain inactive, and tamely ſubmit to the groſs and unparalleled indignity which they have ſuffered from the Nabob of Broach.

I know that Peace is much more for the intereſt of the Company than War; but I believe it will be found true here, as in all other Governments, that the way to avoid War is to be reſpectable. The Honourable Court have done their duty; they have put ſuch a Force under your directions as might make this Government reſpectable in the eyes of all its Neighbours; but they can do no more; the reſt depends on the Governor and Council.

I need not, I am perſuaded, remind this Honourable Board of the behaviour of the Nabob of Broach in April laſt. It cannot be forgotten till it be puniſhed; nor need I make any obſervations on his late conduct; every Gentleman here muſt feel it ſtrongly.

The expences of an Enterprize againſt Broach cannot be conſiderable. The ſucceſs is as aſſured as the ſucceſs of any operation of the kind can be. I have deliberately conſidered the Honourable Company's orders—I know the diſtreſſes we are in for Money—I know the Force that may be employed againſt Broach; and I do not heſitate to declare it to be my opinion, that in the preſent conjuncture, a ſpeedy, vigorous, and ſpirited effort ſhould be made to chaſtiſe the Nabob of Broach for his inſolent, baſe, and perfidious conduct.

I am, with the greateſt reſpect,
Bombay, Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen, 21ſt October 1772. Your moſt obedient, and moſt humble Servant,
David Wedderburn.

Mr. Benjamin Jervis, indiſpoſed.

Draper, &c. deliver a joint Letter, containing their Reaſons for diſſenting to an Armament being ſent againſt Broach.

Meſſieurs Draper, Watſon, Stackhouſe, Shaw, and Garden, who diſſented from the Reſolution of the Board in our laſt Conſultation, on the Meaſures then reſolved to be purſued for obtaining redreſs at this juncture from the Nabob of Broach, now lay before the Board a Letter, containing their Reaſons for their diſſent.

Ordered, That it be entered after this Conſultation.

Fletcher, and Tayler, aſſign their Reaſons for voting for an Expedition againſt Broach.

Meſſieurs Fletcher and Tayler each lay before the Board a Letter, aſſigning their Reaſons for voting for an Expedition againſt Broach being immediately undertaken, which are alſo ordered to follow this Conſultation.

Letter from Meſſ^rs Draper, Watſon, Stackhouſe, Shaw, and Garden, aſſigning their Reaſons for diſſenting to an Expedition againſt Broach.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

The determination of the Majority laſt Council day, reſpecting an Expedition at this juncture againſt Broach, which has been the ſubject matter of deliberation at our two laſt Meetings, being altogether contrary to our ſentiments, we beg leave thus to lay before our Honourable Employers the arguments we there urged againſt the proceeding, and which induced us to diſſent from the other Members on this ſo important an occaſion.

Firſt, Becauſe the Honourable Court of Directors have been pleaſed, in the Paragraphs 34, 35, 36, and 37, of their commands to this Preſidency, dated the firſt of April laſt, not only to declare their total diſapprobation of the motives heretofore aſſigned in the Governor's Minute, and Board's Reſolution, on firſt undertaking the former Expedition againſt Broach, but further add, "that we "ſeem to think blame only due to want of ſucceſs;" thus plainly indicating, that they ſhould have equally condemned that meaſure, had our Arms been ſucceſsful.

Secondly, It was urged by the Gentlemen who voted for the Expedition, that our Honourable Employers did not know the ſubſequent Treaty which had been concluded, and the Broach Nabob's late inſolence and baſe infringement of it, at the time they gave thoſe poſitive orders. This Argument we acknowledged the juſt weight of, but wiſhed to have the Honourable Court's opinion of that Treaty, before we renew Hoſtilities, as they had ſo peremptorily declared the original cauſe of the War "ſo "very unjuſtifiable;" and we muſt again beg leave to remark (as we did before at the Council Board) that although the Honourable Court have, in their ſaid Letter, very ſeverely reprimanded us for the diſgrace brought on their Arms by the failure of this Expedition (of which they ſeem to have felt the full ſtigma) yet, inſtead of directing us to retrieve their Honour, they content themſelves in condemning our proceedings, and us to pay the Expence, and thus, by an implied acquieſcence, ſeemed inclined to ſit down in the diſgrace, rather than proſecute ſuch a War, after having ſo highly diſapproved the Board's original motives for it.

Thirdly, They blame the Board's undertaking the Cooley and Broach Expeditions at a time the Treaſury was ſo low; which cauſe, we are ſorry to obſerve, ſtill ſubſiſts, and if poſſible, renders it to a greater degree injudicious at this juncture, when the Treaſury is not only low, but very much in debt to the Paymaſters for the current Expences of the Settlement, and alſo for the Mocha Supra Cargoe's Bills on us to a large amount; and we are beſides under Engagements to advance three Lacks of Rupees for the Surat Inveſtment, and to ſend a large ſum to the Coaſt Settlements, and little proſpect of any immediate Supplies ſo abſolutely neceſſary for thoſe purpoſes.

It muſt be confeſſed, that the inſolence of the Broach Nabob has of late been very great, and merits chaſtiſement at a proper time, ſhould our Honourable Employers think fit in future to permit or direct it; but it is the allowed maxim in politics of all Nations, and all Governments, to wait the fitteſt conjunctures in every reſpect to reſent injuries, which however atrocious, however daring the offences, it is not always judged needful or proper to reſent on the inſtant, but await ſuch times and opportunities as beſt coincide with the true Intereſts of the Government aggrieved; nor are inſults forgiven, becauſe they are not immediately retaliated, but reſentment reſerved for a proper time and opportunity.

Thus upon the whole, as our Employers are pleaſed ſo ſeverely to condemn the original motives of this War, and therefore ſeem to acquieſce in the diſgrace brought on their Arms rather than proſecute it, we could not conſent to ſuch a ſtep, when our Treaſury was ſo much in Arrear, and this too at a time when a month or two will moſt probably bring us their ultimate opinion and determination relative to the firſt Expedition as well as the Treaty; when we ſhall doubtleſs have their ſentiments moſt clearly and fully expreſſed in anſwer to the very particular advices of both, ſent home by the Ship Dutton; we therefore could not avoid repeatedly urging the Board to defer taking the preſent ſtep, at leaſt till advices were received either by the expected Packet-Boat, or over land; and in this we were the more ſanguine as the number of voices were ſo equal that the Governor's caſting vote alone decided in favour of an immediate Expedition both in the Select Committee and Council; neither would the countenance of His Majeſty's Squadron, which has been ſo much inſiſted on, be loſt by ſuch delay, nor ſhould we be deprived of this, even were we to wait the Honourable Company's fuller inſtructions on the ſubject for another ſeaſon, as we may again expect it here in a year's time; but this, or any other countenance, ſeems the leſs neceſſary from the certainty of ſucceſs expreſſed, as well in the Governor's Minute as in the General's Letter on this ſubject; nor can we pretend to ſay how much this ſtep may affect Mr. Moſtyn's Negociations with the Marattas, who have an important intereſt in the Broach Revenue.

However juſt the Remark made by General Wedderburn in his Addreſs above-mentioned, that no intereſted views can be aſcribed to the three Members of the Select Committee who voted for the Expedition; we flatter ourſelves, it will be admitted at leaſt equally ſo, that the diſſentients voting againſt it at this juncture cannot be aſcribed to any other motive but the attention they on all occaſions wiſh to ſhew to the poſitive Commands of their Employers in caſes where they leave us no latitude, no diſcretionary powers, whatever advantages our local ſituation and information might afford us.

But as the Expedition is then reſolved on, we moſt ardently wiſh it may terminate to the Honour of our Arms, and ſhall be equally ſolicitous with the other Members to co-operate in every reſpect that may render it ſucceſsful and advantageous.

We are, with reſpect,
Honourable Sir, and Sirs,
Your moſt obedient humble Servants,
Daniel Draper,
John Watſon,
Nathaniel Stackhouſe,
William Shaw,
Robert Garden.

Bombay,

Letter from Mr. Fletcher, aſſigning his Reaſons for voting for an Expedition againſt the Nabob of Broach.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Our Honourable Maſters having been pleaſed in their commands of the 1ſt April 1772, to diſapprove of our motives for undertaking the former Expedition againſt Broach, I requeſt the following Reaſons may ſtand upon Record for my acquieſcing in the preſent one; and whatever may be the event, I flatter myſelf, they will appear ſufficient to juſtify me for acting in ſeeming contradiction to their Sentiments on the ſubject.

I will not here pretend to enter into a diſcuſſion of the Motives which firſt led this Board to attack the Nabob of Broach; the meaſures purſued afterwards ſufficiently evince the deſire this Board had to cultivate his Friendſhip, and to live on peaceable terms with him; in conſequence of which a Treaty was entered into, which on our parts has been ſtrictly adhered to, but on that of the Nabob moſt ſhamefully infringed in every particular. Our Reſident has been treated with the greateſt contempt, and every mark of diſreſpect ſhewn to the Engliſh, inſomuch that it appears to me totally inconſiſtent with the Honour and Intereſt of the Company longer to ſubmit to ſuch repeated inſults, which muſt only tend to leſſen us greatly in the eyes of the neighbouring Powers, but is fraught with many ill conſequences too obvious to need being enumerated. The Honourable Company muſt neceſſarily have that confidence in us, to ſuppoſe we can only have their Intereſt in view in an undertaking of this ſort; and however averſe they may be to hoſtile meaſures, I am firmly of opinion, they never would approve of our tamely bearing the inſults by the Nabob, without ſhewing a ſuitable reſentment, merely becauſe they had expreſſed theſe their ſentiments. Circumſtances may be ſuch, as to render it highly improper to be actuated implicitly thereby, of which we on the ſpot can alone be the proper Judges. This appears to me to be the caſe at preſent, and for that reaſon, I give my voice for the Expedition being immediately ſet on foot.

APPENDIX. No. 51.

I am, with the greateſt Reſpect,
Honourable Sir, and Sirs,
Your moſt obedient humble Servant,
Brice Fletcher.

Bombay.

Letter from Mr. Tayler, aſſigning his Reaſons for voting for an Expedition againſt Broach.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

The Reſolution for the immediate Chaſtiſement of the Nabob of Broach, for his late inſolent and perfidious conduct, having been determined ſolely by the caſting vote of the Honourable the Preſident, I ſhall here beg leave to inſert the Reaſons that urged me to vote, as I did, in favour of it.

In the firſt place, his having broke through every part of the Treaty which he voluntarily came here and entered into, under the 30th November 1771.

Secondly, The Language held by the Honourable Court of Directors, in the 9th paragraph of their commands of the 30th June 1769, ſpeaking of an inſult that had been offered to this Board by Viſſajee Punt: The Paragraph is as follows; viz.

" You will ſee by the whole tenor of our Letters to " you and the other Preſidencies, that we are rather jea- " lous of the Maratta Power, yet we have ſought to con- " tinue in peace with them, and to keep up a friendly in- " tercourſe; but if they think fit to take a hoſtile part " againſt us, to ſend you inſulting Meſſages, and to brave " your Port with their Grabs, it is time to take vigorous " meaſures for preſerving that reſpect which we have " hitherto held on your ſide of India. When you wrote " your Letter of the 13th December, giving an Account of " the Maratta Fleet cruizing off the Harbour, and of the " inſolent Anſwer of Viſſajee Punt, you had Ships in your " Harbour more than ſufficient to have deſtroyed his " Fleet, or brought him to a more becoming and expli- " cit Declaration; and when Madarao informed you that " his deſigns were to demand the Chout from the Nabob " of Arcot, preſerving at the ſame time towards the " Engliſh, you ſhould have told him that thoſe two " things were incompatible; that the Nabob of Arcot " was, as he knew, in firm friendſhip and alliance with the " Engliſh, and that any demand made upon him at the " head of an Army laying waſte his country, would be " anſwered by the Engliſh Forces in all parts of India, " who never would ſuffer a People under their protection " to be diſtreſſed and plundered under any pretence what- " ſoever. That Accounts ſhould be ſettled between " their reſpective Agents in the uſual manner, and if any " thing was due from the Nabob of Arcot, your good " offices ſhould be employed in bringing the matter to an " amicable concluſion. This ſort of language, with ſome " vigorous preparations at the ſame time by Sea and " Land, would have been more likely to preſerve Peace " with the Marattas, than the ſilent reſpect with which " you ſeem to have received all their inſults."

Our Force was at that time in no ſhape equal to what it is at preſent; if therefore, they then expected we ſhould have ſhewn ſuch reſentment to the moſt formidable Power in Hindoſtan, what will they not ſay to the ſilently receiving the inſults of a Nabob of Broach, whoſe whole force, by the lateſt advice from Mr. Morley, dated the 18th inſtant, does not amount to 2,000 men, and theſe diſaffected to him from his withholding their Pay, as were his Subjects in general from his tyrannical and oppreſſive government?

Notwithſtanding the Honourable Court of Directors, in their commands of the 1ſt April laſt, are pleaſed to diſapprove our motives for this Expedition, they dwell much on the diſcredit brought on their Arms. Their diſapprobation of our motives gives me much concern, but the circumſtance of the Treaty in my opinion totally changes our ſituation; and were we to ſuffer the infringement of it to paſs without immediate chaſtiſement, we ſhould heap diſcredit on diſcredit.

They

APPENDIX. No. 51.

They are further pleaſed to ſay, the Enterprize afforded no probable proſpect of advantage. Broach is the Key to the rich Kingdom of Guzerat, where moſt of our Europe Inveſtment is provided, and from whence all the beſt Cotton is brought for the Conſumption of India and China. Behind Guzerat lay the extenſive Provinces of Ajenere and Jeſſelmae, which formerly took off a large quantity of our Woollens and other Europe Commodities. By a Letter from the late Chief of Surat, entered on our Diary the 14th May 1771, it appears that the Agents of Futtee Sing, whoſe Capital is Brodar, about 45 miles diſtant inland from Broach, had offered to pay down five Lacks of Rupees, and 125,000 per Annum, provided we would put their Maſter in poſſeſſion of it. By the ſame Letter the Buxey of Surat had offered three Lacks down, and R^{s} 50,000 per Annum. The Honourable the Preſident laſt Council-day produced a Letter of a very late date from the preſent Chief of Surat, acquainting him that Anvor Khan had offered to pay down ſix Lacks. Mr. Morley, in his Letter of the April, entered in our Diary under the 14th July laſt, adviſed that the Nabob's ſhare of the Revenues of Broach amounted to R^{s} 2,95,000 per Annum. Under the 6th inſtant he had received intelligence from the Banicans he had appointed our Brothers, that in their opinion the leaſt Amount the Nabob had in his Treaſury was 70 Lacks of Rupees.

Our becoming Maſters of Broach, ſhould we not keep poſſeſſion of it, may therefore be made a capital advantage of, in obtaining from Madarao the territorial poſſeſſions recommended and expected by our Honourable Employers.

As to the Charge of this Expedition, the Proviſions will not exceed Rupees 29,000, the Freight of Boats will amount to Rupees 6,000 per month. The conſumption of Stores will, I firmly believe, be very ſmall. The Troops muſt be paid whether here or at Broach, and the ſtate of our Treaſury has enabled us to pay the Sepoys going on the Expedition to the end of this month, and to permit of Rupees 30,000 being embarked for the payment of the Europeans; and though our preſent balance may be but ſmall, there is a certain proſpect of its increaſing very faſt, from the late Sale of Veſſels to the amount of

The Honour and Intereſt of our Employers are inſeparable. From the immediate carrying into execution our intentions againſt Broach, I am confident both will be acquired, and I am as confident that the Loſs of both muſt be the conſequence of a delay.

I have the Honour to remain, very reſpectfully,
Honourable Sir, and Sirs,
Your moſt obedient humble Servant,
William Tayler.

Bombay,
26th October 1772.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor and Council of Bombay to the Court of Directors; dated 4th December 1772.

Par. 8. In our Addreſs of the 23d ultimo, we have fully acquainted your Honours with the conduct of the Nabob of Broach, in evading a compliance with every Article of the Treaty which he entered into on the 30th of November 1771, and with the motives which induced us to ſend a ſuitable Military and Marine Force againſt Broach, commanded by the Brigadier-General and Superintendant, to obtain ſatisfaction for the Nabob's baſe and perfidious conduct; and in the cloſe of the ſame Addreſs we informed you, that the Preſident had juſt received intelligence that your Forces had ſtormed and taken the Town on the 18th ultimo, after the Batteries had been only two days open before the place. We have now the pleaſure to acquaint you that we have ſince received a Confirmation of this fortunate event, and the Town is now actually in our poſſeſſion. The loſs in Killed and Wounded would have been eſteemed inconſiderable on this occaſion, had not Brigadier-General Wedderburn been amongſt the number of the former, who was unfortunately killed on the morning of the 14th ultimo, as he was reconnoitring too near the walls of the Town.

9. The Revenues of this place, by the beſt account we are yet able to procure, amount to about ſeven Lacks annually, about one Half of which was collected by the late Nabob, and the remainder by Futty Sing, ſon of the late Damajee, who has already acquainted the Gentlemen in command there, that he expects to receive his proportion as heretofore, reſpecting which we have yet come to no determination; but we have reſolved to keep the new Conqueſt in our poſſeſſion till we can judge of its exact value, or be able to diſpoſe of it in ſuch manner as may be moſt for your intereſt; in purſuance of which we have ſent orders to your Chief and Council at Surat to eſtabliſh a Reſident and Factors there, who are to be ſubject to the orders of the former; and we have directed the Chief to repair thither for ſettling matters upon a proper footing, ordering at the ſame time that Colonel Gordon (on whom the command of the Military devolved upon the death of the Brigadier General) and Mr. Watſon, ſhould return to their reſpective ſtations here with the Forces under their command, except ſuch part as Mr. Price and thoſe Gentlemen may judge requiſite to remain at Broach as a ſuitable Garriſon, on due conſideration of every circumſtance which can affect it. For every neceſſary particular relative to our motives for ſetting on foot this Expedition, our Addreſs of the 23d ultimo, with the papers which accompany it, will fully explain, and your Honours will therein be fully acquainted with the Reaſons aſſigned by Meſſrs. Draper, Watſon, Stackhouſe, Shaw, and Garden, who diſſented from the meaſure, and were for deferring it till what they eſteemed a more proper juncture by the receipt of your Orders thereon. Succeſs however having attended it, and the diſgrace brought upon your Arms by the failure in the former attempt being wiped off, and as we hope it will turn out very advantageous to your Honours, we therefore doubt not but the undertaking will meet with your approbation. We have directed that the plunder and booty taken ſhall be divided agreeable to your orders, deducting firſt the Expences of the Expedition. Upwards of one Lack of Rupees has been already taken in the Durbar, with other things of value; and as it is generally allowed that the Nabob on his flight when the Troops entered the town carried nothing of value with him, and as his Riches are acknowledged to have been conſiderable, we hope that his Treaſure to a much larger amount will be ſhortly diſcovered.

10. Mr. Moſtyn, on his arrival from England, was admitted to a ſeat at our Board, and ſhortly after the receipt of your Commands of the 1ſt of April laſt, he ſet out for Poona, with ſuitable Inſtructions for accompliſhing the points your Honours have in view, by his Reſidence at the Maratta Durbar. He has acquainted us, that Mhada Row and his Miniſters acquieſced in his continuing there as a fixed Reſident, and that in general he had been very well received: He alſo adviſed us that he ſhortly expected an anſwer to your Honours Letter, which we hoped to have received in time to have ſent in the Duke of Cumberland Packet; but Mhada Row's death, which happened on the 18th ultimo, after a lingering illneſs, we ſuppoſe prevented it. He has been ſucceeded by his Brother, Narron Row, and we do not find that any internal diſturbance is likely to happen on this occaſion.

By the laſt advices from Bengal and Madras every thing remained in perfect tranquillity at thoſe places.

Extract of the General Letter to Bombay; 12th April 1775.

43. There is no part of your conduct more reprehenſible than that of engaging, without abſolute neceſſity, in Military Expeditions. The large Sums which have been expended at Broach and on the Cooleys, are an immediate inconvenience to the Company, and the conſequences of your proceedings embarraſſing in the higheſt degree; and after ſucceeding againſt the place, it is mortifying to obſerve, that our affairs are in a much worſe ſituation than they were before thoſe Expeditions were undertaken; as we do not find, that the Charges incurred in conquering the Country, and the Expences of keeping the Conqueſt, are likely to be defrayed from its reſources in a reaſonable time, without oppreſſing the Inhabitants.

44. In your Statement of the Company's Share of the Broach Revenues, we find Rupees 68,659, ſaid to be a Tribute paid by Country Powers. This article wants explanation. We wiſh to be informed what Country Powers pay this Tribute, and by what right, or on what pretence it is collected.

45. The whole of our annual Revenue at Broach, we obſerve, is ſtated at - - - Rupees 2,42,554
The annual Expence at - - Rupees 2,18,584

And the clear Income - Rupees 23,970

46. The Expence of the firſt Expedition was upwards of four Lacks of Rupees, and of the laſt nearly three Lacks of Rupees

47. Although your firſt Expedition againſt Broach was undertaken in 1771, and the place reduced in November 1772, enquiries into that miſmanagement, which claimed your immediate attention, have been prolonged, and your Reſolutions thereon deferred till 1774; and we find, that although a majority of the Council thought proper to appoint a Committee to inveſtigate the Affairs of Broach, the meaſure has not been carried into execution.

48. As the materials and particulars before us are unſatisfactory, and as your Proceedings and Reſolutions thereon are far from being unanimous, we therefore direct, APPENDIX, No. 51.

That a Committee of Enquiry, conſiſting of four, viz, Rawſon Hart Boddam, William Tayler, Andrew Ramſay, and Daniel Crokatt, be forthwith ſent to Broach; and that they be inſtructed to aſcertain, with all poſſible exactneſs, the Produce of the Country, number of Inhabitants, the ſtate of the Manufactures, the fortified Places, the groſs amount of the Revenues, the Company's Share thereof, the Articles from which they ariſe, the mode by which they are collected, the Charges of Collection, the combined Amount or Proportion received by us and Futty Sing from the produce of the Pergunnahs, and that which Cuſtom or Uſage has allotted to the Cultivator of Lands as the reward of his labour; and alſo, what ſecurity the Native has for his property, and what are the modes of adminiſtering Juſtice in civil and criminal caſes.

49. Another object of the Committee's particular attention muſt be, to fix upon a proper Military Eſtabliſhment for the defence of Broach, till the place ſhall be otherwiſe diſpoſed of; and in doing this, due regard muſt be had to its vicinage to Surat, and to the ſuccours which may on Emergencies be afforded from thence, or from the Preſidency, and alſo to the opinion of the Commanding Officer, reſpecting the Force neceſſary for the defence of Broach, and for the protection of the country.

50. The general behaviour of our Servants at Broach muſt alſo be fully inveſtigated by the Committee; and in the execution of this part of their duty, they muſt review the conduct of our Chief and Factors, from the time the place was taken to the preſent period; and report to you, in the fulleſt manner, their opinion reſpecting the management of affairs under every Adminiſtration, change, or alteration which has happened at Broach, and what Regulations may be neceſſary for the collecting of the Revenues, and good government of the place in future, in caſe we ſhould not be able to diſpoſe of our ſhare and intereſt therein for a valuable conſideration in ready Money, or to exchange the ſame for other Territories to our ſatisfaction.

51. It is our pleaſure that the exerciſe of all power and authority, veſted in the Chief and Factors of Broach, be ſuſpended immediately upon the arrival of our Committee of Enquiry; which ſuſpenſion muſt continue till that Committee ſhall return to the reſpective ſtations which they may hold under the Preſidency.

52. In fixing our Military Eſtabliſhment for your Preſidency in the former part of this Letter, we have included every Command and Detachment for your Subordinates; but ſo long as Broach ſhall be in our poſſeſſion, and yield us an adequate Revenue, we permit you to keep a Garriſon in that place, conſiſting of 1,000 Men, over and above the number ſpecified in our ſaid Eſtabliſhment.

Futty Sing each receiving their ſhare of the Revenues, in the proportions they then ſtood, both within the town and territory annexed thereto. In this, there is not to be any difference; agreeable to the above, every thing is to continue. This is the Agreement, ſealed by both parties the 12th day of January 1773, or the 18th of Sheruvel in the 1186th Year of Hegira.

Extract of Bombay Conſultations; the 2d February 1773.

Read the Advices from Broach, with the Tranſlate of the Agreement with Futty Sing, entered under the 28th January.

This Agreement is ſo looſely drawn up, ſo very inconcluſive, and ſo liable in every reſpect to objection, that we muſt much diſcommend their conduct regarding it. Many diſputes touching the Collection of the Revenues will probably ariſe, none of which have they endeavoured to guard againſt; we muſt however, for the preſent, acquieſce in it.

APPENDIX, No. 53.

Extract of Bombay Select Conſultations; the 17th September 1773.

AS the preſent conjuncture by the aſſaſſination of Narron Row, and the acceſſion of Ragoba to the Government of the dominions of the Marattas, appears to us to be favourable for accompliſhing the ſeveral points propoſed by our Honourable Maſters when they fixed a Reſident at the Maratta Durbar, Mr. Moſtyn muſt therefore be directed diligently to attend to every circumſtance that ſhall happen which may appear likely to render the accompliſhment of theſe points leſs difficult, adviſing us accordingly: And as we deem his reſiding at Poona, in the preſent critical ſituation of the affairs of the Marattas, immediately requiſite for promoting the intereſt of our Honourable Employers, he muſt be poſitively ordered not to quit it; which from his Letter before us we fear he intends doing, for we know of no ill conſequence that can reſult to him, even ſhould Poona be attacked by a Foreign Power.

Extract of a Letter from the Preſident and Select Committee at Bombay to the Court of Directors; dated the 12th January 1774.

Par. 2. By the Letters from your Reſident at Poona, which are entered upon our Diary that we have now the Honour to tranſmit, you will be acquainted with the late Revolution there, and the preſent poſture of the Affairs of the Marattas ſo far as we are adviſed of them.

3. On the acceſſion of Ragoba to the Government, whoſe ſituation ſeemed very precarious, we thought it probable that he might make ſome application for the aſſiſtance of the Company's Forces; and as this appeared a more favourable conjuncture for accompliſhing the ſeveral points particularly wiſhed for by you, than any other that may for a long time happen, we gave ſuitable orders to your Reſident on the occaſion; but Ragoba quitted Poona with his Army without opening himſelf on the ſubject.

4. Notwithſtanding the Reſident has plainly hinted to the Durbar at different times the Terms on which you were willing to acquire poſſeſſion of the places pointed out in your Commands, dated the 1ſt April 1772, and has even given them to underſtand that we might be induced to part with Broach, provided ſuitable offers were tendered for it, they have made no Propoſals on the occaſion; and as the acquiſition of Salſette, &c. from the Marattas has been the object principally in view for many years paſt, without any Succeſs in every Negociation with them, we are induced to believe that it will never be obtained by that means, more eſpecially as it does not appear that the Durbar are ſo deſirous of obtaining poſſeſſion of Rajahpore as you ſeem to underſtand; and with reſpect to Fort Victoria, we believe they are perfectly indifferent about it: ſuch being the caſe, and the Reſident adviſing us by a Letter entered in our Diary under the 9th ultimo, that the Affairs of Ragoba wore a moſt unfavourable aſpect, and that his Death or Depoſition was almoſt certain, when our Treaties with the preſent Government may be deemed at an end; and as it was moſt probable that on ſuch an event the whole Empire would be thrown into the greateſt confuſion, as there would in all probability be many Competitors for the ſupreme power; he therefore ſubmitted to us the Expediency of obtaining poſſeſſion of thoſe places pointed out by you by Force of Arms, in caſe of the Death or Depoſition of Ragoba: And, having taken theſe Advices into our moſt ſerious conſideration under the 10th and 11th ultimo, as your Honours will find by our Minutes of that day, we unanimouſly determined, in caſe of the event above-mentioned, to poſſeſs ourſelves of thoſe places by Force, as a meaſure agreeable to your Intereſts, and conſonant to your wiſhes, provided our particular ſituation with reſpect to our want of Money would admit; and in conſequence thereof we then gave ſuch Directions as were then requiſite. But it ſince appears that the Affairs of Ragoba were not in ſo deſperate a ſituation as your Reſident at Poona had apprehended; for it is currently reported that he has taken ſuch umbrage at the Proceedings of the Nabob Mahomed Ally Cawn, particularly in taking Tanjore, that he propoſes either to proceed himſelf, or to ſend his Forces into the Carnatic, of which we have adviſed your Servants at Madras, not as a thing certain, but only as a report very prevalent here.

APPENDIX, No. 54.

Copy of the 22d Paragraph of the Company's General Letter to Bombay; dated 22d March 1771.

THOUGH we are in this inſtance relieved from the fears of an approaching War, we cannot ſuffer ourſelves to be lulled into an improper ſecurity while the French continue to collect ſuch Naval and Land Forces at the Iſlands, as give us reaſon to ſuſpect they are meditating ſome hoſtile deſign againſt our Poſſeſſions in India. You muſt therefore by no means abate of your vigilance and attention, but uſe every neceſſary precaution for the ſafety of our Settlements, and the protection of our Trade on the Coaſt of Malabar.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bombay; dated the 12th April 1775.

53. It is with much concern we learn from your Records, that we are not likely to obtain Salſette from the Marattas by Negociation. We however diſapprove your Reſolution to take poſſeſſion of that Iſland by force in caſe of the Death or Depoſition of Ragoba; and hereby poſitively prohibit you from attempting that meaſure under any circumſtances whatever, without our Permiſſion firſt obtained for that purpoſe.

APPENDIX, No. 55.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bombay; dated 6th April 1770.

Par. 67. THE important point of ſettling our Military Eſtabliſhments in the interval of Peace upon a reſpectable footing, having been under our moſt mature conſideration, we have, with the Advice and Aſſiſtance of Lord Clive, Major-General Lawrence, Major-General Coote, and Colonel Wedderburn, thought proper to adopt the following Plan and Regulations for the Military Eſtabliſhment at your Preſidency; which we direct you to carry into execution as ſoon after the receipt hereof as poſſible.

68. That the Infantry do conſiſt of one Regiment, containing two Battalions of Europeans and two Battalions of Sepoys.

69. The two Battalions of Europeans are to conſiſt in the whole, of Commiſſion and non-commiſſion Officers and Private, of 1,562 Men, excluſive of the Field Officers; and the two Battalions of Sepoys, including Commiſſion and non-commiſſion European and Black Officers, 2,042 Men.

70. That each Battalion of Infantry do conſiſt of one Grenadier Company, and eight Battalion Companies.

The Grenadier Company of each Battalion to be formed of

	1	Captain,
	4	Lieutenants.
	6	Serjeants,

72. Having formed a new Military Eſtabliſhment, as mentioned in the preceding Paragraphs, we require the moſt punctual compliance therewith, which will ſerve as a reply to the 100th Paragraph of your Letter of the 2d of December 1768, reſpecting the Appointment of an additional number of non-commiſſion Officers to the two Battalions of Infantry. APPENDIX. No. 55.

73. As it is very eſſential that the Natives ſhould be kept as ignorant as poſſible, both of the Theory and Practice of the Artillery Branch of the Art of War, we eſteem it a very pernicious practice to employ the People of the country in working the Guns; and if ſuch practice is in uſe with you, we direct that in future you attach European Artillery Men to the ſervice of the Guns which may belong to the Sepoy Corps, and that no Native be truſted with any part of this important ſervice, unleſs abſolute neceſſity ſhould require it.

Extract of General Letter from Bombay; dated the 23d November 1772.

Par. 107. We come now to ſpeak to your Honours of our proceedings in regard to your Military Eſtabliſhment, which is a ſubject of ſo much importance, that it engroſſed our moſt ſerious attention, and was firſt brought upon the carpet in conſequence of a Letter the Preſident addreſſed us in Conſultation the 30th of June, pointing out the great increaſe of this branch of your Honours Expences, and propoſing a Plan for its Reduction, as well in Numbers as by curtailing many allowances which had taken their riſe ſince your Orders have been in force for the obſervance of the Regulations which have been ſettled at Madras in regard to your Military Eſtabliſhment on the Coaſt of Coromandel. You will obſerve by the Preſident's Letter and propoſed Plan, that he deemed your Eſtabliſhment of the 6th of April 1770, in point of numbers, as inadequate of the neceſſary duty of this Place and its Subordinates, and therefore in his Plan he allowed ſuch numbers (but at the leaſt Expence) as he eſteemed ſufficient; his Letter however, with the Papers which accompanied it, will more fully inform you of his ſentiments; a Copy of it is therefore tranſmitted under N° 72, for your Honours information; it is alſo entered after that Day's proceedings, when we determined to concur with the Preſident in every ſuitable reduction; but the ſubject being of ſo much importance, we deferred coming to any Determination till our Meeting on the 8th of July following, on which Day the Brigadier General laid before us a Letter, pointing out the riſe of the Encreaſe in the Pay and Allowances to the Forces ſince the year 1750, and in other branches of Expence in the Military Department; containing alſo his Remarks and Opinion upon the Plan propoſed by the Preſident.

108. At the ſame time Meſſrs. Shaw and Garden addreſſed us a joint Letter, expreſſing their entire acquieſcence in the Preſident's general Idea, for a Reduction in the Numbers and Expence in the Military Department, but propoſing that it ſhould extend ſtill further, ſo as preciſely to quadrate with your Honours expreſs and reiterated Commands on this head of the 6th of April 1770, which you had often ordered to be ſtrictly adhered to; a Copy of their Letter is encloſed in the Packet, under N° 73, and a Copy of that from the Brigadier General, under N° 74.

109. We the ſame day took the whole of this ſubject into conſideration, and after the moſt mature Deliberation and Diſcuſſion, and ſeveral Queſtions being propoſed, it was reſolved, in conſequence of the previous Queſtions being put at the deſire of Meſſrs Shaw and Garden, That your Commands of the 6th April 1770, reſpecting your Military Eſtabliſhment, ſhould be carried into execution as ſoon as poſſible; for it was urged that the then ſituation of Affairs with the Nabob of Broach rendered it very impolitic to pitch upon that period for a Reduction in the number of your Forces; and it was therefore reſolved, that the Reduction determined on ſhould not take place till we might be able to judge of the part the Nabob

APPENDIX, No. 55.

Nabob propoſed to take, as the Brigadier General then gave it as his opinion, that if the Forces firſt were reduced, we ſhould not have it in our power to obtain ſatisfaction from the Nabob, ſhould it be neceſſary or judged proper to undertake it.

110. This reaſon has hitherto prevented our carrying our Reſolution to reduce your Forces into execution; but your Honours may depend that the Reduction ſhall take place as ſoon as poſſible after the return of your Forces hither; and that we ſhall perſevere in reducing every branch of Expence in your Military Department, as well by curtailing all unneceſſary Allowances as otherwiſe, ſo as to bring them within proper bounds.

111. But as the Majority of the Board were of opinion, on the queſtion being propoſed at the deſire of the Brigadier General, that the number of Troops eſtabliſhed by your commands of the 6th April 1770, is inadequate to the duty and protection of this Preſidency and its Subordinates, we therefore beg leave to ſubmit it to your re-conſideration; and take leave to refer you to our Minutes of Conſultations under the 8th July, for the whole of our proceedings on this ſubject, and for the opinion of Meſſrs. Shaw and Garden upon this laſt queſtion; but the abſence of the Commanding Officer, Superintendant, and principal Engineer, prevents our ſending you a Statement of the Number of Men now really neceſſary for the detail of duty for this place and its ſubordinates, as it was our intention to do, though your Honours may depend we ſhall not fail to forward it by a future opportunity.

Extract of the Company's General Letter to Bombay; dated 12th April 1775.

Par. 25. On your Select Conſultations we find the Garriſon propoſed by one of the Members of the Committee of Defence for Bombay in time of War, conſiſt of 14,776 men, beſides Inhabitants, Surgeons, Attendants in the Hoſpitals, &c. which he ſays will render the whole number equal to 20,000: On which we remark, that our whole Force at Madras when beſieged by the French was 1,758 Europeans, including Horſe, Infantry, and Artillery, and 2,220 Sepoys, and alſo about 200 Horſe belonging to the Nabob, who were of no uſe to us; and if the Fortifications of Bombay have been extended ſo far as to require the number ſet down in the Eſtimate to man the works, we have reaſon to lament that any new works have been undertaken, being fully of opinion, that if the old Walls had been left as they ſtood many years ago, the intereſt of the Money, which has been ſunk in Fortifications ſince that time, would have maintained Troops ſufficient to have rendered the place impregnable to the combined Forces of Indoſtan, and to have ſecured it from any attack which the French were capable of making in that quarter.

26. As the Iſland of Bombay is ſmall, and the places where landing is practicable, few, and not diſtant from the town; as the diſembarkation of Troops, Stores, and Artillery is tedious, and the advantage of freſh Troops with cannon over Troops juſt landed from a long voyage without cannon, muſt be very conſiderable; and as a retreat under the guns of the Fort is at all events practicable, we perſuade ourſelves that with a good Field Train, the Troops we have at Bombay will at all times be able to prevent a regular Siege, unleſs a more formidable Enemy ſhould land upon that Iſland than we have reaſon to believe will ever be ſent againſt it.

27. So long as a Britiſh Fleet remains in the Eaſt Indies, we deem it impoſſible for an Enemy, without a ſuperior marine force, to prevent timely ſuccours from being thrown into Bombay if ſuch meaſure ſhould become neceſſary; and ſo long as we maintain our ſuperiority at Bengal and Madras, we ſhall be able to provide thoſe ſuccours on the ſhorteſt warning.

28. It is therefore our order, That our Infantry at Bombay, non-commiſſion Officers included, including alſo every Command and Detachment for the Subordinates, be forthwith reduced to 1,200 Europeans:

That the Artillery Corps do conſiſt of 312 Europeans and no more, non-commiſſion Officers, Bombardiers, and Gunners included:

That the Corps of Black Troops be reduced to 3,000 Sepoys:

That all Black Forces (except the above 3,000 Sepoys) ſuch as Topaſſes, Nairs, Tivies, or of any other denomination, be diſbanded:

That no greater number of European Commiſſion Officers be appointed to the ſaid Black Troops than the Eſtabliſhment ſhall of neceſſity require:

That all Officers who ſhall become ſupernumerary by this reform, do continue to receive their Pay; and that they ſucceed to commands as vacancies ſhall happen, according to Seniority, in their reſpective Corps:

That all European non-commiſſion Officers and Private Men, over and above the ſaid Eſtabliſhment, be ſent to Fort Saint George, or Fort William, according to ſuch Requiſitions as ſhall be made from thoſe Settlements reſpectively, or from either of them, by our Orders.

The Military Force to be ſtationed at Tillicherry is to conſiſt of

1—One Serjeant,
12—Twelve European Centinels,
2—Two Matroſſes,
1—One Tindal,
12—Twelve Laſcars,
1—One Corporal,
6—Six Sepoys,

} To be poſted at Durmapatam Iſland.

And the Military Force to be ſtationed at Anjengo is to conſiſt of

1—One Serjeant,
12—Twelve European or Sepoy Sentinels.

Par. 52. In fixing our Military Eſtabliſhment for your Preſidency, in the former part of this Letter, we have included every Command and Detachment for your Subordinates; but ſo long as Broach ſhall be in our poſſeſſion, and yield us an adequate Revenue, we permit you to keep a Garriſon in that place, conſiſting of 1,000 Men, over and above the number ſpecified in our ſaid Eſtabliſhment.

Extract of Bombay General Conſultations, the 30th June 1772.

PRESENT,

The Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor;

The W° Daniel Draper, Eſquire, David Wedderburn, Benjamin Jervis, John Watſon,
Nathaniel Stackhouſe, Brice Fletcher,
William Tayler, William Shaw,
Robert Garden.

To the W° Daniel Draper, Eſquire, &c.
Members of the Council.

Gentlemen,

Letter from the Preſident, propoſing a Reduction in the Military Eſtabliſhment and Fortifications.

The Expence and annual Loſſes of this Preſidency and its Subordinates, become a ſubject of the moſt ſerious conſequence. The difference againſt our Honourable Employers on cloſe of the books ending 71, was no leſs than Rupees 24,30,329: It behoves therefore to carry into execution every means that can be deviſed for decreaſing the Charges, conſiſtent with the Safety and Defence of the Settlements, and the nature of the Service.

APPENDIX. No. 55.

I have already laid before you a Plan for the reduction of the Marine, and as the ſeaſon is now arrived I deſire it may be taken into conſideration.

I ſhall now give you my ſentiments on ſome other branches of our Expences.

The Honourable Court of Directors in the 68th and 69th Paragraphs of their commands of the 6th April 1770, are pleaſed to direct that the Infantry on this eſtabliſhment do conſiſt of one Regiment, containing two Battalions of Europeans and two Battalions of Sepoys; and that the two Battalions of Europeans are to conſiſt in the whole of Commiſſion, Non-commiſſioned Officers, and Private, of 1,562 Men, excluſive of the Field Officers; and the two Battalions of Sepoys, including Commiſſioned and Non-commiſſioned European and Black Officers, of 2,042 Men. They were not pleaſed in theſe commands to give any directions regarding the Artillery, but in thoſe of the 18th March 1768, they direct it ſhall conſiſt of four Companies, making together 302 Men, including the Field and all other Officers. Theſe numbers make 3,906 Men, excluſive of the General and five Field Officers of Infantry, who added to the above make 3,912 Men.

Our Eſtabliſhment on the Iſland at Surat, Tellicherry, and Anjengo, conſiſts of 7,755 Men, Officers and Private, including 609 Tivees, and 32 Nairs at Tellicherry, and 544 Topaſſes here and at Tellicherry and Anjengo, which together make 1,271. The Infantry, Sepoys, Artillery, and Laſcars, amount to 6,484.

The Honourable Court of Directors in their commands of the 18th March, were pleaſed to declare that the Eſtabliſhment they then ordered was intended for garriſoning the Iſland and ſubordinates; but it is I believe univerſally allowed not to be ſufficient. Our preſent Eſtabliſhment wants no more than 71 of doubling the number ordered by them, and the number actually belonging to the Iſland only being 5,410 Men, exceeds their Eſtabliſhment 1,498. I propoſe therefore to your conſideration, whether a Regiment of Infantry, including the General and all the Field and other Officers, conſiſting of 1,772 men, compoſed of the Europeans, and the Topaſſes doing duty at Tellicherry and Anjengo; a Corps of Artillery, conſiſting of 517 Men, including all Officers, and 209 Laſcars, three Battalions of Sepoys, conſiſting of 2,632 Men, and the 727 Nairs and Tivees at Tellicherry, will not be ſufficient for the ſervice of this whole Preſidency. This Eſtabliſhment will conſiſt of 5,648 Men, whoſe monthly pay will amount to Rupees 57,487. 3. 17. The preſent Eſtabliſhment conſiſts of 7,755 Men, whoſe monthly pay amount to Rupees 77,149. 2. 98. The Eſtabliſhment ordered by the Court of Directors is 3,912 Men, at the next monthly charge of Rupees 47,849. 0. 20. allowing for no Commiſſioned or Non-commiſſioned Officers on the Staff, Surgeons, nor Cadets, whoſe Allowances, Rupees 2,398. 1. 43. added to that ſum, cauſe it to amount to Rupees 52,247. 0. 63. monthly. The Eſtabliſhment I propoſe provides for all thoſe Officers, &c. and 1,736 Men more than that ordered by the Court of Directors, at the additional Expence of Rupees 7,240. 2. 54. per month, it will reduce the preſent Eſtabliſhment 2,107 Men, and decreaſe the monthly pay, Rupees 19,661. 3. 81. many contingent Charges muſt of courſe decreaſe alſo. For your fuller information a Statement is annexed, particularizing the Eſtabliſhment as ordered by the Company. As it now ſtands, and as I propoſe it ſhould be, the annual Amount to the Eſtabliſhment I propoſe, will be Rupees 6,89,852; from whence deducting 2,20,000, the amount of the Pay and Allowances to the Garriſons of Surat, Tellicherry, and Anjengo, as reduced by General Wedderburn's plan, the remaining Charge of Rupees 4,69,844, will fall on the Iſland only, and with Houſe Rent, Oil, and Peon Money, being Rupees 37,370 per annum, will amount to Rupees 5,07,214, for the Pay and Allowances to 3,369 Officers and Private, included under the head of Garriſon Charges.

The Head of Garriſon Charges on Books 60/1 for 3,142 Men on the Iſland, including 381 Peons, and 162 Invalids, amounting to no more than R^{s} 3,03,049. 41.— On Books 70/1, it amounted to R^{s} 8,12,830. 1. 12. for 5,606 Men, including 386 Peons, and 347 Invalids. On cloſe of Books 73, provided my Plan is adopted, it may be expected not to exceed R^{s} 5,60,000 for 4,102, allowing for 386 Peons, and 347 Invalids, in which caſe the difference in our Expences for 1771 and 1773, will be Rupees 2,52,830 per annum; and when it is conſidered that the number of Europeans, Sepoys, and Laſcars, is much greater than it was in the year 1760; that the increaſe of Pay to the Sepoys of every denomination, and addition of Europeans, and augmentation of Black Officers to that Corps, which took place in the year 63 and 69, occaſions the Expence of the numbers now propoſed to be maintained to exceed the Charge, the like number would have been at, till the year 1763, the ſum of R^{s} 70,482 per annum, together with the increaſe occaſioned by Officers of higher Rank, the Staff and additional Pay to Commiſſion Officers of every Rank, which amounts to upwards of R^{s} 88,000 per annum, together with the allowance for Houſe Rent being double what it was in the year 60/1, the Garriſon Charges for the year 72/3 will not exceed (proportionably) what they were in the year 60/1.

I have received certain intelligence that the French have ſent to Europe 3,000 of the Troops they had at Mauritius, and that they were at the Cape the 20th March laſt on their return, on five large ſhips. We need not heſitate therefore at making our Reductions on account of the reports we have heard, of their having intended to tranſport that Force to India; but to obviate any objection that may be made to diſbanding ſo many diſciplined Troops, I propoſe that the Chief of Surat be directed to endeavour to induce the Nabob to take them into his pay under the ſame controul as thoſe in the ſervice of the Nabob of Arcot, in lieu of the Irregulars he now has, and if he declines accepting them, that they may be diſcharged.

The monthly Expence of the Fortifications runs very high, I therefore propoſe, that the Labourers employed thereon, ſhould be reduced to 12 or 1,500 Men, and if poſſible, to lower the Artificers and Labourers Pay under what they receive at preſent.

The Charge of the Storekeeper and his Aſſiſtants, the Engineer, Practitioner Engineers, Surveyors, Cadets, Overſeers, &c. amounts as per accompanying account, to upwards of R^{s} 2,400 per month. I conceive a large Reduction therefore may take place. I am of opinion, the Engineer and Aſſiſtant Engineers, and ſix Cadets Overſeers, are ſufficient for every purpoſe.

The Honourable Court of Directors in their Commands of the 4th April 1767, Paragraph 85, object to 60 Rupees per month being allowed Captain Burr as Director of the Laboratory if it had not been uſual, ſaying, "They will not admit of ſuch innovations."— In thoſe of the 25th March 1768, Para. 159, they direct, that the Salary of £. 300. per annum ſhall be in full of all Allowances on Account of that ſtation. In their commands of the 31ſt March 69, Paragraph 104, they expect and require, that no Allowances be at any time made to their Military, unleſs warranted by their orders, or the practice of their other Preſidencies; and mention, that on Account of the Gratuities added to the pay of their Military Officers, they hoped we had of our own accord withdrawn every extra allowance whatever.

Under the 6th April 1770, Para. 15, they direct the Marine Eſtabliſhment to be adjuſted on the moſt frugal terms poſſible. I ſhall hereafter lay before you ſuch further Remarks as may occur to me on the Reduction of the Loſſes and Expences in general, both here and at the Subordinates.

I am,
Gentlemen,
your moſt humble Servant,
William Hornby.

Bombay,
30th June 1772.

Wedderburn, B. G. David, Letter from, on the ſubject of the Military Expences, and containing his remarks on the plan propoſed by the Preſident, for reducing them.

Extract of Bombay General Conſultations; the 8th July 1772.

The Brigadier General lays before the Board a Letter as entered hereafter, pointing out the increaſe of the expences of the Military Eſtabliſhment at different periods, and containing his remarks and ſentiments on the plan laid before us by the Preſident in our laſt Conſultation.

Shaw, Eſquire, William, and Garden, Eſquire, Robert, joint Letter from, propoſing the Reduction of the Military be made exactly agreeable to the eſtabliſhment ordered by the Honourable Company.

Meſſrs. Shaw and Garden at the ſame time laid before us a Letter, expreſſing their entire acquieſcence in the Preſident's general idea for a reduction in the Military Eſtabliſhment at preſent kept up; but propoſing alſo that the reduction ſhall extend farther than the Preſident's plan, ſo that the eſtabliſhment may preciſely quadrate with the Honourable Company's expreſs commands on this head of the 6th April 1770, which they have frequently directed ſhall be ſtrictly adhered to. Their Letter follows this Conſultation.

Committee of Surveys, Letter from, propoſing ſundry Reductions in the expences of the new fortifications.

The Committee of Surveys lays before the Board a Letter which relates to the new works, and encloſing one from the acting Engineer, propoſing the reduction of ſundry Black Officers and Overſeers at preſent employed thereon; pointing out likewiſe the number of Practitioner Engineers, &c. neceſſary in his opinion to be retained to enable him to carry on the works; both which letters are entered hereafter.

Military. The reduction of it conſidered;

The Board then proceed to conſider the Preſident's Letter and plan for the Military Eſtabliſhment, as alſo the Letters above-mentioned; when a debate ariſing on the reduction in the Military department, Meſſrs. Shaw and Garden deſired the following queſtion might be put: Whether the Honourable Company's reiterated commands reſpecting their Military Eſtabliſhment of the 6th April 1770, ought not to be carried into execution as ſoon as poſſible? Which is reſolved in the affirmative.

and Queſtion put on the occaſion, by the deſire of Meſſieurs Shaw and Garden.

The Brigadier General then deſired the Board would give their opinion on the following queſtion:

Wedderburn, B. G. David, popoſing a queſtion reſpecting the reduction of the Military.

Q. Whether the number of Troops eſtabliſhed by the Honourable Company in their commands of the 6th April 1770, conſiſting of 3,912 men, is ſufficient for the duty and protection of this place and its ſubordinates?

The Majority of the Board of opinion, the Eſtabliſhment ordered by the Company inſufficient.

The foregoing queſtion being put, after mature deliberation, the majority are of opinion, that from the repreſentations from the different commanding Officers, that the Honourable Company's laſt Military Eſtabliſhment of the 6th April 1770, is inadequate to the duty and protection of this Preſidency and its ſubordinates.

Meſſieurs Shaw and Garden of opinion the Company's commands reſpecting the Military Eſtabliſhment ſhould be ſtrictly adhered to.

Meſſrs. Shaw and Garden declare, That they are not competent judges upon this queſtion; but, as the Gentlemen the Honourable Company mention they conſulted upon the occaſion are of allowed military abilities, and as the commanding Officers upon the ſpot, who have the benefit of local information, differ from thoſe Gentlemen, they think it ought to be ſtated to the Honourable Company for their determination; but that until their further directions on this head may be received, their preſent commands ought ſtrictly to be adhered to.

Military. Further reaſons for not immediately reducing it.

It being urged to the Board, that the preſent ſituation of affairs with the Broach Nabob, was ſuch as rendered any reduction at preſent taking place very impoſitie, as the Nabob did not appear to have abſolutely yet determined whether he ſhould fly off from, or adhere to, the Treaty he entered into the 30th November laſt; whereas, if he found we were diſbanding any part of our Forces, he would certainly not make good the firſt payment of two lacks of Rupees, concluding that we had no intention of obliging him to do it by force, the terror of which only may induce him to comply; and the Preſident being aſked, Whether he has yet received an anſwer to the Letter he wrote the Nabob? acquaints us, that he has not, though the time in which an anſwer might have been received, is long elapſed;

The following queſtion is therefore deſired to be put on the occaſion:

Whether, in conſideration of our preſent ſituation with the Nabob of Broach, it is conſiſtent with the Honourable Company's real intereſt, that the reduction reſolved on ſhall immediately take place, or that we ſhall wait till, by the Nabob's anſwer we can come to a concluſive determination on the meaſures neceſſary to be purſued?

Reſolved, That the reduction in the number of the Military on this eſtabliſhment be not carried into execution till by the Broach Nabob's anſwer to the Preſident's Letter, we may be able finally to determine on the meaſures to be purſued with him, as the Brigadier General delivers it as his opinion, that if the forces now on foot are reduced we ſhall not have ſufficient number to obtain ſatisfaction for the inſults the Nabob has been guilty of, if the Board ſhould hereafter reſolve to attempt it.

No more Recruits to be raiſed for the Sepoys.

The General then acquainted the Board, that the battalions of Sepoys want about 140 men of being complete; and deſired its directions whether he was to continue to inliſt.

Reſolved, and ordered, That no more men be inliſted for the Sepoy Corps till further directions.

On conſideration of thoſe parts of the Letter before us which relate to the new works, the following Reſolutions are taken, and directions given:

New fortifications. The number of Practitioner Engineers, and their pay reduced.

As one Aſſiſtant and one Sub-engineer are abſent, to acquieſce in four practitioner Engineers being continued, with a pay of 4 ſhillings per diem each, which is to be in full conſideration of their acting in this capacity; and the allowances hitherto made for Palanquin Coolies and

APPENDIX, No. 55.

Somerade men, muſt be immediately diſcontinued. The four Gentlemen, the acting Engineer recommends as moſt uſeful for this employ are now appointed, and we acquieſce in 12 Cadets being allowed to act as Engineers, with an allowance of two ſhillings per diem on this account, as the acting Engineer mentions it as neceſſary; but no more than this number muſt on any account be retained; and the pay and allowances of all the Practitioner Engineers and Cadets hitherto employed above the number now ſettled, muſt immediately ceaſe.

Sundry Black Overſeers, &c. reduced to the pay of the workmen.

We approve the reduction propoſed by the acting Engineer in his Letter, of ſundry Black Overſeers, Subneſſes, and Officers of Labourers, and direct that it immediately take place; ſo alſo muſt the ſmall reduction he propoſes in the pay of the people, which muſt extend likewiſe to every other office.

Only one Surveyor and three Sub-ſurveyors to be employed in future.

From henceforward there are to be only one Surveyor, and three Sub-ſurveyors, under the Committee of Surveys; and the Preſident appoints Major Burr, Surveyor, as the ſenior Officer.

The number of people employed under the Storekeeper remarked.

Obſerving a conſiderable monthly expence charged in the new Fortification Paymaſter's diſburſements, for a number of people under the Storekeeper of the fortifications, which we are of opinion will admit of great reduction;

Ordered, That the Committee of Surveys make due enquiry, and report their opinion of the reduction which may be made.

The works to be carried on with as much expedition as poſſible.

As our Honourable Employers firſt directed the extenſive fortifications carrying on to be erected, and as they are now in great forwardneſs, we are of opinion it behoves us to cauſe them to be completed with as much expedition as the ſtate of our Treaſury will permit, in order that they may as ſoon as poſſible be eaſed of the heavy expence attendant on carrying them on; it is therefore agreed, that a number of men be employed, not to exceed 3,563, including Officers, Overſeers, Artificers, and Labourers of every ſort, ſex, and denomination; which number the acting Engineer repreſents as neceſſary to carry on the works effectually.

New Fortifications.

Propoſals to be received for making Maſonry, &c. by Contract.

The Committee of Surveys muſt frame a publication, in order that it may be laid before us, for propoſals to be received for contracting for the maſonry of new works, for digging the ditches, and for cutting of ſtone.

Land Paymaſter to prepare an Eſtimate of the Expence of making Sewers.

An Eſtimate of the Expence of making deep arched ſewers for carrying away the filth of the town, muſt be made by the Land Paymaſter, and laid before us.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Letter from the B. General, ſtating the Expences of the Military Eſtabliſhment at certain periods, and analizing the Preſident's propoſed Military Eſtabliſhment.

In order to give you every light in my power upon the very important ſubject of the Honourable the Preſident's Letter of the 30th June, I have the honour to lay before you ſome Statements, ſhewing the progreſs, and the different changes that have been made on the Military Eſtabliſhment at this Preſidency, and ſeparately ſtating many of the moſt conſiderable articles of your Military Expences; that ſeeing where the increaſe is, you may be able to judge where the reform may moſt properly and efficaciouſly be made. To reduce the numbers is the moſt eaſy and the moſt obvious way of reducing the expence, but it does by no means appear to me that it is the moſt advantageous for our Honourable Employers: circumſtanced as the Honourable Eaſt India Company is at preſent, it appears to me, that it is their intereſt, and that it ought to be the conſtant ſtudy and endeavour of their Servants at all their ſettlements, to keep up a reſpectable and efficient Military force at the leaſt poſſible expence. Your Honour, &c. will obſerve I have taken the ſtate of the Troops from the year 1750, as that is the loweſt and the leaſt expenſive eſtabliſhment for theſe twenty years paſt.

In the year 1750-51, the amount of the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges for the Preſidency alone, is Rupees 2,43,551, and the total number of the Troops, including Officers and Non-commiſſioned Officers, is

Europeans - - -	403
Sepoys and Topaſſes -	1,577
	1,980

The number of European Officers at the Preſidency in Auguſt 1750, is no more than 15.

At this period the pay of the Sepoys was as follow:

1 Subedar - -	R° 20	—	— per month.
1 Jemedar - - -	13	—	— D°.
1 Havildar - - -	6	2	—
1 Naique - - -	4	2	20
1 Sepoy - - - -	4	—	—
1 Topaſs - - -	4	—	—

In 1753 the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges at the Preſidency increaſe above the charges of 1751, Rupees 82,437.

The Europeans, including Officers and Non-commiſſioned Officers, are - - - - - - -	823
Sepoys and Topaſſes - - - -	1,871

The number of European Officers at the Preſidency 35.

The increaſe of the numbers above 1750, is,

Artillery - - -	46
Infantry - - -	374
Topaſſes - - -	224
Sepoys - - - -	70
	714

At this period, the pay of the Topaſſes is raiſed to Rupees, 5 per month.

In 1757 the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges are increaſed above the year 1753, Rupees 39,234; this increaſe is not difficult to be accounted for: The numbers are increaſed this year,

Artillery - - -	42
Infantry - - -	122
Sepoys - - - -	224
	388

Houſe Rent is this year allowed to the Officers, half what is now allowed to the Captains and Subalterns. The European Officers at the Preſidency this year are 51; the Non-commiſſioned Officers of the Europeans, and the Officers and Non-commiſſioned Officers of the Sepoys are increaſed this year.

In 1760 the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges are, Rupees 64,211 leſs at the Preſidency than they were in 1757; but the Troops are decreaſed likewiſe.

Artillery - - -	97
Infantry - - - -	382
Topaſſes - - -	265

The Officers at the Preſidency are fewer than they were in 1757; 15.

But it is worthy the attention of this Honourable Board, that though the number of Officers be decreaſed 15, and the Non-commiſſioned Officers and Private Men 934; yet the Military Paymaſter's charges in ſeveral articles were conſiderably higher than they were in 1757. The decreaſe of Rupees 64,211 is about the amount of the nett pay and allowances of the Officers, Non-commiſſioned Officers, and private Men, decreaſed in 1760.

Proviſions at the Out-Forts	56,368	77,402	21,034

Military Storekeeper	135,087	171,151	36,064
Hoſpital Stores	9,721	10,715	994

The pay of the Topaſſes and Sepoys was increaſed

This year	1 Subedar	R$ 5	per month.
	1 Jemedar	3 1	—
	1 Havaldar	1 2	50
	1 Naique	1 —	55
	1 Sepoy	— 3	20
	1 Topaſs	1 —	—

The Caſh received by the Military Paymaſter in 1760, is more than the Caſh received by him in 1757; R$ 119,864.

In 1761, the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges increaſed above the former year 16,906 Rupees, but the Troops increaſe,

Artillery	71
Infantry	58

This year the Topaſſes are leſs than the former year, 213.

The eſtabliſhment is for the firſt time ſettled at two Companies of Artillery, one Battalion of Infantry, and one Battalion of Sepoys, and conſiſted of, Europeans, Officers and Non-commiſſioned Officers included 737; Sepoys and Topaſſes 1,739; 2,476.

In 1762, the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges increaſe R$ 42,258, the Europeans increaſe 130, and the Topaſſes 101. The European Officers at the Preſidency are 64.

In 1763, the Infantry increaſes at the Preſidency 202, the Artillery decreaſes 126, the Topaſſes 141, Sepoys 107. The Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges at the Preſidency increaſe this year R$ 31,957.

In 1764 at the Preſidency the Europeans increaſe 273, the Topaſſes 13, the Sepoys 506. The Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges increaſe more than the preceding year, Rupees 32,221. This year the pay of the Naiques of the Sepoys was raiſed to Rupees 6. 2. 75. per month, and of a Sepoy to Rupees 5. 3. 20. per month.

In 1765 the Europeans at the Preſidency decreaſe 316, the Sepoys 414; yet the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges increaſe this year R$ 29,271: the Hoſpital Charges increaſe R$ 3,223 more than the preceding year. In this year there are 80 European Officers on the Eſtabliſhment.

In 1766, the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges decreaſe at the Preſidency R$ 43,735.

In 1767, the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges at the Preſidency increaſe above the preceding year R$ 46,095; the Houſe Rent, Oil, and Peon money, amounts this year to R$ 4,412. This year the Sepoys pay is raiſed to R$ 6 per month.

In 1768, the Europeans decreaſe 170, the Topaſſes 36; the Sepoys are augmented 376. The eſtabliſhment is ordered by the Honourable the Directors under the 18th March 1768, received here the 29th July following, to conſiſt of nine Field Officers, one Battalion of Artillery, three Battalions of Infantry, and two Battalions of Sepoys; in all, 134 European Officers.

This eſtabliſhment could not be completed till 1769. The Europeans at the Preſidency were then decreaſed 69. The Topaſſes were increaſed 4, and the Sepoys 600 more than 1767. The Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges of this year exceed thoſe of that year R$ 87,906. Houſe Rent, Oil, and Peon money, amounts this year to R$ 12,919; the additional pay allowed to the Officers, to R$ 17,861. The pay of the Topaſs Fifes and Drums was increaſed in September 1768 to R$ 7 per month. In June following, houſe rent was allowed to Field Officers, at the rate of	R$ 80 per month.

Subalterns	20

A third Battalion of Sepoys was raiſed; four European Subalterns were poſted to each Battalion of Sepoys, inſtead of two (as before); and an additional Enſign was appointed to each Company of Infantry in October. In May the pay of the Subedars was augmented to R$ 54. 1. 60. per month.

In 1770, the Europeans at the Preſidency are increaſed 446, and the Sepoys 1,313 more than in the preceding year; the Topaſſes decreaſe 19. From October 1769 to the latter end of May 1770, the Europeans and a Battalion of Sepoys were in camp. In March 1770, the Sepoys were formed into four Battalions. The Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges of the Preſidency are increaſed R$ 2,07,790 more than in 1769. In September and October the Eſtabliſhment was altered, by order of the Honourable Court of Directors, under the 6th April 1770, to a Battalion of Artillery, two of Infantry, and two of Sepoys; ten Subaltern Officers, ten Serjeants, and an European Adjutant, were appointed to each of the four Battalions of Sepoys. In October an allowance was made, by order of this Honourable Board, of 10 ſhillings per day to each of the Field Officers, in lieu of companies.

In this year, Houſe Rent, Oil, and Peon money, increaſes R$ 14,824 more than the preceding year.

In 1771, the Garriſon and Hoſpital Charges increaſe R$ 163,266. The Europeans increaſe 172, and Topaſſes 57; the Sepoys decreaſe 369. To account for which increaſe in the charges, the alterations mentioned above, ſince July 1770, muſt be taken in, together with the increaſes of Houſe Rent, Oil, and Peon money, R$ 9,077 more than the preceding year.

The charge for Peons is this year conſiderably increaſed, from 1,647 Rupees per month to 2,095.

I was much ſurpriſed to find the charge for Peons ſtill under the head of Garriſon Charges, as your Honour, &c. were pleaſed to direct ſome time ago that this charge ſhould, at Surat and Tellicherry, not be included under Garriſon Charges, but be defrayed by the Land Paymaſter. The ſame orders here will eaſe the Military eſtabliſhment of about Rupees 25,000 per annum, which in truth belongs not to it.

I will not take up your Honour, &c.'s time, by a detail of the progreſs of the Military charges at the Subordinates; as your orders of 1771, and ſome late regulations, will probably prevent any increaſe of them in future, which may not eaſily be accounted for.

I ſhall now proceed to the conſideration of the Honourable the Preſident's Letter, and his plan for the reduction of the military expences. It gives me ſome ſatisfaction to reflect that the Letters which I have had the honour to lay before this Board, and which ſtand upon your records, will bear witneſs for me, that ever ſince I have been here, I have endeavoured to retrench every thing that appeared an unneceſſary article of expence in that part of the Military department which was at all under my direction. The increaſe of Officers and Europeans, the increaſe of pay and allowances ordered by the Honourable Court of Directors and this Board, with the increaſe of the numbers and pay of the Black Troops, I believe accounts pretty nearly for the increaſe of expence under the heads of Pay and Allowances. The great increaſe under the heads of Hoſpital Charges and Hoſpital Stores, has already been laid before this Board by the Hoſpital Committee, and ſeparately in a Letter from me under the 21ſt April; but I am afraid the meaſures taken thereupon by your Honour, &c. will not be found to anſwer the end of reducing them as low as can be done. The large increaſes in many other articles on the Military Paymaſter's books, both here and at the Subordinates, can be accounted for, I ſuppoſe, by the Gentlemen who hold now, or who have held the offices of Military Storekeeper, or Military Paymaſter.

The Honourable the Preſident did me the honour to ſhew me a draft of this Letter ſome days before laſt Council-day; and I took the liberty to ſubmit to his conſideration ſome obſervations that occurred to me on reading it.

I ſuppoſe the ſame reaſons which induced this Board, notwithſtanding the orders of the Honourable Court of Directors of March 1768, to increaſe the Eſtabliſhment, by ordering a third Battalion of Sepoys to be raiſed, ſubſiſt ſtill; and, in my humble opinion, the reaſons for keeping up three Battalions of Sepoys for the ſervice of the Preſidency only, as ſet forth in a Letter from me, under the 7th October 1770, and in a Minute of Conſultation under the 26th of the ſame month, are ſtill in full force.

The following analyſis of the Honourable Preſident's Eſtabliſhment, which I had the honour to lay before him, will enable this Board to decide whether it be adequate to the ſervices required from it or not.

	484 deficient in the propoſed Plan.

The Minute of Conſultation under the 26th October 1770, which I had the honour to point out to the Preſident, is in theſe words: "We entirely concur with the "General, that the number of Sepoys ordered by our "Honourable Maſters, is by no means ſufficient for the "Eſtabliſhment; on the contrary, it appears evident, "that the ſecurity of the Iſland alone requires three "Battalions; and ſhould the new arrangements which he "propoſes in the Garriſons of Surat and Tellicherry take "place, a fourth Battalion will be abſolutely neceſſary." Reſolved therefore, &c. The Members now at the Board, who were preſent at this Conſultation, are the Honourable the Preſident, Meſſrs. Jervis, Watſon, Stackhouſe, Fletcher, and Tayler.

The arrangement that I propoſed in 1770 has actually taken place, and employs one Battalion of regular diſciplined Sepoys inſtead of the Irregulars that have been diſcharged, a reduction therefore, nearly equal to that of a Battalion, has taken place ſince I have been here.

The Honourable the Preſident has not been pleaſed to aſſign the reaſons why his opinion of the number of Troops indiſpenſably neceſſary for the duty of this Iſland and the Subordinates, is now ſo widely different from what it was in October 1770, or in September 1769; he ſays, "That he has received certain intelligence, that the "French have ſent to Europe 3,000 of the Troops they "had at the Mauritius, and that we need not heſitate to "make our reduction on account of the reports we have "heard of their intending to tranſport that force to "India." This argument would be concluſive for a reduction, if any augmentation on the intelligence of the French having ſent out a force to the Mauritius, but on the contrary, at that time the eſtabliſhment was actually lower in numbers than it was in the two or three preceding years.

The eſtabliſhment of 1770, with the reaſons of this Board for keeping up a much larger number of Troops than were ordered by the Honourable Court of Directors in their commands of the 6th April 1770, were ſubmitted to their conſideration in 1770, by the ſhips Greenwich and Admiral Pocock, and their directions upon them may now be daily expected. This alone, without any other conſideration, would induce me to be of opinion, that any reduction of the Troops ſhould be poſtponed till their orders arrive. I muſt ſuppoſe the Governor and Council, in October 1770, very deliberately weighed and conſidered their ſituation, and the ſervices required of the Troops, and were perfectly convinced of the indiſpenſable neceſſity of the numbers they ordered to be kept up, before they ventured to deviate ſo very widely from the poſitive commands of their Honourable Maſters of the 6th April 1770, reſpecting their Military eſtabliſhment. For my own part, I avow the opinion I gave in October 1770; I have reconſidered it with much attention, and with the advantage of being better acquainted than I was at that time with the duty to be done, and the ſervice required of the Troops, and I do not heſitate to ſay, that I ſee no one reaſon to alter it. I ſhould have been glad that the Honourable the Preſident, in juſtification of this Board for having deviated in October 1770 ſo widely from their Honourable Maſters orders of the 6th April 1770, and for having ſo long continued ſo heavy, and (as he ſeems to think) ſo unneceſſary an expence as their preſent Military Eſtabliſhment, would have been pleaſed to point out any one alteration in the ſituation of the Honourable Company's affairs here or at the Subordinates, that evinces that a ſmaller Military Eſtabliſhment is neceſſary now than was in 1770.

It appears by the Returns, that the total numbers of the eſtabliſhment for the Preſidency and the Subordinates in 1769, were 7,813; of 1770, 8,474; and in 1771 it was reduced to 7,154.

By the late Colonel Pemble's Letter of the 21ſt March 1769, it appears that it is his opinion, "that a body of "Sepoys, not inferior to 3,000 Men, will be at all times "neceſſary for the ſervice of this Garriſon only, but "ſhould we at any time be engaged in a war, a far greater "number will no doubt become neceſſary." In a Letter under the 28th September 1769, he gives further reaſons for augmenting the corps of Sepoys to 3,000 Men for the ſervice of this Garriſon only, and recommends it in very ſtrong terms. The Minute of Conſultation under the 29th September, on that Letter, is, "Read a Letter, "as entered hereafter, from Colonel Pemble, which being

" maturely conſidered, the following Reſolutions are taken " thereon:

" Notwithſtanding we could wiſh in the preſent ſcar- " city of money, to diminiſh inſtead of increaſing our " expences, yet as for the reaſons aſſigned by the Colo- " nel, it appears indiſpenſably proper to keep upon the " Iſland the full number of Sepoys which he recom- " mends, &c."

At this Conſultation there were preſent of the Members of Council now at the Board, the Honourable the Preſident, Meſſrs. Jervis, Stackhouſe, and Fletcher.

I cannot perſuade myſelf that the diſgraces the Honourable Company's arms ſuffered on the Malabar Coaſt, and the being foiled in our late attempt to take Broach, have raiſed our military character in the eyes of our neighbours; I have heard that the Country Powers in general, and the Marattas in particular, have loſt the high opinion which they once entertained of the irreſiſtible force of Britiſh arms, to which, more than to numbers, the Honourable Company owe their valuable acquiſitions in India. Of this the behaviour of the Marattas laſt year at Surat, and the daring violation of Treaty in the Nabob of Broach, are, in my humble opinion, ſtrong proofs: But if the Honourable the Preſident, who from his correſpondence with the country Governments muſt know better than any body, will ſay, that he knows the military character of the Britiſh nation is more reſpectable, and in higher eſtimation with the Powers of Indoſtan now, than it was four, five, or ten years ago, I ſhall think it one very good reaſon for an immediate and conſiderable reduction of the Military Eſtabliſhment; but if the reverſe ſhall appear on enquiry to be true, you will find by experience that a diminution of that opinion muſt be made up, by an increaſe of numbers, and an improvement of diſcipline.

As to the Honourable the Preſident's propoſal, that the Chief of Surat be directed to endeavour to prevail on the Nabob to take the Sepoys you may think proper to reduce into his pay, under the ſame controul as thoſe in the ſervice of the Nabob of Arcot, in lieu of the Irregulars he now has, the arguments already uſed againſt a diminution of your military force apply equally ſtrong againſt this propoſal; but ſuppoſing you ſhould reſolve to reduce one entire Battalion of Sepoys, the negociation with the Nabob of Surat, and the ſettlements of the conditions upon which this body of Troops is to enter his ſervice, appears to me replete with difficulties. The Sepoys, accuſtomed to regular monthly payments here, will ill brook an arrear of ſeven or eight months in every twelve, which I believe is the mode of payment in the Mogul Governments; they will mutiny or they will deſert; at Madras I believe the Governor and Council ſtand guarantees for the payment of the Sepoys in the Nabob's ſervice that were put into it by them; certain diſtricts or certain revenues are appropriated for this purpoſe, which are, as the Sepoys, under their controul. Can ſuch an appropriation be made at Surat? Will the Nabob be induced by any means to conſent to it? Will he diſmiſs the Officers and Sepoys, who being paid by him, depend upon him only, and are attached to him? Will he in their room take Sepoys, who being paid by you, depend upon the Company, and are attached to them? Can his revenues afford this charge? Will diſciplined Sepoys preſerve their diſcipline, and do their different duties that the Nabob's Sepoys are now employed upon? But ſuppoſing all theſe difficulties ſolved, is the Nabob of Surat at all in ſimilar circumſtances with the Nabob of Arcot? The Nabob of Surat's Troops were reduced to barely what ſeemed neceſſary for his perſonal ſecurity and the police of the town, in the chiefſhip of Mr. Hodges. I believe the Nabob of Arcot is able to ſupport a conſiderable Army. Can your Sepoys ſent to Surat be of any uſe to the Preſidency? Can you remove them from hence and employ them elſewhere, without endangering the ſafety or the good government of the town? But there ſeems to me one difficulty ſtill: Have the Governor and Council power to permit Britiſh Officers and Non-commiſſioned Officers to enter into the ſervice of the Nabob of Surat, without the previous conſent of the Honourable Company? If upon trial it ſhould be found impracticable to perſuade the Nabob of Surat to take what may be deemed the Supernumerary Sepoys into his ſervice, I know nothing elſe that can be done with them but to take the Officers and Non-commiſſioned Officers, and private Men, out of the four Battalions that are the moſt advanced in years and the leaſt fit for active ſervice and to diſcharge them; but it would be incompatible with juſtice and humanity to ſend away people to ſtarve, who had devoted the beſt part of their lives to the Company's ſervice, or had diſtinguiſhed themſelves in it. I ſhould therefore ſuppoſe that your Honour, &c. would think it right to give them penſions equal perhaps to half their preſent pay; this will amount to about 3,000 R' per month, allowing that they ſhould not all be entitled to penſions. Add to this the pay and allowances of the European Officers, and the pay of the European ſerjeants, which by the Honourable the Preſident's plan are to be reduced, but whoſe Pay and Allowances muſt be continued to them, at leaſt till the Honourable Company's pleaſure be known concerning them, which amounts to R' 1,10,363. 1. 12. The Honourable the Preſident's plan for the reduction of the Sepoys will only be a ſaving of about 32,027 Rupees per annum to the Honourable Company; the Sepoys that are kept up will be much worſe, and they will be deprived of the ſervice of one complete Battalion.

That the Sepoys will be much worſe by the reduction which the Honourable the Preſident propoſes, by the European Officers and Non-commiſſioned Officers in each Battalion, I believe, upon the authority of Lord Clive, General Lawrence, General Coote, General Caillaud, General Carnac, and Colonel Pemble, Officers who had conſummate experience of theſe Troops, and who performed much good ſervice to the Honourable Company with them. But the orders of the 6th April 1770, are ſo preciſe and poſitive reſpecting the appointment of European Officers and Non-commiſſioned Officers to each Battalion of Sepoys, that though exigencies of the ſervice might juſtify, and even render praiſe-worthy, a deviation from our Honourable Maſters commands in point of numbers, yet I could not venture, for my own part, to alter an eſtabliſhment which had received the ſanction of the approval and recommendation of theſe Officers. Beſides, I muſt again aſk, why were theſe Officers appointed in 1770? or, why are they leſs neceſſary now, than they were then?

Some time ago I propoſed to this Honourable Board, that four Subneſſes per Battalion ſhould be diſcharged, becauſe I thought a head Subneſs and five others ſufficient for the buſineſs of one Battalion; but I cannot concur with the Honourable the Preſident in thinking one head Subneſs and three others ſufficient, unleſs a better ſort of Purvoes or Portugueze be employed, to whom you muſt of courſe give an advanced pay. The reduction of two Watermen per Battalion, which the Honourable the Preſident propoſes, is ſo very inconſiderable, that I ſhould hardly have troubled your Honour, &c. with a remark upon it; but when Sepoys are ſent upon ſervice, two Watermen per Company are as few as ought to be ſent; and they are of a particular caſt of people very difficult to find here.

In the Honourable the Preſident's State of the Artillery, there is one Captain leſs than the eſtabliſhment; in the reſt there is very little difference except in the reduction of 108 gun-room Laſcars, which perhaps may be done without any great immediate hurt to the Service; but the ſaving to the Honourable Company will be very trifling, only 6,480 R' per annum, and theſe trained Laſcars are exceedingly uſeful upon ſervice, I am informed, and it requires a conſiderable time to render them ſo; but even from this inconſiderable ſum of 6,480 R' ſome deductions will be to be made for penſions, which I ſuppoſe your Honour, &c. will think it right to grant to ſome of them that have been long in the ſervice.

As for the Honourable the Preſident's propoſal for the reduction of the Infantry, I have only to obſerve, that as it now ſtands, it is exactly conformable to the Eſtabliſhment ſettled by the Honourable Company's orders of the 6th April 1770, excepting 9 Serjeants, 9 Corporals, 23 Drummers, and 59 private Europeans.

The Non-commiſſioned Officers and Drummers are alſo moſtly there, but I do not know that there has been any application for leave to keep more than were ſettled by the laſt Eſtabliſhment for that Garriſon. As to the ſupernumerary Europeans at preſent upon the Eſtabliſhment, they are to be accounted for in no other way that I know of, than that more Recruits have been ſent out in the courſe of laſt ſeaſon than were neceſſary to complete the Eſtabliſhment. As to the Topaſſes at the Preſidency, which the Honourable Preſident by his plan propoſes to reduce, I ſhall only obſerve, that from the firſt time I ſaw them, I thought them very uſeleſs Troops; I was confirmed in this opinion by a Letter from the late Colonel Pemble, of the 21ſt February 1769, and mentioned a reduction of them to the late Preſident, who ſtrongly objected to it, and referred me to what was ſaid of them by this Honourable Board in the Conſultation under the 28th March 1769. If the Honourable Preſident had not prevented me, I did intend addreſſing this Honourable Board for leave to diſcharge ſuch of the Topaſſes as could not ſerve for R' 6 per month. But if the whole Topaſſes at the Preſidency ſhould be diſcharged, it would be no great loſs to the Honourable Company's ſervice, though I fear it would add conſiderably to the liſt of Penſioners.

The ſame reaſons which hinder me from concurring with the Honourable the Preſident in his plan for the reduction of the European Officers of Sepoys, appear to me equally good againſt the reduction he propoſes in the Officers of the Infantry.

I am ſorry I cannot concur with the Honourable the Preſident, in his plan for reducing the monthly expence of the new Fortifications, by decreaſing the number of Labourers and Artificers employed thereon; the works are at that point now, that the beſt thing that can be done for the intereſt of our Honourable Employers, as well as for the defence and ſecurity of the place, is to have them finiſhed with the leaſt poſſible loſs of time.

I beg leave to acknowledge to your Honour, &c. that part of the increaſe of the charges of the Overſeers on the new Fortifications was owing to my advice to Colonel Keating: I found ſome of the beſt Non-commiſſioned Officers in the Artillery employed as Overſeers on the new works; I adviſed Colonel Keating to ſend them back to the Artillery, where their ſervice was much wanted, and to employ Cadets in their room; I likewiſe adviſed him to diſmiſs as many Black Overſeers as there were Cadets, and to employ them in their room. This I did, becauſe I thought young Gentlemen ſent out to ſucceed to Commiſſions, were more to be depended on than any other Overſeers whatever, and becauſe they would be employed; and the addition of their pay as Overſeers, to their pay as Cadets, would enable them to ſupport themſelves like Gentlemen, which on their Cadets pay alone they could hardly do. But the appointment of the Practitioner Engineers took place before I was allowed to interfere in any ſhape with the new works. The principal Engineer uſed from civility to tell me, that the Honourable the Governor had agreed to the appointment of ſo many Practitioner Engineers, and ſhewed me the liſt of thoſe Officers he intended to recommend to him: Of the whole liſt, I do not recollect to have mentioned but two Gentlemen to the principal Engineer ſince the ſuperintendance of the new works was put under the Committee of Surveyors. Mr. Tayler aſked me to recommend Enſign Carpenter to the Honourable the Governor, in room of Lieutenant Wall, who was gone to Europe; as there were too many already, I anſwered, it was out of my power, and the Committee of Surveys had reſolved to apply to the Governor to reduce the number. A few days afterwards, Captain Nelſon came to inform me, that he had received an order from the Honourable the Governor to employ Enſign Carpenter as a Practitioner Engineer.

I cannot but applaud the determination of this Honourable Board on the 29th September 1769, who, though there was then a great ſcarcity of money, yet determined to increaſe the Sepoys to the number they thought neceſſary for the duty and ſecurity of the Garriſon only. I agree with the Honourable the Preſident, that the annual expences and loſſes of the Preſidency and the Subordinates is become a ſubject of the moſt ſerious conſequence, and deſerving the utmoſt attention of this Honourable Board; but I cannot think a reduction of the neceſſary expences (for ſo upon the authority of this Board, and my own I muſt think the pay of the Troops and the Labourers) the firſt point at which a reform ſhould begin.

Your Honour, &c. will obſerve, by an inſpection into the Military Paymaſter's Ledger for ſome years back, that there is a great increaſe in the Money that paſſes through the hands of the Military Storekeeper. In the year 1751, the Military Storekeeper is debited on the Ledger R' 3,759; in the year 1760, R' 1,7',151; in the year 1770, R' 1,95,714; and in the year 1771, R' 2,55,063. From the year 1760, the Hoſpital Charges, excluſive of Hoſpital Stores, increaſe as follows:

1763	-	-	-	17,104
1765	-	-	-	21,939
1766	-	-	-	25,332
1768	-	-	-	26,019
1769	-	-	-	32,522
1771	-	-	-	60,951.

The increaſe of the numbers of the Troops will unqueſtionably increaſe the Charges of the Hoſpital; this cauſe, with the extenſion of the works, will increaſe the expences of the Military Storekeeper's office. I have in a former Letter repreſented to your Honour, &c. that I did not think upon enquiry, that the increaſe of Hoſpital Charges could be accounted for by the number of the Troops. As to the Military Storekeeper's Charges, they are ſo blended with the Military Paymaſter's, that it is difficult for any perſon not daily converſant with theſe accounts, and impoſſible for the ſhort time I have had for this Letter, to ſeparate and ſtate the progreſs and cauſes of their increaſe to your Honour, &c. With all ſubmiſſion, I apprehend, that the Military Storekeeper's office is now arrived to ſuch magnitude, that it would be proper it ſhould be ſeparate from the Military Paymaſter's Department; that he ſhould make his own drafts upon the Treaſury, and deliver his accounts to the Board, in the ſame manner as the other Offices do.

The Honourable the Governor promiſes he will hereafter lay before the Board ſuch further remarks as may occur to him on the reduction of the loſſes and expences in general, both here and at the Subordinates. I am perſuaded that this will be attended with the beſt effects to the ſervice and intereſt of his Honourable Employers, and it will much redound to his own honour and credit; and, when he has leiſure to go into a minute and circumſtantial examination of the progreſs of the expences in the different Offices at the Preſidency and Subordinates, I doubt not, from his experience and knowledge of the Company's buſineſs, but he will be able to make ſuch reductions of the expences as will be a conſiderable annual ſaving to the Company, without being driven to the neceſſity of that deſperate ſtroke of almoſt ſtopping the Fortifications in their preſent ſtate, and diſbanding the Troops who have been ſo often judged indiſpenſably neceſſary for the ſecurity of the Company's important poſſeſſions here.

I have the honour to be,
with great reſpect,
Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,
Your moſt obedient, and moſt humble Servant,
David Wedderburn.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Letter from Meſſrs. Shaw and Garden, propoſing, that the reduction of the Military Eſtabliſhment exactly quadrate with the Honourable Company's expreſs commands.

From the great importance of the plan laid before you laſt Council-day in the Honourable the Preſident's Letter, for reforming our Military Eſtabliſhment, and reducing as much as poſſible our other amazingly increaſed expences, we deem it incumbent on us to ſay, we not only entirely acquieſce in the Governor's general idea on the abſolute neceſſity of ſuch a meaſure, but take the liberty humbly to offer our particular ſentiments on the mode and extent of thoſe reductions, which, with regard to the Troops, we beg leave to propoſe to the Board, be carried ſtill further than the Governor's plan, and ſo as to quadrate preciſely with the expreſs and reiterated commands of our Honourable Employers, reſpecting their Military Eſtabliſhment. And this we are the more ſanguine to ſee carried into execution, as our preſent inevitable current expences we find (from the late Calculate for the year laid before us) ſo exceedingly ſurpaſs our own reſources, that we ſhall be neceſſitated every ſeaſon, whilſt they continue, to make large drafts from the Bengal Revenues, which it behoves us to put a ſtop to, as far as may be, by every means in our power; and this reduction of our Forces can certainly never take place at a more favourable juncture than the preſent, when (as the Governor is pleaſed to obſerve) our certain intelligence of the French having ſent home ſo many of their Troops from the Iſland ſufficiently demonſtrate their pacific intentions.

On the moſt accurate examination of all the Honourable Company's late commands on the ſubject of Military arrangements, we find, that many months after the acknowledged receipt of Colonel Campbell's plans of the preſent increaſed works of Dungaree, &c. and his (Colonel Pemble's) and the then Engineer's opinion of the Troops requiſite to garriſon the ſame both in Peace and War, they have on due deliberation, and after many Conſultations with a Board of able Officers, adopted the Plan laid down in their commands of the 6th April 1770, for their Eſtabliſhment on this ſide India, to which they have enjoined the moſt punctual obedience: and although all thoſe opinions and plans tranſmitted hence had doubtleſs been laid before a Board of Officers, and notwithſtanding Brigadier General Wedderburn's ſubſequent repreſentation in October 1770, and the Governor and Council's approbation of the ſame in their Letter under the 3d December following, had alſo reached the Honourable Court of Directors, yet after this they are pleaſed, under the 3d June 1771, abſolutely to condemn ſuch deviation from their fixed plan, and expreſs their diſapprobation of the ſame in the following terms: "Though the diſregard "you have ſhewn to our orders, and the encroachment "you have made on our authority, would juſtify our "ſevereſt diſpleaſure, yet we ſhall here only expreſs our "condemnation of your conduct herein, but at the ſame "time muſt appriſe you, that any future deviation from "our preciſe and poſitive regulations in reſpect to our "Military Eſtabliſhment, will be attended with the ut"moſt effects of our reſentment:" And to much the ſame purpoſe they write in other paragraphs of thoſe very commands. As we are their Servants therefore, and they are thus expreſs in their orders, and as all apprehenſions from the French ſeem at an end for the preſent, we are of opinion that after ſuch deliberate and reiterated directions, we ſhould not deviate from the rule they have thus been pleaſed to preſcribe, more particularly as on a retroſpect to former times, we find that the duty of the Garriſon and Subordinates was long, and till very lately, carried with much inferior numbers in proportion, even when the increaſed extent of our work is conſidered; and this opinion Mr. Shaw expreſſed to the Preſident when he had the honour of converſing with him twice or thrice on this ſubject, previous to the delivery of his Letter and Plan. As we pretend not however to a perfect knowledge of the detail of duty, we beg leave to recommend, that ſhould the Committee of Defence (appointed in caſe of an actual attack) deem this eſtabliſhment inſufficient, they be directed to form one for Peace and another for War, on the moſt accurate and economical plan poſſible (with their reaſons at large, and all the needful detail of duty) to be ſent to the Honourable the Court of Directors by the firſt opportunity, for their further obſervation and inſtructions thereon; but in the mean time it is our opinion, and we move, that their orders be carried into execution as ſoon as poſſible.

In reſpect to the Fortifications (as thoſe extenſive works are intended to be completed) we think the ſooner they are finiſhed the better, for many reaſons: Firſt, the ſame Surveyors, Sub-ſurveyors, Storekeepers, and Aſſiſtants, Practitioner Engineers, Cadets, and Overſeers (whoſe allowances make a capital figure in the expences of the works) however the Board may be pleaſed to reduce them, may ſtill be able to attend to ſuch a number of men on each work, as will be neceſſary to carry it on with all the expedition which the nature of that ſervice, and the ſtate of our Treaſury can admit; and the works completed will thus in caſe of an accident be better capable of being defended, and run leſs to ruin when finiſhed, than if any part of them remains imperfect.

On the late conſiderable reduction of pay to the Labourers which we moved for, we alſo propoſed a further one might take place as ſoon as poſſible, as well regarding them as Artificers in general, which we ſhall be very happy to ſee effectually carried into execution, and equally ſo to reduce the Marine Eſtabliſhment, as we ſhall at all times to concur with the Honourable the Preſident and the Board in every other propoſal that may be offered, tending to the intereſt of our Honourable Employers.

We are, with due reſpect,
Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,
Your moſt obedient and moſt humble Servants,
William Shaw,
Robert Garden.

APPENDIX. No. 56.

APPENDIX, No. 56.

Bengal Secret Conſultations, 9th October 1775.

TO form a proper judgment of the motives which guided the Government of Bombay at this juncture, it will be neceſſary to be acquainted with the views of the Honourable Company in that Settlement.

The ſafety and acceſſableneſs of the Harbour of Bombay at all ſeaſons of the year, together with the vicinity of the Marattas, and particularly to one of the paſſes through which the whole of the country above the Gauts might be ſupplied with the articles of England, ſeem chiefly to have engaged the attention of the Company in the acquiſition of this Iſland; their ſpeculations were perfectly juſt, as Woollens and the other ſtaples of England are diſpoſed of at Bombay, and the markets which it ſupplies, to the amount of 14 Lacks annually.

Beſides this, the conveniency of the Harbour has ſecured to the Engliſh, and thoſe who trade under their protection, almoſt the excluſive trade in Indian Commodities with the country of the Marattas, as well as in the Cotton with which Bengal and China is ſupplied; the whole bringing in an annual profit to the Company in Cuſtoms of above 3½ Lacks.

The influence which the Company have in the Government of Surat, not only enables them in a great meaſure to give a conſiderable check to the commerce of the European Nations already eſtabliſhed there, but, if well exerted, to prevent any others from interfering; a power more valuable, as Surat is, next to Bombay, the chief mart for the vend of ſtaples, the entire monopoly of which is their great and leading commercial view in the Weſt of India.

For a conſiderable time Commerce alone engaged the attention of the Company at Bombay, but the conſtruction of the Docks, and the excellent Timber, with the number of Artificers readily procurable there, gave it a conſequence in a Military light. Nothing more need be ſaid of this than the teſtimony of Commanders of His Majeſty's Squadrons; and indeed the utter impoſſibility of proper repairs elſewhere ſerve to convince, that, to the Docks at Bombay, and the ready aſſiſtance found there, was chiefly owing our ſuperiority at Sea in this quarter of the globe during laſt War.

Senſible of the importance of theſe objects, and of the defenceleſs ſtate in which Bombay was, the Honourable the Court of Directors in the year 1768 ſent out Colonel Campbell to inſpect the ſtate of the Fortifications, with poſitive orders implicitly to follow his plan; and knowing alſo the inadequacy of our Garriſon to the defence of the place, they very conſiderably enlarged our Military Eſtabliſhment.

Previous to this, the expences of Bombay exceeded its Revenues; but this great increaſe they were ſenſible muſt diſtreſs the Government there for means to defray them, and furniſh their inveſtments for Europe and China: Knowing alone that a territorial acquiſition could alone furniſh a Revenue equal to the neceſſities of that Settlement, they lay down a ſyſtem for the attainment of one; this was the acquiſition of Salſette and Baſſein, with the Maratta ſhare of the Revenues of Surat, which they imagined would about complete their views; and this, I muſt again repeat, they urgently and eſpecially enjoined us to embrace every opportunity to attain, and to this alone to direct all our political and military operations, declaring it at the ſame time to be the utmoſt of their wiſhes in the Weſt of India.

In the ceſſion ſtipulated for by the Treaty with the Peiſhwah, the views of the Company have been completed beyond their hopes; as, excluſive of the chief conſideration, a Revenue equal to its expence and occaſions, the commercial and military advantages of Bombay are moſt permanently ſecured to it.

On Salſette, Caranjah, and Baſſein, Bombay may ſafely depend for proviſion of all kinds, and poſſeſſing Baſſein and its diſtricts, we inſure to ourſelves a part of the Timber neceſſary for our Marine Yard, the want of which would ſo greatly diſtreſs our works there, that was this place to fall into an Enemy's hands, or any diſputes with the Marattas to ſubſiſt in the time of war with France, the Docks, which are now ſo material, would be rendered almoſt uſeleſs for want of this indiſpenſable article.

In the diſtricts ceded in the Guzzarat Country, grows the Cotton for the Bengal Market, which ſecures to the Engliſh, and thoſe under their protection, the entire trade in this article; and of courſe to the Company the whole Cuſtoms on it.

Excluſive of theſe actual advantages, we ſhall entirely preclude the Dutch, who have long been ſoliciting a Settlement at Baſſein, from all rivalry with the Company in the Trade to the Maratta dominions, beſides preventing the dangerous conſequences that might attend the neighbourhood of ſo active and enterprizing a Nation, who have never been known to let ſlip any opportunity of extending themſelves; and ſhould they at any time embrace an opportunity to get poſſeſſion of Baſſein, with the means they would have to diſtreſs ours and carry on their own trade, it ſeems very probable but little would be left to the Engliſh at Bombay: this acquiſition alſo defeats the known and declared deſigns of the Portugueſe, and the probable views of the French, who, from former ſteps, and their now ſending out ſo many ſhips to the weſt of India, ſeem alſo inclined to participate with us in the Commerce there.

The ſtriking advantages of theſe poſſeſſions will, I truſt, be deemed worthy of moſt ſerious regard, when it is conſidered that the maintenance of Bombay is neceſſary in the general ſyſtem of the Company's affairs, from an annual loſs of about £. 150,000, a burden on your Government very troubleſome at beſt, but perhaps dangerous in the end by the remittance of ſpecie, and all chiefly for a local advantage, till then uncertain; Bombay would become a winning Settlement of near eight Lacks, which will be a difference to the Company of £. 250,000 annually; it would be in a ſtate to afford certain aſſiſtance of all kinds to a Squadron in time of War, ſecure the Commerce of the Weſt of India in the Engliſh hands; and above all, to fruſtrate the great Rivals of the Company in their views of participating in our trade with the Maratta dominions, an object alone of great importance, as on this trade depends their chief vend of Woollens and the other ſtaples of our native Country.

APPENDIX, No. 57.

Extract of the General Letter from Bengal to the Court of Directors of the Eaſt India Company; dated the 22d Auguſt 1774.

Par. 8. THE Preſidency of Bombay have again applied to us for a large ſupply of Money, ſetting forth their diſtreſſes in the ſtrongeſt terms, and requeſting immediate relief. We have anſwered them, that the ſtate of our finances and demands here did not enable us to furniſh them to the extent they required, but that we would cheerfully lend our aſſiſtance in the moſt ſpeedy manner. As far as 15 Lacks, we had engaged to ſupply them within the courſe of the year, could we find out the means of remittance; but that it was not in our power to obtain drafts here to the amount of above 5 Lacks, and that from doubtful hands, and at the exorbitant exchange of 112 Sicca per 100 Bombay Rupees; terms which we ſhould not think ourſelves juſtifiable in accepting, not only as it would have proved an immediate and heavy loſs of near 19 per cent. on the remittance, but as it ſerved to introduce and encourage the exportation of our own ſpecie, which we eſteem it our duty to guard againſt by every poſſible means, as fatal to the Commerce and Revenue of theſe Provinces. There has however lately occurred an unexpected event which will afford them means of taking up Money on their Bills on us: The ſhips returning from the Gulphs with the produce of the trade for three years paſt, detained by the late troubles in thoſe Countries, great part of which they muſt either bring round to Bengal in ſpecie, or leave at Bombay for drafts on this place; and we have taken care to ſecure the refuſal for that Preſidency from the Owners of ſeveral of theſe veſſels which belong to this port.

The balance in your general Treaſury this day is, current Rupees 7,72,377. 1. 9. In the Dewanny Treaſury Sicca Rupees 3,89,143. 1. 17. 2. and in the caſh current Rupees 18,476. 8. 5.

APPENDIX, No. 58.

Extract of Bombay Select Committee, the 28th November 1774.

At a Committee;

PRESENT,

The Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor,
John Watſon, Daniel Draper, William Tayler.
The W° Peter Elwin Wrench, Eſquire, indiſpoſed.

READ, and approved, our proceedings under the 25th inſtant, being our laſt Conſultation.

The Preſident acquaints the Committee, that he has deſired this meeting purpoſely to lay before them a Letter he received yeſterday from Mr. Robert Henſhaw, who at preſent reſides at Goa, dated the 31ſt ultimo; giving an account of the Military and Marine Force lately arrived at Goa, from Portugal, and of the intentions of the Portugueſe ſpeedily to attempt the recovery of the dominions they formerly poſſeſſed to the northward of this place, and particularly the Iſland of Salſette and Baſſein.

This Letter being accordingly read, and taken under mature and deliberate conſideration, it is obſerved, that there appears no doubt of the Portugueſe intentions againſt the Iſland of Salſette; and as ſurely as they attempt the conqueſt of that Iſland with their preſent force, ſo ſurely they will gain the poſſeſſion of it; which event will not only put it out of our power ever to acquire the poſſeſſion of it for the Honourable Company, who have ſo frequently expreſſed their ardent wiſhes to obtain it, but will alſo be attended with infinite prejudice to the trade and intereſt of the Honourable Company here, by reducing their Cuſtoms and Revenues in a very great degree, as the Portugueze, by the poſſeſſion of Salſette, will become Maſters of the Paſſes inland, and conſequently it will be entirely in their power to obſtruct our trade, and to lay whatever impoſitions they pleaſe upon it, which they were formerly ſo prone on every occaſion to do; and we therefore think it becomes our undoubted duty to endeavour, to the utmoſt of our power, to prevent it if poſſible from falling into their hands without the leaſt delay, by taking it ourſelves; and it is obſerved that a more favourable opportunity than the preſent one, will probably never again offer, as by the diviſions in the Maratta Government there is now no head in that Empire, and it will be out of the power of either party to ſend any effectual force to obſtruct our proceedings.

The Preſident hereupon acquaints the Committee, that, agreeable to their recommendation in the month of March laſt, he has continued to temporize with the people, who made propoſals to him for the delivery of the Iſland into our hands; that they have ſince been frequently very preſſing with him on the ſubject, and that they are now equally deſirous as before of giving up the Iſland to the Honourable Company.

The Committee taking all theſe circumſtances under conſideration, together with the Negociation now depending with Ragoba, as well as the ſituation of Mr. Moſtyn, at Poonah, who is within the power of the Miniſterial Party, are unanimouſly of opinion, it is a duty highly incumbent on them to prevent the Portugueze from attaining poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Salſette, by gaining poſſeſſion of it for the Honourable Company: Reſolved, therefore, that we cloſe with the offers made for giving it up with the utmoſt expedition, and that we purſue the ſpeedieſt means in our power for effecting it, by ſending a body of Forces to gain poſſeſſion of it in the manner that may be agreed on between the Preſident and the perſons who have treated with him for that purpoſe.

APPENDIX. No. 58.

The Preſident is accordingly deſired and empowered to cloſe immediately, on the moſt moderate terms he can obtain, with the perſons who have been treating with him for the delivery of Salſette; and every other preparation muſt in conſequence be made for effecting this deſirable end.

And, in order that this proceeding may not affect the negociation depending with Ragoba, Mr. Gambier muſt be apprized of our intentions, and directed to aſſure him, that if he will not be induced to cede the Iſland of Salſette to the Company, we will give it up to him (on his granting us what we may deem an equivalent for it, and paying the charges we ſhall incur by it) whenever he may be in full poſſeſſion of the Maratta Empire; our only intention at this time being to prevent it falling into the hands of the Portugueze, which, from the preſent ſituation of the affairs of the Marattas, moſt undoubtedly would ſhortly be the caſe, unleſs we purſue the neceſſary meaſures to prevent it.

Mr. Moſtyn muſt alſo be adviſed of our intention, and of the motives that have impelled us to it; and as we hope this ſtep will not be the means of breaking that good underſtanding which has till now ſubſiſted with the miniſtry at Poonah, we wiſh him to continue there, and to endeavour at reconciling the Miniſtry to the meaſures we are purſuing, giving them the ſame aſſurances, in caſe they prevail in their conteſt with Ragoba, as we have directed Mr. Gambier to give to Ragoba. But ſhould Mr. Moſtyn be convinced, on his being acquainted with our intentions, that he can no longer remain with ſafety to his perſon, we then permit him to come away, though we much hope this will not be the caſe, as we think his continuing at Poonah will be the means of reconciling the Miniſtry to the meaſure, and ſerve to convince them of the ſincerity of our profeſſions.

We deem it neceſſary here to remark, that we have not yet heard of the arrival at Bengal of ſuch of the Council lately appointed by Act of Parliament as were to proceed from England, and conſequently we are not reſtricted by that Act from undertaking this affair; but, even had we heard of their arrival in the form preſcribed by the Act, we muſt think the neceſſity of executing this meaſure without any delay, and it being entirely agreeable to the repeated orders of the Honourable the Court of Directors, would fully authorize us for undertaking it without waiting for the permiſſion of the Governor General and Council, agreeable to a clauſe in the ſaid Act, which provides for ſuch a contingency.

As we ſhall probably be in want of ſome additional force at the Preſidency, in caſe the matters now on foot ſhould be executed, it is agreed to embrace this opportunity of reducing the Garriſons of Tellicherry and Anjengo.

Reſolved, therefore, That the Military Force at the latter place ſhall henceforward conſiſt only of one Subaltern Officer (who for the preſent is to be Lieutenant Brownrigg) with three Serjeants, three Corporals, and one Drummer, and thirty-ſix private Topaſſes of Infantry, with one Bombardier, two Gunners, and two Matroſſes of Artillery; the remainder muſt be ſent hither by the firſt opportunity.

The whole Company of Europeans, with their Officers, except ten private, now doing duty at Tellicherry, muſt be be withdrawn, and ſent here as ſoon as poſſible, and the future Garriſon of that place muſt be conſidered as complete without them.

Letters to the Chiefs at Tellicherry and Anjengo muſt be prepared, to apprize them of our Reſolution. Letters alſo to Mr. Gambier and Mr. Moſtyn, muſt be wrote agreeable to our foregoing Minutes; but that to the latter muſt not be forwarded till matters are ſo far advanced, as to put it out of the power of the Miniſtry in any degree to obſtruct our views, in caſe Mr. Moſtyn ſhould communicate our intentions to them; but he muſt alſo have time to come away before the affair becomes public, in caſe he ſhould deem it abſolutely neceſſary to do ſo.

Adjourned.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor, &c.

Honourable Sir,

I have already publicly adviſed the Board of the arrival of Don Joze Pedro de Camera, &c. and the reaſon I have been ſo long ſilent to your Honour on this ſubject, aroſe from a deſire of informing you with ſome degree of certainty, of the force and intentions of the Portugueze. The Capture of the Saint Anna, a forty-gun ſhip, by the Marattas, has awakened the Court of Liſbon, and ſpirited it up to take ſatisfaction for the inſult committed on the Flag of Portugal; for this purpoſe it was that the above Gentleman, a General Officer of approved abilities in his profeſſion, and in whom were united the requiſites neceſſary to inſure ſucceſs in ſuch an important undertaking, was appointed Governor and Captain General of India. Since his arrival, very many alterations, and great, have taken place. In the King's Yards they work double tides in preparing the Fleet. Gallivats that have been unemployed theſe ſeven years (a few only excepted, uſed as Luggage Boats) are fitting out with the utmoſt expedition, and a Bomb Veſſel is ordered to be prepared. When ready, their force by ſea conſiſts as follows; viz.

St. Antonio Grab -	22	Two Sloops, each -	12

Fifteen Gallivats, mounting each one heavy Prow Gun and from four to ſix ſwivels each.

The Madre de Deos and Cruſario arrived this ſeaſon from Portugal, and are to remain in India until ſuch period as ſix Frigates of 20 guns each are built at Demaun, which the King has ordered, and whoſe iron of every denomination came from Portugal in the Madre de Deos, together with cordage, canvas, &c. and cannon complete for the whole. The Madre de Deos her lower decks are 24 lbs.

Their Military Force conſiſts of four Regiments quite complete; three whereof are Infantry, and one of Artillery; viz.

I have not inſerted the Officers of the third Regiment, as it is not yet formed, the men arriving only this and the laſt ſeaſon, and no one as yet appointed to the command. The whole is commanded by the above Henriques, who is a Brigadier General. Excluſive of the foregoing, the King has ordered a Legion to be formed of Sepoys, to be cloathed as the Engliſh, and to conſiſt of 1,200 private men, excluſive of Officers; to each Company, one European Captain and one Lieutenant. To this Legion is joined the two Troops of European Horſe now here, conſiſting of 75 private men each. The command of this Legion is given by his Majeſty, by ſpecial Commiſſion, to Don Antonio Joze de Nourontia, the famous Biſhop of Halicarnaſſus, known over India by the title the Nizam gave him of Nabob Delour Jehung Behadur.

I have given your Honour this detail of their Naval and Military Force, previous to what I have to adviſe your Honour of their intentions, that you may therefrom be enabled to judge of their abilities to execute the ſchemes they have in view.—The recovery of the Province of the Norte, or what we call Salſette, is their primary object; and the capture of the Saint Anna, with the Forts of Gheriah, Sevendroog, &c. their ſecondary object. My reaſons for ſuppoſing ſuch, ariſe as follows: The Biſhop above named, who, excluſive of the command of the Sepoys, is Conſeiller du Guerre, has, in ſeveral interviews I have had with him, endeavoured to draw from me my opinion on ſeveral queſtions he put to me. Firſt time he ſtated theſe queſtions, he begged my ſentiments of a Union between us and the Portugueze againſt the Marattas. If I judged it feaſible? If Bombay could make ſuch a Union, without previouſly obtaining orders from the Governor General at Bengal? If I judged a propoſition of this nature would be agreeable to Bombay? and in caſe of a Union, did I think that Bombay would conſent to the Portugueze having the province of the Norte? —To theſe points, I need not adviſe your Honour what reply I made.—In a ſecond interview, he renewed the ſubject; I was ſilent; he then aſked me, If it was true, the report that prevailed here, that Bombay was on the eve of joining one of the Parties now contending for the Maratta Government, and that in recompence, ere the aſſiſtance marched, the Iſland of Salſette was to be delivered over to us for ever?—I was about to reply, when he proceeded and ſaid, he was well convinced that if ſuch was the caſe, His Majeſty's Troops would join the adverſe party, firſt proteſting againſt the proceedings of Bombay (mere Portugueze bombaſt) for that his moſt Faithful Majeſty ſtill deemed Salſette part of his dominions, as he did the ſhip Saint Anna, a veſſel of his fleet; and that he was determined to reſcue the one and the other from the hands of thoſe who ſo unjuſtly detained them. I have been repeatedly aſked by many here (perſons I am convinced employed to pump me, as the expreſſion is) of the intentions of Bombay regarding Salſette, &c. and whether I could procure any Charts of that Iſland, or Plan of Baſſein and Tannah Forts, and if the paſſage round the Iſland was known to us; with numberleſs other queſtions. In ſhort, I find from many, but eſpecially from the Biſhop of Halicarnaſſus, that it is determined upon, and that very ſpeedly, the reduction of the province of the Norte, unleſs we are beforehand with them, which they much ſuſpect, and in which caſe they will proteſt moſt loudly againſt us; but that is all they have done hitherto, and as much as they will then do, for more they dare not do, without ſpecial and further orders from Portugal. The Governor has alſo hinted as much to me, with a view, as I can but think, that it ſhould be made known to you, in the belief that the knowledge of ſuch his moſt Faithful Majeſty's intentions, would preyent Bombay carrying into execution any ſchemes they might entertain againſt the Iſland of Salſette. In ſhort, it ſeems here no ſecret the intentions of the Portugueze; and all thoſe who formerly had eſtates on Salſette when the property of the Portugueze, are as conſcious to appearance of once more poſſeſſing, as I am certain of my exiſtence.

I remain, with the greateſt eſteem and reſpect,

Tueſday 29th November 1774. Signed the following Letters to Mr. Moſtyn at Poona, and to Mr. Gambier at Surat; the latter was directly forwarded, but the former is to be detained ſome days for the reaſons given in our Minutes of yeſterday.

To Thomas Moſtyn, Eſquire.

Sir,

We have received undoubted intelligence that the Portugueze are fitting out a very reſpectable Armament at Goa, with intention of acquiring, with the utmoſt expedition, the poſſeſſion of the dominions formerly belonging to them, and in particular the Iſland of Salſette. Orders from Europe, and a conſiderable Sea and Land Force being ſent from thence, have enabled them to undertake this expedition.

Their being in poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Salſette, would be of the utmoſt detriment to the trade and intereſts of the Honourable Company here, by having it in their power to obſtruct the former, as they would become poſſeſſed of the Paſſes Inland, when they would undoubtedly lay whatever impoſitions they pleaſed upon it, as they were formerly ſo prone, on every occaſion, to do. Beſides, on ſuch an event, we could have no hopes of ever acquiring it for the Honourable Company, who, as you well know, have long much wiſhed to become poſſeſſed of it.

In this ſituation we have eſteemed it our undoubted duty to be beforehand with the Portugueze, by acquiring poſſeſſion of it for our Honourable Employers; and have in conſequence determined to embrace ſome Offers which have been made for facilitating this acquiſition.

We have chiefly been impelled to this ſtep by a thorough conviction that it would otherwiſe fall into the hands of the Portugueze; as, from the preſent ſituation of the affairs of the Marattas, it muſt be out of their power to ſend ſuch a force as would be able to oppoſe them.

We ſtill earneſtly wiſh to remain on good terms with the Marattas; and hope this ſtep will not by no means break that good underſtanding which has ſo long ſubſiſted. However, we do not abſolutely direct that you ſhould remain at Poona after the receipt of this Letter, if you are convinced the ſafety of your perſon is endangered thereby; but if on the contrary no harm can happen to yourſelf, we then much wiſh you ſhould continue there, and direct that you endeavour to reconcile the Miniſtry to the meaſure we have purſued, by acquainting them with our motives for it; and by aſſuring them, in caſe their party prevails in the preſent conteſt, we ſhall then be ready to give it up (if they will not be induced to cede it to us) on their granting us what we may eſteem an equivalent, and paying the expences we ſhall incur thereby.

In caſe you quit Poona, you will of courſe bring your Aſſiſtant with you; but we again tell you, we wiſh you may remain, in order to convince the Miniſtry of the ſincerity of our profeſſions.

We are,
Bombay Caſtle, Your loving Friends.
29 November 1774.

To Mr. Robert Gambier, at Surat.

Sir,

The Portugueze have this ſeaſon received a very conſiderable ſupply of men from Europe; their Naval Force is alſo put on a reſpectable footing, and we have received undoubted intelligence that they are fitting out an Armament with the utmoſt expedition from Goa, with intention of recovering the dominions they formerly poſſeſſed to the Northward of this place, and in particular the Iſland of Salſette.

As their being in poſſeſſion of Salſette would be of the utmoſt detriment to the trade and intereſt of the Honourable Company in theſe parts, by leaving it in their power to obſtruct our trade, and lay whatever impoſitions they pleaſe upon it, which they were formerly ſo prone, on every occaſion, to do; and as on ſuch an event, we could have no hopes of ever procuring for our Honourable Employers the poſſeſſion of that Iſland, which they have ſo often expreſſed their deſire of attaining, we have therefore reſolved, as our undoubted duty, to acquire poſſeſſion of it for the Honourable Company.

We have in conſequence determined to embrace ſome offers that have been made us for facilitating the acquiſition of it; and a ſuitable Force will accordingly be ſent in a few days to effect it.

It is our wiſh that this ſtep may not impede the negociation at preſent depending with Ragoba; and we accordingly direct you to aſſure him, that no other motives have impelled us to take this ſtep than to prevent it from falling into the hands of the Portugueze, which it would moſt undoubtedly, as well from the force they propoſe ſending againſt it, as from the preſent ſituation of the affairs of the Marattas, which puts it out of their power to ſend any ſuccours to prevent it.

This you are to explain to Ragoba; and to aſſure him that, provided he cannot be induced to cede it to our Honourable Employers, we will give it up to him on his granting what we may eſteem an equivalent for it, and paying the expences that will be incurred thereby, ſo ſoon as he may be in full poſſeſſion of the Maratta Empire.

We are,

Bombay Caſtle, 29 November 1774.

Your loving Friends,

APPENDIX, No. 59.

Extract of Bombay Select Committee, the 1ſt December 1774.

OUR Addreſs to the Honourable the Court of Directors, intended to be forwarded by our Honourable Maſters Ship Thames, having been conſidered and approved, is this day ſigned as follows:

Honourable Gentlemen,

By our Addreſs of the 10th ultimo, a duplicate of which is incloſed, we informed you of the propoſals that had been made to us by Ragoba, through Mr. Gambier at Surat, for the aſſiſtance of a body of the Company's forces againſt his Enemies, the miniſterial party at Poona, in order to re-eſtabliſh him in the Government of the Maratta Empire.

We alſo communicated our reſolution to aſſiſt him, provided ſuch matters were ſettled to our ſatisfaction as we judged neceſſary to ſtipulate with him, in order that, ſhould a Treaty take place, it might turn out truly beneficial to the Honourable Company our Employers.

We have ſince received two Letters from Mr. Gambier on the ſubject, entered in our Diary under the 17th and 25th ultimo, the laſt of which was accompanied by the Tranſlate of a Treaty propoſed by Ragoba; wherein, though his offers fall far ſhort of our demands, he nevertheleſs propoſed to cede a territory to the Company near Surat, that, according to Mr. Gambier's account, would produce an annual revenue of about 8 Lacks of Rupees; which, added to the ſhare of the revenues the Guicawars at preſent receive from the Town and Pergunnahs of Broach, being near three Lacks, which he alſo offered, made in the whole about eleven Lacks per annum: he likewiſe propoſed to depoſit ſix Lacks of Rupees in money, and to give ſecurity for the payment of half a Lack monthly, for ſix months, which was to be conſidered as the expence of our Forces for that term, which he propoſed ſhould be reckoned at a Lack and a half of Rupees per month, without further account; and, provided they continued with them longer than ſix months, he then propoſed to make another advance of ſix Lacks, and to continue paying half a Lack monthly as before; but he refuſed to cede the Iſland of Salſette or Baſſein, which we demanded, amongſt other articles, for the aſſiſtance we were to afford him.

Our remarks on theſe Letters from Mr. Gambier are fully ſtated in our Minutes of the 17th and 25th ultimo, and though we have by no means agreed to the terms of the Treaty as propoſed by Ragoba, we have nevertheleſs been induced to recede in ſome degree from our firſt demands, as well with reſpect to the ſum to be previouſly depoſited, as in regard to the ceſſion of the Iſlands of Salſette and Baſſein.

As to the depoſit, our demand was for fifteen Lacks of Rupees, or twenty if poſſible, as Security for the expences of our Forces, and to enſure the Company from any loſs; Ragoba has tendered ſix; and as Mr. Gambier has repreſented that he believes it to be out of Ragoba's power, in his preſent ſituation, to offer more, and as ample ſecurity muſt be given for the monthly payment for the Lack and a half of Rupees for the expences of your Forces, we have been induced ſo far to reduce our demand in this particular.

Ragoba is alſo very averſe to the ceſſion of Salſette and Baſſein, inſomuch that inſiſting on thoſe places might probably have cauſed an entire ſtop to be put to the depending negociation. In deference to the opinion of your Honours, we much wiſh that he could have been prevailed upon to grant them to the Honourable Company; but we were at the ſame time of opinion, that it was by no means for their intereſt to run the riſk of overſetting the whole on that account, as much more material advantages might be granted elſewhere; and we therefore determined to wave making any further demand for thoſe places till a more favourable opportunity: thoſe are the only points in which we have any ways receded from our firſt demands.

The following are therefore the terms on which we have at preſent offered to afford him the Honourable Company's aſſiſtance:

That the Poona ſhare of the revenue formerly annexed to the Government of Surat, from 30 Pergunnahs and 4 Cuſbahs, amounting, according to the late Mr. Price's ſtatement entered in our Diary in the month of May 1772, to about twelve Lacks and a half per annum, be given up for ever:

That the Guicawar ſhare of the Broach Revenues, with any Revenues collected by the Poona Government, from the Broach Town and Pergunnah, amounting to about 3 Lacks per annum, be alſo ceded for ever to the Company:

And that the Revenue now poſſeſſed by the Poona Government, which belonged to the Caſtle Governor at Surat, at the time the Moguls were in the fulneſs of their power, be alſo made over to the Company, amounting to about three Lacks of Rupees.

The whole of the foregoing amounts to about 18 Lacks and a half of Rupees annually, which we have inſiſted ſhall be ceded for ever. There are alſo ſome other articles of our demands, all of which are ſpecified in a ſketch of the Treaty we have drawn up and forwarded to Mr. Gambier, as entered under the 26th ultimo, that in caſe Ragoba ſhould embrace our offers, no time may be loſt in entering into the neceſſary engagements on that account; and Mr. Gambier is accordingly empowered to enter into a Treaty on the terms herein ſet down.

Should we obtain the whole for the Company that is inſerted in this Draft for a Treaty, or even ſhould we be obliged to recede in ſome degree from the largeneſs of our preſent demands, we muſt think we ſhall merit your Honours full approbation of our proceedings, as the advantages that the Company will reap therefrom will be conſiderable and laſting; and we think, that with the body of Forces we propoſe ſending to the aſſiſtance of Ragoba, there can be little doubt of his obtaining the full poſſeſſion of the Government of the Maratta Empire.

Thus this matter ſtands at preſent, and we ſhall not fail to embrace the firſt opportunity of adviſing you of the reſult.

We have alſo another affair of equal importance at preſent in agitation, owing to the intelligence we received a few days ago from Mr. Robert Henſhaw, one of your Servants, at preſent reſiding at Goa, of the deſigns of the Portugueze to attempt the immediate recovery of the Iſland of Salſette, and the other places they formerly poſſeſſed to the Northward.

Mr. Henſhaw's Letter is recorded under the 28th ultimo; ultimo; and being taken under the moſt mature conſideration, we could not entertain a doubt of the deſigns of the Portugueze, and were convinced, if they attempted the conqueſt of Salſette in the preſented diſtracted ſituation of the Maratta Government, with the large force they can now command, that they would certainly make a conqueſt of it, which it is our undoubted duty if poſſible to prevent, by gaining immediate poſſeſſion of it for the Company; for, ſhould the Portugueze acquire that Iſland, it would not only put it out of our power ever to gain it for the Company, but would be attended with infinite prejudice to their trade and intereſts at this place; as, by the Portugueze being in poſſeſſion of the adjacent Paſſes to the inland country, they would have it in their power to obſtruct our trade, and to lay what impoſitions they pleaſed upon it, which in former times, upon every occaſion, they were ſo prone to do.

We accordingly reſolved to attempt to gain it for the Honourable Company; and as the people who made propoſals to the Preſident for delivering up the Iſland, as related in our Diary in the month of March laſt, are ſtill equally ready to do ſo now, we have empowered the Preſident to cloſe with their offers on the moſt moderate terms procurable, which he will do as ſoon as poſſible; and in the mean time, every preparation is making with that ſecrecy the affair requires, or will admit of, to prevent a diſappointment, even ſhould the Garriſon at Tanna, the principal fort, not be ſo ready to deliver it up as we have reaſon to conclude they will be.

For further particulars reſpecting this affair, permit us to refer you to our Diary, wherein is pointed out the means we have pitched upon to prevent, as much as in our power, the negociation with Ragoba from being affected hereby; and as to Mr. Moſtyn at Poona, we ſhall give him timely intelligence of our intentions, ſo that he may repair hither, in caſe he ſhould eſteem his perſon in danger by remaining at Poona till our intentions become public.

As we may poſſibly be in want of ſome additional force at the Preſidency, we have embraced this opportunity of reducing the Garriſons at Tellicherry and Anjengo, and of fixing their Military Eſtabliſhment much lower than before, as you will obſerve by our Minutes of the 28th; and we have alſo ordered, that all the great Guns at Anjengo, from 12 lbs. upwards, ſhall be ſent to the Preſidency. By this means, the expences of both theſe places will be annually much reduced; we therefore flatter ourſelves, your Honours will approve of it: And we can aſſure you, that in our proceedings in general, we have no other object in view than what we eſteem the intereſt of our Honourable Employers, we truſt that the whole of our proceedings will meet with your Honours approbation.

We have the honour to be,
with much reſpect,
Honourable Gentlemen,
Your moſt faithful Servants.

Extract of Bombay Select Committee; the 30th December 1774.

Signed an Addreſs to the Honourable the Court of Directors, and a Letter to the Agent and Council of Buſſora, which were diſpatched in duplicate per Dingey bound to Muſcat.

Honourable Gentlemen,

By the Honourable Company's Ship Thames, which ſailed from hence under the 4th inſtant, to complete her cargo for Europe on the coaſt, we adviſed your Honours from this department of our Reſolution to ſend a ſuitable force to reduce the Iſland of Salſette, with the other adjacent Iſles. We alſo then apprized you at large with our motives for ſo doing; and we make no doubt but that they will prove ſufficiently ſatisfactory to your Honours.

A Dingey being now bound to Muſcat, affords us an opportunity to tranſmit to your ſervants at Buſſora this Addreſs, which is ſolely to convey to you the pleaſing intelligence of the reduction of the fort of Tanna, the principal one on Salſette, which was taken by your Forces by ſtorm on the 28th inſtant. The fort of Verſova was reduced a few days before by Lieutenant Colonel Keating; and as there is no other poſt on the Iſland of any importance, the conqueſt of the whole is as good as completed; on which happy event we beg leave to congratulate your Honours, aſſuring you it ſhall be our ſtudy to make it as beneficial to you as poſſible. We ſhall ſhortly write you further by a veſſel we ſhall diſpatch directly to Buſſora. In the mean time we have the honour to remain, with much reſpect,

Honourable Gentlemen,

Bombay Caſtle, 30th December 1774.

Your moſt obedient and faithful Servants.

Fort William. The Governor General and Council announcing their having aſſumed that Government.

READ a Letter from the Governor General and Council at Fort William, ſignifying their having taken upon them the Government of Bengal, in virtue of the late Act of Parliament; and deſiring to be furniſhed with the neceſſary intelligence of the Company's political concerns on this ſide India.

Ordered, That a proper Letter be drawn out by the Secretary, giving them every information that the ſaid Act directs.

APPENDIX, No. 62.

Extract of Fort William Secret Conſultations, March 8th 1775.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,

Lieutenant General John Clavering,

The Honourable George Monſon, Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire,

Governor General, &c. Council at Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

CONFORMABLE to the Board's Addreſs of this date, we ſhall proceed to communicate to your Honour, &c. our motives for determining at this juncture to endeavour at acquiring poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Salſette by force of arms, from the Marattas, the late poſſeſſors of it, of which we particularly adviſed the Honourable the Court of Directors in our Addreſs per Thames, ſeveral days before the receipt of your Letter of the 24th of October, wherein we were acquainted of your having taken poſſeſſion of the Government of Fort William in virtue of the late Act of Parliament; and we flatter ourſelves our reaſons for this undertaking will appear ſo ſatisfactory and convincing to them as well as to you, that we ſhall be fully juſtified in our proceedings. In the commands of the Honourable Court of Directors to this Preſidency, dated the 31ſt March 1769, an atteſted Copy of which we incloſe for your information, they are pleaſed to direct that we ſhould be ever watchful to obtain the Iſland of Salſette, with the other place therein pointed out, which they acquaint us muſt be the conſtant objects we are always to have in view in all our Treaties, Negociations, and Military Operations.

Again, the Honourable Company in their Letter of the 6th April 1772, expreſsly direct, that Mr. Moſtyn, one of our Members, ſhould be eſtabliſhed at Poona, for endeavouring to acquire that Iſland, with the other places mentioned in their former commands; and they point out what they permit us to give as an exchange.

Mr. Moſtyn was accordingly fixed as Reſident at the Maratta Durbar in the year 1772, during the life-time of Mhadarow, and about a year before that Government fell into the confuſion it has been in ſince the aſſaſſination of his ſucceſſor, Narrow Row; but he found no probability of obtaining the places deſired by the Company, even though he was inſtructed to offer Broach, with its territories (which we had juſt then acquired from the Nabob) in addition to the terms pointed out by our Honourable Employers.

Some time after the Maratta ſtate fell into that confuſion which at preſent diſtracts it, when in fact there is no head in that Empire ſtill; we took no ſtep for attaining by force of Arms the poſſeſſion of Salſette, notwithſtanding the opportunity was very favourable, and that we have reaſon to conclude Salſette, with the ſmaller adjacent Iſles, was ceded to the Crown by the Marriage Contract between King Charles the Second and the King of Portugal.

Previous however to the receipt of your Letter to the Board, communicating the intelligence of your Honour, &c. having taken upon you the Government of Bengal, we we received advice from Mr. Robert Henſhaw (a Gentleman in the ſervice then reſiding on ſome buſineſs of the Company's at Goa) that the Portugueze had this ſeaſon received with their new Captain General, Don Joze Pedro de Camera, a very conſiderable reinforcement of men and ſhips from Europe, and that their undoubted deſigns were immediately to attempt at recovering from the Marattas the poſſeſſion of Salſette, Baſſein, and the other countries they formerly poſſeſſed, ſo far as Damman, called by them the Province of the North: an extract of this letter for your information we alſo incloſe.

We could not entertain a doubt, from the diſtracted ſituation of the affairs of the Marattas, that the Portugueze, with the force they commanded, would certainly gain poſſeſſion of Salſette, which is their favourite object, and moſt probable of the other parts of their former poſſeſſions.

Had this event taken place, it would not only effectually have prevented us from ever acquiring Salſette for the Honourable Company, but the Portugueze would then again have had it in their power to obſtruct our Trade, by being in poſſeſſion of the principal paſſes to the inland country, and to lay whatever impoſitions they pleaſed upon it, which in former times, upon every occaſion, they were ſo prone to do, which of courſe would have been of infinite prejudice to the Trade, Revenues and Intereſt of the Company in theſe parts, inſomuch that we ſhould in a great meaſure have been ſubject to the caprice of the Portugueze.

What then remained for us to do in this emergency? Had we ſat inactive ſpectators of the event, we ſhould in our opinions have betrayed the intereſt of our Honourable Employers; had we wrote to you for inſtructions and advice, your ſentiments and recommendations moſt probably muſt have arrived much too late to have enabled us to prevent the execution of the deſigns of the Portugueze; and though we had not any account at this time of your being eſtabliſhed in your Government of Fort William, and conſequently were not reſtricted by law from purſuing ſuch meaſures as we judged moſt for the intereſt of our Honourable Employers, yet, as the matter was in every point of view of an important nature, and we ſhortly expected to hear you were arrived, we ſhould have been very glad to have ſubmitted to your judgment the directions of the meaſures neceſſary to be purſued; but we were obliged either to act at this very juncture, or entirely to give up all thoughts of attempting to avert the evils with which we were threatened; we therefore determined, after the moſt mature deliberation, in order to prevent the miſchiefs which muſt have enſued to the intereſt of the Honourable Company, from the Portugueze being in poſſeſſion of Salſette, to attempt obtaining it for our Honourable Employers; and as ſome offers had been made to the Preſident ſome months before by the Killedar of Sannah, the principal fort on the Iſland, to deliver it to us for a ſum of money, the Preſident was empowered to cloſe with him on the moſt moderate terms; but the Killedar now excuſed himſelf from proceeding any farther in the buſineſs, alledging that the Miniſtry at Poona having obtained intelligence of the deſigns of the Portugueze, had reinforced his garriſon, which put it out of his power to deliver it up in the manner he before wiſhed to do: it therefore only remained for us to ſend ſuch a military and marine force as was judged neceſſary to reduce it; which was accordingly diſpatched under the command of Brigadier General Gordon, and Mr. Watſon, Superintendant of our marine; and we have the pleaſure to acquaint you that Sannah, the principal fort on the Iſland, was taken by ſtorm on the 28th inſtant, after our Army had been fifteen days before the place. Verſova, another fort on Salſette, was alſo taken by a ſeparate party, under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Keating, and in conſequence, the whole Iſland is now in our poſſeſſion.

The Iſland of Caranja alſo ſurrendered yeſterday, which completes the conqueſt we had determined to make near this place.

The very day after our forces ſet out againſt Tanna, part of the Portugueze fleet appeared off this port, with their trade under its convoy, bound to Damaun, a ſettlement they ſtill retain to the Northward of this place; the Commander of which, ſo ſoon as he gained intelligence of our proceedings, delivered a ſmall Proteſt, by the directions, as he ſaid, of the Captain General of Goa; which ſhews the neceſſity of the meaſures we have purſued, and evidently corroborates Mr. Henſhaw's account of their intentions; to this Proteſt, we delivered a ſuitable Reply, and thus it reſts between us.

The Revenues of Salſette amount to about 3,30,000 rupees, on a moderate calculation, and thoſe of Caranja to about 40,000; we ſhall fix a ſuitable Civil Eſtabliſhment at each of theſe places, for their Government and for the collection of the Revenues, with a proper military Force for their protection.

Before we entered upon theſe enterprizes, we judged it very neceſſary to recal Mr. Moſtyn from Poona. Yet it is the fartheſt from our wiſhes to occaſion a rupture between us and the Marattas, by the ſteps we have been under the neceſſity of purſuing; the Preſident therefore, agreeable to our Reſolution, will explain to the Miniſterial Party at Poona, the real motives for our proceedings; and they ſhall be aſſured, that in caſe they gain the advantage in the preſent conteſt, by the overthrow of Ragoba, that we ſhall reſign the Iſlands to them ſo ſoon as they are in a condition to defend them from the Portugueze, if they cannot be induced to cede them to us, provided alſo that they will give a ſuitable equivalent or compenſation for them; for your Honour, &c. will obſerve, that we have been impelled to this proceeding at this juncture, and without your concurrence, more from our duty to prevent thoſe places from falling into the hands of the Portugueze, than to retain them in the Company's poſſeſſion, though this laſt is much to be wiſhed, as the Honourable Company is ſo deſirous of them; and therefore, when we accommodate matters with the Marattas, which ſhall be done as ſoon as poſſible, our utmoſt endeavours ſhall be uſed to reconcile them to our keeping them.

The ſame aſſurances as will be given to the Miniſterial Party, will alſo be given to Ragoba, ſhould he again obtain the ſupreme power over the Marattas, and we hope he may be eaſily ſatisfied; but it is neceſſary now to adviſe you of the riſe and progreſs of a Negociation at preſent depending with him, which we ſhall accordingly here proceed to do.

Near twelve months ago, ſome overtures were made by an Agent from Ragoba to Mr. Moſtyn, our Reſident at Poona, for the aſſiſtance of Men and Money to re-eſtabliſh his affairs. His demands however were ſo large, eſpecially for Money, which he then much wanted, and it being our fixed reſolution by no means to aſſiſt him with any, but on the contrary, that we ſhould expect a conſiderable ſum from him, if we joined him with our Forces, as well as many grants of Territory for our Employers, that the matter was preſently dropped.

About four months ago, Ragoba, by means of an Agent he has reſiding at Surat, again made propoſals through the Chief of Surat, for the aſſiſtance of a body of Forces againſt his enemies, the Miniſterial Party at Poona. As we were of opinion very material advantages might be obtained for our Honourable Employers, by affording him ſome aſſiſtance, we directed the Chief to enter upon a Negociation, and pointed out the terms on which we might be induced to aſſiſt him with a body of European Artillery and Infantry and Sepoys, to the amount of about 2,500 Men; which, in conſideration of the advantages the Company were to reap from the alliance, we judged we might be able to ſpare ſome few months on this ſervice. For this aſſiſtance, we firſt demanded that a depoſit ſhould be previouſly made of fifteen, or if poſſible twenty Lacks of Rupees, to anſwer the expence; and, to inſure the Company from any loſs, that the Iſlands of Salſette, Baſ- ſein, and the other ſmall Iſlands adjacent to this place, ſhould be ceded to the Honourable Company, together with the Maratta ſhare of the Revenues of thoſe Pergunnahs near to Surat, which formerly did belong to the Governor of that Town; all of which the Honourable the Court of Directors have repeatedly enjoined us to embrace every opportunity in our power to endeavour at obtaining: we alſo demanded the Share collected by the Guicavars, from the Territories of Baroche. We further ordered, that it ſhould be ſtipulated in caſe of a Treaty taking place, that Ragoba ſhould confirm all the former Treaties of this Preſidency with the Marattas; that he ſhould engage never to diſturb the tranquillity of the Company's Poſſeſſions in Bengal or the Carnatic; with ſome other leſs material points which relate to this place alone.

His Agent ſet out from Surat, to communicate our demands to his Maſter, but partly owing to his ſickneſs, and to other difficulties which attended his journey, it was a conſiderable time before he returned. At length however, his Maſter's Propoſals were communicated to us, which, as your Honour, &c. may ſuppoſe at firſt fell far ſhort of our demands, and particularly Ragoba abſolutely refuſed to cede the Iſlands of Salſette or Baſſein, and declared it was totally out of his power to depoſit ſo large a ſum as was demanded.

Though we wiſhed to obtain thoſe two places, in deference to the opinion of our Honourable Employers; yet, as more material advantages might be gained by a ceſſion of Territory near to Surat, we judged it improper to break off the Negociation on this account, and therefore ordered that it ſhould proceed, and from time to time gave the neceſſary directions reſpecting it. At length, Ragoba's Agent agreed on the part of his Maſter, to cede to the Company certain Pergunnahs near to Surat, whoſe annual Revenues amount to eighteen Lacks and twenty-five thouſand (18,25,000) Rupees, in conſideration of our aſſiſting him with the body of Forces we before mentioned. He alſo agreed to depoſit ſix Lacks (6,00,000) Rupees in Money, and to ſecure to the Company the payment of the ſum of one and a half Lack of Rupees per month, for the expence of the Force with which we were to aſſiſt him. The other Articles, ſuch as his engaging never to diſturb the tranquillity of the Company's Poſſeſſions in Bengal or the Carnatic, he readily conſented to, as well as to confirm the Treaties with us, and the other leſs material points we demanded.

Some matters however remained ſtill to be adjuſted, relative to the time when the Company were to be put in poſſeſſion of the places to be ceded to them; which we inſiſted ſhould be ſo ſoon as the Treaty was executed, as we were determined to proceed on the moſt ſecure grounds, and to run no hazards whatever, without ample ſecurity in hand. Agreeable to which, we inſtructed the Chief of Surat, that he might adjuſt the ſame on a proper footing, which we had no doubt he would ſpeedily have done; but the Agent was at this time abſent from the City, collecting the Revenues of certain Diſtricts near to Surat, for his Maſter, to enable him to pay the advance of ſix Lacks (he being his Choutai in thoſe parts) and he was alſo taking poſſeſſion of the Pergunnahs that were to be delivered over to the Company; in which buſineſs he was ſeized by a party of the Miniſterial Forces, and is at preſent confined by them. Ragoba had drawn near to Surat with his Army, which was very conſiderable, in order that our Forces might eaſily join him, as he expected the Treaty would be ſpeedily finiſhed; but ſuſpecting ſome treachery about this time from a part of his Troops, he ſpeedily ſeparated from them with thoſe he could rely on, and for the preſent is actually retreating towards Delhi. He has however cauſed the Chief to be aſſured, that he ſhall ſpeedily return, when he deſired this Treaty might be concluded.

At the time we firſt entered upon this Negociation, we had not heard that thoſe Gentlemen of your Board who have arrived from England had even left it; we therefore were not at all reſtricted by Law at that time, from entering into any engagements we judged beneficial to our Honourable Employers, to whom we have fully explained ourſelves on the ſubject, and whoſe orders only we were purſuing by the meaſures we had adopted; beſides, if this Treaty takes place, we ſhall obtain ſuch a Revenue for the Honourable Company, as will enable this Preſidency to ſupport itſelf, and conſequently relieve you from the burthen of furniſhing us annually with the large ſum we ſhall otherwiſe indiſpenſably require, and therefore doubt not but it muſt be approved by the Company and you, Gentlemen; for it is moſt probable, ſhould this opportunity eſcape us, that ſuch another will never again offer, and as it would have endangered the whole had we put a ſtop to the Treaty (after we received intelligence of your arrival) till your concurrence was obtained, we therefore flatter ourſelves we ſhall be fully juſtified in your opinions for continuing the Negociation, as well as for concluding it, which we propoſe to take the firſt opportunity in our power of doing.

That Ragoba may take no umbrage at the meaſures regarding Salſette, our motives for the ſame will be explained to him, as adviſed in the preceding part of this Letter; and the ſame aſſurances will be given him in caſe of his ſucceſs (and with our aſſiſtance, we can have little doubt of his ſucceeding) as will be given to the Miniſterial Party.

As a conſiderable part of our Marine Force is employed at Buſſora and in the Perſian Gulph, we have at preſent not a ſufficient Marine for the protection of our Trade on the coaſt of Malabar from the Maratta Fleet, which it is moſt probable will attempt to make ſome depredations on it. We ſhall therefore immediately addreſs a Letter to the Commander in Chief of His Majeſty's Squadron in India, who we conclude is now at Madras; adviſing him of the ſituation of affairs, and deſiring him, if he cannot repair to the Coaſt with his whole Squadron, that he will ſend two of his ſhips for the protection of the Trade on the Coaſt.

And as our Military Force is not ſufficient to garriſon our new conqueſts, and for the other ſervice for which it may be preſently wanted, we ſhall apply to the Preſident and Council at Fort Saint George, deſiring they will furniſh us with two Companies of European Infantry, and one complete Battalion of Sepoys, until ſuch time as we may be able to return them by our own levies being completed.

Received from Commodore Sir Edward Hughes the following Letter and Incloſure:

Saliſbury, in Madras Road, the 21ſt February 1775.

Sir, and Gentlemen,

I arrived here on the 13th of this inſtant; and received a Letter from the Governor and Council of Bombay, dated the 4th ultimo, requeſting me, if it ſhould be too inconvenient for me to go there with the Squadron, to ſend at leaſt two ſhips thereof for the protection of the Trade againſt the Maratta Fleet, which they were apprehenſive would make repriſals, in conſequence of the ſeizing on the Iſland of Salſette; which, they ſay, they have judged it expedient to do. The ſeaſon of the year is coming on when no ſhip can act on the Coaſt of Malabar. I have however ordered the Captain of His Majeſty's ſhip the Sea Horſe, when he hath landed the Company's Treaſure at Bombay, and the Captain of His Majeſty's ſhip the Swallow, to act agreeable to the requeſt of the Governor and Council of Bombay, and to concert meaſures with them, and occaſionally with the Chiefs of the Company's Settlements on that Coaſt accordingly; but the Swallow having met with an accident, it will detain her ſome time longer before ſhe can proceed to the Malabar Coaſt.

I ſhould certainly be informed of the motives for the ſeizing the Iſland of Salſette, or for any act of Hoſtility committed by the Company's Servants; in conſequence of which I may be required by them to lend the aid of His Majeſty's ſhips under my command.

I have the honour to be, &c.
(Signed) Edward Hughes.

To Sir Edward Hughes, Knight, Commodore and Commander in Chief of His Majeſty's Ships in the Eaſt Indies, at Fort Saint George.

Sir,

Our Letter of the 16th of September acknowledged the receipt of your favour of the 5th of Auguſt.

The ſituation of affairs here lately, rendered it very expedient for us to obtain poſſeſſion of Salſette, and of the ſmaller adjacent Iſlands from the Marattas. In conſequence of which we ſent ſuch a Military and Marine Force as effected the conqueſt of Salſette; Tannah, the capital Fort, being taken by ſtorm on the 28th ultimo, after our Forces had been 15 days before the place; and the whole Iſland is now in our poſſeſſion, with the other ſmall adjacent Iſlands.

As it is abſolutely neceſſary, till the Marattas may be reconciled to the motives of our proceedings, that the Trade up and down the Coaſt of Malabar ſhould be protected by ſtrong convoys, leſt the Maratta Fleet ſhould attempt making reprifals on it; and as a conſiderable part of our Marine Force is at this juncture employed in the Gulph, inſomuch that we have not ſufficient Force for the Services required; we therefore ſtrongly recommend to you, Sir, to proceed to this Coaſt with your Squadron for the protection of the Trade; but ſhould that be inconvenient, we then earneſtly requeſt you will ſend two of the ſhips under your command for that purpoſe, with directions to the Commanders to concert the neceſſary meaſures with us and the Chiefs of our Settlements on the Coaſt, ſo as effectually to anſwer the deſired end of affording the protection it muſt neceſſarily require.

We are, &c.

READ the following Letter, this inſtant arrived from Mr. Moſtyn, Reſident at Poona.

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Preſident, &c. Member of the Select Committee of Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Having this inſtant received a Letter from the Governor of Bombay, directing me immediately on the receipt of it, to withdraw with the utmoſt ſpeed to the Preſidency, this is purpoſely to acquaint you thereof, to prevent your addreſſing any further Letters to me at this place; and incloſe your Honours, &c. duplicate of my laſt.

5th December 1774. (Signed) T. Moſtyn.

As the removal of Mr. Moſtyn from the Capital of the Maratta State has deprived the Board of the only means of obtaining intelligence in that quarter; and as no advice has been received of the motives which have influenced the Preſident and Council of Bombay to recal him in ſo ſudden a manner, which may render it unſafe or improper to ſupply his place by any appointment from this Preſidency;

Reſolved, That the following Letter be written to Bombay, and diſpatched immediately in duplicate, one copy by return of the Shaik gallivat, and the other over Land.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Preſident, &c. Council at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

We have juſt received advice from Mr. Moſtyn, your Reſident at Poona, of your having ſuddenly recalled him from that Capital, with advice to return to your Preſidency with all expedition; but as he does not mention the reaſons, we are altogether to conjecture, and muſt only conclude, that it proceeds from ſome important conſideration, of which we ſhall doubtleſs receive advice. In the mean time we cannot avoid expreſſing our ſurprize at not having already received ſuch advice, and muſt impute the delay to ſome accident. As you were directed to give us regular information of your political proceedings, we repeat our deſire to be duly and punctually informed of every circumſtance in your political Tranſactions and Events, which may any way affect the general ſyſtem of the Company's affairs committed to our eſpecial charge. Extract of Fort William Secret Conſultations, the 30th January 1775.

PRESENT;

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

Received the two following Letters from Fort Saint George:

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Council.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

On the third inſtant we received a Letter from Mr. Moſtyn, who, by appointment from the Court of Directors, had reſided for ſome time paſt at Poona, adviſing, that on the 5th December, he had received orders from the Governor and Council of Bombay to withdraw from thence, and repair to the Preſidency with the utmoſt ſpeed. As he did not communicate to us the reaſon for his ſudden recal, and the Gentlemen at Bombay gave us no intimation on the ſubject, we are at a loſs how to account for the ſame.

This morning the Preſident received a Letter from Captain Cook, commanding at Palamcotah, dated the 3d inſtant, adviſing, that on the preceding evening he received a Letter from a Gentleman at Anjengo, dated the 29th December, in which was the following paragraph:

"A Pattamar boat is juſt arrived from the Preſidency, informing us that our Troops have taken the Field againſt the Marattas, and are now before Tanna. The Marattas have a large Fleet now looking out for our China ſhips; but but I make no doubt we ſhall ſoon hear of their being diſperſed, as there is a ſtrong one of ours fitting out at Tellicherry to go againſt them."

Although we have not received any advices on this ſubject from the Gentlemen at Bombay, neither can we aſſign the reaſon of their engaging in Hoſtilities againſt the Marattas; yet, as the intelligence, if true, is of the utmoſt importance to the Company's affairs, we have thought it proper to give your Honours, &c. the moſt early intelligence for your information, as that we may be favoured with your ſentiments reſpecting the conduct to be obſerved by us, ſhould the Gentlemen at Bombay find it expedient to apply to us for aſſiſtance, or to co-operate with them.

It is neceſſary for us to obſerve, that our Revenues and Reſources are very inadequate to our undertaking a War at any rate; and our ſituation with reſpect to the Nabob, on whom we muſt depend for aſſiſtance, in caſe of our being obliged to take up arms, has been fully explained to you in the Letter from the Board in their Military Department of 7 December laſt.

The Nabob has acquainted us, that by the lateſt intelligence he learns that Ragonut Raw, jealous of the two Hindoſtan Chiefs, on account of the ſame Letter he had intercepted, had ſeparated himſelf from them, and it was thought had arrived on the Banks of the Norbuddah, with about ten thouſand Horſes, and was retiring towards the Malva Province.

We have the honour to be, &c.

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Council.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Since diſpatching our Letter of yeſterday, private advice is arrived from Tellicherry, which ſay, that our Troops had taken poſſeſſion of Salſette and Baſſein; but no particulars regarding the capture are mentioned. The ſame advice add, that it ſeems the Portugueze had determined to have poſſeſſed themſelves of thoſe places, if we had not done it before them; that they have this year brought on three Frigates and three Merchantmen, a large quantity of warlike Stores, and are determined to repoſſeſs themſelves of ſome of the Territories they formerly enjoyed, and to put Goa on a different footing.

We have the honour to be, &c.

Reſolved, That a Council be ſummoned to meet to-morrow morning in this Department, purpoſely for taking into conſideration the above two Letters, juſt arrived from Fort Saint George.

Extract of Fort William Secret Conſultation, the 31ſt January 1775.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

Read, and approved, the Proceedings of the Council held yeſterday.

The Board being met agreeable to the Reſolution of yeſterday, to take into conſideration the Letter then received, and recorded, from the Preſidency of Fort Saint George:

Ordered, That the Secretary diſpatch a Letter immediately after Captain Downs, Commander of the Shark galliot, to ſtop his veſſel in the River till further orders.

The above Letter is accordingly ſent to the Maſter Attendant, with directions to diſpatch it as ſpeedily as poſſible after Captain Downs, if there is not certain intelligence of his having already left the River.

The Board, after mature conſideration of the ſubjects contained in the Letters from Fort Saint George, are of opinion, that the intelligence, though not of public authority, bears too ſtrong appearances of truth for them to entertain any doubts of it; and indeed, the Board have no other way of accounting for the ſudden and abrupt recal of the Agent or Reſident at the Maratta Court, but by attributing it to ſome hoſtile intention formed by the Preſident of Bombay againſt that Nation; the Board however forbear to make any remarks on this extraordinary event, until they ſhall receive ſome authentic advice of it from the Preſidency of Bombay, or until the Report ſhall obtain confirmation; but they think it neceſſary to addreſs the Preſidency immediately on the ſubject by different conveyances.

Agreed, That a Letter be written to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, to the following purport:

That in the laſt Letter to them, the Board took notice of Mr. Moſtyn's recal from Poona. At that time, amongſt various other conjectures, they had ſuſpicions of that Preſidency being engaged in hoſtilities with the Maratttas, for which reaſon it was not thought proper to appoint another perſon from this Eſtabliſhment to reſide at Poona; that theſe ſuſpicions have been ſince confirmed by the Letters from Madras, which though in conſequence of private advices, are ſo circumſtantial, that the Board might give credit to them, at leaſt to allow them to have ſome foundation, and therefore repeat their expreſſion of ſurprize at the inattention of the Preſident and Council of Bombay to this Government, in not ſending advice of theſe particulars; and peremptorily to require that Preſidency to tranſmit immediate Accounts of the reality of theſe facts, and if true, of their cauſes; and to report conſtantly, by different conveyances, their further intentions and events as they may occur, that this Government may be enabled to fulfil the commands and expectations of the Britiſh Legiſlature, and of the Company, by watching over and taking early meaſures for ſecuring the intereſt of the Company in India: that on intelligence of ſo alarming a nature, the Board find themſelves under great uneaſineſs at being obliged to remain inactive, but that they muſt remain ſo till they hear from the Preſident and Council at Bombay, who muſt be anſwerable for the conſequences of the ſteps they have taken.

Incloſed are triplicates of our Letters of the 10th and 11th inſtant.

The Preſident this day received a Letter from Mr. Boddam at Tellicherry, dated the 31ſt ultimo; an extract of which, as alſo the intelligence which accompanied it, Extract of a Letter from Rawſon Hart Boddam, Eſquire, Chief of Tellicherry, dated the 31ſt December 1774, and received the 14th January 1775.

To the Honourable Alexander Wynch, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor of Fort Saint George.

Honourable Sir,

I have this morning been favoured with your Letter of the 22d November by our returned Putterah; and agreeable to what therein noticed, now ſit down with the greateſt cheerfulneſs to comply with your deſire as far as lay in my power.

The accounts you notice to have received relative to the Force come out this ſeaſon and expected by the Portugueze, is well founded, as you will obſerve by the incloſed extracts of ſome advices ſent me by my correſpondents, which I have long ſince forwarded to Mr. Hornby. They ſtill expect another 50 or 60-gun ſhip, which ſailed in company with a merchantman who paſſed this place about ten or fifteen days paſt, and had only 85 men as recruits on board for Goa. They have now two frigates laying to the ſouthward of Cochin to join this expected ſhip and convey her ſafe to Goa. The intentions of this reinforcement was to re-poſſeſs themſelves of the conqueſts made from the Portugueze nation, formerly by the Marattas, particularly Salſette and Baſſein; but as our Troops are now acting againſt thoſe places, which without doubt you have ſome time been adviſed by the Select Committee at Bombay, was their intentions, I hope, in a few days to adviſe you that every ſucceſs has attended the expedition; though by a Letter received yeſterday from Mr. Hornby, per Drake cruizer, dated the 23d inſtant, he acquaints me Tannah Fort ſtill held out, though they had deſtroyed all their defences, and were preparing that day to ſtorm, which it was imagined would put the place into our hands. They had ſuſtained the attack of our battery for ſeven days, the Fort being high, and the walls thick and well built by the Portugueze.

By a ſmall veſſel juſt come in, I learn that the Maratta fleet, now cruizing betwixt Gheriah and Puttenah Gheriah, conſiſts of five ſhips and three ketch grabs, with 30 or 40 gallivats. It is at preſent uncertain if Dowlal, the Governor of Gheriah, will join Ragoba's party or not; if the contrary, our trade will run ſome riſque of ſuffering, if the men of war do not ſpeedily appear on this Coaſt.

EXTRACTS.

The 21 September arrived at Goa, Don Joze Pedro de Camara, as Governor and Captain General of India, with two ſhips of war, one of 64 guns, the other a large long frigate; both to remain in India. The Government will undergo almoſt a total change as well in Religion as in civil matters.

Two Brigadiers and two Lieutenant Colonels, with a ſuitable number of Officers, are come out; the Infantry is to be augmented, and a Regiment of Artillery to be raiſed. Three of the largeſt convents are taken for barracks to accommodate them. The Artillery are to have Senior D'Cave. The Inquiſition to be totally aboliſhed; all the poor unhappy wretches ſet at liberty; and the houſe taken for the Viceroy's palace. No Padres to be made for twenty years to come. All the riches of the Churches taken by the King, and only a feaſt allowed to be kept throughout the whole year; the expences of which is to be aſcertained by the Viceroy. The King has alſo taken to himſelf the advantages ariſing by the Tobacco Farm, and the ſale of the annual conſignment of Portugal Snuff ſent out by the Queen. Officers of Juſtice are come out to take cognizance of all matters that require redreſs. A liberty of conſcience is permitted; and the Aſiatics, of whatever denomination, are permitted to exerciſe their religion and build Pagodas, &c. The Portugueze are going to put their marine on a different footing to what it was. Six frigates of 36 guns each, to be built at Damaun with the utmoſt expedition. All the gallivats at Goa are repairing. And the two men of war that are arrived, have brought no trade of any kind, being full of implements of every kind for the above ſix frigates, with a very large quantity of Cannon, Shot, Powder, and all kind of Military Stores. They brought, Seamen included, one thouſand effective men. And there is hourly expected another ſhip of Cunlofer, commanded by Coats, &c. and a freight ſhip; on theſe are coming alſo from 5 to 600 Military and Marines. The biſhop of Alicarnaſſa or Delevar Jung, has the rank of Brigadier General. It is ſaid they fully intend attacking the Marattas. I think they muſt have ſome intentions of that nature, by increaſing their Military and Marine Forces ſo conſiderably. An Act of Grace has taken place upon the arrival of the new Viceroy; and all delinquents pardoned and ſet at liberty.

THE Governor General recommends, that a Letter be written to the Preſidency of Fort Saint George, in reply to theirs now before the Board, in ſubſtance as follows:

To thank them for their diligence in conveying the intelligence to us which they had received concerning the affairs of Bombay; and to inform them, that we have no other advice of theſe tranſactions; and therefore, although we cannot doubt of ſome event ſimilar to what is reported having taken place, yet, till we obtain more preciſe and authentic intelligence, we muſt remain undetermined as to the meaſures which it may be neceſſary to adopt on the occaſion; to declare, however, that we cannot apprehend any conſequences from ſuch an event, which is likely to affect the Company's intereſt in the Carnatic, or require the intervention of that Preſidency; that in this perſuaſion, we can only recommend that they concert with the Nabob ſuch general cautionary meaſures as may tend to the defence of his poſſeſſions whenever they ſhall be liable to an invaſion, but neither to ſend any part of their Forces into the field, or take any other ſtep for his ſervice which may draw the Company into an expence, without a formal requiſition from him, and an engagement to defray the extraordinary charge, taking care that he appropriate a fund for that purpoſe; that this is the plan which occurs to us at preſent as the moſt adviſable; nor do we foreſee a probability of any circumſtances happening which ſhould engage them in more diſtant operations, or draw their attention from their own poſſeſſions, or thoſe of our ally the Nabob; that we recommend to them to keep a watchful eye over the French and Hyder Ally, and write to us as often as any freſh occurrences of conſequence ſhall come to their knowledge.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings.

The Governor further offers the following Obſervations to the conſideration of the Board:

Although the conduct of the Government of Bombay may prove, as it at preſent ſeems to be, precipitate and unwarrantable, and may eventually compel us to adopt a plan of politics dictated by them, from a partial conſideration of their own limitted concerns, inſtead of waiting to receive from us their rule of action, formed on a ſyſtem adapted to the general intereſt of the Company, and of the Britiſh nation in India; yet it does not appear likely to produce any conſequences of immediate danger. The preſent intereſting diſtraction of the Maratta State, and its long continuance, muſt have conſiderably exhauſted both their ſtrength and reſources; the miniſterial party which compoſe the actual Government have yet too formidable an opponent in Ragonaut Row, the regular Chief, to engage in new conteſts, eſpecially with a power with whom the Marattas have always ſhewn a diſinclination to break even in the height of their proſperity.

By the lateſt advices Ragonaut Row, ſupported by Jacoojee Mulcar and Maldajee Cinde, had retreated to the city of Ugein, the capital of the Malavar province, it is probable that a ſlight diverſion afforded to his adverſaries would invite him to return, as it would render the conteſt leſs unequal than it has lately proved; neither is it likely that it will reſent an act of the Government of Bombay, which can only tend to favour his cauſe by leſſening his credit, and diſconcerting the projects of his enemies.

From theſe reaſons, it appears unlikely that the Marattas will attempt a retaliation of the injury which has been offered to their nation, either on this Government or on that of Fort Saint George; the Chiefs attached to the party of Ragonaut Row, who have hitherto conducted the affairs of the Marattas on this ſide, have other intereſt to provide for, and the miniſters are too weak (as has been already obſerved) for diſtant enterprizes, or even to act with vigour againſt the Preſidency of Bombay.

The only powers to whom this event may be ſuppoſed to afford a pretext, or an occaſion to create us trouble, are Hyder Ally and Shahabajee Booſla; the former underſtands his own intereſt too well to quarrel with the Engliſh, from whom he can gain nothing, and with whom he may hazard all he has, and he is already ſufficiently occupied by more rational projects, the eſtabliſhment of his own country, and the annexation of the petty States of his neighbourhood to his own dominion; Shahabajee Booſla has for ſome time ſought the alliance of this Government and derives his ſureſt means of independance from the weakneſs of the Government to which he is legally ſubject.

On the grounds thus deſcribed, the Governor has propoſed the above draft of the Letter to the Preſidency of Fort Saint George; and offers it as his further opinion, that it is unneceſſary to take any immediate meaſures for obviating the conſequences of the ſuppoſed injuries offered by the Preſidency of Bombay to the Maratta Government.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings.

The above two Papers having been delivered in by the Governor General, and ſent in circulation to the other Members of the Board, the Draft for a Letter to Fort Saint George was not agreed to by General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis: Agreed, therefore, that it lie for conſideration.

APPENDIX, No. 65.

AGREED that the following Letter be now written and diſpatched over land to Bombay:

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. and Council at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

We have received your Letters of the 31ſt December, containing as well the general ſtate we required of the political ſituation of affairs of your Preſidency, as the particular accounts of your late operations at Salſette and Baſſein. The firſt will be taken into conſideration as ſoon as the hurry of other buſineſs will permit us, and directions in conſequence will be tranſmitted to you. As to the laſt, the tardineſs of your Advices almoſt precludes us from ſaying any thing at preſent on the ſubject. Our ſentiments of this inattention will be ſufficiently known to you by our Letter of the 3d February, triplicate of which accompanies this: we muſt however add, that we cannot admit the plea of your being unacquainted with the new Government having taken place here, becauſe we conceive that the operations in which you were going to engage, were too intereſting to the Company's affairs at large, and too likely in their conſequences to affect this ſettlement, not to have become matter of the moſt early intelligence to this Preſidency under the late adminiſtration.

We have received Advices from Fort Saint George, of the ſteps they had taken in conſequence of your application to them for aſſiſtance. For the reaſon we have already given, we ſuſpend our opinion on your late meaſures, and the conſequence of it, but can aſſure you that we ſhall be ready to afford you ſuch ſupport in your preſent circumſtances, as may be neceſſary for preventing, as far as may lie in our power, any injury to the Company's affairs.

We are alarmed at the declaration of your intention to join Ragoba; we muſt diſapprove of this as inconſiſtent with your negociations with the ruling party at Poona, and with the authority of this Government. Your own report of his decline and the power of his opponents, prove it to be a meaſure of danger; it may force us into a rupture with Shabajee Booſla, his declared enemy, and our neighbour, with whom we are on terms of friendſhip. We cannot ratify your engagements with Ragoba, without ſuch reaſons as we cannot now foreſee; we poſitively direct that you ſuſpend your negociations with him till you receive our further inſtructions. We were diſappointed in not receiving an account of the Forces on your eſtabliſhment, with the general ſtate of your political affairs which you ſent us, more eſpecially as you informed us of your having found it neceſſary to require a reinforcement from Madras; we therefore deſire that you tranſmit us ſuch a ſtate by the firſt opportunity.

We alſo deſire that you will prepare and tranſmit to us an accurate ſtate of the whole Revenues of your Preſidency, ſpecifying the groſs Amount, Charges, and nett Produce of each Branch.

Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires,

READ a Letter from Sir Edward Hughes, as follows:

To Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Council.

Sir, and Gentlemen,

In conſequence of the accident which befel His Majeſty's ſloop the Swallow, which I acquainted you with in the Letter I did myſelf the honour of writing to you on the 21ſt February laſt, that ſloop could not proceed, as was intended, for the Malabar Coaſt, to join the Sea Horſe there for the Protection of the Trade, having been in a great meaſure diſmantled. I have informed the Preſidency of Bombay thereof, and of my deſign to repair to that Coaſt myſelf, whenever the ſeaſon will admit. I am now to acquaint you, Gentlemen, that I am going with the Saliſbury and Swallow to Trinconomalle, on the Iſland of Ceylon, as well to avoid the petty monſoon, as to inſpect the condition of the ſloop, and to put her into proper order again for ſervice, and that I mean to return to this road about the middle of the next month.

I have heard of the arrival of the Sea Horſe on the Coaſt of Malabar, and have no doubt but ſhe has long ſince landed the Company's treaſure, and been employed agreeable to the requeſt of the Preſident and Council there.

I have the honour to be, &c.
(Signed) Edward Hughes.

To the Honourable Alexander Wynch, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor of Madras.

Honourable Sir,

Under the 7th inſtant I was favoured with your Letter of the 16th January, and am happy that any information my addreſs of the 31ſt December would give you has proved agreeable; you may in future depend, Sir, I will embrace every opportunity of ſending you any Advices that I may judge worthy your notice.

This morning anchored in our road the Honourable Company's cruizers, Revenge and Bombay Grab, from Bombay; they left the Iſland the 26th ultimo, in order to proceed down hither, to give convoy to the laying here, but falling in a little to the ſouthward of Rajanoul with the convoy under the Calcutta (Thompſon) which they judged not ſufficiently ſtrong to encounter the Maratta fleet that was cruizing betwixt them and the Reſidency, proceeded up again juſt a little to the ſouthward of the Iſland; ſeeing them clear from any riſk of the Enemy, then made the beſt of their way (the ſhips Revenge and Bombay Grab) and off Cape Dobbs fell in with the Maratta fleet, and luckily deſtroyed their Admiral's ſhip, mounting 40 guns, as ſet forth in the narrative now incloſed for your peruſal, wrote by a paſſenger in the Bombay Grab, which I now ſend for your peruſal. I do not hear of any farther acts of hoſtility by the Preſidency of Bombay; their Troops, ſince the getting poſſeſſion of Salſette and Caranja, except the entirely defeating and deſtroying a body of Marattas that had made a deſcent on Salſette in order to plunder and ravage the country. The packet from the Preſidency which I now forward to Anjengo for your Board, I dare ſay will fully explain to the Gentlemen of Bombay their further intentions, to which I beg leave to refer you. The Portugueze I do not hear have made any attempts againſt any of the Maratta ports, they were not prepared; and our acting ſo materially in the very point they had in view, I believe has entirely diſconcerted their plans.

GENERAL Clavering lays before the Board the following Extract of Advices which he has received from Brigadier General Gordon, at Bombay.

Copy of Brigadier General Gordon's Letter, dated 12th February; offering his ſervices to command the Troops.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

As you have been pleaſed to reſolve that a large part of the Troops ſhall take the field immediately, I beg leave to offer my ſervices to command them. This I hope you will think from my rank here I have a right to.

It is true that I have deſired leave to reſign, when an opportunity, which is agreeable to me, offers for my proceeding to Europe by the way of China; but that zeal I have for the Service, added to the reſpect which I owe to thoſe friends who ſo warmly ſupported my appointment in the General Court of Proprietors, makes me wiſh moſt earneſtly to render ſome further ſervices to the Honourable Company. I am therefore to requeſt, that your Honour, &c. will permit me to take the command of the Forces which are immediately to be employed.

I am, &c.
(Signed) Robert Gordon.

Copy of the Board's Anſwer, dated 14th February, to the above.

To Brigadier General Gordon.

Sir,

I am directed by the Honourable the Preſident and Council, to acknowledge the receipt of your Letter, tendering your ſervices to command the Forces now to be detached from hence; and to obſerve to you in reply, that the Board, with yourſelf, having been of opinion, in conſultation the 11th inſtant, that the object in view could not be accompliſhed by the time you had limited for your ſtay in India, you on this account then declined the command; whereupon Lieutenant Colonel Keating was then appointed. As this appointment has thus taken place, they do not now think proper to annul it; but they ſhall mention your readineſs for this ſervice, in a ſuitable manner, in their Advices to the Honourable Company.

I am, Sir, &c.
(Signed) George Skipp, Secretary.

Copy of Brigadier General Gordon's Letter, claiming the command of the Troops ordered to take the field, dated 15th February 1775.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Yeſterday evening I received three Letters from your Secretary, dated 14th February; in the firſt, the receipt of my Letter, tendering my ſervices to command the Forces to be detached from hence, is acknowledged; and it is ſignified to me in reply, that as the Board with myſelf had, on the 11th inſtant, been of opinion, that the object in view could not be accompliſhed by the time I had limited for my ſtay in India, that I had on that account declined the command, whereupon Lieutenant Colonel Keating was then appointed; and as this appointment had then taken place, you did not think proper to annul it.—The ſecond Letter contains directions to me to order Lieutenant Colonel Keating, and the Officers who are to proceed on that detachment, to be ready to embark on a moment's warning.—In the third, your commands reſpecting the embarkation, and alſo ordering Captain Lieutenant Bricket to Fort Victoria, are ſignified to me.

In anſwer to the firſt of theſe Letters, I am to obſerve, that I never declined the preſent ſervice, but repeatedly declared that I was always ready for the executive part, while I remained in India; and by my ſubſequent Letter, that I was ready to accept of the command, and to continue in the Service, till the preſent was brought to a concluſion.

I claimed the command as my right, from my rank and appointment by the Court of Proprietors; as well as that of the Court of Directors; and I conceive, the depriving me of it to be an act of injuſtice towards me, to which the ſucceſs which has attended the Company's arms as often as I have had the direction of them in the field, ſhould not have expoſed me; and I believe, this is the firſt inſtance of a Brigadier General, who had been appointed to the command of the Forces at any Preſidency by the vote of a General Court of Proprietors, having been refuſed the command of an Army about to take the field, to make room for a Lieutenant Colonel of Artillery. But admitting that my having ſignified my intentions of returning to Europe was a ſufficient reaſon for depriving me of the command, it ſhould then have been offered to Colonel Egerton, who is next to me in ſucceſſion, and who is ready to take it upon him.

The appointment of a Chief Engineer, or Commandant of Artillery as ſuch, to the chief command of a body of Forces, is, I believe, almoſt without example either in the King's or Company's Service. I think Lieutenant Colonel Keating is, for many reaſons, a very improper perſon for the appointment which you have given him; I therefore repeat my proteſt againſt the Troops taking the field under his command; nor will I be anſwerable in the ſmalleſt degree for the conſequences which may attend any of the meaſures which you are about to purſue.——I come now to the ſecond Letter: Before I received it, the Governor had put the names of the Officers, who are intended for the expedition in orders, directing therein that they were to be in readineſs to embark at a moment's warning; and he had ſignified it, as his command, to me by the Town Major, that Lieutenant Colonel Keating was to chuſe ſuch men as he thought proper from amongſt the Troops here to take with him; which in conſequence he has done. In ordering the Officers for this ſervice, no raſter, no military rule whatever, has been obſerved. By this means much injuſtice is done to many Officers; as, however lightly ſome people may think of it, I know of few greater injuries which can be done to an Officer than depriving him of his tour of duty on actual ſervice. I mention this for the notice of our Honourable Maſters, who, I doubt not, will grant redreſs to Gentlemen who have ſerved them long, honourably, and faithfully.

Reſpecting the third Letter, I was informed by Lieutenant Colonel Keating, that he had began to prepare his Stores, &c. &c. before I received it. I have therefore only to ſay, that your orders, as far as depends upon me, ſhall be punctually complied with.

I am now to ſubmit to your conſideration the weak ſtate to which all the new Conqueſts and Subordinates will be reduced when the Troops for this ſervice are drawn from them, and the total inability of the Preſidency to afford them relief, ſhould any of them be attacked. In my opinion, theſe points merit your moſt ſerious attention; as, ſhould any accident happen to the Forces who are about to take the field (and every Army, even if ever ſo ably commanded, is liable to untoward chances) I ſay, in ſuch a caſe the Company's ſettlements on this ſide of India would be expoſed to the utmoſt danger. I do not think the Troops expected from Madras would, if they were arrived, be ſufficient for the purpoſes for which they are wanted. The new Battalions of Sepoys now find great difficulty in getting recruits, as no bounty is given to encourage men to enter into the Service. It is alſo to be conſidered, that as theſe battalions take a great part of the duties of the Garriſon, drilling muſt go on very ſlowly, and it muſt be long before they can be made ſo fit for ſervice as to be depended on in any buſineſs of importance. However, I would recommend the uſing every means to get them completed as faſt as poſſible; and that no time ſhould be loſt in applying to the Supreme Council for aſſiſtance to guard againſt whatever may happen, and to protect thoſe other Territories promiſed to be ceded to us.

I am, &c.

Ordered, That the Return of Bombay Forces, delivered in with the above, be entered after the Conſultation.

It appearing from the foregoing Extract, and other private Advices received from Bombay, that the Preſident and Council there had actually ſent a conſiderable Force to the aſſiſtance of Rogonaut Row, and had entered into an offenſive Treaty with him to reinſtate him upon the Muſnud at Poona, of which they have tranſmitted no authentic intelligence to this Government, by the conveyance that has brought the above news;

Agreed, That the following Letter be written to them in Cypher, and diſpatched in Duplicate; one copy by way of Benares, and the other by Fort Saint George.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Preſident, &c. Council at Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We have not been favoured with any Letters from you or your Select Committee, reſpecting the political affairs of your Preſidency, ſince your Letter dated the 31ſt December; nor have we received any authentic Advices of the late occurrences in your parts, but from private Letters and other intelligence, all concurring in the ſame points.

We underſtand that you have entered into an offenſive Treaty with Ragonaut Row, and have ſent a conſiderable Force to his aſſiſtance, which has actully taken the field.

This laſt is confirmed by Letters received by the Commander in Chief, with Returns of the Force actually ſent. Embarraſſed and perplexed with theſe reports, the truth of which we cannot doubt, and ignorant of the Force of your Enemies, and of the immediate plan of your operations, we are obliged to remain inactive in circumſtances which may poſſibly require our utmoſt exertion for your ſupport and relief.

In this ſituation your ſilence becomes truly aſtoniſhing; but under the want of preciſe and authentic Information from yourſelves, we are obliged to ſuſpend our final judgment of your proceedings, and in the mean time proteſt againſt all the conſequences of any hoſtile meaſures taken, or offenſive engagements entered into by you without our conſent. We conſider them as directly contradictory to the proviſions made in the Act of Parliament, for uniting the ſeveral Preſidencies under the political ſuperintendance of this Government, and equally contrary to the common principles of prudence and policy; ſince the partial reſolutions and operations of a ſingle Preſidency may eventually involve all the Company's ſettlements in a general war, without any previous concert, or a general plan for conducting it.

Our Letter of the 3d February laſt contained very explicit orders on theſe heads, and we expect that you will be full and circumſtantial in your anſwer to it, and in explaining the motives for your late conduct.

APPENDIX, No. 63.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 31ſt May 1775.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

RECEIVED the following Letter and Incloſures from the Preſident and Council at Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

In our Addreſs of the 31ſt December laſt, which has been already tranſmitted in triplicate, we acquainted you with every thing needful from this department, as well with regard to the attack of Salſette, as to the negociation depending with Ragoba, the rightful ſupreme Governor of the Maratta Empire. We have been ſince favoured with your Letter in your ſecret departments of the 16th of January, to which our above-mentioned Addreſs, we flatter ourſelves, will be conſidered by you as a full and ſatisfactory reply.

Shortly after the date of that Addreſs, Ragoba with his army arrived at Bradera, not very far from Surat; the negociation with him was continued through the Chief of Surat, in the manner he before acquainted you that we propoſed doing, and at length was brought ſo near to a concluſion, that we had tranſmitted from hence a Treaty on the terms we propoſed, and had every reaſon to believe that it would be directly executed; jewels to the amount of ſix lacks of rupees were depoſited by Ragoba, and the neceſſary ſunnuds were delivered for the ſeveral diſtricts and territories the Company were to be entitled to in virtue of the Treaty, and of the aſſiſtance that agreeable to the Treaty we were to afford him.

Our Forces accordingly proceeded from hence to Surat, that they might be ready to proceed from thence to join his army as ſoon as the Treaty was actually concluded, and we had great reaſon to hope that the war between Ragoba and the Miniſterial Party, through the aſſiſtance of the Company's Forces, would ſpeedily have been brought to an happy and glorious iſſue, by which, when accompliſhed, the Company will become quiet poſſeſſors of ſundry diſtricts and pergunnahs, whoſe annual revenue will amount to near 20 lacks of rupees, and by which we hope this Preſidency may be enabled to maintain itſelf, and relieve you from the burthen of ſending us large annual ſupplies; and to add to our ſatisfaction about this time, ſome material advantages were gained by Ragoba over the Enemy's army.

This pleaſing proſpect was however for a ſhort time clouded; the Miniſterial Party, poſſibly learning that Ragoba was on the eve of concluding a Treaty with the Company, that would moſt probably overſet their ambitious hopes of ſubduing him, corrupted, as it is ſuppoſed, a part of his forces, moſtly Arabs, on whom he placed conſiderable reliance, and where he himſelf was poſted; they then attacked that quarter with the ſtrength of their army. Ragoba ſeeing in the midſt of the battle that the Arabs neglected to do their duty, and then not knowing how far the treachery had ſpread, or whom in this emergency to truſt, precipitately fled from the field, with about one thouſand horſe only, towards Cambay.

The Nabob of this place ſeeing his ſituation, and dreading the power of his enemies, refuſed to admit him, he then made the beſt of his way towards Dowmagur, where he luckily met with one of our gallivats, embarked on board her, and on the 23d ultimo arrived at Surat, where the Chief received and entertained him as a friend and ally to the Company.

Notwithſtanding this alarming ſtep, it ſhortly appeared to us, (Mr. Draper excepted, who has given his reaſons in writing for differing with us in this Opinion, as per Copy incloſed) that Ragoba's affairs were not nearly in the deſperate ſituation there was at firſt reaſon to fear. Two principal Chiefs, Couderow and Govind Row, with many of his great Officers, remain firm to his intereſt, and have collected an army to the number of 25,000 men, moſtly horſe, within 40 coſs of Cambay; many others are alſo likely ſoon to join him; we therefore eſteem it our indiſpenſable duty, not to give up the great advantages that were to be reaped by the Company from the Treaty, when ſo fair an opportunity offered of retrieving his affairs, by ſending our Forces to Cambay to join his army. Ragoba earneſtly preſſed us to this ſtep, and we have little doubt when a junction is once effected, but that ſucceſs will attend their operations. Our Forces proceeded accordingly, and arrived at Cambay the 17th inſtant.

We have given Lieutenant Colonel Keating, the commanding Officer of this detachment, proper inſtructions for his conduct; have enjoined him to obſerve the utmoſt prudence of circumſpection, and never to engage in meaſures beyond his own power to retrieve.

On the 6th inſtant, while Ragoba was yet at Surat, he executed the Treaty to the Company; the Chief alſo executed one to him, which has been ſince ratified and confirmed by us; an atteſted Copy of which we tranſmit your Honour, &c. incloſed, for your full information, and we hope it will meet with your entire approbation.

From the want of a ſufficient Military Force, we were under a neceſſity of ſtipulating, that a leſs number ſhould at firſt proceed than was originally intended, as your Honour, &c. will obſerve by the Treaty; but the Preſident and Council at Fort Saint George having with great readineſs complied with our requeſt for Troops from thence, and two companies of European infantry being actually arrived here, and a battalion of their Sepoys ſhortly expected; we therefore reſolved to complete the detachment of two thouſand five hundred men, the number firſt propoſed; and the remainder accordingly now proceeds to Surat, from whence they will embark for Cambay to join the former detachment. And as the different perſons that form the Miniſterial Party are reported to be very much divided amongſt themſelves, and that Madjee Sindy has actually deſerted their cauſe, and others it is expected will very ſhortly fall from them, we therefore have reaſon to hope that Ragoba may in a ſhort time be able to reduce them all to their due obedience to him.

We are, &c. &c.

Articles of Agreement and Treaty between the Honourable William Hornby Eſquire, Preſident and Governor, &c. Council of Bombay, and of all its Dependencies, on the part and behalf of the Honourable United Engliſh Eaſt India Company, on the one part, and Ragonath Row Ballajee, Peſhwa, on the other part. Dated the 6th day of March, in the year of our Lord 1775, on the third day of the month Moherum, and year 1189, Ijay, Mahometan ſtyle, on the day of the month and year 1180, Gentoo ſtyle.

APPENDIX. No. 68.

Article 1ſt. The Treaty concluded between the Government of Bombay and Badjerow Pundit Pardans, or firſt miniſter of his Serene Highneſs the Sou Raja, dated July 1739 or 1140 of the Mahometan ſtyle, and that concluded on the part of this Government with Ballajee Budjerow Pardan, dated the 12th October 1756, or of the Mahometan ſtyle 17th of Moherum 1170, are hereby ratified and confirmed in their full extent, according to the true and full intent and meaning of them, in the ſame full and ample manner, and in the ſame light in which they have hitherto been ever underſtood.

Art. 2d. All other Governments ſubſiſting between this Government of Bombay and that of the Marattas, are hereby ratified and confirmed, and after the re-eſtabliſhment of Ragoba in the government of the Maratta dominions, peace and tranquillity ſhall ſubſiſt uninterrupted between this Government, in behalf of the Honourable Company and the Maratta Government.

Art. 3d. Ragoba on his part, and on the part of the Maratta Government, engages from this day forward never on any pretence, or in any manner, to aſſiſt the Enemies of the Honourable Company in any part whatever of their dominions in India; and the Honourable the Governor and Council of Bombay do in the like manner engage never to aſſiſt the Enemies of Ragoba.

Art. 4th. The Honourable the Preſident and Council of Bombay, in behalf of the Honourable Company, and in conſideration of the under-mentioned grants and ceſſions made by Ragoba to the Company, do hereby engage and agree, as ſoon as poſſible after theſe Articles of Agreement and Treaty are fully ratified, executed, and confirmed on the part of Ragoba, to aſſiſt him with a ſtrong body of Forces, with proper guns and warlike ſtores, as a field train of artillery, which are to join his army, and act in conjunction with his Forces againſt his Enemies, the Miniſterial Party: in the ſaid Forces ſhall be included, no leſs than 700 Europeans, and the whole ſhall not be leſs in number than 2,500 men, but at preſent only 500 Europeans, and one thouſand Sepoys and Laſcars, with a proper and effectual number of guns, will be ſent, and the reſt if wanted afterwards.

Art. 5th. In conſideration of ſuch effectual aſſiſtance on the part of the Honourable Company, Ragoba, as Peſhwa and as ſupreme Governor of the whole Maratta Empire, doth hereby engage on his part to cede and make over to the Honourable Company for ever the under-mentioned places and territories, and he doth accordingly by theſe preſents make over the ſame to them in the moſt full and ample and effectual manner, and he doth with theſe preſents deliver the neceſſary ſunnuds; granting, in the fulleſt manner, all the preſent and future full right and title of the Maratta Government to them; and in caſe of the loſs at any time of the ſunnuds now delivered, theſe preſents are at all times to be conſidered as ſuch, and of full equal validity as any ſunnud whatever.

Baſſein, and the whole of its dependencies, in its fulleſt extent, and all Rents and Revenues thereunto belonging, together with the Fort or Forts, and every thing belonging unto the Poona Government in it.

Salſette, the whole and entire Iſland, with all the Revenues of the different places annexed to it, as collected by Anunt Row and Ramajee Punt.

Jambooſeer and Orpad, with the whole of their dependencies, in their full extent, together with every thing belonging to the Poona Government in thoſe Pergunnahs.

The four following Iſlands adjacent to Bombay, with every thing belonging to the Poona Government therein, viz. Caranje, Canary, Elephanta, and Hog Iſland.

Art. 6th. Ragoba alſo engages immediately to procure from the Guicawar, a grant to the Honourable Company for ever, with all the neceſſary ſunnuds, of their ſhare in the Revenues collected by the Guicawar in the town and pergunnahs of Broach.

Art. 7th. The Honourable Company to be conſidered as the ſole lords and proprietors, from the day of the ſigning of this Treaty, of all and every of the places ceded by the two laſt articles, in the like manner, as the Poona Government, or the Guicawar Government were before conſidered; and are accordingly, from this day forward, to exerciſe every right and authority in theſe places, and to receive every Revenue which the Poona Government, or the Guicawar before exerciſed or received.

Art. 8th. Ragoba alſo engages faithfully to make good to the Company for ever, the ſum of Seventy-five thouſand Rupees annually, from his ſhare of the revenues of Jalaſies; which ſum is to be paid by his Pundit, in two different payments at ſtated periods.

Art. 9th. Ragoba engages to pay in full for the charges and expences of the body of forces with which he is to be aſſiſted, conſiſting of two thouſand five hundred men, with guns and ammunition, the ſum of One hundred and fifty thouſand Rupees monthly and every month, which the Honourable Governor and Council agree to accept, without further account, and is to commence the day the forces leave Bombay; but as the whole number of forces will not at firſt proceed, he is only to pay a proportionable monthly ſum, till the whole force, if neceſſary, may be ſent to join him. He engages to pay this ſtipend monthly; and as ſecurity for the ſame, till his affairs will enable him to furniſh money, which he promiſes to do as ſoon as poſſible, he aſſigns by theſe preſents the revenues of the following places: viz.

Occaſeer, his remaining ſhare, after dedicating what is before by theſe preſents ceded to the Honourable Company.

Athmood and all its diſtricts,
Hanſoot and all its diſtricts,
Verſaut and all its diſtricts.

But it is hereby declared, that the Revenues of theſe places belong to the Honourable Company no longer than till the amount of the monthly ſtipend that may be due for the expences of the Company's forces is fully diſcharged, when all further demands on theſe four places are to be relinquiſhed; and in this light, the Honourable the Governor and Council declare, they accept theſe four Pergunnahs.

Art. 10th. As it has been mutually agreed during the courſe of this negociation, that the ſum of ſix lacks of rupees ſhould be depoſited by Ragoba, with the agent of the Honourable Company, to be accounted for at the expiration of the ſervice intended to be performed againſt his enemies the Miniſterial Party; and Ragoba finding it at this time totally impoſſible for him to raiſe the ſum to be depoſited, though ſtill equally willing to do it was it in his power, the contracting parties have mutually agreed to ſettle this point as follows; that Ragoba ſhall immediately depoſit with the Company's agent at Surat, to the full value of ſix lacks of rupees in jewels, to remain in the Honourable Company's poſſeſſion till redeemed, which muſt be done as ſoon as Ragoba's affairs will poſſibly admit: all this Ragoba faithfully and firmly engages to perform, and the Honourable Company to accept.

Art. 11th. In caſe of oppoſition from any perſon or perſons whatever, to the Company taking poſſeſſion of all or any of the places hereby firmly and effectually ceded to them, Ragoba doth engage to pay the expence that will be incurred by their gaining poſſeſſion, to uſe effectual means to put them in poſſeſſion, as well as to ſecure them for ever in the quiet poſſeſſion of all the revenues and places now ceded to the Honourable Company.

Art. 12th. Should Ragoba make peace with his enemies the miniſters, he firmly and faithfully engages, that the Honourable Engliſh Eaſt India Company ſhall be included in it to their ſatisfaction.

13th. Ragoba doth alſo engage, never to moleſt the dominions of the Honourable Company in Bengal.

He further engages not to make war, or commit any depredations in the Carnatic, ſo long as the laſt treaty ſubſiſting between the two Governments is adhered to by the Nabob.

14th. In caſe it ſhould happen (which God forbid) that any of the Company's Ships or Veſſels, or the Ships, Veſſels, or Boats of any perſon or perſons trading under their protection, ſhould be ſhipwrecked on any part of the Maratta Coaſt, every aſſiſtance ſhall be given by the Government and Inhabitants to ſave as much as poſſible; and the whole that may be ſaved ſhall be returned, all reaſonable expences being paid by the owners.

15th. All the places ceded for ever to the Company by this Treaty are to be conſidered as their ſole right and property from the day this Treaty is ſigned; and this Treaty from that day to be conſidered in full force, juſt as if the expected ſervices were fully accompliſhed, whether Ragoba ſhall make peace with his enemies or not.

16th. Immediately after the ratification of the foregoing articles, and after the jewels to the full amount of ſix lacks of rupees are depoſited, and the ſecurity abovemention given for the payment of the monthly expences of the forces ſo long as they continue with Ragoba, and till their return, all in the manner above-mentioned, the Governor and Council engage that the Company's forces, agreeable to what is mentioned in the body of this Treaty, ſhall proceed from Bombay to join the army of Ragoba; and they truſt, by the bleſſing of the Almighty, that they will quickly overcome his enemies, the Miniſterial Party, and eſtabliſh him at Poona in the government of the Maratta Empire.

The foregoing Articles having been agreed to by the Honourable the Preſident and Council of Bombay, who have empowered me to accept the ſame in their behalf, I do, in confirmation thereof, affix the Seal of the ſaid Honourable Company, and ſign my own name thereto, in Surat, the day and year above-written; and I do engage to procure a ratification of this Treaty under the Seal of the Honourable Company, and under the Hands and Seals of the Honourable the Preſident and Council of Bombay, within thirty days from this date.

(Signed) Robert Gambier.

We the Preſident and Council of Bombay aforeſaid, having empowered Mr. Robert Gambier to execute a Treaty with Ragonaut Row Ballajee, Peſhwa, in our behalf, on account of the Honourable Company, of the foregoing tenor, which he has accordingly done, of the date abovementioned; and the ſame having been ſigned to, ratified and confirmed by Ragonaut Row Ballajee Row; and whereas by the laſt article it is covenanted and agreed that a ratification of the ſaid Treaty ſhall be tranſmitted by us under the Seal of the Honourable Company, and under our proper Hands and Seals, within one month from the above date; theſe therefore are to certify, that we hereby ratify and confirm the foregoing Treaty in all and every part: In teſtimony whereof we have cauſed the Seal of the aforeſaid Honourable Company to be hereunto affixed, and do now ſign the ſame with our Hands, and affix our proper Seals thereto this 16th day of March, in the year of our Lord one thouſand ſeven hundred and ſeventy-five.

APPENDIX. No. 68.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee at Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I am concerned, that after concurring with you in the whole progreſs of the negociations with Ragoba, and likewiſe in every meaſure relative to the intended expedition for the re-eſtabliſhing him in the government at Poona, I ſhould think myſelf under the neceſſity of diſſenting to the reſolution you came to the 7th inſtant, for ordering our troops to proceed on the expedition, in conjunction with Ragoba as ſoon as he may have ratified the Treaty, and have given us ſufficient ſatisfaction relative to the payment of the monthly allowance, for defraying the charges of the expedition, agreeable to the minutes of that day. As I conceive that in conſequence of Ragoba having ſo lately been routed and fled from his army to Surat, attended only by an inconſiderable quantity of followers, that there is a great alteration for the worſe in the ſtate of his affairs, to what it was about the middle of laſt month, on our troops leaving Bombay, when, according to the Advices we then had, he was at the head of ſo numerous an army as to have lately engaged the miniſterial troops more than once with ſucceſs; whereas from the intelligence in general we have ſince received from Surat, Broach, and Cambay, the forces of which his army was compoſed are ſtill diſperſed at a conſiderable diſtance from Cambay; and in my opinion any large number of them re-aſſembling and acting with the neceſſary ſpirit and firmneſs, is become very doubtful, eſpecially as the Company's credit (as to immediately raiſing caſh) as well as his, is now very unfortunately known to be at a low ebb at Surat. I cannot therefore but conſider the reſolution your Honour, &c. came to the 7th inſtant, as premature; and of courſe that it would have been more adviſable to have poſtponed it, if neceſſary, about twenty days; as I cannot but think that by ſo doing we might be qualified to come to a proper determination on ſo very weighty an affair, both to the Honourable Company and Ragoba, eſpecially for the following reaſons:

1ſt. Becauſe, that by the above time we may reaſonably hope to have a pretty certain account what number of Ragoba's forces may be able and willing to join him, and whether he may have any tolerable proſpect of paying them, ſo long as our troops may be ſuppoſed to act jointly with him, 2dly. That we may likewiſe, by the above time, hope to be at a certainty about the ſquadron with the expected reinforcement of troops from Madras, alſo the expected ſupply of money from Bengal; the former of which would enable us to determine, whether it would have been beſt that the preſent ſmall body of the Honourable Company's forces, under Lieutenant Colonel Keating, conſiſting of about 1,500 men, ſhould or ſhould not proceed with Ragoba without waiting for the reinforcement, conſidering the difficulty and riſque of their effecting a junction afterwards. And the ſupply of money would enable us to relieve the Company's preſſing neceſſities at Surat, without having recourſe to the pledging of Ragoba's jewels, or lowering the preſent very diſadvantageous rate of exchange with Bengal, and alſo put the demands of our troops on a certainty of being anſwered; without which, I apprehend very ſerious conſequences may enſue.

3dly. That ſhould Cambay then on the whole be thought the moſt eligible place for our and Ragoba's troops aſſembling at, the ſeaſon might permit of it; and in the ſame time Ragoba's friends, wherever ſituated, could have no doubt from the continuance of our forces with him at or near Surat, that they were kept in readineſs to proſecute his cauſe, even though it might then be judged moſt adviſable, in order to be joined by the Madras troops, to have deferred proceeding with the expedition till after the rains.

4thly. Becauſe I am of opinion, that with Ragoba's concurrence at leaſt, the expedition had better be ſo deferred deferred than profecuted at this juncture, without a very reafonable profpect of their being able to carry him to Poona before the rains; and in which cafe the troops might remain at or near Surat, thereby affording full protection to that fettlement and Broach, and be very ferviceable, I conclude, in recovering the revenues of the diftricts to be ceded to the Company, conformable to the 11th article of the Treaty, particularly thofe on account the monthly allowance; and during the rains, I imagine good offers might be made Ragoba and us by the Miniferial Party, for accommodating matters, if he and we fhould think proper to attend to them.

Thefe were the principal reafons of my diffenting to your Honour, &c. above-mentioned refolution; but in cafe Ragoba and our troops fhould be enabled to fet out from Surat agreeable thereto, which in confequence of Ragoba's late defeat appears to be rather improbable, your Honour, &c. have my beft wifhes that your expectations therein may be fully anfwered; being with refpect,

(Signed)

Bombay, 11th March 1775. Daniel Draper.

Ordered, That the Letter agreed upon, to be written in Cypher to the Prefident and Council of Bombay at the laft conſultation, be now withheld.

The Governor General begs leave to record the following minute upon the fubject of the above Letter.

The intelligence conveyed in thefe difpatches appears of fo great importance to the general intereſts of the Company, that I think it incumbent on me to offer my particular fentiments previous to the deliberation of the Board upon it.

If the meafures adopted by the Prefidency of Bombay had been attended with any deciſive effects, I fhould not have judged it neceſſary for this Board to paſs either cenfure or approbation upon them; but on the contrary, I am forry to declare that I fee a tendency in them to a very extenfive and indefinite fcene of troubles in which this Government, and all the connections of the Company in India, may be eventually involved. I think therefore it becomes incumbent on us to interfere in fuch a manner as either to put a total ftop to the operations, or to mark the degree of our acquiefcence in them. I muft plainly declare, that I regard their conduct in this inftance as unfeafonable, impolitic, unjuft, and unauthorized.

It is unfeafonable, becaufe the Treaty was formed with Ragoba at a time in which he appears to have been totally abandoned by his former adherents.

It was impolitic, becaufe it threw the whole burthen of the war on the Company, without a force at the command of that Prefidency equal to the undertaking, without money or certain refources; and becaufe it was undertaken without any regard to the general intereft of the other fettlements of the Company in India.

It was unjuft, becaufe they had received no injury from any part of the Maratta State which could authorize their interfering in their mutual diffentions, nor were under any actual ties to aſſiſt Ragoba; on the contrary, it appears from their Letter of the 31ſt December, that they were in actual treaty with thofe very Powers againſt whom they have fince declared war, and had even laid the foundation of it at the time in which they were making them offers of friendfhip. I quote the words of their letter as a proof of this, "Yet it is "the furtheſt from our wiſhes to occaſion a rupture be- "tween us and the Marattas, by the ſteps we have been "under the neceſſity of purſuing. The Preſident there- "fore, agreeable to our reſolution, will explain to the "Miniſterial Party at Poona the real motives of our pro- "ceedings, and they ſhall be aſſured, that in caſe they "gain the advantage in the preſent conteſt, by the "overthrow of Ragoba, that we ſhall reſign the iſlands "to them ſo ſoon as they are in a condition to defend "them from the Portugueze, if they cannot be induced "to cede them to us; provided alſo that they will give "a ſuitable equivalent or compenſation for them."—And in the paragraph almoſt immediately following, they ſay, "About four months ago Ragoba, by means of an "agent he has reſiding at Surat, again made propoſals, "through the Chief of Surat, for the aſſiſtance of a "body of forces againſt his enemies, the Miniſterial "Party at Poona. As we were of opinion very material "advantages might be derived from it to our Honourable "Employers, by affording them ſome aſſiſtance, we di- "rected the Chief to enter upon the negociation; and "pointed out the terms on which we might be induced "to aſſiſt him with a body of Europeans, Artillery, and "Infantry, and Sepoys, to the amount of about 2,500 "men, which, in conſideration of the advantages the "Company were to reap from the alliance, we judge we "might be able to ſpare for ſome few months on this "ſervice."

Theſe oppoſite negociations, which muſt become public to the whole world, cannot fail to deſtroy that confidence which the powers of India have hitherto placed in the honour and good faith of the Britiſh Government in India.

It is unauthorized, becauſe it is expreſsly contrary to the Act of Parliament, which declares, it ſhall not be lawful for them "to make any orders for commencing "hoſtilities, or declaring or making war againſt any "Indian Princes or Powers, or for negociating or con- "cluding any treaties of peace or other treaty with "any ſuch Indian Princes or Powers, without the conſent "and approbation of the ſaid Governor General and "Council firſt had and obtained, except in ſuch caſes of "imminent neceſſity as would render it dangerous to "poſtpone ſuch hoſtilities or treaties until the orders "from the Governor General and Council might arrive, "and except in ſuch caſes where the ſaid Preſidents and "Councils reſpectively ſhall have received ſpecial orders "from the ſaid united Company; and any Preſident and "Council of Madras, Bombay, or Fort William, who ſhall "offend in any of the caſes aforeſaid, ſhall be liable to "be ſuſpended from his or their office by the ſaid "Governor General and Council."—The exceptions above ſpecified will no wiſe apply to the preſent caſe; they were in no actual danger, nor had they even the plea of a favourable criſis, the advantages of which might be loſt by miſſing the inſtant opportunity to ſeize it. I do not therefore heſitate to pronounce, that they have been guilty of a direct infringement of the Act of Parliament, and the authority of this Government founded upon it.

Having thus declared my opinion on the meaſure itſelf, I am compelled to add my equal diſapprobation of the manner in which they have commenced the proſecution of it, by the removal of their forces to ſo great a diſtance, both from the center of their own poſſeſſions, and from the Capital of the Maratta State, which I conceive ought to have been the immediate and principal object of ſuch an enterprize; they have laid the foundation of an indefinite war, depending on a ſeries of unconcerted operations, each liable to be fruſtrated by a variety of probable accidents, againſt which it does not appear that they have made any proviſion.

On the whole, I offer it as my opinion, that we ought to proteſt againſt the Treaty formed by the Preſidency of Bombay, as invalid, and againſt the war, as dangerous, impolitic, and unauthorized.

Although I am thus clear in my opinion of what is paſt, I confeſs I have doubts of the part which this Government ought to take with reſpect to the future. It is impoſſible to conjecture amidſt ſuch a variety of probable contingencies, and under our total ignorance of their plan of operations, what turn affairs may have taken, or what may be their actual ſtate at the time our orders may arrive. It is certainly to be wiſhed they could be replaced on the ſame footing on which they were before their engagement with Ragoba; but this is now impoſſible, and to withdraw abruptly after having entered into poſitive engagements with our party, and offended the other perhaps beyond the hopes of reconciliation, may be attended with greater danger than proſecuting the original deſign, and even with national diſhonour? I can therefore only venture to propoſe, that the Preſident and Council of Bombay be peremptorily enjoined to cancel the Treaty with Ragoba, and to withdraw the detachment immediately to their own poſſeſſions, by whatever means may be in their power, unleſs any of the following caſes ſhall have occurred; viz.

1ſt. That they ſhall have obtained any deciſive advantages over the enemy.

2d. That the detachment ſhall have proceeded to ſuch a diſtance, or be in ſuch a ſituation as to make it dangerous either to retreat, or not to go on.

3d. That a negociation ſhall have taken place between Ragoba and his opponents, in conſequence of the ſupport afforded by this alliance.

Theſe I conceive to be all the caſes of neceſſity which muſt compel them to preſerve, and which I muſt recommend to be made exceptions to the general order; I can form the idea of many others, but I dare not propoſe them; to multiply exceptions, would tend to fruſtrate our intentions, and I allude to theſe only, to ſhew the unfortunate dilemma to which we are reduced, that we muſt either proceed with danger, or retreat with diſgrace, and have no option but that of the leaſt evil.

The Board concurring in the opinion of the Governor General, excepting the articles of reſervation with reſpect to the recall of the Forces from their expedition to Cambay.

The queſtion is put, Whether the recall of the Troops ſhall be ordered without any ſpecific exceptions?

Mr. Francis—I agree entirely with the Governor General, in diſapproving the conduct of the Government of Bombay, and in proteſting againſt all the conſequences which may attend it. I think that their engaging the Company's Troops in diſtant inland expeditions, eſpecially without any determinate object for their operations, or limitation of time for their ſervice, ought not to receive the leaſt countenance or authority from us; and that we ought to inſiſt upon their recalling the Troops, without any conſideration but that of their ſafe retreat.

Mr. Barwell—I think not.

Colonel Monſon—I think they ſhould, except of the ſingle conſideration of the ſafety of the Troops.

General Clavering—Agrees with Mr. Francis in the whole of his opinion above entered.

The Governor General—I think not; I ſhould propoſe the exceptions which are contained in the preceding Minute, which I have laid before the Board.

Agreed, That the Troops be ordered to be recalled without any exception, but the ſingle conſideration of their ſafety.

General Clavering—I propoſe that a paragraph be inſerted in a Letter to Bombay, to acquaint the Government there, that as we have directed them to quit their engagements with Ragoba, and to withdraw their Forces from him into their own garriſons; and as it is not lawful for them either to negociate or conclude any Treaty of Peace, or other Treaty, with any Indian Prince or Power, without the conſent of the Governor General and Council; we will endeavour to open a negociation with the governing Maratta Power at Poona, for the re-eſtabliſhment of a peace with that State, upon the moſt advantageous terms we can for the Government of Bombay, and the other ſettlements of the Company in India. But in caſe we are not able to open ſuch negociation with the Maratta States at Poona, that we do empower them to do it, in the firſt place to refer the negociation to us; but if that ſhould not be found practicable, then to conclude a Treaty of Peace with the ruling power of the Maratta State at Poona, upon the moſt advantageous terms, having always in view the obtaining the Iſlands of Salſette, &c. of which they are in actual poſſeſſion for the Company.

Reſolved, That a negociation be accordingly opened with the Regent at Poona, that notice thereof be given to the Preſident and Council at Bombay, with directions to encourage and receive any pacific overtures which may be made them; and hold, as the firſt objects, an immediate ceſſation of arms with the Marattas, and the confirmation of the Iſlands of Salſette and Baſſein to the Company. APPENDIX No. 68.

Reſolved, That the following Letter be written in Cypher, and diſpatched in Triplicate, by different conveyances, to Bombay.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Preſident, &c. Council at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

We have received yours of the 31ſt of March, with the Copy of your Treaty with Ragoba incloſed, and the Advices of your ſubſequent operations.

Our duty impoſes upon us the painful neceſſity of declaring that we totally condemn the meaſures which you have adopted; that we hold the Treaty which you have entered into with Ragoba invalid; and the War which you have undertaken againſt the Maratta State impolitic, dangerous, unauthorized, and unjuſt. Both are expreſsly contrary to the late Act of Parliament; you have impoſed on yourſelves the charge of conquering the whole Maratta Empire, for a man who appears incapable of affording you any effectual aſſiſtance in it. The plan which you have formed, inſtead of aiming at a deciſive conqueſt, portends an indefinite ſcene of troubles, without an adequate force, without money or certain reſources to extricate you from them; nor have you the plea either of injury ſuſtained from the party which you have made your enemy, or of any prior obligation to defend the man whoſe cauſe you have eſpouſed.

We ſolemnly proteſt againſt you for all the conſequences, and peremptorily require you to withdraw the Company's Forces to your own garriſons in whatſoever ſtate your affairs may be, unleſs their ſafety may be endangered by an inſtant retreat. We leave the means of effecting this to you, but ſhall expect your punctual compliance with our commands.

You have neither informed us for what purpoſe the detachment was ſent to a diſtance ſo remote from the obvious ſcene of its operations as Cambay, nor what plan you have concerted for their ſubſequent progreſs. You have not informed us of the ſituation of the places aſſigned you for payment of the ſubſidy, in whoſe poſſeſſion they were, from whom they were to be either peaceably ſurrendered, or taken by force, nor of the amount of the ceded Iſlands; all which points we conceive to be eſſentially neceſſary for our information.

In the dangerous conſequences which we apprehend from the ſtate in which you had placed the Company's affairs in your quarter, we ſcarce advert to any part of your conduct, which reſpects merely the formal line of your duty; yet, as this Government has been charged by a ſolemn Act of Legiſlature itſelf, with the general intereſts of the Company in India, and armed with a controul over the other Preſidencies, we cannot paſs by without notice the entire diſregard which you appear to have ſhewn to our authority.

For the paſt, we content ourſelves with leaving to you the reſponſibility of your own actions; but for the future, in caſes of the like inattention on your part, after the peremptory injunctions which we may have found it neceſſary to preſcribe for your conduct, we ſhall deem ourſelves accountable if we neglect to exerciſe the powers veſted in us by the Act of Parliament, for the ſupport of the authority committed to us.

In order that nothing may be omitted on our part to extricate you from any difficulties to which your immediately relinquiſhing your engagement with Ragoba may expoſe you, it is our intention to open a negociation with the ruling party of the Maratta State at Poona, as ſoon as poſſible. We ſhall adviſe you of the meaſures we take for this purpoſe; in the mean time, we direct you to receive and encourage any pacific overtures that may be propoſed to you, making the inſtant ceſſation of arms, and a confirmation of your poſſeſſion of the Iſlands of Salſette and Baſſein, your firſt objects; but you are not to aim at more expenſive acquiſitions, or conclude any definitive Treaty without our approbation.

We are, &c. &c.

The Governor General—I muſt inform the Board, that the perſon whom the Miniſterial Party at Poona have conſtituted the Peiſhwa or Prime Miniſter of the Maratta State in the place of Ragoba, is an infant, and that the man, who I underſtand has the chief conduct of their affairs, is Suckharam Baboo.

I would recommend to the Board, that a Letter be addreſſed to this perſon, ſignifying to him the ſentiments and intention of the Board previous to the propoſed negociation; which if agreed to, I move that the following draft be written to him to that effect.

To Suckharam Baboo.

Underſtanding that the chief adminiſtration of the Maratta State is in your hands, I have judged it expedient to addreſs you upon the ſubject of the tranſactions which have lately paſſed between your Government and that of the Engliſh Company at Bombay. I am informed by Letters from the Governor and Council of that place, that they have entered into an offenſive Alliance with Ragoba, and ſent a large military Force to ſupport him in his pretenſions to the Peiſhwaſhip of the Maratta State. As this is contrary to the orders of the Company, which expreſsly enjoin the ſtricteſt forbearance of every act which may lead their ſervants to become the aggreſſors in any wars or diſputes with the powers of India, and to the commands of the King of Great Britain my maſter, by which the other governments and ſettlements of the Company are prohibited from forming Treaties, or engaging in Hoſtilities, without the previous concurrence of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, orders have therefore been ſent from myſelf and the Council aforeſaid, to the Governor and Council of Bombay, to withdraw the Forces which they have detached to the aſſiſtance of Ragoba, and to deſiſt from all further acts of hoſtility with any party of the Maratta Nation, unleſs in caſes in which they ſhall be compelled to it in their own defence; and it is my intention to depute a proper and truſty perſon to Poona, which, being the ſeat of the Maratta Empire, is alſo contiguous to Bombay, to treat with you concerning the points of difference between the Government of Poona and that of Bombay, and to eſtabliſh the conditions of a future peace and laſting friendſhip between both.

I ſhall wait for your anſwer to this Letter before I give the Deputy his diſpatches, that I may be firſt aſſured it will be agreeable to you to receive him; and in the mean time I hope you will give orders for the ceſſation of all hoſtilities on your part with the forces of the Engliſh Company, that no impediment may remain to the propoſed pacification.

I have written this ſolely with a view to the reſtoration of peace and friendſhip with your Nation, and the preſervation of good order, and conſiſting in the affairs of the Engliſh Company, which are ſubject to my charge. From the report which has been univerſally made to me of your wiſdom, I have the greateſt reliance on your diſpoſition to ſecond with heartineſs my endeavours, that neither you nor I may be blamed, if the event ſhould not prove anſwerable to them.

APPENDIX, No. 69.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 21ſt June 1775.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

THE Board taking into conſideration the appointment of a perſon on a deputation to the Maratta Court at Poona;

The Governor General recommends Lieutenant Colonel Dow for that appointment.

From the novelty and delicacy of this commiſſion, he conceives it to require a perſon of known and uncommon abilities to execute it. The well-known character of Colonel Dow will juſtify the choice that he has made of him for this truſt. Added to a good underſtanding, and the advantages of a liberal education, he poſſeſſes a very competent knowledge of the country languages, and an intimate acquaintance with the political intereſt of the Company; and the Government believes that he has reſided ſometime at Bombay, which may have afforded him an opportunity of informing himſelf of the particular ſtate, exigencies, and means of that Preſidency.

Mr. Francis—I agree with the Governor General in his opinion of Colonel Dow's merit. It was that opinion which induced me to give my hearty concurrence to his late appointment of Commiſſary General, for which I have ſince had the greateſt reaſon to think him particularly qualified. I cannot conſent to remove him ſo ſoon from an office in which he has done, and may do, the Company the moſt eſſential ſervice.

Mr. Barwell acquieſces in the Governor General's motion.

Colonel Monſon—I agree with the Governor General and Mr. Francis, in the acknowledged abilities of Colonel Dow; but he is now placed in an office in which he has already acquitted himſelf to my full approbation, and I think the ſuddenly removing him from it, may be attended with ſome prejudice to the Company's affairs in that department, I therefore do not conſent to this appointment on the deputation to Poona.

General Clavering—The ſingular talents, integrity, aſſiduity, and firmneſs which Lieutenant-Colonel Dow has ſhewn ſince his appointment to the office of Commiſſary General, has convinced me that it could not be filled ſo ably by any man in the Company's ſervice. I know that he has ſaved the Company ſeveral lacks of rupees; in doing which he has acquired much ill will from the army. I therefore cannot give my conſent to his removal, as this would in effect be, becauſe during his long abſence it would be impoſſible to ſend a deputy who ſhould poſſeſs all thoſe requiſites for that employment which Colonel Dow poſſeſſes. If the Governor General ſhall think a military man of Colonel Dow's rank proper for that employment, I would recommend Lieutenant Colonel Upton to it, as I believe him very capable and intelligent.

The Governor General—I confeſs that in naming a military man, I was guided by the intimate perſuation, that the choice of the Board would be confined to that line. I think the rank of Colonel Dow rather an objection than a recommendation; but I regarded only the other qualifications which I believed him to be poſſeſſed of.

Reſolved, That Lieutenant Colonel Dow be not appointed.

Mr. Francis—I agree to Lieutenant Colonel Upton's appointment.

Mr. Barwell acquieſces.

Colonel Monſon agrees to the motion.

General

General Clavering agrees.

The Governor General alſo aſſents.

Agreed, That Lieutenant Colonel Upton be appointed to Poona; and that he be allowed 1,000 Rupees per annum, beſides the pay and double batta which will be his due as on ſervice out of the provinces.

Ordered, That the Secretary acquaint Colonel Upton of his nomination, and direct him to repair immediately to the preſidency.

The Secretary having prepared the inſtructions for the Deputy to Poona, conformably to the Orders of the Board, now produces them; and they are approved in the following words:

Sir,

Having thought it neceſſary to depute you to Poona, the capital of the Maratta State, with powers to act on behalf of this Government, in ſettling with the Peiſhwa, or acting Miniſter of that nation, the terms for a reſtoration of peace with the Government of Bombay; we direct that you proceed thither with all poſſible diſpatch, and attend to the following inſtructions:

1ſt. On your arrival at Poona you will deliver the Credentials herewith given you, unto Suckharam Baboo, or the Peiſhwa or acting Miniſter for the time being; and take the firſt opportunity of expreſſing to him the regret of this Government for the hoſtile meaſures which have been adopted by the Preſident and Council of Bombay; in concurrence with Ragoba. You will inform him that we entirely diſapprove of the Treaty they have entered into with him, which was done without any authority from us; that our only deſire is to re-eſtabliſh that peace which has been infringed by the Preſidency of Bombay, and to live in amity and union with the Maratta Nation.

2. You will uſe all your endeavours to obtain a ceſſion of the Iſlands of Salſette and Baſſein to the Company, with the other conquered Iſlands, viz. Caringa, Canary, Elephanta, and Hog Iſland. You will repreſent the intentions of the Portugueze to have ſeized theſe Iſlands, and that a naval force had actually arrived at Goa for this purpoſe; that the Government of Bombay poſſeſſed themſelves of them as ſoon as they were informed of this intention, without the leaſt degree of enmity to the Maratta Government, but merely to fruſtrate the deſigns of the Portugueze, which have ſince proved evident in this reſpect, they having formerly proteſted againſt our proceedings, and aſſerted an old claim to the poſſeſſion of the above places. It might be further urged, that the Portugueze will continue to keep a watchful eye upon them, but their Court being at peace with the Engliſh Nation, they would not pretend to ſet on foot any expedition againſt them while they remain in our hands; and if they ſhould be given up again to the Marattas, the Portugueze would not fail to take the firſt occaſion of making an attack upon them, and either overpower the garriſons uſually ſtationed for their defence, or make it neceſſary to maintain in them ſuch a force in conſtant pay, as the revenues could by no means afford to ſupport.

3. If there is any foundation for the intelligence which we have lately received, and which we believe to be authentic, of ſome ſignal advantages which have been gained by Ragonaut Row over the Miniſterial Army, we apprehend you may be able to obtain the ceſſion of Salſette and Baſſein, with the other conquered Iſlands, without much difficulty; and in this caſe you may alſo have it in your power probably to gain more ſubſtantial advantages to be yielded to the Company. Your next object therefore muſt be to obtain a formal ſurrender of the moiety held by the Marattas of the revenues of the town and pergunnah of Broach. But we muſt leave theſe, or any other parts which you may be able to ſecure for the intereſt and advantage of the Company, to your diſcretion; and you will propoſe them, or not, as you ſee occaſion from the ſpirit of the Court, the event of the operations of Ragoba, and the inclination of the Miniſterial Party to a pacification. If any offers ſhall have been made before your arrival by the Miniſterial Party to the Government of Bombay, it is unneceſſary to recommend to you to inſiſt on them if they ſhould be for the advantage of the Company.

4. Though we do not mean to inſiſt abſolutely upon all theſe conceſſions, if manifeſt advantages ſhould have been gained againſt the Company's arms, yet we are determined on no account to relinquiſh the poſſeſſion of Salſette and Baſſein; therefore ſhould the Peiſhwa hold out againſt yielding them to the Company, you are at no rate to agree to reſtore them, declaring to them, if neceſſary, that the matter having been referred to the Honourable the Court of Directors, it is impoſſible to relinquiſh theſe places without their expreſs permiſſion; and you are to adviſe us immediately of what has paſſed.

Although we have thought it neceſſary to diſapprove the meaſure of the Preſidency of Bombay, in entering into the Treaty with Ragoba, and have ordered them to withdraw their aſſiſtance from him, yet we think it conſiſtent with the honour of the nation, and this government, to endeavour to ſtipulate ſome conditions for him with his adverſaries; what theſe ſhould be, muſt depend on the circumſtances in which you may find him on your arrival; we muſt therefore leave this chiefly to your diſcretion, and only direct in general, that in whatever Treaty you may negociate with the Marattas, you will endeavour to include Ragoba, and to obtain ſuch terms for him as in his actual ſituation it may appear to you reaſonable to expect, and which may not fruſtrate the immediate objects of your negociations.

We incloſe the tranſlation of a Letter which the Governor General has lately written to Suckharam Baboo, on the ſubject of our intention to depute a perſon to the Maratta Court; alſo, Copy of the Treaty entered into by the Preſidency of Bombay with Ragoba, as they may ſerve for a guide to you in your negociations.

Ordered, That they be copied fair, and delivered to Lieutenant Colonel Upton on his arrival.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Moiſon,
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

READ a Letter from the Preſidency at Bombay, as follows:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

In our letter of the 31ſt ultimo we acquainted you of the Treaty that had been entered into with Ragoba, of his ſituation, and of the ſteps we had purſued for fulfilling our engagements; at the ſame time we incloſed a Copy of the Treaty for your information: A duplicate of that Letter, of the Copy of the Treaty, and of another paper, then incloſed, accompanies this Addreſs.

We have now the ſatisfaction to acquaint your Honour, &c. that our Forces were joined by Ragoba's Army, in number near 40,000 horſe and foot, at a village about two miles from Cambay, on the 19th inſtant, as we are juſt informed by advices from the commanding officer of our forces there. The Miniſterial Army by the ſame account is not more than ſix miles diſtant from the place of their encampment, ſo that we ſhortly expect to hear of a deciſive action, which we think can only be prevented by an accommodation taking place between Ragoba and the Miniſterial Party; ſome overtures for which have been made, though we are yet unacquainted with the particulars; but it appears to us, that the heads of that party, divided divided as we are assured they are amongst themselves, are endeavouring to make some terms of advantage with their master while they yet have it in their power.

We before advised your Honour, &c. that Madjee Sindy had deserted the confederate ministers. We are now assured that he has actually entered into engagements for assisting Ragoba, and only waits for the first favourable opportunity to do so. Tookajee Holcar it is also asserted will never act against him, and Futty Sing it is said is entering into engagements with him.

Thus it should seem from the advices of Lieutenant Colonel Keating, that the grand confederacy will be shortly greatly weakened, if not entirely dissolved. He represents, that nothing is wanting to give life to Ragoba's affairs but money, for which he is it seems in very great distress. Colonel Keating, and indeed Ragoba himself, have urged us to furnish him with a supply of at least five lacks of rupees; which request has been denied, as out of our power to grant him.

Besides, had it been just at that time in our power to furnish that sum, or any other, yet, whatever sum of money we could have lent, though considerable to the Company, would have gone but a little way with so numerous an army, towards retrieving Ragoba's affairs, and he would probably again have been soon in the same distress. We therefore judged it more prudent, especially as we had entirely complied with the terms of the Treaty on our part, to give an absolute denial, that he might at once endeavour to find a pecuniary supply from some other quarter. From this your Honour, &c. will judge that it is not yet in Ragoba's power to bear any part of the expence of our forces, which by Treaty he has engaged to do. The whole expence of our army therefore at present falls on the Company, which by being in the field is of course very considerable; this circumstance, together with many other urgent calls for money, induces us earnestly to request you will send us a large supply in specie or otherwise, as soon as possible; and we hope, that when the matters at present depending are brought to a successful issue, and the Company in consequence in quiet possession of the factories ceded to them, that we shall be enabled from the revenues to carry on our employers affairs, without being any longer a burthen to your Presidency.—The Revenge and Bombay Grab, two of our cruizers, fell in with the Maratta Fleet some time ago, in their passage to Tellicherry, and were attacked by them; the enemy however presently sought their safety by flight; one of their vessels only escaped, which was drove on shore and totally destroyed; it was the Commodore's vessel, and mounted four-and-forty guns.—We have been favoured with your Letter of the 3d of February, and doubt not but our Address of the 31st December would reach you shortly after, when we hope your Honour, &c. would be convinced that we have done what the Legislature required of us, in giving you every information you could desire. We did not write you at the time that Mr. Mostyn was ordered to quit Poona, as the notice of your having taken on you the government of Bengal, in virtue of the late Act of Parliament, had not then reached us, and when it did, it required some days to compile and digest the detail of the Company's affairs at this Presidency, which you desired, as well as to give you a clear idea of the important matters we had then in hand. At that time the siege of Tannah was carrying on, which also occasioned our Advices being retarded for a few days, as we were then in daily and even hourly expectation of being in possession of the fort; and we wished, together with the motives of our proceedings, to be able to advise you of the success that had attended them; but it happened that our operations at Tannah were protracted much beyond the time we had reason to suppose. It is not therefore at all extraordinary, that private Advices should be received before our Letter reached you; but your Honour, &c. may depend, that we shall always send you ample and timely, and we hope satisfactory accounts of our proceedings.

We are, &c.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President,
Lieutenant John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monson,

Philip Francis, }

RECEIVED the following Advices from Fort St. George:

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

A Packet under your address, from the Select Committee at Bombay, was yesterday received by the Success Grab, and forwarded over land.

Although we doubt not but the Gentlemen of Bombay have communicated to your Honour, &c. particular intelligence regarding their operations, yet we have thought it necessary to transmit to you Copy of their Letter to us, and of the papers which accompanied it.

The intelligence mentioned in Mr. Townsend's Letter respecting Hyder Ally's designs against the Raja of Travencore, we believe to have but little foundation, as the Raja is expressly included in the Treaty entered into between this Government and Hyder Ally in 1769; and we can scarce think that Hyder Ally will venture to break the Treaty by attacking the Raja.

We have the honour to be, &c.

Fort Saint George, 20 June 1775. A. Wynch, &c. Council.

To the Honourable Alexander Wynch, Esquire, President, &c. &c. at Fort Saint George.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

You are advised from the Board, under the 10th April, of the arrival here of the two Companies of European Infantry that you had sent to our assistance. We are now to acquaint your Honour, &c. that the whole of the Battalion of Sepoys under the command of Captain Kelly is also safely arrived, except about an hundred men that are on board the ship Calcutta, which has been for some days past expected from the Coast.

The two Companies of European Infantry were sent to join our Forces at present engaged in assisting to re-establish Ragonaut Row, the Peishwa, in the supreme government of the Marattas. Our Forces, in conjunction with those of the Peishwa, are in full march from Cambay, towards Poona. In five successive engagements which they have had with the Ministerial Army, they have always been victorious, and without any loss to our Forces (the advantage has always been obtained by them) except in the last, which happened on the 18th ultimo, when the victory was more complete than in any of the former actions, and the number of the enemy killed, and their horse very considerable indeed. Yet, owing to an accident or mistake, a detachment of our Forces sustained considerable loss, being that wherein the Madras Infantry was posted; the loss sustained by your Infantry, was two commissioned Officers, and fourteen non-commissioned Officers and Private Men killed; and one Officer and twenty-eight non-commissioned Officers and Privates wounded: The particulars of this affair are related in a Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating to us; an extract of which we now inclose for your information.

We have lately learnt by Advices from the Reſident at Omore, that an Embaſſy has been ſent by the Dutch at Cochin to the Nabob Hyder Ally, at Seringapatam; and that there is great reaſon to ſuppoſe that a Treaty has been entered into between them, whereby the Dutch, in conſideration of grants for the purchaſe of Pepper and Sandall Wood, have engaged to aſſiſt the Nabob, by ſea and land, in making a conqueſt of the Travencore country. A Copy of the Letter containing this intelligence is incloſed, and ſhould it be anyways uſeful, we ſhall be happy in having communicated it to you.

The incloſed Packet, for the Chief at Anjengo, we requeſt you will be pleaſed to forward.

We are, &c.

Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Keating, Commanding Officer of the Forces with Ragoba, to the Select Committe at Bombay; dated at Betaſſe Camp, 19th May 1775.

As ſoon as the Enemy's guns began firing, I rode to the rear, and found Captain Meyers moving agreeable to orders; when near enough, our guns and howitzers fired on their army, and at their cannon, until the former fled, and the latter were ſilenced. Captain Meyers and ſeveral other Officers then reported to me, the two guns belonging to the Enemy were but a little way from the right of the diviſion engaged, and the Enemy cutting down hedges to make room to carry them off; on this information I ordered the ſecond company of European Grenadiers from the head of the line of march to join Captain Meyers's diviſion, and directed Captain Meyers to endeavour to poſſeſs himſelf of the two guns, ordering him to avail himſelf of the ſtrong Milk Buſh incloſures and wood, and move with the utmoſt regularity to cover them; I remained with the Guns, two 12 Pounders, one 6 and one 8 Inch Howitzer. Soon after the diviſion with Captain Meyers quitted their ground, I obſerved them to move much too quick: I called to them to ſlacken their pace, which they then did; but I ſince find they were ſoon after ordered to move on rapidly. However, they got well formed near the guns, when the Enemy charged them from the left with a very large body, which I reached with round and caſe ſhot, and with the muſquetry; they were ſoon repulſed. They charged a ſecond time, and were again repulſed. At this time Captains Meyers and Serte were killed juſt at the moment a very large body of the Enemy with two war elephants got into a lane immediately in the rear of the diviſion, but declared they were Ragoba's party, and this was affirmed by one of his Officers, named Hurry Punt, and was heard by many of our people, and ſome of our Scindian horſe, calling to the enemy to advance, adding, "Now is your time, here are the Engliſh without their "guns." Theſe circumſtances, added to the endeavours of the Horſe and Elephants to break in on the Diviſion, obliged them to face to the right about, and give them a general fire, which totally routed them: Thus were the enemy repulſed in front and rear, with great loſs to them, and very little to us, when the firſt company of European Grenadiers were obſerved by the reſt of the Diviſion to go to the right about, and make a running march or retreat from their ground. This occaſioned the Sepoys and Madras Infantry to follow their example, but not further than to join the Grenadiers, though they all retreated very quick. It was ſomething regular till they came to the Milk Buſh hedges in their now run-away front, where the openings were very ſmall; there commenced their deſtruction, every man puſhed where he could, without obſerving the leaſt order, though repeatedly called upon by moſt of their Officers. The Enemy obſerving their confuſion, rode amongſt them ſword in hand, and cut a great number of them to pieces. As ſoon as I obſerved our men in this diſorder, I pointed all our fire to cover their retreat, and went to rally them. The firſt I met were the Grenadiers, as flying before about fifty horſe, cutting them down without oppoſition; with great difficulty I got them to the right about, and ordered them to fire; inſtead of which, they anſwered, "Theſe are our friends," "Your friends!" ſaid I, "ſee them cutting down our "Sepoys under puſhed bayonets." This was the caſe; they were not 15 yards diſtant. The moment I aſſured them it was the Enemy, in place of firing they fled ſhamefully, without firing a ſingle muſket, though our cannon were ſcarce 40 yards diſtant from them; nor did they halt for ſome time. Then it was our artillery made amazing ſlaughter, in a few minutes our caſe ſhot covered the field with their dead bodies. But it is a buſineſs I cannot account for, that in ſpite of every annoyance thoſe people always carry off their dead; on this occaſion they loſt immenſe numbers by their attention to it; not more than nine or ten were left behind.

As far as was in our power we advanced upon the enemy, and totally repulſed them, after the above ſhameful retreat, in which we ſuſtained our whole loſs, which I believe is greater than ever was known in India out of the ſame number engaged. Of 15 Officers, 6 were killed, Captains Meyer and Serte, Lieutenants Morris, Stonny, Proſſer, and Anderſon; and five badly wounded, Captain Frith, Lieutenants Dawſon and Young, Enſigns Denſon and Turing. For the reſt of the killed and wounded, I beg leave to refer your Honour, &c. to the accompanying Return.

After remaining on the field of battle to bury our dead, and procure conveyance for our wounded, we marched for this place, which is one coſs from the banks of the river Mahé, where we propoſe marching to-morrow, having perſuaded the Peiſhwa not to remain on this ſide during the rains.

The enemy's loſs muſt be very conſiderable indeed, though the numbers, as yet, are not mentioned from any accounts; in general our intelligence is exceeding bad. Three elephants were left dead on the field, and a great number of horſes. At the firſt tank they watered at, I am told upwards of 500 died of their wounds. Two thouſand good horſe would have made it as complete a victory as ever was made in India, but two hundred cannot be procured in this army. Indeed, I impute a great deal of their backward behaviour to their having no pay; and ſcarce proviſion to eat.

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. &c. Fort William Select Committe.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

IN the laſt addreſs from this department to your Honour, &c. we adviſed you of the junction of our forces with the Peiſhwa Army, and of the then ſituation of affairs. A duplicate thereof is now incloſed.

Since then, nothing very deciſive has taken place. Our Forces, in conjunction with the Peiſhwa or Ragoba's Army, are now on their march from Cambay towards Poona; and by this time, as we have reaſon to ſuppoſe, are near Broach. In five ſucceſſive actions with the Miniſterial Army, they have always been victorious without any loſs to our Forces, except in the laſt, which happened on the 18th ult. when, though the victory was much more complete than in any of the former actions, and the number of the enemy killed and wounded were very considerable indeed, with a great number of their horſes; yet, owing to ſome accident or miſtake, a detachment of our Forces ſuſtained conſiderable loſs. The particulars of this affair are related in a Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating to us, dated the 19th ult. an extract of which is incloſed for your fuller information. Six commiſſioned Officers were killed, and five wounded on this occaſion, with about ſeventy Europeans killed and wounded, and about the like number of Sepoys.

Incloſed we tranſmit to your Honour, &c. Copy of a letter from our Reſident at Onore, containing intelligence of the deſigns of Hyder Ally and of the Dutch. We have communicated the ſame to the Preſidency of Fort St. George, and have directed the Chief of Anjengo to apprize the Rajah of Travencore of the deſigns againſt him.

Your favour of the 8th March came to hand the 12th ultimo, to which we ſhall fully reply by the firſt direct conveyance; but, agreeable to your requeſt, we incloſe a Return of the Forces of this Preſidency, and a State of its Revenues; in the laſt of which you will obſerve, is not included the revenues of any of the places ceded to us by Treaty, Salſette and the other Iſlands only excepted.

We return you thanks for your aſſurances of aſſiſtance. At preſent, the moſt material matter we have to deſire, is a ſupply of money, which we requeſt you will ſend us by bills, or in ſpecie, as ſoon as you may be able; and in the mean time the Chief and Council at Surat have orders to draw upon your Honour, &c. for ſuch ſums as they can procure; and they have lately ſucceeded in obtaining about two Lacks of Rupees.

We have judged it neceſſary to appoint Mr. Moſtyn to proceed to and to reſide at Ragoba's Durbar, in order, amongſt other matters, to relieve the Commanding Officer from all other duties but the command of the Troops. He will accordingly ſet out for Surat very ſhortly; from whence we make no doubt but that he may eaſily join the Army.

As, by the Orders of the Honourable the Court of Directors, political matters as well as thoſe relative to military operations, are conducted by the Select Committee, we requeſt that your Honour, &c. in your Advices on thoſe ſubjects, will addreſs your Letters accordingly.

We are, &c. &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 1ſt June 1775. (Signed) Wm Hornby, &c. Council.

Reſolved, That the following Anſwer be written in Cypher, and ſent to Bombay.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Select Committee at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

We are favoured with your Diſpatches of the 1ſt ultimo, which contain among other, ſome Advices of the operations of the Army of Ragoba, and of your detachment with him.

We find theſe accounts ſo incomplete and ſo unſatisfactory, that we are ſtill at a loſs to form a true idea of the ſtate of theſe affairs from them. The only part of Colonel Keating's Correſpondence, which you have communicated to us, is a broken Extract from a Letter containing a relation of his tranſactions, beginning in the middle of an engagement, from which we are unable to judge of his intentions before the battle, or of the operations he propoſed in conſequence of it. We only learn, that he was arrived near the River Mage, and had perſuaded Ragoba to croſs it before the rains; which appears to us rather to controvert your information of his being in full march towards Poona. It ſhould rather ſeem, that he means to croſs the river in order to put his army in quarters during the rains. We therefore think it neceſſary to require Copies of your Correſpondence with Colonel Keating from the beginning of the campaign, and that you continue to furniſh us with Copies of what may paſs between you in future.

We cannot avoid obſerving, that notwithſtanding our Inſtructions of the 8th of March laſt, and the peremptory ſtyle in which we found it neceſſary to convey them, you have ſtill thought it proper to depute Mr. Moſtyn as public Miniſter to Ragoba's Court, without informing us of the deſigns or object of his miſſion, or of the meaſures which you may have taken for a compliance with thoſe Inſtructions, although it appears, that ten days had elapſed from the receipt of them till the date of your Letter now before us; neither have you informed us what Supplies you have received or expect from Ragoba for maintaining the burthen of the War you have entered into on his behalf. In a word, we are ſtill as much in the dark as we were on the firſt intelligence of your projected Campaign, notwithſtanding our earneſt intreaties to be furniſhed with every information that could enable us to judge what aſſiſtance our duty might make it incumbent upon us to afford you. We now deſire, in addition to the other lights we have required from you, that you ſend us a Copy of your Inſtructions to Mr. Moſtyn; and that you give orders to him to tranſmit to us, by every opportunity, ſucceſſive intelligence of the ſtate of affairs in Ragoba's Army while he continues there, and of all other matters relating to his Negociations, and the ſtate of the preſent War with the Marattas, as far as may fall under his notice.

From what we have ſaid, you will perceive that we can in no ſhape approve of your late Inſtructions: it is painful to us to repeat remonſtrances. We ſhall leave you to anſwer for this conduct to the Court of Directors. In the mean time, left in the uncertainty of which we complain, we cannot think ourſelves juſtified in ſending you the Supplies you require. We remain in hopes, that the Letter you promiſe us in anſwer to ours of the 8th of March, will be more explicit, and both enable us to afford you our aid, and point out the objects which are to be obtained by it.

We have already adviſed you of our intention to open a Negociation with the Ruling Party at Poona, for the re-eſtabliſhment of Peace with the Marattas. We alſo addreſſed Suckeram Baboo at the ſame time on that ſubject, acquainting him of our deſire to depute a perſon to treat with him there. We have ſince appointed Lieutenant Colonel Upton to this charge, who is now ready to ſet off, and will wait at Calpee on the river Jumna, for Paſſports from Suckeram Baboo. We incloſe a Copy of ſuch parts of his Inſtructions as we think materially neceſſary for your information.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

GENERAL Clavering lays before the Board the following Propoſal, which was delivered to him for that purpoſe by Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Memorandums from Lieutenant Colonel Upton, for the peruſal of General Clavering, reſpecting the Embaſſage to Poona.

Route Colonel Upton prefers, by Allahabad to Calpee, and there wait Letters from Poona, and be ſupplied with the neceſſary Paſſes.

Reaſons

Reaſons for giving the preference to this route.

Paſſage by water to Calpee, which will be effected as ſoon as the Nana's Letters can reach that place, and ſooner than any veſſel can get out, conſequently all this time gained ſhould the Embaſſage not proceed; the inconvenience ariſing from this journey to the Company or the Colonel, &c. is very immaterial. The road from Calpee to Poona, a high road, which the Marattas always take when coming into the upper parts of Indoſtan. By Letters ſent to the Nabob Aſſaph ul Dowlah, as ſoon or ſoon after the departure of Colonel Upton, Paſſes will be eaſily obtained, and meet him at Allahabad or Calpee, from what few independant Rajas may poſſeſs the country that he has to paſs through. However, the country to be paſſed is almoſt entirely in the poſſeſſion of the Marattas, or influenced by them. To ſtrengthen this opinion, ſuppoſe waiting till the middle of Auguſt to go by ſea, the uncertainty of the paſſage (ſuppoſe) to Maſulipatam, the waiting for every thing neceſſary there, and then having to go to Poona quite as far by land as from Calpee to Poona, through a very bad travelling country, which Colonel Upton has in part experienced, as well as the very tedious delays always found there in ſupplying the moſt trifling wants; theſe circumſtances put together, ſhew at one view that the time is quite gained from Calcutta to Calpee.

The occaſion is too obvious almoſt to obſerve the neceſſity of Letters being diſpatched inſtantly to the Nanah, in which the name of the Miniſter ſhould be mentioned.

Letters to the Nabob Aſſaph ul Dowlah ſhould alſo be forwarded directly. Letters to Cheit Sing, will procure what elephants and cauſſet camels may be wanted.

The Journey from Calpee to Poona, is about twenty-five days. Our Ally Aſſaph ul Dowlah will ſupply the neceſſary guards till met by the Nanahs.

Agreed, That this plan for the route of Colonel Upton, be adopted by him in his journey to Poona, but that he be directed to wait at Calpee, for Paſſports from the Peiſhwa of the Maratta State.

Agreed, That the Governor General be requeſted to write to Nudjiff Cawn, deſiring him to furniſh Colonel Upton with Paſſes, and to afford him every neceſſary aſſiſtance in his way to Calpee, if he ſhould find it requiſite to apply for them; and alſo to write to Suckeram Baboo, for Paſſports through the Marattas Dominions, to be forwarded to meet Colonel Upton at Calpee.

Reſolved, That the following Letter be alſo written to Mr. Briſtow.

To Mr. John Briſtow.

Sir,

We have received your two Letters of the 20th and 21ſt June. Having ordered Lieutenant Colonel Upton to proceed on a deputation to Poona, to negociate a Treaty of Peace with the Maratta State at that capital; and as it is thought proper that he ſhould take the route of Allahabad, and by Calpee, we deſire you will obtain from the Nabob the neceſſary Paſſports for his ſafety in travelling through his dominions, together with a guard to conduct him as far as Calpee, and to remain with him there until the arrival of Paſſports from the Peiſhwa at Poona, at which time we could wiſh that it were at Colonel Upton's direction, either to diſmiſs the guard, or to take it on with him if he ſhould find it neceſſary. You will take care that blanks be left in the Paſſports, for the names of any perſons who may attend Colonel Upton in his buſineſs.

Fort William, 10th July 1775. We are, &c.

The following Letter of Diſpatch is ſent with the Inſtructions of the Board to Colonel Upton:

To Lieutenant Colonel John Upton.

Sir,

The Commander in Chief has communicated to us the route by which you propoſe to perform your journey to Poona, and your reaſons for preferring it.

As we approve of your purſuing this route, we have directed Mr. Briſtow to procure from the Nabob Aſſaph ul Dowlah, Paſſports for you, and a guard to accompany you through his dominions, as far as Calpee. Nudjiff Cawn has alſo been requeſted to afford his aſſiſtance, if you ſhould find it neceſſary to apply for Paſſes to him; and a Letter has been diſpatched to the Peiſhwa at Poona, deſiring him to ſend Paſſports to meet you at Calpee, at which place you will wait for them. We wiſh you a ſafe journey; and

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

Read the following Letter and Incloſures, ſent in by Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

To the Honourable Governor General, &c. Council.

Gentlemen,

I was yeſterday honoured with your Letter of the 10th, and am taking every meaſure to haſten my departure, which I imagine may be by the 21ſt, if the Board ſhould find it convenient to give me their ultimate Inſtructions by that time.

I have taken the liberty to incloſe the names of the gentlemen I could wiſh to be permitted to take with me on this Service, and ſhall be happy if they are approved of by the Board, and eſtabliſhed with their fixed ſalaries whilſt employed on this Service.

I have alſo the honour to incloſe memorandums of what guards, eſcorts, camp equipage, boats, &c. &c. appear to me neceſſary, which I hope may meet with your approbation, and order to procure.

I have made a few remarks on my Inſtructions, which you will do me the honor to obſerve upon in my private (or what farther) Inſtructions you may be pleaſed to give.

Fort William, July 14, 1775. I have the honour to be, &c. (Signed) J. Upton.

Remarks ſubmitted to the conſideration of the Honourable the Governor General and Council, by Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

1ſt. Farther advantages to be obtained for the Company, &c.—Should this be practicable, of what nature, whether money or territory? If the former, under what head or account? If territory, where?

2d. Stipulation for Ragoba.—Is he entitled (or ſhould it be) to poſſeſs country? Should this be guaranteed by the Company? Should he receive any money from the Miniſterial Party, how much ſhould be obtained for him if poſſible, and how ſecured to him?

3d. To endeavour to get the ſurrender of the moiety of the revenues of the town and pergunnah of Broach.—It is meant then that Broach, with its pergunnah, is (if poſſible) to be entirely the property of the Company, independant of any other power?

4th. What is the name of the preſent Nana, or perſon in chief, ruling the Maratta Empire, and meant to be kept in poſſeſſion thereof?

5th. Upon the Treaty being concluded, are the ſettlements of Bombay and Madras to be informed thereof by me, and immediately thereupon, or not till after I have heard from the Governor General and Council?

6th.

APPENDIX. No. 73.

6th. Should not I have with me the Seal of the Company? Should it not alſo be affixed to my Inſtructions, as it may have great weight at the Court of Poona.

7th. Suckaram Baboo has been wrote to twice.—Should not a Letter to him be given to me to uſe in caſe of miſcarriage of theſe Letters, (or as they may tell me, miſlay or loſt) again fully maintaining that he is to treat with me only? Should he have already treated with the Governor and Council of Bombay, is he to be adviſed of the neceſſity of a ratification of ſuch Treaty, and this by me, on your parts, or wait till it ſhall be referred to Bengal?

8th. Letters to the Governor and Council of Bombay, (to be made uſe of only on neceſſity); they may alledge, the not fully comprehending their Letters from Bengal; that they wait further inſtructions that will determine the buſineſs they may be negociating; in ſhort, they may delay my buſineſs by various pretexts—ſuch Letter will effectually prevent it.

9th. It may be neceſſary to have a letter to the Governor and Council of Fort St. George alſo, to make uſe of only upon neceſſity; acquainting them with the nature of my deputation, to prevent my being obſtructed therein, as well as to receive any aſſiſtance from them ſhould it be required.

Gentlemen recommended by Lieutenant Colonel Upton, with their appointments, to the Honourable the Governor General and Council, to proceed with him on his embaſſage to Poona.

Captain Allan Macpherſon, of the 1ſt Regiment	Interpreter and Perſian Tranſlator.
Lieutenant James Paterſon of the 1ſt Regiment.	Secretary.
Sutton Banks, M. D.	Surgeon.
Captain Benjamin Wroe, of the 1ſt Regiment	A general charge of all Guards, Camp Equipage, Elephants, Camels, Stores, &c. &c. belonging to the Honourable Company.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 17th July 1775.

Reſolved, That the further Orders and Reſolutions of the Board upon the above, be ſignified to Colonel Upton in the following Letters:

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

Having conſidered the ſeveral queſtions which you thought it neceſſary, for the elucidation of your inſtructions, to propoſe to us, we ſhall proceed to acquaint you with our reſolutions upon each.

1ſt. The direct purpoſes of your appointment are to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace between the Maratta Government and the Preſidency of Bombay, and to obtain a confirmation to that Preſidency of the Iſlands of Salſette and Baſſein for the Company; theſe points you are to conſider as indiſpenſable.

If, however, from the ſucceſs of Ragoba's Forces againſt the Miniſterial Party, you ſhould find the latter diſpoſed to make further conceſſions for our neutrality, we have mentioned in our former Inſtructions, that a renunciation of the remaining moiety of the revenues of the town and pergunnah of Broach, is a point which we wiſh to ſecure; for the reſt, you muſt be guided entirely by your own diſcretion, which will be actuated by the ſtate and objects of the negociation which may have taken place between the Government at Bombay and the Miniſtry at Poona: but we would not have you prolong the Negociations for a day, in hopes of obtaining any other conditions than thoſe which we have expreſsly mentioned, or required. We cannot point our intentions herein more explicitly, as your conduct muſt depend entirely upon the circumſtances and ſituation of affairs.

2dly. With reſpect to the terms to be obtained from Ragobá: this likewiſe is an article on which we cannot give you more particular inſtructions, becauſe, as we have already told you, it muſt reſt wholly upon contingent circumſtances; but whatever may be ſettled for him by the Treaty, if it forms a clauſe in it, it will of courſe be guaranteed to him by the Company.

3dly. The town and pergunnah of Broach are already poſſeſſed independant in their government by the Company; our orders were only intended to free the Company from any participation of the revenues of theſe places with the Marattas.

4thly. Ragonaut Row is the Peiſhwa or chief ruler of the Maratta State; but he was obliged by the Miniſterial Party at Poona to quit that capital, and they have ſince proclaimed in his ſtead the Son of Narrain Row, the late Peiſhwa, who is ſtill an infant. We conceive it impoſſible to foreſee what accommodation will take place between the two parties now contending for the Peiſhwaſhip, but it is moſt probable that if the Miniſtry prevail, the elevation of the Son of Narrain Row will be confirmed. If the peace is to be effected by a Negociation, the terms of it muſt be left to the parties themſelves, and we ſhall agree to acknowledge whomſoever they ſhall finally reſolve among themſelves to eſtabliſh; but in the preſent ſtate of affairs, as we cannot formally addreſs ourſelves to either of the Competitors, we have referred you to Suckaram Baboo, the ruling Miniſter at Poona; and in caſe he ſhould not be living at the time of your arrival at Poona, you will addreſs yourſelf in like manner to the perſon who may be found in actual poſſeſſion of the chief adminiſtration, delivering to him the Letters addreſſed to Suckaram Baboo, together with your Letter of Credence, which will contain full powers for treating with any perſon who ſhall be poſſeſſed of that authority of the ſtate.

5thly. You will adviſe the Bombay Preſidency of your arrival at Poona, and inform them conſtantly, as well as the Preſidency of Fort Saint George, of all tranſactions which you may think of uſe for them to know.

6thly. We do not think it neceſſary to furniſh you with a Seal. The Company's Seal will be affixed to your Credentials, which will give full and ample validity to any Treaty which you may conclude with the Marattas.

7thly. You have been already directed not to leave Calpee till you hear from Suckaram Baboo, or obtain Paſſports from him. You will have a Letter for him delivered to you with your Credentials, in which he is informed, that we do not admit the authority of any perſon to conclude a Treaty on behalf of the Company with the Maratta Government but yourſelf; and if any ſhould have taken place with the Preſident and Council at Bombay, it is to be of no effect until ratified by you.

8thly. The Governor and Council of Bombay have already been adviſed of your appointment; a duplicate of that Letter is incloſed, with a further notification of the power veſted in you by the foregoing paragraph. This packet you will ſend to Bombay by the firſt ſafe conveyance.

9thly. The Fort Saint George Preſidency being informed of your deputation, there can be no neceſſity to furniſh you with any Letter under their addreſs.

We herewith deliver to you a Cypher, which you are to keep in your own poſſeſſion, and make uſe of when you find occaſion in your Advices to us and the other Preſidencies.

Fort William, the 17th July 1775. We are, &c.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

In a ſeparate Letter of this date we have given you our ſentiments of directions upon the particular articles which you referred to our conſideration in your Paper of Remarks. We ſhall now reply to the other Incloſures in your Addreſs of the 14th inſtant.

We approve of your taking with you Captains Wroe and Macpherſon, Lieutenant Paterſon, and Doctor Banks: They are to receive the uſual Pay of their reſpective ranks, with full double Batta, as if on command without the Provinces, from the 15th inſtant; that is to ſay, the Military Officers will receive the appointment of their ranks in the Army, and Doctor Banks that of a full Surgeon on this eſtabliſhment.

We had previouſly fixed a Salary of 1,000 R^s per Menſem, to be drawn by you, beſides your Pay and double full Batta: Theſe Allowances are to take place from the date of your Inſtructions, that is the 21ſt ultimo.

APPENDIX, No. 74.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 24th July 1775.

AGREED, That the following Letters be conſequently written to Bombay and to Fort Saint George; and that the former be conveyed by means of Colonel Upton.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

In our laſt, of which a Duplicate is incloſed, we informed you of the appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Upton, to negociate a Treaty of Peace with the Marattas.

This will be forwarded to you by him; and we think it proper to adviſe you, that in caſe any Treaty may have been formed, or any Conditions ſettled by you with the Miniſterial Party, they muſt be confirmed and ratified by Colonel Upton, before we can allow them to be of any effect, as we have given him ample Inſtructions and full Powers to conclude upon ſuch Terms only as he may judge proper.

We have furniſhed him with a Copy of the ſmall Cypher, N° 2, Letter B, framed in March 1755, which we have directed him to make uſe of whenever he may find occaſion for it.

Fort William, 17th July 1775. We are, &c.

To the Honourable Alexander Wynch, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council, at Fort Saint George.

Gentlemen,

You are already fully apprized of the operations of the Preſident and Council at Bombay, in conjunction with Ragoba, againſt the Miniſterial Party of the Maratta Government at Poona. We think it proper however to inform you, that we highly diſapprove of the conduct of that Preſidency in having entered into an offenſive alliance with Ragoba, not only as we deemed it repugnant to the intention of the Legiſlature of Great Britain, and to the poſitive injunctions of the Company, which recommend a profound Peace with all the Powers of Hindoſtan; but alſo becauſe, by the Treaty entered into, they engaged to aſſiſt a Man who had not the means even to ſupport his own Army in an extenſive conqueſt, which muſt naturally lead to an indefinite War, and perhaps to the diſgrace of the Engliſh Arms, beſides throwing the burthen of it upon them. We therefore directed them immediately to withdraw the Company's Troops into their own Garriſons, and to receive any overtures which might be made for a pacification or ceſſation of arms; but to ſuſpend any concluſions upon them until further orders.

That nothing may be wanting on our part to extricate the Preſidency of Bombay from the difficulties in which they were likely to be involved, and to reſtore a Peace between the Company and the Maratta Government, we have deputed Lieutenant Colonel Upton to proceed to Poona to conclude a Treaty of Peace with that State, and have furniſhed him with full Powers and Inſtructions for this purpoſe. The Peiſhwa has been adviſed of this Deputation, and deſired to forward Paſſports for Colonel Upton to meet him at Calpee.

Colonel Upton has received orders to communicate to you any tranſactions which he may think material enough to deſerve your notice.

Fort William, the 17th July 1775. We are, &c.

Reſolved, That the following Letter of Credence be written in Perſian, and delivered under the Company's Seal to Colonel Upton.

Whereas troubles have ariſen, and hoſtilities actually taken place between the Government of Bombay and the Maratta State at Poona, which is repugnant to the commands of the Company, and to the wiſhes which they have conſtantly manifeſted to maintain a perpetual Peace and Amity with that Nation; We the Governor General and Council of Bengal, in virtue of the Powers veſted in us by the Legiſlature of Great Britain, and by the ſaid Company, to direct and controul the Company's Settlements in India, relying on your fidelity, prudence, and integrity, have deputed you to proceed to Poona, and to negociate and conclude with the Chiefs and Rulers of that State, a Treaty of Peace and Friendſhip between them and the Engliſh Company, on ſuch Terms as ſhall be for the mutual benefit, honour, and ſatisfaction of both parties, and remove all the cauſe of enmity which at this time may have taken place between the Marattas and the Government of Bombay: And we hereby give you full powers to that effect, declaring that we will ratify and confirm whatever ſhall be ſo concluded by you, in our names, and in our behalf, according to the Inſtructions with which we have furniſhed you for that purpoſe.

READ the following Paper of Intelligence, received by the Governor General, and extracted from his Book of News.

Intelligence from the Decan, dated the 27th of Rubbee Aſſanie, or June.

We hear that Ragonaut Row with the Engliſh Army having croſſed the Nurbudder in the neighbourhood of

APPENDIX. No. 75.

Broche, began his march towards Surat. Hurrajee Purkeah determined likewiſe to croſs the Nurbudder with his Army, and had ſent over his Baggage and Military Stores, there being a ſpace of 10 coſs between him and the Army of Ragonaut Row.

In the mean time the Engliſh having embarked in boats, ſuddenly appeared, and falling on the Baggage of Harrajee Purkeah, plundered it. They ſlew great numbers of his men, and very many were drowned in the river; Hurrajee fled, and took the road to Gozeraut; Focajee, who had not ſent his Baggage or Stores acroſs the river, returned with them in ſafety, in company with Hurrajee.

Ragonaut Row is encamped on the Banks of the Nurbudder, and deſigns to purſue his route to the Decan during the continuance of the rains.

Suckaram Baboo is very ill, occaſioned by grief for the death of his ſon.

The people of the Decan are in the utmoſt conſternation.

Nizam Ally Khan and Moodajee Booſla with one conſent have entered into a league with Ragonaut Row.

The rains are ſet in very heavily in the Decan.

We are in a ſtate of uncertainty as to who is to be ruler of the Decan.

It being beyond the reach of conjecture what face the War with the Marattas may bear at the period of Colonel Upton's arrival at Poona; and the Governor General conſidering the probability of Ragoba's complete ſucceſs, recommends to the Board that Colonel Upton be inſtructed in ſuch caſe to treat with him.

Agreed, That the following directions be given to Lieutenant Colonel Upton on this head; and that a Letter of Introduction, and implying the Powers veſted in him to treat and conclude a Treaty in behalf of the Company with Ragoba, be alſo addreſſed to that Prince, and given in charge to the Colonel.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

It being uncertain how the iſſue of the War now depending between Ragoba and the Miniſterial Party may turn out at the time of your arrival at Poona, and as it is poſſible that Ragoba may have made himſelf maſter of that place, we hereby authorize you in ſuch caſe, or if you ſhall find ſo great a ſuperiority on his ſide as to give you reaſon to expect that the operations will be entirely deciſive in his favour, to negociate and conclude a Treaty with him, inſtead of the preſent Miniſtry; and for this purpoſe, a Letter will be delivered you, addreſſed to Ragoba; and as you are furniſhed with a Copy of his Treaty with the Bombay Preſidency, by the aſſiſtance of this and your former Inſtructions, you will be able to ſettle it upon ſuch Terms as you may conceive will beſt anſwer our ideas.

We are, &c.

Fort William,
24th July 1775.

To Ragonaut Row, ſent by Colonel Upton, written the 31ſt July 1775.

It is with great concern that we have heard of the late diſtractions of the Maratta State; but as it has pleaſed God to crown your arms with ſucceſs, we are in hopes that an end will be ſoon put to them. The Preſident and Council of the Company's Settlement at Bombay duly informed us of the Treaty of Alliance which they concluded with you and of the effectual aſſiſtance which they afforded to your cauſe. That Service being now performed, we are deſirous of reverting to that ſyſtem of Peace and Tranquillity, which beſt ſuits the commercial views of the Company. For that reaſon, in virtue of the Powers veſted in us by the Legiſlature of Great Britain and the Company, to ſuperintend and controul all the political affairs in India, we have deputed Lieutenant Colonel John Upton to conclude a new Treaty of Peace and perpetual Friendſhip between the Company and the Maratta Nation. He will apply to you as the ruler of that State, and you will liſten to his Propoſals as if coming from us; and we have no doubt but you will find his Terms moderate and juſt, as we have determined to remove every object of ambition, and to adhere only to ſuch as are neceſſary for the ſecurity and peace of the Company's poſſeſſions.

To Suckaram Baboo. Written the 31ſt July 1775.

I have already written you concerning the appointing of Colonel Upton to negociate a Treaty of Peace between the Company and the Maratta Nation. He now proceeds to Poona with full Powers for that purpoſe; and I requeſt you will cheerfully receive him; and whatever Treaty you may ſettle with the Colonel, will be agreed to by this Government. No perſon but the Colonel is empowered to that purpoſe.

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires

THE Secretary informs the Board, that the following Letters have been received ſince their laſt meeting, and ſent in circulation; one from the Select Committee at Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Our Letter of the 1ſt inſtant (which had been forwarded in Duplicate) acknowledged the receipt of your favour, dated the 8th of March.

In that Letter we communicated to you the progreſs of our Army under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Keating; we have not ſince received any further Advices from him, nor have we received any Letters from you ſince our laſt; this therefore is chiefly to reply to your Letter of the 8th of March, agreeable to what we promiſed in our Addreſs of the 1ſt inſtant.

We truſt, that the reaſons which have been aſſigned in our Letter of the 30th of April, for not ſending more early intelligence of our deſigns and operations againſt Salſette, will prove ſufficiently ſatisfactory, more eſpecially when you conſider that it was, as we well knew, from the diſtracted ſtate of the Maratta Government, totally out of its power to diſturb the tranquillity of the Company's poſſeſſions in Bengal, or thoſe of their Allies, on account of our proceedings on this ſide of India; and ſo the event has fully proved; and provided our operations in ſupport of Ragoba are crowned with that ſucceſs which we hope they will, the Treaty we have entered into fully binds Ragoba and his ſucceſſors from ever taking part againſt the Company; and indeed we doubt not but that gratitude will induce him always to be ready to act in their behalf.

Your Honour, &c. obſerve, "That you are alarmed "at the declaration of our intentions of joining Ragoba; "which, you add, you muſt diſapprove, as inconſiſtent "with our Negociations with the Ruling Powers at Poona; "and that it is a meaſure which may force you into a "rupture with Sabajee Bouncello, his declared enemy and "your neighbour, with whom you are on terms of "friendſhip."

We never had any Negociations with the Miniſterial Party, who we ſuppoſe you mean by the Ruling Powers; we only acquainted you on this head, long before we concluded the Treaty with Ragoba, and at a time that there was little probability that it ever would be concluded, that in caſe they gained the advantage in the preſent conteſt, that we ſhould endeavour to reconcile them, by explaining our motives for attacking Salſette. The concluſion of the Treaty, and the part we in conſequence took againſt them, rendered any explanation or negociation on this account quite unneceſſary, and therefore all thoughts of a negociation with them, independant of Ragoba, had been long dropped; and though Ragoba's affairs have wore but an unfavourable aſpect, yet we make no doubt but a ſteady perſeverance and proper conduct will enable him, with our aſſiſtance, to overcome his enemies, or elſe to accommodate matters favourably with them; which in the end muſt enſure to the Company on a ſtable footing, the great advantages granted to them by the Treaty, a Copy of which has been long ſince tranſmitted to you.

When your Honour, &c. take this ſubject under your conſideration, we requeſt that you will particularly attend to the following circumſtances:

Firſt. That the part we have taken, is in the ſupport of the rightful ſupreme Governor of the Marattas, and who had been in poſſeſſion of that dignity; and that the Miniſterial Party are his ſubjects, who have rebelled againſt him, and moſt unjuſtly are endeavouring to diſpoſſeſs him of his ſeat.

2dly. That by acting in the manner we have done, we have ſecured to the Company, by the moſt effectual grants (which Ragoba was the only perſon who had any right to give) the right of poſſeſſing thoſe places, ſuch as Salſette, Baſſein, &c. which they have repeatedly and earneſtly enjoined us to procure for them; and even more, which is ſtill further for their benefit, the expences that will be incurred during this War, are to be amply repaid to them, and in the end we doubt not but that ſuch a currency will be given to the affairs of the Company in theſe parts, and to trade in general, as will be attended with ſingular benefit to them, and to individuals trading under their protection; in this light we flatter ourſelves you will view our proceedings when the whole comes before you.

We were and are convinced, that your Honour, &c. may be perfectly free from any apprehenſions of being forced into a Rupture with the Bruncello's on account of our Proceedings, even had Subajee been yet alive; for, from the death of Janojee Boncello, which happened about three years ago, till Subajee was killed, as he lately was by Moodajee, that government, commonly known to us by the name of the Berar Government, was torn in pieces by the civil diſſentions between Subajee and Moodajee; but ſince the death of the former it has been reſtored to quiet; and as Moodajee (who now governs for his Son that was adopted by the late Janojee) is a known friend to Ragoba, he will conſequently be rejoiced at the part we have taken, inſtead of being diſguſted at it.

Thus we hope that we have removed your Honour, &c. objections to our entering into the Treaty with Ragoba, and that you will concur with us in opinion, that we were and are purſuing the true intereſt of our Employers; for had we not laid hold of the preſent opportunity, which was ſo very favourable, to procure grants of the places that they wiſhed to poſſeſs, it is more than probable that another ſuch would never again have offered.

We beg leave here to remark, that as your Honour, &c. are ſituated ſo very diſtant from this Preſidency, it would be totally impoſſible for us to benefit by circumſtances as they fall out, provided we always wait for your directions: We need produce no other inſtance than the Letter before us, which is dated the 8th March, not being received here till the 21ſt ultimo, and is an anſwer to our Advices of the 31ſt December laſt. Had we waited for your reply to thoſe Advices, Ragoba would have been entirely loſt, and the advantages the Company gain by the Treaty gone, moſt probably for ever. The Legiſlature indeed has provided againſt this great inconvenience in the late Act of Parliament, which we make no doubt but you will always conſider; and we aſſure you, that we ſhall take no material ſtep in any political matters without your concurrence, unleſs when it may be dangerous to poſtpone for ſo long a time coming to a determination thereon.

In the preceding part of this Letter, we acquainted you that we had no Advices from Lieutenant Colonel Keating ſince the date of thoſe noticed in our laſt Addreſs; but private Letters from the Chief of Surat, mention that the Army is arrived in the neighbourhood of Broach, in its march towards Poona; that our Forces have had another engagement with the Miniſterial Army, in which the latter were again worſted; and that the affairs of the confederacy, owing to their want of money and to diſſentions amongſt themſelves, are in a very declining way.

The Marattas lately made an attempt on Salſette, by landing about 3,500 Men from Baſſein, but they were quickly drove off by a detachment only from the Madras Battalion of Sepoys, with very conſiderable loſs on their ſide, while on ours we had only one Sepoy killed, and two or three wounded.

We are, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 24th June 1775. (Signed) William Hornby, Preſident, &c. Council.

From Madajee Booſlah; received 20 July 1775.

The animoſity and contention which have for theſe three years prevailed in this family, ſince the death of the Rajah of bleſſed memory (Janojee Booſlah) the deſtructive flames of which have ſpread from the river the Kiſtnah to the Nurbudda, are well known, and no doubt have been written to you by the News-writers. After repeated ſtruggles, the hoſtile ranks were at length drawn up in array of battle, on the Plain of Naugpore, againſt my younger brother, Sabajee Booſlah; when, notwithſtanding the few adherents of my party, and the very inconſiderable number of my Troops, oppoſed to upwards of 20,000 of his, beſides artillery, rocket men, and others, all well armed and accoutred, I obtained a complete and deciſive victory; of this I ſome time ago did myſelf the pleaſure to acquaint you in my anſwer to your Letter After a ſhower of Arrows and Rockets from the lines of the combatants, whoſe lightnings darted through clouds of armour, dealing deſtruction and death around, 5,000 brave fellows were laid dead in the field, and as many wounded; the remainder, actuated with ambition and glory, cloſed in with their elephants, and after ſome time trying the metal of their weapons, victory perched upon my banners, and the tree of enmity was overſet in the ſtorm. This is all evidently owing to the interpoſition of Providence; in gratitude for which I offered up my prayers, and have ſince employed myſelf in regulating the affairs of the country, in conſoling and gaining the hearts of my friends, and rewarding the meritorious and loyal; and alſo intend ſhortly marching with my Army to Berar, having appointed Babojee Anunt to the Soubadary of Cuttack; he has ſent his Son thither with a proper Force, who, on his arrival, will undoubtedly write you, and tranſmit you this Letter. Our friendſhip will now be more firmly eſtabliſhed than ever: And, as it is my deſire to maintain and preſerve every Treaty and Engagement inviolate; ſo I hope you have the ſame deſire on your part, as it will be attended with innumerable advantages to both. After the arrival of Beney Ram Pundit, I ſhall write you further particulars.

From Madajee Booſla; received the 22d July 1775.

Your Letter, under date the 24th of Salfor, I had the pleaſure to receive at my encampment at Ellichpore in the Soubah of Berar. Your friendly diſpoſition to maintain and preſerve inviolate the friendſhip and engagements you had entered into with the deceaſed Rajah Janojee Booſlah; the joy you expreſſed at the victory which I have by the favour of the Almighty obtained; your wiſh to unite the intereſt and affairs of the Company with thoſe who are endowed with the virtues of ſteadineſs and bravery, and diſtinguiſhed with the favour of the Almighty;

APPENDIX. No. 77.

Almighty; and your referring me for the particulars of all theſe matters to Benaram Pundit, have given me infinite joy and ſatisfaction. The ſituation of affairs here is this: Soon after the victory which I obtained in the late engagement with my younger brother, and before my troops had recovered of the wounds which they had received, I had a congreſs with the Nabob Nizam, who, at the requiſition of the Miniſters at Poona, arrived at Berhanpore in the Zelah of Berrar, to take a part in the War with Ragonaut Row; and although poſſeſſed of no friendly diſpoſition towards me, yet, as he had long been on terms of friendſhip with, and done many acts of favour to, my family, I deemed it inconſiſtent with gratitude to commence any difference with him, and therefore remained pacifically inclined. The confuſed ſtate of affairs in the Decan, and the open hoſtilities which have ſome time ſubſiſted between Ragonaut Row and the Miniſters at Poonah, are now the ſubject of diſcuſſion; and whatever we determine on, I ſhall write for your information, and in the ſpace of a week break up the congreſs. As uniting the ambitious in bonds of cordiality and friendſhip, is not leſs neceſſary for eſtabliſhing the peace and proſperity of the country, than for retrieving affairs which have already ſunk to the brink of ruin; whatever may be the reſult of our deliberations to that end, you will not only be acquainted with from me, but from the Letters of the Nizam.—Beneram Pundit is not yet arrived; I am hourly expecting him; and as ſoon as I have learnt from him the ſtate of affairs with you, I will again give him his diſpatches. I hope that you will continually keep our friendſhip in view, which will be the means of ſtrengthening and confirming it.

Sir, and Gentlemen,

I HAVE the honour to incloſe you a Letter from the Nabob of the Carnatic, at the requeſt of his Highneſs; and that of being with great eſteem, (Signed) Edwd Hughes.

From the Nabob of Arcot: received 6th Auguſt 1775.

I have from the firſt relied on your friendſhip for the ſucceſs of my affairs, and eſpecially ſince more extenſive powers have been granted you. I have had the moſt ſanguine hopes that every thing would ſucceed to my wiſh. Since the Governor and Council of Bombay have eſpouſed the cauſe of Ragonaut Row, and aſſiſted him in the War againſt the Miniſters of Poona, thoſe Miniſters have repeatedly inſinuated to my Vackeel Rowjee, whom I have ſtationed at Poona, and have alſo directed him to write me, that I had long made declarations to them concerning my own friendſhip and that of the Engliſh; but that the ſteps lately taken by the Settlement of Bombay was in direct contradiction thereto; that I ſhould take upon myſelf the part of a mediator, and accommodate their differences, which would be productive of ſecurity to the Carnatic. When the Governor and Council of Bombay commenced diſturbances with the Marattas, with a view to ſome new acquiſition in that quarter, I thought it had been a plan of yours, and therefore ſaid nothing upon it; but I have ſince learnt, that you diſapprove of that Preſidency's having entered into the War, and that for the ſake of ſecurity to the country, and promoting the happineſs and eaſe of the people, you are deſirous of accommodating a Peace with the Poona Miniſters, and of ſending ſome perſon of truſt thither for that purpoſe. You will therefore have a fine opportunity of ſhewing your attention to the affairs of my country, that is, for ſecuring it in peace, an object much deſired by the King of Great Britain and my friends the Company, and attended with many advantages to the Country, to the Company, and to Trade, ſince it is at Poona the peace of this country may eaſily be preſerved; but ſhould it have no ſhare in your negociations, and you only attend to the affairs of Bombay, and to the alliance with Ragonaut Row, without doubt the Marattas will raiſe diſturbances in this country; and when we are at war on this Coaſt, what will a peace ſignify on the other? Lord Pigot, in the Agreement under date the 8th of Zeanda 1173, of the Hejerie, equal to the 23d of June 1760, wrote me in theſe terms; viz.

As you and the Company are now united in the ſame intereſt, all political tranſactions and negociations with the Nabob Salabat Jung Nizam Ally Cawn, and other powers, ſhall be conducted with your advice; for your advice I eſteem above all others. And accordingly this rule has been obſerved by all Governors, as they conſidered it beſt for the Company's affairs, and for the ſecurity of this country. I therefore requeſt that you will order the perſon whom you have appointed to go to Poona, to take this route, and to viſit me that I may explain my ſentiments to him with reſpect to the ſecurity of the Carnatic, and ſend a perſon with him on my own behalf, to co-operate with him in his negociations for fulfilling your inſtructions on the ſubject of the Company's affairs, and alſo for ſecuring tranquillity to the Carnatic. But ſhould he have ſet out before you receive this Letter, I requeſt you will immediately tranſmit him inſtructions to make the ſecurity of the Carnatic a clauſe in the Treaty of Peace, and write him an order to conſult and act conjointly with the deputy from hence in his negociations with the Marattas; which order tranſmit to me, that I may ſend it by the hands of the Deputy himſelf. By the favour of the Almighty I ſhall then be perfectly at eaſe from any apprehenſions of the Marattas diſturbing the peace of the Carnatic, and ſhall think myſelf indebted for it to your friendly endeavours. This tranſaction will give you laſting credit in this country, and do you honour at home with the King and the Company.

THE Board now take into conſideration the Letter from the Nabob of Arcot to the Governor General, tranſmitted by Sir Edward Hughes, and recorded in Conſultation 10th inſtant.

Reſolved, That proper attention be had to the Intereſt of the Nabob of the Carnatic, in the Treaty of Peace to be entered into with the Maratta State at Poona; and that the following Inſtructions on this head be therefore ſent to Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We think it proper to give you the following Inſtructions in addition to your former, and require you to pay all all due attention to them in entering upon your Negociations at Poona.

As the Nabob of Arcot is a particular friend and ally of the Engliſh, and as his intereſt may be affected with any Treaty you may conclude with the Maratta Government, we direct that you make the Maratta Chiefs acquainted with the union that ſubſiſts between him and the Company, and inſiſt on including him in the Treaty, in an expreſs Article to the following effect: That the Nabob Wallah Jah Bahadar, Nabob of the Carnatic, having been for a conſiderable courſe of years united to the Engliſh Company by the ſtrongeſt ties of friendſhip and alliance, and the Company having ever conſidered his enemies as their enemies, and his friends as their friends, it is agreed, that the Mahratta Chiefs likewiſe ſhall hereafter regard him as their friend, and his enemies as their enemies. At the ſame time we are to acquaint you, that we have deſired the Nabob of Arcot, if there are any particular Articles which he wiſhes to have ſtipulated for him, to ſtate theſe Articles to us, aſſuring him, that we would take them into conſideration, and give you ſuch further orders reſpecting them as ſhall be compatible with the other objects which we have in view in concluding the Treaty of Peace with the Marattas.

We have further to direct, that whatever Treaty you enter into with the Mahratta State, you require that it be ſigned by all the Chiefs nominally and individually; and that you inſiſt on this as a point from which you cannot depart.

A duplicate of this Letter will be delivered to you by the Nabob of Arcot's Vackeel at Poona, with whom you will conſult upon any thing which he may have to propoſe for his maſter's intereſt, and attend to his repreſentations as far as may be conſiſtent with the general tenor of your Inſtructions.

We incloſe for your information Copy of a Treaty which was executed between the Preſidency of Bombay and the Maratta Government, on the 12th October 1756.

We are, &c. &c.

Agreed, That the Governor General be requeſted to write an anſwer to the Letter from the Nabob of Arcot in the following terms:

To the Nabob of Arcot.

I have received the Letter with which your Excellency honoured me through the channel of Sir Edward Hughes, acquainting me, that the Miniſters of Poona had repeatedly inſinuated to your Vackeel Roujee, that the ſteps lately taken by the Settlement of Bombay were in direct contradiction to the declarations you had long made to them concerning your own friendſhip, that of the Engliſh; and that they wiſhed you ſhould take upon yourſelf the part of a mediator to accommodate their differences, which would be productive to the ſecurity of the Carnatic. You farther acquaint me, that as you have learned that the Board here diſapprove of the proceedings of the Preſidency of Bombay, and have ſent a perſon of confidence thither to negociate a Treaty of Peace with the Marattas, in which you are deſirous of being included, and requeſt that the perſon thus deputed may take the route of Madras, and viſit you, that you might explain your ſentiments to him with reſpect to the ſecurity of the Carnatic, and ſend a perſon with him in your behalf, to co-operate in his negociations.

I now have the honour to acquaint your Excellency, that the perſon choſen by the Board for this deputation, is Colonel John Upton, and that he took his departure from hence about a month ago, in his way to Poona, by the road of Allahabad and Calpee. When the Board firſt took the determination to ſend a miniſter to Poona, they acquainted the Preſident and Council at Fort St. George of it, not doubting but they would communicate it to your Excellency, and that you would deliberate upon what might be neceſſary for you to propoſe for your intereſts, jointly with thoſe of the Company in the propoſed Treaty.

We did not judge it proper to inſtruct our Miniſter to take any ſteps on your behalf, knowing that there were Treaties ſubſiſting already betwixt you and the Marattas; to the nature of which we were ſtrangers, and therefore, uncertain whether any propoſals which might come from this Government, would coincide with thoſe Treaties, or your particular views. APPENDIX. No. 78.

But on receipt of your Excellency's Letter, orders were ſent to our Miniſter at Poona, a duplicate of which I now tranſmit as you deſire, to be delivered to him by your Vackeel, in which we have conveyed to him the poſitive inſtructions of the Board, to make the Maratta Chiefs acquainted with the relation which has long ſubſiſted between your Excellency and the Company, and inſiſt on a ſeparate Article in the Treaty to this effect, That the Nabob Wallah Jah Bahadar has been during a courſe of many years united to the Company by the ſtrongeſt ties of friendſhip and alliance; and as the Company have ever conſidered his enemies as their enemies, and his friends as their friends, it ſhall be agreed, that the Maratta Chiefs alſo ſhall regard him as their friend, and his enemies as their enemies.

We have alſo directed him to conſult with your Vackeel on every thing regarding your intereſt; but as our principal view in the preſent Negociation, is to reſtore Peace to the Preſidency at Bombay, we wiſh not to involve that object in any extraneous matter, and therefore, that whatever regards the Carnatic be alſo confined merely to its peace and tranquillity. If however your Excellency ſhould have any particulars to propoſe relating to theſe objects, I beg you to communicate them to me, together with a Copy of the Treaties which may now be ſubſiſting between you and the Maratta State, that orders may be iſſued to Colonel Upton in conſequence; and further, as the intereſt of the Preſidency of Fort Saint George are ſo cloſely connected with yours, I requeſt, that whatever propoſals you may think fit to tranſmit to me, you will be pleaſed to deliver a Copy to the Preſident and Council there, that this Board may have the advantage of receiving at the ſame time their ſentiments upon them.

As I underſtand that the Names of the principal Maratta Chiefs will be neceſſary to be affixed to the propoſed Treaty, to give it a due ſanction; and as you have had the opportunity of a long intercourſe with that people, to obtain a knowledge of the perſons on whom the adminiſtration of the State depends, I requeſt that you will be pleaſed to tranſmit to me an exact Liſt of their Names, it not being in my power to procure that information here with ſufficient exactneſs.

The War we are at preſent engaged in for the ſupport of Ragoba is of the utmoſt importance to the Honourable Company, as we have already fully repreſented to you, and it therefore calls upon us particularly to purſue every means in our power to bring it to a ſpeedy and ſucceſsful iſſue, for on that will depend the great advantages that the Company are to reap by the engagements we have entered into on their behalf; and it is moreover a matter of the utmoſt importance to conclude the War if poſſible in the courſe of the enſuing ſeaſon.

Our Forces, in every engagement with the Enemy, have gained all the advantage that we had reaſon to hope for, ſo far as depended on them; but at the time we ſent the body of men we did to the aſſiſtance of Ragoba, it was concluded his own Forces would be of material ſervice in the courſe of the campaign; the contrary however has been found to be the caſe, and it has therefore frequently happened that our Army has been unable to reap every advantage that might have been expected from its victories over the Enemy. The Commanding Officer has therefore requeſted, and Ragoba earneſtly ſolicited, that a reinforcement may be ſent againſt the time that they will be able again to take the field, which will be in the beginning of November next; the rainy ſeaſon having obliged the Army to go into quarters at Dubhoy, near the banks of the Nerbuddah. For this reinforcement, the neceſſity of ſending which we are ſufficiently convinced of, Ragoba is to make over additional advantages to the Honourable Company, excluſive of thoſe mentioned in the Treaty.

We ſhall alſo require a Military Force for the protection of Saſſette, and the Provinces ceded to the Company, as well as to enſure the collection of the Revenues of them for the enſuing ſeaſon.

We have made the ſame ſtatement to the Preſidency of Fort Saint George, of the ſervices for which a large Military Force is required here, as we have now done to your Honour, &c. and we have at the ſame time acquainted thoſe gentlemen, as we beg leave now to do to you, that it will be totally out of our power to furniſh the whole force that will be requiſite, without the aſſiſtance of the other Preſidencies. Being convinced that we could receive a reinforcement from Madras (as it may march by land to Anjengo and Tellicherry) much more early than we could do from you; we have therefore earneſtly requeſted the Governor and Council there to ſend by that rout three hundred European Rank and File, and two complete Battalions of Sepoys, in time for the ſervices that will be required of them.

Should that Preſidency be unable to aſſiſt us with the whole force that is now deſired, we then earneſtly requeſt that your Honour, &c. will furniſh ſuch part as they may be deficient in ſending, or that you will be pleaſed to ſend the whole from your army. Should thoſe Gentlemen be unable to ſend any part of the ſuccours we have now required of them, in ſuch caſe, we require that they may be ſent ſo early that we may be enabled to reap the benefit of their ſervices during the whole courſe of the enſuing fair ſeaſon.

The Gentlemen at Fort St. George are deſired to communicate to your Honour, &c. their reſolution in conſequence of what we now write them, that you may be enabled to regulate your determination; and we again repeat it as our earneſt wiſh, that the arrival of the Forces which may be ſent from your Preſidency may, if poſſible, not be later than the enſuing month of November.

We are well aware that we formerly wrote your Honour, &c. that the moſt material aſſiſtance which you could then afford, was in furniſhing us with ample ſupplies of Money; at that time we expected that Ragoba's Forces would do their duty, but the repeated complaints from our Commanding Officer of their miſconduct and miſbehaviour, induces us no longer to have any reliance on them, and therefore will oblige us to make a ſuitable addition to our own Army.

We again repeat our requeſt, that you will ſend us a liberal ſupply of Money, excluſive of the annual one of fifteen Lacks; and ſhould your Forces be ſent to our aſſiſtance inſtead of thoſe from Fort Saint George, it will be very convenient to us that their own Military Cheſt ſhould accompany them.

Our laſt Addreſs was dated the 24th ultimo, and has already been forwarded in Duplicate.

We are, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 13th July 1775. (Signed) William Hornby, Preſident, and Council.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We addreſſed you on the 13th ultimo in Duplicate, ſince when we have not been favoured with any Letter from you.

The ſituation of our Army in the field is the ſame as we laſt adviſed, the ſeaſon of the year not admitting of their quitting their preſent Cantonments; but we have the pleaſure to acquaint you that Ragoba has obtained a very material advantage, by Futty Sing having quitted the Miniſterial Party and come over to his; a Treaty has been concluded between them, by which he is to furniſh the Peiſhwa with the ſame body of Forces, and to pay the ſame annual Stipend, as the Guicawars always uſed to do; and he is moreover to pay the Peiſhwa, for making peace with him, the ſum of twenty-ſix lacks of Rupees, within ſixty days after the Treaty was executed, which is about one month ago.

The immediate advantages to the Company from this event are, that Futty Sing has made over his right and title for ever, as well as thoſe of his family, to their ſhare in the town and diſtricts of Broach, which by our Treaty Ragoba has obliged himſelf to obtain; Futty Sing has alſo given up two diſtricts to the Company for ever, convenient to Surat and Broach, for their mediation in this buſineſs, whoſe annual Revenue may be about a Lack and a Half of Rupees.

Bombay Caſtle, 6th Auguſt, 1775. (Signed) We are, &c. Will^m Hornby, Preſident, and Council.

P. S. The incloſed Packets would have been forwarded ſooner, if the Ships Stafford and Dianna, by which they were tranſmitted, had not returned into port on account of the badneſs of the weather.

The queſtion is put, Whether we ſhall ſend or authorize the Supplies of Men and Money which the Preſident and Council of Bombay have required in their Letter of the 13th July?

Mr. Francis delivers the following opinion:

The Preſidency at Bombay ſeem now to be alarmed for the conſequence of thoſe unwarrantable meaſures in which their union with Ragoba has involved them. It appears to me that they engaged in the preſent War without an Army, without Funds, without a Plan of Operations, or even a determinate Object. I ſay nothing of the right or juſtice of their quarrel, ſince they take no notice of it themſelves. With reſpect to the ſucceſs which they ſay has conſtantly attended Colonel Keating's operations, I confeſs I place little or no dependance on their accounts of them. There have been few actions in India between European and black Troops, in which the former have ſuffered more both in loſs of men and loſs of honour, than that of the 18th May, which yet was repreſented to us in the light of a Victory. With the knowledge of this fact before me, I cannot give credit to any general aſſurances they may ſend us of the ſucceſs of our arms; neither am I moved from my firſt opinion of their proceedings, by the expectation of any advantages to be granted us by Ragoba. The Lands he pretends to aſſign to us, might have been obtained by our own ſtrength without his aſſiſtance, nor have we any other ſecurity for the poſſeſſion of them. They have given us no exact deſcription of thoſe Lands, but we know with certainty that at preſent they produce nothing towards the ſupport of the War. Whether theſe, or any other expected acquiſitions, can compenſate for the loſſes we have already ſuffered, the expence which we have and muſt ſtill incur, and the hazard to which our Army is expoſed, will not I am perſuaded, be a queſtion in the minds of the Court of Directors. It is well known that the conſequences of this ruinous War have not been confined to the operations of the War itſelf; the diſaſter which the Trade of Surat ſuffered by their Fleet being detained there for want of convoy till the Monſoon broke up, can only be attributed to our rupture with the Marattas: This Fleet was chiefly laden with Cotton: The immediate loſs is generally computed at Twenty-five Lacks of Rupees. The importation of Cotton into Bengal has failed conſiderably, and the price of that article has riſen in proportion, which cannot happen without the greateſt prejudice to the manufactures of this country. I am alſo aſſured that the Cotton Trade to China has, from the ſame cauſe, been almoſt wholly loſt this ſeaſon. The Court of Directors, I doubt not, will ſee with indignation the Trade of India ſacrificed by their Servants to the ſpirit of conqueſt, with as little conſideration of the true and natural intereſt of a commercial Company, as of the obvious dictates of policy and juſtice.

In my opinion, we cannot paſs a condemnation too ſolemn or ſevere upon the whole conduct of the Council of Bombay, with reſpect to their rupture with the Marattas. They now, in effect, admit that they have little aſſiſtance to expect from their Ally Ragoba; his own Troops will not fight, and he has no Money to pay ours. —I am againſt ſending them any reinforcements of Men. We may ſpare them a moderate ſupply of Money, but not on the principle of continuing the War. I think we ſhould repeat and inſiſt upon our former orders, to recal Colonel Keating, without any reſpect or conſideration whatſoever, but the ſafety of the Troops under his command. I underſtand that he may effect a retreat from his preſent cantonments to Broach without difficulty, from thence I think the Army ſhould be withdrawn as ſoon as poſſible to cover Bombay. (Signed) P. F.

Mr. Barwell.—I think both Men and Money ſhould be ſent to Bombay.

The Honourable George Monſon.—The Court of Directors, in their firſt inſtructions, require us to fix our attention to the preſervation of peace throughout India, and that in all our deliberations and reſolutions we ſhould make the ſafety and proſperity of Bengal our principal object. The Preſidency of Bombay having made an alliance with a Prince who had neither Men nor Money, and they themſelves without either Men or Money determining upon a War againſt the moſt powerful State in India, without any cauſe or pretext whatſoever, appears to me both unwarrantable and impolitic.

That War was not our meaſure, nor are we reſponſible to the Court of Directors and to our Nation for the event of it; but if we ſhould now think proper to aſſiſt the Preſidency of Bombay with Men and Money to carry on a War which was not undertaken on principles of policy or intereſt for the Company, I think we make ourſelves reſponſible for all the conſequences of it: I therefore am for enforcing our former orders to the Preſidency of Bombay, to retract their engagements with Ragoba, and to ſecure the Company's Army and preſent poſſeſſions in the beſt manner they ſhall be able; we have already ſent a perſon to Poona to conclude a Treaty of Peace with the Miniſterial Party, and I have not the ſmalleſt doubts but he will be able to effect it to the honour of the Nation, and for the ſecurity of the Company's poſſeſſions. As the Preſidency of Bombay is in want of Caſh for their immediate demands, I would anſwer their bills to a certain amount, if they could procure them; if not, as there is no alternative, the Specie muſt be ſent from this country.

General Clavering.—The principles which the preſent Adminiſtration eſtabliſhed as the object of their conduct, were the preſerving the peace of India, as far as it could be done conſiſtently with the ſafety of the Company's poſſeſſions. Agreeable to this principle, we firſt applied ourſelves to put an end to the Rohilla War. We then refuſed the offers made to us, through the Government of Madras, to the Nizam, to aſſiſt him againſt the Marattas, with all the alluring advantages with which the propoſal was accompanied. We no ſooner heard the Government of Bombay had commenced hoſtilities againſt the Marattas to take the Iſland of Salſette, than we teſtified our diſapprobation of it, and further ſignified to that Government, our commands to deſiſt from their engagements with Ragoba, and even at laſt to withdraw the Troops with which they had joined his Army. Theſe have been the principles which have guided our conduct ſince the commencement of our Adminiſtration; our views in the purſuits of this conduct have been not leſs to conform to the poſitive commands of the Court of Directors, directing us to preſerve the peace in India, than the declared intentions of the Legiſlature, which inveſted us with powers for that purpoſe; the meaſures we have taken to effect this, and with regard to the preſent Maratta War, are now carrying into execution by the Miſſion of Colonel Upton to Poona; and we have reaſon to hope that the Marattas ſeeing the juſtice and moderation of this Government, and that our intentions are finally to put a ſtop to that ſpirit of Conqueſt, Encroachment, and Injuſtice, which ſeem hitherto to have prevailed too much in India, will liſten to the Propoſals that we have made them, to conclude a firm and laſting Peace with them. Till therefore they refuſe to conclude a Peace, I ſhall object to ſending any more Troops than what have been ſent from the Preſidency of Madras, or any Money more than what is ſufficient for the Supplies of their inveſtment. It has been uſual to ſend them annually about fourteen of fifteen Lacks: I would not therefore increaſe that ſum more than to make it up twenty, with the ſpecific condition that it ſhall not be employed but for the purpoſe above-mentioned.

The Governor General.—I am of opinion that the Preſidency of Bombay ſhould be furniſhed with Supplies both of Men and Money. The queſtion before us is not, whether the Preſidency of Bombay have acted properly, or improperly, in their original engagements with Ragoba? nor to ſupport a political ſyſtem. We have condemned the meaſures of the Preſidency of Bombay. We have unanimouſly paſſed the ſevereſt cenſure upon it. The effects of that meaſure ſhould not be conſidered as affecting that Preſidency, but the intereſts of the Company, which are involved in it, not only at Bombay, but in every part of their Poſſeſſions. The queſtion therefore before us is, by what means it will be moſt expedient to endeavour to extricate the Company's affairs from the danger which has befallen them in a War thus too precipitately undertaken?—All our private Advices concur in repreſenting the Miniſterial Party at Poona in a ſtate of diſtraction, and in deciſion they appear not to have any principle of action, nor Leader whoſe pretenſions to the government could enable him to guide their meaſures, or to connect the attachment of their people. The overtures which have been made to the Nabob of Arcot by the Government of Poona, and their intreaties that he will ſtand forth as their interceſſor to obtain a Peace with the Company, ſtrongly confirm the above reports, and leave every reaſon to believe that the ſtate of the Miniſterial Party is yet worſe than that whoſe cauſe we have eſpouſed. Under ſuch circumſtances, it appears to me that nothing is wanting on the part of this Government but a temporary, though vigorous exertion of its powers to maintain that aſcendant which it has acquired, and by which alone the ſucceſs of the future Negociations can be inſured. If the Detachment now employed in the ſupport of Ragoba, ſhould be either defeated for want of Succour, or recalled at ſuch a criſis to Bombay, and Ragoba abandoned to ruin, I will venture to foretel that Colonel Upton's Negociations will be fruitleſs, and attended with diſgrace. On the other hand, I will with equal confidence riſk my credit with the Company, in foretelling that the iſſue of it will be ſucceſsful and honourable if we maintain our ſuperiority at the time in which it ſhall take place, and ſhew a reſolution to dictate, not receive, the terms of an accommodation. For theſe reaſons, reaſons, I am of opinion that the effectual ſupport of the Preſidency of Bombay, in the War undertaken by them, will prove the ſureſt means of reſtoring the peace of India. We have thoſe means in our power, and I therefore think it our duty to employ them.

APPENDIX. No. 78.

General Clavering.—The opinion which the Governor General has now given, appears to me ſo inconſiſtent with that which he formerly gave, for withdrawing the Company's Troops from the aſſiſtance of Ragoba, and for ſending Colonel Upton to Poona, for negociating a Treaty, that I cannot tell how to reconcile ſuch opinion with the meaſure in which I underſtand he concurred with the other Members of Council. Our Letters to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, which peremptorily require that Preſidency to withdraw their Forces into their garriſons, in whatever ſtate they might be, without endangering their ſafety by an inſtant retreat, muſt have been received and carried into execution before this time, if they mean to obey the orders of this Government: therefore, the adopting a plan for the ſupport of a War which we have not only condemned, but have directed ſhould be finiſhed by the retreat of our Troops, appears to me a meaſure, at preſent both ſuperfluous and incompatible with the meaſures that we have already taken, of ſending to treat with the other Party at Poona. It would not only ſhew to the powers of India, that we have no ſyſtem of political conduct, but would likewiſe expoſe our Negociations to the other party to contempt and deriſion, and perhaps even the perſons of the gentlemen themſelves who are gone to negociate a Treaty, to the greateſt danger. In our Letter to the Court of Directors of the 5th Auguſt, we have acquainted them how much we had condemned the ridiculous project of the Council at Bombay, of undertaking the conqueſt of the Maratta Empire with ſo ſmall a force; we have informed them of our having given peremptory orders for the withdrawing the Troops from the Army; what would they think of our conduct ſhould we, inſtead of purſuing the plan which we adopted, as we thought with ſo much wiſdom and propriety, if we were now to alter that reſolution? To be conſiſtent therefore with the principles which we have eſtabliſhed for the rule of our government, and the meaſures we have already adopted, I muſt adhere to the opinion I have already given, of only ſending a ſuccour of 5 Lacks in addition to the 15 Lacks which has been uſually given to the Preſidency of Bombay.

Colonel Monſon.—If I can collect any thing from the Governor General's Minute, it is, that to obtain an honourable Peace at Poona, and to maintain that ſuperiority which the Britiſh Troops have acquired in India, that we ſhould ſupport a Prince whoſe right to the government of Poona is controvertible; that we ſhould ſend a reinforcement of Troops and Money to maintain a War, the object of which is not defined, nor the advantages to the Company no way mentioned. If the Governor General is of opinion that an honourable Treaty of Peace with the Marattas is not to be obtained but by reinforcing the preſent Army in the field, and continuing that injudicious War, I beg leave to ſubmit to him, whether the War could not be more deciſive (as War is his object) if the whole force of the Company from the three Preſidencies, ſupported by their allies, were put in motion againſt the Maratta State? I think ſuch a meaſure would be deciſive, and might be advantageous to the Company, but not honourable to the Government. Many actions may be honourable to the arms of a ſtate, that are diſgraceful to the conductors of it; and I think a meaſure of this kind would be highly diſhonourable, as we may be underſtood to be the aggreſſors in the Maratta War. To eſtabliſh a peace of this empire, a ſyſtem, a policy muſt be adopted, diametrically oppoſite to that which has for many years been purſued. The only certain method of introducing tranquillity and ſubordination in their empire, is to ſupport an authority in the perſons who have a legal right to govern; a contrary maxim has been purſued; every kind of protection and ſupport has been withdrawn from the Prince of the empire; his poſſeſſions wreſted from him, though given him under the moſt ſacred Treaties, and ſold to his ſervants and dependants; his ſervants protected and ſupported in ſubduing nations, and extirpating races of people, to feed his ambition, and to gratify the avarice of an ambitious Prince, whoſe object, I firmly believe, from the declarations which I have heard he has made, was to place himſelf with the late adminiſtration on the throne of Hindoſtan. This ambitious Prince, whoſe views were ſupported by the late adminiſtration, violated the moſt ſacred Treaties, and refuſed to make over to his ſovereign the countries which he had pledged himſelf to deliver, and which he had conquered with the aſſiſtance of the Engliſh Arms, who he looked upon to be entirely at his command, and to be the inſtruments of his obtaining his ambitious projects. If War is to be the means by which the Company's inveſtment is to be provided, and their civil and military eſtabliſhments maintained, let us wage it with that degree of ſplendour and command which our force would give us; but not to ſcatter away the honour of the Nation, the force or wealth of the Company, by aſſiſting an ill-adviſed undertaking; the ſupporting of which can be the only means of protracting the War, which protraction muſt be attended with every advantage to the Company's commercial concerns, as well as to the revenues.

The Governor General.—In the diſcuſſion of a point ſo important to the ſafety of the Company's and the national intereſt in India, as that now before us, it is of little conſequence whether my opinions which have never had any weight in the political meaſures of the preſent adminiſtration, are ſtrictly conſiſtent with each other, or not; yet it concerns my credit to defend them. If I truly recollect the ſubſtance of the Minute which I originally delivered upon this ſubject, or if I know my own mind, I think nothing will be found in it to which my preſent opinion is contradictory. The beſt part of the conſiſtency of theſe opinions, will be, to ſet them in oppoſition to each other. I will therefore beg leave to ſubjoin ſo much of my former Minute as has relation to the ſubject now before the Board.

" Although I am thus clear in my opinion of what " is paſt, I confeſs I have doubts of the part which this " Government ought to take with reſpect to the future; " it is impoſſible to conjecture, amidſt ſuch a variety of " probable contingencies, and under our total ignorance " of their plan of operations, what turn affairs may have " taken, or what may be their actual ſtate at the time our " orders may arrive. It is certainly to be wiſhed they " could be replaced on the ſame footing on which they " were before their engagement with Ragoba; but this " is now impoſſible; and to draw abruptly, after having " entered into poſitive engagements with one party, and " offended the other, perhaps beyond the hopes of recon- " ciliation, may be attended with greater danger than " proſecuting the original deſign, and even with national " diſhonour. I can therefore only venture to propoſe, " that the Preſident and Council of Bombay be peremp- " torily enjoined to cancel the Treaty with Ragoba, and " to withdraw the detachments immediately to their own " poſſeſſions, by whatever means may be in their power, " unleſs any of the following caſes ſhall have occurred; " viz.

" 1ſt. That they ſhall have obtained any deciſive " advantage over the Enemy.

" 2d. That the detachment ſhall have proceeded to " ſuch a diſtance, or to be in ſuch a ſituation, as to make " it dangerous either to retreat, or not to go on.

" 3d. That a Negociation ſhall have taken place " between Ragoba and his opponents, in conſequence of " the ſupport afforded by this alliance.

" Theſe I conceive to be all the caſes of neceſſity " which muſt compel them to perſevere, and which I " muſt recommend to be made exceptions to the gene- " ral order."

In this Minute, three caſes were ſubmitted to the Board as exceptions to the orders propoſed for the recal of the Troops. The Board adopted only the ſecond. The firſt is the ground of my preſent opinion. Our Troops have obtained an advantage over the Enemy, which, added to the ſituation, I conſider as deciſive, provided only ſuch timely ſuccours are ſent them as it is in our power to afford them.

The General has obſerved, that to adopt a plan for the ſupport of a War which we have condemned, would be incompatible with the meaſures that we have taken of ſending to treat with the other party at Poona. I apprehend, that to treat in the midſt of a War, is no new practice even with the moſt civilized nations; in the preſent caſe it appears to me unavoidable; Peace is not effected by the retreat of one party, eſpecially if the other ſhall thereby become not only maſters of the field, but enabled by it to take ſuch meaſures at their leiſure as ſhall preclude the other from the poſſibility of renewing the War. In that caſe there is no room for a Negociation, which can only be conducted with a probability of ſucceſs but to that party which has ſome advantages to offer, or ſome dangers to threaten. By precipitately abandoning the War, we give up all, even the dread of retaliation of any injuries which we may ſuſtain by any ſubſequent conduct of our enemies. I do not conceive it to be neceſſary, that any reinforcement which we might ſend ſhould take the field, if they are at hand, and we have it in our power to offer the alternative of Peace on ſuch juſt and honourable conditions as the nature of the cauſe which we are engaged in may allow or require; or of War, in defence of our own rights and ſafety. The ſame end, I think, may be obtained, even though the Forces already employed ſhall have been withdrawn to Bombay.

Colonel Monſon has aſcribed maxims to me which do not follow from any thing which I have aſſerted, and objects which I do not avow. I have never aſſerted, that to obtain an honourable Peace at Poona, and to maintain that ſuperiority which the Britiſh Troops have acquired in India, we ſhould ſupport a Prince whoſe right to the Government of Poona is controvertible; that we ſhould ſend a reinforcement of Troops and Money to maintain a War, the object of which is not defined. My opinion is, that we ſhould maintain our ſuperiority for the ſake of obtaining an honourable Peace. War is not my object; my object is Peace, which is moſt likely to be obtained by being prepared for War. It does not neceſſarily follow, becauſe I object to one extreme, I muſt therefore have recourſe to the oppoſite; that becauſe I object to an abrupt concluſion of the War, I ſhould therefore put the forces of all the three Preſidencies in motion for the proſecution of it. The principle which I have recommended, is a medium between the two extremes, and ſuch as I think moſt likely to conduce to the end aimed at by the other Members of the Board. I will in this place frankly own, that the opinions which I have formerly given upon this ſubject, were not ſtrictly conformable to my judgment of the meaſures which ought to have been purſued under a different adminiſtration. I knew the general ſenſe of the Board, and I wiſhed, in the opinion I gave at the ſame time, to accommodate it to their ſentiments, and to prevent the extremities to which I feared they would lead. Perhaps if it had been in my power to have guided the meaſures of this government, and I could have depended on the unanimous ſupport of the Members of it in their execution, I might have propoſed a different plan of action. That which appears in my Minute of the 31ſt May, I ſtill think moſt ſuitable to the times, though not to the occaſion, independently conſidered. The reflections thrown out by Colonel Monſon, upon the conduct of the late adminiſtration in their tranſaction with the King and the Vizier, the Treaty of Benares, and the Robilla War, are all foreign from the ſubject of the preſent queſtion. I have repeatedly replied to them, and am weary of dwelling on an exhauſted argument.

Mr. Francis.—When the Governor General recommends the ſending a reinforcement of men to the army under Colonel Keating, I preſume he means it with an immediate view to a vigorous proſecution of the preſent unjuſt and impolitic War, though ultimately to the eſtabliſhment of a ſafe and honourable Peace. On this principle, the reinforcement muſt of neceſſity be very conſiderable, ſince it is plain that we have little or nothing to expect from the aſſiſtance of Ragoba. If, in conformity to the Governor's opinion, ſuch a force as the occaſion would require were to be ſent to the Coaſt of Malabar, I ſhould have hoped that he would have come to the Council prepared to inform us from what quarter it could be ſpared; what the general plan of our military operations ſhould be; together with the preciſe object and exact limits of them; in my opinion, ſuch a reinforcement as it would be neceſſary to ſend, if we ſent any, is not to be ſafely ſpared from the two Brigades remaining in thoſe provinces, for the defence of which an eſtabliſhment of three Brigades has been thought neceſſary. We cannot, conſiſtently with our engagements with the Nabob of Oude, withdraw the Brigade from his country, and if we did, we know that his ruin would be the conſequence. I preſume it will not be thought adviſable to divide and weaken the Company's force upon the Coaſt; we ſhould thereby leave the Carnatic open to the incurſions of the Marattas, and Madras itſelf expoſed to inſult from Hyder Ally, or perhaps from an European enemy.

Suppoſe Colonel Keating to penetrate farther into the country, we ought at leaſt to determine what object we are to propoſe to ourſelves from his ſucceſs; how far he is to carry the Company's Troops from the defence of their poſſeſſions; or how his retreat is to be ſecured in caſe of any unexpected check. Theſe are conſiderations which I think ſhould accompany every propoſal to commence or continue a War. The Governor General's opinion goes ſimply to the continuation of a War which he himſelf has condemned; which, from the diſtance of the ſcene of action, would not be under our guidance; and which, having no determinate plan, object, or limitation, would probably involve the Company's affairs in endleſs difficulties. I adhere therefore to the opinion I have already given, that the War on the Malabar Coaſt ought not to be ſupported, and that the ſafeſt and moſt prudent meaſure we can adopt, is, to withdraw our troops from their preſent hazardous ſituation to the defence of our own poſſeſſions. The regard to juſtice and moderation which we have ſhewn in taking the firſt ſtep towards an humble accommodation with the government at Poona, will probably make the conſideration of hoſtile meaſures againſt that State unneceſſary.

Reſolved, That the ſum to be ſupplied to the Bombay Preſidency in the courſe of this year, commencing from 1ſt May laſt, be extended to twenty lacks of Rupees, including the amount which they have already drawn for ſince that period.

Agreed, That the following Letter be immediately diſpatched for that Preſidency:

Gentlemen,

We have juſt received your Letters of the 13th July and 6th Auguſt; that of the 24th June had before reached us.

The laſt Advices which you acknowledge the receipt of from us, being dated the 8th March, we take this opportunity of tranſmitting you, by the ſea conveyance, Copies of all our Letters to your Preſidency ſince that date.

The ſenſe we entertain of your engagements with Ragoba, and the whole of your conduct in reſpect to your tranſactions with him, cannot more fully appear than from the tenor of thoſe Letters.

We are now ſorry to find the truth of our conjectures, as to the conſequence of this engagement; that the whole burthen of the extenſive War, undertaken by you in ſupport of Ragoba's claim to the Peiſhwaſhip, has fallen upon yourſelves, and that no dependence can be placed on the aſſiſtance of his Troops.

We have been ſo particularly enjoined by the Court of Directors to attend to the preſervation of Peace in general with the Country Powers throughout India, that we thought it neceſſary, in our Letters of the 31ſt May, to give you poſitive orders to recal your Army from Ragoba to your own garriſons, in whatſoever ſtate your affairs might be, unleſs the ſafety of the Troops might be endangered by an inſtant retreat. We hope you have acted with conformity thereto; but if not, we now repeat thoſe directions, judging it more particularly requiſite at this period, as it appears that Ragoba is not able to fulfil his part of the Treaty; and we require you to confine your views to the protection of the Company's poſſeſſions, including Salſette, and the ſhare in the Revenues of Broach given up by Futty Sing, in the beſt manner you are able. This laſt we have alſo inſtructed our Miniſter at Poona to ſecure, if poſſible, by the Treaty with that State. We cannot conſequently grant our conſent to any further reinforcement of Troops being ſent to join you from this ſide of India; I have therefore forbid the Council at Fort St. George to comply with your requeſt for 300 Europeans and two Battalions of Sepoys. Another reaſon which has weight with us againſt ſupplying you with Troops is, that having appointed Lieutenant Colonel Upton to proceed to Poona, to negociate a Treaty of Peace with the Miniſterial Party there, he will moſt probably arrive and open the buſineſs of his Miſſion to that Court before any reinforcement of Troops could be brought to co-operate with your Army, even ſuppoſing they ſhould ſtill remain in their quarters at Dubhoy; the junction of freſh Troops might be alarming to the Marattas, and appear contrary to good faith at a time when we are treating for Peace.

We have the greateſt reaſon to hope that Colonel Upton will find the Miniſtry inclined to liſten to his Propoſals for an Accommodation, eſpecially if they reflect upon the juſtice and moderation of this Government in the part it has taken, and diſcover by this, that it is our wiſh to promote a general pacification. Colonel Upton will no doubt under theſe circumſtances effect an honourable Peace for the Britiſh Nation, and upon terms of ſecurity to the Company's poſſeſſions in India.

We have agreed to furniſh you to the amount of 20 lacks of Rupees in the courſe of the preſent Year, commencing the 1ſt May laſt, in which we include the Drafts accepted from your Preſidency and Surat ſince that date; and we authorize you to continue drawing upon us for ſuch ſums as you may be able to obtain at the moſt reaſonable exchange in your power to that extent.

As you have made a friendſhip between me and Ragonaut Row Punt, I have therefore from my Sircar ceded for ever to the Company a Pergunnah called Chickly; and the friendſhip muſt be continued, without any alteration, according to the agreement dated the ninth of Jonia.

Tranſlate of the Copy of the Treaty between Ragonaut Bajarow Pundit Predan, on one part, and Futty Sing and Seagee Row, Shermſhere Bahader, on the other part.

That Seagee and Futty Sing, Shirmſhere Bahadar, had diſobeyed and joined with the Rebels; but now by the means of Colonel Thomas Keating, who for and in behalf of the United Engliſh Eaſt India Company have, by promiſing preſents, accommodated matters with Pundit Predan, the following are the Articles of the Guicawar propoſals.

Article 1ſt, That Secajee and Futty Sing, Guicawar Shermſhere Bahader, do hereby agree to pay the ſum of eight lacks of Rupees every year to the Circar.

2d, That they are to attend as uſual with a Troop of 3000 good Horſe and Men, which number is not to be leſſened.

3d, In the late Maderow's time they uſed to pay every year three lacks of Rupees to Govindrow, Guicawar Senackeſkel Shumſhere Bahader; which ſum is ſettled not to be paid him in future, about which Govinrow is to make no claim againſt Secajee and Futty Sing.

4th, Conderow, Guicawar Jumuth Bahader, is to be continued on the ſame footing, and agreeable to the Agreement made in the time of the late Damajee, deceaſed.

5th, That the Government and Revenue of the Pergunnahs of Broach have been ceded to the Honourable Company, agreeable to the Agreement made between them and Sheremuth Punt Pridan, about which Secajee and Futty Sing are not to make any diſpute.

6th, The Pergunnahs Chickly and Vercow, near Surat, and Coral, near the Nubadah river, and about 15 coſs diſtant from Broach, which together make three Pergunnahs, the Guicawar have ceded to the Honourable Company for ever, on account of the Peace they have made between the Guicawar and Sheremuth Punt Predan.

7th, That in the Court of Sheremuth Punt Predan, the Guicawars muſt pay a due attention to every thing that is reaſonable, without having any communication with its enemies.

8th, That for the confirmation and compliance of the above Articles, the Honourable Company ſtand ſecurity; and ſhould the Guicawars appear any way falſe, the Honourable Company is not to protect them; Ragoba is alſo to fulfil the above Articles without any difference.

APPENDIX, No. 79.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 11th September 1775.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, Eſquire.
Mr. Francis, indiſpoſed.

RECEIVED the following Letter and Incloſures from the Preſident and Council at Fort Saint George:

Honourable Sir and Sirs,

We have had the honour to receive your Letter of the 17th July, communicating to us the reaſons which have induced your Honour, &c. to depute Lieutenant Colonel Upton to Poona, as well as your ſentiments on the meaſures adopted by the Preſidency of Bombay, in acting in conjunction with Ragoba againſt the Miniſterial Party of the Maratta Government.

Accompanying, your Honour, &c. will receive Copy of a Letter which the Nabob has lately received from Savay Maudheveron Pundit Pridhawn; in conſequence of which we have addreſſed a Letter to the Nabob, wherein we adviſe him in reply to Maudheveron, to refer him to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, who on the ſpot can beſt inform him of the favourable intentions of the Engliſh towards his Government. And we have further requeſted that the Nabob will inform us if there is any thing relative to the ſafety or proſperity of the Carnatic, which he may think think may be obtained from the Maratta Government by means of Colonel Upton's Deputation, and which he would wiſh us to communicate to your Honour, &c. for that purpoſe.

In a Letter lately received by our Preſident from Mr. Whitehill, Chief of Maſulipatam, we are given to underſtand that Allyar Beg, brother to Fazel Beg Cawn, who commands the Soubah's Army, and who has extenſive influence both over his Councils and Government, is ſhortly expected to arrive at Maſulipatam, in order to celebrate a feſtival at that place; and on this account we think it adviſable to acquaint your Honour, &c. that we believe ſomething of importance to the Company may be obtained through his means, particularly as Fazel Beg has expreſſed himſelf greatly inclined to a more intimate connection than at preſent ſubſiſt between the Engliſh and the Soubah. At all events we think a Negociation with the Soubah might be probably carried on, not only as it might affect our Northern Circars, but as it might be of immediate conſequence to the forwarding the intention of the Deputation which your Honour, &c. have thought proper to ſend to Poona. The Soubah has heretofore had great weight with the Miniſterial Party of the Maratta Government, and we therefore are of opinion that advantages from that quarter may be had through his means; in this matter, however, your Honour, &c. will be the beſt enabled to judge. Mr. Whitehill has been directed to ſound Allyar Beg with reſpect to the Soubah's real intentions towards the Engliſh, and on being adviſed of the reſult of his enquiry, we ſhall not fail to communicate it to your Honour, &c. for your information.

The accompanying Letter from the Preſidency of Bombay, addreſſed to your Honour, &c. having been juſt received, we have now the honour of forwarding it to you, together with Copy of a Letter which we have received from them, as well as of our reply; in conſequence whereby you will obſerve, that they requeſt a further reinforcement of Troops from this eſtabliſhment; and that we, in conſequence of your Honour's &c. deſire, have declined ſupplying them with that ſuccour which they required.

We are, &c.

Fort Saint George. (Signed) A. Wynch,
26th Auguſt 1775. Preſid^t, and Council.

To the Honourable Alexander Wynch, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council at Fort Saint George.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

The War we are at preſent engaged in for the ſupport of Ragoba, is of the utmoſt importance to the Honourable Company, and loudly calls upon us to purſue every means in our power that we can think of to bring it to a ſpeedy and ſucceſsful iſſue; for on that will depend the greateſt advantages that the Company are to reap by the engagements we have entered into on their behalf. And it is a matter of the utmoſt importance to them, to conclude the War in the courſe of the enſuing ſeaſon.

Our Forces, in every engagement with the Enemy, have gained every advantage that we have reaſon to expect; but at the time we ſent the body of men we did, it was concluded, that Ragoba's own Forces would be of material ſervice during the campaign. The contrary, however, has been found to be the caſe; and it therefore has happened, that our Army has often not been able to reap any advantage that might have been expected from the victories they have gained over the Enemy. The Commanding Officer has in conſequence requeſted, and Ragoba earneſtly ſolicited, a reinforcement may be ſent by the time that they will be able again to take the field, which will be in the beginning of the month of November next, the rainy ſeaſon having at preſent obliged the Army to go into winter quarters at Dubay, near the banks of the Nerbedah. For this reinforcement which Ragoba has ſo earneſtly intreated, he is to make over additional advantages to the Honourable Company, excluſive of thoſe mentioned in the Treaty.

We ſhall alſo require a Military Force for the protection of Salſette, and of the Provinces already ceded to the Company, as well as to inſure the collection of the Revenues of the enſuing ſeaſon.

We have thus ſtated to your Honour, &c. the ſervices for which a large Military Force is required, and ſhall now proceed to acquaint you, that it is totally out of our power to furniſh from hence the whole that will be requiſite; but ſatisfied as we are how much you have the intereſt of the Honourable Company at heart, and being convinced that we can receive a reinforcement much more early from your Preſidency, than from the Governor General and Council at Fort William, who have offered us aſſiſtance, we therefore again take the liberty to apply to you, earneſtly requeſting that you will ſupply us with three hundred Europeans Rank and File, and two complete Battalions of Sepoys, which we may receive in time for the ſervices that will be required of them, by your Honour, &c. ordering them to march by land to Anjengo, from whence they will be directed to proceed to Tellichery, at which place conveyances ſhall be ready to tranſport them hither; and we can aſſure you that your compliance with this requeſt will be of very material benefit to our Honourable Employers.

The incloſed Packet for the Governor General and Council of Fort William, communicates to them the ſame intelligence as we have now done to you; and we requeſt that your Honour, &c. will acquaint them with your reſolution and determination on the application we now make to you; for ſhould you be unable to aſſiſt us with the whole Force that is now deſired, we have requeſted thoſe Gentlemen to ſupply the deficiency, or even the whole, ſhould you not be able to ſpare any part; but at the ſame time, we requeſt that you will conſider, that it is more than probable that the ſuccours from Bengal, ſhould you leave it to the Governor General and Council to ſupply us, cannot arrive at the ſcene of action ſo early as the beginning of November next, which is the time, as we before ſaid, that our operations muſt begin.

It will be very acceptable, if the ſtate of your finances will enable you to ſupply the Force that you may detach to our aſſiſtance with a Military Cheſt, as we have ſo many calls for Money, that we are apprehenſive our reſources may be inſufficient to ſatisfy all the demands upon us; more eſpecially, as one of our moſt material reſources is almoſt ſhut up, namely, the receipt of Money for the ſales of the Company's Goods; for, owing to the preſent ſituation of the Maratta Country, Trade is at this time almoſt at a ſtand.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council at Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We have been favoured with duplicate of your Letter of 13th ultimo, together with a Letter addreſſed to the Governor General and Council, which ſhall be forwarded to Bengal with the utmoſt expedition.

In conſequence of the aid of Troops which, in compliance with your earneſt deſire, we before ſent you, we informed the Governor General and Council of our having done ſo, and of the weighty reaſons which influenced us to ſuch a meaſure; but although they did not diſapprove of our having granted you that reinforcement at your urgent requeſt, yet they deſire that for the future we do not detach any part of our Forces out of our Provinces, unleſs for the ſecurity of our own poſſeſſions, without their previous concurrence. From this, therefore, your Honour, &c. will perceive, that we are not at liberty, even if our Military eſtabliſhment could afford it, to ſend you that aſſiſtance which you require; but indeed, were we left diſcretionally to act, our incompleete eſtabliſhment of Europeans would not admit of our making the ſmalleſt draft from it, much leſs of ſo conſiderable a one as that requeſted by your Honour, &c. of 300 Rank and File.

Having a few days ago received a Letter from the Governor General and Council, containing an account of the reaſons which have induced them to depute Lieutenant Colonel Upton to Poona, we ſhall here furniſh you with an extract of that part of it which immediately relates to the Embaſſy, and the Powers given to Colonel Upton; viz.

We have deputed Lieutenant Colonel Upton to proceed to Poona, to conclude a Treaty of Peace with that State; We have furniſhed him with full Powers and Inſtructions for this purpoſe.—The Peiſhwa has been adviſed of this Deputation, and deſired to forward Paſſports for Colonel Upton, to meet him at Calpee.

Agreeably to your requeſt, we ſhall immediately inform the Governor General and Council of our determination to decline acquieſcing in the requeſt you have made, in order, if it ſhall appear to them proper, that you be ſupplied with a reinforcement of Military from that eſtabliſhment.

Reſolved, That the following Reply to the foregoing Letters be immediately diſpatched to Fort Saint George.

Gentlemen,

We have received your Letter of the 26th Auguſt, by the Ankerwyke; alſo that of the 12th Auguſt, with your proceedings, which we ſhall take into conſideration as ſoon as poſſible.

We do not conceive it neceſſary to employ the mediation of the Nizam, in effecting the propoſed Treaty with the Maratta Government; and we think it is not likely that he would willingly engage in it, without ſome view to his own advantage. And as it is not our intention to ſolicit a reconciliation with the Maratta State, but to propoſe it to them as an act of juſtice due from this Government, and as being a duty enjoined us by the inſtructions of the Court of Directors, for the preſervation of Peace throughout India, we judge it unneceſſary to enter into any Negociation for this end, either with the Nizam, or any other power, and mean to rely ſolely on our own influence for effecting it.

We think however it would be highly proper for you to direct the Chief at Maſulipatam to inform the Nizam's Miniſter, Fazel Beg, ſhould he viſit that place, that we entertain the above ſentiments; that we have already declared our entire diſapprobation of the War in which the Bombay Preſidency have engaged the Company againſt the Maratta Government at Poona, and that we have ſent them orders to diſcontinue it.—He may alſo inform the Miniſter of our deputation of Colonel Upton to Poona, to ſettle the Terms of a Treaty of Peace with the Ruling Power there.

We think it would be improper to communicate to him any more than theſe circumſtances.

APPENDIX, No. 80.

From the Nabob, dated 12th Auguſt 1775; received 13th D^o D^o.

YESTERDAY, being the 11th Auguſt, at Evening, the Letter from Savay Maudheverow, a Copy of which I now incloſe for your peruſal, was brought to me by two poſt camels. You will be pleaſed to inform me what mode you think it adviſable to adopt in replying to it. What ſhall I ſay more?

Copy of a Letter from Savay Maudheverow Pundit Pridhawn to the Nabob; received at the Durbar 11th Auguſt 1775.

From the firſt eſtabliſhment of the Engliſh Factories on this Coaſt, we have, in reliance on their ſincerity and veracity, afforded them every kind of aſſiſtance that could tend to make their ſettlements flouriſh, and their trade increaſe; and the good underſtanding between us ſeemed firm and proſperous, inſomuch that the late Iru Mant Maudheverow, on receiving a Letter from your Highneſs and Mr. Bourchier, the then Governor of Madras, by the mediation of Naugoo Row, on the ſubject of the conqueſt of the Maiſore Country and Reidenoor, and the chaſtiſement of Hyder Cawn, applied himſelf, from a regard to the laws of friendſhip, to ſuccour your Highneſs and the Engliſh, and advanced in perſon repeatedly into the country of Maiſore with that intent. He then ſent Maudeverow Sadaſhevah to your Highneſs, who ſtaid with you for a conſiderable length of time; and notwithſtanding that no ſigns appeared of your ſending us a Force, and that the dilatory promiſe of Letters from Europe was brought up in the matter of the ſuccours we require, yet, after receiving Letters from your Highneſs and Governor Dupré, full of friendly expreſſions and declarations of ſteady adherence, he returned from thence; and though your Highneſs's country was cloſe by, did not tranſgreſs the bounds of amity. We had an entire dependance on the continuance of that good will which was expreſſed in your Highneſs's and the ſaid Governor's Letters from firſt to laſt.

Now however the Governor of Bombay having got poſſeſſion of Salſette by artifice, is acting in concert with my Uncle Ragonaut Row, in open hoſtility with the Circar Army. This perhaps you have already heard. Such a proceeding on the part of the Engliſh, contrary to all expectation, is highly injurious; and, conſidering the conduct of my Uncle towards my Father, which muſt appear atrocious to all nations, it is wonderful that the Engliſh, famed as they are for their ſincerity and uprightneſs, and informed as they are of this circumſtance and the nature of my Government, ſhould undertake to aſſiſt him.

Your Highneſs frequently wrote the late Iru Mant Maudheverow, and pledged your word to Maudheverow Sedahevah that you would be ſecurity for the union ſubſiſting between us and the Engliſh. I therefore deſire of your Highneſs, that you will ſpeak with the Governor of Madras that he may write, and that you yourſelf alſo will write, to the Governor General and Council of Calcutta; and that they ſend directions to the Governor of Bombay to deſiſt from ſuccouring my Uncle, and remain in the path of ancient friendſhip, which I ſhall eſteem a favour. For the reſt may your Highneſs's joy be perpetual.

APPENDIX, No. 81.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 18th September 1775.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

THE Governor General lays before the Board two Letters, this morning received from Suckaram Baboo and Ballajee

Ballajee Pundit, with the following Letters from the Chief of Maſulipatam, and Mr. Motte.

Honourable Sir,

I have the honour to tranſmit you herewith, two Letters received this day, the one from Sukaram Baboo, and the other from Nana Pudanvijs, both addreſſed to you.

Maſulipatam, I am, &c.
2d September 1775. (Signed) John Whitehill.

Sir,

I do myſelf the honour to incloſe two Letters received from Poona by returned Pattamars, and two received at the ſame time, diſpatched from thence by Sukaram Baboo by expreſs Pattamars.

Benares, I have, &c.
9 September 1775. (Signed) T. Motte.

From Sicca Ram Baboo; dated 29th July; received 18th September.

The many inſtances of your wiſdom, prudence, and abilities, which have come to my knowledge, have long made me deſirous of cultivating your friendſhip; but there is a time fixed for every thing, before which it cannot take place. I thank God that, agreeable to my moſt earneſt wiſhes, I have at this happy time, enjoyed the pleaſure of a Letter from you; and by a peruſal of its contents, am ſatisfied of your friendſhip and regard.

You are therein ſo kind as to inform me that you have written to the Sirdars of Bombay, to recal the forces which, contrary to the Orders of the Company, they have ſent to the aſſiſtance of Ragonaut Row, and to refrain from any act injurious to the Government of Surmunt Row; and you deſire that I will alſo put a ſtop to all hoſtilities againſt them by Troops of this Government. You further inform me, that it is your intention to depute a truſty perſon to me to adjuſt all differences; but that you wait for my anſwer, and a diſcovery of my ſentiments thereon. I perfectly underſtand all theſe particulars.

The circumſtances, my friend, are theſe; formerly the ſtricteſt union ſubſiſted between the family of the Peiſhwa and the Bombay Sirdars, which was cemented by a great number of Treaties; but by a ſudden change of fortune, Narrain Row being murdered by Ragonaut Row, the circumſtances of which are well known, by the favour of God a ſon was born to the deceaſed Row, under whoſe ſhadow we are protected; his birth raiſed the hopes of all men, and he was ſeated on the Muſnud of the Peiſhwaſhip.

During the life-time of the late bleſſed Row, I and Ballajee Pundit had, under him, the management of all affairs of the Government; and out of gratitude to them we ſtill continue to exert ourſelves with the utmoſt aſſiduity for the ſervice of our maſter, and are ſatisfied therein by all the dependants of the Peiſhwa, both great and ſmall. Moreover, the Nabob Nizam ul Mulk, adhering ſtrictly to the rights of his ancient friendſhip, ſhews favour and kindneſs to us.

When this affair became public, Ragonaut Row went towards Hindoſtan, purſued by the Forces of the Decan; and the Bombay Sirdars, notwithſtanding there had not been the leaſt appearance of a breach of friendſhip on the part of this Government, in violation of their Treaties, fraudulently ſeized on Salſette, belonging to this Government, and entering into an alliance with Ragonaut Row, who was wandering about with a very few followers, engaged in hoſtilities with the armies of the Circar. As the moſt ſtrict attention is paid to the performance of Treaties in your country, which the contracting parties preſerve inviolably to the end of their lives, ſuch conduct from the Sirdars of Bombay, in violation of their friendſhip, filled me with aſtoniſhment, and they daily enter further into this buſineſs. It therefore becomes neceſſary to oppoſe them; and our Army, ſupplied with all kinds of neceſſaries, has taken the field for that purpoſe.

There has been one or two engagements between them, which you muſt have received Advices of.

I have no other wiſh than to reſtore the affairs of my maſter, to procure eaſe and ſecurity to the people, and to preſerve harmony amongſt the families of the nobles. This is alſo your intention. Agreeable to your promiſe, you will, I doubt not, direct the recal of the Forces from the field; but it is a matter of the higheſt importance that your Orders to the Sirdars at Bombay ſhould be conveyed in the moſt poſitive terms. Our mutual intereſt conſiſts in a ſtrict friendſhip being preſerved between us, I have written all theſe particulars for your information, and wait for your Anſwer, and the arrival of a confidential Agent from you. The ſooner an Anſwer arrives the better.

Ballajee Pundit has alſo written to you, to whom it is neceſſary you ſhould return an Anſwer.

On a ſeparate Paper.

Several affairs of importance are delayed for your concurrence. As ſoon as the preſent affair is ſettled, I will inſtruct a perſon therein, and ſend him to you. Let me frequently have the pleaſure to hear from you.

From Ballajee Pundit; dated 29th July.

The many inſtances which I have heard of your wiſdom, prudence and abilities, have long made me deſirous of cultivating your friendſhip: but there is a time decreed for every thing, till which it cannot take place. God be thanked, that agreeable to my moſt earneſt wiſhes, Sicca Ram Pundit has at this happy time received a Letter from you, which inſpired me with the greateſt pleaſure; by a peruſal of its contents I am ſatisfied of your friendſhip.

Sicca Ram Pundit has written you very fully, by which you will be made acquainted with every particular.

I am in expectation of your Anſwer, and the arrival of a confidential Agent from you; the ſooner they arrive the better. Several affairs of importance are delayed for your concurrence. After the preſent Negociation is brought to a concluſion, I will ſend a perſon to you fully informed on theſe points.

N. B. Duplicates of the ſame date were received with the above Letters, together with triplicates dated 8th of Jummadu Aſſani, or 6th of Auguſt.

Reſolved, That the following Reply be ſent to the foregoing Letters.

To Sicca Ram Baboo; dated 20th September 1775.

I have been favoured with your Letter of the 29th of Jummadee ul Awel, together with a duplicate of the ſame date, and triplicate of the 8th of Jummade Aſſani, and was made happy by a peruſal of its contents. You write me, that you are anxious for the arrival of my Anſwer, and of a truſty perſon to accommodate all the cauſes of difference between the Gentlemen at Bombay and the Maratta State. My friend Colonel Upton, who has been appointed with full powers to treat with you, ſet out from hence about the latter end of Jummadee ul Awel, and will proceed directly to Poona by the way of Calpee. As I have already expreſſed my firm wiſh to reſtore the bleſſings of peace, and to eſtabliſh a laſting friendſhip between the Company and Maratta Nation, I have nothing elſe to add, but to deſire, that as Colonel Upton muſt paſs through your Country, and may meet with obſtructions, you will facilitate his paſſage as much as poſſible, by ordering the Chiefs of the Country through which he is to paſs, to afford him ſuch aſſiſtance as he may require. Conſidering me as your ſincere friend, let me frequently have the pleaſure to hear of your health.

To Ballajee Pundit, of the ſame Tenor and Date.

Reſolved, That the above Letters be ſent to Colonel Upton, together with Copies of them, and of thoſe juſt received for his information; and that the following Letter be immediately written to him.

APPENDIX. No. 81.

APPENDIX. No. 82.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

The Governor General having received Anſwers from Sicca Ram Baboo and Ballajee Pundit, the Miniſters of the Maratta Government at Poona, to the Letters which he wrote them concerning our intention to depute a perſon to negociate a Treaty of Peace with that State, we incloſe Tranſlations of theſe Papers, together with Copies of the Replies now diſpatched to them, for your information. The original Replies, which we alſo incloſed, we deſire you will forward by a ſpeedy conveyance to Poona, with a Letter from yourſelf addreſſed to Sicca Ram Baboo, requeſting any aſſiſtance that you may find you may have occaſion for in your route to that Capital.

We think it proper to add, that it appears highly neceſſary you ſhould proceed with all poſſible diſpatch.

APPENDIX, No. 82.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 5th October 1775.

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Council at Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

WE addreſſed you in duplicate under the 6th inſtant: and have ſince received the duplicate of your Letter of the 31ſt May, the contents whereof give us great concern; not only becauſe the intereſt of our Honourable Employers, we apprehend, muſt be very materially affected by the meaſures you have thought proper to adopt for bringing about a general Pacification, and the due weight of this Government affected in a manner we fear fcarcely to be retrieved, by the Letter Sacram Bappo at Poona, but alſo becauſe your Honour, &c. ſeem to think we have been guilty of a premeditated and intentional diſreſpect to the powers entruſted by the Legiſlature to your Government, which we take this early opportunity to aſſure you was by no means the caſe; but the Negociation for the Treaty with Rageba being begun before your adminiſtration commenced, and as we thereby ſecured to the Company the poſſeſſion of Salſette, and the right to Baſſein and the Pergunnahs near to Surat, all of which our Honourable Employers have repeatedly enjoined us to procure for them; and as the Revenues of theſe Pergunnahs can be collected without much trouble or expence, and is ſo conſiderable as to amount, including Salſette and Baſſein, to near twenty (20) lacks of Rupees per annum, which will be the means of enabling this Preſidency to ſupport itſelf, without being any longer a burthen to yours, of which the late adminiſtration frequently complained; and it was moreover abſolutely requiſite for us to determine, whether we would conclude the Treaty, or abſolutely reject it; for any delay in the then ſituation of Rageba's affairs would, we judged, have been the ſame as if we had determined to remain inactive; we ſay, for all theſe cogent reaſons, we thought that we were not precluded by the late Act of Parliament from purſuing the meaſures we did.

Another weighty conſideration impelled us alſo to this meaſure; we have been induced, from the motives we fully ſtated to your Honour, &c. in our Addreſs of the 31ſt December laſt, to attack and reduce Salſette, and we think that the welfare of this Preſidency entirely depended on our preventing that Iſland from again falling into the hands of the Portugueze; in this ſituation we are of opinion policy required that we ſhould ſide with one of the contending parties in the Maratta State, that it might be reconciled to our motives for that attack, and to our continuing in poſſeſſion of that Iſland; this neceſſarily being allowed, juſtice doubtleſs required that we ſhould take part with Rageba the Peiſhwa; and in duty to our Employers we made this deciſive ſtep as advantageous to them as poſſible, as we think is evident from the Treaty.

We are induced to hope for theſe reaſons, that your Honour, &c. will not continue to conſider our Treaty as invalid, nor the War which was the conſequence of it, either un-authoriſed, impolitic, or unjuſt; that it was not dangerous, the event of it hitherto has ſhewn; but even had it been ſo in ſome degree, we flatter ourſelves your Honour, &c. will admit ſomething might have been riſked for the great probability we had of acquiring a a revenue of nearly two hundred and fifty thouſand (2,50,000 l. ſtg.) Pounds ſterling per annum, for the future neceſſary ſupport of this Preſidency, and this by a means that equity as we conceive, allowing for circumſtances, cannot cenſure; for though we have not the plea of injury ſuſtained by the Poona party, yet it muſt be obſerved, that party is compoſed of the traitorous and rebellious ſubjects of Rageba, who by his large offers for our aſſiſtance, his juſt pretenſions, and the neceſſity of our taking a part for the reaſons above aſſigned, induced us to eſpouſe his cauſe, and to hope for your Honour, &c. concurrence.

We are convinced, that were you fully acquainted with the equitable and undeniable pretenſions of Rageba to the dignity of Peiſhwa, of which he has been near two years in poſſeſſion (as you will pleaſe to obſerve on reference to a Letter from Mr. Meſſyn, Reſident at the Durbar, to the late Select Committee of your Preſidency, under date 29th November 1773) and that a large part of the Maratta Empire at preſent acknowledge him ſuch, with the fair proſpect we had of ſhortly fixing him therein, and alſo of the diſtracted ſtate of the affairs of the rebellious confederacy, without an adequate army, or an effectual means to procure one, together with the detriment that muſt accrue to the Company, and the diſgrace to this Preſidency, by the Orders you have given for annulling our Treaty, and in conſequence deſerting Rageba; we ſay that had your Honour, &c. been fully apprized reſpecting all theſe points, we cannot but flatter ourſelves that your Orders would have been very different, or at leaſt they would have left us to have carried into execution your reſolution for a general pacification, which we are ſatisfied might have been done with honour and credit, had you not at the ſame time you peremptorily required us to withdraw our Forces, acquainted the Miniſterial Party ſo expreſſly of your having done ſo, and of your condemnation of our conduct.

This intelligence we received from Poona in a Letter to the Preſident, as per Copy incloſed, and at the ſame time we received a Copy of one from Governor Haſtings to Sacram Bappo; both were delivered by an Agent from that party, who had been here ſome time to ſolicit Peace; but the indiſpoſition of this Agent, and of our Preſident afterwards, prevented his propoſals being received till after he had got this Letter; he will now make no other Overtures than, that on condition of delivering up Rageba and the Iſland of Salſette, and of relinquiſhing our pretenſions to Baſſein, and all other places ceded by Treaty, our expences may be defrayed; though we are ſatisfied thoſe he came with were widely different indeed: he alſo aſſures us, as well as the Letter from Poona, that Orders are gone to their Army to ceaſe all hoſtilities; which Orders the Agent declares he underſtands extend to Rageba, his Officers, and adherents. In obedience to your poſitive injunctions, we have alſo ſent directions to our Commanding Officer to ceaſe from all acts of hoſtility, and as ſoon as the ſeaſon will poſſibly admit, our Forces will be withdrawn into our own garriſons.

But in order more fully than can be done by Letter, at ſo great a diſtance, to repreſent to your Honour, &c. the motives for all our proceedings, and the preſent ſituation of affairs, with the danger and diſcredit that muſt attend our Treaty being annulled, and Rageba deſerted; as well as to repreſent to you at large the particular intereſt of this Preſidency; we have deputed to your Honour, &c. Mr. William Taylor, who, from being long a Member of our Board and of the Select Committee, is ſufficiently ently qualified to give your Honour, &c. every requiſite information: and we earneſtly requeſt that you will attend to the repreſentations that he may make you on the ſubject in queſtion, and all others dependent on it; and we hope, that on further conſideration you may be induced to revoke your preſent Orders, to confirm our Treaty, and to permit us to carry Rageba to Poona, in the manner firſt propoſed, for we can aſſure your Honour, &c. that with your countenance and ſupport we are firmly of opinion no ill conſequences can reſult therefrom, but on the contrary, that great and permanent advantages muſt be ſecured to the Company thereby; we hope alſo that you will do us the juſtice to believe that it is our wiſh and intention at all times to pay the moſt implicit obedience to your authority. We would willingly take upon ourſelves the conſequences of the War, for which your Honour, &c. by your proteſt declare we are reſponſible, provided we have your ſupport, and are allowed to conduct it to its iſſue.

For every other requiſite information, as well with regard to the places ceded for ever by Treaty, as for thoſe granted for the ſubſidy, alſo for the ſituation of the Pergunnahs that have ſince been made over to the Company by Rageba and Futty Sing, for mediating the reconciliation of the latter with the former, likewiſe for the Company's general intereſt at this Preſidency in its preſent ſituation, permit us to refer your Honour, &c. to Mr. Tayler; aſſuring you that we remain, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 23d Auguſt 1775. (Signed) W^m Hornby, and Council.

To Madaurao Narrein.

After Compliments.

By the hands of your ſervant Biccajee, I received your Letter, and underſtand its contents. You write, that a Letter has been received from Governor Haſtings at Bengal, in the name of Sacaram Bagwant, of which you have ſent me a Copy, and that you have ſent written Orders to all your Officers, charging them not to fight with or moleſt the Engliſh Forces. This is well. Your ſervant Biccajee has aſſured me in your name, that your Orders to your Officers alſo extend to Rageba, his Forces, and all his adherents, that is, that they are not to fight with or moleſt him, or them; this alſo is proper, for Rugonaut Row Peiſhwa is under our protection. All is to remain juſt in the ſame ſituation as at preſent, as your ſervant aſſures me is your meaning and intention; this alſo is mine, and I have therefore ſent the neceſſary Orders to the Commander of our Forces. Take care, I deſire, that your Orders are not infringed, and then mine will be exactly obeyed, till a Treaty may be concluded.

A true Copy.
(Signed) Geo. Skipp, Secretary.

Ordered, That this Letter lie for conſideration.

APPENDIX, No. 83.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

WE have received Advice from the Preſident and Council of Bombay, and alſo learnt from Mr. Tayler, one of their Council, who has been deputed from them to this Government, that a total ceſſation of Arms, has taken place between the Maratta Army and the Company's Troops, lately employed in ſupport of Rageba; both Parties will conſequently remain in this ſtate of ſuſpenſe, until your arrival at Poona. It is unneceſſary therefore to ſay, how earneſtly we repeat our directions for your proceeding with all poſſible diſpatch.

Fort William, 5th October 1775. We are, &c.

Reſolved, That Mr. Tayler from Bombay be requeſted to meet the Board at Ten o'Clock on Monday next, that day being ſet apart for his reception. APPENDIX. No. 83.

Ordered, That notice be ſent him by the Secretary.

Bengal Secret Conſultations, 9th October 1775.

Such were the great and leading motives which induced the Government of Bombay to engage with Peiſhwah Ragonath Row. It ſeems the very criſis wiſhed for by the Company, an opportunity of accompliſhing the objects they had ſo ſtrenuouſly enjoined them ever to keep in view, with honour, with juſtice, and without the hazard of a general War with the whole Maratta Empire, with their eſpecial and repeated Orders on this head before them, unrepealed by every Letter that accompanied the new Act. So far from meaning a diſregard to that Act, or to the power with which it veſts your Honour, &c. the Government of Bombay would have deemed themſelves wanting, in their conception of it, to the ſpirit of the Legiſlature expreſſed in the words, "except in ſuch caſes "where the ſaid Preſident and Council reſpectively ſhall "have received ſpecial Orders from the ſaid united Com-"pany," and moſt highly to our Employers, had they ſo ſlumbered over their intereſts, as to let paſs by unregarded this opportunity, perhaps the only one that may offer again, of eſtabliſhing their affairs in the Weſt of India, on the footing they have ſo long ſought to place them. To have heſitated cloſing with the Peiſhwah, would in effect have been the ſame as a plain refuſal, for in the ſituation he then was, he muſt certainly have had recourſe to other aſſiſtance; and from the reſpectable footing in which the late increaſe of their military and total change of Government has placed them, it would moſt probable have been to the Portugueze, who would gladly have cheriſhed a ſtroke of fortune ſo unexpectedly co-operating, the execution of the very views to which all their late expences and arrangements have ſolely tended, viz. the recovery of the Provinces of the North, the great object of their intereſt and honour ever ſince the capture of them in 1739, by Chimnajee Oppa, and which they would certainly have now obtained, had it not been for an interference equally timely and fortunate to the Honourable Company.

Beſides theſe, other ſtrong inducements were not wanting to take the part they did; the reduction of Salſette, without the conſent of either party, rendered it neceſſary to ſide with one, in order to procure a degree of title to the poſſeſſion; and to prevent the diſagreeable alternative of either endangering the welfare of the Settlement, by relinquiſhing this conqueſt, or ſuſtaining at ſome period a general War with the combined Forces of the Marattas, to maintain it.

The due attention to the ſafety and tranquillity of the Company's Poſſeſſions in the Eaſt of Hindoſtan, was alſo no ſmall motive in theſe engagements. It was judged, that ſhould the ſucceſs of the confederates at Poona end in the total depreſſion of Rageba, and once give them leiſure to advert the other objects, the very firſt that would ſtrike their attention, would be to enrich themſelves by the collection of Chout in the name of their circar. In this all parties among the Marattas never fail to concur. I cannot pretend to ſay how far the Bengal Provinces might be engaged; but from the vicinity of the Carnatic, there ſeems no doubt of their paying it a viſit. They never want a pretence; and the reduction of Tanjore had given great jealouſy at Poona, particularly to the Maratta Chiefs, as the Rajah of Tanjore is related to the Rajah. The ſafety and tranquillity of the Company's Territories in the Eaſt would, for theſe reaſons, be ſecured for a longer time, by not ſuffering the Miniſterial Confederacy to predominate by the Treaty with the Peiſhwa. This great object is for ever accompliſhed as far as ſolemn engagements can bind; and, could circumſtances permit of a general exertion at this period, our ſecurity in this point might be ſtill more perfect.

Indeed, by theſe ſeveral motives, the Government of Bombay

APPENDIX. No. 83.

Bombay concluded a Treaty with the Vackeel of Ragoba: It was much to be wiſhed that their reſources in Men and Money had been more adequate to this undertaking; but truſting that the ſame ſentiments would generally prevail of the policy and utility of their engagements, the aid of the other Preſidencies was not doubted. Accordingly ſuch Troops as could poſſibly be ſpared were embarked for Surat, from whence they were to proceed to form a junction with the Army of Ragoba, in the manner that circumſtances on their arrival might point out to be moſt expedient; the firſt ſtep propoſed being to reduce Brodirah, the capital of the Guicawars, put the Officers of Govindrow and Candahrow in poſſeſſion of the country, and direct the march towards Poona, which could then be done with greater ſafety, as we ſhould have a country in alliance with us in our rear.

Hurry Punt Furkia, a Bramin, one of the Confederates and Commander in Chief of the Army, hearing of Ragoba's intention to ſecure our aid, judged there was no time to be loſt; and therefore determined, if poſſible, to attack him while he had yet the ſuperiority; he accordingly directed his march towards Broderah, which obliged Ragoba to raiſe the ſiege of it, and retire Northwards of the Mybie River, near Cambay. Futty Sing Guicawar joined the Confederates; and being well acquainted with the country, led their Army, by ſhort routs, through paſſes and defiles, croſſed Mybie, came unexpectedly on the Army of Ragoba, attacked the center of it, where he was; a ſmart action enſued between the Armies, but a party of Arabs, whom Ragoba had got from Govind Row, declining to engage, he thought himſelf betrayed, quitted the field, and narrowly eſcaped to Cambay, with about 1000 horſe. His General, Monackjee Phankria, retreated with the beſt of his Troops and valuable effects to the Fort Copperwange, about 50 coſs from Cambay, as did Govind Row and Sanda Row.

From Cambay the Peiſhwa made the beſt of his way to Surat, where our Army found him. The Treaty agreed on by his Vackeel was here ratified by him; and having received advice from his General and his Allies of their ſafe retreat to Copperwange, from whence they acquainted him, that they doubted not of effecting a junction with the Engliſh Troops, could they advance to Cambay, it was therefore determined our Army ſhould proceed there, as we could tranſport it by ſea, and were well aſſured of its perfect ſecurity. It accordingly arrived there the 18th March; and though the Miniſterial Army was at firſt between us and our Allies, yet by a concerted motion the Commander in Chief having brought himſelf in a ſecure poſt between the Enemy and the Peiſhwa's Troops, a junction was happily formed with them on the 19th April.

The combined Army then conſiſted of 35,000 Horſe and Foot belonging to Ragoba and Govind Row, and 2,500 Engliſh Troops. The Army of the Confederates had ſuffered a very material reduction, and of their beſt Troops, by the deſertion of Madoojee Sindia, the Jagierdaar of Ugien, owing entirely to the impolitic advice of the Bramins, who deeming Ragoba's ruin certain on his late defeat, paid no further attention to their Northern Friends, but ſent Orders to Hurry Punt Furkia, to ſeize Madoojee Sindia, and ſend him to Poona to ſettle his accounts. The Maratta got intelligence of this, and knowing the meaning was to fleece him, he decamped with about 12,000 of the beſt horſe in the Army, under pretence that troubles in his own Jaghier called him there.

As ſoon as poſſible after junction, Colonel Keating, the Commander in Chief of our Forces, advanced towards the Enemy in order to bring them to an engagement, but though ſomething ſuperior, they ſtudiouſly avoided it, and fled before us at different times. At the requeſt of the Peiſhwa, for ſome particular reaſons our Army moved towards the North; but Poona being our final object, as the Peiſhwa's arrival there would bring matters to a concluſion, Colonel Keating was ordered not to be diverted from it by any object ſo remote from his deſtination, but with all expedition poſſible to direct his march Southward.

Diſcouraged by the deſection of ſo conſiderable a partizan as Sindia; by the doubts they were in regarding their other Northern Ally, Hulcar; by the duplicity of the Nizam's conduct, who notwithſtanding their ceſſions and ſubſidies, had ſtill declined advancing any Troops to their aſſiſtance; by the loſs of their Ally, Shabajee Bonſola, cut off by his brother Moodajee; by their fears of ſeveral leading men, who not only refuſed to join the Confederacy, but they judged would declare openly for Ragoba as he advanced to Poona; and knowing the utter impoſſibility they were in to reſiſt, ſhould the engagement of the Engliſh with Ragoba become general; from theſe ſeveral motives, the junction at Poona, it is ſaid, directed Hurry Punt Furkia at all events to riſk an engagement with us at any rate; their proſpects could not be worſe, and a fortunate ſucceſs might give a favourable turn to a Negociation, which Sacaram Bapoo and Nana Furneſſe were then meditating with the Preſident and Council of Bombay.

When the Peiſhwa was compelled to fly on the unfortunate ſurpriſal of his Army, he had brought off with him about ſix lacks of Rupees in Jewels, the reſt of his valuable effects were ſecured in the Fort of Dhaar with his family; theſe ſix Lacks were inſiſted on as a pledge for his engagement with the Company. He wanted to make a Loan at Surat, but from the ſtate of affairs, the Shroffs did not chuſe to truſt him on his own ſecurity, and the Preſident and Council could not in prudence engage the credit of the Company; from this want of money, infinite diſtreſs ſucceeded, and in action, advantages were loſt by it, as it is well known the hired Troops of India can never be brought to engage without ſome proſpect of immediate ſatisfaction; the Miniſters know this, and were therefore more deſirous to come to action before a turn to his affairs relieved him from this diſtreſs, which they were ſenſible would in fact deprive him of any great benefit from his own Troops, whatever their number might be.

Accordingly, on the 18th of May they made diſpoſitions to engage.—Accounts have already been tranſmitted of this action, in which the Confederates were defeated, and though by ſome unfortunate accident on our ſide, and the inaction of the Peiſhwa's Force, it was not ſo complete a victory as might have been hoped for, yet it ſufficed to throw their Troops into utter diſcouragement, and they never could be brought to face us again, but ſuffered us quietly to purſue them through defenſible paſſes and defiles without oppoſition, till on the 7th of June we came up with their rear in croſſing the Nerbedah, killed them ſeveral people, obliged them to ſink their Cannon in the river, and many Men, Horſes, and Camels, &c. were afterwards found floating down with the tide; this was the laſt time we could come to action with them, Hurry Punt Furkia having fled with the remainder of his Army entirely out of the Guzerat Provinces.

The approach of the Monſoon, when it would be impoſſible for our Troops to march, forbad all thoughts of advancing further Southward before the rains; not to loſe any time however, it was determined by the Colonel to avail himſelf of the remaining part of the fair ſeaſon to reduce Dubboy, a fortified place, ſituated between Broach and Broderah, where our Army could winter, and on the opening of the ſeaſon be eaſily joined from Broach by ſuch reinforcement and ſupplies as might be ſent from Bombay, and from thence march to reduce Broderah, ſhould the Negociation then on foot between Futty Sing and the Peiſhwa fail to ſecure us a friendly country in our rear, on the march of the Army towards Poona. The reduction of Dubboy was effected without loſs, and with it concluded all our Military Operations that Campaign.

The engagements of Futty Sung Guicawar with the Confederates, ſeems to have been ſolely with the view of preventing the ravage and deſtruction of his country for ever. At the time he joined their Army, he made diſtant Overtures to Ragoba; he knew that the intereſts which the late ceſſions gave to the Engliſh in the welfare of Guzerat would preſerve it on their part, and his junction with the Miniſterial Army ſecure it on the other; as ſoon therefore as the retreat of Hurry Punt Furkia confirmed his ſafety in that quarter, he began to make ſerious Overtures of Accommodation to Ragoba, who from the general face of things he judged muſt prevail, and in that caſe his Government would be for ever loſt to him. As the former appointment of Govind Row, and his firm attachment to Ragoba, left no doubt of his rival being eſtabliſhed in the Guicawar poſſeſſion, the better to inſure ſucceſs he applied for the mediation of the Engliſh, to whom he not only gave the confirmation of the grants engaged by the Peiſhwa to be obtained from the Guicawar, but further convenient ceſſions in perpetuity, to the amount of about 1,78,000 Rupees per annum. With Ragoba he ſtipulated for the uſual Chout and aid due to the Poona Durbar; and what was moſt convenient in his preſent circumſtances, the ſum of twenty-ſix Lacks to be paid in ſixty days, the Peiſhwa having previouſly ſatisfied Govind Row; a Treaty of Peace and Alliance was finally concluded in the month of July laſt.

At ſea the Marattas at firſt made a formidable appearance. Induced by the hopes of making ſome rich captures, the Officer at Gheria equipped a ſquadron conſiſting of 1 Ship	— 46	guns	2 Gallivats of 9 guns.

1 Ditto	— 38	ditto	8 Ditto from 2 to 4 guns, beſides ſwivels.
1 Ditto	— 32	ditto
2 Ditto	— 26	ditto

This formidable Fleet in appearance was met on the 2d of February by the Revenge and Bombay grab, under the command of Commodore John More; the Commodore immediately ſtood towards them, when their whole Fleet bore away; he however ſingled out the Admiral's ſhip, called the Shumſhur Jung, of 46 guns, and directed the grab, being the beſt ſailer, to give her chace. The ſhip ſtood in for the ſhore, with deſign it ſeems to run aground, but the grab came up with her, and began engaging, which giving time to the Commodore to come up, he kept up a very ſmart fire on her for about two hours, when ſhe blew up and was entirely deſtroyed, with the Commander and moſt of her people.

Proper convoys being given to the trade up and down the Malabar Coaſt, we met with no loſs whatever at ſea, except of a ſmall pilot ſloop, which was ſurprized by two gallivats, under the colours of the Suddee of Ragapore, our friend and ally, not knowing at that time of our being at hoſtilities with the Marattas.

As your Honours, &c. had deſired particular information regarding the ſeveral places ceded to us, I will conclude with it the account of our ſituation at this period.

Ceded for ever by the Treaty with the Peiſhwa,

Salſette, with Caranjee, Elephanta, Hog Iſland, and Canary — —	3,50,000
Baſſien with its dependencies —	4,00,000

Veriow near Surat — —	28,000
Ahmood adjoining to Baroach	1,50,000
		3,28,000
Ceded to the Company for ever — Rupees		22,53,000

Made over by the Peiſhwa for the payment of the ſubſidy, viz.

Ahmood, ſince entirely given up, and therefore the others remain as a pledge for the payment of the ſubſidy —	1,50,000
Occlaſeer, the remainder of its revenues — —	1,00,000
Hanſoot — — —	1,27,000
Verſal — —	1,00,000
		4,87,000

From the ſouthenmoſt part of Baſſien to the point of Chaul, the land forms a deep bay, in which are ſituated the Iſlands of Salſette, Bombay, Caranja, Hog Iſland, Elephanta, and Canary; Bombay being ſituated about eight miles from the continent, forms the harbour to which it gives its name.

Salſette lays north of Bombay, from which it is divided only by a narrow channel of about half a mile in breadth; it is about twenty miles long, and the ſame breadth on a medium. Its chief produce is Rice; it is capable of much improvement, not being above two-thirds cultivated, and great part of it alſo breached by the ſea. The Fort of Tamah commands a fordable channel, dividing Salſette from the main, and is about the middle of the eaſtern ſide of the Iſland.

Caranja is a ſmall Iſland on the eaſt of Bombay, forming part of the eaſt ſide of the harbour; its chief produce is alſo Rice; it is at preſent worth about 60,000 Rupees per annum, and is capable of improvement.

Elephanta is a ſmall Iſland, valued at about 800 Rupees.

Hog Iſland and Canary are little more than barren rocks; the latter is in the mouth of the harbour. Of all theſe, except Canary, which is not worth the trouble of reducing, we have poſſeſſion of the regular Sunnuds for them on the Peiſhwa.

Baſſien is a Peninſula formed by a large river on the north, by the ſea on the weſt, and a river which divides it from Salſette, and to which it gives its name, on the ſouth; a rivulet which fills makes it an Iſland in the time of the rains. It produces Rice, many Fruits, and particularly fine Sugar Canes: The ſoil is exceedingly fine. An extenſive fort on the ſouth commands the river. The diſtrict of Baſſien extends to Baldapaiby northward, within eight coſs of Damaun, including Dannoo, Terrapore, Mahim, Kelme, Almole, and ſome other towns ſituated on rivers flowing from the Gauts. We have the Sunnuds for Baſſien and its diſtricts; but as we had not ſufficient force to reduce them after the departure of our Army to the northward, and as the conducting the Peiſhwa to Poona was the great object which would inſure to us the peaceable attainment of theſe places, it was not thought prudent to delay that, or diminiſh our Force by the previous reduction of them; they are not therefore in our poſſeſſion as you imagined, but ſtill in the hands of the Miniſterial Party.

Theſe are all our acquiſitions to the ſouthward of Surat, forming a continued chain with Bombay of about eighty-ſix miles from north to ſouth. Two additional battalions of Sepoys, I imagine, will be ſufficient for the neceſſary poſts, which being called in on any apprehenſion from the French, will be a conſiderable reinforcement to the ſtanding garriſon of Bombay.

From Baſſien, Donnoo, and the rivers between, comes great part of the Timber indiſpenſably neceſſary for the conſtruction of the ſhips. Salſette, &c. with Baſſien and its diſtricts, are only eſtimated at 7½ Lacks, but under our Government they will, I doubt not, in a few years produce at leaſt ten.

For all the ceſſions to the north ſtipulated by the Treaty with the Peiſhwa, we have not only the Sunnuds but abſolute poſſeſſion; the Sunnuds for Corial, Chickley, and Variow, were juſt received by the very laſt accounts, and no doubt we had poſſeſſion ſoon after we were in poſſeſſion of Ahmood and all the places aſſigned for payments of the ſubſidy.

APPENDIX. No. 83.

Orpad, Variow, and Chickley, laying contiguous to Surat, I ſee no increaſe of expence that will be requiſite on their account, except the neceſſary one for collection.

The ceſſion of the Guicawar's ſhare of the Baroach revenue, is only what is Choutiah, collected from the ſame towns we did, ſo that this is all clear profit. Jambooſeer is a large commercial town, ſituated on a ſmall river to which it gives its name. Its territory adjoining to that of Baroach, very few changes will be requiſite, as the ſame garriſon which defends the territory of the one, will ſerve for the other. Ahmood is a large town; its diſtricts, and that of Corial, are all contiguous to that of Baroach from Occlaſeer, where the ſubſidy is paid, we have only to ſend a man to collect annually 75,000 Rupees.

Occlaſeer, the firſt of the Pergunnahs from which we are to reimburſe ourſelves for the ſtipulated ſubſidy, lies betwen Surat and Baroach: Hanſoot adjoins to our Pergunnah of Orpad: Verſaul is about 40 miles to the ſouthward of Surat, ſituated on a river, from which a great quantity of Timber is exported. As it is from the nett produce of theſe aſſignments that the Company are to be paid, the neceſſary charges of collection will be on account of the Peiſhwa.

Although theſe ceſſions are not literally the Maratta ſhare of the Surat revenues, by which it is to be underſtood thoſe collected by the Peiſhwa; yet, as they generally anſwer the views of the Company, it was preferred accepting them for many reaſons. Different perſons collect in many of the other diſtricts, which might have involved us in diſputes; Baroach being reduced ſince the date of their orders, they could have no views or intereſt then in the diſtrict ceded adjoining to it; but another ſtill more forcible reaſon is, that in order to have completed the ſum we had in view, the Peiſhwa muſt have taken from the Guicawar dominions; and at that period it was very material to conciliate the affections of that family, who may be made uſeful allies to the Company, ſhould you deem this a fit juncture to form a ſyſtem for counteracting any future deſign of the Poonah Durbar.

At the concluſion of the Treaty with Futty Sing, the general aſpect of affairs was very flattering to the hopes of Ragoba; he had already experienced, that with the greateſt force they could ever hope to collect, the Confederates had never dared to make a bold and determined ſtand againſt our Army as it then was, although for want of pay his own Troops had never been brought to act with any degree of efficacy. This Army would have been increaſed after the rains by Captain Kelly's battalion of Sepoys from Madras, which, from the experience given of the activity and conduct of its Commander, the attention of his Officers, and the excellent ſtate of diſcipline the men were in, was judged by the military gentlemen to be little, if any thing, inferior in the field to Europeans; add to this, the junction of Futty Sing's Troops, and the effectual ſervice that might be expected from thoſe of the Peiſhwa, when they found him enabled to ſatisfy their arrears; it was natural to imagine the Confederate Army would not dare to face us; the Guicawar country extending far on the road to Poonah, ſecured our rear and proviſions to the Army. With this Force alone, it might not be very raſh to pronounce that we ſhould have reached our deſtination during the courſe of the enſuing campaign, had we received the requeſted reinforcement from Madras; it ſeems to me there could not have been the leaſt doubt of it.

To increaſe his hopes by the lateſt accounts, Moodajee, who by the death of his brother Shabajee now enjoyed undiſturbed poſſeſſion of the Bonſalo Dominions, was advancing with a very reſpectable Force to his aſſiſtance, as was alſo Iſhmael Cawn, at the head of 4,000 good Horſe; Appajee Gunnis, then in charge of Ahmadabab, was in Treaty for the ſurrender of it to the Peiſhwa, part of whoſe Troops were gone to take poſſeſſion of it, which, when effected, would leave him free from any enemy to the northward of the Nerbedah.

But above all, the conduct of the Nizam, at this juncture, moſt fortunately co-operated with other events, to give us a moſt perfect aſſurance, of conducting our engagements with the Peiſhwa to a happy iſſue; it was perfectly of a piece with that policy which had attentively watched every turn in the Maratta affairs, to retrieve what their Government had uſurped from him in its proſperity. On the defeat of their Army, and the bad aſpect of their affairs, when the Peiſhwa repaſſed the Nerbeda, the Confederates, who would advance nothing of their own, thought to bribe the Nizam to action, by the ceſſion of the ſtrong and important Fortreſs of Dowletabad, with Buranpore Aſſiry, and ſome diſtricts formerly conquered by the Marattas: He accordingly entered into a ſolemn engagement with them; they had actually evacuated Dowletabad, and were withdrawing their Troops from the other ceſſions. In point of territory, it ſeems he had now got all he wanted; but judging, that if the Engliſh entered generally and heartily into the re-eſtabliſhment of Ragoba, his retaining it might be very doubtful, in order to ſecure himſelf more thoroughly, he applied to the Nabob of Surat, to ſound whether he could not compaſs his admiſſion into the party of Ragoba: His terms were, the confirmation of all that the Miniſters had ceded to him, for which the Engliſh were to become guarantees; for this he offered to act againſt the Miniſters with all his Force, conſiſting of 50,000 Horſe, 15,000 Sepoys, and a Train of Artillery, which were to be further joined by 8,000 good Horſe of Moodajee Bonſalo, ſhould the terms be accepted. Should the Nizam be once determined to act againſt them, the Confederates muſt loſe all hopes; and there ſeems no reaſon to doubt that he would, with the guarantee of the Engliſh to ſecure him in the ſtipulated ceſſion, as without it, he could have little hopes of peaceably retaining them any longer than juſt during the continuance of the preſent diviſions.

Excluſive of this application to the Engliſh, the Nizam alſo ſent Vackeels to Ragoba, with propoſals for a general accommodation between all parties, on the following plan: That Ragoba was to enjoy all the honours, and ſufficient revenue to ſupport the dignity of the Peiſhwa, but the Government to be carried on in the name of his ſon Imrut Raw, and the adminiſtration of affairs to be with Moraba Tourneſe; as Duan, all places ſtipulated to be ceded by the Miniſterial Party, to be confirmed to him by Ragoba, and the Confederates fully pardoned and ſecured in poſſeſſion of their fortunes and effects.—Excluſive of the policy of it, which alone ſuffices to account for the conduct of the Nizam, it is imagined the death of his Neeziee Ruckna ul Dowla, who was ſaid to be deeply bribed by the Miniſters, was partly the occaſion of theſe Overtures.

Far different from this flattering ſituation was the ſtate of the Confederacy; they had been deſerted by Mhadoojee Sindia and Tocajee Holkar, on whom reſted their chief dependence; Naroo Uppa, the Governor of Poonah, a man well reſpected, was dead; Morava Tourniſe, a Miniſter of the firſt conſideration, with ſeveral others, could not be brought to join the Confederacy, and his influence was ſo high, that they dared not moleſt him even in Poonah: Already, ſome in their party, by no means inconſiderable, had quitted it; ſuch were Appajee Gunies, the Governor of Ahmadabad, and Futty Sing Guicawar, to whoſe knowledge and influence in the Guzerat country, they were ſolely indebted for the ſucceſs they met with, previous to our junction with Ragoba: Shabajee Benſalo, who had been formerly of great ſervice to them, was dead: Always doubtful of the Nizam, the death of Ruckna ul Dowla now defeated all their hopes in that quarter, they knew the utter impoſſibility of reſiſting the united efforts of the Engliſh; add to this the jealouſy entertained of the views and ambitions of the leading members of the Confederacy, made ſeveral dread their ſucceſs, almoſt as much as that of Ragoba. Such was the ſtate of politics at Poonah.

Their reliance on their Army was nothing better: The Maratta Chiefs who had been brought to engage in the Confederacy, were given to hope for ſupplies of Caſh from the Miniſters; but here again the Brahmin avarice combated the general intereſt; for though they have large ſums of their own, yet no one being perfectly aſſured that any particular benefit would accrue to him by parting with it, conſtantly refuſed every application, and referred to the treaſurers of the Circar, which being only the temporary collections, were ſoon exhauſted in ſubſidies to the Nizam. Hurry Punt Furkia foreſeeing the confuſion this want of money would create, abſolutely made pacific Overtures to the Peiſhwa, at the head of his Army, when it was in its moſt flouriſhing condition. However fit the Maratta Troops may be for predatory incurſions, ſtrong reaſons may be aſſigned why they will never willingly be brought to act againſt an army with a well-ſerved artillery; for theſe reaſons, and from the little proſpect they had of plundering, the army of Hurry Punt Furkia very ſoon ſhewed ſtrong diſinclinations to ſerve; and having loſt numbers of horſes in the different attacks we had made on them, their men now became clamorous on their leaders for arrears of pay, who again importuned Hurry Punt Furkia: by the account of perſons ſent for intelligence, and to watch his motions, the Miniſters had ſent bills for 15 lacks of Rupees, but the Shroffs had refuſed to anſwer them, from whence may injuſtly be inferred, they had not even in this ſituation advanced the amount. Hurry Punt Furkia had deſigned to winter to the northward, in order to be at hand to watch our motions on the opening of the campaign, but his Troops had abſolutely refuſed. By the laſt accounts, he was at Indoor, in full march towards Poonah, with between 20 and 30,000 men, horſe and foot. In his way through Tookajee Holkar's country they had violent diſputes regarding ſome money which Furkia demanded, but Holkar could not be induced to furniſh; and under pretence that the death of Siga ul Dowla, and his third ſon being in arms, might render his preſence abſolutely neceſſary in his own Jaghier, he drew off his Troops from the Confederacy.

Saccaram Bapoo, and Nonna Furneze, had ſent two Vackeels to treat of an accommodation; but from the indiſpoſition of one of them, and afterwards of the Preſident, they had not mentioned their offers: and though it was rather wiſhed to ſecure to the Company the late ceſſions by the ways of Peace than of War, yet the precipitancy of diſpenſing with the Preſident's Negociations, was thought might have beſpoke too great an eagerneſs on our part, and an impolitic doubt of ſucceſs in the undertaking we were then engaged in.

Such, Gentlemen, was the ſituation of the Peiſhwa on the receipt of your Letter of 31ſt May laſt; I leave you to judge how different from that deſperate, friendleſs, and forlorn ſtate you ſeemed to apprehend him in. Had you been pleaſed to ſignify to the Government of Bombay alone your pacific determination, there is no doubt but a general accommodation might ſoon have been effected with honour and credit to the Company, and all the ceſſions and advantages ſecured to them, which was ſtipulated for in the Treaty with the Peiſhwa. As the terms of that Treaty was never underſtood by either Party to extend further than our aſſiſtance to defeat the Miniſterial Confederacy, and by conducting him to Poonah, to reinſtate him in the Peiſhwaſhip, whether this was effected by force or negociation, the Company were equally entitled to the ſeveral benefits which induced them to form theſe engagements.

But much do I fear, that whatever your future reſolves may be in conſequence of theſe my repreſentations, the Letter from the Honourable the Governor General to Saccaram Bapoo, and your poſitive Orders to withdraw our Troops from the Peiſhwaſhip, will utterly deſtroy all the fair hopes of ſucceſs which from circumſtances we had a right to conceive. Nothing can give a ſtronger idea of the unfavourable conſequences which may probably enſue, than the triumphant inſolence of the Confederates, as expreſſed in their offers ſubſequent to the receipt of Governor Haſtings's Letter. Inſtead of permitting us to retain Salſette and Baſſein (the laſt of which I obſerve is not in our poſſeſſion) they demand Ragoba to be delivered up to them, Salſette and our other acquiſitions to be reſtored; for which they will deign to reimburſe our charges. But a few days before, I may venture ſafely to aſſert, they would have been glad to have compounded for the guarantee of the Engliſh to the ſafety of their perſons and property. It is not in their nature to conceive, that a ſpirit of juſtice dictated this apparent conceſſion; they attribute it to fear, or a conſcious inability of performing our engagements.

As the Miniſters will make every advantage of this circumſtance, and no doubt highly exaggerated, I muſt confeſs myſelf at a loſs to judge with preciſion what conſequences may enſue.

The firſt that ſtrikes me is, that Futty Sing will fly off from all his engagements, retain ſuch part of his 26 Lacks as are not paid, and refuſe the Company quiet poſſeſſion of the ſeveral diſtricts he had ceded to them. By this means the Peiſhwa will loſe all the dependance he had in Guzerat; for, having been obliged in ſome meaſure to diſappoint Govind Row in his expectation on that province, in order more effectually to ſecure ſo important an object as having the whole Guicawar family at his devotion, it is not to be doubted but that Govind Row, when he finds the Peiſhwa incapable of performing his late promiſe, will accommodate matters with his brother Futty Sing, and both decline any further interference.

By our deſertion, that of the Guicawars, and probably moſt of his Troops for want of money, the Peiſhwa will really find himſelf for a time that forlorn and abandoned man which you, Gentlemen, imagined him to be. Whatever part he may take, muſt be detrimental to the intereſt of the Honourable Company in the weſt of India, and perhaps dangerous to their poſſeſſions in the eaſt.

If he embraces the offer of the Nizam, and is reinſtated by his means, the Company muſt not only forego all hopes and title to further poſſeſſions, but relinquiſh Salſette, or encounter all the difficulties and inconveniencies of a Maratta War, which are by no means counterbalanced by the revenues of that Iſland. Excluſive of this, we ſhall loſe about 12 Lacks, which will become due for arrears of ſubſidy; and as we ſhall have every thing to expect from the juſt reſentment of Ragoba, the commerce of the Honourable Company, and the Engliſh in general, will be impeded, if not totally interrupted, by diſcouragement it will be in his power to give without coming to an open rupture.

The ſame conſequence will enſue ſhould he throw himſelf on the protection of Hyder, with the additional diſadvantage of increaſing the power of a man whoſe mortal and declared averſion to the Company and their ally, and his open partiality to and encouragement of their declared rivals, render every acceſſion of country or connection the juſt objects of our jealouſy. Hyder has already aſſiſted him of late with money, and it is thought would willingly undertake his cauſe for much ſmaller conceſſions than have been made to us, with 30,000 excellent Horſe, and a body of well diſciplined Infantry, a good Artillery ſerved with about 600 Europeans, and thoſe he lately is ſaid to have agreed for with the Dutch. This force joined to the Allies of Ragoba would be irreſiſtible by the Confederates; and then it reſts with you, Gentlemen, to determine with the combined Armies of Hyder and the Peiſhwa, in what ſafety would be our poſſeſſions in the Carnatic.

His other reſources are in his ancient ally, Moodajee Bonſalo, in Holkar and Sindia, always inclined to his party, and now utterly diſcontented with the Confederates; in Morabah Fourneze and his party, and even in Hurry Punt Furkia, whoſe treatment by the Poona Junto, has led them to make frequent Overtures to Ragoba, and lately in an application to the Portugueze; all which equally deprive us of the advantages of the ſtipulated ceſſions, and are pregnant with dangers to the Honourable Company's Settlements.

But

APPENDIX. No. 83.

But there is another object, Gentlemen, on which I would wish to fix your serious attention; it is the sacred Honour of the English Nation and the Company, and that firm reliance which this hitherto unviolated faith has given all the powers around, on our word and engagements; it is well known among the Princes of Hindostan; the violation of the most solemn compacts enters into the common course of business, and therefore they are lightly formed, and little relied on; far different with the English, they have beheld them backward to engage, making no Treaties but with the most deliberate consideration; but then they have ever found them stedfast to their word, and of faith inviolable.

The Marattas have beheld us in the very zenith of their formidable power, with not half our present force, bid defiance to all their threats, and boldly oppose ourselves in aid of an inconsiderable ally: after a two years siege, we hoisted our colours on Gingerah, which they were on the point of reducing; they admired our good faith, and respected our resolution, by withdrawing their Troops, though not without murmur and strong discontent.

In what light will they then regard our desertion of Ragoba, after the solemn Treaty so publicly entered into with him? for, whatever errors there may be in the conduct of the government of Bombay, the application of the Nizam of the Guicawar, and the behaviour of all the neighbouring powers, strongly bespeak their idea of the force and solemnity of the engagements of the English; they can hardly be brought to comprehend the nature of the limited and discretional power, the exact explanation of which can alone clear the President and Council of Bombay, in their minds, of an unworthy and intended fraud, in forming engagements they must know where invalid. By this and by the public manner in which you have proclaimed their dependance, I am afraid that the respect and opinion of their authority, which are necessary in the common conduct of their affairs, will be totally destroyed; and should they lose their opportunity of accomplishing the view of the Company in the west of India, we may for ever bid adieu to all hopes of it, how much soever the Directors may recommend a continuance of our attention to them; for it is only by availing ourselves of such circumstances as must be embraced the moment they present themselves, that I foresee any probability of bringing matters into the happy train they were, previous to the receipt of your Orders of the 31st May. The intention of the Legislature in the clause of exception before quoted, will, I apprehend, be utterly frustrated. Who again will ever apply to us? they must be sensible the whole face of things may be changed before your consent can be obtained.

Exclusive of our breach of faith with the Peishwa, which would be rendered doubly glaring by espousing a man who was the notorious contriver and conductor of the plot against Naron Row, with which the Confederates now affect to stigmatize the character of Ragoba; exclusive of this, there appear to me many strong objections against acknowledging the administration of Sacram Bapoo and the Poona junto: Sacram has always shewn himself the determined enemy of the Company. Besides that dread and jealousy of their advancement in the west of India, common to every Maratta who has a just sense of the interest of their Government, another good reason may be assigned for it; whether it was from the poverty of his parents, or the duties of the menial employ he was brought up in, prevented him from giving the necessary application, but unfortunately he does not possess the requisite advantages of education, scarce being able to read or write. This necessarily, when he came to the charge of great affairs, compelled him to repose a confidence in some person who could: his confidant is one Vessagee Punt Saler, a Bramin, who having long been supreme Governor of the Concan, in which are Salsette, Bassein, and its districts; this man knowing the views of the Company, has ever opposed with all his influence the least favourable inclination in the Durbar at Poona to comply with them, and has ever fomented disturbances and jealousies between us: being a man of intrigue and ability, he is said to have great sway with Sacram; and as he is from interest deeply concerned in preventing our acquisition of these places, I imagine, that should we utterly abandon Ragoba, and the Confederates perceive his other resources likely to fail him, whatever they may promise us at first, should they at length have no fears from him, they will never acquiesce in any of the cessions made by the Peishwa; indeed their offers beforementioned sufficiently bespeak their intentions. I leave you, Gentlemen, to judge, what will be the sentiments of our Honourable Employers on this occasion, after such a sacrifice of men, money, honour, and national faith, to become the contempt and ridicule of all the powers in the west of India.

Bad and disgraceful as this may be, it appears to me yet trifling to the serious consequences that may ensue to their territories in the east, on the undisturbed possession of which the very existence of the Company depend. I hold it as a political maxim, that all the powers in India are interested in the continuance of the Bramin Government. The jealousy which, from various causes, ever subsists between the Maratta Chiefs and the Bramins, will prevent that union of the whole Empire which must be most formidable and dangerous to the rest of India. The surprizing rapidity with which they overrun almost the whole dominions of the Mogul, the numerous armies they send forth to all quarters, and the bravery of the Rajepouts under their own Raja, and led forth by Chiefs of their own cast, are sufficient circumstances to make us deprecate their re-union. Should the administration continue in the hands of the confederated Bramins, what with their own disunion, and other circumstances, it seems to me very probable that some of the Maratta Chiefs will expel them from the Government, and either re-establish the Raja, or reign themselves. Moodajee Bonsalo, whose bravery, policy, and daring character are well known and dreaded, was suspected of this design: disincumbered from his brother Shabajee, he may perhaps turn his thoughts to effecting it. Should such an event take place, and the whole power of the Maratta Empire be collected in one hand, what prospect of a lasting tranquillity can there be to the other States of India? The Government of a Peishwa, under proper checks and limitations of power, seems to me the only certain way to avert this evil; and should this object be deemed worthy your attention, I apprehend the present crisis to be the fittest that may ever again offer for effecting it.

I have thus, Gentlemen, as fully and clearly as is in my power, explained to you the rise, progress, and present state of our undertaking with the Peishwa Ragonaut Row. On the one hand, you will perceive the interest of the Company and the honour of the English nation deeply concerned in fulfilling our engagements; on the other hand you may judge of the detriment, danger, and dishonour, attending the utter abandoning of them. I am happy to perceive, that the general manner in which the Letter from the Honourable the Governor General to Sacram Bapoo is worded, by implying you unacquainted with the nature of our previous acknowledgment of Ragoba as Peishwa, on which is founded the equity of our late Treaty, reserves as yet inviolate the honour and good faith of the Company, and leaves you free in the choice of measures. I do therefore most solemnly intreat you, in the name of the Government of Bombay, to warrant and assist them to fulfil their engagements with the Peishwa; as in their opinion and in mine, on the most mature consideration, this appears to be the only safe and honourable expedient at this juncture, and is perhaps the only opportunity that may ever offer again of accomplishing the several important objects before explained to you, and establishing the affairs of our Honourable Employers on that system in the west of India, which they have so frequently and strenuously recommended.

But

But whatever may be your intention, I muſt earneſtly recommend to you, Gentlemen, inſtantly to revoke your orders for withdrawing our Army from Ragoba. This may prevent the effects to which they are immediately liable, by keeping all parties in ſuſpenſe till your final determination is known; and whether you may be led to terminate this affair by Arms or Negociation, it is equally important to your ſucceſs, and pardon me if I add, to our national reputation, not utterly to abandon him; the deſertion of all his allies would be the infallible conſequence of ours, and his death moſt probably of both; which the world, judging only by appearances, would lay to our charge.

In a word, Gentlemen, whatever judgment you may entertain of the original meaſure, this ſeems to me to be no longer the proper object of your conſideration. If we have unneceſſarily engaged in a War to which we had no juſt provocation, yet its continuance is now become neceſſary to our ſafety; for the recal of the Army will not only throw us at the mercy of a perfidious enemy, who will not fail to take the baſeſt advantage of our weakneſs, but it will cut off all our hopes of future reſources by ſo dreadful an example held out to thoſe, whoſe alliances we may hereafter find it neceſſary to ſolicit. If you ſuppoſe that we had violated former engagements, and any neutrality which the Company may have recommended to be maintained with the Maratta State, by the Treaty lately formed with Ragoba, permit me to ſay, that we have the plea of thoſe very engagements to juſtify us in the part we have taken with the only legal or known repreſentative of the Maratta Nation, and that having executed a new Treaty with him, in all its forms we have pledged the national faith and honour for the performance of it. The Government of Bombay is alone reſponſible, and willingly takes upon itſelf the reſponſibility for the paſt; and for the future, it is our duty to ſet before you the alternative which we know depends on your reſolutions. On the one hand, we are convinced that conqueſt and honour, the acquiſition of revenues, and an influence in the firſt ſtate of India, will be the iſſue of the enterprize, which we have happily proſecuted to this time, if we are allowed to carry it to a concluſion: on the other hand, weakneſs, diſgrace, and ruin, will inevitably follow the retreat of our Forces, unleſs an accommodation ſhall have firſt taken place, by which the intereſts of each party ſhall have been ſecured, and their ſafety effectually guarded againſt all future claims and hoſtilities.

I have the honour to be, with the greateſt reſpect,
Calcutta, (Signed) William Tayler.
9th October 1775.

The Governor General begs leave to put the following Queſtions to Mr. Tayler:

Q. Is it known whether Sacaram Bappoo and his party concerted the plan of the late revolution, and the aſſaſſination of Narron Row with Ragoba, or was it brought about without his knowledge or intervention?

Mr. Tayler—It is not known whether it was or not; but by the beſt accounts we have, it appears that Ragoba was very deſirous of ſaving the life of his nephew.

Q. Who had the charge of Ragoba's perſon when he was in confinement?

A. He was confined in the Palace at Poona; but I don't know the name of the Officer who had charge of his perſon.

Q. In whoſe ſervice were Mahomed Eſaph and Summer Sing, the murderers of Narron Row?

A. In the immediate ſervice of Narron Row himſelf, and belonged to ſome of his Troops called Guardees.

Q. To what family did the ſlave belong, whoſe reſentment is ſaid to be the cauſe of Narron Row's death?

A. He had belonged to Madhoorow, and on his death he became the property of Narron Row.

Q. Is it certain that Sacaram Bappoo directed the aſſaſſination of Narron Row, or is this a point of common belief?

A. It was univerſally believed to have been brought about by his means; and Mr. Moſtyn, who was reſident there at the time, is as certain of it, as a perſon can be without having ſeen the fact.

Q. On what authority do you learn that orders were given to the Maratta General to ſeize Madajee Sindia?

A. It was wrote to the Governor at Bombay by the Chief of Surat, and other perſons that he employed to gain country intelligence; and the intelligence was confirmed by his immediately quitting the Army of the Miniſterial Party.

Q. What ſymptoms has Tuckoogee Holkar given of a defection?

A. He has all along ſhewn himſelf wavering; and it appears from Mr. Moſtyn's Letters, that he did ſo at the beginning: and a few days before I left Bombay, a Letter was received from the Chief of Surat, dated the 27th of July, with this paragraph:

> Extract of a Letter from Mr. Robert Gambier to the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee at Bombay; dated Surat the 27th of July 1775.
> The people I ſent to enquire after Fenkia are juſt returned from Hindoor, where they left him making the beſt of his way towards Poonah with, in all, about twenty to thirty thouſand men, horſe and foot. His Troops are very mutinous for their pay, and highly diſcontented, and in his way through Holkar's country he had ſome violent diſputes with him about ſome money he demanded, and which Holkar could by no means be induced to furniſh.
> A true Extract from the Copy of a Letter delivered to the Governor General and Council by Mr. Tayler.
> Wm. Bruere,
> Aſſiſtant Secretary.

And this Advice is confirmed by repeated Letters from Colonel Keating.

Q. On what authority do you learn that Nizam Ally Cawn had made Overtures to the Nabob of Surat, for an accommodation with Ragoba?

A. By a Letter from the Nizam to the Nabob of Surat, forwarded by him to the Governor of Bombay, of which I now preſent you a Perſian Copy. Alſo by the following Letter from the Chief of Surat to the Select Committee at Bombay.

The following is a Tranſlation.

> Extract of a Letter from the Nabob Zabit Jung, commonly called Dhoſa, written by order of the Nabob Nizam Ally Cawn Bahadre, to his Excellency; received ſome days ago.

After the expulſion of Ragonath Row, and his croſſing the Nirbuddah and returning to Burhanpore, the Nabob Nizam Ally entered into a Treaty with the Miniſters of Mahda Row and Narrain Row, to join their party and canton at Kojiſtah Bunyead, on condition of their giving up to him the Fort of Doulutabad and other Mahals; and he went into cantonments there accordingly. Ragonaut Row, at the end of the rainy ſeaſon, being in the country of Kandace, ſent a meſſage to the Nabob, that if he would join him, he would reſign to him the Fort of Doultabad, Aſur, &c. together with Burhanpore and other Mahals in his rear, which he had conquered by an engagement, in which the Nabob Shokut Jung loſt his life; and that if he aſſented to his propoſals, to march to Aſerah, and immediately conclude the Treaty; but of regard to his engagements with the Miniſters of Narrain Row and Madha Row, and to the bad character as well as bad faith of Ragonaut Row, the Nabob would pay no attention to his propoſals; but ſince the Engliſh have ſided with Ragonaut Row, although the Nabob has an Army of 50,000 Cavalry and 15,000 Infantry, and a Train of Artillery conſiſting of 100 pieces of Cannon, with all kinds of Ammunition and neceſſaries of War, and is beſides attended by Madajee Benſale at the head of 8,000

APPENDIX. No. 83.

8,000 Horſe, whoſe ſon he has adopted; and though the Miniſters of Narrain Row and Madaba Row have evacuated the Fort of Doulutabad, and are ready to reſign Aſeer, Burumpore, &c. to him; yet as there is a Treaty ſubſiſting between his Excellency and the Engliſh, that they ſhall not employ their reſpective Forces againſt each other, and he is deſirous that they ſhould daily increaſe; and although Ragonaut Row is the ſon of Mazee Row, and his Excellency was much his enemy, on account of the inſtability of his diſpoſition, yet if through your means the Governor of Surat, or the General of Bombay, will cauſe Ragonaut Row to engage to give up to his Excellency the Fort and Places afore-mentioned, and will become Guarantee for the performance thereof, his Excellency will be enabled to depend thereon, and will undoubtedly attach himſelf to the party of Ragonaut Row, and procure for him the accompliſhment of his views; for the Enemy's Forces are ſo numerous that they will ſurround the European Army, and prevent any proviſions being conveyed to them, in which caſe it will be difficult for them to preſerve Guzzerat, much more to reduce Poonah: without the aid of the Nabob's Army, Ragonaut Row can never obtain poſſeſſion of the Country; it is neceſſary therefore that you ſhould make this propoſal privately to the Engliſh: I will likewiſe give every aid in my power. I conjure you by your grandfather, that you will not communicate this ſecret to any perſon whatever. Let me have your immediate anſwer to this.

Copy of a Letter from the Nabob Meer Hafiz ul Dein Ahmud Cawn Bahader, Nabob of Surat; dated 22d of Jummadee ul Awul (or July)

It is a long time ſince I have had the pleaſure to receive any account of your welfare: May this have proceeded from no diſagreeable cauſe. I have written concerning ſeveral affairs of conſequence to the truſty Govind Ram, my Mutteſedy, who will repreſent them to you. I am hopeful that having paid attention thereto, you will favour me with an immediate anſwer, and with any commiſſions or buſineſs you may have in this part; in the execution of which I ſhall receive great pleaſure. As at this ſeaſon of the year there is no paſſage for boats, and the difficulty of land carriage is well known, it was neceſſary to ſend this Letter with the greateſt care and ſecrecy; I have therefore not incloſed it in a rimcab rarctah, according to cuſtom, which I hope you will be ſo kind as to excuſe. May your proſperity and happineſs daily increaſe.

Extract of a Letter from the Chief of Surat to the Select Committee.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

My laſt Addreſs, of which a Duplicate accompanies this, was under date the 15th inſtant, ſince when I have received none of your commands.

This I diſpatch to give cover to a ſmall Packet in Cypher, received the day before yeſterday, via Benares, to your Honours, &c. addreſs from the Governor General, &c. Council at Bengal, which agreeable to your orders, I have had opened, and fair tranſcribed.

The 25th I received a Letter from Colonel Keating, dated at Balampore Calicut, near Brodeara, the 13th inſtant; in which he writes, that the Treaty with Futty Sing was the preceding night ſigned and ſealed; and that Futty Sing had further given the Company the Cuſbah of Beriow, with all its diſtricts and revenues; and that he hopes to ſend me a ſunnud for it in a few days. He further writes, that Futty Sing had received advices of Hurry Punt, with the remains of his Forces, being about 105 coſs off, ſome on the northern and ſome on the ſouthern banks of the Nerbedah: That he had received Bills from Poonah for 15 lacks of Rupees, with which he had propoſed to remain where he was till the rainy ſeaſon was over; but his Army, one and all, refuſed; and that the Shroffs, on whom his bills were drawn, had refuſed to accept or pay them, which had cauſed a great deal of diſtreſs and confuſion amongſt his people.—This is all the Colonel writes. But I hear from thoſe quarters, that Ragoba had detached a ſtrong party of his own Forces to Ahmudarad; for the ſurrender of which place the preſent Governor, Apajee Gunnes, was in Treaty with him; and this once effected, the country to the northward of the Nerbedah will be entirely reduced to obedience to Ragoba.

The Nizam's Vackeels have been with Ragoba, and are, I underſtand, returned to their Maſter for further orders. If your Honour, &c. approve it, I believe it would be no difficult matter to negociate through the Nizam a general accommodation between all Parties. I am informed, that a propoſal of this nature has been made by the Nizam Ragoba on the following plan: That Ragoba himſelf is to enjoy all the honours, &c. ſufficient Revenues for the ſupport of his dignity of the Peiſhwaſhip; but the government is to be carried on in the name of his ſon Amret Row, and the adminiſtration of affairs put into the hands of Moraboy as Duan; and all places ſtipulated to be ceded by the Miniſterial Party to the Nizam, are to be confirmed to him by Ragoba, &c. all the Miniſterial Confederacy to be fully pardoned, and left in poſſeſſion of their Fortunes and Eſtates. I do not ſuppoſe that Ragoba would eaſily conſent to give up the actual government, though I believe he would face a great deal to ſecure the peaceable poſſeſſion of it to his ſon. And I underſtand that Morabah, the propoſed Duan, is in great eſteem with Ragoba; and though ſtrongly ſolicited by the Miniſterial Party, has always refuſed to act againſt him. On the whole, I am fully of opinion, that a general Accommodation might be brought about much more ſpeedily and effectually through the mediation of the Nizam Ally, than by any other means. And I therefore much wiſh to receive your Honour, &c. Orders, in reſpect to the propoſed Treaty with him, and whether you would chuſe that general Pacification ſhould be made part of it.

I much fear theſe Pattamas will find great difficulty in getting to you, as a gentleman lately come from Darmun tells me, that all communication between Bombay and that place has been ſtopped for ſome time paſt; for which reaſon I would tranſmit it by a boat, but the weather will not allow.

Surat, 27 July 1775. I am, &c. (Signed) Robert Gambier.

Q. Do you know, on any good authority, what Terms the Vackeels of Saccaram and Nanah Funoze were directed to propoſe to the Government of Bomboy?

A. We do not know the direct Terms they meant to propoſe; but from a variety of converſations it was imagined, that they would have agreed to let Ragoba conduct the affairs of the Government, provided he agreed to let the Sicca be in the name of the Infant, whoſe Party the Miniſters eſpouſed, and would engage for the ſecurity of their perſons and fortunes.

Q. In what inſtance has Saccaram ever ſhewn an enmity to the Company?

A. I have the Minutes of ſome Conferences held by Mr. Moſtyn at the Poona Durbar, wherein ſome are particularly related; and he has been remarkable in appointing all Negociations which we have had occaſion to make with the Peiſhwa; and after having obtained ſunnuds, his intrigues have operated to prevent their ever being of any uſe.

Q. What reſources have the Miniſters for carrying on the War?

A. I have mentioned in my Letter, that they have hitherto relied on the Revenues of the Circar, and would not employ their own money; beſides which, I believe their principal reliance to have been on Nizam Ally, Tokajee Holkar, and Madajee Sindia.

General Clavering begs leave to aſk, if Mr. Tayler has got the Court of Directors Letter, 6th April 1772, appointing Mr. Moſtyn to Poonah?

A. I have the Paragraphs of it that relate to Mr. Moſtyn's appointment.

Governor General—I obſerve by theſe Paragraphs, the Company declare that they limit their views on that ſide of India to the poſſeſſion of Salſette, Baſſein, and certain Iſlands and Diſtricts round Surat; what was the inducement of your Preſidency for the enterprize againſt Broach?

A. The Nabob having voluntarily broke through a Treaty which he made with the Governor and Council on his coming to Bombay for that purpoſe.

Queſtion by General Clavering—What reaſon had you to conclude, that Salſette was ceded by the Crown of Portugal, by the Marriage Contract with Charles the Second, to the Crown of England?

A. From the names of ſeveral places mentioned in the Marriage Contract, which are in Salſette, and not in the Iſland of Bombay.

Q. Did Ragoba, immediately after execution of the Treaty, put the Preſidency into poſſeſſion of the Lands which he agreed to cede to the Company?

A. He gave us the ſunnuds immediately, and we took poſſeſſion of them accordingly, except Baſſein.

Q. Do you know how much has already been received from thoſe Lands?

A. I do not, as the Accounts had not been tranſmitted from Surat and Broach.

Q. Have you reaſon to believe that the Company was in immediate receipt of the Revenues of thoſe places?

A. I moſt firmly believe it; and have a private Letter from Captain Abington to Mr. Draper, mentioning, that a part of the Revenue for Orpad had been received even in the month of May laſt.

" I am very uneaſy leſt I ſhould be blamed in not " having been more expeditious in collecting the Grain; " but I flatter myſelf both the Board of Surat as well as " Bombay, will make great allowances, when they con- " ſider the ſtate of this Pergunnah. When I arrived, " Overtures by the Marattas, the Inhabitants fled, and the " Grain all buried. Things now bear quite a different " aſpect, though I have often been interrupted by the " detachment of Maratta horſe. However, I have " collected from the villages ſituated near this town, " about 150 candys of Wheat, I have ſent about 30 carts " to Randeer, and about one hundred more ready at dif- " ferent villages."

Q. Has the Subſidy been regularly paid agreeably to the Treaty?

A. No, it has not; but I conclude we muſt be entering upon the receipt of it, as we are in poſſeſſion of the places.

Q. Have you the Inſtructions that were given to Colonel Keating, when he took the command of the Army?

A. I have them not.

Q. Was Brigadier General Gordon conſulted concerning the operations of the campaign?

A. I have Copies of the Minutes that paſſed on the occaſion, which I think imply his having been conſulted.

Read the Proceedings of the Select Committee, 11th February 1775, as follow:

Extract Proceedings of the Select Committee; dated 11th February 1775.

The Brigadier General and Mr. Halſey are now made acquainted of the Negociation depending with Ragoba; the Letters and Papers relative thereto, with our ſeveral Reſolutions, and the propoſed Treaty, being read to them, and particularly the Select Committee's Letter to the Governor General and Council of Fort William, of the 31ſt December laſt; they are alſo made acquainted of every other particular in our power to inform them of on this ſubject, as well as of our application to the Preſidency of Madras, for a reinforcement of Troops, and of our requeſt to Commodore Hughes, to come armed with his Squadron to this Court.

After mature deliberation, the Brigadier General declares, that the object to be gained for his Employers, by the meaſures now purſuing, as far as he is acquainted with it, appears to him ſo conſiderable, and ſo much to the advantage and intereſt of the Honourable Company, that he joins with the Board, in thinking that it ought to be purſued, and brought to the ſpeedieſt concluſion; and in this opinion Mr. Halſey alſo concurs.

The reſolution of our yeſterday's conſultation, of accepting Jewels to the amount of ſix lacks of Rupees, in lieu of the depoſit of that ſum in Money, as Money cannot be procured, it is again unanimouſly accorded to, and confirmed for the reaſons then given; and the Treaty muſt be drawn up here as ſoon as poſſible, for being ſent to Surat.

The Board then take under conſideration, the Force now to be ſent to Ragoba's aſſiſtance; and it is unanimouſly agreed, that it ſhall conſiſt of the following;

Artillery	—	—	—	80
European Infantry		—	—	350
Sepoys	—	—	—	800
Laſcars	—	—	—	160

Which with their proper Officers, Non-commiſſioned Officers, &c. will complete the number to full 1,500 Men, being the Force that it is reſolved at preſent to ſend; and as the whole cannot be ſpared from hence, it muſt be completed by detachments from the garriſons on Salſette, at Surat, and Broach; and it is agreed, that we leave it to the Preſident with the Brigadier General to determine as to the number to be detached from the ſeveral places; but that part which goes from hence and from Salſette, muſt abſolutely ſet out ſome time before the next Spring.

The Brigadier General now offers his ſervice to command this detachment of our Forces, provided the buſineſs could be accompliſhed within the time he propoſes ſtaying in India. But the Board, as well as the Brigadier General, concluding that it will take up much longer time than he propoſes for his ſtay, it is therefore conſidered who is the moſt proper Officer for this command; and the Preſident nominates Lieutenant Colonel Keating for it; which is agreed to by the Board, Brigadier General Gordon only excepted: for it is obſerved, that Colonel Egerton, ever ſince his arrival in India, has been very unfit for any ſuch command, owing to his ill health; twice only indeed has he ever been ordered on any Service ſince he has been in the Company's pay, now upwards of ſix years; the firſt of which was no more than to take the command of the garriſon of Broach on the coming away of Lieutenant Colonel Brewer, which he at firſt declined, under the pretence of its not being a command equal to his rank, though the General was of a contrary opinion; and afterwards, on the order being repeated to him, he then urged ill health for his excuſe; the ſecond was on the Expedition to Fannah, from whence he returned ſick in ſeven or eight days after he ſet out. For theſe reaſons, we deem Colonel Egerton a very unfit Officer for the command; and Lieutenant Colonel Keating, from the commiſſion he has brought out from the Company, is next in rank on the eſtabliſhment to Colonel Egerton, until Lieutenant Colonel Brewer may arrive from England.

Lieutenant Colonel Keating is therefore appointed Commandant of the Forces to be detached to the aſſiſtance of Ragoba.

Brigadier General Gordon begs leave to aſſign the following reaſons for his diſſent to this appointment:

That it is not common in the courſe of ſervice, that the commanding Officer of Artillery, or Chief Engineer, as Lieutenant Colonel Keating is, ſhould command a Body of Infantry in Line:

That

APPENDIX. No. 83.

That the offer of this command ſhould, in his opinion, be made to Colonel Egerton, when, if he ſays that his health will not admit of his going, that it then by rotation falls to Lieutenant Colonel Cay, and after him to Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, who are the ſenior officers in the Infantry.

The Board therefore obſerves, that there have been many inſtances in India of Officers in the Artillery commanding Troops in Line, amongſt which are the following, and no ſuch objections were then raiſed as the Board know of: Major Maitland, of the King's Artillery, commanded the Expedition to Surat in the year 1759; Major Mare of the Artillery, and Chief Engineer, came to be Commanding Officer of the Forces of this Preſidency on Sir James Fowlis's going to Europe; and Captain Pemble, who was Commandant of the Artillery, commanded the Forces detached to Bengal in the year 1763. And beſides, as we are ſatisfied with his (Lieutenant Colonel Keating's) conduct in the reduction of Verſarva and Carnejah, we think he merits ſuch a mark of our favour as we confer on him in this appointment.

A true Copy.

W. G. Farmer.

Q. It does not appear from thoſe conſultations, that he was conſulted upon the Operations; it appears only that he was conſulted upon the Treaty, and the number of Troops that ſhould be ſent there. I beg leave to aſk of Mr. Tayler, if he was afterwards conſulted upon the Operations of the Army at any time?

A. No, I believe not after that day. On the 14th there was another Conſultation, to read a Letter from Brigadier General Gordon, an extract of which Conſultation I beg leave to read.

Extract Proceedings of the Select Committee, with Brigadier General Gordon's Letter, dated the 14th February 1775.

Reſolved, by the Majority, after due deliberation, That the appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Keating to the command of the Forces proceeding to the aſſiſtance of Ragoba, be adhered to. We have however a juſt ſenſe of the offer the Brigadier General has now made, and ſhall mention the ſame in our next general Addreſs to our Honourable Employers.

Meſſrs. Halſey, Garden, and Fletcher, are of opinion, as Brigadier General Gordon has now made a tender of his Services, and to bring the War to a concluſion, that the ſame ſhould be accepted, and that he ought in conſequence to be appointed to the command of the Force going into the field.

The appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Keating being thus adhered to, the Brigadier General then immediately produced a paper, containing a diſſent thereto, and his reaſon for concurring on Saturday laſt in the meaſure now purſuing: Ordered, as the General deſires it, That the ſame be entered after this Conſultation, for the notice of our Honourable Maſters; though we muſt juſt remark, that the reaſons for his acquieſcing in the plan we are purſuing, appear now very different from what they were on Saturday laſt. The general motives for this difference may be very obvious to all who may peruſe this day's Reſolution.

As the Brigadier General declares in the diſſent that he has now delivered, that Lieutenant Colonel Keating is ſo very unfit for the command to which we have appointed him, it is remarked to the General, that it is very extraordinary that he did not make this objection before our appointment took place; and he is now deſired to declare his reaſons for his opinion. To this he replies, that the boaſted ſucceſs at Perſeva, was really deſtitute of every military merit but reſolution; for that had the Enemy done their duty with any ſpirit or fidelity, the whole Party under Colonel Keating's command, inſtead of coming off with ſucceſs muſt have abſolutely been all cut to pieces, while they were in confuſion and noiſe under the walls, when in attempting to erect Ladders which they could not effect, as he has been aſſured by Officers who were on that ſervice. But the General adds, that as he never was on ſervice wherein Lieutenant Colonel Keating was employed, he knows nothing further of his military capacity.

The General being aſked, whether he had any objection to Colonel Keating's conduct at Carnajah? he replies, He has not; that he confines his remarks to his proceedings at Verſava.

The neceſſary Orders for the embarkation of the Forces and Stores proceeding to Surat under Lieutenant Colonel Keating, are this day given us, will appear on our public Diary, and the whole will be ready in about three days.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

As you have been pleaſed to reſolve, that a large part of the Troops ſhall take the field immediately, I beg leave to offer my ſervices to command them. This I hope you will think from my rank here I have a right to.

It is true that I have deſired leave to reſign, when an opportunity which is agreeable to me offers for my returning to Europe by the way of China; but that real wiſh I have for the Service, added to the reſpect which I owe to thoſe friends who ſo warmly ſupported my appointment in the General Court of Proprietors, makes me wiſh moſt earneſtly to render ſome further ſervice to the Company; I am therefore to requeſt, that your Honour, &c. will be pleaſed to permit me to take upon me the command of the Forces, which are immediately to be employed.

Bombay, 12th February 1773. I am, &c. (Signed) Robert Gordon, Brigadier General.

Brigadier General Gordon declares, that nothing would have induced him to give his conſent to the Troops taking the field, or to enter into either Treaties or Wars, without the Orders of the Supreme Council, except this conſideration, namely, That as by the attack of Salſette (on the expediency of which meaſure he never was conſulted) Hoſtilities were actually commenced againſt the Marattas, after which it became neceſſary to make the moſt of affairs. On this principle he conſented to entering into the Treaty which was laid before the Board laſt Council day, and recommended as the moſt advantageous that could then be made for the Company's intereſts. He therefore claimed the command of the Troops which are to take the field, as his undoubted right; in the execution of which, his beſt endeavours ſhall be exerted to bring the ſervice to a ſpeedy and honourable iſſue.

The appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Keating to command the Forces, is undoubtedly contrary to the practice of the Army; either as Chief Engineer, or Commanding Officer of Artillery, he is entirely out of the general line of command. Brigadier General Gordon therefore diſſents and proteſts againſt the appointment, and hereby declares he thinks Lieutenant Colonel Keating ſo unfit for it, that if it is given to him, the General will in no reſpect whatever deem himſelf reſponſible for any part of the meaſure, either as to entering into the Treaty, the Troops taking the field, or of the conſequences which may ariſe therefrom.

Bombay, 14th February 1773. (Signed) Robert Gordon, Brigadier General.

Queſtion. When did the Government of Bombay receive public advice of the late Act of Parliament for regulating the affairs of India?

Anſwer. In the month of Auguſt 1774.

Queſtion. When did the Government of Bombay receive the Letter of the Governor General and Council of Bengal, of the 25th October 1774?

Anſwer. I cannot pretend to charge my memory with the date.

Queſtion.

APPENDIX. No. 83.

Queſtion. Do you remember when you received Mr. Henſhaw's Letter, adviſing you of the hoſtile deſigns of the Portugueze on the Iſland of Salſette?

Anſwer. I believe about the latter end of November.

Queſtion. Had you any other information beſides Mr. Henſhaw's Letter, of the deſigns of the Portugueze on Salſette?

Anſwer. We had many reports, but no advices ſo authentic as Mr. Henſhaw's Letter; however, not only the Captain of the Fleet, but the Government at Goa, proteſted alſo againſt it; and there was a Letter from a Portugueze Prieſt intercepted afterwards, which proved their intentions.

Queſtion by the Governor General. What was the deſtination of the Portugueze Fleet?

Anſwer. They every year ſend out a Convoy to Surat.

Queſtion. How many Troops did you employ in the reduction of Salſette?

Anſwer. I believe near Two thouſand, but I am not certain.

Queſtion. What reaſon have you to ſuppoſe that the declared Son of Narron Row is a ſuppoſititious child?

See Reference Page in printed Report, 27.

Anſwer. From the common report of the Country, and information given to me by Mr. Moſtyn.—Mr. Tayler then read the information as follows:

Soon after Narron Row was cut off, it was induſtriouſly reported that Gungaboy was near two months gone with child; and ſhe accordingly, at the end of her ſeven months, went through the accuſtomary ceremony among the Gentoos; this was performed a very few days before the Miniſters carried her to Poonah. I will not preſume to ſay Gungaboy was not with child, but her being accompanied with five women, all big with child, gave riſe to ſuch a conjecture; however, it might be only to ſecure a boy, in caſe ſhe ſhould have a girl. Be all this as it may; nay, even allowing Gungaboy to have brought forth a boy, from the beſt information I could get, and in which I placed much confidence, as it came from the then Governor, Naroo Appair's houſe, that boy certainly died, and Gungaboy adopted the ſon of one Ramchunder, a Brahmin that officiates at her family Pagoda; and indeed it was much whiſpered about, and many concurring circumſtances perſuaded me it was ſo, and I think there need be no better proof of it, than the Nizam's propoſal to us, through the Nabob of Surat; that is, for the Maratta Government, in the name of Amut Row, Ragoba's adopted ſon.

General Clavering—I have put this queſtion to Mr. Tayler, becauſe it appears by Mr. Moſtyn's Letters of the 30th and 31ſt January 1774, entered in the Select Committee Proceedings of the 9th March 1774, that the Widow of Narron Row was ſeven months gone with child; and by his Letter, dated in the Proceedings recorded of the Select Committee of the 8th September 1774, he ſays ſhe was actually delivered of a ſon.

The Board adjourn to proceed on this buſineſs again in the evening, and deſire that Mr. Tayler will attend at ſeven o'clock.

Monday Evening.

The Board being met according to adjournment, now reſume the buſineſs of Mr. Tayler's deputation.

Queſtion by General Clavering—Do you know what inducement the Council at Bombay had to proceed in the Negociation with Ragoba, when it appears by the Letter that we received from that Council of the 31ſt December, that he was a fugitive, abandoned by his Forces, and actually retreating towards Delhi?

Anſwer. He was not altogether abandoned at the time we treated with him, although he had been defeated. Our inducement was the importance of the object to the Company, and in compliance with their repeated injunctions.

Queſtion. With how many followers did he come to Surat?

Anſwer. I believe not more than 1000, but that his Army went with Gobindrow, and Conderow, and other Officers to a place called Copperwanjee.

Queſtion. Had Mr. Gambier inſtructions from the Council, to ſign the Treaty with him?

Anſwer. The Treaty was ſent up, ſigned by the Council, and interchanged by Mr. Gambier, afterwards with Ragonaut, he ſigned it officially as interchanged by him.

Queſtion. I underſtand that after the Army landed in Cambay, a conſiderable time was loſt in treating with Futty Sing; had Colonel Keating powers given him for that purpoſe, or to treat with any of the Princes of the Country?

Anſwer. I don't know of any time being loſt in treating with Futty Sing; to the beſt of my knowledge, nothing of that kind appears in our Advices; but a junction was made of our Forces with Ragoba's as ſoon as poſſible; the inſtructions to Colonel Keating were, to do all he could for the intereſt of Ragoba; but he had no expreſs powers to treat.

Queſtion. Did the Council never expreſs any diſpleaſure with Colonel Keating, for treating with Futty Sing?

Anſwer. They expreſſed their diſpleaſure at the Army's not moving faſter to the ſouthward than it did; and Colonel Keating exculpated himſelf, by ſaying it was Ragoba's ardent deſire to take Ahmadabad, I don't recollect that the Council expreſſed any particular inſtance of diſpleaſure at his treating with Futty Sing.

Queſtion. Was it with an intention of taking Ahmadabad, that the Army firſt moved to the northward?

Anſwer. The firſt motion to the northward was to effect a junction with Ragoba's Army; after the junction that was the reaſon aſſigned to us by him.

Queſtion. Did they take the place?

Anſwer. They did not proceed againſt it.

Queſtion. Are Colonel Keating's reaſons known for not proceeding further towards Ahmadabad?

Anſwer. The Governor and Council directed that he ſhould not, if he could poſſibly avoid it.

Queſtion. You have mentioned that the territory which has been ceded to the Company is in extent about 86 miles, excluſive of the lands lying contiguous to Broach and Surat, and that this extenſion of territory might be defended with two battalions; has this information been given to the Council by any military men?

Anſwer. No, it has not; it was only my own opinion which I preſumed to offer; but I meant, that I imagined that number ſufficient to garriſon the Forts, enforce the Collections, and protect the Country, ſuppoſing us to be in peace with the Poonah Government.

Queſtion. Are you informed of the loſs the Company has ſuſtained in men during the laſt campaign?

Anſwer. I do not know the exact number; to the beſt of my remembrance of the laſt return that was received before I left Bombay, the Army exceeded 2,000 men, but I cannot tell by what number, as it came down in cypher, and there was ſome miſtake in it, which prevented my paying more attention than I otherwiſe ſhould have done.

Queſtion. Were the ſick included in that return?

Anſwer. I believe they were.

General Clavering obſerving that his reaſon for aſking this queſtion is, that he heard the men were very ſickly; Mr. Tayler adds, that they have been ſickly, but that they were on the recovery, and ſome of them had joined the Army from the Hoſpital at Broach.

Mr. Bartwell begs leave to put the following Queſtions to Mr. Tayler.

Queſtion. What is the object of the War that has been entered into by the Government of Bombay; I mean ſo far as relates to the ſervice to be rendered to Ragoba, and when the Company will be entitled to the benefit propoſed to them by the Treaty?

Anſwer. The benefit to be rendered to Ragoba was to fix him in the Government of the Maratta Empire at Poonah; the Company were entitled to the benefits from the date of executing the Treaty, as appears by the 15th and 16th Articles.

APPENDIX. No. 83.

Queſtion. Was it meant, after fixing him in the Government at Poonah, to accompany him any further with the Engliſh Troops?

Anſwer. No, it was not by any means; if he had any further occaſion for our ſervices, he muſt have made freſh Overtures.

Queſtion by General Clavering—Does it appear upon the Conſultations, that the queſtion was ever agitated, whether or not you could enter into formal engagements, and ſign a Treaty with Ragoba, without the conſent of this Government?

Anſwer. The ſubject was agitated, and we conſidered that we could, from the reaſons which have been already repreſented to this Board, which are the ſame as appear upon our Conſultations.

Mr. Francis begs leave to aſk Mr. Tayler the following Queſtions:

Queſtion. Do you conſider your conducting Ragoba to Poonah, and putting him in poſſeſſion of that Town, as equivalent to fixing him in the Government of the Maratta Empire?

Anſwer. Yes.

Queſtion. Would it have been inconſiſtent with your engagements with Ragoba to have withdrawn our Army after putting him in poſſeſſion of Poonah?

Anſwer. No.

Queſtion. You obſerve that the acquiſition of Salſette and Baſſein was laid down to the Preſidency of Bombay, by the Company, as the grand and ſole object of every military or political engagement; that the Company declared theſe to be the utmoſt limits of their views on the weſt of India; and that they rather wiſhed they could be obtained by Purchaſe than War—Have the Preſidency of Bombay any inſtructions, general or particular, to aim at conqueſts or territorial acquiſitions on the Continent?

Anſwer. They have not other inſtructions; the Company have ſaid in their Letter, the 31ſt March 1769, that Salſette and Baſſein, with their dependencies, and the Maratta proportion of the Surat revenues, are all they ſeek for on the weſtern ſide of India; and that theſe are the objects we are to have in view in all our Treaties, Negociations, and Military Operations, and what we muſt be ever watchful to obtain; always attentive to convince the Country Powers, theſe are, and ever will be, the utmoſt limits of their views on that ſide of India.

Queſtion by the Governor General—Are the Lands which have been ceded us by the dependencies of Baſſein, the ancient territory of the Portugueze Government?

Anſwer. Yes, they were ſo underſtood.

Queſtion by Mr. Francis. You obſerve that the conveniency of the Harbour of Bombay has ſecured to the Engliſh almoſt the excluſive trade in Indian commodities, with the country of the Marattas, as well as in the Cotton, with which Bengal and China are ſupplied; as we are already in excluſive poſſeſſion of the above trade, in what ſenſe can the commerce of the Engliſh, or of thoſe who trade under their protection, be improved or benefited by the territorial acquiſitions ſtipulated by the Treaty with Ragoba?

Anſwer. We before had the Trade, but we now have the Country, wherein the articles of that Trade are produced.

Queſtion. Have you formerly found any difficulties in procuring Timber from Baſſein, or Proviſions from Salſette?

Anſwer. We have ſometimes; but it always was in the power of the Maratta Government to prevent our getting them.

Queſtion. Have you lately received any ſupplies of Timber from Baſſein?

Anſwer. No, not ſince the commencement of the War.

Queſtion. On the 31ſt December laſt, the Preſidency of Bombay were apprized of the commencement of the preſent Government of Bengal; they had not then concluded any Treaty with Ragoba; on the contrary, they ſay in their Letter of the above date, that they will accommodate matters with the Government of Poonah as ſoon as poſſible, and endeavour to reconcile them to our keeping Salſette—Was the concluſion of the Offenſive Treaty with Ragoba a caſe of ſuch imminent neceſſity as would have rendered it dangerous to poſtpone the Hoſtilities propoſed by that Treaty, until the Orders from the Governor General and Council of Bengal might arrive? or had you any ſpecial Orders from the Company to engage in the above Treaty?

Anſwer. I am clearly of opinion, that if it had been deferred till the Orders of the Governor General and Council had been received, that the opportunity would have been loſt; we conceived that the Orders of the Court of Directors were ſpecial on this ſubject.

Queſtion. Is it underſtood by the Preſidency of Bombay, that the exception made by the Legiſlature of a caſe of imminent neceſſity relates ſolely to the indiſpenſable defence of the Company's poſſeſſions; or that it authorizes them to commence Hoſtilities at their own [illegible] and without provocation, againſt the neighbouring [illegible]

Anſwer. The Preſidency of Bombay by no means conſider that the Act authorizes them to commence [illegible] at their own diſcretion, and without provocation [illegible] the neighbouring States; but that having conceived [illegible] be a caſe of imminent neceſſity, to poſſeſs themſelves [illegible] the Iſland of Salſette, to prevent it falling into the hands of the Portugueze, they then thought it found [illegible] enter into the Treaty they did with Ragoba, for [illegible] it, and obtaining the other acquiſitions.

Queſtion. What provocation had the Preſidency of Bombay received againſt the Government of Poonah?

Anſwer. None.

Queſtion. Have any part of the ceded Revenues been yet collected by us in ready money, or is the whole to be paid in kind?

Anſwer. It is uſual there to receive the Rents part in money and part in kind. I ſuppoſe that the ſame methods will be obſerved by our Agents as before; but the ſeaſon having prevented any Advices being received from thoſe parts before my departure, I cannot be ſo preciſe as I could wiſh upon this point.

Queſtion. Have any part of Ragoba's Jewels been ſold towards defraying the expences of the War?

Anſwer. Some money had been raiſed upon ſome of them.

Queſtion. If Ragoba be the only legal and known repreſentative of the Maratta Nation, why was Mr. Moſtyn continued as reſident with the Government at Poonah? and why do the Select Committee ſay in their Letter of the 31ſt December laſt, that they will accommodate matters as ſoon as poſſible with that Government?

Anſwer. It did not appear to us to be at all neceſſary to recal Mr. Moſtyn, as the Miniſterial Party at Poonah offered him no moleſtation: what the Select Committee meant, by ſaying they would accommodate matters with that Government, was, with whichever Party might prevail.

Queſtion. Whether the Governor and Council of Bombay, before they ſigned the Treaty with Ragoba, had ſeen the inſtructions voted by the Court of Proprietors to this Council, in which we are particularly directed to fix our attention to the preſervation of Peace throughout India?

Anſwer. Yes, they had ſeen them.

Queſtion by the Governor General—Had any Overtures been made by the Miniſterial Party to the Preſidency of Bombay, before the Treaty was executed with Ragoba?

Anſwer. None.

Queſtion. Could an alliance have been formed with the Miniſterial Party, conſiſtently with the engagements actually exiſting between the Government of Bombay and the Maratta State?

Anſwer. In my opinion it could not.

Queſtion. Did any Treaty of Friendſhip exiſt between the the Preſidency of Bombay and Ragoba, before that concluded with him the 16th March laſt?

Anſwer. Not with Ragoba particularly; there was a Treaty formed while he was Regent, during the minority of Mahdoo Row.

Queſtion by Colonel Monſon—Did Ragoba make any Overtures to the Bombay Government, till after his defeat by the Miniſterial Party?

Anſwer. Yes.

Queſtion. Of what nature were they?

Anſwer. He then wanted us to aſſiſt him with a large ſum of money, and did not make any propoſals that we could liſten to, of making ceſſions to the Company.

Queſtion. Did he demand that money as Chout, or as a Loan?

Anſwer. As a Loan.

Queſtion by the Governor General.—Were the Terms of the Treaty with Ragoba agreed upon before his defeat, or after it?

Anſwer. Before the defeat.

Mr. Tayler begs leave to repreſent to the Board, that in conſequence of their poſitive Orders to the Preſidency of Bombay, the Army will retreat from Ragoba the 15th November, in their way back to Broach and Surat, in order to proceed to Bombay, unleſs Orders are immmediately ſent to prevent them; and that he conceives it to be neceſſary to keep them with Ragoba, whatever determination the Board may come to.—Mr. Tayler withdraws.

The Queſtion ariſing from the foregoing Minutes, is, whether the Orders ſent to the Preſidency of Bombay, to recal their Troops to their own garriſons, ſhall be repeated, and their recal for the preſent ſuſpended?

Mr. Francis—Every part of the information communicated to us by Mr. Tayler, confirms me in my former opinion, that the Company's Troops ſhould be withdrawn to their own garriſons, without any conſideration whatſoever, but the ſafety of their retreat.

Mr. Barwell—I think no prejudice can ariſe to the public intereſts, by continuing the Troops in the preſent ſituation; it may prove of great utility to the negociations Colonel Upton may enter upon. I am for ſending immediate Orders, directing the Troops not to remain.

The Honourable George Monſon—From what has been ſubmitted to the conſideration of the Board by the Preſidency of Bombay, this through Mr. Tayler, I find no room to alter my former ſentiments on this ſubject, that the Troops ſhould be immediately ordered to withdraw to the Company's garriſons, without any conſideration whatſoever but their immediate ſafety. Their continuing longer in the field will be a conſiderable increaſe of expence to the Company, without any object of advantage to them from it. The Miniſterial Party by this action will be ſenſible of our ſincere intentions to make Peace with them; and I have not the leaſt doubt but they will give due attention to the propoſals made to them by Colonel Upton.

General Clavering—There does not appear by any of the Anſwers which Mr. Tayler has made to the Queſtions which have been put to him, a ſingle reaſon to make me depart from the opinion which I formerly gave, to direct the Preſidency of Bombay to withdraw their Troops within their own garriſons. He has indeed urged, that it would be a breach of faith on their part with Ragoba; but he has not conſidered that the breach of faith would be much ſtronger on our ſide, were we now to break off from the Overtures that we have made to the reigning Power at Poonah, ſhould we admit our Troops again to take the field; and at the ſame time ſhould think proper to order Colonel Upton to proceed to Poonah. One of the two caſes muſt inevitably happen; either we ſhould expoſe his perſon to the danger of being ſacrificed, or our Negociations would be rendered fruitleſs, by the ſuſpicions that we ſhould create in the minds of the Miniſters at Poonah, that we were acting a perfidious part by them. The Intention both of the Legiſlature and of the Court of Directors, is evidently that there ſhould be an union of as well as of arms, between the three Preſidencies. If after the honourable ſteps we have taken we ſhould not ſucceed in our Negociation at Poonah, it will be then time enough to order the Troops of the Preſidency of Bombay to act conjointly with the other two Preſidencies, to compel the Maratta State to ſubmit to the terms that we ſhall then think it adviſable to give them. At all events, I never would adviſe that the Preſidency of Bombay ſhould hold Territories upon the Continent, unleſs it be ſome ſmall Territory about Surat or Broach, merely to pay the expences of thoſe Garriſons; to hold more would expoſe the Company to eternal Wars, in which nobody would profit but their Servants.

APPENDIX No. 83.

The Governor General—I am confirmed in my opinion, that our Army ſhould keep the field, that it ſhould be ſtrengthened with Supplies both of Men and of Money, and that a determination ſhould be ſhewn by this Government, both to dictate and maintain the general conditions of the Peace to which we ſhould acquieſce; that a contrary conduct would fruſtrate the deſign of our Negociations, as is too apparent from the haughty tone with which they dictated the terms which were propoſed by their Vackeels to the Government of Bombay, after having made advances for Peace, while our Troops were in oppoſition to them. I am convinced, that fear only can operate upon the minds of the Marattas; that if we miſs the advantage of which we are now in poſſeſſion, the adherents of our Ally will abandon him; and that if our Negociation ſhould afterwards fail, we ſhall have no reſource but in our own ſtrength for a future defence.

Reſolved, That the former Orders tranſmitted to the Preſidency of Bombay, ſhall remain in force.

The Governor General—As it appears from Mr. Tayler's propoſition, at his taking leave of the Board, that the Preſidency of Bombay have miſunderſtood the Order ſent them for withdrawing the Troops into their garriſons, as meant to direct their recal to Bombay, I ſubmit to the Board the propriety of explaining the intentions of the Board in this reſpect, which I ſuppoſe leave to the Preſidency of Bombay the option of ſuch of the Company's garriſons as they ſhall think moſt proper for the reception of the Troops, whether Broach, Surat, Salſette, or Bombay, or to diſtribute them to each.

Agreed, That this be explained to Mr. Tayler, and mentioned to the Bombay Preſidency.

The following Letters are accordingly written for this purpoſe.

To William Tayler, Eſq.

Sir,

After duly conſidering the repreſentation which you have been pleaſed to deliver to us, as well as the ſeveral informations which you have communicated reſpecting the nature, motives, and object of the engagement of the Bombay Preſidency with Ragonaut Row, and the preſent ſtate of the Maratta Government at Poonah; we have for the preſent to acquaint you, that we are confirmed in our opinion of the expediency of the Company's Troops being immediately recalled from the ſervice of Ragoba into their own garriſons. Our Orders for this purpoſe will therefore remain in force.

But as you ſeem to underſtand, by the propoſition which you urged at taking leave of the Board this evening, that our directions implied the recal of the Troops to Bombay, we think it neceſſary to explain our meaning to have been, that it ſhould remain at the option of the Preſident and Council of Bombay to withdraw them to ſuch of their garriſons, and diſtribute them as they might ſee fit, for the protection of the Company's Poſſeſſions, including Salſette.

to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, our Deputy to the Court of Poonah; for your information of the Conditions which we have preſcribed for the propoſed Treaty to be formed with that Government.

Bombay. To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, and Council.

Gentlemen,

We now acknowledge the receipt of your Letter of the 23d Auguſt, delivered to us by Mr. Tayler.

It appearing by a repreſentation from Mr. Tayler, that he underſtood our Orders to you for withdrawing the Company's Troops from Ragoba, to imply the recal of them to Bombay; we think it proper, leſt you ſhould put the ſame conſtruction upon them, to take this opportunity of explaining our intention to have been, that it ſhould be leſt at your option to withdraw the Forces to any of the Company's garriſons which you might judge moſt proper for their reception, or to diſtribute them to each; and to confine your operations to the protection of the Territories poſſeſſed by the Company previous to the date of your Treaty with Ragoba, including Salſette.

APPENDIX, No. 84.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 18th October 1775.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

READ a Letter from Mr. Tayler, as follows:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Agreeably to what you did me the honour to notice to me in your favour of the 9th, I have received a Copy of your Inſtructions to Lieutenant Colonel Upton. The repreſentations I had made to you, would, I flatter myſelf have conveyed far different ideas from thoſe which dictated theſe Inſtructions; but it reſts with you alone to determine on the propriety of changing your line of politics; convinced as I am of the detriment which muſt befal the preſent proſperous ſituation of the Honourable Company's affairs on the weſtern ſide of India, if that line which has been adopted is continued to be purſued, I can only lament my ill ſucceſs: My duty calls upon me to tell you, that the moiety of the Revenues of the Town and Pergunnah of Broach, which has been ceded to us by Futty Sing, is in his gift alone.

But as your Honour, &c. have been pleaſed to appoint a Deputy from yourſelves immediately to Saccaram Bapoo, and exclude the Government of Bombay from any ſhare in concluding the Peace, I am directed by the Honourable the Preſident and Council to repreſent to you that ſuch a meaſure will in their opinion be a great indignity to that Preſidency, eſpecially as the Honourable Company had themſelves ordered a Member of their Board to reſide there, and given repeated approbations of his conduct, as will appear more evidently from the accompanying Paragraphs of their Orders, and Copy of their Letter to Mahada Row.

Permit me therefore, in juſtice to all the Gentlemen of the Board of Bombay, but particularly to thoſe concerned in the Treaty concluded with the Peiſhwa, to remonſtrate to you, that ſituated as they are in the neighbourhood of the Marattas, having frequent communication with them, and conſtant opportunities of becoming acquainted with the views, connections, and intereſts of the different perſons in the Poonah Durbar, they certainly muſt be beſt qualified for negociating the ſeveral matters intruſted to Colonel Upton, an entire ſtranger to their whole ſyſtem of Government; and I truſt it will appear to your Honour, &c. that at the time it pleaſed the wiſdom of Parliament to arm you with controling powers over the other Preſidencies, it was by no means their intention that they ſhould appear ſo much degraded and contemptible in the eyes of the Country Government, as the Preſidency of Bombay muſt do, unleſs you will commit the Treaty of Peace to their management.

Our Honourable Employers and the whole Britiſh Nation may be naturally led to ſuppoſe, that in your opinion the Members of that Government are devoid in every degree of integrity and abilities; which would be the moſt cruel and unjuſt of all imputations; for I dare dare to affirm, not a perſon who concluded that Treaty was actuated by any other motive than their obedience and duty to their Employers, whoſe intereſts appeared to them to be moſt materially benefited by their engagements.

The Members who compoſe the Bombay Council have ſerved the Honourable Company from 20 to 35 years. The ſole dependance of ſome of them is ſtill on the ſervice; and they have not yet been taxed with the want of abilities. Mr. Moſtyn, who returned from England in the year 1772, brought with him the Court of Directors appointment as their Repreſentative to the Poonah Durbar.

For theſe ſeveral reaſons, Gentlemen, I earneſtly conjure you to revoke your Orders to Colonel Upton, and by committing to the management of the Government of Bombay whatever Negociation you may deem it neceſſary to enter into with either party, ſupport the neceſſary reſpect to it, and not ſubject to ſo ſevere a mortification, a ſet of Gentlemen, againſt whom the only faults that can be alledged are their having haſtily carried into execution their zeal for the intereſt of their Employers, and having been ſo unfortunate as to differ in opinion from your Honour, &c. on the neceſſity and authority they had for it. I pledge myſelf to you for their implicit obedience to whatever you may direct; and can only urge further in behalf of this meaſure, the very conſiderable ſaving that will accrue by it to the Honourable Company, as it muſt be unneceſſary to ſtate to you the difference between giving the Marattas a Peace, and becoming ſuitors to them for one.

Calcutta, 12th October, 1775.

I am, &c.
(Signed) W. Tayler.

Copy of ſundry Paragraphs of different Letters from the Honourable Court of Directors to the Preſidency of Bombay.

Under the 18th March 1768.

Par. 91. The intimation you gave to our Preſident and Council of Fort St. George, to uſe their endeavours with the Marattas to obtain a grant of Salſette and Baſſein to us, we highly approve of; and we now recommend to you in the ſtrongeſt manner, to uſe your endeavours upon every occaſion that may offer to obtain theſe places, which we ſhould eſteem a valuable acquiſition; we cannot directly point out the mode of doing of it, but rather wiſh they could be obtained by Purchaſe than War.

Under 31ſt March 1769.

Par. 41. The opening a Negociation with the Marattas was a very proper meaſure, and Mr. Moſtyn acquitted himſelf therein highly to our ſatisfaction.

42. The demands made on them in return for the advantages they were to expect from our ſucceſſes againſt

Hyder Ally, were alſo very proper. Salſette and Baſſein, with their dependencies, and the Maratta's proportion of the Surat Revenues, were all that we ſeek for on that ſide India.

43. Theſe are the objects you are to have in view in all your treaties, negociations, and military operations, and that you muſt be ever watchful to obtain; always attentive to convince the Country Powers, theſe are, and ever will be, the utmoſt limits of our views on the weſtern ſide of India.

Under the 7th February 1772.

Par. 16. Mr. Moſtyn having repreſented to us, that his health is ſo well eſtabliſhed as to enable him to return to his rank and ſtation in our ſervice, he now takes paſſage for your Preſidency on the ſhip Duke of Cumberland.

17. We take this occaſion to apprize you, that it is our intent Mr. Moſtyn ſhall ſhortly proceed and reſide at the Court of Mhada Row, not only to explain our ſentiments, but to endeavour to cultivate a good underſtanding, and tranſmit ſuch buſineſs with him as the ſituation of affairs may render neceſſary.

18. We are not at preſent prepared to tranſmit to you ſuch Inſtructions for Mr. Moſtyn as we may deem neceſſary, but ſhall not fail to do ſo by the latter ſhips of the ſeaſon; mean while it is our pleaſure, and we direct, that on his arrival at your Preſidency, to be immediately appointed to ſuch poſt as he ſhall be intitled to by his rank in your Council, which poſt we alſo permit him to execute by a Deputy during his reſidence at the Court of Mhada Row; and we further direct, that Mr. Moſtyn be allowed the ſum of rupees 5,000 per annum, as reſident at Poonah, to commence from the time of his proceeding thither.

Reſolved, That the following Letter be written to the Preſident and Council at Bombay:

Gentlemen,

We think it proper to tranſmit you a copy of the Inſtructions which we have given to Colonel Upton, that you may be acquainted with the nature and extent of the powers and commiſſion entruſted to him, and the terms which he is ordered to ſecure for the Company in his Negociations with the Maratta Government.

He has been directed to correſpond with you; and as your local knowledge and experience may enable you to furniſh him with uſeful information, we requeſt that you will communicate ſuch to him whenever he may conſult you.

The Guicawar proportion of the Revenues of the Town and Pergunnah of Broach, and the Diſtricts of Corial, Chickley, and Verio, having been made over to the Company by Futty Sing, who appears to be the perſon poſſeſſed of the right and authority to make theſe grants; and as we underſtand that they may be held without any material increaſe of expence, we deſire you will retain poſſeſſion of them until a Definitive Treaty of Peace ſhall have been concluded with the ruling party at Poonah.

Admitting the poſſibility of Ragoba's being reduced by any unforeſeen misfortune to ſeek refuge in ſome of your garriſons, we would not have you underſtand from any directions yet tranſmitted you, that we mean entirely to deſert him; on the contrary, you will find, by a paragraph of the incloſed Inſtructions to Colonel Upton, that our intention is to obtain a ſuitable proviſion for him; we therefore deſire that you will afford him a ſanctuary for himſelf and his domeſtics or attendants, in caſe he ſhould ever be neceſſitated to apply for your protection, in order to avoid any perſonal danger.

We are, &c.

Reſolved, That the appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Upton cannot be repealed or changed conſiſtently with the orders of the Board already made public, and the dignity of this Government.

Agreed, That theſe Reſolutions be ſignified to Mr. Tayler as follows:

Sir,

We have received your Repreſentation of the 9th inſt.

The Guicawar proportion of the Revenues of the Town and Pergunnah of Broach, and the Diſtricts of Corial, Chickly, and Verio, having been made over to the Company by Futty Sing, who appeared to have poſſeſſed the right and authority to make this ceſſion, we have inſtructed the Preſidency of Bombay to retain poſſeſſion of, until a Definitive Treaty of Peace ſhall have been concluded with the ruling party at Poonah, as they may be held without increaſe of expence to the Company.

With reſpect to the other parts of your letter, we are concerned to find you infer ſuch conſequences to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, as you ſeem to apprehend will reſult from the appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Upton to Poonah; we think it proper therefore to aſſure you, that it is our wiſh to ſupport the reputation and credit of their Government, as far as we can conſiſtently with the due execution of the Powers entruſted to us by the Legiſlature. It ſhall alſo be our endeavour to ſecure the Preſidency of Bombay from any ſlight or diſreſpect of their authority. We are ſatisfied of the knowledge and experience of theſe gentlemen in the political views and intereſts of the Maratta Government, nor do we queſtion their ability to conduct a Negociation for a Peace: Yet, however we may be influenced by theſe motives, and by our confidence in their integrity and ſtrict deſire to fulfil our intentions, we do not think we can repeal or alter the appointment of Colonel Upton conſiſtently with the orders and reſolutions which we have already made public, and ſignified to the Miniſters at Poonah, or with the dignity of this Government, which he has been deputed to repreſent in his character of public Miniſter at the Maratta Court.

As it is poſſible that Ragonaut Row may ſeek refuge in ſome of the Company's garriſons on the Malabar Coaſt, we have further directed the Preſidency of Bombay to afford him an aſylum with his attendants only, in caſe he ſhould find himſelf reduced to ſolicit this mark of their favour.

We are, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 85.

APPENDIX. No. 85.

From the Nabob of Arcot; received the 14th October 1775.

AS ſoon as I learnt that you and the Gentlemen of Council were pacifically inclined towards the Miniſters at Poonah, and afterwards when I was informed that you had determined to ſend Colonel Upton to conclude a Peace with them, I diſpatched ſeveral letters to you, under dates the 16th of Jummadee ul Awal (or July) with a duplicate of the 19th of the ſame month; of the 13th of Jummadee Aſianie (11th Auguſt) with a duplicate thereof; of the 28th of the ſame month; and of the 6th of Rujjub (2d of September); all of which have undoubtedly been peruſed by you and the Gentlemen of Council. I ſent a draft of Coulnâmâh, which in my judgment ſhould be obtained from the Marattas for the tranquillity of the Carnatic, and for the Circars, and other poſſeſſions of the Company, to the Governor and Council of Madras, to be forwarded to you in a letter from them; and for the greater ſecurity, I now incloſe you another copy of it. By the Bleſſing of God I am an Hereditary Prince, and a firm and ſteady Friend and Ally of the King of Great Britain, and am the moſt attached to the Engliſh Nation of all the Princes of India. My friendſhip and ſincere regard to them has been frequently put to the teſt, both in times of proſperity perity and adverſity, and through the ſtrict connection which ſubſiſts between me and the Company, our concerns are the ſame, and my Country is independent of every Sirdar, however powerful, by means of my Alliance with the King of Great Britain. By this the Country of Carnatic Paingaut, Tanjore, and all my other Dominions, are exempted from the payment of Chout, either on account of time paſt or to come, as well as from all other demands which would otherwiſe have been made on it. I therefore ſome time ago requeſted you would ſend inſtructions to Colonel Upton to conſult with the Agent whom I ſhould ſend there, and in conjunction with him to exert his endeavours for the eſtabliſhment of Peace with the Miniſters at Poonah. The Peace formerly concluded with the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah, by General Caillaud and Mr. Stracey, was very ſoon broken; that concluded through me with the ſame Nabob, has not yet been ſhaken, though this is the ninth year ſince it was firſt eſtabliſhed; and, by the Bleſſing of God, were a Treaty concluded through my mediation with the Miniſters at Poonah, there can be no doubt but I ſhould obtain great advantages for the Company, becauſe I am perfectly well acquainted with the diſpoſitions of the Powers of the Country, and in the method of negociating and forming Treaties with them; and ſhould, by the Bleſſing of God, exert myſelf to the utmoſt to eſtabliſh it on the firmeſt footing. The advancement of the proſperity and intereſts of my friends the Engliſh, in India, is the firſt wiſh of my heart; and this greatly depend on the preſent Treaty. The Poona Miniſters ſome time ago applied to me to take on myſelf the part of a Mediator of Peace between them and the Engliſh. I am therefore deſirous, for my own and the Company's intereſts, and to remove all doubts, to borrow Mr. Chambers (a good man, and a friend both to me and the Company) from the Governor and Council here, and to ſend him to Poonah, accompanied by Shuſh Row, whoſe eldeſt brother reſides there on my part. I requeſt that you will be ſo kind as to ſend Orders without delay to Colonel Upton, to act in conjunction with theſe Perſons whom I ſhall ſend in the propoſed accommodation. I will tranſmit you a copy of the Orders which I give to Mr. Chambers and Shuſh Row, as well as of the Tranſactions and Negociations of which I receive intelligence from Poonah. In the Treaty with the Marattas, it will not be proper to inſert the names of any countries, except thoſe under the Dominion of the Company, myſelf, and the Succeſſor of Sujah ul Dowlah; and it is for the Company's intereſt that no other ſhould be inſerted; for the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah and Hyder Ally Khân are very far from wiſhing the increaſe of the Power and Authority of the Engliſh, to whom in their hearts they are not Friends. And Hyder Ally Khân, in this neighbourhood, incited thereto by the conſideration of the greatneſs of his Forces, which he is daily augmenting, has gone beyond his limits, of which you have been informed by my former letters. He has lately formed a reſolution of marching from Serrungpatan, and annexing the Countries of Kurpah, Kurnole, the Dominions of Mararow, and of the Zemindars dependant on Adoonie to his other poſſeſſions. He is prevented carrying theſe deſigns into immediate execution, by the neceſſity of repairing the Fort of Serrungpatan, part of the walls of which have been thrown down by an inundation of the River Kâveerie; as ſoon as this buſineſs is accompliſhed, he will certainly proceed to the execution of the afore-mentioned plan; and as the Chiefs of theſe Countries are not ſufficiently powerful to make head againſt him, there is no doubt but he will quickly bring them under his dominions. I incloſe for your information ſome papers of intelligence which I have lately received. At a particular ſeaſon of the year, horſes and cloaths were always brought into this Country to Tripotee, of which I uſed to make purchaſes, and the People of the Country took off large quantities; but for theſe laſt two years Hyder Ally Khân, in conſequence of his intentions on Kurpah, has not permitted the dealers in cloth and horſes to come to Tripotee, but draws them into his own country, and purchaſes their merchandize himſelf. With the approbation of the Governor and Council here, I raiſed ſeveral troops of cavalry, and by reaſon of the unhealthineſs of this climates to horſes, I have loſt many in each troop, which I cannot replace; and ſhould Hyder Ally get poſſeſſion of Kurpah, &c. I ſhall not be able to procure a ſingle horſe in Paingaut. This being the caſe, it would be greatly for our mutual intereſt that the Taluok of Guntore, which is ſituated between my poſſeſſions and the Sirkars, ſhould be under the Company's Authority: and that Kurpah, which is from of old a dependancy of the Carnatic Paingaut (which is well known) ſhould be put into my hands. If by the Bleſſing of God this is carried into execution, and the Fougedars of Kurnole, Mararow, and the Zemindars of that quarter, who have altogether about 9 or 10,000 horſe, are under the Company's and my protection, their forces will be ready to join with us whenever we may have occaſion for them. I therefore think it would be proper that you ſhould ſend a public order to Hyder Ally Khân, to confine himſelf within his own limits, and not to make any attempt againſt the dominions of others. You are apprehenſive of the French: I am ſtill more ſo, from the augmentation of Hyder Ally's forces, who is their ſupporter.

Appendix. No. 85.

Incloſed in the above:

Draft of the Sunnud.

As the whole Country of the Carnatic Paingaut and Ballagaut, from the River Kiſhna to the boundary of Mallewar, together with the Fort and Country of Tanjour, and all the Forts, Jaheirdas, Zemindars, Pykars, &c. are under the Government of the Nabob Wallah Jah, Ameer Ul Hind, Omdut ul Mulk, Aſeph ul Dowlah, Anwar ul Dien Khân, Bahadre Zuffur Jung, Sepah Sallar, I, by the order of Mahab Rajah my maſter, declare upon my faith, and on the oath by Bael Bhundhâr, that I renounce all demands of Chout, Serdaſemuckee, &c. on the Countries above ſpecified; and that I have no claim of Chout, &c. on account of times paſt or to come. It is hereby required of my ſons and brothers who may ſucceed me, and of all the officers of the Mahab Rajah's and my Government, and of all Miniſters for Affairs, and Taffildars, that they ſtrictly obſerve the Terms of this Sunnud, reſpecting the renunciation of Chout, &c. from the Nabob Wallah Jah and his Poſterity, and never on any account, to the lateſt Generations, give them trouble by a demand of Chout, Serdaſemuckee, Nalbundee, and other Taxes; but that they conſider all the afore-mentioned Duties as abſolutely renounced for ever. On this occaſion, knowing the moſt poſitive injunctions, do not demand a freſh Sunnud every year, and deviate not from the orders contained herein.

The Board taking into conſideration the Nabob of Arcot's application for Mr. Chambers to go to Poonah, agreeable to his Letter received the 14th October, and entered in the Perſian Correſpondence;

Agreed, That Mr. Chambers be permitted to proceed to Poonah, on the part of the Nabob, to aſſiſt Colonel Upton in negociating any points which the Nabob may think neceſſary to recommend to him to be made conditions in the Treaty, but to tranſact his buſineſs only through Colonel Upton.

Reſolved, That the following letter be written to Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

The Nabob of the Carnatic has applied to us for permiſſion to depute Mr. William Chambers to Poonah, to aſſiſt you in negociating any matters on the part of the Nabob, and to propoſe to you ſuch conditions as he may think neceſſary for the intereſt of the Carnatic, to make articles in the Treaty of Peace with the Maratta Government. We have allowed the Nabob to employ Mr. Chambers on this ſervice, in caſe the Preſident and Council of Fort Saint George ſhall ſee no objection to it; but we have thought it neceſſary to reſtrict him from tranſacting any buſineſs, except through you: And we deſire that you will conform to his repreſentations, as far as you may be authorized by the tenor of our Inſtructions.

We underſtand that Colonel Keating has retired with the troops under his command to the ſouth of Surat, and will there remain inactive; but that the reaſons alledged for this movement are, to be in readineſs again to take the Field, or to embark for Bombay, as future occaſions may render neceſſary. If Colonel Keating ſhould continue in this ſituation until your arrival at Poonah, you will explain theſe circumſtances to the Miniſtry, and acquaint them that they may depend on our obſerving moſt rigidly the pacification on our part, and that we conſequently require the ſame good faith from them; but if they ſhould order their troops to be again put in motion, with intention to commence hoſtilities afreſh, we ſhall likewiſe be under the neceſſity of breaking through the peaceful meaſures which we meant to obſerve, and ſhall conſider ourſelves no longer bound to keep any terms of amity with them.

The Nabob has applied to us for permiſſion to employ Mr. Chambers, on a deputation from him to meet Colonel Upton at Poonah, and to aſſiſt him in negociating any matters on the part of the Nabob; alſo to propoſe ſuch articles as he may wiſh to have inſerted as conditions in the Treaty of Peace with the Maratta State. As we conceive this attention due to the Nabob's requeſt, we have told him that we comply with it, if you ſhall ſee no objection; but that Mr. Chambers muſt tranſact his buſineſs only through Colonel Upton, who has been ordered to attend to his different repreſentations, and to conform to them, as far as he may be authorized by the tenor of our Inſtructions. PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, Phillip Francis, } Eſquires.

THE following Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton was received ſince the laſt meeting of Council, and immediately circulated.

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letters of the 5th inſtant; alſo the letter from the Nizam.

In about five weeks from this date, I expect to be at Poonah; ſooner if poſſible.

The Country about here is in the greateſt diſtreſs and confuſion. The Marattas have a ſmall army of about 3,000 men, within 20 coſs of Calpee; their free-booters have plundered and laid waſte the Country all around within 5 coſs, and they daily expect the Town to ſhare the ſame fate. The Rajah of Calpee; Hamet Bahader the Goſſain, (who, with his brother Omro Gyr) has the entire command and direction of the Doaub, has lately marched with an army of about 15,000 men, to the neighbourhood of Janſi, whether to ſecure a ſtrong paſs there, or to beſiege Janſi, is not known. The Marattas marched the 3,000 men in conſequence of this motion of Hamet Bahader's, and have got between him and Calpee. It is alſo ſaid the Marattas have a large force in motion from Brampore, commanded by Hurry Pundit. In all appearance, the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah will ſoon have in his Country a conſiderable Maratta army.

I have, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 87.

Bengal Secret Conſultations, 29th November 1775.

THE following Letter from Mr. Taylor to the Board was received ſince laſt council day, and ſent in circulation.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

I have learnt that the Peiſhwa Ragonaut Row, has addreſſed you concerning his pretenſions from the late Treaty. Although the ſtrict adherence to that Treaty forms the chief object of my deputation; yet the validity of it, and the national obligation incurred by it, have already been ſo amply diſcuſſed, that I will only beg of you to bear in mind, that however unauthorized and invalid invalid the engagements of the Government of Bombay may appear to you, a different ſentiment will prevail with the ſeveral Powers of Hindoſtan; for till the contrary was publicly announced, the ancient Conſtitution of the Company certainly exiſted with reſpect to them; and agreeably to that, Ragoba will in their minds have a clear right to every advantage ſtipulated to him by the late Treaty. It muſt alſo be remembered, that the miniſterial confederacy is by no means a general aſſociation of the moſt reſpectable Maratta Chiefs, to expel him from the Government for his crimes or incapacity, but a partial combination of a few individuals, brought into office by his own family, who, to gratify their own ambition and intereſt, firſt releaſed him from impriſonment, raiſed him to the Government of which he became the rightful poſſeſſor; and then from the ſame motives, entered into a rebellious confederacy to expel him from that Government, in order to uſurp it themſelves.

Appendix. No. 87.

Should theſe conſiderations and other motives induce you to make the concerns of Ragoba a more leading object in the intended Negociation at Poonah, I think it incumbent on me to ſtate to you my opinion, in what manner this point might be effected, moſt conſiſtently with the ſteps you have already taken, the good faith of the Nation, the intereſts of the Company, and how the preſent differences might eaſily be terminated, ſo as to ſecure a permanent ſettlement.

On no footing whatever have the Miniſters any pretenſions to the Government. If the infant Mhadoo Row Narrain is really ſuppoſititious, the title of Ragoba ſtands unqueſtioned; if he is the true child of Narrow Row, ſurely the guardianſhip of an uncle is more natural and equitable, than that of men who have been abetting to the murder of his father, and the expulſion of that uncle, merely to raiſe themſelves on the ruin of the family, and muſt be deemed by all the Powers of India, a juſt ſettlement.

To quiet all parties, I would therefore adviſe, that the acknowledgment of the title of Mhadoo Row Narrain be the baſis of any future Treaty: that Ragoba poſſeſs the actual government in quality of Regent, in the ſame manner as he did during the minority of Mhadoo Row, and Narrow Row, the uncle and father of the infant; and that in caſe of the death of the infant and Ragoba, the ſucceſſion devolve on Imrut Row Ragoba's adopted ſon. To obviate any objections that may ariſe to the infant being put in the power of Ragoba, a battalion of Sepoys, or any certain number of our troops may be ſtationed there, for the ſafeguard of his perſon, under the command of our Reſident, the expence of which muſt be paid by the Poonah Government; or any other plan may be purſued, which may be ſettled among themſelves.

That the preſent Confederates be guaranteed by the Company, with reſpect to their lives, fortunes, and offices; and even if required an aſylum offered them in any of the Company's territories, or as is uſual among the Marattas, ſome Forts aſſigned them for the ſecurity of their perſons and property.

That the ceſſions made by Ragoba to us be guaranteed all by parties, as well as the ſecurity of the Carnatic, and the exemption of Mahomed Ally, from every kind of demands from the Marattas.

Whatever may be the event of future deliberation on this point, I muſt again earneſtly take the liberty to recommend that our army be permitted to remain with Ragoba till a final pacification is effected. It will prevent him from deſpair, and perhaps from throwing himſelf into other connections; ſuch a ſhew of determination will carry an idea of firmneſs and confidence in this Government very neceſſary to give a weight to Colonel Upton's repreſentations and demands. The late declaration of the Miniſtry indeed renders this but a point of prudence, in order to protect the Guzerat country. Our army might remain encamped with that of the Peiſhwa, under the walls of Broderah. This would at once retain Futty Sing in our party, defend the Guzerat country in caſe of the eruption of the miniſterial army, and being at a proper diſtance from them, prevent any diſturbance in collecting the harveſt and revenues from our Pergunnahs. The Miniſters might be acquainted with the orders to do this, and that their threats were the occaſion of it, as well as your determination to continue the army with the Peiſhwa till the final Pacification; ſince it appears ſo little dependance is to be had on their promiſes, and at the ſame time they might be aſſured that was our ſole intention. As to the expence, it could not be conſiderable, and we are beſides in actual collection of the diſtricts aſſigned for payment of our charges, which are rated at more than they amount to.

The arrears from the 17th February laſt would alſo become ſecured.

I have, &c.

The Secretary alſo ſent with the above, a letter to him from the Governor General, containing his opinion upon Mr. Tayler's, and a letter from Mr. Tayler to the Governor General, as follows:

Sir,

Be pleaſed to ſend round the accompanying letter from Mr. Tayler, with that in which he has lately addreſſed the Board, to the Gentlemen of Council, whoſe opinions upon the propoſition contained in the letter I wiſh to collect in this way, unleſs they ſhall judge it neceſſary to diſcuſs it in a formal meeting.

My own opinion upon it is clear. The articles recommended for the Pacification appear reaſonable, and likely to produce their effect, becauſe they accord with the propoſitions which, as we underſtand from Mr. Tayler, were at one time the objects of the Miniſters themſelves, and it is not likely they will now refuſe them, if a determination is ſhewn on our part to inſiſt on them. By Colonel Upton's laſt letter, we may expect him to have accompliſhed his journey near a month before our Orders on this ſubject can reach him; if in that ſpace of time he ſhall not have concluded a Treaty, it may be preſumed that the miniſterial party ſeeing the advantage in procraſtinating the iſſue of it, have purpoſely evaded it; and a power thus granted to Colonel Upton to preſcribe the ultimate conditions, will bring his Negociation to a ſure criſis; and whether War or Peace be the reſult, this Government will ſtand equally juſtified in their endeavours to prevent the former, and to eſtabliſh the latter.

I am, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 88.

Bengal Secret Conſultations, 29th November 1775.

Mr. Tayler now ſends in a letter as follows:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

HAVING yeſterday received a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating, dated 29th ultimo, containing advices, which appear to me of the greateſt importance with reſpect to our preſent ſituation with the Marattas, I herewith incloſe for your notice an extract from it. I cannot here forbear remarking that this event confirms the advices and conjectures of the Government of Bombay, regarding the ſtate and expectations of the two parties, which I had the honour to communicate to you in my Addreſs of the 9th ultimo.

In the preſent critical conjuncture of Affairs, it is much to be lamented that I was not ſo far ſucceſsful as to induce the revocation of your Orders for withdrawing our army from Ragoba. This would have given him ſome room to hope that you did not mean entirely to abandon his concerns; and as I am convinced that he would at any rate prefer a Reſtoration or Settlement under the protection and ſanction of the Company to any other, I think, that notwithſtanding the offers of the perſons at Poonah who have formed an Alliance to ſupport his cauſe, he would ſtill have waited the event of his late Addreſs to you, before he withdrew himſelf from us to embrace their protection.

But when I reflect on the time at which Colonel Keating repreſents theſe matters to be agitated, viz. the 29th ultimo; and that about the 12th inſtant, your final and abſolute Determinations would arrive, which preclude him from all hopes of reſtoration through our means. It ſeems to me that common policy muſt plainly dictate his reliance on the Junto formed by Moraba Furneeſe.

Should he adopt this meaſure, there appears to me juſt grounds of apprehenſion, that what we have moſt of all to fear will happen; I mean the re ſettlement of the Maratta Empire, and the reſtoration of Ragoba, without our aſſiſtance, after the abſolute abandoning of him, in direct violation of the Treaty concluded with the Government of Bombay. In ſuch caſe, I think you muſt perceive, that Colonel Upton can form very little hopes of ſucceſs in any one of the points he is charged to negociate. I do not ſee on what footing of Juſtice or Right he can pretend to any of the ceſſions which form the principal object of his Embaſſy, as they were the ſtipulated price of engagements we have found it convenient to recede from; and as to ſtipulations regarding Mahomed Aly, I ſhall only remark, that the Carnatic has ever been too favourite an object of Maratta depredations to relinquiſh it but on compulſion.

The only effectual means I can deviſe in this ſituation, is ſtill to endeavour to become the inſtruments of his reſtoration, by acceding to the Treaty entered into with him by the Government of Bombay, leaving it to them to explain in the beſt manner they may be able, the cauſe of the impediment on the proſecution of our engagements with him, the miſtruſt that he has of all the Miniſters, the knowledge of their general views, and of that perfidy and treachery; and which, from the leading characteriſtics of his Nation and Caſt, may perhaps yet induce him to wait the event of his late application to you, before he adopts that laſt and dangerous meaſure of confiding his life and Government with ſuch doubtful characters as theſe. Appendix, No. 88.

I have, &c.

Calcutta, 29th Nov. 1775.

Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating, dated the 29th October 1775, and received the 28th November.

Though the odds are greatly againſt this reaching you at Calcutta, yet at a venture I ſhall communicate ſome little matters which may be of uſe.

Morabah Furneeſe has lately ſent a man to the Peiſhwa, with aſſurance that he and the following are ſtrongly attached to his intereſt; Butchabhoy, Chintoo Wittel, Mallarjee Goparah, and Ramchunder Gunneſs; all powerful men. He adds, that the ſituation of the miniſterial party is nearly as bad as can be; that Harry Punt Furkia, now at Aurungabad, has ſcarce five thouſand men under his command, and, at the utmoſt, their whole force do not exceed 12,000, and thoſe ſo diſpirited and diſperſed as not to be eaſily aſſembled. Saccaram Bappoo and Nanna Furneeſe are in Promder Fort, and afraid to truſt themſelves out of it: That he, Maroba, is collecting a force which, by the time we can aſcend the Gotts, will amount to 10,000 of the beſt horſe lately in the Miniſter's pay; with theſe he will join the Peiſhwa, and carry him to Poonah without bloodſhed. Theſe are the accounts he daily receives from the ſouthward. Beeſi Sing, the Raja of the Marwar Country, is now within 45 coſs of the City of Amedabad, on his way to join the Peiſhwa; his Vackeel arrived here yeſterday, and ſays, his maſter has with him ten thouſand of his troops. We ſhall march to-morrow for our Pergunnah of Chickley, and leave the Peiſhwa's Army at Sangaaz. I hope in God you are by this time ſucceſsful. Nothing on earth could pleaſe me ſo much as the aſſurance of it.

A true copy.

(Signed) W. Tayler.

The following Queſtion is put, upon the firſt of the above Letters from Mr. Tayler:

Whether the Propoſitions contained in the ſaid letter, or any part of them, ſhall be agreed to?

Mr. Francis—I think that the Reſolution already taken by this Council, and on which our Inſtructions to Colonel Upton are founded, are not open to any alteration, until we hear the reſult of his firſt Negociation with the Miniſtry at Poonah, or until he informs us in what manner his Propoſitions are received by them, and whether the Negociation committed to him be likely to ſucceed or not.

Colonel Monſon—The ſituation of this Government with the Maratta State, and the Inſtructions under which Colonel Upton is ſent to treat with the miniſterial party at Poonah, will not admit of any preſent alteration. We ſhould wait for the reſult of his Negociations, before any ſuch freſh Propoſitions of a different nature from thoſe which we have already made to the Miniſterial party are ſubmitted to their conſideration. I therefore am of opinion that the Propoſitions contained in Mr. Tayler's letter cannot be admitted.

General Clavering—I cannot agree to the adopting at preſent the plan propoſed by Mr. Tayler in his letter of the 18th inſtant, becauſe it would oblige us to vary the Syſtem of Pacification that we have propoſed to the Miniſters at Poonah. It is neceſſary to wait for the firſt advices from Colonel Upton before we alter the meaſures we have already taken for his Negociation; ſhould thoſe fail, and Colonel Upton return, our meaſures then muſt be adapted to the circumſtances; but at any rate I think Mr. Tayler's plan, of allowing our army to remain with Ragoba, would defeat the preſent Negociation, and may eventually engage the Company in an endleſs War, in order to eſtabliſh Ragoba in his Peiſhwaſhip. What reaſon Mr. Tayler may have for his conjecture that Mâderow Narrain is a ſuppoſititious child, I cannot conceive. Mr. Moſtyn, in his letter of the 28th April 1774, recorded on the Select Committee Proceedings 15th June, ſpeaks poſitively of his Birth; and again, in his letter of the 20th May following, recorded on the Select Committee Proceedings of the 1ſt September 1774, confirms that account, and the effects that it had had upon Ragoba's party, by his forces having left him on that account. This is the ſtrongeſt evidence that we can obtain of the Legitimacy of his Birth, both in the mind of Mr. Moſtyn at that time, and in the opinions that were entertained of it in that Country. As to Mr. Tayler's ſcheme, of keeping a battalion of the Company's Sepoys at Poonah, it is too chimerical to require a ſerious anſwer.

The Governor General—I ſtill adhere to my opinion delivered in my Circular Minute of the 22d. The laſt letter which we received from Colonel Upton, adviſed us that he was at Calpee on the 26th ultimo, and expected to reach Poonah in five weeks, which period will have elapſed to-morrow. At all events, any letters which may be diſpatched to him after this day, will not be able to reach him until a long time after his arrival there, when every Negociation ought to be concluded, if he ſhall find in the miniſterial party a ſincere diſpoſition to Peace. Theſe propoſitions, accompanied with a peremptory declaration that they are the ultimate Terms offered to them, I do not conceive would produce their effect, and for that reaſon I have recommended their being adopted. The condition objected to by the General I ſhould equally diſapprove, but that I conclude the alternative joined with it would preclude it from having a moment's conſideration with either party, and that they would both prefer an accommodation of this point between themſelves, to any interpoſition of our force in an occaſion of ſo much delicacy as the immediate guard of the perſon of their actual Sovereign.

Reſolved, That the following Reply be ſent to Mr. Tayler:

Sir,

We have received your letters of the 18th inſtant, and of yeſterday.

We are much obliged to you for communicating to us the intelligence incloſed in the latter from Colonel Keating. We hope that the ſucceſs of Colonel Upton's Negociation will obviate the neceſſity of making any alteration in the Inſtructions already given him; at any rate, as he muſt be ſo near the end of his journey, we think it abſolutely neceſſary to wait for advices of his firſt interview and Negociations with the Miniſtry before we ſend him any new Inſtructions for his conduct.

We are, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 89.

Copy of a Letter from William Tayler to the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the Eaſt Indies.

Honourable Sirs,

BY the Advices from the Select Committee of Bombay, you will have been fully apprized of the Treaty entered into with Ragoonath Ballajee Row, the Peiſhwa of the Maratta Empire, for our aſſiſtance with a body of your troops to act in concert with his, in order to effect his Re-inſtatement in his Capital of Poonah; which he had been obliged to abandon by the violence of certain of his ſubjects, who had entered into a rebellious confederacy to expel him from his Government in order to uſurp it themſelves. The motives which guided the conduct of your ſervants at this critical juncture, the progreſs of their military operations, and the general ſtate of affairs, have alſo, no doubt, been ſo fully ſtated to you by the Calcutta, that a recital of them now would be an unneceſſary intruſion on your time.

With the flattering hopes they had then before them, of ſpeedily accompliſhing their engagements with Ragoba, either by arms or negociation, and thereby effecting thoſe objects which had been ſo frequently and ſtrenuouſly enjoined to them, as your ultimate wiſhes in the weſt of India, it is not eaſy to conceive the concern and aſtoniſhment of your ſervants on the receipt of the following Letter from the Honourable the Governor General and Council, which arrived at Bombay on the 12th Auguſt laſt.

Copy of a Letter from William Tayler, to the Honourable the Court of Directors.

From the very general manner in which this Government had expreſſed themſelves regarding the meaſures purſued by your ſervants at Bombay, it appeared to them impoſſible to judge with preciſion of the grounds of their diſapproval, which was indiſpenſably neceſſary in order to remove their objections to the Treaty with Ragoba; in the ſtrict adherence to which, the good faith of the Nation, and your particular intereſts, were deeply engaged. For the latter purpoſe, as well as to give them every requiſite information regarding your views and intereſt at that Preſidency, ſhould they perſiſt in their determination to conclude a Peace with the Miniſterialiſts, the Governor and Council of Bombay deemed it indiſpenſably neceſſary to depute hither a Member of their Board; and, as I appeared to them duly qualified to anſwer their intentions, they did me the honour to ſelect me. Purſuant to their directions I therefore embarked on the Terrible Bomb Ketch, and arrived here the 1ſt ultimo.

As the ideas which appear to have guided the Reſolutions of the Governor General and Council, ſeemed to me to have ariſen from want of knowledge or miſconception of the nature of the Maratta Government, the late factions and diviſions in the Poonah Dubar, the ſtate of the different parties, the rank, rights, and connections of Ragoba, I thought it neceſſary to ſtate theſe at large, together with your declared views and intereſts in the weſt of India, the manner in which they would be accompliſhed by the Treaty with Ragoba, and alſo how far the ſecurity and welfare of your territories in the eaſt of Indoſtan had been attended to in the concluſion of that Treaty—I therefore addreſſed them the following Letter. (See Appendix 83.)

Copy of a Letter from William Tayler, to the Honourable the Court of Directors.

Conſidering the alteration of circumſtances, and the different ſentiments which the foregoing Addreſs muſt doubtleſs have conveyed from thoſe, who ſeem to have dictated the letter to the Government of Bombay of the 31ſt of May laſt, I flattered myſelf that this Government would be induced to an alteration of meaſures; but it is with regret I muſt acquaint you, that all I had urged was in vain; for under the 9th ultimo they wrote me in anſwer, that after duly conſidering the repreſentations which I had been pleaſed to deliver them, as well as the ſeveral informations I had communicated reſpecting the nature, motives, and objects of the engagements with Ragoba, and the preſent ſtate of the Maratta Government at Poonah, they had, for the preſent, to acquaint me, they were confirmed in their opinion of the expediency of the Company's Troops being immediately recalled from the ſervice of Ragoba into their own garri-ſons. Their orders for this purpoſe would therefore remain.

The reaſons and motives for the conduct of this Government, are no doubt explained to you at large on their Records. For my part, being totally ignorant of them, I can only here lament the ill ſucceſs of my endeavours, being well convinced that the re-eſtabliſhment of Ragoba, and the completion of our engagements with him, is the moſt effectual means to enſure the quiet and permanent poſſeſſion of the ſeveral Diſtricts to be ceded to us.

Having expreſſed ſome doubts regarding their orders for the recall of our Troops from Ragoba, they alſo acquainted me in their letter of the 9th ultimo, that, as I ſeemed to underſtand their directions implied the recall of the Troops to Bombay, they thought it neceſſary to explain their meaning to have been, that it ſhould remain at the option of the Government of Bombay to withdraw them into ſuch of your garriſons, and diſtribute them as they might ſee fit, for the preſervation of your Poſſeſſions, including Salſette.

The words—"Company's Poſſeſſions"—appearing to me indefinite, and being unwilling to leave any opening for the Government of Bombay to ſuffer the leaſt imputation of diſobedience to the Orders of the Governor-General and Council, I requeſted it might be explained, whether they meant to include by them ſuch of the ſeveral Diſtricts ceded to us by the Peiſhwa and Futty Sing Guicawar, as are in our poſſeſſion, or whether they meant to confine them only to Salſette, and Territories poſſeſſed by you previous to our engagements with the Peiſhwa: to which they returned me for anſwer, that their meaning by the Company's Poſſeſſions was, the Territories poſſeſſed by the Company previous to the date of the Treaty entered into with Ragoba; and that they added including Salſette, becauſe the Government of Bombay had taken poſſeſſion of it before that period. I have, however, the pleaſure to inform you, that though my Deputation has not been in general ſucceſsful, yet, that I truſt it has not been wholly ineffectual to the advancement of your intereſts; for on further repreſentation from me, and explaining the nature of the tenure, and the particular convenience theſe ceſſions would be of to you, the Governor-General and Council write to me under the 18th ultimo, that the Guicawar proportion of the Revenues of the Town and Pergunnah of Broach, and the Diſtricts of Corial, Chickley, and Veriow, having been made over to you by Futty Sing, who appears to have the right and authority to make this conceſſion, they had inſtructed the Preſidency of Bombay to retain poſſeſſion of them until a Definitive Treaty of Peace ſhall have been concluded with the ruling party at Poona; from which circumſtance I hope they mean to retain theſe ceſſions, the Revenues of which are valued at ſo conſiderable a ſum as 5,28,000 Rupees.

I was regularly acquainted with the Deputation of Colonel Upton to Poonah, by a copy of his Inſtructions being ſent me. This meaſure appears to me reflective on your ſervants at Bombay in general, who, from their proximity to the Marattas, and the daily opportunities they have of becoming acquainted with the Characters, tranſactions, intereſts, and deſigns of the ſeveral Members of that Durbar, may juſtly be ſuppoſed moſt fit for ſuch a Negociation; but particularly on Mr. Moſtyn, whom you have done the honour to appoint your Repreſentative there, and whoſe conduct you have repeatedly approved. It alſo ſeemed to me highly derogatory to them as your Government there, and tending totally to ſubvert every idea of reſpect, power, and authority in the different Powers around, which, in its conſequences, muſt no doubt be attended with difficulties and hindrances in the conduct of your Affairs. The amazing expence of this Embaſſy, in compariſon with the trifle it would coſt you was this Negociation committed to the management of your Servants at Bombay, was alſo a capital objection with me. For theſe ſeveral reaſons I thought it my duty to remonſtrate againſt this meaſure, to deſire the recall of Colonel Upton, and that they would ſignify their orders and intentions, leaving the execution of them to the Government of Bombay, for whoſe ready and implicit obedience I confidently pledged myſelf. But ſorry I am to acquaint you, that my repreſentations on this head had alſo no effect; for they acquaint me in anſwer, that they are concerned to find me infer ſuch conſequences to the Preſident and Council at Bombay, as I ſeemed to apprehend would reſult from the appointment of Colonel Upton to Poonah: they thought it proper, therefore, to aſſure me, that it was their wiſh to ſupport the Reputation and Credit of their Government as far as they can, conſiſtently with the due execution of the powers intruſted to them by the Legiſlature, that it ſhould alſo be their endeavours to ſecure the Preſidency of Bombay from any ſlight, or diſreſpect of their authority. They expreſs themſelves ſatisfied of the knowledge and experience of your Servants, in the political views and intereſts of the Maratta Government; nor did they queſtion their abilities to conduct a Negociation for a Peace; yet, however, they may be influenced by theſe motives, and by their confidence in their integrity, and ſtrict deſire to fulfil their intentions, they did not think they could repeal or alter the appointment of Colonel Upton, conſiſtently with the Orders and Reſolutions which they have already made public, and ſignified to the Miniſters at Poonah, or with the Dignity of this Government, which he had been deputed to repreſent in his character of Public Miniſter at the Maratta Court. In reply to this I can only remark, that if there is any juſtneſs in the grounds on which I found my objections, which the Governor-General and Council do not pretend to deny, the reaſon they here aſſigned for totally diſregarding them, appears to me but unſatisfactory, as I do not conceive what indignity can poſſibly enſue by their transferring the management of this Negociation from Colonel Upton, to a Deputation of your Servants at Bombay—their Supremacy in political matters could have been as effectually explained. I can only further lament, that when the mode and terms of accommodation were reſolved on, they did not from the firſt, ſignify their intentions to the Government of Bombay, by which means you might long 'ere now, I apprehend, have been at ſome certainty with reſpect to your Affairs on that ſide; whereas by the preſent mode and route, you are left in a very diſagreeable ſuſpenſe, and likely to continue ſo for ſome time; for though Colonel Upton, I underſtand, left this place in July laſt, he was on the 27th ultimo got no further on his way to Poonah than Calpee, and as it is probable the intermediate Country may be infeſted with parties of Horſe, and his journey thereby delayed, it is impoſſible to ſay when he will arrive there.

Appendix. No. 89.

With reſpect to the matter and objects of Colonel Upton's Inſtructions, I beg leave to trouble you with the following reflections:—

If we may judge from the tenor of Governor Haſtings's letter to Sackaram Bapoo, and from the expreſſions he makes uſe of, "My Employer, the King of England," Colonel Upton will be eſteemed at Poonah the Repreſentative of this ſacred Character; I will therefore firſt proceed to examine how far his actions will be conſiſtent with the dignity of it, and with thoſe ideas of juſtice and moderation, which no doubt this Government will wiſh to convey of itſelf in this firſt inſtance, that is publicly brought forth to action in the face of all the Powers in India.

Every circumſtance, if well attended to, ſeems to confirm it beyond a doubt, that, conſiſtent with juſtice and propriety, Ragoonath Row is the only perſon whoſe Authority we can regularly acknowledge, with whom we can enter into any Treaty or Agreement relative to Maratta Affairs. On the death of his Nephew, Raron Row, being the only male Survivor of the Family of Badjerow, he ſucceeded to the Peiſhwaſhip, and was regularly regularly inveſted with the Office by every requiſite form, and acknowledged by the very perſons whoſe intereſt and ambition now lead them in arms againſt him. This acquieſcence would by no means be deemed a compulſive one; for at that time, it is well known, he did not poſſeſs the means of compulſion: a priſoner, without money, and without an army, he was ſolely indebted to them for his releaſe, and particularly to the Duan Sackaram. From the juſtneſs of his Hereditary Title, and this public acknowledgement of the different Miniſters and Maratta Chiefs, the Government of Bombay thought they might alſo with great propriety recognize him. Accordingly the public Envoy of the Company at Poonah, who then repreſented the Engliſh Nation, did, in the Name of that Nation, formally acknowledge him, and renewed with him the Treaties and friendſhip entered into with his anceſtors. I conceive that this act was as generally obligatory on the whole Nation, as any other Treaties of Peace and Alliance formed previous to the exiſtence of the Governor General and Council.

Excluſive of our public acknowledgment of him as the ruling Power eſtabliſhed at Poonah by the conſent of all parties, it muſt be obſerved, that we had in ſome degree a previous obligation to recognize him alone as rightful Heir of the Family of Badjerow. Our agreement with the firſt Peiſhwa, Badjerow Ballajee, was rather, on his part, a perſonal than a national one; nothing is mentioned in it of the Maratta Government; it was a friendſhip between him and the Company, eſtabliſhed by a Treaty ſigned in his behalf by his Brother, Chimnajee Oppah, which Treaty is the baſis of all our Rights and Pretenſions in the Dominions of the Peiſhwa. This perſonal friendſhip is confirmed by a Minute on the Bombay Records, which declares all your Treaties null and invalid in the extinction of the Peiſhwa family. It was on this footing that in the year 1761 Ragoba, when Regent before, requeſted our aſſiſtance againſt the Nizam in behalf of the young Peiſhwa, Mhadoo Row. Nothing of the Maratta Government was mentioned; he pleaded, that in virtue of our ancient friendſhip with the family, it was incumbent on us to aſſiſt him in that time of diſtreſs. Poſſeſſed with theſe ideas, and deeming the reigning diviſions a fit opportunity to compaſs the Views of the Company, the Government of Bombay early directed the Preſident at Poonah to ſound whether Ragoba would want our aſſiſtance; and at a time when perhaps it might have been done to advantage, they never once thought of treating with his rebellious ſubjects, deeming it totally incompatible with our engagements and friendſhip with the Peiſhwa, and conſequently a groſs and open violation of our faith.

On this footing alone, the Britiſh Nation ſeems doubly bound to make the Reſtoration of Ragoba the primary object of the intended Negociation. Though our ſolemn acknowledgments of him, and the renewal of friendſhip pledged to his Anceſtors, does not perhaps imply any actual obligation to aſſiſt him; yet, in Honour and Juſtice, we were certainly bound not to acknowledge any other Government at Poonah, till he had formally relinquiſhed all title to it; or till his utter depreſſion, by deſtroying all hopes, had authorized our treating with the ruling Powers, in order to prevent a general interruption to our affairs. This virtual obligation was confirmed by a ſolemn Treaty, whereby we not only renew our acknowledgment of his right, but engage to ſupport him in it againſt the Uſurpation of the Confederacy. Much has been already urged reſpecting the validity of our engagements to him by that late Treaty; and it yet remains to be ultimately decided how far that Treaty was legal and warrantable by the Act of the Legiſlature; but be that as it may, whatever may have been the culpability of the Government of Bombay in concluding it, if any regard is to be paid to National Faith, Ragoba has certainly a right to every advantage ſtipulated by it; for, till the contrary was publicly announced, the ancient Conſtitution of the Company certainly exiſted with reſpect to the Powers of India, and the acts and obligations of that Preſidency became the acts and obligations of the Nation.

Theſe words of Colonel Upton's Inſtructions, plainly acknowledge the juſtneſs of Ragoba's title, and clearly define the nature of the two parties; Ragonath Row is the Peiſhwa, or Chief Ruler of the Maratta State, but he was obliged by the miniſterial party to quit that Capital. It muſt be remembered, that this party was by no means a general aſſociation of the moſt reſpectable Maratta Chiefs to expel him from the Government for his Crimes or Incapacity, but a partial combination of a few, who, to gratify their ambition and intereſt, firſt releaſed him from impriſonment, raiſed him to the Government, of which he became the rightful poſſeſſor, and then, from the ſame motive, entered into a rebellious confederacy to expel him from that Government, in order to uſurp it themſelves. To theſe worthy characters is the Repreſentative of the King of England to apologize for having aſſiſted their lawful Prince, whoſe right to Government his Nation had before in the moſt ſolemn manner recognized, and renewed with him the Treaties and perſonal Engagements before entered into with his anceſtors. This ſacred Character, againſt whom Rebellion is Death, conſents to countenance and acknowledge their uſurpation in open violation at a ſolemn Treaty previouſly entered into by his Nation, in which they engage to aſſiſt the rightful Prince in the recovery of his Dominions from that very uſurpation.

Had the abandoning of Ragoba proceeded from a deteſtation of his crime, a pacific diſpoſition, or a ſentiment of the juſtneſs of the Miniſters to govern, the equity of the motives might have apologized for the infidelity of the act; but his actions will effectually contradict every ſuch ſuppoſition, as the price of our neutrality is to inſiſt on part of the very Territories which was the ſtipulated reward of our aſſiſting Ragoba, and if this is refuſed, I am at a loſs to conceive what elſe he is to do, but contradict the pacific declarations he ſet out with by a denunciation of hoſtilities; for ſurely he was not deputed in ſo exalted a character, and with ſo much parade and expence, merely to apologize to the Miniſters, and beg of them Salſette and Baſſein.

But, ſetting Honour and National Faith aſide, I will proceed to the conſideration of the purpoſes intended to be effected by Colonel Upton's Embaſſy.

The words of his inſtructions beſt define them, "to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace between the Maratta Government and the Preſidency of Bombay," and "to obtain a Confirmation to the Preſidency of the Iſlands of Salſette and Baſſein." Theſe points he is to conſider as indiſpenſable. If I may venture to judge further of the deſigns and wiſhes of this Government, it is alſo no inconſiderable object with them ſo to accommodate matters, that after ſecuring to the Company the Territories in queſtion, they may remain totally neutral and unconcerned in any further parties or reſolutions which may ariſe in the Poonah Durbar, and not be compelled to draw their ſword in future, but on the juſt grounds of defending their own abſolute and unqueſtioned rights.

If, by the Maratta Government, is meant the miniſterial confederacy, there is no doubt that Colonel Upton will ſucceed in being able to conclude a Treaty of Peace with them. Nine men embarked in a rebellious deſign to uſurp a Government from its rightful owner, will, no doubt, in the deſperate ſituation they were reduced to, gladly embrace the proffered friendſhip of the Britiſh Nation; but I cannot conceive how the uſurped Power of theſe nine men, diſavowed and abandoned by the moſt reſpectable Chiefs of the Maratta Empire, can well be deemed the Maratta Government, or a temporary agreement with them, a Treaty of Peace with it.

However pacifically inclined the Miniſters may be for the the preſent, I much doubt whether they will accede to the Conditions which are to be ſtipulated on the mere footing of a neutrality. Should any of the Maratta Chiefs have joined Ragoba, they certainly will inſiſt on effectual aid from us. Should he be deſerted by all, and a Fugitive in one of our garriſons, they will hardly conſent to the ceſſions to be inſiſted on by Colonel Upton: judging by themſelves, they will give no credit to his menaces. The precipitate manner in which the apprehenſions of this Government led them to direct the abandoning of Ragoba; the excuſes ſent from hence, the apologies to be made to our Ambaſſador, all beſpeak us in their opinion, under the influence of ſome ſecret fear, or conſcious weakneſs. They know that with the Forces of Bombay alone, it is impoſſible to attack them with any probability of ſucceſs. They are alſo ſenſible that unleſs we can retain the peaceable and undiſturbed poſſeſſion of them, the Territories we demand will by no means counterbalance the loſſes we ſhall ſuſtain by the ſtoppage of Trade, the ruin of our Merchants, and the depredations it is in their power to commit.

But whatever temporary calm our preſent accommodation may produce, many circumſtances concur to warrant the juſteſt apprehenſions, that we muſt infallibly in the end either cede the Poſſeſſions we may now acquire, or have a much more difficult taſk on our hands, than the re-eſtabliſhment of Ragoba. I will ſuppoſe for a moment every thing adjuſted with the Confederates, and Ragoba quietly acquieſcing for the preſent in whatever we may chooſe to ſtipulate for him. To make this tranquillity durable, we muſt be aſſured that his reſignation and content will be laſting.—The character of Ragoba is rather propitious to ſuch a hope; he is ſomething advanced in years, and the various turns of fortune that he has experienced, has given his mind ſo religious a bent, that it would better ſuit his diſpoſition to be the miniſtering Brahmin of a Pagoda, than Conductor of the Maratta empire. It is not however in Human Nature for him patiently and quietly to ſubmit to the uſurpation of a ſet of men, whoſe only views are to raiſe themſelves on the ruins of his family: Were we free from apprehenſions on his part, the character of his Son Imrut Row, muſt preclude all hopes of tranquillity; he is a youth of great natural parts, and of an active, daring, and aſpiring genius; a firm union of the confederacy might perhaps enable them to withſtand their attempts, but it is compoſed of men of ſuch jarring intereſts, that when they are not in arms againſt Ragoba, they muſt naturally diſunite. Their common danger, when they had every thing to fear from our junction, could hardly contain their mutual miſtruſts and jealouſies of each other's views, from diſſolving their league. They conſiſt of Rajahpute Chiefs and Brahmin Miniſters; on a ſettlement, the Rajahputes will be demanding Jaghiers; this the Miniſters will be averſe to, as ſuch grants diminiſh the Revenues, which is the principal object of their aims. Excluſive of this, it is well known that a rancorous and deadly hatred has long ſubſiſted between Sackaram Bapoo, and Nanah Furneeze, who are the two leading Miniſters in the confederacy, and the latter is the man of moſt influence and ability. Ragoba is generally eſteemed by all men for his charitable and unoppreſſive character, and if he only quietly waits the diſunion of the Confederates, the wiſhes of all Parties, aided by the influence of thoſe who have ſhown themſelves throughout particularly attached to him, muſt in the end, I think, infallibly reſtore him to the Government. In ſuch caſe, it is eaſy to judge what probability there is of our peaceably retaining the ceſſions of the Miniſters.

A circumſtance occurs to me, in conſidering the plan of Colonel Upton's Negociation, which is not unworthy of attention. It moſt unfortunately happens, that every one of the Diſtricts which he is inſtructed to demand, are, from the nature of their tenure, either totally out of the power of the Miniſters to grant, or it would be totally inconſiſtent with common juſtice for us to accept them at their hands. The nature of the Guicawar tenure has been ſufficiently explained, not to perceive at one glance that the Poonah Durbar cannot grant to us the Moiety of the Revenues of Broach, which is the ſole right and property of the Guicawar. Salſette and Baſſein are by no means a part of the Maratta Dominions; they are the Family Property of the Peiſhwa, granted by the Raja Shaa to his Predeceſſor Badjerow Ballajee; they belong as much to Ragoba in quality of heir, as the Diſtricts of Calcutta do, to the Company; from him alone can we with juſtice and propriety receive them: or, from the indiſputed Heir of the Peiſhwa Family, admitting from a moment that the infant Madoo Row Narrain could be clearly deemed ſo, can we with juſtice accept his Patrimony from the Miniſters, who have been acceſſary to the Murder of his Father, and expelled his Uncle from the Government, merely becauſe they make his name a ſanction to their Uſurpations? Appendix. No. 89.

Such being the reflections which occurred to me on the preſent plan laid down to Colonel Upton, as the object of his Negociation, I deemed it incumbent on me, as your Servant, and a Member of the Britiſh Commonwealth, ardently to embrace any opportunity that might offer, to lead back this Government as far into what appeared to me the right road of good policy, as circumſtances would admit: and Ragoba having addreſſed them a letter, regarding his claim by the late Treaty concluded with him, I imagined they might again become the ſubject of their deliberations, I therefore under the 18th inſtant, propoſed another plan of accommodation, which you will pleaſe to obſerve is a medium between his conditional re-eſtabliſhment, and the confirmation of the Authority of the Miniſters.

Copy of a Letter from William Tayler, to the Honourable the Court of Directors.

Though ſo many days have elapſed ſince the delivery of the above plan, I have not yet been honoured with a reply to it; and begin therefore to be apprehenſive, ſhould it even be approved, leſt any turn of Affairs may have produced an accommodation, and Colonel Upton find Ragoba in the Government; how in ſuch caſe he could act with propriety, and effect the purpoſes enjoined him, I confeſs myſelf at a loſs to diſcover. The arguments and apologies ſtated in his Inſtructions can, on no account be enforced to Ragoba, who on the application for Salſette and Baſſein, would naturally tell him, That he had been deceived by the Government of Bombay into a Treaty for their aſſiſtance, and that depending on our Good Faith, he had preferred our Nation to every other reſource; and that for the firſt time it had been ſported with, as the Government of Bombay muſt have well known their ſubordinate ſtate; That, therefore, he had only to expreſs his concern at the delays having forced him into other meaſures, and to form other connections; and appealed to the Equity of our Nation, whether we ought not to reſtore Salſette, being his Family Inheritance, and all the Territories he had ceded to us, and aided us to get poſſeſſion of.

I have the honour to be, with the greateſt reſpect,
Honourable Sirs,
Your moſt faithful and moſt obedient humble Servant,
W. Tayler.

Copy of a Letter from William Tayler to the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the United Company of Merchants of England, trading to the Eaſt Indies.

Honourable Sirs,

Since cloſing my addreſs to you of the 26th, I have received a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating, dated the 29th ultimo, containing ſome Advices, very important in the preſent ſituation of your Affairs with the Marattas. See Append. 88.

Appendix. No. 89.

As any delay might render it uncertain whether this would reach the Saliſbury, I take the liberty to incloſe you a copy of my Addreſs of this date to the Governor General and Council on this occaſion, which will fully inform you of the nature of theſe Advices, and of my ſentiments regarding them.

I cannot help here again lamenting the total inefficacy of my late Repreſentations to this Government with reſpect to our Engagements with Ragoba; for in the delicate and critical ſituation to which their conduct has brought you, it ſeems to me very probable, that his reeſtabliſhment without our aid may enſue; in which caſe we muſt probably for ever, relinquiſh all hopes of compaſſing your Views in the weſt of India.

I have the honour to be, with the greateſt reſpect,
Honourable Sirs,
Your moſt faithful
Calcutta, and moſt devoted Servant,

Honourable Sirs,

Appendix 88.

I have this inſtant received the accompanying Letter from the Honourable the Governor General and Council, in anſwer to mine of yeſterday; and as their determination on this point muſt be intereſting to you, I ſend it by a boat expreſs, in hopes it may yet overtake the Saliſbury.

The remarks and conjectures contained in my letter to them of yeſterday, are ſufficient comments on their Reſolutions not to alter their conduct with the alteration of circumſtances, as they point out all the evil conſequences that are likely to enſue.

I am with the greateſt reſpect,
Honourable Sirs,
Your moſt faithful
Calcutta, and moſt devoted Servant,

Copy of a Letter from William Tayler to the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the United Company of Merchants of England, trading to the Eaſt Indies.

Honourable Sirs,

By the ſhip Hillſborough I now do myſelf the honour to tranſmit you Duplicates of my ſeveral Addreſſes of the 26th, 29th and 30th of November laſt.

I am ſorry it is not in my power to communicate any certain Accounts of the State of your Affairs in the weſt of India, for, notwithſtanding that by their Letter to me of the 29th November, the Honourable the Governor General and Council deemed Colonel Upton to be near the end of his journey, yet no intelligence has been received of his arrival at Poonah. The letter which has been lately ſent from the miniſterial party to this Government, has no doubt been duly forwarded in the public Advices by this ſhip. I underſtand it contains a menace to proceed to hoſtilities, unleſs this government comes to an immediate accommodation of matters, a preliminary ſtep to which, I learn, is to be the reſtoration of Salſette, and the other places ceded to us by the Peiſhwa, of which we have poſſeſſion. This I am inclined to think is rather a bravado than their real intentions; for, by advice I received yeſterday from Gepal Row, the brother-in-law of Ragoba, the Intelligence communicated to me by Colonel Keating, as mentioned in my Addreſs to you of the 29th November laſt, is rather confirmed, with the additional circumſtance of the Peiſhwa's Army having given the Miniſterialiſts a ſignal defeat near the Paſs of Soingur, which leads from Guzerat into the Diſtricts of the Poonah Durbar; but of this, though related on ſeeming grounds of authority, I am afraid to ſpeak with certainty, as I have not received Advices of this or any other matter from the Government of Bombay; and it ſeems reaſonable to expect, that had this intelligence been well founded, they would doubtleſs have informed me of it.

Upon the whole, I cannot help again lamenting that the Governor-General and Council would neither permit the Government of Bombay to proceed in their engagements with Ragoba, nor entruſt to them the accommodations they had determined on. In either caſe I can confidently aſſert, that at this hour you would have been in quiet poſſeſſion of an increaſed Revenue of 22 lacks, with all the advantages ſet forth in my firſt addreſs to this Government. Affairs would have been in tranquillity in the weſt of India, and your Commercial Concerns proceeding in their uſual channel; inſtead of which you may perceive the uncertainty of your political ſituation there, and the probability there is of being either farther embroiled in military operations, or making conceſſions equally inconſiſtent with your intereſt and honour. I learn by private accounts, that the vend of your Woollens and Staples is totally at a ſtand, as (though contrary to their agreement with the Government of Bombay) the Miniſterialiſts do not ſuffer the Merchants to come down to trade: At any rate this ſeaſon bids fair to be a very unfortunate one for the private Merchants, from this cauſe. And ſhould the next produce another ſcene of hoſtilities, as this effect would of courſe continue, I am afraid many new opulent Merchants of Bombay and Surat would be reduced to infinite diſtreſs, beſides a very conſiderable loſs that muſt enſue to you by the failure of Cuſtoms.

I have the honour to be, with the moſt profound reſpect,
Honourable Sirs,
Your moſt faithful and
Calcutta, moſt devoted Servant,
20th January 1776. W. Tayler.

Extract of Bombay Secret Conſultations, the 17th February 1776.

PRESENT.

The Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor,

The Honourable Dan. Draper, Eſquire,
Thomas Moſtyn,
Robert Gordon,
Andrew Ramſay,

Mr. Fletcher indiſpoſed, Mr. Tayler at Bengal.

A country veſſel being bound to Buſhire, an Addreſs was prepared to the Honourable Company, to be forwarded over land as follows:

To the Honourable the Court of Directors for Affairs of the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the Eaſt Indies.

Honourable Gentlemen,

A country veſſel proceeding to Buſhire at a very ſhort notice, we can only adviſe your honours of a few intereſting particulars. Colonel Upton arrived at Poonah Dhur on the 30th December; and we wiſh we were able to give you a more ſatisfactory account of his proceedings; he is very reſerved in his Advices to us, and has only acquainted us at times with what turn his Negociation was likely to take. In the beginning of January he ſeemed to think that the Treaty would be concluded in a few days; and on the 1ſt and 6th of this Month, he adviſed us, that from converſations he had held with the Miniſters, it was very probable the Treaty would not take place at all. Under the 10th he ſays, that appearances are ſtill againſt it, but proceeds to aſk us, what

Privileges

Privileges we would wiſh to have ſtipulated in caſe Factories ſhould be eſtabliſhed at Baſſein and Jamboſeer, ſuppoſing that the ceſſions in the Guzerat Province ſhould not be retained by the Company?

We know not what circumſtances may have occaſioned theſe Reſolutions in Colonel Upton's Negociations, but we begin to be apprehenſive that he will conclude a Treaty upon terms very injurious to the Company. We however immediately repreſented that your Intereſt required he ſhould inſiſt upon the ceſſions made by the Treaty being confirmed: That he could not recede from his demand for Baſſein conſiſtently with his Inſtructions; and that a Factory either at that place or Jamboſeer would be attended with no manner of benefit to your Honours. If this repreſentation could have no effect, we can only lament that the time when the exiſtence of this Preſidency is at ſtake, we are not at liberty to purſue our own meaſures for its welfare.

It has been our ſtudy ever ſince Colonel Upton's arrival at Poonah, to give him all the information in our power, ſo as to enable him to form the moſt competent judgment of your Political and Commercial Intereſts at this Preſidency; for however inconſiſtent we may deem the conduct of the Governor-General and Council, in intruſting this Negociation to a Lieutenant Colonel entirely unacquainted with either, while a Member of our Board is expreſsly appointed by you, reſident at the Maratta Durbar; yet it becomes our Duty to uſe every precaution to prevent your intereſt from ſuffering by this conduct, which we are well ſatisfied it would do, were we, from a falſe punctilio, to with-hold from Colonel Upton that uſeful and neceſſary information which our vicinity to Poonah, our conſtant intercourſe and frequent Negociations with the Marrattas, enable us to give him; and we cannot doubt when your Honours are fully apprized of our Proceedings upon this occaſion, that you will not only do us the juſtice to teſtify your approbation thereof, but that you will likewiſe favour us with your ſentiments at large upon the conduct of the Governor-General and Council, in wreſting out of our hands the management of a Treaty ſo immediately connected with this Preſidency, and which muſt relate almoſt to its particular intereſts.

Ragoba's Army and our Forces are now encamped near Surat. We thought it abſolutely neceſſary to continue them with him until the Treaty is concluded, and Colonel Upton is convinced of the good effects of this meaſure. If, however, he ſuffers the Miniſters to amuſe him much longer, we are very apprehenſive Ragoba's diſtreſs for money, which is become very great by this long inaction, may cauſe his friends to deſert him, and his army to diſband for want of pay, which the Miniſters would not fail to take advantage of. We have particularly cautioned Colonel Upton on this head, and ſtrongly recommended to him to procure conſiſtent and honourable Terms for Ragoba, without which we are aſſured the Peace cannot be permanent.

The Governor General and Council have authorized us to return the Ceſſions made by Futty Sing, being the Guicawar Share of the Broach Revenues of the Diſtrict of Coral, Vercoo, and Chickley, until a Definitive Treaty may be concluded with the Miniſters; but we have little reaſon to hope they will depart from their original Plan for terminating our differences with the Marattas.

Mr. Tayler having addreſſed your Honours very fully by the Salisbury, reſpecting the Negociations at Calcutta, it is not neceſſary for us to ſay any thing further on the ſubject.

We remain, with the utmoſt reſpect,
Honourable Gentlemen,
Your moſt faithful and obedient Servants,

Bombay Caſtle, 17th Feb. 1776.

W. Hornby, &c. Council.

Appendix. No. 90.

APPENDIX, No. 90.

Extract of Secret Letter from Bengal, dated the 5th Auguſt 1775.

Par. 10. SOON after the date of our laſt Diſpatch, we received information on private authority, from various channels, of a Treaty having been concluded between the Preſidency of Bombay and Ragoba, the Competitor for the Peiſhwaſhip of the Maratta ſtate at Poonah; and that in conſequence their Troops had taken the field to his aſſiſtance. So extraordinary a ſtep on their part, without any previous communication with us, could not fail to alarm us; and we were preparing, on the faith of that Intelligence, to write them, teſtifying our general diſapprobation of the meaſures, when we received Advices from them, dated the 31ſt March, which fully confirmed the former reports, and conveyed to us a Copy of the Treaty which they had actually concluded with Ragoba.

11. After maturely weighing theſe Advices, we were more confirmed in our former opinion of the danger and impropriety of this Alliance. It appeared to us, that they had undertaken to conquer the whole Maratta Empire for a man who is incapable of affording any effectual aſſiſtance in it. The plan which they had adopted for the execution, ſeemed to aim at no deciſive conqueſt, but to portend an indefinite ſcene of troubles, without an adequate force, without money, or certain reſources for extricating them out of it; nor do we find they have any plea of injuries ſuſtained from the party which they have made their enemy, or of their obligation to defend him whoſe cauſe they have eſpouſed.

12. We therefore ſolemnly proteſted againſt the Preſident and Council of Bombay, for all the conſequences of this Alliance, and peremptorily required them to withdraw the Company's Forces into their own garriſon, in whatever ſtate their affairs might be, unleſs the ſafety of the Troops ſhould be endangered by an inſtant retreat. We alſo remarked to them the indecency and illegality of their conduct in concluding an offenſive Treaty, and engaging in actual War, without ever conſulting our opinion, or paying the ſmalleſt regard to the Authority veſted in us by a ſolemn Act of the Legiſlature, to ſuperintend and controul the Political Affairs of all India. We told them, that for the paſt we would content ourſelves with leaving with them the reſponſibility of their own actions; but for the future, in caſes of the like inattention, we would not fail to exerciſe the Power veſted in us by the Act of Parliament for the ſupport of our Authority.

13. In order to render more effective our Reſolutions on the ſubject of theſe meaſures, we agreed to depute a proper Perſon to Poonah, to treat with the Rulers of that State for a laſting Peace between them and us; and that the baſis of this Treaty ſhould be an inſtant ceſſation of arms, and a confirmation to the Company of the poſſeſſion of the Iſlands of Salſette and Baſſein. The perſon we have choſen for this commiſſion is Lieutenant Colonel J. Upton, who is actually ſet out from hence on his way thither, provided with proper Inſtructions and Credentials; he goes by the way of Allahabad and Calpee, at which laſt place he is ordered to wait for the neceſſary Paſſports from Suckeram Baboo, the ruling Miniſter at Poonah, who has been written to for that purpoſe, and previouſly acquainted with the motives of his journey. We have duly adviſed the Preſidency of Bombay of this appointment.

14. Since the receipt of the firſt advices of the Maratta War, we have had various Accounts of the different operations in it: By the lateſt it would appear that Ragoba is in a proſperous way, although he has met ſome checks and diſappointments, particularly in an Engagement with the Enemy on the 18th May laſt, in which a conſiderable detachment of our Troops were ſurrounded and almoſt cut off; they ſuffered a loſs of no fewer than ſix killed and five wounded out of fourteen European Officers who ſerved in the detachment. Seeing however a poſſibility of Ragoba's being eſtabliſhed at Poonah before Colonel Upton's arrival there, we thought it proper to add to his Inſtructions a power of treating in that caſe with that Chief, on the ſame Terms which we had preſcribed for his Negociation with the oppoſite party.

15. We have kept you regularly adviſed in the other department, of the ſeveral Remittances we have made to the Preſidency of Bombay. The Treaſure we ſent by the Seahorſe arrived very opportunely for them; but as the new troublrs in which they have involved themſelves increaſed their wants, they have made freſh demands upon us; we have however refuſed to comply with them, till ſuch time, as we have an anſwer to our late order, and a particular account of their operations in conſequence: we alſo informed them, we were greatly ſurprized at their appointmen of Mr. Moſtyn, as a Deputy to attend Ragoba in the field, without informing us of the deſign and object of his commiſſion; and we have directed them to tranſmit to us a Copy of his Inſtructions, and roo rder him to ſend to us by every opportunity, ſucceſſive intelligence of the ſtate of Ragoba's Affairs. We have further required of them, Copies of their Correſpondence with Colonel Keating, the Commanding Officer of the troops in the field.

Extract of Secret Letter from Bengal, dated 11th September 1775.

Par. 5. The Preſident and Council at Bombay now finding that no dependance can be placed on the Aſſiſtance of Ragoba's Forces, and that the whole burthen of that extenſive War is conſequently fallen on the Company, have applied to us and to the Fort Saint George Preſidency for a Reinforcement of Men, which they ſay Ragoba has earneſtly ſolicited for, promiſing to make over additional advantages to the Company for the ſervices of ſuch extraordinary aſſiſtance. They have alſo requeſted that we would furniſh them with a liberal ſupply of money to carry on their operations.

6. Having before ordered the Council at Bombay to withdraw their Army from the ſervice of Ragoba, in whatever ſituation their affairs might be, if it could retreat with ſafety; and as Colonel Upton will in all probability arrive at Poona, and enter upon his Negociations for a Peace with the Maratta State before any Force could be brought to join the Bombay Troops, even ſuppoſing them not to have been withdrawn; we directed the Preſident and Council at Fort Saint George not to comply with the requeſt of the Bombay Preſidency for a Re-inforcement, and repeated our Orders to the latter to recal their Army immediately to their own Garriſons, and to confine their views to the protection of the Company's Poſſeſſions, including Salſette and that moiety of the Revenues of Broach, lately held by the Guicawars, which Futty Sing, who by the lateſt advices from Bombay appeared to have gone over to Ragoba from the Miniſterial party, had ceded to the Company. For a more particular account of theſe matters, we beg leave to refer you to the Copy of our Conſultation incloſed.

7. We have the greateſt reaſon to hope that Colonel Upton will find the Miniſtry at Poona inclined to liſten to his propoſals for an accommodation, and that he will be able to effect an honourable and advantageous Peace for the Company, as the Chief of the Maratta State at Poonah has written to the Nabob of Arcot, to beg his intereceſſion with the Engliſh to deſiſt from any further Hoſtilities, or continuing to afford any ſuccour to his Uncle Ragonaut Row.

8. You will ſee by our Proceedings, that the Governor-General, who had hitherto concurred with the other Members of the Board in diſapproving the conduct of the Preſidency of Bombay, and in ordering them to withdraw their Troops, as likewiſe in the meaſure of the Negociation, which we are about to eſtabliſh with the ruling Power at Poonah, judged proper on this occaſion to depart from the ſyſtem which he had before purſued, by giving it, as his opinion, that the Requiſition of that Preſidency for troops and money ſhould be complied with. As his reaſon for having adopted theſe ſentiments cannot well be abridged without altering the force of them, we muſt beg leave to refer you to the Conſultations, not only for them, but the opinions of the other Members of the Board in reply to them.

9. We have agreed to extend our ſupply of money to the Bombay Preſidency in the courſe of this year, commencing from the 1ſt May laſt, to 20 lacks of rupees, including a ſmall amount for which their bills have been accepted ſince that date, and we have authorized them to continue drawing on us for that ſum at the moſt reaſonable exchange in their power.

Extract of a Secret Letter from Bengal, dated 20th November, 1775.

Par. 21. The Preſident and Council of Bombay, on the receipt of our letter, which totally diſapproved of their conduct in the part which they had taken in Ragoba's cauſe, deputed Mr. Tayler, one of their Members, to this Government, to repreſent, in the fulleſt manner, their motives for what they had done, and to exculpate their actions in our opinion; they adviſed us, at the ſame time, that Futty Sing, the Soubadhar of the Province of Guzerat, had come over to Ragoba's party, and engaged to ſupply him with the ſeaſonable relief of 26 lacks of Rupees, and that he had alſo made over in perpetuity to the Company, the Guicawar ſhare in the Revenues of the Town and Pergunnah of Broach, beſides the Diſtricts of Coriaul, Chickley, and Veriow.

22. Mr. Tayler on his arrival was introduced to the Board, and delivered a long ſtate of the Maratta Government and Connections, together with the reaſons of the Preſident and Council of Bombay for having entered into an offenſive Treaty with Ragoba, in the fulleſt manner; we alſo put various interrogatories to him reſpecting theſe matters, all which will appear at full length in our Proceedings, referred to in the margin, and will throw a conſiderable light upon the ſubject.

23. We were by no means induced to change the ſentiments we had formed of the precipitancy and impropriety in the conduct of the Preſident and Council of Bombay in the meaſures they had adopted; we have therefore made no other alterations in our former orders to that Preſidency for recalling their Troops within their own garriſons, and confining their operations to the defence of the Company's Poſſeſſions, including the newly-conquered Iſland of Salſette, than to extend that line of defence to the Countries lately ceded by Futty Sing to the Company.

24. Mr. Tayler conceiving that the Preſident and Council of Bombay would ſuffer great indignity by being wholly excluded from any ſhare in the Negociation with the Maratta Government, for a Definitive Treaty of Peace; and as from their vicinity and frequent communication with that people, they had better opportunities of becoming acquainted with the views and intereſts of the different perſons in Poonah Durbar than Colonel Upton, that they would therefore be the moſt proper perſons to conduct and execute the buſineſs entruſted to him. We replied, with aſſurances of our wiſh to ſupport the reputation and credit of their Government; and that, however we might be influenced by a confidence in their integrity, abilities, and ſtrict deſire to fulfil our intentions, we could not, conſiſtently with the Reſolutions and Orders which we had publiſhed and ſignified to the Miniſtry at Poonah, or with the dignity of this Government, which muſt be affected by their repeal, alter the appointment of Colonel Upton, or recall him from the duty on which he was engaged.

25. As there appeared to us a poſſibility that Ragoba, after the Engliſh Forces were withdrawn from him, might, by unforeſeen accidents be reduced again to apply for protection to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, we thought it right to provide for ſuch an event, and accordingly gave directions that an aſylum might in ſuch caſe be granted to himſelf and attendants.

26. We have heard from Colonel Upton, in a letter dated the 26th October at Calpee; he then expected to reach Poonah in five weeks. The Miniſters at Poonah are waiting with great impatience for his arrival, profeſſing themſelves as ſolicitous to forward the Peace on their part as we can deſire; at leaſt it appears ſo from all the letters and declarations of Succaram Baboo and Biſſarjee Pundit, the Miniſters at Poonah, to this Government. A total ceſſation of Arms took place immediately on the knowledge of our ſentiments and intentions. However, as Colonel Upton in his letters to us, mentioned a report that a large body of Marattas were in motion from Brampee towards Calpee, we have directed him to acquaint Succaram Baboo, that the Pacification ſhall be rigidly obſerved on our ſide, and that we expect the ſame good faith from him; but that if he ſhould put his Troops in motion to commence hoſtilities anew, we ſhould conſider ourſelves no longer bound to keep upon any terms with him.

27. The Nabob of the Carnatic hearing of our intention to depute Colonel Upton on this ſervice, wrote to us through the channel of Sir Edward Hughes, deſiring, as the particular friend and ally of the Engliſh, to be included in any Treaty which might be formed with the Maratta Government. We accordingly directed Colonel Upton to inſiſt on an Article in favour of the Nabob, declaring the long duration of our union with him; that it is ſupported by the ſtrongeſt ties of Friendſhip and Alliance; that the Company had ever conſidered his enemies as their enemies, and his friends as their friends: and we further directed him to require, that all the Mâratta Chiefs ſhould nominally and individually ſign their Names to and execute the Treaty.

28. As the Nabob of the Carnatic alſo acquainted us, that he had many Articles to propoſe for the Treaty, wherein the intereſts of his Government were deeply concerned, we requeſted that he would tranſmit them to us, and communicate them at the ſame time to the Preſident and Council at Fort Saint George, as the Company's intereſt at that place was ſo cloſely connected with his, that we might alſo have the advantage of receiving the ſentiments of that Preſidency upon them. We have ſince deſired permiſſion to employ Mr. William Chambers, the Perſian Interpreter at Fort Saint George, to proceed to Poonah on his part, and aſſiſt Colonel Upton in negociating ſuch Articles as it might be neceſſary to propoſe for his benefit. We have approved of his deputing Mr. Chambers, if the Preſident and Council ſhall ſee no objection to it; but we have poſitively forbid him from interfering in any manner in the Negociations of Colonel Upton, or from propoſing any thing for the Treaty but through him. Colonel Upton has been ordered to attend to his repreſentations, as far as may be conſiſtent with the tenor of our Inſtructions to him.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 11th December, 1775.

PRESENT.

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.

Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,

Philip Francis, }

RECEIVED the following Letters and Incloſures from Sir Edward Hughes.

Appendix. No. 91.

Coventry, in Madras Roads.

Sir, and Gentlemen,

I am honoured with yours of the 16th day of Auguſt, acknowledging the receipt of my letters, dated the 5th, 13th, and 19th days of July, and incloſing one from the Governor General, in anſwer to the Nabob of the Carnatic, which, at your requeſt, I returned to his Highneſs; and I believe the incloſed from him, which I tranſmit at his particular deſire, is an acknowledgment of the receipt of that anſwer, and of the perfect ſatisfaction he found in the peruſal thereof.

On the 3d of this inſtant, His Majeſty's ſhip the Coventry joined me here from Europe, and on the 11th the Sea Horſe arrived here again from the coaſt of Malabar, where Captain Farmer (as well as Governor Hornby) informs me there was no occaſion for his preſence at the time he left Bombay, the latter end of Auguſt. If there ſhould be hereafter any protection requiſite for the Trade, as I mean to ſail from hence on the 15th of the next month for that coaſt, with the Saliſbury, and the two ſhips above-mentioned, where I am to be joined by the Dolphin and Swallow (the former in her way to England) in order to refit at Bombay; whatever may then be in my power, ſhall be done for the ſervice of the Company, and ſafety of the Trade there; and I ſhall be particularly happy in receiving from you, Sir, and Gentlemen, any commands you may wiſh to honour me with on thoſe heads, or relative to the Treaty now coming forward between your Board, and the miniſterial party of Poonah.

I am, &c.
(Signed) Edward Hughes.

Madras, the 15th October 1775.

Sir, and Gentlemen,

I beg leave to incloſe you ſome Papers of intelligence copied from what Captain Farmer delivered to me on his return from Bombay, in His Majeſty's ſhip the Sea Horſe.

I have the honour to be,
Sir, and Gentlemen,
Your moſt obedient humble ſervant,

Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Council. (Signed) Edward Hughes.

Sir,

Purſuant to the Orders I received from you, the following is what I have been able to learn concerning the Eaſt India Company's Affairs in the Culph of Perſia.

About fourteen years ago, Meſſrs. Shaw and Gorden, the Company's Factors at Buſſorah, ſold a quantity of Woollens on truſt to one Hodjee Eſoof, a Turkiſh Merchant, who depending on his influence with the Government, conſtantly evaded, and at laſt refuſed payment for them: Whilſt this Debt was depending, the Baſhaw of Bagdad came down to Buſſorah with an army, in order to attack a certain Arab Shaik, called the Chaub, who with his veſſels and forces threatened Buſſorah. The Company's Chief there thinking this a good opportunity, applied to the Baſhaw for his interference in procuring the payment of Hodjee Eſoof's Debt, which he promiſed, provided they would aſſiſt him with one of the Company's cruiſers to attack the Chaub's veſſels. The Company had till then appeared merely as Merchants at Buſſorah, and the attack of this Shaik was their firſt deviation from that character. The Chaub by their aſſiſtance was driven away, and the Baſhaw returned to Bagdad. The Chaub, watching his opportunity in revenge for acting againſt him, ſeized two merchant veſſels: this hoſtility rendered the Trade to Buſſorah unſafe, till he was reduced. Expenſive Expeditions were fitted out for this purpoſe, and after various ſucceſs on the Company's ſide, the Chaub threw himſelf on the protection of Kherim Khan, the preſent Regent of Perſia, who is married to one of the Royal Family; and it is ſaid keeps the right Heir to the Crown of Perſia in confinement.

Appendix. No 91.

Kherim Khan, after overcoming his opponents, and quietly eſtabliſhing himſelf at Sehyraſh, it ſeems wiſhed as much as was in his power to reſtore the Trade of Perſia; and accordingly, in the year 1763 granted the Engliſh permiſſion to eſtabliſh a Factory, with certain privileges, at Buſhire, a place conveniently ſituated for the inland Trade with Perſia. Here they reſided without the leaſt moleſtation or apprehenſion of it till the above period, when an Envoy was ſent to the Khan, to acquaint him that the Chaub was their Enemy, and that they rather hoped he would aſſiſt them than ſhew him any countenance; but his negociations being ineffectual, and from the Khan's conduct the ſafety of the Company's Property at Buſhire ſeeming but doubtful, the Factory was withdrawn in 1769; and the Company, tired of the charges attending on ſeveral Expeditions to the Gulf, directed that it ſhould not be reſettled, but that they ſhould limit their views and Settlements in Perſia entirely to Buſſorah. I could not find that the Company ever were at open hoſtilities with the Khan. But the object of variance between them being long ſince removed by the death of that Chaub, (although there is ſtill a Chaub, who pirates as the former did, and has joined his Forces to Kherim Khan's againſt Buſſorah) he has frequently preſſed the Company to return to Buſhire, offering every advantage that they could aſk; but the Company's Orders are poſitive againſt it. The Khan conſtantly reſides at Sehyraſh, which he has made the Capital of Perſia; and from the accounts I have been able to gather from the beſt informed Armenians, there is every reaſon to ſuppoſe he would wiſh to be in amity with the Company, as they all agree in allowing, that he ſeems by every meaſure to wiſh the re-eſtabliſhment of Trade in his Dominions. He had however, and openly profeſſed, a perſonal enmity to Mr. Moore, the Agent at Buſſorah, who was always againſt the Settlement, as it did not anſwer to the Company before, and whoſe intereſt it certainly was not to effect a reconciliation with the Khan, becauſe, if the Factory at Buſhire ſhould be reſettled, it might prevent ſhips from going up to Buſſorah, to diſpoſe of the cargoes; in every one of which he has a certain profit, by one means or another.

The Khan's officers are in poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Carrack, and have a fleet of gallivats, which likewiſe pirate in the Gulf; but whether with or without the Khan's conſent is uncertain. It was part of this fleet that took one of the Company's ſchooners, with two civil Servants on board, in 1773, when the factors were obliged to fly from Buſſorah, on account of the plague; they were not at hoſtilities with the Khan, and he diſavowed any Orders proceeding from him for this action, but ſtill retained the two gentlemen at Sehyraſh, where he treated them very well. His reaſon for detaining them was, that their releaſe might be a weighty inducement for the Company to ſettle again at Buſhire.

Mr. Garden was ſent from Bombay, to endeavour to get theſe gentlemen clear; upon his application to the Khan, he releaſed them, and promiſed to return the ſchooner they were taken in; which however was not done at our departure.

The Factory was in April laſt once more eſtabliſhed at Buſhire, and by what I could learn, it will never pay the expence the Company muſt be at in keeping Servants there, as it appears to be a very poor place, not being able to ſell during our ſtay there but very few of their Woollen Cloths; the reſt came away under our convoy, and which is the only advantage the Company can expect from it: whereas, from Buſſorah they diſpoſe of the chief of their Woollens to Merchants, that tranſported them to Bagdad, and all that Country which trade with the Bengal piece-goods, and all the other parts of India, will be entirely loſt ſhould Buſſorah fall into the hands of the Perſians. The Agent of Buſſorah is now upon an amicable footing with Kherim Khan, but ſays, that he knows by long experience that the Perſians are a people not to be depended upon; for inſtance, their taking one of the Company's veſſels, and detaining two of their Servants at a time of profound Peace; and that the Turks never deceived the Engliſh.

The Muſkatters are the greateſt Maritime Power in the Gulf; they have ſeveral ſquare-rigged veſſels, beſides one large ſhip of 40 guns, and a number of gallivats, with which they generally go to collect the Tribute due to the Prince of Muſcat, who is called the Imaum, from certain Countries along the Coaſt to the ſouthward of Muſcat. The Company has always been at friendſhip with the Imaums of Muſcat, who earneſtly ſeek it for two good reaſons; one, that they repair and build all their veſſels at Bombay, and the other, becauſe they know the Company could at any time, as they are bad ſeamen (although the beſt in the Gulph) eaſily deſtroy their veſſels, without which they could not collect their Tribute to the ſouthward. They were fitting out with all the expedition they could, and expected to ſail in five days after our departure, all their fleet, which they ſaid would conſiſt of twenty ſail of ſquare-rigged veſſels, a number of gallivats and armed frankies, amounting in the whole to about one hundred ſail, with twenty thouſand land forces on board them, in order to relieve Buſſorah, which in all probability they will accompliſh if it is not taken before they arrive. They have detained one of Hyder Ally's veſſels that was going to aſſiſt the Perſians againſt Buſſorah; another of them was caſt away on that coaſt.

There is a Shaik at Ormus, who I underſtand has ſent ſome gallivats to aſſiſt Kherim Khan againſt Buſſorah, although he looks upon himſelf as quite independent of him, as does many other petty Shaiks from thence up the Gulph, that have gallivats and armed boats who pirate and ſeize upon all boats or veſſels whenever they can overpower them; thoſe that I have mentioned are the chief of them.

I am, with all due reſpect,
Sir,
your moſt obedient humble ſervant, (Signed) George Farmer.

Sea Horſe, Bombay, the 21ſt Auguſt 1775.

Sir Edward Hughes, Knt.
Commander in Chief of his Majeſty's ſhips in the Eaſt Indies.

Sir,

You mention in one of the letters I am favoured with from you, that the Preſident and Council of Bombay has wrote you relating the War, but very little or nothing concerning its cauſe; give me leave to inform you what I have been able to learn on that ſubject.

The Marattas formerly inhabited the mountainous and interior parts of India, and their Miniſters, men much famed for their wiſdom, were Bramins. It was contrary to their Caſt ever to go to War; but whenever they had occaſion to ſend out an army, the operations were planned by them, and the command given to Rajepours or Princes among them of a different Caſt. Theſe men, in proceſs of time, feeling the power they were inveſted with, one of them reſumed the Regal Power from the Bramins, ſtill keeping them as Counſellors of State, and the head of them as a State Priſoner, who was treated with all the outward ſhew of Royalty, and allowed a Revenue ſuitable to his rank. He inveſted this Rajeput with the outward appellation of the Firſt Miniſter of State, when in fact, by being at the head of the army, he had the whole power in himſelf; however, to this day this mock ſhew ſubſiſts.

The Mogul Emperors were never able to conquer the Marattas; for when the Moguls worſted them in the plains, they immediately retired to the mountains where they could not follow them, and when recruited, poured down their troops of horſe in torrents. At this time the army was raiſed by the Prince, who always commanded them in perſon; the horſes were all his own, of which conſiſted their Armies, and he never ſuffered any Fortifications to be raiſed in his Dominions for fear an Enemy ſhould get poſſeſſion of them, and by that means maintain a footing in their Country; whereas, if they entered it, as the whole Country was open to their horſe, which was their chief ſtrength, they would harraſs the enemy ſo much on every ſide, that they were glad to get back as ſoon as they could. Upon the downfall of the Mogul Empire roſe the Maratta Empire. Upon their diviſions the Marattas poured down their vaſt armies of horſe, by which means they ſoon got poſſeſſion of all the open Country adjoining to them, with ſome few of the fortified places, and penned thoſe up ſo cloſe that ſtill adhered to the Moguls, that theſe places were glad to pay them tribute, otherwiſe they would deſtroy every thing within the reach of their guns.

This great extent of dominion obliged them, like all other overgrown States, to ſend Governors to rule over the diſtant Provinces, which Governors by degrees raiſed themſelves to a kind of independence, as had happened to the Moguls before, and was the ruin of that State. Theſe Governors farmed the Revenues of the Province at a certain price, and were likewiſe obliged to ſend to the aſſiſtance of the Prince a ſtated number of horſemen fit for the field; ſo that what he could ſqueeze out of the ryots or farmers over and above was his own. Their continual extortion upon theſe poor people ſoon depopulated the Country, and inſtead of their horſe, which formerly belonged to the Prince, they now contract with the chief men of the Country for a certain ſum of Money, to bring ſuch a number of horſemen fit for action into the field. Theſe great men agree with the common men under them, they finding their own horſes, for as much leſs than what is allowed them as they can, ſo that the common men's whole fortunes conſiſt in their horſes and arms, as they are obliged to find another horſe if any thing happens to the one they ride. I leave you to judge, Sir, thus circumſtanced, whether it is not reaſonable to think that they will avoid as much as poſſible coming to action, eſpecially againſt a regular army, and a good train of artillery. Having given you the outlines of what I have been able to get any inſight into concerning this people, I now come to inform you of what is ſaid to be the cauſe of the preſent War between the Company and them.

Ragoba's elder Brother governed thoſe extenſive Territories with great prudence and ſtrictneſs, inſomuch that I was well aſſured that you may leave all your property in the middle of the highway, without any one's daring to meddle with it, let it lay there ever ſo long. To bring them to this, he was obliged to deſtroy whole Diſtricts of banditti, which ſtruck ſuch a terror into others, that it ſtopped all pilfering of that nature, although the great men ſtill kept grinding the ryots as before.

At his death he left two Sons, the eldeſt of which reigned ſome years after him with reputation, and died about the age of twenty-five years. Suſpecting that his Uncle Ragoba was entering into ſome cabals againſt him, he ſhut him up a cloſe priſoner, where he was at the time of his death. His Brother was then ſeated on the throne, a young man about ſixteen or ſeventeen. At this juncture Ragoba's party, not thinking themſelves or him well uſed, gathered to a head, and attacked the Prince; he run for protection to the priſon where his uncle was confined, who took him in his arms and promiſed his protection; The rebels followed, and threatened that they would kill them both if he did not immediately let him go, which he did, and they directly put him to death. The nephew left a wife that proved to be with child: Ragoba's party placed him in the ſupreme command; and the Miniſters, who are chiefly Bramins, and ruled every thing in the former reign, fled, and raiſed what troops they could. Ragoba ſoon found himſelf ſtraightened for want of money, as the Treaſury was quite empty; however he found means to raiſe an army, and marched after the Miniſters. About this time the Queen, who they had with them, was brought to bed of a ſon, that is now living, which, with the odium he lay under as being thought acceſſary to his Nephew's death, and the want of money to pay his Troops, occaſioned the deſertion of them; ſo that without ever ſtriking any effectual ſtroke againſt the Miniſters, after various incidents which happened to him, he was obliged with only a few followers to make the beſt of his way to Surat, from whence he applied to the Government of Bombay to aſſiſt him in regaining the poſſeſſion of Poonah, the capital of the Maratta Dominions; which, as ſoon as he quitted, the miniſterial army returned to and proclaimed the young Prince, whoſe Mother, an intriguing artful woman, well ſupports the pretenſions of her Son. Appendix No. 91.

Ragoba does not diſpute his right to reign, only alledges that he has the ſole right to be Regent during his minority. What he would do, had he him in his power is hard to ſay.

Juſt at this time the Governor and Council of Bombay ſent ſome forces, and took Salſette from the Marattas, under pretence that the Portugueze, who had a large armament at Goa, were going to attack it; and ſhould they ſucceed, it was more than probable they ſhould never have the ſame opportunity of gaining it to Bombay, as undoubtedly it is of the greateſt utility to it; but the pretence for taking it cannot be juſtified according to our notion of War and Peace. To ſupport what they had done, conſidering the diviſions among the Marattas, they thought it right to join Ragoba, who promiſed them chart blank; and I was told, upon his depoſiting twelve lacks of rupees they promiſed to ſupport him with 1,500 Sepoys and 700 European Troops, until they placed him in poſſeſſion of Poonah; he paying to the Company a lack and a half of rupees per month, to defray the expences of theſe Troops, and after the War was over, to give up as much Territory as would bring in to the Company a clear Revenue of twenty lacks of rupees per annum. Upon this Colonel Keating was ſent with an army a good deal ſhort of the ſtipulated number to Cambay: Ragoba went with him from Surat. After their arrival at Cambay, and ſome movements there, about five thouſand horſe, which was very far ſhort of what Ragoba expected, joined Keating and him; with this force they marched towards Brodera, where they made a Treaty with Futty Sing, by which Ragoba was to have received twenty ſix lacks of rupees from him for the Nabobſhip of Guzerat, and leave to remain in poſſeſſion of Brodera (both which had been abſolutely promiſed to Govindrow his elder brother, who had ever been a faithful friend of Ragoba's). The conſequence of this Treaty was, that Govindrow has withdrawn his forces from them, and refuſes to give them any aſſiſtance; on the contrary he does not ſcruple to ſay, that Keating and Shaw, (Chief of Broach) are infamous liars, and may meet with the juſt reward of their infidelity when they leaſt expect it. On the other hand, Futty Sing has paſſed the day of payment with a tender of three and a half lacks only, in conſequence of which, Keating has ordered out an eighteen pounder, a ſix, and two howitzers, to attack him in Brodera the 11th Auguſt. This advice arrived at Bombay the 23d, as the Proclamation for a Ceſſation of Arms between them and the Maratta was reading. The Orders for the Ceſſation came from Bengal, together with a very long Chawbuck or Letter.

Mr. Taylor, one of the Council and a Member of the Secret Committee, was preparing to ſail for that place, in order to ſolicit leave to proceed in the War, until all and every part of the Treaty with Ragoba is fulfilled. This is no more than they owe to themſelves, and indeed to the intereſt of their Maſters; for however raſh and inconſiderate the commencement of this War may have been, they are evidently gone too far to retreat without the greateſt danger of looſing not only Salſette, but Bombay itſelf. Beſides, their Arms on this ſide India would ever after be held in contempt. Only think of their expending ſo many men, for they have loſt a number, without coming to any deciſive actions; ſuch ſums of money, money, and vaſt quantities of ammunition and ſtores, at the diſtance of 500 miles from Bombay, whilſt the avowed object of the War is to be in poſſeſſion of Poonah, and placing Ragoba on the Peiſhwa Mamud. Would a ſtranger to the geography of the Country believe then that Poonah is only 70 miles from Bombay, and only one paſs of any difficulty between them, which is ill fortified and worſe defended in point of Troops? The real caſe is, by all that I could any way diſcover, that half of Colonel Keating's army could march from Bombay to Poonah in four days, in ſpite of all that they have in that Country to oppoſe him; ſo that nothing but the expectation of a great body of horſe joining Ragoba at Cambay, could induce him to take that roundabout way.

Appendix. No. 92.

APPENDIX, No. 92.

From the Nabob of Arcot; received the 10th December.

I SOME time ago ſent you Papers of Intelligence which I had received from the army of the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah, from Poonah, &c. and I now incloſe for your peruſal a News Paper from Poonah, dated the 29th Shabaun (25th of October.)

Tranſlation of a Letter from Kiſhen Row, dated the 29th of Shabaun (25th October) received the 22d of Ramzaun (16th November).

Namah Purnaveeſe is lately arrived at Poonah, and having raiſed near five lacks of rupees, will diſpatch it to Hurry Pundit in a day or two; Hurry Pundit marched from Berhanpore, croſſed the Teetie, and went to Turgaon. Having had an interview with Sucaram Pundit, and conſulted with him, he is on his return to the army.

A detachment of 4 or 5000 cavalry, which he ſent into the neighbourhood of Soonkur, have reduced Navabpore and all the other garriſons of Gobind Row Kaunkwar to his obedience; Amrut Row and Gobind Row, &c. having aſſembled 5 or 6000 Horſe are arrived in the neighbourhood of Aklaſore. This lays Hurry Pundit under the neceſſity of ſupporting his forces in that part, and prevents his coming to the preſence.

During the ſeaſon of the Duſſarah, ſeveral perſons undertook to ſatisfy the forces here, and they will very ſhortly march from hence.

I formerly wrote you that the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah was about to conſer the office of Dewan, on Sumſun ul Dowlah; the particulars are as follows: The Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah at firſt ſent a meſſage for that purpoſe; the negociators of this buſineſs are, the Wife of the Nabob Shaheed, the Wife of Nizam ul Dowlah, Gulum Sieed Khan, Nuſſeeb Yar Khan, Zabit Jung, &c. but the Mother of Sumſum ul Dowlah, will not agree or even hear it mentioned.

Kiſhen Row Billal and Naunajee Pundit are arrived here. I hear that Kiſhen Row has concluded a Treaty on the following terms, with the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah:—"That the remainder of the Jaghire, amounting "to 65 lacks of rupees, which was formerly ſtipulated, "and of which 48 lacks have been already given, ſhall now be completed." A liſt of the places to be given up in conſequence of this agreement, is preparing in the Duftar; they will probably be ſurrendered to the ſaid Nabob. Should he come to the aid of the Poonah Miniſters in perſon, there is no doubt of their reſigning the ſaid places to him, but if he only ſends an army, I cannot ſay whether they will be given to him or not. As ſoon as I can gain any certain intelligence on this, I will tranſmit it to you.

APPENDIX, No. 93.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 8th of January, 1776.

READ the following Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton:

Gentlemen,

I was laſt night favoured with your letter of the 20th of October. The tranſlation of the letter which the Governor General was pleaſed to write to Succeram Bahoo, in conſequence of my application, was not incloſed (as you mentioned its being) it is however of no great conſequence. I am greatly obliged by your having wrote to him.

I was prevented going the Janſi road by the Goſſaines having beſiged that place; and the country between Janſi and Saugur (the intended route) being all in arms, the Raja and Jummedars againſt each other, and the whole of them trying to make themſelves independent. I wrote to the Narwar Raja for permiſſion to travel through his country, which he granted; but the independent Rajas, &c. through whoſe country I am to paſs, made further application neceſſary.

I had permiſſion from them to paſs, but it retarded me much. From Narwah I travelled entirely through Ragoba's country, obliged always to ſend forward for permiſſion to go on, the country every where either in arms, or ready to be ſo, or the people ſhut up in their forts. I am now in the country of a Patan, Nabob Fiaz Mahomed Cawn, who grants me a free paſſage through his country; but his people behave ſturdily. I have not yet received a line from Poonah. The Sirdars of the different diſtricts have not been apprized of my travelling through their country, or know any thing of my buſineſs. And I am now within 70 coſs of Berhanpore, the head quarters of their army. On the Eugene road, which you will obſerve in Jeffery's map, and which is about 60 coſs to the weſtward of Bopall, they have an army in motion of about fifteen thouſand men, I imagine marching to the relief of Janſi. Twenty-five of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah's horſemen have joined me, theſe I take on to Poonah, and have wrote to countermand the reſt of the eſcort provided by the Nabob, which, indeed, I have repeatedly done ſince my having left Calpee. It might have appeared that I travelled ſlow, from not recollecting that at Benares I had to ſettle the mode of being ſupplied with money to fix my route, and get proper people to attend me, expecting little or no aſſiſtance from Poonah. At Allahabad I was to receive the Nabob's eſcort and cattle to carry the camp equipage; from thence I was obliged to travel by land (not being able to go up the Jumna) and laboured hard to get up the tents, &c. from Calpee to Hemet Behaudre's encampment, about 30 coſs; the country quite laid waſte, the people every where in arms, and the Maratta Pendaries plundering on all ſides; we were obliged, therefore, to travel very circumſpectly. I am now going on from 20 to 25 miles a day, over a country very mountainous, and filled with rocks and jungles. I have wrote to Berhanpore to aſk the Sirdar to lay bearers for me and Captain M'Pherſon to Poonah. If he complies with my requeſt I ſhall not be long getting there.

To the ſecond paragraph of your letter of the 20th October, I ſhall be very particularly attentive. Trivial formalities or punctilios ſhall never obſtruct any buſineſs I may have to tranſact.

Reſolved, that the following letter be written to Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 25th November, dated at Bopawl.

We ſend you copies of letters which we have lately received from Madoo Row Narrain, and from Succeram Baboo, together with our anſwer to the latter. We earneſtly recommend to you the greateſt diſpatch poſſible in bringing your Negociations to a concluſion.

APPENDIX, No. 94.

Appendix. No. 94.

From Madho Row, dated the 28th of Ramazun (22d November) received the 1ſt January, 1776.

ALTHOUGH I have repeatedly written to you, yet a long ſpace of time is paſt without my having had the pleaſure of any letter in anſwer, for which I am very anxious. Several letters addreſſed to my Miniſters, Siccaram Pundit and Bellajee Pundit, on the ſubject of increaſing the friendſhip between us, have been received, and anſwers returned from this quarter; ſince which, though a long time is elapſed, nothing which I deſired has been carried into execution.

The afore-mentioned Miniſters have the firmeſt reliance on your wiſdom and foreſight, and have inſpired me with the ſame ſentiments. Your negligence in this buſineſs is the ſubject of the greateſt aſtoniſhment. It is the deſire of the ſaid Miniſters to eſtabliſh the ſtricteſt friendſhip and connection between the two States, which appears to them a matter of mutual advantage. You have been informed of all particulars by the letters already written you from this quarter; in conſequence of which I have now to requeſt that you will not give ear to the repreſentations of ſelf-intereſted perſons, but will purſue ſuch meaſures as may conduce to the advancement of our mutual friendſhip, and to the ſettling of the Affairs now before us to our mutual ſatisfaction. As I am the cauſe of what has happened, I will exert my utmoſt endeavours for the eſtabliſhment of peace and unanimity. Let me be ſpeedily favoured with your ſentiments, for, in conſequence of the length of time which has elapſed, the Miniſters are filled with uneaſineſs with regard to the event of this buſineſs, and are very anxious for an anſwer. Any delay will probably prove the means of increaſing the troubles. For the reſt, you are the maſter to act as you think fit.

From Siccaram Pundit, of the ſame date, received the 1ſt January, 1776.

I have been favoured with your agreeable letter, under date the 28th of Rajub, or 23d of September, in which you inform me of the departure of Colonel Upton, who being inveſted with full power to negociate a Peace between the Two States, will proceed to Poonah by the route of Illahabad and Calpee: and you deſire, that I will give directions to the Foujidars, Gomaſtahs, &c. that no objection be made to his paſſage, with ſuch things as he has with them, and that they will furniſh him with every kind of neceſſary he may ſtand in need of. This letter reached me the 21ſt of Ramzaun (15th of November) and I perfectly underſtood the contents. Agreeable to your deſire, the ſtricteſt orders were diſpatched to the Foujidars, Talookdars, &c.

Four months, my friend, are paſſed ſince any news has been received of Colonel Upton, and though daily newſpapers arrive from that quarter, there is no mention of him. This is a matter of great ſurprize. In your firſt letter you informed me, that you had written in expreſs terms to the Governors of Bombay and Surat, to recall their forces from the alliance of Ragonaut Row, and to ceaſe hoſtilities againſt the armies of the Government, which they would doubtleſs comply with; and you deſired, that I would forbid the Troops of this Government to commit any act of hoſtility againſt the Engliſh. Placing the utmoſt confidence in what you wrote me, I gave orders accordingly to the Commanders of the Forces for a ceſſation of arms, and informed the ſaid Governors of the ſubject of your letter, to which they returned me an evaſive anſwer; of this I have already written you. They have not to this time recalled their forces from thence, but inſtead thereof have reduced ſeveral Towns in the neighbourhood of Goujeraut, although the roads to the ſeveral Ports are ſhut up, yet ſhips are ſent to collect ſtores. This being the caſe, the veſſels of this Government oppoſe and obſtruct them in their paſſage to and fro; this you may have heard from report. The Sirdars of this Government have lacks of men under their command, and are filled with bravery. How long are they to remain idle ſpectators of the greateſt loſſes? They will now ſet about recovering the Towns which have been taken from them. Did the ſaid Governors pay any attention to your orders? They would without heſitation give up all the conquered towns. If they retain them, no blame can be thrown on the Sirdars.

From the fame of the good faith of the Engliſh Nation, I make no doubt that the ſaid Governors would comply with your directions; but the contrary appears, as they are every minute committing acts of hoſtility. I had determined from what you wrote me, to ſet about accommodating the diſputes between the Maratta States and the Engliſh Nation, who, in violation of former Treaties have commenced hoſtilities; but I am now of opinion, that the ſaid Governors are averſe to an accommodation, and have made intereſted and partial repreſentations to you, with a view to prevent its taking place. The delay in the arrival of your Vakeel, and in putting a ſtop to the flames of War, are reaſons for my belief; I therefore write to requeſt that you will weigh the Repreſentations of ſelf-intereſted People, in the balance of wiſdom, and will apply to the accommodation of all differences, which is the part of true wiſdom. To ſum up all in a few words, the Governors do not recall their Forces from the alliance of Ragon au Row, or deliver up the conquered Towns; and although the roads are ſhut up, ſhips paſs backwards and forwards, which inſtances are not conſiſtent with peace and friendſhip, but may be conſidered as the foundation of a quarrel; I therefore think it proper to give you information of ſuch tranſactions.

From Ballagee Pundit; of the ſame tenor and date.

N. B. Duplicates of the two laſt Letters of the ſame date were received at the ſame time with the originals.

Appendix. No. 95.

I have received the Letter which you wrote to me the 22d November.

I have repeatedly written Anſwers to your ſeveral Letters, and diſpatched them to you in duplicate by different roads, to enſure the ſafety of their conveyance. It is with ſurprize I received the information of your having given orders for ſtopping the Ports, and for intercepting our veſſels on the Malabar Coaſt, as this meaſure is ſo contrary to your Profeſſions of Peace and Friendſhip. By a Letter received from Colonel Upton, written a few days after the date of yours, I learn that he had advanced as far as Bopaul, within ſeventy coſs of Burhampore, but that his journey had been very much retarded by the obſtacles which he had met with in the way, for want of the Paſſports which you had promiſed to ſupply him.

From a principle of juſtice, and from the ſentiments of moderation which have been earneſtly enjoined us by our Superiors, we have put a ſtop to the Hoſtilities which had taken place between the Government of Bombay and your forces; we are in hopes that you have imitated our example, and that by a reciprocal deſire to promote an amicable concluſion to theſe troubles, all differences between us may be happily ſettled, on the moſt equitable and permanent footing: but if you ſhall reſolve to adopt a different conduct, and in violation of your promiſes renew the War againſt us, whilſt our forces remain in peace and in inaction, we ſhall then be remedileſs, and you muſt anſwer for the conſequences. We have given ſtrict orders to the Preſidency of Bombay to abſtain from all further hoſtilities, and to withdraw their Forces to their own Poſſeſſions. We are informed that they have literally complied with theſe orders, you can therefore have no excuſe if any act of yours ſhould be the cauſe of reviving the War.

Agreed, That copies of Mado Row Narrain's Letters, and of Succeram Baboo, together with the Board's reply, be ſent to Colonel Upton.

APPENDIX No. 95.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, 18th December 1775.

RECEIVED, the following Letter from Fort Saint George, together with a Letter from Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We now incloſe you a Duplicate of our laſt Letter, alſo a Packet which we have received under your Addreſs from the Preſident and Council at Bombay.

We have the honour to be, &c.

Fort Saint George,
25th November 1775.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

We had the honour to addreſs you the 4th inſtant, and agreeable to what we then mentioned, we ſhall now proceed to reply more fully to your Letter, dated 18th July.

We are much concerned that you ſhould ſtill think you have reaſon to complain of our not being ſufficiently full and explicit in our Advices reſpecting our Proceedings in conſequence of the Treaty with Ragoba, which we cannot but in a great meaſure attribute to your Honour, &c. as not having then received our letter, dated the 30th April, of which you have not acknowledged the receipt, and we flatter ourſelves that all cauſe of complaint on this head will be entirely removed by our ſucceeding letters, and the information Mr. Tayler will perſonally give you.

In compliance with your requiſition, we now tranſmit a complete ſeries of our correſpondence with Lieutenant Colonel Keating, beginning with the inſtructions given him on his firſt proceeding with our troops to join Ragoba; and we ſhall not fail regularly to tranſmit copies of all Letters that may in future paſs between us. We alſo incloſe a copy of the inſtructions we had prepared for Mr. Moſtyn, by which your Honour, &c. will perceive that the objects of his intended miſſion were only to preſs Ragoba to march with all poſſible expedition towards Poonah, to haſten the accompliſhment of ſome points of the Treaty, and to relieve the Commanding Officer from all charge of buſineſs with the Durbar, and Negociation with the Country Powers. The Treaty with Ragoba had been executed long before our determination for ſending Mr. Moſtyn to the army, and we did not conceive the meaſures to be in the leaſt repugnant to the directions contained in your Letter of the 8th March, being ſolely intended to haſten the concluſion of the War which had been already begun. Mr. Moſtyn, however, was prevented from proceeding to join the army by the unuſual ſeverity of the monſoon; and this deſign was afterwards entirely dropt, upon the receipt of your letter dated the 31ſt May.

We moſt ſincerely regret the reſolution your Honour, &c. have taken to ſend Lieutenant Colonel Upton to treat with Seccaram Bappoo at Poonah, without waiting for further advice from us. We did entertain hopes we ſhould have convinced your Honour, &c. of the Juſtice of Ragoba's pretenſions to the Peiſhwaſhip, and that we ſhould have met with your ſupport and aſſiſtance in the proſecution of the War; when we did not doubt but in the courſe of the next campaign we ſhould have conducted Ragoba to Poonah, and fulfilled our engagment with him. Theſe hopes we now fear are not only defeated by this meaſure, but the dignity and conſequence of this Preſidency amongſt the neighbouring Powers very ſenſibly injured. We cannot think we were unreaſonable in our expectations, that the Negociation in which the intereſts of this Preſidency were ſo materially concerned, ſhould have been carried on in concert with us, and which indeed we concluded to be your intention from the tenor of the Governor General's Letter to Saccaram Bappoo; but when we advert to the extract you have favoured us with from Colonel Upton's Inſtructions, we find him veſted with the moſt extenſive Powers, and not the leaſt reference to be made to us for Advice or information, the want of which is avowed in theſe very Inſtructions, and which from the vicinity of Bombay to Poonah, we could convey to him in two days. Notwithſtanding this, we thought it our duty to afford Colonel Upton every information we could give to aſſiſt him in the execution of his important Commiſſion, being ſatisfied that he would only receive partial accounts from Poonah, both of Ragoba and Affairs in general; and we at firſt propoſed to ſend a Gentleman fully inſtructed to meet him there, to confer with him reſpecting the Intereſts of this Preſidency ſo far as you have committed them to his charge; but not knowing whether this ſtep might be agreeable to your Honour, &c. we diſpatched a letter to him by different routes, a copy of which is incloſed, wherein we made him this propoſal; or if he preferred information by letter, we offered to give him the moſt full and ſatisfactory advice on every point he might wiſh to be informed of. We have not yet received an anſwer to this Letter, or any advices of the Colonel's arrival at Poonah, though we heard ſo long ago as the 9th ultimo, that he was arrived at Calpe, on the River Jumna.

The letter from Colonel Keating, dated 30th Auguſt, will ſhew you in what manner Ragoba received the news of your Honours, &c. determination to open a Negociation with the Miniſtry, and of your poſitive orders for withdrawing our forces from his army, and a ceſſation of hoſtilities taking place. This ſubſequent Letter, dated the 2d September, will apprize you of the Peiſhwa's reſolution to wait patiently the reſult of the Negociation; but in the mean time, he demands very pertinently from what ſource he is to ſupply his exigencies, until the concluſion of this important adjuſtment, which muſt neceſſarily take up ſome months; and then makes the following propoſals, which we intend to communicate to Colonel Upton, when we hear of his arrival at Poonah; and we beg leave ſtrongly to recommend to your Honour, &c. to obtain them for him, as being in our opinion extremely moderate, and ſtrictly conſiſtent with juſtice.

Ragoba firſt propoſes, that half of the Country, the produce of which is reſerved for the maintenance of the reigning Peiſhwa, ſhould be put into his immediate poſſeſſion; or, leſt this propoſal ſhould take up too much time in the diſcuſſion, that a monthly ſtipend be paid him from the Circar of Poonah, for the ſupport of himſelf and his adherents, until ſome agreement may be concluded. This ſtipend his agent here propoſed ſhould be lacks of rupees per month.

He next propoſes, and entreats, that before you come to any deciſion reſpecting his pretenſions to the Peiſhwaſhip, you will attend to every evidence that can be produced by either party; when, if it ſhould be proved to your ſatisfaction, that a Son of the late Narron Row does exiſt, let ſuch Son be appointed Peiſhwa; but he then, as next of blood, claims the office of Dewan for himſelf, until the Minority of this ſuppoſed Son expires, at which period he will reſt ſatisfied with a proviſion independent of any employment; if, on the contrary, he ſhould prove to your Honour, &c. that this Child, ſaid to be the Son of Narron Row, is a ſuppoſititious one, and which he doubts not to make evident, he in ſuch caſe pleads, that as the Son of Bajerow, he is juſtly entitled to the Peiſhwaſhip of the Maratta Empire; with which, if he is inveſted, he promiſes to fulfil the whole of his engagements with the Honourable Company.

We have ſent Directions to Colonel Keating to retire with our troops into our Pergannahs contiguous to Surat or Broach, as ſoon as the weather and roads will permit; and as by the agreement for the ceſſation of arms every thing was to remain on the ſame State until a general Pacification might be concluded, we have ordered him to give effectual protection to theſe Pergannahs, and to repel any hoſtile attempts that may be made on them. Mr. Tayler will have taken poſſeſſion of moſt of the Pergannahs ceded to us ſo long ago as the month of April laſt.

In the courſe of Colonel Keating's correſpondence you will obſerve, that he has at different times obtained grants from Futty Sing and Ragoba, of ſome other ſmall Diſtricts contiguous to Surat and Broach. He lately obtained from the former the grant of a Pergannah called Siner, producing a Revenue of upwards of a lack of rupees a year; but as it lay out of the line of Territory we wiſhed to poſſeſs, and your Honour, &c. had forbid us to aim at further acquiſitions, we immediately gave directions for its being reſtored.

We beg leave to obſerve, in reply to a remark in your letter dated the 10th July, that we acquainted your Honour, &c. in our letter, dated the 31ſt March, of Ragoba's having made a depoſit in jewels, valued at ſix lacks of rupees, as a ſecurity for the expences of the War; and, by the Treaty, it appears that ſeveral Diſtricts were made over to the Company, the Revenues of which were to be particularly aſſigned for the payment of the monthly ſtipend of rupees 1,50,000. Ragoba has ſince paid a further ſum of about two lacks of rupees, as mentioned in Colonel Keating's letter, dated the 30th Auguſt, and we had every reaſon to expect more conſiderable ſums would have been received from him, in conſequence of the Treaty with Futty Sing, who has already paid about ten of the ſtipulated twenty-ſix lacks, and we are perſuaded would have paid the whole, and that Ragoba would have found no difficulty in raiſing money as he advanced, had we continued to ſupport him.

Whatever may be your determination with reſpect to the matters at preſent in agitation, we aſſure you we will moſt ſtrictly conform to it; and we requeſt in the moſt earneſt manner, that you will not continue to withhold the neceſſary ſupply of money for our expences, from an apprehenſion that we ſhall apply it to any purpoſes inconſiſtent with your directions; and likewiſe, that you will, if poſſible, aſſiſt us in paying off our Bond Debt, which, unleſs we are confirmed in poſſeſſion of the places ceded to us by the Treaty, we ſee no proſpect of being able to effect ourſelves. Appendix. No. 95.

We ſhould have been more particular in explaining the pretenſions of Ragoba to the Peſhwaſhip, had not Mr. Tayler been commiſſioned to give you full information on that head; he will alſo be able to acquaint you with many particulars you may want to know reſpecting Futty Sing and Govind Row, the Sons of Dormajee, or, they are commonly termed, the Guicawars, the mention of whom ſo frequently occurs in the letters from Lieutenant Colonel Keating. We ſhall only here obſerve, that this family, till lately, collected a ſhare of ſix tenths of the Broach Revenues in participation with us; and that it was their ſhare we wiſhed to obtain, and not the Mogul's, as mentioned in your Inſtructions to Lieutenant Colonel Upton. The Mogul's ſhare devolved to us when we reduced the Town, and Futty Sing having lately given us Phirmaun for the Guicawar ſhare, we are now entitled to the whole Revenue of that Diſtrict.

Bombay Caſtle, We have the honour to remain, &c. the 14th October, 1775.

Ordered, That the foregoing letter from the Preſident and Council of Bombay lie for conſideration until the arrival of the original, the letter now before the Board being a duplicate, and no incloſures having been ſent with it.

APPENDIX, No. 96.

Extract of Secret Letter from Bengal, dated the 15th January, 1776.

Par. 38. WE have received a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated 25th November, at Bepaul, about 70 coſs north of Burhanpore, in which he ſaid, he had met with continual obſtacles in travelling through a Country where the people were all in arms, and not having received any Paſſports from Poonah, he had been much delayed.

39. Letters of the 22d November, very lately arrived from the Peiſhwa and Miniſtry at Poonah, declare, that orders to ſecure a free paſſage to Colonel Upton, had been iſſued to the Fouſdars, &c. but that no accounts of him had reached Poonah. Theſe letters are ſo uncommon in their nature, and the ſtyle ſo different from any thing we could have expected, that we take the liberty to refer you to the tranſlations of them. They ſhew little pacific inclinations at firſt profeſſed by this party, but ſeem to be written on the grounds of falſe information, as they accuſe the Preſidency of Bombay of inattention to our orders, in ſuffering the army to act offenſively after we had declared ourſelves for Peace; though we are well aſſured both by the Preſidency and by means of Colonel Keating, that all operations were immediately ſuſpended, and that the army only waited for the fair ſeaſon to retire. The Miniſtry likewiſe think ill of our ſhips ſailing from Port to Port as in the time of Peace, and tell us that they will be intercepted by the Maratta veſſels on the coaſt, and the Ports ſhut againſt them. They further complain of the ſuſpence they are kept in; and threaten, unleſs the places which we have taken be delivered back immediately, that they will ſet their army in motion for the recovery of them.

40. We cannot reconcile theſe Declarations to the reduced ſtate in which the Miniſters appear, by advices from Colonel Keating to Mr. Tayler, dated 29th October, which he communicated to us. The contents of theſe are, that Moraba Furneſee, one of the principal Perſons in the Poonah Durbar, had come over to Ragoba's intereſt, with with ſeveral other men of power; that the miniſterial army was reduced to 12,000 men at the utmoſt, and much diſpirited; that the Miniſters had retired to Poonder Fort, and were afraid to truſt themſelves out of it, and Ragoba's Party daily gained ground. We believe both theſe relations may be magnified by the ſanguine ideas of either intereſt; but we hope that a general equilibrium will be preſerved until Colonel Upton's arrival at Poonah, to give weight to his Negociations. In the mean time, we have repreſented to the Miniſters our motives for putting a ſtop to the late hoſtilities on the Malabar ſide of India, hoping they would entertain a reciprocal deſire to conclude matters amicably; but if they reſolve to purſue a different conduct, and not to abide by the promiſes they had made, we ſhould be under the neceſſity of oppoſing them, and leave them to anſwer for having drawn the conſequences upon themſelves.

41. We have lately received a letter from the Preſident and Council at Bombay, containing an account of Ragoba's reception of the intelligence of our having deputed a Perſon to Poonah, and Propoſals made by him in conſequence; the firſt of which is, that a Diſtrict or monthly ſtipend be immediately aſſigned him for the ſupport of himſelf and his adherents until the Negociations are concluded. Secondly, That his pretenſions to the Peiſhwaſhip ſhould be diſcuſſed; and in caſe he proves that Mahda Row Narrain is only a ſuppoſititious child of the late Peiſhwa, his Title to it as next Heir ſhould be acknowledged, otherwiſe, by the ſame pretenſions, he claims the Regency until the Son of the deceaſed Peiſhwa becomes of age to act for himſelf, at which time he will reſt ſatisfied with a penſion. As the letter which conveyed this information to us is a duplicate, and as none of the original papers referred to in it were incloſed, we have ſuſpended the conſideration of it until we received the original.

APPENDIX, No. 97.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, dated the 5th February 1776.

PRESENT.

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.

The Honourable George Monſon.
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

RECEIVED an Original Letter from the Preſident and Council at Bombay, dated the 14th of October, duplicate of which letter is recorded in conſultation of the 18th December laſt; but as the papers referred to in it did not arrive with the duplicate, Ordered, That they be entered after this day's Conſultation.

As the correſpondence with Colonel Keating is very voluminous, and as it muſt appear on the Proceedings of the Council at Bombay;

Ordered, That only Abſtracts of it be entered on the Proceedings of this Board.

Ordered, That the Incloſures in the above Letter be entered after the Conſultations.

Abſtract of Letters to and from Lieutenant Colonel Keating.

No. 1. His Inſtructions.

2. Letter from. Arrived with the Troops at Surat; 27th February; propoſes marching to Cambay at the proper ſeaſon.

3. Letter from, to the Preſident. State of the engagement between Ragoba and the miniſterial party; with its conſequences.

4. Letter to. To obſerve the Directions of the Chief and Council at Surat; and deliver them a Copy of his Inſtructions.

5. Letter from, dated Surat 9th March. Propoſed attack on the miniſterial forces in this neighbourhood, deferred; is determined to proceed to Cambay the next ſprings, and carries with him the 18 pounders.

6. Letter from, dated off Sevally, 15th March. Is on his way to Cambay. requeſts diſcretional Orders; his reaſons for it; delivers his ſentiments on the moſt eligible means for affording Ragoba aſſiſtance. Ragoba conſents to pay the expence of tranſmitting ſtores and proviſion. Has attacked the Marattas in the neighbourhood of Surat, and put them to flight.

7. Letter to, dated 23d March. Inſtructions for his conduct when at Cambay. Diſapprove of his having attacked the Marattas near Surat. Will ſend a detachment of 150 Europeans to join him in two days.

8. Letter from, dated 21ſt March, near Cambay. Arrived and encamped at Narangzeer on the 20th. Ragoba received advices from his army, under Conderaw and Govindrow. The ſtate thereof. A party of Ragoba's diſperſed troops join him, and bring account of more expected ſhortly. Has an interview with the Nabob, who aſſures him of every aſſiſtance in his power. Relates Intelligence of the State of the Miniſterial Party. Great confuſion in their Councils.

9. Letter to, dated 31ſt March. Send a Detachment of Sepoys. Require him to effect a junction with Ragoba's army, and proceed to Poonah with all poſſible diſpatch.

10. Letter from, to the Preſident, dated 30th March. Futty Sing deſires leave of the Nabob to ſend two men to camp; on which account he wrote him to join forces. His reaſon for it. Further letters from Futty Sing. His firſt letters intercepted by Hurry Punt Fuckia. His Letters anſwered by Fuckia; their contents. Expects Govindrow and Candarow will join him without delay, the Enemy only 14 coſs diſtant. Receives hourly intelligence of their intention to attack him. Is well prepared to receive them. Requeſts more Subaltern Officers; Luxaman Goſſault appointed Vackeel to Dada Saib. Propoſe 5 lacks to be ſent Dada Saib, as the only means of inſuring ſucceſs. Means for Repayment, with the Advantages the Company are to reap from it.

11. Letter from, dated 31ſt March. Requeſt that the time of the ſprings may be fixed on for his departure, ſhould he not be able to effect a junction with Ragoba's army. Nothing but Money wanted to enſure ſucceſs to Ragoba's affairs.

12. Letter to, dated 22d April. Complains of his neglect in not adviſing them of the ſtate, &c. of the army. Are not able to ſupply Ragoba with money.

13. Letter from, dated Gunnich 18th April. Is joined by a party of Govindrow's troops. Plan propoſed for forming a complete junction. Futty Sing determined on entering into a Treaty. Madajee Scindia has offered his aſſiſtance, and marches on the 17th to join the army. Repreſents the diſtreſs Ragoba is in for want of money, and the terms he offers for obtaining it. Ragoba to defray the expence of tranſporting guns, &c.

14. Letter from, dated Darrah 19th April. Has joined the whole of the Peiſhwa army. Enforces the immediate neceſſity of ſupplying Ragoba with caſh. Has reſolved in aſſiſting him out of the Military Cheſt; and writes to Surat for a ſupply.

15. Letter from, dated 20th. Covering triplicate of the above.

16. Letter from, dated 21ſt. Is joined by 10,000 of Govindrow's troops; the baggage, &c. left under care of his Uncle Condaro, 60 coſs off.

17. Letter from, to the Governor, dated 23d. The army 50,000 ſtrong. The Treaty with Futty Sing under Signature.

18. Letter to, dated 3d May. Diſapprove of his having ſupplied Ragoba with money. Poſitively direct direct him not to advance any more. To tranſmit Copy of the Treaty with Ragoba, and a Cypher with which he is to correſpond.

19. Letter from, dated near Hoſſam, the 28th April. His reaſons for not writing oftener. Comes to a battle with the confederate Army; Particulars thereof. Ragoba's troops did not engage. Will ſend a more circumſtancial account of it in his next. Again urges the neceſſity of ſupplying Ragoba with money. The preſent plan and deſigns of Ragoba.

20. Letter from, dated Mawtrah, 3d May. Meets the Enemy on his march towards Kereah; engages them, and puts them to flight, with the loſs of near 1,200 killed and wounded. Diſadvantage of being incumbered with a large bezar; on which account, intends perſuading the Peiſhwa to change his route, and go towards Poonah.

21. Letter from, dated Neriad, 10th May. Seanes Mantrah on the 5th, and encamped at Coomleah; which place he leaves the next morning; and after marching a few miles, is interrupted by the whole of the miniſterial army. Comes to an engagement; Particulars thereof. Left Hydrabad on the 7th, for Neriad; is ſuddenly attacked at Dabaun. Throws the Enemy into diſorder, and obliges them to retreat in the utmoſt confuſion; ſince which, they have not ſhewn themſelves. Encamps at Neriad on the 8th; Deſcription of the place. The Peiſhwa intends laying a tax on it. Refers to Mr. Lovibond's letter for the Particulars of the Treaty with Futty Sing. Wiſhes much to croſs the Mybié before the rains. Urges it to the Peiſhwa, who gives his reaſons againſt it. The Peiſhwa promiſes a donation of 30 lacks to the Army as ſoon as he is in poſſeſſion of Poonah. Gives his reaſons for advancing the Peiſhwa money. Has got a depoſit of jewels to the amount advanced.

22. Letter from Mr. Lovibond to Colonel Keating, relates the treatment he met with, while negociating the Treaty with Futty Sing.

23. Letter from, dated Betaſſee 19th May. Particular account of their march from Neriad, with the ſhameful retreat and loſs ſuſtained in an engagement near Noppier on the 18th; imputes the backward behaviour of the Peiſhwa's troops to their want of pay: Loſs on the Enemy's part very great.

24. Letter from, dated Suban the 26th May. His march from Battſee to the above place. Has not ſeen any thing of the Enemy ſince the engagement on the 18th; imagines the loſs they ſuſtained that day has totally diſperſed them, if not entirely ruined their cauſe. Is drawing near Broach; ſupplies will be ready on his arrival there. Is much ſolicited by Govindrow to form the ſiege of Brodua; declines it. Expects to be on the banks of Nubedah in two days. Has not been able to find out the reaſon of the ſhameful conduct of the 2d Company of Grenadiers. On the 18th, a party of the Enemy appear before the Camp, but on firing two or three ſhot, they retired.

25. Letter from, dated Jaraſeer 3d June. The want of money has cauſed almoſt a general defection among Ragoba's troops. Govindrow refuſes to croſs the Nubedah. The Arabs refuſe to march without all that is due to them. The moſt eligible ſtep now to be purſued is, to oblige the Enemy to croſs the Nubedar. Will be obliged to get a reinforcement at Broach. Urges, in the moſt preſſing terms, that Ragoba may be ſupplied with five lacks.

26. Letter from. Has been confined by a ſevere illneſs. On the 8th marched from Jerraſeer, intending to croſs the Nerbedah, but found it impoſſible. On the 9th reached Seruttah; there got intelligence of the Enemy's being encamped cloſe to the Paſs of Bavapoor. On the 10th, diſcovered the Enemy, who on ſeeing them fled in confuſion. His reaſons for again attempting to march to the ſouthward. Ragoba determined on not croſſing the Derbedah. Reſolved on going to Duboy. On the 12th the Monſoon ſet in very violently, which prevented his reaching Dubbay till the 19th. Govindrow deſirous of reducing Brodera. Is in hopes of obtaining Sunnuds for the Province of Ahmood. In conſideration of his acquieſcing in Ragoba's Propoſal at Rowa Peer, Futty Sing declares his readineſs to join him immediately; offers him a Paſs for himſelf and attendants. Is in hopes of obtaining ſome valuable acquiſition for the Company, on whatever terms Ragoba and the Guicawar Family may ſettle. Mr. Shaw joins him, and makes Ragoba a public viſit and preſent. Ragoba encamped on the River Ore. The miniſterial army gone to the Inalive Country, and are much diſaffected. Report of many of them being drowned at the ſetting in of the rains. State of his Army, &c. The Peiſhwa requeſts the Europeans may be completed to the Terms of the Treaty, for which he will pay a further ſum. Appendix. No. 97.

27. Letter to, dated 13th July. Approve his intention of croſſing the Nerbedah and Tappy; concur in the reduction of Brodera; the conditions on which it is to be undertaken. Approve his having held a Court of Enquiry on the Second Company of Grenadiers, and requeſt his opinion on the proceedings. Lament the effects of the irregularity of Ragoba's troops. Do not think proper to alter their Reſolution for not ſupplying Ragoba with money. Diſapprove of his having accepted a Phirmaund for a donation to the Army.

28. Letter from, dated 8th July. Subſtance of the Treaty with Futty Sing.

29. Copy of the Treaty with Futty Sing.

30. Letter to, dated 6th Auguſt. Approve of the Treaty with Futty Sing. Deſire him to be urgent for the payment of the arrears of the monthly ſtipend, &c. On Ragoba's receiving the ſum ſtipulated in the Treaty.

From. Treaty between Ragoba and Futty Sing concluded the 18th inſtant. All the Sunnuds, except for Verrow (which he hourly expects) are made over to the Company for ever. Requeſt they will grant him a reinforcement of men and ſtores. July 22d

From. The Peiſhwa's Family, and Eſſob Cawn, with 4,000 horſe and foot, are on their way to join the Peiſhwa. Mhadajee, and Mhadajee Bounſella, are ready to join, provided ſome Country is ceded to them. Appajee Gunneſs has ſent Vackeels to treat. The miniſterial party greatly diſtreſſed.

Letter to, 19th Auguſt. Have received letters from the Governor General and Council, diſapproving the meaſures they were then purſuing; in conſequence, poſitively order him to deſiſt from further hoſtilities againſt the miniſterial party, unleſs attacked by them, and to remain in his preſent ſituation until further orders. To aſſure Ragoba of their protection and ſupport.

Letter from, 30th July. Futty Sing has paid near two lacks of the ſum ſtipulated, as mentioned in his addreſs of the 8th inſtant. From the extraordinary hardſhip of the officers, hopes they may be allowed double batta. Has received the Sunnud for the Verrow Pergunnah.

Letter to, 5th September. Direct that he return, with forces under his command, into the Broach or Surat Pergunnah. To acquaint Ragoba, that it is their advice that he continue with him till the embarkation of the troops.

Letter from, 6th Auguſt. The miniſterial army is marched to Barrampoor.

—— From, 8th ditto. Has had ſeveral conferences with the Peiſhwa reſpecting Nizam Ally. The Peiſhwa is apprehenſive of the Nizam's joining the Miniſters. Is deſirous of receiving aſſiſtance from the Engliſh only, and granting territory in lieu. By a compliance with his terms he engages to increaſe the monthly ſtipend. Has deputed Mr. James Forbes to proceed to Bombay, to ſettle this buſineſs. The Peiſhwa requeſts that the Madras Preſidency may be wrote to, to inſiſt on Nizam Ally's remaining neuter, and that the Nizam may be wrote to, to the ſame effect. Great pains has been taken to prevent

Appendix. No 97.

Futty Sing from paying the ſum of money to the Peiſhwa, as per agreement, Nothing ſhall divert his attention from reaching Poonah as ſoon as poſſible. His opinion on the behaviour of the 2d Grenadier Company on the 18th May.

Letter from, 9th Auguſt. Has had a particular converſation with Govind Row, from which he is convinced of the deceitful conduct of Futty Sing; has therefore reſolved on making every preparation for undertaking the ſiege of Brodera, is encamped with the Peiſhwa Army, within two miles of Brodera, and is in readineſs to inveſt the place.

Letter from, 21ſt ditto. Captain Scott's and Captain Weſtphall's detachments are halted within 1000 yards of Brodera; Futty Sing has propoſed coming into their camp, on aſſurance of ſafety; has prevailed on him with much importunity to diſcharge his preſent payment of 10 lacks; deſires ſuch villages as Govindrow has poſſeſſed himſelf of, may be reſtored to him, for the poſſeſſion of which, will pay five lacks more; to which the Peiſhwa has aſſented.

Letter from, 25th Auguſt. The Peiſhwa has received intelligence of Saccaram Bapoo and Nana Farneſs having erected their ſtandard in the Field, with a deſign of aboliſhing the title of Peiſhwa; repreſents the neceſſity of a reinforcement to prevent the conſequences. The Peiſhwa appears averſe to receiving payment in jewels, elephants, and piece goods; is apprehenſive of what may follow. The Peiſhwa has detached Ameen Cawn with 3000 horſe and 200 foot towards Amadabad. Has defeated the troops of Appajee Guineſs.

Letter from, 27th Auguſt. The Peiſhwa appears deſirous of going to Amadabad. Will not conſent to it till he has granted a Sunnud for a Pergunnah equal to Ahmeed. Has received intelligence of Mamed Eſcobb's having defeated a body of 7,000 horſe, under the Command of Worman Row, near the banks of the Nerbeda.

—— From, 30th Auguſt. Has recommended a reſidence at Bombay to the Peiſhwa, until the event of the Treaty is known. Has received Futty Sing's Bond for ſix lacks, payable in two months. The fatal conſequences which may attend leaving the Country to the mercy of the Peiſhwa's Army; how it may be obviated. Has ordered a detachment to take poſſeſſion of Kurraul.

Letter from, 2d September. The Peiſhwa much diſtreſſed and perplexed to account for the ſudden reverſe of conduct towards him; his advice to him on the occaſion. The Peiſhwa is determined to wait the Concluſion of the Treaty at the head of his army: his Propoſitions for ſupplying his exigencies in the interim: wiſhes, prior to any deciſion, that the Supreme Council would attend to every evidence which he can produce reſpecting the lawful Son of the late Narrain Row: Conditions in conſequence. Futty Sing has declared his readineſs to afford Protection to the Country.

Letter to, 19th September. Expreſs their ſurpriſe at the reaſon he aſſigns for not having retained a conſiderable part of the 10 lacks paid by Futty Sing to the Peiſhwa. Direct that the forces may be withdrawn, which were ſent to take poſſeſſion of Sinor, and that it be reſtored to the perſon from whom he received it. To procure no further grants for ſecuring the debt due from the Peiſhwa, and to enter into no further Negociations. Diſapprove his intentions with reſpect to Govindrow: require his reaſons for this part of his conduct.

Letter from, 6th September. The Peiſhwa has infringed the Treaty with Futting Sing, not having delivered up to him the whole of his Pergunnahs on the payment of the 10 lacks. The Peiſhwa ſtill continues greatly depreſſed.

—— From, 10th September. The partizans of Govindrow are anxious for an accommodation between their Maſter and Futting Sing. Tranſmits a Liſt of the killed, deceaſed, and deſerted Sepoys.

—— From, 18th September. Futty Sing has agreed to give up to Govindrow, one-third of the Gulcawar Poſſeſſions, on certain conditions: Govindrow not ſatisfied, but inſiſt on the Peiſhwa's ceding a conſiderable part of his own Country; which he has refuſed. Futty Sing has ceded to the Company a village called Der Battia. Ameen Cawn has reſiſted one ſally from the beſieged at Amadabad, who felt a material loſs. The Peiſhwa has deſired Pattamars may be ſent to Bengal, as he intends correſponding with the Supreme Council. Futty Sing has ſent him the Sunnud for the village of Dubattia.

Letter from, 27th September. Govindrow ſtill refuſes the offers made him by Futty Sing and the Peiſhwa. The Peiſhwa has given up the Pergunnah of Hariſhoot in lieu of one which had been promiſed to the Company. The Peiſhwa has diſcovered a defection in part of his Army; has applied to him for a detachment, which he complied with. Govindrow has come down a little in his demands.

Letter from, 1ſt October. Explains that part of his Letter, dated 30th Auguſt, which regarded the Peiſhwa's debt. His Reaſons for a change in his ſentiments with reſpect to Govindrow.

—— To, 8th November. Deſire that he will uſe his endeavours with Futty Sing to make over Batta to the Company inſtead of Dubattia.

—— From, 30th October. The Peiſhwa has croſſed the River with his Army. Has received further aſſurances of the attachment of Moraba Dadda, alſo Offers of ſervice from Bejee Sing, Raja of the Marawar Country.

To Thomas Maſtyn, Eſquire,

Sir,

In order to attain the cleareſt inſight into Ragoba's affairs, his ſituation, expectations, and deſigns, as well as to give him ſuch forcible and proper advice as will induce him to proceed with all poſſible expedition to Poonah, his capital, we have deemed highly neceſſary that a Gentleman of the rank of Council ſhould proceed to him; and having appointed you for theſe purpoſes to proceed to and reſide at Ragoba's Durbar, it is our direction that you embark for Cambay as ſoon as poſſible, from whence you are to ſet out to join the Army with as much expedition as the neceſſary attention to your own ſafety will admit. We make no doubt when Ragoba is informed of your arrival at Cambay (or at any other port from whence it may be moſt convenient to join his Army) that he will readily concert proper meaſures with Lieutenant Colonel Keating, for ſending an eſcort to conduct you with ſafety to the Camp; or you are otherwiſe to take ſuch proper meaſures as will inſure your arrival there in ſafety.

From the knowledge you have acquired of the country people, it is almoſt unneceſſary for us to remind you that the influence we hope you will acquire over Ragoba, and thoſe who are moſt in his eſteem and confidence, will much depend on your endeavouring to conciliate his good opinion, which we accordingly expect you to do.

Senſible as we are that the War can only be terminated by Ragoba's moving ſpeedily towards Poonah, you are therefore ſtrenuouſly to urge him to do ſo, by ſetting forth in proper colours the great diſadvantage to his affairs, by his continuing ſo long ſo very far diſtant from his capital, thereby putting it entirely out of his power, either to procure money for his own occaſions, and what ought to be as material to him, it alſo puts it out of his power to provide for the payment of the ſtipend monthly due by Treaty to our Honourable Employers, for the expences of their forces which are now aſſiſting him.

A copy of the Treaty we incloſe, that you may act conformable to it; but there are a few points, to the accompliſhment of which we expect your particular attention.

1ſt. That you endeavour as ſoon as poſſible to procure the payment of the arrears of the monthly ſtipend of one and a half lack of rupees, and that the ſame be punctually made good to you in time to come.

2dly. That you procure from the Peiſhwa a ſufficient body of horſe to be ſent to the Chiefs of Surat and Broach, for putting the Company in effectual poſſeſſion of the Territories by Treaty ceded to them.

3dly. That you procure from the Peiſhwa the Sunnud, that he has bound himſelf to obtain from the Gutcawars, for their ſhare of the Revenues of the Town, and in the Pergunnahs of Broach.

Theſe points once accompliſhed will be of very material advantage to our Employers, and they are no more than he has bound himſelf to perform. On our part, every thing we engaged for has been fulfilled, and even more; notwithſtanding which, Ragoba by letter has preſſed us for a loan of money, and this requeſt has been moſt urgently and frequently repeated by Lieutenant Colonel Keating, the Commanding Officer of our forces now with Ragoba. What makes this matter more extraordinary is, that after we had acquainted Colonel Keating of our inability to furniſh this loan, and that we alſo deemed it inconſiſtent with the intereſt of the Company to do ſo, he has again urged us on this head, and adds, that he is afraid to acquaint Ragoba of our refuſal.

As we ſhall not ſupply Ragoba with money for the reaſons given above, you are to adviſe him accordingly in a proper manner, leaving him no hopes however of any pecuniary aſſiſtance on the part of the Company. If you find that he has received any aſſurances of our aſſiſting him with Money, acquaint us of it, and let Ragoba know that they have been given without our knowledge and permiſſion. Urge him to march towards Poonah without any further delay, and in doing ſo, he will doubtleſs ſhortly be able to ſupply himſelf with money for his own occaſions, as well as to enable him to fulfil his pecuniary engagements to the Honourable Company.

You are well acquainted how much we have diſapproved of Lieutenant Colonel Keating's conduct, by intending to march to Amadabad, which is the oppoſite route to Poonah. Notwithſtanding we explained our ſentiments hereon in our Letter of the 23d of March, yet, by his laſt advices it appears that he perſiſts in that opinion, and actually intends to proceed thither, you are to make due enquiry of the Peiſhwa, and of Lieutenant Colonel Keating, as to their motives for this proceeding, of which you are to adviſe us.

Although Lieutenant Colonel Keating was in nowiſe authorized by us to enter into any Treaty or Negociation of any kind with any Powers or Perſons whatever; yet, from his advices it appears that he has done ſo, and particularly with Futty Sing; indeed, he acquaints us that he has been under the neceſſity of making the Company a party in a Treaty between Ragoba and Futty Sing. How or in what manner the Company were to be parties, he has not yet adviſed; and as he was quite ſilent on the ſubject in the Letters he has wrote us, we do not know whether the Treaty has taken place or not; we therefore deem it neceſſary that you ſhould require the Colonel to acquaint you of every ſtep he took regarding this Treaty, and to lay before you in writing, his proceedings with Ragoba, and his correſpondence with all or any of the Country Powers that he may have correſponded with, in order that we may receive the ſame through you with your ſentiments at large thereon. Should any propoſals or applications in future be made to any of the Country Powers, they muſt all be made to you, and not to the Commander of our Forces, and whenever the Company's intereſts may be concerned, they are to be tranſmitted to us with your ſentiments. In theſe matters, the Military Commanding Officer muſt not interfere; but we ſhall rely on you to take care to ſupport his conſequence in every conſiſtent manner, ſenſible as you muſt be, that much will depend on his conduct.

As we direct that you only in future ſhall have intercourſe with Ragoba, or that all intercourſe ſhall be through you, ſo it will be neceſſary that the Military Commanding Officer ſhould be under your controul, except in the execution of every military operation; and we accordingly lay down the following rule for your conduct in reſpect to the Military Commanding Officer, to whom inſtructions are accordingly given. Appendix, No. 97.

Whenever it may be reſolved and agreed between Ragoba and yourſelf to march, to encamp, or to make any other movement with the Army, you are to ſignify the ſame to the Commanding Officer of our Forces in writing, and he is ordered to obey; but in reſpect to the mode of the march, of the encampment, or the method of carrying any military meaſure into execution, the Military Officer is of courſe the more proper judge how it ſhould be effected, and therein you are not to interfere, nor in the detail of the duty of the Army.

As the expences of our Forces muſt amount to a very conſiderable ſum monthly, we eſteem it very neceſſary that you ſhould ſuperintend and controul your accounts of the Commiſſary and Paymaſter, which we accordingly direct you to do; and thoſe Officers, through Colonel Keating, are now ordered to lay their Accounts before you monthly, or oftener if you call for them, and never to make any payments out of the ordinary courſe of the ſervice which you ſhall diſapprove of.

Incloſed is a Copy of our Inſtructions to Lieutenant Colonel Keating of the 17th February laſt, and of this day, by which you will obſerve that he is directed to render to you an account of his Proceedings in general, and to produce to you the copies of his Letters hitherto, and our replies.

We rely upon you conſtantly and frequently to adviſe us of every particular within your knowledge, as well reſpecting Ragoba, his motions, forces, and our general proſpects of ſucceſs by this expedition; in ſhort, from you we now expect every requiſite information, as it is unneceſſary after you arrive at Ragoba's Durbar, that the Commanding Officer ſhould correſpond with us.

Lieutenant Colonel Keating, on your demanding it, will appoint ſuch a Guard to attend you, as you ſhall think neceſſary.

Returns of the Forces are regularly to be delivered to you, and through you tranſmitted to us.

Mr. Charles Brome, Senior Merchant, and Mr. Francis William Pemberton, Writer, are appointed to your aſſiſtance; and we direct, that you keep an exact and regular Diary of all your Proceedings, wherein all letters, whether from the Country Powers or others, are to be inſerted, and the motives of the advices noticed in it; two copies of this Diary are to be delivered to us on your return.

Lieutenant Colonel Keating is ordered to deliver up to you the Seal of the Company, the Cypher, and the Letter of Inſtructions to the Cypher; and as the communication by ſea will ſhortly be ſhut, your Correſpondence with us muſt be carried on, by truſty and careful Pattamars.

The allowance you enjoyed at Poonah will be continued to you as long as you are engaged on this ſervice, and your expences will be defrayed by the company; but we rely on you to obſerve every neceſſary frugality; you are alſo to take care, that no unneceſſary expence be incurred in the Department of Commiſſary and Paymaſter to our Forces.

The ſum of rupees 5,000, has been advanced you here, on account of your expences, for which you are to give due credit in your accounts; and until you receive money from Ragoba, as we hope you ſhortly will, in conſequence of what is mentioned in the former part of theſe Inſtructions, you may draw for ſuch further ſums as you ſhall require, on this place, or on Surat Factory, or the Paymaſter or the Commiſſary to the Army.

Appendix. No. 97.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

In a Letter from the Governor General and Council of Bengal, dated the 10th July, they acquainted us of their having appointed you to proceed to Poonah, and of the object of your miſſion; at the ſame time, they tranſmitted an extract of ſuch part of their Inſtructions to you, as they ſaid was neceſſary for our information.

The Governor General and Council, in their letter to us, mention that they are much uninformed as to the then ſituation of Affairs; and it appears by their Inſtructions, that in moſt points they have been able to give you diſcretional orders only; in this caſe we think it becomes a duty we owe to our Honourable Employers, to offer you every Information that you poſſibly want, for enabling you to diſcharge the high Commiſſion with which you are entruſted; and as we learn by ſome of the miniſterial agents now here, of your arrival at Calpar, on the River Jamma, from whence they ſhortly expect you at Poonah; and as we are fully ſatisfied that you will receive very partial accounts from the miniſterial confederacy, of the real ſtate and preſent ſituation of the affairs of Ragonath Row, and of the Company, ſo far as they are connected, we will therefore moſt readily give you, on your ſignifying your deſire for it, every Information that you can wiſh for, relative to both, either by a letter, or by deputing a Gentleman to you, from hence to Poonah, properly inſtructed and fully acquainted with the whole. Should you prefer the latter, we requeſt that you will procure the neceſſary Paſſports for him, and on your ſending them hither, he ſhall proceed immediately; at any rate, we wiſh you would take no material ſtep in the Buſineſs entruſted to you, relative to this Preſidency, till after we may receive your Reply to this Letter.

In caſe you ſhould prefer our only writing to you on the ſubject above-mentioned, it will be then neceſſary that you ſhould acquaint us, whether you are in poſſeſſion of the Company's large Cypher for your Correſpondence.

We tranſmit this Letter in Quadruplicates, by different routes, in hopes that it may ſafely reach you.

Continuation of the Correſpondence between Lieutenant Colonel Keating and the Bombay Preſidency, abſtracted, incloſed in the Letter from Bombay of the 17th November 1775.

Letter to Lieutenant Colonel Keating, 8th November, acknowledging the receipt of his Letters of the 4th, 8th, and 16th October, deſiring him to uſe his endeavours to procure a grant of Batta, inſtead of Duballia, taken poſſeſſion of by miſtake.

Letter from, 30th October. He has prevailed on the Peiſhwa to croſs the River, and will endeavour to induce him to proceed without delay to the Surat Pergunnahs. The Peiſhwa has received further Aſſurances of Morabah Dadda, and of Beje Sing's attachment; the latter has made offers of ſervices, and is encamped within 45 coſs of Amadabad, with 10,000 Men, and wiſhes to join the Peiſhwa. The Miniſterial Confederates have violated the ceſſation of hoſtilities; Inſtances given.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I have been honoured with your Commands of the 15th inſtant, and in reply thereto, beg leave to acquaint you, that the place I mentioned to the Colonel as a proper Poſſeſſion for the Honourable Company, if any further ceſſions of territory were obtained from the Guicawars, was a Village called Batta, and not Duballia, which he through miſtake applied and obtained Futty Sing's Sunnud for; Batta is a large Village or rather Town, with a conſiderable diſtrict belonging to it, which affords an annual Revenue of about 20,000 rupees, ſituated near the banks of the River, on the oppoſite ſide, a little below the Honourable Company's Garden Houſe; it formerly I am told belonged to the Orpad Pergunnah, on which it borders; and as that Pergunnah borders on Henſote, Batta is the only diſtrict which prevents the Honourable Company from enjoying without interruption the whole Territory, for a conſiderable breadth, between the River of Surat and Broach; and on this account I mentioned it to Colonel Keating, when I found he was negociating with the Guicawars for territories to be ceded to the Honourable Company, as a place which it would be both convenient and advantageous to be annexed to our other Poſſeſſions. Moſt unluckily, he ſomehow miſtook the name, and accepted Sunnuds for a village called Duballia, which is a very trifling farm, ſituated on the banks of our River, on the Surat ſide, a little below a well-known place called Veriow, now belonging to the Honourable Company, as ceded to them by Futty Sing. Not imagining that ſuch a miſtake could ariſe as to the name, immediately as I received advice from the Colonel, that he had procured the Sunnuds, I concluded they were for Batta, and ſent to take Poſſeſſion of that place; and not till ſome time afterwards, when I got the Sunnuds tranſlated, did I find out the miſtake, which I then noticed to the Colonel, and begged him to rectify it; and as I imagined, that to effect this, could be no difficult matter, I determined ſtill to keep poſſeſſion of Batta; but as he has lately wrote me, that on account of your orders, not to apply for any further grants of territory, and moreover, his being at preſent deeply engaged in negociating an Accommodation between Futty and Govindrow, he cannot do it, I ſhall be under the neceſſity of withdrawing our people from Batta, if the Guicawars Agents inſiſt on it; and as to Duballia, for which I have ſtill the Sunnuds, I have yet done nothing, as I concluded, that when the miſtake was rectified, and the Sunnuds obtained for Batta, of courſe Dubalia would be reſtored, and therefore I now requeſt your Orders what I am to do with them. The annual Revenues of this Village amount to about 4,000 Rupees. For the reaſons I have aſſigned, I imagine your Honour, &c. will agree with me, that the poſſeſſion of Batta would be convenient and advantageous.

We have begun to collect the Revenues of Chicoly and Verſaul, which Pergannahs produce batty and early grain, and have already recovered from theſe two places about 35,000 rupees, and more is daily coming in from Orpad; we ſhall begin to collect in about a month more, as ſoon as the grain it produces is fit to cut. The Pergannah of Chicoly contains 72 Villages, and is ſituated to the eaſtward of Gundaire and Verſaul, on which Pergannahs it borders. Its annual Revenues amount, from the beſt information I can get, to about a lack of rupees.

It is very neceſſary that all the Lands of the ceded Pergannahs, ſhould be ſurveyed and meaſured before any proper and particular account can be taken of their produce and value; and I therefore beg you will be pleaſed to ſend a proper perſon with the neceſſary inſtruments for this ſervice, when I will endeavour to procure, as ſoon as poſſible, an exact ſtate of all your Poſſeſſions under the Management of Surat.

APPENDIX, No. 98.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 12th February, 1776.

RECEIVED the following Letter from Lieutenant Colonel John Upton:

Gentlemen,

I have delayed writing a few days as I was deſirous of doing myſelf the honour of addreſſing you, to ſay ſomewhat more than barely that I was arrived at Poonah. The journey was conſiderably longer than we before imagined: Mr. Smith makes it 948 miles from Kalpee, and we were never able to procure a relief of either bearers, collies, or cattle for our camp equipage, and very little aſſiſted in any way. The miſcarriage of Orders from our Miniſters here, and the diſturbed ſtate of the Country, was the occaſion of this.

I was met about eight coſs from Poonah by a Vacquil (a man of rank) from Siccaram Baboo and Bellajee Pundit. He told me the Peiſhwa and Miniſters were at Poonah Dhur, a fort about ten coſs from Poonah; that it was their requeſt I would ſtay a day or two to refreſh my people, and travel by ſmall ſtages, ſo that I might paſs about four or five days before I reached Poonah Dhur, as they were waiting a lucky day for the meeting; which happened the 30th December, the day after my arrival, when I was conducted to the Peiſhwa's Durbah. On the way I was met by Siccaram Baboo and Bellajee Pundit. On this occaſion a full Durbar was aſſembled. The Profeſſions of Friendſhip from the Governor General and Council, were made on the part of the Company, and returned by Siccaram Baboo, and Balajee Pundit on the part of the Maratta State.

The next day was appointed for reading the Credentials, when all the Chiefs that could be collected were to be aſſembled in Durbar. This was accordingly done.

In debating with the Miniſters preliminary to the Treaty being entered upon, which muſt neceſſarily be delayed ſome days, as will appear in the ſequel, they urge ſtrong reaſons againſt the Signature of their Chiefs individually to the Treaty. The converſations and the reaſons they give, I incloſe; alſo the riſe and progreſs of the preſent diſſentions and diſturbances in this Country, as related by themſelves.

In my Inſtructions I am directed to inſiſt on the Signature of their Chiefs nominally and individually, which I imagine will be attended with many difficulties, or perhaps not attainable; you will be pleaſed, therefore, to give me further directions reſpecting this article. I am myſelf of opinion it might be diſpenſed with. In concluding the Treaty I ſhall endeavour, and, I hope, with ſucceſs, to keep open ſome ſeparate Articles, in caſe any thing further ſhould occur to you, or for your future approbation of what may, to me.

The Miniſterials have in their hands almoſt all the collections of the Country, conſequently the Intereſt of a great majority of their Chiefs; indeed I hear of very few that are connected with Ragonath Row, and theſe of the Guzerat Country only; ſo that a Peace in the Country will ſoon be eſtabliſhed, upon the Engliſh withdrawing their protection from Ragonath Row.

At the requeſt of the Miniſters I have wrote to the Preſidency of Bombay, to know if their force is entirely withdrawn from Ragonath Row, as they have intelligence here that yet ſome troops remain with or near him, which enables him to commit hoſtilities; and they declare on their part, they have not moved a ſingle horſeman from their Army ſince the receipt of the Governor General's firſt letter, now near ſix months ago.

Incloſed is a letter I received from the Governor and Council of Bombay. My reply requeſted every information they could poſſibly give me, and which I expect in four or five days. I have alſo the honour to incloſe the Copy of a Letter I received from the Nabob of the Carnatic, by which you will perceive he is ſending an Ambaſſador to negociate at this Court. I ſhall be particularly attentive to the Inſtructions I have received reſpecting the Nabob. I was much diſappointed in not meeting a Vackeel of his at Poonah, as the Miniſtry here are very deſirous to conclude the Treaty as expeditiouſly as poſſible, and which my Inſtructions in every part direct me to do. Appendix. No. 98.

The laſt letter I received from the Board, is dated 20th October, 1775. If any orders have been ſent to Bombay, or Minutes have paſſed in Council reſpecting the buſineſs of my Deputation, ſince that date, I have not been informed of them.

I hope in a few days to acquaint you with the ſenſe of theſe people regarding the Treaty; at preſent I cannot ſee a ſingle perſon that is not entirely devoted to them.

Much uneaſineſs has been expreſſed at my not having brought ſome Preſent on the part of the Company. They ſay it is not only the Cuſtom of this Country, but they conceive of ours, and all the World on ſuch occaſions; and that it leaves too much room for their people to form miſtaken notions. This was intimated to me by one of their Chiefs appointed to reſide with me, and who is preſent at all our debates at the Peiſhwa's Durbar. He obſerved, that they were afraid their Nation was not conſidered ſo honourably, or of the conſequence they could wiſh it to be. I told them it had not eſcaped the Gentlemen at Calcutta, and requeſted he would ſatisfy Sicca Ram Baboo and Bellajee Pundit of this, but that the buſineſs was too urgent to admit the delay of a fortnight or three weeks to make ſuch preparation; that I had been hurried, as they well knew, with a very long journey before me; that I had been deſired to aſſign theſe reaſons for what they think a neglect, and that I had received directions to ſend to Bombay, and provide this cuſtomary compliment. I have accordingly given orders for different articles, to the amount of about fifteen thouſand rupees. I wiſh you may think this right.

I have the honour to incloſe the form in which I mean to draw up the Treaty. You will pleaſe to return it me with your remarks and alterations, ſhould you think any neceſſary.

Poonah Dhur, 5th January, 1776. I have, &c. (Signed) J. Upton.

P. S. It is with extreme grief I adviſe of the Death of poor Dr. Banks. He had been in a declining way theſe two months paſt, and expired this morning early.

Concluſion of a Debate reſpecting the Maratta Chiefs, individually ſigning the Treaty, 3d January, 1776.

The Colonel aſked, If they had conſidered his propoſal of calling their Chiefs together to ſign the Treaty? They replied, they had; but looked upon it as a requeſt which could not be complied with, without danger to the Tranquillity of the State. That they have now in their poſſeſſion, Treaties between their Peiſhwa and the Kings of Delhi, as far back as the Reign of Aurungzebe, as well as Treaties with all the other Powers of Indoſtan, which they were ready to produce; that the Colonel might ſee the Seals which have been affixed on all ſuch occaſions, and that the ſame will now be uſed; and that they alſo bind themſelves by a moſt ſolemn Oath, which they take at the time of putting their Seals or Names to the Treaty, to abide faithfully by every Article therein contained. I hope the Colonel in his Letter to Calcutta will acquaint the Gentlemen with theſe circumſtances. They declared theſe were the invariable rules obſerved in all Treaties that had ever taken place between their State and any other Power: that were they now to deviate from them, the conſequences might be fatal, as it would induce the Chiefs, who are now entirely dependant on the Peiſhwa, and liable to be deprived of their Dignity and Country at his Pleaſure, to think themſelves of Conſequence enough to demand a Share in the Government, inſtead of obeying the Orders of their Maſters, and cauſe diſſentions rather than unite them.

That there were three or four Chiefs whom they could not call to the Peiſhwa's Durbar, though they acknowledged in moſt reſpects his ſuperiority, and were obliged to join him with their forces whenever he made War upon any Power adjoining to or near their reſpective Countries. Their Names and Countries as follows:

Madajee Bhonſalo, - - Durbarow Cattach.
Guctawar Govendram, and Futty Sing, } half Guzerat.
Mirarow, - - - - Part of the Carnatic.

They further declared, That they wiſhed nothing ſo much as a laſting Peace with the Engliſh, and that the Colonel might depend upon their taking every meaſure in their power conſiſtent with the honour and ſafety of their Country to eſtabliſh ſuch a Peace.

The Colonel obſerved to them, that the preſence of the Chiefs was a circumſtance which the Honourable the Governor General and Council conſidered as indiſpenſable; that if the arguments he had made uſe of, heretofore were not of force ſufficient to bring them to his opinion, he would, as he had already mentioned, write to the Governor General and Council, and receive their further Inſtructions on this article, which he hoped would be more favourable to their wiſhes; in the mean time the Treaty may be carried on, ſo as to enable them to withdraw their Army, and reduce the heavy expence they at preſent complain of.

J. Upton.

His Highneſs the Nabob Wallajaw Ummur ul Hind, Candath ul Mulk, Bahader ul Dowlah, Anweer ul Deen Cawn, Bahadre Zuffer Jung, Sepah Salaur Subahdar of the Carnatic, to Colonel John Upton, Ambaſſador at Poonah, from the Governor General and Supreme Council at Bengal.

Upon hearing of your Appointment as Ambaſſador, to negociate a Peace with the people at Poonah, I wrote to the Governor General, deſiring a Letter from him to you, to keep the tranquillity of the Carnatic in view; the Governor General in friendſhip to me has ſent me an Engliſh letter, directed to you, and has informed me, that he ſent you a duplicate thereof, which I hope you have received. I ſend you incloſed, tranſlation of his letter to me; that to you I will ſend by truſty perſons, who are ſoon to ſet out. My friendſhip and regard have been for a long time eſtabliſhed with the King, the Company, and the Engliſh Nation, as have been their favour and regard to me. They conſider me as themſelves, and in their kindneſs to me included me in the 11th Article of the Treaty made at Paris, with the other Kings; I am therefore convinced that I am the firſt friend to the Engliſh Nation; and as there is no Prince in India ſo firmly attached to them as myſelf, and as the Governor General has wrote to you to negociate jointly with my Ambaſſadors, I requeſt that you will wait a little for their arrival, as they will ſoon ſet out, and by them I will write particularly, after which you will include the peace and tranquillity of the Carnatic in the Treaty between the Company, the Engliſh Nation, and the People at Poonah, or Ragonaut Row, agreeable to a draft I ſhall ſend you; and you'll oblige the Chiefs of the Marattas, not to demand any Chour, Surrdare, Mokee, &c. either for the paſt or the future. I never will forget your friendſhip in this affair, and I will be much obliged to you. What can I ſay more?

TREATY between the Honourable the Engliſh Eaſt India Company, and the Maratta State.

Poonah, January 1776.

Whereas Differences have ariſen amongſt the Chiefs of the Maratta State, and the Preſidency of Bombay having taken a part therein, by ſending Forces into the Maratta Dominions, which the Honourable the Governor General and Council of Fort William diſapprove, we are deſirous of conciliating the Differences, and have determined accordingly to enter ſuch meaſures as may moſt effectually contribute to ſo deſirable an end. The Governor General and Council of Fort William for this purpoſe therefore have authorized, deputed, and given full Powers unto Lieutenant Colonel John Upton, in the ſervice of the Honourable Engliſh Eaſt India Company, to conclude a Peace between the Preſidency of Bombay and the Maratta State; and the following are the Articles of Convention between the ſaid Lieutenant Colonel John Upton, on the part of the Honourable the Engliſh Eaſt India Company, and the Miniſters and Chiefs reſpectively of the Maratta State, whoſe Names are hereunto ſubſcribed, on the part of the Maratta State. Done Poonah, this . . . . Day of 1776.

Reſolved, That the following Form of a Preamble to the Treaty with the Marattas, be ſent to Colonel Upton.

ARTICLES of a Treaty of Perpetual Peace and Friendſhip between the Maratta State and the Engliſh Eaſt India Company, ſigned, ſealed, and ratified by Rajah Ramraujee, Mahederow Seway, Pundit Purdham, the Son of Narrain Row, Peiſhwa, and Succaram Pundit, Maraba Pundit Turnaveſs, &c. &c. &c. Babooje Naick Naroo, Sucker Amundrow Raſta, Darumun Row, and Nana Turnaveſs) for themſelves, and onbehalf of the other Chiefs and People of Maratta State, on the one part; and by Lieutenant Colonel John Upton, who is inveſted with full Powers by the Governor General

Whereas differences have ariſen between the Chiefs of the Maratta State, and the Governor and Council of Bombay have taken a part therein by ſending Forces into the Maratta Dominions; the Governor General and Council of Bengal, from an earneſt deſire to conciliate the ſaid differences, and to reſtore a firm and laſting Peace between the Chiefs of the ſaid State and all the Governments of the Engliſh Company committed eſpecially to their charge, have deputed Lieutenant Colonel John Upton, and inveſted him with full Powers from them, and on the behalf of the Engliſh Eaſt India Company, to conclude a Treaty of Perpetual Peace and Friendſhip with the Peiſhwa, and other Rulers of the Maratta State; and the following are the Conditions agreed on by both Parties reſpectively; viz.

I.

II. &c.

N. B. The Treaty when executed agreeable to the foregoing form, ſhould be delivered to the Peiſhwa of the Maratta Government. In the duplicate ſigned for the Governor General and Council, the precedency in Rank ſhould be given to the Company.

The Names of the Maratta Miniſters and Chiefs mentioned in this Preamble are only for the ſake of form. Thoſe ſhould be inſerted by whom the Treaty may be ratified.

APPENDIX, No. 99.

RESOLVED, That the following reply be written to Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have received your Letter of the 5th January from Poonah.

Our reaſons for inſiſting on the Signature of all the Maratta Chiefs to the Treaty, were founded on the undivided ſtate of that Government, and the Infancy of the Peiſhwa, who is ſupported by the Regency at Poonah. We ſtill think that their concurrence is equally deſirable; but we would not let this point be made any obſtruction to the concluſion of the Treaty, and the diſtance is too great for you to refer to us every difficulty which may occur to you in the courſe of your Negociations, and to wait for our orders. On all ſuch occaſions, you will conform as nearly to the general ſpirit of our orders as circumſtances will admit.

On the preſent ſubject we authorize you to accept of the Ratification of the Treaty by the Peiſhwa, his Miniſters, and the Perſons whoſe Signatures are uſually fixed to the Treaties of that State; and we wiſh alſo to obtain thoſe of all the other Chiefs who are preſent, and are poſſeſſed of ſufficient Power to oppoſe the execution of it. We would ſtill have you require, that the others ſhould be parties, and that their aſſent may be ſignified by writings, or by perſons properly authorized on their behalf; but as we are ſenſible that this may be impracticable with reſpect to all the Chiefs, eſpecially thoſe who eſpouſe the intereſt of the oppoſite party, we only expreſs our deſire that the whole may be included, and leave it to your diſcretion to recede from this requiſition ſuch degrees you ſhall find it unattainable.

We incloſe a proper form of a Preamble to the Treaty which you may conclude with the Peiſhwa.

We are, &c.

General Clavering.—When Colonel Upton's Inſtructions were drawn up, he was directed to uſe his endeavours to obtain the ceſſion of Baſſein, on the ſuppoſition that the Government of Bombay was actually in poſſeſſion of it. From later advices we have been informed, that although the ceſſion of the Iſland of Baſſein was made an Article of the Treaty between Ragoba and the Government of Bombay, the poſſeſſion of it had never been yielded to the Company. Appendix, No. 99.

We have been informed by Mr. Taylor, that of all the Poſſeſſions of the Maratta Empire the Miniſters are more tenacious of preſerving the Iſlands of Salſette and Baſſein than of any other of their Territories; becauſe the conqueſt of thoſe Iſlands being made by the Peiſhwa's Anceſtors from the Portugueze, they conſidered the poſſeſſion of them as an honour which it would be a diſgrace for them to relinquiſh. As I am apprehenſive that if the Terms in Colonel Upton's Inſtructions relative to the Iſland of Baſſein remain unrepealed, and that he be not inſtructed to relinquiſh the demand of Baſſein in caſe the Miniſters ſhould abſolutely object to cede it to the Company, the Treaty muſt be broken off, and conſequently the deſirable object which we have in view, of obtaining Peace for the Government of Bombay, be poſtponed for a conſiderable time; I beg leave to propoſe, that diſcretional orders be now given to him, not to inſiſt on the Iſland of Baſſein being granted to the Company in the future Treaty of Peace; unleſs the Miniſters have already conſented to acquieſce to the demand that he has made for it, or that he perceives a diſpoſition in them to yield the poſſeſſion of it to the Company.

Mr. Francis.—I underſtood that the object of Colonel Upton's appointment was to ſettle and conclude a definitive Treaty of Peace with the Maratta State, on terms equitable to them, and alſo in ſome degree honourable and advantageous to the Company. We undoubtedly meant to relinquiſh many of the advantages ſtipulated by the Preſidency of Bombay with Ragoba; but we alſo meant to obtain ſome other beneficial Articles in return for thoſe conceſſions, otherwiſe I ſee no ſubject for a Negociation. A Peace, by which one of the contracting parties yields every thing, might have been obtained without a formal Embaſſy or even without a Treaty. The acquiſition of Salſette and Baſſein muſt have appeared to us to be an equitable condition, ſince, in our Inſtructions to Colonel Upton, we have declared, that "we were determined on no account" to relinquiſh the poſſeſſion of thoſe Iſlands, and that he would "at no rate" agree to reſtore them. It does not appear to me, that the circumſtance of Baſſein's not being actually in our poſſeſſion makes any difference with reſpect to the propriety of our adhering to our firſt plan. Our Right to demand the ceſſion of that Iſland, would not have been improved by our previouſly taking poſſeſſion of it. We are forming a Treaty of Perpetual Peace, in which each of the contracting parties muſt be expected to yield ſomething reciprocally for the public good.

I think that the ceſſion of Salſette and Baſſein ſhould be inſiſted on; and as Colonel Upton has not ſuggeſted to us that he expects to meet with any difficulties on either of thoſe points, I hope they will both be obtained.

Colonel Monſon.—When I gave my conſent to the firſt draft of inſtructions to Colonel Upton, I underſtood, from the repreſentations of the Preſidency of Bombay, that they were in poſſeſſion, in conſequence of the Treaty with Ragoba, of Baſſein and its dependencies. I have ſince learned, that although that ceſſion was one of the conditions of the Treaty, that Ragoba had no power to put the Preſidency of Bombay in poſſeſſion of that place; and that if they obtained it, it muſt be by force of Arms. My object in the miſſion of Colonel Upton to Poonah, was to reſtore Peace on the weſtern ſide of India, which I think ſhould be obtained on any terms, as a War carried on there can only be expenſive to the Company, and prejudicial to the general Trade of Hindoſtan. I therefore am of opinion, that Colonel Upton ſhould have Inſtructions to obtain Baſſein and its dependencies, if he can, from the miniſterial party; but not to make it an article on which which to break off the Treaty he is now inſtructed to conclude.

Governor General.—The Company have invariably joined Baſſein and Salſette in all their Inſtructions to the Preſidency of Bombay, to obtain poſſeſſion of the latter. Of its importance in a commercial light, we have been informed by Mr. Taylor in his letter to this Board, recorded in Conſultation 9th October. It appears to be of ſtill greater conſequence as a political acquiſition, from its connection with the Continent, and its contiguity to the Paſſes which lead directly to Poonah. We have repeatedly declared to Colonel Upton, that we would not depart from our claim to Baſſein; nothing has ſince occured to induce the Board to change a declaration ſo peremptorily made, nor do I conceive that Colonel Upton will find any difficulty to carry it into execution. The Miniſters have no perſonal intereſt to ſerve, nor family pride to gratify in the detention either of Salſette or Baſſein.

They were conquered by the Anceſtors of Ragoba, who has already conſented to relinquiſh them. The Infant Peiſhwa, who might be ſwayed by the ſame conſiderations, is incapable of forming any opinion upon them; and every argument which can juſtify our retaining the poſſeſſion of Salſette, combats equally in favour of our right to Baſſein, and of the propriety of aſſerting it. I am therefore of opinion, that no alteration ſhould be made in our original Inſtructions upon this ſubject.

I am againſt the Queſtion.

Reſolved, That no Alteration be made in the Inſtructions already given to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, for requiring the ceſſion of the Iſland of Baſſein, as a condition of the Treaty of Peace.

General Clavering.—I muſt proteſt againſt this Reſolution of the Board, and all the fatal conſequences that I am afraid will enſue from it. By one act of Injuſtice we have taken the Iſland Salſette from the Marattas, and by another we refuſe to make Peace with them, without they relinquiſh the poſſeſſion of an Iſland which we have no right to claim from them, by any equivalent that we can cede to them in return.

General Clavering requiring to refer to the Letter from the Court of Directors to the Preſidency of Bombay, which arrived this day in the Grenville Packet, to enable him to finiſh his Proteſt; the Secretary informs him, that with the approbation of the Board he has juſt ſent it to Mr. Taylor for his peruſal. The General therefore defers completing his Minute until he can obtain a reference to it.

Ordered, That the Secretary wait on Mr. Barwell with the above Debate, and requeſt his opinion upon the Queſtion propoſed by the General.

The Secretary having waited on Mr. Barwell with the whole of this Conſultation, agreeably to the orders of the Board, he declared that he acquieſced in the ſentiments expreſſed by the Governor General and Mr. Francis.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 14th February 1776.

PRESENT.

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,

Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell,
Philip Francis,
} Eſquires.

GENERAL CLAVERING having referred to the Letter of the Court of Directors to Bombay, dated 12th April, now delivers in a continuation of his Minute of the 12th inſtant as follows:

The Letter from the Court of Directors to the Council at Bombay of the 12th April, which we have juſt been reading, contains their poſitive commands not to take poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Salſette without their permiſſion, but by Negociation. If the Iſland of Baſſein can be obtained by the ſame means, I ſhall be glad; but I think it neither conſiſtent with the Orders of the Court of Directors, given ſo particularly in this letter to the Council of Bombay, or to us, in their Inſtructions to preſerve the Peace of India, to continue a War merely to acquire Territory. On the ſame principles, the propriety of reſtoring Salſette, it may be ſaid, might be inferred; beſides that, one injuſtice will not authorize our committing another. I confeſs I wiſh moſt ardently that the Board would even obviate the objection I feel to our inſiſting on keeping Salſette, without giving ſome equivalent for it either in Money or in Territory. I believe Fort Victoria was once propoſed by the Company themſelves as an equivalent for it; but whatever the Board may think proper to do in this matter, there is certainly a very great difference between relinquiſhing a place of which we are in poſſeſſion, and its inſiſting on obtaining another Iſland of much more value and ſtrength, that we might perhaps have much difficulty to acquire by force. The Board muſt reflect on the conſequence of the Miniſters at Poonah refuſing to comply with our demand, that the War muſt be continued, the effects of which are already ſo ſeverely felt by the Preſidency of Bombay, in its Trade in all its branches. Are we reſolved in what manner the War ſhall be conducted, to compel the Maratta State to ſubmit to our Terms? Are we determined to ſend twenty lacks annually to Bombay till Peace is concluded? For theſe and many other urgent reaſons, I think the Board's Reſolution to inſiſt on the ſurrender of Baſſein of ſo much importance, that it deſerves to be re-conſidered. I therefore move, that the Orders to Colonel Upton, to inſiſt on the ſurrender of Baſſein, may be diſcretional, in caſe it can be obtained by Negociation, but not otherwiſe.

Mr. Francis.—The ſyſtem on which I have invariably acted, has been hitherto honoured with the concurrence and approbation of General Clavering and Colonel Monſon. The former Proteſt now made by General Clavering againſt a Reſolution of the Board, in which I concurred, cannot therefore fail to bring the conſiſtency of my conduct into queſtion both here and at home. I do not think that I have departed from any one of the principles which I have avowed and ſet my name to. I think that in adhering to the Inſtructions originally given to Colonel Upton, I did no more than ſupport the ſame plan, which was approved and confirmed by every Member of the Board. I muſt, however, beg the indulgence of the Board to take a little time to conſider and draw up a defence of my conduct, as I know no period of my future life in which the tranſaction that appears on the Records of Monday laſt may not affect my character. I have the greateſt reaſon to expect this indulgence, as General Clavering himſelf has taken two days to conſider and introduce ſome new arguments in his preſent motion, which were not before the Board on Monday. Late in the afternoon of that day I did earneſtly and repeatedly requeſt of the Board to delay the debate and deciſion of the whole queſtion till the next Morning: That propoſal was not agreed to. I did alſo urge, that Mr. Barwell's accidental abſence might not prevent the queſtions being determined by a full Board;

Board; but that his opinion might be taken into the determination of the Board, as has been practiſed upon ſome other occaſion. This conduct ſhews how unwilling I was to hurry the deciſion of a queſtion in which I had the misfortune not to agree with General Clavering and Colonel Monſon.—No time was allowed me. After a more careful review of the whole ſubject, I muſt declare, that I do not even now ſee any reaſons for adopting General Clavering's firſt motion, which ought not to have weighed with him, and with the Board at the time when he ſigned the following Inſtruction to Colonel Upton.

"We are determined on no account to relinquiſh "the poſſeſſion of Salſette and Baſſein, therefore ſhould "the Peiſhwa hold out againſt yielding them to the "Company, you are at no rate to agree to reſtore them."

A circumſtance is now mentioned, which alone is ſuppoſed to juſtify a departure from the ſpirit of this Inſtruction; viz. that when it was given, the Board conceived that Baſſein was actually in our poſſeſſion. I myſelf do not think the difference material. But thoſe Members of the Board who think it material, ſhould, as I humbly apprehend, have moved for an alteration of the Inſtructions as ſoon as they diſcovered their miſtake. I believe it was diſcovered ſo long ago as the 9th October, when Mr. Tayler was before the Board. From that time to the preſent, no ſtep has been taken to obviate the fatal conſequences which are now foretold of our adhering to the demand of Baſſein. No other new matter of any kind reſpecting this queſtion has yet come before us. Colonel Upton does not ſuggeſt to us the apprehenſion of any difficulty whatſoever on this point. I cannot therefore, without departing from that conſiſtency of conduct which I have hitherto endeavoured to maintain, conſent to any alteration in Colonel Upton's original Inſtructions; let me add, that I cannot do it without oppoſing my own opinion to the unanimous ſenſe of the Board, deliberately, not haſtily taken, as I find it expreſſed in our letters to Colonel Upton of the 21ſt June and 17th July. At the ſame time, however, I am far from oppoſing the preſent Motion for bringing the queſtion again under Conſideration. I am at all times ready to give every Member of this Board an opportunity of reconſidering his opinion on any important queſtion; we owe ſuch compliance mutually to each other; we owe it alſo to the Public Service. Neither am I myſelf ſo obſtinately fixed in my own opinion, as not to be open to hear and yield to argument.

Mr. Barwell.—I do not underſtand General Clavering's Motion to be a reconſideration of the Reſolution to inſiſt on the ſurrender of Baſſein, but a Propoſition to alter the original Inſtructions given to Colonel Upton. I am againſt the Motion.

Colonel Monſon.—Mr. Francis in his Minute accuſes the Board of having hurried him into a haſty opinion, without being allowed ſufficient time to digeſt his thoughts upon the queſtion then under deliberation. I was preſent at the Board on Monday laſt during the whole time of the Board's ſitting, and do not recollect any Propoſition being made for an Adjournment. I believe it will not appear from the proceedings of that day, that ſuch a propoſition was made. Mr. Francis, in order to prove a conſiſtency in his own conduct, charges me with a neglect of mine. It is true, I was acquainted by Mr. Tayler ſo early as the 9th of October, that we were not in poſſeſſion of Baſſein and its dependencies. It would certainly then have been proper to have ſent Colonel Upton Inſtructions not to have inſiſted upon the ceſſion of that place to the Company, as the ultimate Terms of the Treaty. I do not think I can be accuſed from deviating from that ſyſtem of conſiſtency which I have laid down. I declared on Monday laſt, that my object in the miſſion of Colonel Upton to Poonah, was to reſtore Peace. My intention in giving diſcretionary power to Colonel Upton, is conſiſtent with that declaration. I think that Colonel Upton ſhould endeavour to procure Baſſein, but not to make it the final Condition of his Treaty. If he ſhould perceive a diſpoſition in the Miniſtry at Poonah to relinquiſh Baſſein for an equivalent, or what may be thought ſo, I would recommend even that Broach and its dependencies ſhould be ceded for Baſſein and its dependencies. Upon the whole, I think it ſo much for the Intereſt of the Company, and ſo conſonant to their Inſtructions to acquire Peace throughout India, that I would even conſent, ſhould it be inſiſted on, to reſtore the Iſland of Salſette. I ſhould be ſorry to preclude any Gentleman from delivering his ſentiments upon a queſtion which I think, conſidering the critical ſituation of Affairs in Europe and this Country, of the utmoſt conſequence to the Company. I therefore am for the motion; not that I have any new matter to offer to the conſideration of the Board, but ſhall be ready to yield to any arguments which may be uſed in ſupport of a contrary opinion to that which I have given. Appendix. No. 100.

Mr. Francis—I beg leave to aſſure Colonel Monſon, that I never had a thought of bringing a charge of any kind againſt the Board, or againſt himſelf. No man is more ready than I am, to acknowledge and bear teſtimony to the integrity and conſiſtency of his conduct. I have often availed myſelf of his ſuperior judgment: I hope ſtill to be guided by it. With reſpect to the queſtion before the Board, my object is ſimply the acquiſition of Baſſein with Salſette; I have expreſſed no opinion, I have propoſed no limitation to the conceſſions which it may be proper to make to the Marattas in return for this acquiſition. I think the ſituation of theſe places makes the acquiſition of them ſo eſſential to the ſecurity and beneficial poſſeſſion of Bombay, that I am willing to purchaſe it upon the terms propoſed by Colonel Monſon; and ſo far forth I yield to his opinion.

With reſpect to what I have ſaid, of my requeſt that the debate of Monday laſt might be poſtponed till the next morning; it is very true, that no formal motion appears on the Proceedings to that effect. That I did make ſuch a requeſt, is a mere matter of fact, for which I can only appeal to the recollection of the other Members of the Board. But I beg it may ſtop here.

General Clavering—In deciding on the important queſtion now before us, it ſeems very immaterial, whether the Proteſt I have entered this day on the Conſultations was finiſhed on Monday or not; the reaſon of my deferring it to this day, was to obtain the preciſe words contained in the Letter from the Court of Directors to the Government of Bombay, prohibiting them to take Salſette by force if they could not obtain it by negociation. I have introduced no new matter into it which would not have appeared at that time, had I recollected the terms in which the Court of Directors Commands were expreſſed. I wiſhed only to be accurate, and not to take up the time of the Board a ſecond day on a buſineſs which I could not but have wiſhed might have been concluded immediately. In regard to the deſire which Mr. Francis expreſſes he had to poſtpone the deciſion of my queſtion on Monday, till there was a full Board; it certainly only depended on himſelf and the Governor General to have done it, if they had pleaſed, as they then formed a majority. I mentioned in my Minute on Monday, that the Orders for inſiſting on keeping Baſſein as well as Salſette, were given in conſequence of the full perſuaſion that we were in, that the Iſland of Baſſein had been ceded and relinquiſhed to the Company along with the other poſſeſſions which Ragoba had actually ſurrendered to the Government of Bombay. It is true that the miſtake was diſcovered ſo early as in October, but neither at that time nor ſince did it ever occur to me, that we had given Orders ſo peremptory to Colonel Upton, not to relinquiſh the poſſeſſion of Baſſein. The Word not to "reſtore," plainly implies our conception of our being in poſſeſſion of it. The firſt duty that we owe both to thoſe who employ us and to ourſelves, is to correct a miſtake as ſoon as we diſcover cover it; it was only on Monday laſt that I obſerved, on reading over the Inſtructions to Colonel Upton, the error that we had committed; I no ſooner obſerved it, than I made a Propoſition to the Board to have it rectified, hoping that it would have met with no difficulty from any of the Members, and particularly from one with whom I had hitherto concurred in every ſentiment ſince my arrival at Bengal, in the ſtrict obſervance of the Company's Orders, and in the Principles of Public Juſtice. I ſtill hope that both he and the other Members of the Board, on a review of the conſequences (which I cannot help thinking will be very fatal) of the Orders given to Colonel Upton unleſs they be reſcinded, will ſtill permit that they be made diſcretional.

The Governor General—I certainly remember that Mr. Francis more than once expreſſed a reluctance to decide on the Propoſitions contained in Colonel's Upton's Letter at the laſt Meeting of the Board in this Department, and he will do me the juſtice to acknowledge that I declared myſelf equally deſirous of poſtponing it; and had a motion been made to that effect, I ſhould certainly have voted for it, for the purpoſe of affording ſufficient leiſure for every Member of the Board to weigh and deliberate maturely on a point of ſo much importance as that contained in the General's queſtion; but no ſuch motion was made, and for my own part I had no motive to make it, becauſe I was already clearly determined in my own opinion. I have already aſſigned the reaſons which induced me to oppoſe the General's queſtion. I could add many others of equal ſtrength, and could place thoſe which I have already urged in a much ſtronger point of view; but I conclude that the Judgment of the Court of Directors will here this have been made known to the Preſidency of Bombay, concerning the propriety of the deſign formed by that Preſidency for poſſeſſing themſelves both of Salſette and Baſſein. I ſhall be therefore very brief in what I have further to add on this ſubject.

I have always underſtood it to have been an invariable Injunction of the Court of Directors to the Preſidency of Bombay, to ſeize every favourable occaſion for acquiring poſſeſſion of Salſette and Baſſein, either by Treaty or Arms, and conceive the acquiſition of Baſſein to be of equal if not greater conſequence than that of Salſette. In the Inſtructions therefore which were given to Colonel Upton, I aſſented to the declaration, that the poſſeſſion of Salſette and Baſſein ſhould on no account be relinquiſhed, regarding the poſſeſſion of both as an inſeparable object both of the Company's intentions and wiſhes; nor do I recollect whether I underſtood Baſſein to have been ſtill in the poſſeſſion of the Marattas at the time when theſe Inſtructions were drawn, or in ours; it yet does not appear from the Bombay Letters which were received to that date; nor would it have made any change in my opinion of the propriety of inſiſting on the ceſſion both of Salſette and Baſſein; yet I ſhould with leſs reluctance have yielded, at that time, to any propoſition that had been made for the ſurrender of the latter, as the wiſh of the majority of the Board was to remove every obſtacle to the Reſtoration of Peace, and the conceſſion might have been then made on our part, without any circumſtances of humiliation; but having declared our reſolution in ſuch peremptory and decided terms, having repeated it, in two ſeparate paragraphs in the firſt Inſtructions, and again in the ſecond which were delivered to Colonel Upton on the 17th July, I have no doubt that Colonel Upton will have made the demand both for Salſette and Baſſein in terms equally peremptory. I dread therefore the conſequences of relinquiſhing a point on which we have already made the future event of Peace or War to turn. The Marattas will be obviouſly led to conclude, with ſuch a promptneſs to change a reſolution of ſuch conſequence, that we ſhall be equally diſpoſed to yield to any demands which they may make, rather than hazard the renewal of the War. From what has paſſed, I feel myſelf as ſolicitous as the other Gentlemen of the Board may be, to bring Colonel Upton's Negociation to a ſpeedy and peaceable concluſion; and from the Character of the People with whom we are in treaty, I believe that we ſhall be more likely to attain that end by an undeviating adherence to the requiſitions and declarations which we have already made, than by conceſſions of any kind, but more eſpecially by ſuch as are ſpontaneouſly made, through the apprehenſion only that they may be in the future courſe of the Negociations exacted from us.

Mr. Francis moves, That this Debate be adjourned till To-morrow.

Agreed to.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant-General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

Reſumed the Debate of Yeſterday.

Mr. Francis—I have already expreſſed my willingneſs to make a compenſation to the Marattas for the ceſſion of Baſſein, if the poſſeſſion of that place cannot be obtained on any other terms. Colonel Monſon has expreſſed an opinion to the ſame effect. I would therefore propoſe, that Colonel Upton, in caſe he ſhould find inſurmountable difficulties in obtaining Baſſein without a compenſation, may be authorized to propoſe certain conceſſions to the Poonah Government in return for their compliance with his firſt demand. I think that a ſurrender of our Right and Intereſt in Broach might be made the condition of that compliance; but he ſhould at the ſame time be particularly inſtructed to reſerve this conceſſion until he ſhall find it abſolutely impoſſible to ſucceed without it. In the mean time he may propoſe other compenſations, if any ſhould be demanded, and not come to this, but in the laſt extremity.

Mr. Barwell—I adhere to the opinion that I have already given; I cannot conceive that we have it in our power to offer the Marattas any thing beyond the Company's Alliance for the ceſſions demanded from them. The Miniſters of the Maratta State muſt be fully ſenſible of the intereſts we ſacrifice in quitting the party of Ragoba, and withdrawing our Forces from his cauſe; any thing beyond this, I apprehend, will ſpeak rather a weakneſs in the Engliſh Government; and I ſhall not be ſurprized if, preſuming on ſuch a principle, they ſhould demand to be paid even for the Expences of the War. The moſt favourable occaſion that could have offered for promoting the intereſts of the Company on the weſtern ſide of India, we propoſe to forego for the ſake of Peace, and only inſiſt on ſuch a condition from the Maratta State, as is abſolutely neceſſary to the very being of Bombay. I am againſt the motion.

Colonel Monſon—When Propoſals of Peace are made to a Nation to which they have it not in their power to accede, it is the ſame thing as a Declaration of War, or a continuation of hoſtilities. This I conceive to be the nature of the propoſal which is to be the final condition on which Colonel Upton is to make his Treaty with the Maratta State: the Fort of Baſſein I underſtand to be of very conſiderable ſtrength, and in the poſſeſſion of a perſon who neither acknowledges the miniſterial [illegible] or that of Ragoba; it is certain, from our [illegible] been put in poſſeſſion of it, that he pays no [illegible] the Treaty the Preſidency of Bombay have made with Ragoba, or we ſhould have been in Poſſeſſion of that place many months. My wiſh in giving a certain latitude to Colonel Upton's Inſtructions, is to attain an honourable and laſting Peace; therefore, I could wiſh that the poſitive orders under which he is now to act might be extended; but at the ſame time, that he ſhould be inſtructed to obtain the deſirable object of Baſſein and its dependencies, without giving any equivalent for them; but if he finds that is not to be done, then to enter into a Negociation for an exchange of Broach and its dependencies for Baſſein and its dependencies, but not to cede the former until the Company are put in poſſeſſion of the latter, without any expence or aſſiſtance afforded by the Company; that is, not to receive the right only without the poſſeſſion.

If Peace is not to be obtained from the Marattas but by the ceſſion of Broach for Beſſein, I think it ſhould be accepted on thoſe conditions. I am therefore for the motion.

Mr. Francis—I beg leave to obſerve, that there is no fact or inſtance before the Board, on which I could ground a ſuppoſition that the Commandant of Baſſein would not think himſelf bound to comply with the orders of the Poonah Government: his not having acquieſced in the Treaty made between the Preſidency of Bombay and Ragoba, proves only that he is not a Dependant of that Prince, which I never underſtood he was; but it does not follow, that he will not obey the Orders of the Peiſhwa and his Miniſters, whom, as I have always underſtood, he acknowledges for his ſuperiors. I undoubtedly meant that the ceſſion of Broach, or any other place now held by the Company, ſhould not be made until the Company were put in poſſeſſion of Baſſein.

Colonel Monſon—I have no right to ſay that the perſon who commands in the Fort of Baſſein, will not obey the orders of the miniſterial party, for by doing that, I ſhould declare him a Rebel; but it is my opinion that he will not, as I believe there are few inſtances in this Country where perſons who are in poſſeſſion of ſtrong forts, do give them up by the orders of any perſon, without having firſt made terms for themſelves. I make no doubt, but if the miniſterial party would make over their right to the Eaſt India Company, of Baſſein and its dependencies, and that the Company's Army was to appear before the place, that the Commandant would deliver it up to the Army, on certain advantages for himſelf; but then the Company muſt be at the expence of the conqueſt; and in this manner, they might take poſſeſſion of any place in this Country.

General Clavering—The Propoſal made by Mr Francis to exchange Broach for Baſſein, is perfectly agreeable to the object I had in view, in acquiring the latter by Negociation; but I muſt obſerve, that Mr Francis has not explained himſelf, whether he would ſtill perſevere in inſtructing Colonel Upton to break off the Treaty with the Miniſters, in caſe they ſhould refuſe to cede that Iſland to us upon theſe Terms.

Mr. Francis—I have always conſidered the acquiſition of Salſette and Baſſein as the fundamental article of our Negociations with the Marattas; conſidering all circumſtances, I do not foreſee a probability of their being refuſed; if, however, Colonel Upton ſhould find the Maratta Government inflexibly determined not to yield Baſſein, he may in that caſe ſuſpend his Negociations, and wait for further Orders from this Board, but there will be no neceſſity for his entirely breaking them off, or quitting Poonah.

Governor General—I object to the queſtion, becauſe Broach is already the Company's property, purchaſed at a great expence, and with the loſs of the lives of an Officer of diſtinguiſhed merit and many Britiſh ſubjects; becauſe I have doubts whether there be a power in this Board to give up the poſſeſſion of Broach, the acquiſition of which has been confirmed by the Court of Directors; becauſe I believe that in the compariſon, the poſſeſſion of Broach will be found to be yet more advantageous than even that of Baſſein; at leaſt, we know it to be a rich and fruitful Country, abounding in many valuable productions and manufactures, eſpecially in the article of Cotton, with which it ſupplies the greateſt part of the Country in that article from the Malabar Coaſt; becauſe it is a much frequented Port of Trade, and the key to the Provinces of Adjemore, Jeſſemore, and the other weſtern diſtricts of Hindoſtan, which it ſupplies with Broad Cloth, bought at the Company's Sales; becauſe our preſent poſſeſſion of it, is known, and viſible to the whole World, and the ſurrender of it will be an implied imputation of a want of power in the Company to retain it; and laſtly, becauſe I am clearly of opinion that the Treaty may be obtained without it, and that even if it could not, we ſhould be juſtified, after the many conceſſions which have been made to the Miniſters, were we to be reduced to the neceſſity of renewing the War, there being every reaſon to believe that the conteſt would be of very ſhort duration. Appendix, No. 100.

Reſolved, That Lieutenant Colonel Upton, in caſe he ſhould find inſurmountable difficulties in obtaining Baſſein without a compenſation, be authorized to propoſe certain Conceſſions to the Poonah Government, and that in return for a compliance with his firſt demand, a ſurrender of our Right and Intereſt in Broach be the condition of that compliance; but that he be particularly inſtructed to reſerve this Conceſſion until he ſhall find it abſolutely impoſſible to ſucceed without it.

Ordered, That Inſtructions agreeable to the above Reſolution be ſent to Colonel Upton.

Mr. Francis—I requeſt the ſenſe of the Board, whether it ſhould make a part of the Inſtructions to Colonel Upton, that in caſe he ſhould find the Maratta Government inflexibly determined not to yield Baſſein at any rate, he ſhould ſuſpend his Negociations, and wait for further Orders from the Board, or whether he ſhould intirely break off the Treaty, and quit Poonah? I agree that he ſhould ſuſpend his Negociations, and wait for Orders.

Mr. Barwell gone home.

Colonel Monſon thinks he ſhould wait for further Orders.

General Clavering—I agree to it with reluctance, becauſe I think it will tend to protract the concluſion of the propoſed Treaty.

Governor General—I do not object, although I think that a more firm and decided conduct is more likely to accompliſh the ends which we have all in view.

Agreed in the affirmative, to this additional Propoſal of Mr. Francis,

Reſolved that the following Letter be written to Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

In addition to our Letter of the 14th, which accompanies this, we think it neceſſary to give you farther Inſtructions, to obviate if poſſible the occaſion of any farther Reference.

If you ſhould find the Miniſters totally averſe to make the ſurrender of Baſſein a Condition of the Treaty, after uſing every other means in your power to engage them to it, we authorize you to offer ſome conceſſions to them in return, which you will endeavour to make as moderate as poſſible; and ultimately we empower you to cede the fortreſs and dependencies of Broach in return for the actual ceſſion of the Iſland of Baſſein and its dependencies, if you ſhall find it unattainable on inferior terms; but you are not to propoſe this final conceſſion until it appears abſolutely impoſſible to ſucceed without it. If this ſhould alſo be rejected, we deſire you will give us immediate information, and not

APPENDIX, No. 101.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 26th February 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,

Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

RECEIVED, the following Letters from Bombay:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

We addreſſed you in duplicate by the ſhips St. Helena and Union, under the 17th ultimo, and have ſince been honoured with your Commands, dated the 25th May, 17th July, and 9th October, all of which arrived on the 28th ultimo, and on the 6th inſtant we received your letter, dated the 7th September, addreſſed to the Select Committee.

The irregularity and delay with which both your and our Advices have been mutually received, have been very perplexing to us; and as the two firſt-mentioned Letters are of ſo very old a date, and your Honour will have ſince received ſuch full information from our late Letters, and from Mr. Tayler, it is only neceſſary to obſerve in reply to that date, the 25th May, that we certainly ſhould have addreſſed you by the ſame veſſel which conveyed the Return of our Forces to General Clavering, had we not underſtood ſhe was to make a trading voyage, and would probably have a long paſſage to Bengal, and we then ſhortly intended to diſpatch the Company's veſſel the Tannah ſchooner, directly to your Preſidency, which however was unavoidably detained longer than we expected.

Before we received the explanation of your Orders for recalling the Company's Troops to our own garriſons, we did not underſtand they abſolutely implied their return to Bombay, and therefore propoſed letting them remain in the Surat or Broach Pergunnahs until we were favoured with your final Anſwer to the Repreſentations Mr. Tayler was commiſſioned to make you. Our late Letters and Correſpondence with Lieutenant Colonel Keating, tranſmitted by the Royal Charlotte, will likewiſe have apprized you of the advice we gave to Ragoba, to accompany our Troops with ſuch part of his Army as he might be able to maintain, being ſenſible that the ſeparation of our Forces from his, at that time, would have expoſed him to immediate deſtruction, entirely defeated the purpoſe for which you had deputed Colonel Upton to Poonah, and rendered ineffectual the Repreſentations we intended making to your Honour, &c. in his favour.

By our laſt Advices the two Armies were arrived at Corode, a place only 15 coſs from Surat, belonging to the Nabob. And when our Commanding Officer was preparing to march to the quarters aſſigned for them in Chicoley, one of the Pergunnahs ceded to us by Futty Sing, the Peiſhwa acquainted him, that he could not quarter in that Pergunnah without certain ruin to his cauſe, and inſiſted on remaining in their preſent ſituation, until he could explain his reaſons to us, and receive our determination.

We beg leave to incloſe a Copy of the Letter Ragoba addreſſed our Preſident on the ſubject, and the continuation of our Correſpondence with Lieutenant Colonel Keating, which will inform your Honour, &c. of his motives for refuſing to quit the encampment at Corode; and having conſidered with the moſt deliberate attention what conduct we ſhould obſerve on the occaſion, the following moſt forcible reaſons occurred to us, to induce us to permit of our Troops remaining for the preſent in the encampment they now occupy:

That we hourly expected to receive full and preciſe Orders from your Honour, &c. in anſwer to the Repreſentations made you by Mr. Tayler, and we could foreſee no bad conſequences from our Troops remaining in their preſent ſituation until that time, whereas many might be apprehended from their precipitately quitting Ragoba:

That the moſt probable conſequence of their taking this ſtep appears to be, that his adherents diſcouraged by your deſerting him, would likewiſe inſtantly forſake him, and the ſeveral Officers who before were inclined to embrace his cauſe, would give up all thoughts of ſupporting him, which would not only make his ſituation deſperate and irretrievable, but alſo have a very bad effect on Colonel Upton's Negociation, by encouraging the Poonah Government to demand terms very different from thoſe we are clearly of opinion they may now be induced to agree to, as they will certainly either raiſe or lower their demands according to Ragoba's ſituation, and this your Honour, &c. ſeem to be aware of, by your Inſtructions to Colonel Upton.

That on the other hand, ſhould Ragoba, notwithſtanding the ſeparation of our Forces, be ſtill able to keep his Army together, and his friends remain firm to his intereſt, the Honourable Company would loſe all their influence with him, and the Maratta Armies no longer awed by the preſence of the Britiſh Troops, would very probably again commence hoſtilities, whereby your Honour, &c. hopes of effecting a general pacification, would be entirely defeated:

That Corode, though not actually the Company's Pergunnah, belonged to our Ally the Nabob of Surat, and our Troops would be there equally ready to embark for the Preſidency, or be diſpoſed of as might be neceſſary in conſequence of your Orders, as if they had been at Chicoly; and being ſituated on the banks of the River Tappey, the Army having the Country open to them, would be plentifully ſupplied with water and proviſions, and the Company's Territories be preſerved from the devaſtations always committed by Maratta Armies.

For the above reaſons we conceived the good of the Service abſolutely required our permitting the Company's Troops to remain with Ragoba in their preſent encampment, until we receive the expected letters from your Honour, &c., and we flatter ourſelves you will approve our determination.

Ragoba alſo warmly ſolicited us to permit our Forces to accompany his Army into the Candeiſh Country, to levy contributions; but though we are ſenſible he muſt be much in want of money, no proviſion having been yet made for his ſupport during the adjuſtment of the Treaty, we did not think ourſelves authorized to take ſuch a ſtep, and acquainted him, it was totally out of our power to comply with his requeſt.

From the beſt intelligence we can procure of the ſituation of the Miniſterial Army, we learn, that on the 14th inſtant Hurry Punt Furkia, with 13 or 14,000 horſe and foot, five cannon, and three ſwivels mounted on hackeries, with a large buzar, were encamped near the Village Conquelia, on the banks of the River Gojem, 15 coſs from the Paſs of Candibana. [illegible] Kaſta, and his Brother Gopal Raſta, with about [illegible] horſe, and three pieces of cannon, were encamped at Sacree, 10 coſs from the ſaid Paſs; and Dabaje [illegible] balbar, with about 12 or 1,400 horſe, and two elephants, were at Boundigom, one coſs from the Paſs. That the troops ſhewed little ſigns of ſpirits, and kept exceeding watchful guards, ſo that it was with infinite difficulty the Halcarrahs could enter the different camps, even in the diſguiſe of graſs-cutters; and Colonel Keating's letters mentioned, that they were buſily employed in ſinking ſhafts in the paſs, to prevent the paſſage of ſtores or cannon.

The Miniſterial Party have not made any overtures to us for an accommodation, ſince thoſe mentioned in our Letter dated the 23d Auguſt; nor had we any reaſon to expect they would, as your Honour, &c. have ſignified to them your intention of deputing Colonel Upton to treat with them at Poonah; and the ſeveral acts of hoſtility committed by their Troops, as mentioned in Colonel Keating's letters, give us great reaſon to ſuſpect the ſincerity of their intentions.

The many overtures and offers of aſſiſtance made to Ragoba by Madajee Scindia, and other moſt conſiderable men of the Confederacy, and the differences ſubſiſting between the Chiefs of that party, have cauſed ſo great an alteration in the poſture of affairs in favour of Ragoba, that we beg leave to ſubmit it to you as our deliberate opinion, that a Treaty with him would be more advantageous to the Company, promiſes more ſtability and permanancy, and is more likely to enſure the general Peace of India, than one with the Miniſters. The reaſons on which we ground this opinion, are fully ſtated in a letter we have diſpatched to Colonel Upton, thinking it very neceſſary he ſhould be apprized of the true ſituation of Ragoba's affairs before he commenced his Negociation. And in this letter, a copy of which is incloſed, we have freely offered our ſentiments to the Colonel; but as he may not, perhaps, think himſelf at liberty to adopt them, we requeſt, if your Honour, &c. coincide with us in opinion, you will ſend him directions accordingly. We have not yet heard from him, but within theſe few days have received certain intelligence of his having been at Brampore, on the road to Poonah.

The ceſſions of Territory made by Ragoba appear to us objects of ſuch importance to the Company, that we are greatly alarmed at your intentions of relinquiſhing them. The Company's right to them is indiſputable, as being derived from valid grants made by the lawful Sovereign of the ceded Countries; and we are convinced that if Colonel Upton ſhews a determination not to part with them, it will be no obſtacle to the concluſion of a general Peace, whichever Party he may treat with. The compact and convenient ſituation of the ſeveral Pergunnahs, with reſpect to our Settlements of Surat and Broach, will enable us to collect the Revenues with little expence; and a very ſmall addition to the garriſons at thoſe places, will be quite ſufficient for their defence. The Revenues will defray the expences, and provide the Inveſtments of this Preſidency; the Company will poſſeſs many valuable Articles of Commerce within their own Territories, and be able greatly to extend the ſale of Woollens and other ſtaples of Great Britain. We have been ſome time in peaceable poſſeſſion of all the ceded Territories (except Baſſein) the Revenues are collecting without any difficulty, and the Marattas already conſider them as diſmembered from their Empire. Your Honour, &c. muſt before this time be ſo well informed on the ſubject, that it is unneceſſary for us to add more; but we hope ſoon to be able to ſend you an accurate account of their Revenues, and a correct chart. Colonel Keating has ſucceeded in obtaining a grant from Futty Sing of Batta, the Village mentioned in our Addreſs dated the 17th ultimo; and there being four Villages called the Autgoms, ſituated in the very centre of the Broach Pergunnah, which formerly compoſed a part of it, until they were wreſted from the Moguls by the Guicawars, about forty years ago, we conceived that our Sunnud for the Town and Pergunnah, entitled us likewiſe to theſe Villages, or at any rate that it was improper they ſhould be poſſeſſed by any other Power, as they might prove a conſtant ſource of diſputes. We therefore inſtructed Colonel Keating to ſtate our pretenſions to them to Futty Sing, and to obtain a Sunnud for them, and likewiſe if poſſible for the remaining eight Autgoms (there being twelve in all) which border cloſe upon the Pergunnah, and would be a very convenient addition to the Company's Territory. We do not know the amount of the Revenues produced by the Autgoms, but we believe it is not very conſiderable.

Colonel Keating's letters contain all the information we poſſeſs reſpecting Govind Row and Futty Sing; and we have the pleaſure to obſerve, that the diſpute between them is nearly compromiſed, which will be a circumſtance very favorable to Ragoba.

We have the Honour, &c.

Tranſlation of a Letter from Ragonath Row, Bajee Row, Pundit Pradan, to the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor of Bombay, dated the 28th November, and received 4th December, 1775.

After Compliments:

Your Honour having ſent Mr. Tayler to Calcutta this long while ago, I thought that an anſwer would ſoon be received from him: I marched further to receive his anſwer on the way. With this intention I marched from Nurmada, and encamped at Codadah upon the Tappee; but your order is not come as yet. Colonel Keating deſired me much on my arrival here, to march, and to go to Chickley; but our marching thither will tend to my diſadvantage, as all the Officers and Miniſters who have ſent their propoſals to me (by your Honour's help) promiſing to come and join me, will become hopeleſs; and my Army will, on my going to Chickly, ſtarve there; the Country will be ruined, and I ſhall be diſtreſſed for money for my expences. I did, for theſe reaſons, very much deſire Colonel Keating to remain at this place; but he refuſes to do ſo without your Honour's Order. There is no danger in complying with my Propoſal, which will not infringe the ceſſation; and I can get money by levying contributions; and it will be much to my advantage to remain near the Paſs of the Gaut, as far as Bhondgam, becauſe ſeveral Officers intend coming to me there from the Gaut: but Colonel Keating will not do this without your order. I have therefore wrote your Honour this letter, hoping you will ſend him an Order to do any buſineſs (agreeable to maydeſire) that may be for my advantage, and ſuch as can be done without fighting; as alſo to go near the Gaut to prevent the Army (which intend coming to join me on my reaching there) from deſpairing. Your Honour will pleaſe to ſend this Order directly; and as you have taken my buſineſs upon you, you ſhould conſider, that if I return back, what the people will ſay; whether the Officers who have promiſed to come and join me, will or not be hopeleſs? and whether it will or not be difficult to perſuade them to join me again? My enemies are, by your help, entirely broke. On our going as far as Bhondgam, the buſineſs will be done without fighting. As you have taken all the burthen of my buſineſs upon you, you ought to act for its advantage. Your Honour will give general orders to your Commanding Officer here, to continue doing ſuch buſineſs as can be done through threatening; as alſo to go to Caundas, and as far as Bhondgam, near the Country of Guzerat, where the Paſs of the Gaut is called Barey. Should my army as well as yours be ready there, the revolters will come hopeleſs, not join together, and ſubmit to me; but if we ſhall remain into our Mahall of Chickly, they will think that a diſpute has aroſe between our friendſhip, by which they will be animated to join together; our marching further is therefore very convenient; the buſineſs is for moſt part done. If the Engliſh Army will march with my Forces to the Gaut, even without fighting, the revolters will be ſeparated through fear, and never be able to ſtand to fight. What I thought I have mentioned to your Honour, and I will act agreeable to your ſentiments. As our going to Chickly will hurt our purpoſe, I have therefore taken the liberty to write you all the particulars. Pleaſe to ſend me an anſwer, as alſo one to Colonel Keating.

Appendix. No. 101.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

On the 11th September laſt, being informed by the Miniſterial Agents at this place, that you were ſhortly expected to arrive at Poonah, we diſpatched letters to you by four different routes, one of which at leaſt we ſuppoſe muſt have reached you; and having lately received certain intelligence of your being advanced as far as Brampore, we wait with the utmoſt impatience to receive your anſwer to that letter, as we much wiſh to communicate many matters of great importance to this Preſidency, before you bring your Negociation to any concluſion; and for that purpoſe are ready, as we therein acquainted you, either to depute a Gentleman fully inſtructed to confer with you at Poonah, or to convey our information by letter, whenever you ſignified to us which method you prefer.

But as your being apprized of the true ſituaton of Ragoba's Affairs before you commence your Negociations, may be of the utmoſt importance, we diſpatch this expreſs, to convey to you the moſt authentic intelligence we poſſeſs reſpecting him; and, in order to give you the more perfect idea of his ſituation, ſhall begin our detail from the time we received the Governor General and Council's prohibition for carrying on the War, and Advice of their having deputed you to treat with the Miniſters for a general Pacification.

Ragoba's Army and our Troops were then cantoned during the rainy ſeaſon at Duboy, a place about twenty coſs from Brodera, after having carried on a very ſucceſsful campaign againſt the Miniſterial Army, whoſe Forces were ſo broken and diſpirited by repeated defeats, that we are perſuaded their Chiefs would have found the utmoſt difficulty in bringing them again to act againſt us. Ragoba likewiſe had lately detached Futty Sing from the Miniſterial Party, and concluded a Treaty with him, by which he not only gained a powerful Ally, but ſtipulated for a Subſidy of twenty lacks of rupees; a conſiderable part of which was paid before the receipt of the above-mentioned Letter from the Governor General and Council; and by this reaſonable recruit to his finances, he would have been enabled to have taken the Field the enſuing campaign with great advantage.

Upon receipt of the Governor General and Council's Orders for recalling the Company's Troops into our own garriſons, we gave the neceſſary directions for their marching from Duboy, into the Pergunnahs adjacent to Surat or Broach, whenever the ſeaſon would permit: and at the ſame time adviſed Ragoba to accompany and remain with them, with ſuch part of his Forces as he could maintain, until we received an anſwer from the Governor General and Council, to the repreſentations we had deputed Mr. Tayler, a Member of our Board, to make to them; for we were ſenſible, had we abruptly withdrawn our Forces from him, his adherents, alarmed and diſcouraged by our deſertion, would have inſtantly forſaken him, and his deſtruction become immediate and inevitable, which would have greatly embarraſſed you in your Negociation, as the Miniſters, relieved from all apprehenſions of Ragoba, would have demanded Conditions very different from what we are clearly of opinion they may now be eaſily brought to, ſhould you think it expedient to treat with them.

The event has juſtified our conjectures of the good effects that would attend the appearance only of our Forces continuing in concert with Ragoba, during the march from Duboy towards Surat, he received repeated overtures from many of the Miniſterial Chiefs, who were ready to return to their Allegiance to him. Under the 16th October, Colonel Keating, the Commander of our Forces with Ragoba, writes us that Moriba Dada Barjaba, Chinto Vittul, Ramchundra Gunnis, and Mallarjee Gorparah, all principal men and officers in the Confederacy, and then in the Neighbourhood of Poonah, had entered into an aſſociation to ſupport Ragoba's cauſe, which they had ſignified to him, with ſtrong aſſurances of joining him with 25,000 good horſe. Bejee Sing, Rajah of the Marwand Country, likewiſe ſent a Vackeel to the Peiſhwa on the 28th October, with the warmeſt aſſurances of Friendſhip, and offers of immediately joining him with 10,000 men, then encamped within forty-five coſs from Ahmedavad.

Every day almoſt brings favourable accounts to Ragoba: differences are continually ariſing amongſt the Chiefs of the Miniſterial Party, and moſt of the principal men in the Maratta Empire, are ready to acknowledge him as Peiſhwa; Madajee Sindea has ſent to inform him, that if the Engliſh continue with him, he will immediately join him with a large body of Forces; and if they ſhould abandon him, he then requeſted the Peiſhwa would retire with his Army to Ugeen, where they would concert the neceſſary meaſures for the good of his cauſe. Appajee Madeu, one of Ragoba's adherents, who had been at Ugeen, to negociate with Mhadjee Scindy, returned to camp about ten days ago, with a body of two thouſand horſe. The beginning of this month, two Vackeels arrived with Ragoba, from Marabah Furnees, Butcheba Proonder, Shajee Bonſlo, Darah Scinta, Apparaw Pattanher, Mallarjee Goſparah, Veſſejee Punt Benewallah, Chintoo Vittule, Wittol Sewdew, and Ragopunt Row, men who formerly were attached to the miniſterial intereſt, and who had empowered theſe Vackeels to aſſure Ragoba of their determinations to join him with 15,000 good Troops, provided the Engliſh ſupported him.

The Engliſh and Peiſhwa Armies are now encamped at Carode, on the ſouthern banks of the River Tappey, about fifteen coſs from Surat, where we propoſe they ſhall remain, until we receive final orders from the Governor General and Council; or your Negociation is brought to ſome concluſion, for which we have ſtated our reaſons very fully to them.

We think it neceſſary to mention to you, that notwithſtanding the agreement for the Ceſſation of Arms, which has been religiouſly obſerved both on our part and Ragoba's, the Miniſterialiſts have violated it in ſeveral inſtances; veſſels with Engliſh Paſſes and Colours, are daily inſulted by their gallivats, who have even taken three or four of our Merchant Veſſels, and they make no ſcruple of firing from their batteries at Baſſein, on our boats in Salſette River. They take every method in their power of diſtreſſing this Settlement, by prohibiting all ſupplies of grain, timber, and proviſions, and Ragoba has lately complained of their having actually committed hoſtilities againſt two of his partizans, Mahomed Eſoof and Chimman Row. The firſt they attacked in the Malwey Country, totally diſperſed the Forces he commanded, and have ſince cut him off; and Chimman Row has given the following account to Colonel Keating of the attack made upon him:—

"That he was attacked with about 15,000 men, near
"the Paſs of Candabarow, and, knowing of the "ſation, he was not apprehenſive of any
"contrary to every expectation, he was attac
"night of the 20th October, by about
"communi

" commanded by Anant Row Reſta, who had forced a " march of 25 coſs for that purpoſe; and in this action " he had near 500 men killed and wounded, many " taken priſoners, and loſt all his baggage." On the 15th inſtant a body of about 800 horſe, detached by Hurry Punt Furkia, again attempted to ſurprize Chimman Row, but being timely apprized of their intentions, he retreated to Sungur, with very little loſs. Colonel Keating likewiſe adviſes, that the Billdars belonging to the miniſterial army are employed in ſinking ſhafts in different parts of the Candibarra Paſs, to prevent cannon, carts, &c. from paſſing.

In theſe critical circumſtances, your arrival at Poonah, being ſo long protracted, keeps us in a ſtate of the moſt anxious and diſagreeable ſuſpence, and gives the miniſterial party every advantage they could wiſh for, collecting and recruiting their diſperſed and broken Army, and ſhaking the reſolution of thoſe who are inclined to embrace Ragoba's cauſe. We have ventured to defer ſeparating our Forces from Ragoba before your Negociation was ſet on foot, being convinced that ſtep would have given ſuch a turn to Affairs, as to render all your efforts ineffectual to bring the Miniſters to any reaſonable terms of accommodation; but we now flatter ourſelves, that from the preſent favourable ſituation of affairs, you will find no difficulty in ſecuring for the Honourable Company, all the advantages ſtipulated for them in our Treaty with Ragoba, and ſuch conditions for him as may be perfectly ſatisfactory, ſhould you not think it more eligible to treat with him, inſtead of the miniſterial party; for we do not heſitate in giving our opinion, that a Treaty with him would in every reſpect be moſt advantageous for the Company, not only as it promiſes more ſtability and permanency, and would more effectually ſecure the general tranquillity of India; but even ſuppoſing the Infant the Miniſters have ſet up, to be really the Son of Narron Row, which we can by no means allow; yet Ragoba is in that caſe entitled to the office of Duan, or Regent, during the minority, and therefore the proper perſon to treat with; and there is little room to doubt, but the Miniſters would acquieſce, when they found that you ſupported him; whereas, ſhould Ragoba not be ſatisfied with the ſtipulations you may make for him, there is every reaſon to apprehend, that from his numerous adherents, and former conſequence in the Maratta State, he will be conſtantly raiſing diſturbances, and forming intrigues with every Power from whom he can expect any ſupport, which in their conſequences may materially affect the Company's Poſſeſſions.

During this long ceſſation of hoſtilities Ragoba has found the utmoſt difficulty in raiſing money to ſupply the exigencies of his Army, no proviſion whatever having been made for his ſupport during the diſcuſſion of the Treaty; and his enemies being in poſſeſſion of Poonah and the Circar treaſures, deprives him of all reſources: we therefore earneſtly recommend to you, to inſiſt upon it as a preliminary point, that the Miniſters immediately aſſign him a ſuitable Revenue, which we think at leaſt ſhould be ſeven or eight lacks of rupees per month.

When we receive your anſwer to our letter, dated the 11th September, we ſhall immediately take the neceſſary meaſures for informing you of what we have to offer regarding the intereſts of this Preſidency; and the Advices we have received from Bengal, ſince your appointment.

To the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Council of Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I take the immediate opportunity of my arrival at this place, of acknowledging the receipt of your Letter of the 11th September, which came ſafe to hand yeſterday. I alſo forwarded a letter which I brought with me from the Governor-General and Council of Fort William.

As you requeſt, you may depend upon my not taking any material ſtep in the buſineſs on which I am deputed relative to the Preſidency of Bombay, till I am honoured with another letter from your Board, which I am convinced will give me every information I can deſire. Should it hereafter appear neceſſary, I ſhall gladly embrace your kind offer, of a Gentleman's being deputed to Poonah, but I ſhould rather wiſh this buſineſs ſhould be done by letter.

As you mention being already informed of the particulars in my Inſtructions that relate to your Preſidency, the repeating them now will be quite unneceſſary.

I have in my poſſeſſion the Company's ſmall Cypher, but there is not the leaſt reaſon to fear an Interruption of any of our letters, as the people here are fully ſatisfied of the neceſſity of my correſponding with your Preſidency, and have given the moſt poſitive orders that our Cauſſits may paſs every where uninterrupted. The ſubject of the letters will, however, determine the manner in which you may chuſe to write.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 6th March 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor-General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

RECEIVED the following Letter from Colonel Upton:

Gentlemen,

I take the earlieſt opportunity of acquainting you of what I conceive is the diſpoſition of theſe People regarding the terms of accommodation. The letters they received from Calcutta before my arrival, had perſuaded them fully, that I was deputed to treat with them on equal terms, without making any demands whatever: however, at a few meetings I made them ſenſible that they had underſtood theſe letters too literally.

A delay to our buſineſs of ſome days was occaſioned by a death in the family of Sicca Ram Baboo, and a marriage in Ballojee Pundit's. The neceſſary information from Bombay (to which Correſpondence they readily aſſented) occaſioned a further delay. We were yet ſomewhat getting on with the buſineſs preliminary to the grand Articles of the Treaty, and I had every reaſon to expect that a Peace, both honourable and advantageous for the Company, would take place; but I am now fully convinced they will never agree to our keeping Salſette, or to ſurrender Baſſein. On theſe Iſlands, they ſay, they have expended many crore of rupees, particularly on Baſſein, which they appear determined at all events to keep, and indeed they declare againſt parting with Salſette and the four ſmall Iſlands in the Bay, and that they will never grant the Sunnuds for ſuch of them as we have already ſo unfairly taken from them, and will render Salſette in a great meaſure uſeleſs to us, by prohibiting all connection with it from the Continent. Theſe have been their Reſolutions at our two or three laſt meetings, and I conceived it owing to their imagining that I muſt treat with them at any rate, and that I had vaſtly exceeded my Inſtructions, by aſking a ſurrender of theſe Iſlands. They aſk me a thouſand times, why we make ſuch profeſſions of honour? how diſapprove the War entered into by the Bombay Government, when we are ſo deſirous of availing ourſelves of the advantages of it?

They ſay the Governor General and Council of Calcutta have deputed me to negociate with them on terms honourable to both nations; yet all advantage and honour is confined to ourſelves.

In ſhort, I find Salſette and Baſſein are the only impediments to a Treaty's taking place that might otherwiſe be very advantageous; for I am fully convinced that they would readily cede to us ſome Country in the neighbourhood of Broach or Surat in lieu of them; alſo cede to us their ſhare of collections in the Broach Pergunnah, defray the expences of the War, and give up all demands on the Chout in every part of the Company's Poſſeſſions, and all future right and title to ſuch claim.

When my Inſtructions were made out, it was thought we had got Baſſein, and I was therein ordered on no account to give it up. But as the Company are not in poſſeſſion of this Iſland, the ſtipulations regarding it muſt take a different turn. I think if they allow the Company to ſettle and maintain a Factory, with certain Privileges in Trade, on Baſſein, and totally exclude all foreigners, and give ſome Country near our ſettlements of Broach or Surat in lieu of it, it would be quite as advantageous, and poſſibly may be effected; and to this purpoſe all my endeavours will be uſed.

I ſhall inſiſt on the Company's keeping poſſeſſion of Salſette, agreeable to the orders in my Inſtructions, and of their giving up the four ſmall Iſlands mentioned therein, ſituated in the Bay of Bombay. If theſe terms are refuſed, the Treaty muſt of courſe be broke off for the preſent, or perhaps altogether, for they intimate they will wait no further references to Calcutta, but again commence hoſtilities within a few days, as the letters they have already received from thence have ſo much miſled them.

I ſee in the Bombay Correſpondence an order for that Government to keep poſſeſſion of the ceſſions made in the Guzerat Country. I have had repeated converſations on that ſubject with the Miniſters, who declare that no one in the Country can have any right to give grants of any part thereof; that Futty Sing is not the Proprietor of the Country, but was appointed the Sirdar of it on terms ſimilar to all other Sirdarries. They muſt ſay that moſt of the conceſſions have been made ſince the ceſſation of Arms has taken place; that Futty Sing adviſed them repeatedly that he ſhould be obliged to comply with the demands of the Engliſh, and Ragonaut Row, if he was not aſſiſted with more Troops. This they would not comply with, as they had determined ſtrictly to adhere to their obligation of preventing all hoſtilities, and were aſſured that any places taken or ceded during the ceſſation of Arms would be reſtored.

We therefore have agreed to leave the Guzerat Country quite undetermined on, till your farther pleaſure ſhall be known. I ſhall take the firſt opportunity of forwarding to you the Names of the places ceded in that Country, by whom, and at what time. The Miniſtry are ſatisfied, that if they prove what they aſſert reſpecting it, you will make no demands therein further than what they themſelves may grant in the Treaty.

Should the Treaty be now concluded, a ſeparate Article muſt be kept open for this Buſineſs.

I had the honour to write to you, Gentlemen, on the 5th of laſt Month; I hope my letter has been received. I ſend this by way of Maſulipatam, in expectation of its getting ſooner to Calcutta than by the other route. In a day or two, as ſoon as I am further informed of the intention of theſe people, I ſhall write again by way of Benares, and ſend a duplicate of my letter of the 5th ultimo.

Theſe people, I imagine, are by no means in the deplorable ſituation that had been thought; they have a very numerous Army, and no want of money; they have engaged in an Alliance with the Nizam, who has lately marched a body of twenty-four thouſand Troops, and thirty-five guns, to join Hurry Punt Tuckia; by this time the junction muſt be effected, though I imagine the Nizam's Troops will not be eaſily brought into action. The Commandant of theſe Troops, Nabob Fazil Beg Cawn Dhowſa, ſent to me to know if our Treaty was likely to take place with the Miniſters, and many queſtions, all of which tended to guide their actions; ſo that they might ſave appearances, yet not be led into the Field againſt the Engliſh. I may miſtake in my conjecture, but I have every reaſon to ſuppoſe not.

If we cannot agree upon Terms of Accommodation, and hoſtilities again commence, I ſhall go to Bombay, and wait your Orders either to return immediately to Bengal, or execute what further Inſtructions you may have to give.

Poonah Dhur, 2d February 1776.

(Signed) J. Upton.

P. S. They will agree to allow to Ragonaut Row a houſhold, conſiſting of one thouſand horſe, to be under his direction, and obey all his legal Orders, two hundred domeſtics to be named by himſelf, and twenty five thouſand rupees a month. He is to live at his former reſidence on the Ganga, or name where he rather chuſes to reſide.

I incloſe an account given by the Miniſtry of the Succeſſion of the Guicawars Family to the command in Guzerat.

Eſtabliſhment, &c. of the Guicawars, in the Command, &c. of the Guzerat Country.

Fermuck Row Dobarry being a Chief of high rank, under the Sabou Raja, he beſtowed on him the Guzerat Country; but ſome commotions ariſing between him and Bajerow the Peiſhwa, a battle enſued, in which Fermuck Row was killed, and his Army diſperſed; he had a Son or two, who made their eſcape, and took refuge with the Moguls.

Damajee Guicawar, who was the principal Chief under Fermuckrow, and managed the Guzerat Country in his life-time, promiſed a proper ſubmiſſion to the Peiſhwa immediately after his Maſter's death, which was accepted of, but commenced a rebellion ſoon after againſt Tara Boi, Mother to the Ram Raja. The Peiſhwa marched againſt him with an Army, and gained a complete victory, and made Damajee himſelf priſoner. He had been but a few days in confinement, when he found means to ſooth the Peiſhwa, and prevail upon him to accept of his ſervices, producing a proper ſecurity for his future good behaviour, and paying down fifteen lacks of rupees. The Peiſhwa gave him a grant of half Guzerat, on a promiſe of being his vaſſal, paying ſix lacks of rupees a year, and having ten thouſand horſe always ready for his ſervice. Damajee died ſome years after. He left three Sons he had by two Wives. Govinrow was the Son of the firſt Wife, but younger by ſome years than Syajee and Futty Sing, who were the Sons of the ſecond Wife. They began to diſpute who ſhould ſucceed the Father in the Chiefſhip, and not being able to ſettle amongſt themſelves, they repaired to Poonah, and laid their claims before Madarow, then Peiſhwa. He ordered their Law Books to be examined; by which it appeared that the firſt-born (whether of the firſt or ſecond Wife) was to ſucceed to the Father's rank and fortune. Syajee was the eldeſt Brother, but being blind, the Sunnuds for half Guzerat were given to Futty Sing, the next Heir, for which he paid ſeventy lacks immediately, and promiſed obedience to the Peiſhaw.

Govinrow, who had been in expectation of obtaining theſe Sunnuds, remained at Poonah, and refuſed a jaghire of ſix lacks a year offered him by Madarow.

After the death of Narrain Row, Govinrow applied to Raghoba

Ragoba, for the Chiefſhip of Guzerat, which he gave him on receiving twenty-two lacks of rupees.

Govinrow immediately commenced a War againſt his Brother.

After Ragonaut Row was ſupported by the Engliſh, he marched towards Guzerat, where he was joined by Govindrow, and Futty Sing with his Forces joined the Miniſterial Army, and continued with them, till in conſequence of the Calcutta Letters a Ceſſation of Arms took place, Futty Sing returned to his own Country. Ragoba and the Engliſh attacked Futty Sing. He immediately wrote to Poonah for Aſſiſtance, but the Miniſters having ſtopped all acts of hoſtilities in obedience to the Calcutta Letters, refuſed to ſend any reinforcement to Futty Sing; who being unable to repel the Force of his Enemies, found himſelf under the diſagreeable neceſſity of coming to ſuch terms as they thought proper to demand, particularly with the Engliſh, who engaged to prevent his Country being diſturbed either by Govinrow or Ragoba.

Govinrow ſeeing this Treaty ſettled with his Brother, had no further hopes, therefore quitted Ragoba, and marched acroſs the River Mahie, where he eſtabliſhed his own authority, and on this ſide of the Mahie, Futty Sing's Country is ſtill diſturbed by Ragonaut Row.

N. B. The Guicawars were ſervants of Debarry; Debarry a ſervant to the Raja; and all the Chiefs under the Rajaſhip have for a long period been ſubordinate to the Peiſhwa, and renewable by his Sunnuds. Eſwant Row, the Son of Debarry, died amongſt the Moguls, and left behind him one Son, who arrived at Poonah three years ago, and applied to the Peiſhwa for his Country, and we are now about giving him part of it.

APPENDIX, No. 103.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, 6th March 1776.

READ a Letter from Mr. Tayler, as follows:

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

In a Diſpatch from the Honourable the Preſident and Council of Bombay, there are forwarded to me Copies of their ſeveral Addreſſes to you of the 4th, 14th, and 31ſt October, 17th November, and 29th December, and one to Colonel Upton, dated the 29th December, which I believe has likewiſe been incloſed in a packet to you.

I beg leave to remark to you, Gentlemen, that theſe Advices confirm the truth of the intelligence I had the honour to communicate to you in my Addreſs of the 29th November laſt, with the additional circumſtance of the Overtures of Mhadajee Scindea, and of Brahmin Miniſters, and Rajapute Chiefs. On a ſettlement being made, it ſeems probable that the latter will be demanding either large ſums or a grant of territory in reward for their ſervices; both of which the Miniſters will be equally averſe to grant. It is well known, theſe have already been ſo backward in the performance of their engagements to the Army, that at the time they were in arms againſt the Peiſhwa, great diſſentions prevailed among them. Their leader, Sacram Bapoo, whoſe influence and abilities render him the great ſupport of their cauſe, is already advanced in years, and very infirm, and his death it is thought would diſſolve the Confederacy. In either of the above cauſes operating I can foreſee no other conſequences but the Reſtoration of Ragoba.

Should you utterly abandon his intereſts, there ſeems to me a great probability of this event taking place, in deſpite of the efforts of the Miniſterialiſts. One great reaſon why he prefers a reſtoration by means of the Company is, becauſe it will be effected by a much ſmaller ſacrifice of his influence and dominions. He well knows that the demands of thoſe who offer their aid would be very exorbitant; but abandoned by you, he will have no other reſource than to ſubmit to theſe demands. You have already been apprized of thoſe who are now in his party; and I am informed that Holkar has offered his aſſiſtance on certain conditions. I leave you to judge, Gentlemen, whether it is probable that the Miniſters will be able to cope with the united Force of thoſe he will then have in his party.

Should he effect his Reſtoration, I muſt again repeat, That there ſeems little probability of the Company's quietly retaining the Ceſſions of the Miniſters; at any rate, his efforts will occaſion a ſcene of confuſion in the Maratta Dominions, very deſtructive in the Commerce of the Company and of this Country, which have already ſuffered very conſiderable by it.

Such is the light in which I view the preſent ſtate of affairs, and future proſpects; conſidering therefore the obligations of the Engliſh Nation to him by Treaty, the fairneſs of his conduct hitherto, the juſtice of his propoſals to us, and the general face of things as they appear by the Advices from Bombay, together with the idea that muſt be entertained by all the Country Powers of the breach of our engagements with Ragoba, I truſt you will deem it equally conſiſtent with equity and ſound policy, at leaſt to adopt ſome plan of accommodation ſatisfactory to him, and immediately inſtruct Colonel Upton accordingly, as it may not yet be too late for advices to him to prove effectual.

But whatever may be your determination on this point, I doubt not, Gentlemen, you will agree with me in my opinion, that in the preſent ſtate of affairs it ſeems hardly probable the Confederates will heſitate complying with all the Conditions ſtipulated for, in the Treaty with Ragoba, if circumſtances are well availed of. I have already been too explicit on the utility of the ſeveral Ceſſions to the Honourable Company for you not to perceive the importance of them; and I therefore earneſtly conjure you to inſiſt alſo on whomſoever you may treat with confirming and guaranteeing all the Ceſſions made with Ragoba and the Guicawars.

Should your Informations, by the Advices of Colonel Upton, differ from thoſe tranſmitted by the Government of Bombay, I beg leave to obſerve, that he dates from the Fort of Pronder, where he is ſurrounded by the Miniſters and their creatures, whoſe intereſt it is to miſinform him with reſpect to their own ſtrength and importance, and to ſecrete from him every circumſtance favourable to Ragoba and his Partizans. Their patience, ſkill, and diſſimulation, in conducting political Negociations, are very well known in India. It is almoſt uſeleſs to inſiſt on the different credibility that is due to informations collected under thoſe diſadvantages, and thoſe communicated by Gentlemen, in whoſe honour you have a ſecurity from intentional deceit, and whoſe caution is warranted by the dangers they incur, ſhould their ill-grounded intelligence miſlead you into meaſures that might not otherwiſe be deemed expedient.

I have, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 104.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, 6th March 1776.

GOVERNOR GENERAL—I have waited to hear whether any propoſal upon the ſubject of the Letters now before the Board, ſhould be made by any of the Members who have hitherto had the chief guidance in the meaſures which have been adopted reſpecting the tranſactions of the Government of Bombay with the Marattas, for the purpoſe of preſerving a conſiſtency in the Reſolutions of the Board. I have thought it my duty rather to follow than take the lead in this buſineſs in which I may be obviouſly led to follow my original ideas, as every other Member will be as obviouſly inclined to ſuch meaſures as ſhall be conſonant to thoſe to which they have already given their aſſent. But as no propoſition has been yet made by any other Gentlemen, and as the Letter from Colonel Upton requires a ſpeedy and deciſive anſwer, I ſhall offer my ſentiments upon it, leaving it to the Board to adopt them, if they ſhall find them to correſpond with their own, as much time has already been conſumed in Colonel Upton's Negociation; and we cannot, were we inclined to it, expect that we ſhall be able to protract the concluſion of it ſo long as to admit repeated References from him to this Board, and repeated Inſtructions in return. I am of opinion that whatever Orders are now ſent to him in reply to his letter before us, they ſhould be peremptory and concluſive; that he ſhould be directed to bring the buſineſs of his Negociation to an iſſue, either by an immediate concluſion of the Treaty, or by demanding his diſmiſſion, and retiring to Bombay: there he may ſtill remain and wait the Orders of the Board for his future proceeding; but as ſuch an event muſt be certainly followed by the renewal of hoſtilities with that party of the Maratta State with which we are now in treaty, it will next remain to be conſidered, what proviſion ſhall be made for ſuch an event. I ſee no alternative but to withdraw wholly from the War, or renew the former Treaty with Ragoba; the latter appears to me unavoidable in the caſe which I have ſuppoſed. In the mean time I would recommend, that Colonel Upton be referred to the Inſtructions which he has already received, and directed to conform literally to them. In propoſing this, I own I feel a repugnance to the laſt Order which was ſent to him reſpecting the exchange of Broach for Baſſein; but as this is a meaſure already reſolved on, I ſhall make no new objection to it; but I think it nevertheleſs my duty to ſtate one objection, which I have already intimated, from recollection only, on grounds which have ſince occurred to me of greater certainty, in the Conſultation 15th February. I expreſſed a doubt whether there was a power in this Board to give up the Poſſeſſion of Broach, the acquiſition of which had been confirmed by the Court of Directors. Of this I have no longer any doubt, as I think the following clauſe in the Act of Parliament clearly limits the controlling powers of this Government over the other Preſidencies, to the commencing of Hoſtilities, the declaring of War, the negociating or concluding of Treaties of Peace; but does not authorize this Government to order the Surrender or Exchange of any of the Company's Poſſeſſions dependant on the other Preſidencies, to obey ſuch orders. I beg leave to ſubjoin the words of the Act of Parliament, leaving it to the Board to draw ſuch concluſions from them as they may think neceſſary and applicable to the caſe in queſtion. "And "be it further enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That "the ſaid Governor General and Council, or the major "part of them, ſhall have, and they are hereby autho"rized to have power of ſuperintending and controlling "the Government and Management of the Preſidencies "of Madras, Bombay, and Bencoolen reſpectively, ſo far "and in ſo much as that it ſhall not be lawful for any "Preſident and Council of Madras, Bombay, or Ben"coolen, for the time being, to make any Orders for "commencing Hoſtilities, or declaring or making War "againſt any Indian Princes or Powers, or for negoci"ating or concluding any Treaty of Peace or other "Treaties, with any ſuch Indian Princes or Powers, with"out the conſent and approbation of the ſaid Governor "General and Council firſt had and obtained; except in "ſuch caſes of imminent neceſſity as would render it "dangerous to poſtpone ſuch Hoſtilities or Treaties until "the Orders from the Governor General and Council "might arrive, and except in ſuch Caſes where the ſaid "Preſidents and Councils reſpectively ſhall have re"ceived ſpecial Orders from the ſaid United Company: "and any Preſident and Council of Madras, Bombay, "or Bencoolen, who ſhall offend in any of the caſes "aforeſaid, ſhall be liable to be ſuſpended from his o"their office, by the Order of the ſaid Governor General "and Council; and every Preſident and Council of "Madras, Bombay, and Bencoolen, for the time being, "ſhall and they are hereby reſpectively directed and re"quired to pay due obedience to ſuch Orders as they "ſhall receive touching the premiſes, from the ſaid Go"vernor General and Council for the time being; and "conſtantly and diligently to tranſmit to the ſaid Go"vernor General and Council, Advice and Intelligence "of all tranſactions and matters whatſoever that ſhall "come to their knowledge relating to the Government, "Revenues, or Intereſt, of the ſaid United Company."

Appendix No. 104.

Appendix. No. 104.

Mr. Francis—I cannot admit the Governor General's conſtruction of that clauſe of the Act of Parliament which he has quoted. A power to make Peace, muſt in its nature include a power to agree to the only terms on which in ſome caſes Peace can be obtained. This, or any other State, may be reduced to extremities, in which it may have no alternative but relinquiſhing a part of its Poſſeſſions or hazarding the whole. With reſpect to the buſineſs before the Board, I obſerve, that Colonel Upton informs us in his Letter of the 2d February, that the Miniſtry have intimated to him, that they will wait no further References to Calcutta, but again commence hoſtilities within a few days. From this paſſage, and from the general tenor of his letter, I conclude that one of the two events muſt have already taken place, either he has concluded a Treaty of Peace, relinquiſhing our firſt claim to Baſſein, but obtaining the other principal objects of his Inſtructions, or he muſt have withdrawn to Bombay; in either caſe, a queſtion between Peace on any terms and the Continuance of Hoſtilities, is not entirely open to the preſent deciſion of this Board; if it were, (or in order not to differ with any Member of the Board who may ſtill think it is, ſuppoſing the queſtion entire before us) I ſhould think that, whether to obtain an honourable Peace, or to conduct a War with advantage if that ſhould be unavoidable, it is indiſpenſably neceſſary that we ſhould order Colonel Upton to withdraw to Bombay. I mean always on the preſumption that the Miniſtry have given a peremptory denial to our keeping Salſette, or accepting of the exchange propoſed to them by our laſt letter; it ſeems to me, from the intelligence now before us, that we treat with great diſadvantage, while Colonel Upton is at Poonah; and I ſay this from a ſuſpicion that they avail themſelves of the circumſtance of having him and his party in their power; otherwiſe it is inconceivable to me, that when we offer to relinquiſh the greateſt part of the advantages ſtipulated with a Prince whoſe title to the Peiſhwaſhip, or at leaſt to the actual Government during the minority of Mhada Row Narrain, is in competition with theirs, they ſhould abſolutely refuſe to make us any compenſation for ſo great a ſacrifice to them, at leaſt it is ſuch, whatever we may deem it. This is my general opinion of the line which this Board ought to purſue, but as I have not yet heard the ſentiments of the other Members of the Board, and as ſo great a queſtion as Peace or War is under the deliberation of the Board, I ſhall reſerve my final vote upon this queſtion until I have the advantage of hearing the ſentiments of the other Gentlemen.

Mr. Barwell—Though there is not regularly any queſtion before this Board, as Mr. Francis has thought it neceſſary to comment ſo largely on the ſentiments expreſſed by the Governor General, it may be expected that I ſhould give my ideas upon the meaſures this Government ought to purſue on the preſent ſtate of the Company's Affairs in the weſtern ſide of India. This Council has been very moderate in the Propoſals made to the miniſterial party at Poonah, for withdrawing their Forces from the Field, and relinquiſhing the advantages which, under the ſanction of a Solemn Treaty, the Company are entitled to reap. From the letters we have received from Colonel Upton, it ſeems not to be left to our option to effect a Pacification, on any other terms than by ſubmitting to ſuch as may be dictated by the Poonah Durbar. I confeſs I ſhould be concerned to ſee the Company involved in an expenſive War, but when I conſider the diſhonour that muſt ariſe to the Engliſh Arms, by appearing to yield that through fear which we have it in our power to over-rule, we ſacrifice both the intereſts of the Company, and our military reputation, by ſuch tameneſs. We offer to yield to the Maratta Government certain benefits to be derived to us by a certain mode of conduct, and conſequently have a right to expect that ſome ſmall equivalent, however inadequate it may be to our Conceſſions, ſhould be made to us, for deviating from that conduct. I will not enter into the Principles that firſt led the Bombay Government to adopt the cauſe of Ragoba, but being engaged, I judge we have a right to take advantage of the preſent ſtate of the Maratta Government, to the advantage of the Company. I do not think any part of Broach ſhould be yielded up in exchange for Baſſein, admitting that the power was unqueſtionably in this Board to cede or transfer the actual Poſſeſſions of the Company. In the preſent ſtate of Colonel Upton's Negociations, I do not ſee any ſteps that this Government can take in it, further than to authorize the Government of Bombay, provided his Negociation does not prove ſucceſsful, to purſue ſuch meaſures for their own defence, and the ſupport of this Ally, as they may judge prudent and conſiſtent with the general intereſts of their ſettlement.

Colonel Monſon—The Governor General, by the Act to which he alludes, admits a power in this Government to make Peace. The means of doing it muſt therefore be inherent in it, and if it can only be effected by making ceſſions of any of our preſent Poſſeſſions, undoubtedly we have a right to yield them up. Colonel Upton's letters leave no option in this Board in what manner they may continue their future Negociations; he acquaints us, that he ſhall ſtipulate certain terms for the Company on the Iſland of Baſſein, to the excluſion of other European Nations, but that he apprehends the Poonah Durbar will not be prevailed upon to allow of the ceſſion of Baſſein and Salſette, in which caſe he purpoſes to retire to Bombay. This event muſt have taken place before he can receive any further Inſtructions from us. If his Negociation ſhould not have taken place, on the terms mentioned in his letter, it will then be for the Board to conſider, whether they will continue the War in conjunction with Ragoba, or act upon the defenſive? When that becomes a queſtion, I ſhall be ready to give my ſentiments upon it.

General Clavering—On the deciſion of the queſtion, whether the Orders which have been already given to Colonel Upton ſhall be confirmed or modified? depends the final events of Peace or War with the Maratta State. Our firſt Inſtructions to him were conveyed in terms which breathed a different ſpirit from thoſe which have lately animated this Board; we directed Colonel Upton to aſſure the Miniſtry of Poonah, of the regret that we felt at the commencemeht of hoſtilities on the part of the Government of Bombay; that we diſavowed its Negociations with Ragoba, and that we wiſhed for nothing more than to unite with them in friendſhip. On the 7th September we began to change our language, and ſince that time, and ſince Mr. Tayler's arrival, ſome Gentlemen have ſuggeſted, that the Honour of the Engliſh Name was more concerned in procuring and maintaining conqueſts, than in either paying a regard to the Inſtructions of the Court of Directors to preſerve the Peace in India, or to ſet an example of juſtice and moderation, by relinquiſhing Poſſeſſions that had been obtained by the infraction of a Treaty of Peace. Thoſe who now perſevere in thoſe meaſures, muſt be reſponſible for the conſequences of them, and ought, when they ſend their final Orders to Colonel Upton, to conſider on the means for carrying on the War, and inſtructing the Bombay Council accordingly.

Governor General—I meant not my minute as a formal queſtion for the determination of the Board; but as the ſenſe of the individual Members of the Board ſeem to have been delivered in the ſeveral Minutes which have followed mine, and as it is neceſſary that ſome anſwer ſhould be given to Colonel Upton, I beg leave to propoſe the following queſtion for the determination of the Board, Whether Colonel Upton ſhall be ordered to conclude a Treaty of Peace with the Maratta Adminiſtration at Poonah, under the Inſtructions which have been already tranſmitted to him; or, in caſe of their Refuſal to accede to the Treaty, to require his Diſmiſſion, and retire to Bombay? Appendix, No. 105.

Mr. Francis—I have already given my opinion on that point.

Mr. Barwell—I think Colonel Upton ſhould be inſtructed conformably to the Queſtion.

Colonel Monſon—I think he ſhould, unleſs he has concluded a Treaty before he receives our laſt Inſtructions; in which caſe, if the Conditions of it are not conformable to his laſt Inſtructions, it ſhould not be cancelled; he ſhould make a peremptory demand conformably to his laſt Inſtructions; and if the Poonah Durbar will not give him a categorical anſwer, he ſhould demand his Diſmiſſion, and retire to Bombay in ſix days after the receipt of the Letter now propoſed to be wrote to him.

General Clavering—I agree with Colonel Monſon, that whatever Conditions we may have agreed upon, they ſhould not be cancelled by the ſubſequent Orders that Colonel Upton has received from us; but if he has not been able to obtain the Iſland of Baſſein unconditionally, or in exchange for the Town and Territory of Broach, I am of opinion that he ſhould not inſiſt upon it. With regard to the other part of his Inſtructions, I think he ought not to inſiſt abſolutely on any thing more than the Iſland of Salſette, and the other Iſlands in the Bay; however, to obtain ſuch other advantages in the neighbourhood of Surat or Broach as he may find they will readily yield. His retirement to Bombay muſt follow of courſe, if the Conditions I have propoſed are not complied with.

Governor General—I agree to the Queſtion, and to the qualification propoſed by Colonel Monſon; namely, that if Colonel Upton ſhall have concluded a Treaty in the manner which he has adviſed us in his laſt letter he intended, before the receipt of our letter of the 15th February, that Treaty ſhould be confirmed. I likewiſe approve of the limit of time propoſed for his departure.

Mr. Francis—This Government will undoubtedly be bound by any Treaty which Colonel Upton may conclude; of courſe I preſume it can never be propoſed to cancel or alter it. I think however, that ſuppoſing it concluded before the receipt of our laſt Inſtructions, and that he ſhall have relinquiſhed the demand of Baſſein, he might ſtill be inſtructed to propoſe the exchange of Broach for that Iſland, if he ſhould find the Miniſtry diſpoſed to comply with ſuch a propoſal.

Agreed, That in caſe Colonel Upton ſhall not have already concluded a Treaty, he be ordered to conform to his former Inſtructions; and if the Miniſtry at Poonah ſhould not accede to thoſe Conditions, that he require his Diſmiſſion, and retire to Bombay within ſix days from the receipt of theſe Orders: but if a Treaty ſhall have been concluded before the arrival of the laſt Inſtructions, without obtaining a Ceſſion of Baſſein to the Company, he be ordered to offer them the Terms of exchange therein mentioned.

READ, and approved, the Conſultation of yeſterday:

Received the following Letters from Lieutenant Colonel Upton:—

Gentlemen,

I had the Honour to write you on the 2d inſtant, and herewith forward a Duplicate of that Letter.

By the converſation that paſſed laſt night at the Durbar, which accompanies this, you will perceive that the Negociation is entirely at an end. The Miniſters are determined never to grant the Sunnuds for the Company's keeping Salſette, or for their poſſeſſing the four ſmall adjacent Iſlands. They offered in exchange for Salſette a Country of three lacks of rupees in the neighbourhood of Broach, but would not wait my referring this buſineſs to the Board, as I requeſted; though they were told, and underſtood, that by laying a dauk to Benares, they might get a reply as ſoon as the anſwer to our former reference (under date 5th January) could arrive. They could not wait for that either; they ſaid they had already expended immenſe ſums, and had been deceived by the letters from Calcutta; that full powers were veſted in me, and from me they expected an anſwer. I obſerved to them, that full powers it was true were veſted in me, provided I did not deviate from the Inſtructions that were given me, and I had all along told them, that Salſette could not be given up, and that they might be aſſured I ſhould never abuſe the powers they conceived me poſſeſſed of. That they had yet an opportunity left of aſking this exchange, they replied No, poſitively.

In five or ſix days more I am to leave Poonah Dhur, and they will then fix the time for the expiration of the Ceſſation of Arms. I told them I expected a ſufficient time to adviſe all our Settlements before the renewal of the War; however, I ſuſpect them of taking every advantage.

I wrote the laſt week to the Governor and Council of Bombay, to prepare them for this event; alſo to Colonel Keating, that he might guard againſt any ſurprize. His Majeſty's Squadron being here at this time is a fortunate event; and, I think, if the War is to be proſecuted, if three or four companies of Europeans, a ſmall detachment from the corps of artillery, and two or three battalions of Sepoys were embarked from Bengal to join the Army from Bombay, we might ſoon command Peace on our own Terms, for the Chiefs of this Country are quite at a loſs which ſide to take, and are waiting to ſee what the Engliſh do.

I incloſe a Letter I received two days ago from the Governor and Council of Bombay, with an Extract of a letter they had received from Colonel Keating, and further offers made by Ragonaut Row. In three or four days I ſhall write again by way of Benares.

Poonah Dhur, 7th February 1776. I have the Honour to be, &c. (Signed) J. Upton.

P. S.—I ſhall write to the Governor and Council of Fort St. George and the Nabob of Arcot, to inform them of the Treaty's being broke off with the miniſterial party.

Debate at the Peiſhwa's Durbar, February 6th, 1776.

Colonel Upton went to the Durbar this evening at half paſt ſix o'clock. After the uſual complimentary queſtions, the converſation turned on the time and delay it would occaſion, ſending letters to Calcutta, and receiving anſwers, before the Treaty could be concluded; that they had already expended crores of rupees for theſe ſeven months paſt, waiting the Colonel's arrival; and continuing that expence to receive further accounts from Bengal, would condemn them in the eyes of the whole World. That the Colonel came to treat with them with full powers, why, therefore, refer to others?

The Colonel obſerved to them, that by the plan he propoſed of laying a dauk from this to Benares immediately, anſwers would arrive as quick, if not quicker, than the replies to the letters ſent ſoon after his arrival. Regarding their objections to aſſembling the principal Chiefs to ſign the Treaty, that although he was of opinion the Supreme Council would, after reading his repreſentation, be ſatisfied with the uſual ſignatures as mentioned by the Gentlemen here, yet it was neceſſary for him to receive their letter to that purpoſe, before he would deviate from that Article of his Inſtructions; and that being the caſe, there could be no time loſt in continuing the Ceſſation of Arms for another month, particularly as they might, if they pleaſed, withdraw what part of their Army they thought proper to reduce their expence, and that the Colonel would be anſwerable that the Engliſh Army would ſtrictly attend to the Terms of the Ceſſation; and further, that he propoſes this meaſure of referring to the Supreme Council, becauſe they (the Miniſters) did not ſeem to credit that his demands were in conſequence of his Inſtructions; that he himſelf could not deviate from theſe Inſtructions, but it was very probable the Gentlemen of Calcutta would, by their own repreſentations and his, be diſpoſed to comply with their propoſals, or refer them to England if they thought neceſſary, by which means the Miniſters would be ſenſible, that he acted with ſtrict Honour from the beginning. That he alſo would engage for the continuance of the Ceſſation of Arms for a month, or more, after the replies arrived from Calcutta; if the alternative was to renew the War, to give them full time to aſſemble their Troops.

They declared they had been already ſo much diſappointed by the letters from Calcutta, and drawn into ſuch very heavy expence, from a certainty that no claims whatever ſhould be made upon their Country; and that Salſette, which had been ſo unjuſtly taken from them, would be again reſtored; that they had no idea or intention of ſuffering the like inconvenience any more. That as the Colonel had come ſo great a diſtance to ſettle a Peace with them, they wiſhed to ſhew a diſpoſition to do every thing in their power to conclude a Peace. That from theſe conſiderations, they would give up the Country mentioned yeſterday, in lieu of Salſette; but could not make Peace upon any other Terms. That it reſted with the Colonel to agree or not, as he pleaſed, as he was come with full powers to treat with them.

The Colonel aſſured them, that though he had full powers, he was determined not to abuſe them, and that he was not authorized to give up Salſette: that he muſt again obſerve to them, the Supreme Council might, and it was probable they would, agree to their offer; but it was not in his power to part with Salſette.

They replied very ſhortly, God will determine as he thinks beſt.

The Colonel aſked their abſolute determination.—They declared, they knew of none but War.

The Colonel ſaid, he was very ſorry he could not act more to their ſatisfaction, for it would give him great pleaſure if he could.

It was then agreed that the Colonel was to ſtay five or ſix days near Poonah Dhur, by which time they would aſſemble a Durbar for him to take his leave.

The Colonel obſerved, that from the day he took his leave, it would be neceſſary to fix a certain day, not nearer than a month or twenty days, to give a reaſonable time for all parties being properly informed with the renewal of the War.

They ſaid, when the Colonel came to take his leave, they would fix a day for the Commencement of Hoſtilities.

N. B.—It

N. B.—It was remarked in this evening's Converſation, that finding the Colonel could not (or would not, as they termed it) reſtore Saljette, they never opened their lips about any thing elſe.

A true Interpretation.
A. Macpherſon, Perſian Interpreter.

From the above advices, which ſupercede the orders of yeſterday, it appears moſt probable, that the Treaty with the Miniſterial Party of the Maratta State has been broke off, and hoſtilities renewed; it is alſo probable that theſe ſudden and abrupt Declarations of the Miniſters, may have been a feint, for the purpoſe of trying what impreſſion it might make on the mind of Colonel Upton, and that finding him determined, they may ultimately conſent to an accommodation, upon the Terms which he has propoſed to them; but this the Board can ſtate only as a poſſible event, and it now becomes neceſſary to ſuppoſe the War renewed, and to provide the means of conducting it with the greateſt probability of ſucceſs. From the Returns now laid before the Board by the Commander in Chief, it appears, that the whole Military Force at the Preſidency of Bombay, excluſive of the remote Factories, is as follows, including Officers:

	Artillery.	Infantry.	Sepoys.
At Bombay - - - - - -	112	450	1776
Madras detachment at ditto - - - - - -			893
In the Field - - - - - -	114	378	1454
Madras detachment ditto - - -	106		—
At Salſette - - - - - -	75	193	955
At Caranja - - - - - -	1	29	240
	302	1156	5318

The preſence of His Majeſty's Squadron appears a circumſtance moſt favourable to the deſign of reinforcing the detachment in the Field, as the garriſon at Bombay will require but very few men to defend it, and the reſt (the Board think) may be conveniently and ſafely ſpared to be ſent into the Field.

APPENDIX, No. 106.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

WE have received your Letter, dated the 24th ultimo.

Immediately on the Ceſſation being proclaimed, we gave Inſtructions to the Commanders of all the Company's Veſſels; not to moleſt any boats or veſſels belonging to the Marattas; and as no act of hoſtility has been committed on our ſide, there is not any occaſion for repeating theſe orders.

We are much pleaſed to find you are convinced of the propriety of the Company's Troops not being entirely withdrawn from Ragonath Row's, before the concluſion of the Treaty, and we are ſenſible you will experience the good effects of this meaſure in your Negociation.

The ſeveral Ceſſions from Futty Sing (except Batta) were made long before the receipt of the Governor General and Council's Orders for diſcontinuing the War.

The Treaty between him and Ragoba was executed on the 18th of July laſt, near Brodera, whereas thoſe Orders did not reach Bombay until the 12th of Auguſt; and it was ſtipulated in that Treaty, that the Guicawar ſhare of the Broach Revenues, and the Villages of Cordi, Chickley, and Periow, ſhould be ceded to the Honourable Company. Futty Sing before this was openly connected with the Miniſterial Party; but when he found Ragoba ſupported by the Engliſh he was glad to make his Peace with him, and return to his Allegiance; and theſe Ceſſions were made to the Honourable Company, for the Services rendered him in accommodating matters between him and the Peiſhwa. He has lately made many profeſſions of his attachment to the Company; and in a letter to our Preſident at the time, expreſſed his ſatisfaction at the accommodation effected by Colonel Keating. The only Ceſſion obtained ſince the Ceſſation, was the Village of Batta, which is ſo connected with our other poſſeſſions, that a grant of it was requeſted from Futty Sing in the room of Sinore, a place producing a much more conſiderable Revenue, which we voluntarily relinquiſhed becauſe it was not ſo conveniently ſituated. We have alſo lately requeſted him to give up his pretenſions to the Autgoms, ſome Villages ſituated in the very center of the Broach Pergunnah, which he does not ſeem to conſider as included in his grant of that diſtrict, but we are not yet apprized of the ſucceſs of this application. We never authorized, nor do we believe any compulſion was ever uſed to obtain theſe grants from Futty Sing.

We muſt again ſtrongly urge to you the propriety of your inſiſting upon the Miniſters ſettling an Eſtabliſhment for Ragoba immediately, for we may venture to foretel, that if you recede from this point, they will protract and retard the Negociation by every artifice in their power, in the hopes of Ragoba's Army diſbanding for want of Pay, which would entirely fruſtrate the good effect we, with ſo much reaſon expected from our late meaſures, and we are alſo apprehenſive it will be a difficult matter to prevent an Army without Pay in a plentiful country, from committing ſome irregularities, which the Miniſters will be very ready to term an infringement of the Ceſſation.

We have lately received a Letter from Colonel Keating, containing ſome Propoſals made by Ragoba, of which we think it proper to tranſmit a Copy for your notice, and likewiſe an Extract from another Letter alluded to therein; but the Orders from the Governor General and Council arriving about that time, Mr. Forbes did not deliver Ragoba's Propoſals. You have never acknowledged the receipt of our Letter, dated the 29th ultimo.

We hope you will prevail with the Miniſters to give immediate orders for opening the communication; and remain,

Sir, &c.

Appendix. No. 107.

Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating to the Select Committee of Bombay, dated the 5th September 1775, from Muckerpere Camp, three miles from Brodira.

I HAD the honour of addreſſing you laſt the 6th inſtant; ſince when, I had ſeveral long Conferences with the Peiſhwa, repecting Nizam Ally, who is in Treaty with both him and the Miniſters. The Peiſhwa ſays, that without Nizam Ally joins the Miniſters they cannot again make any formidable head againſt him, ſo that him only is he apprehenſive of, being poſſeſſed of a great number of cannon and a large body of good country infantry.

The Nizam would moſt willingly join the Peiſhwa, provided he agrees to his terms, but the latter ſays he wiſhes for no other friends than the Engliſh alone, who have done every thing for him, therefore is deſirous of receiving aſſiſtance from them only, and grant Territory in lieu thereof. Our laſt converſation on this ſubject was on the 6th inſtant; he then requeſted me to appoint a proper perſon to proceed to Bombay immediately, ately, accompanied by a man of his own to ſettle this buſineſs. His wiſh is to have an augmentation to the number of Forces already ſtipulated for, of at leaſt two hundred Europeans and one thouſand Sepoys, beſides their Officers, alſo four field pieces, two royal howitzers, and ammunition in proportion. Upon your granting him this ſupply, he is ready to engage to increaſe the monthly ſtipend, alſo to grant and make over to the Company for ever, ſuch Country as you ſhall eſteem moſt proper, having an exact affinity to the number of Troops, &c. formerly agreed for, and now required.

In compliance with the Peiſhwa's requeſt, and judging it proper ſo to do, I have appointed Mr. James Forbes to proceed to Bombay on this buſineſs. He is the bearer of this Letter, and having acted as my Secretary ſince Mr. Holmes went to Bombay, he is able to give your Honour, &c. every kind of information you may require; and I requeſt he may return to the Army, when this affair is concluded.

The Peiſhwa deſires me to requeſt, that you will be pleaſed to write to the Governor and Council of Madras to inſiſt on Nizam Ally remaining neutral in the diſpute between him and the rebellious Miniſters: Alſo, that the Governor of Bombay will write to the Nizam to the ſame purpoſe, and if neceſſary, ſend a Gentleman to him; but adds, that ſhould the Nizam in defiance of ſuch remonſtrance, perſiſt in taking an active part againſt him, he doubts not, with the Bleſſing of God, and the reinforcement above-mentioned, to be able in the courſe of the enſuing campaign, to reduce the Miniſterial and the Nizam's joint Force, and compel him to make ample reſtitution; in which caſe, he aſſures me, the Company may depend upon reaping conſiderable advantages.

A true Extract,

(Signed) Edward Ravenſcroft, Sec^r^.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

I had the honour to addreſs you laſt the 18th inſtant. Since the diſpatch of the 5th inſtant, by which your Honour, &c. received full powers to treat with the Supreme Council of Calcutta, in the perſon of Lieutenant Colonel Upton, the Peiſhwa has been conſidering with great attention on the beſt grounds for eſtabliſhing a Treaty with that Council. He frequently mentioned the ſubject to me, ſignifying his intention of extending his deſigns with the aſſiſtance of the Engliſh; and this he declared, not from views entirely confined to himſelf, but alſo with thoſe of enlarging conſiderably the intereſts and advantages of the Honourable Company, to whom he acknowledges himſelf highly indebted. In conſequence of theſe conſiderations, he yeſterday made known to me the grand outlines for the baſis of this new Treaty, deſiring at the ſame time that I would explain the whole to your Honour, &c. ſince he intended the ſame to anſwer to you, as guides in the management of the Treaty. He concluded with obſerving, that he had deſigned and propoſed ſomething ſimilar to the preſent propoſitions the beginning of Auguſt laſt, and which I communicated in part under the 8th of that month, by Mr. James Forbes, who was further inſtructed on that occaſion.

The following are the Articles as explained by the Peiſhwa.

1. That he the Peiſhwa doth confirm and guarantee to the Honourable Company, the Treaty of Surat, in the moſt full and ample manner.

2. That he Ragonath Badjirow ſhall grant, cede, and for ever make over unto the Honourable Company, all that part of the Cocanny Country immediately appertaining to the Poonah Govenment, except the Port of Ghiriah, and a Territory thereunto annexed ſufficient for the uſes of the Port.

3. That the ſaid Ragonath Badjirow Peiſhwa ſhall, as ſoon as poſſible, put the Honourable Company's Troops in full and ample poſſeſſion of any one of the gaupts or paſſes that lead from the Cocanny into the high part of the Maratta Dominions; and which gaut or paſs ſhall be determined on by the Honourable Company, and ever after conſidered as belonging to the Eaſt India Company.

4. That the ſaid Ragonath Badjirow Peiſhwa doth agree, that the Honourable Company ſhall receive the ſum of 10 per cent. per annum, out of, and from the groſs produce of every Jaghire that has been, or may hereafter be granted to any perſon whatever, who is or may hereafter be dependant on the Maratta Government; and the ſaid ſum of 10 per cent. per annum ſhall be paid in Caſh, without any deductions whatever, to ſuch perſon or perſons as the Honourable Company, or their proper agents, ſhall appoint; or ſuch Lands and Territories as the ſaid Company may eſteem moſt convenient to be made over to them, within the courſe of one year from the ſigning of the Treaty, in the moſt full and ample manner, by the ſaid Ragonath Badjirow, or his Heirs.

5. That the ſaid Ragonath Badjirow Peiſhwa doth engage, for himſelf and his Heirs, to take from the Honourable Company to the amount of ten lacks in Woollens annually, paying for the ſame an advance of fifteen per cent. upon the prime coſt.

6. That in conſideration of the above Ceſſions, Grants, and Advantages to the Honorable Company, they on their part ſhall engage to add to the Army now in the Peiſhwa ſervice, ſuch a ſufficient Force, as may be able with God's Bleſſing, to place him in poſſeſſion of the Seat of his Father, the Government of the Maratta Dominions.

7. And that the Eaſt India Company do agree to advance him, Ragonath Badjirow Peiſhwa, the ſum of ten lacks of rupees, the better to enable him to proſecute and fulfil theſe engagements; and which ten lacks are to be repaid within one year after his reſuming Charge of the Government.

8. And that as it is well known the Family of Nizam Alli Cawn are encroachers and uſurpers of the natural rights of the Hindoos, as alſo declared friends to the French Nation, the power of the ſaid Nizam Alli Cawn ſhall be curtailed, as the contracting Powers may judge proper, for the eaſe and ſafety of the Common Cauſe; and further, that whatever Country it may be neceſſary to diſpoſſeſs him of, one fourth part of its groſs annual Revenues ſhall be paid nett to the Honourable Company, in the manner laid down with reſpect to the 10 per cent. from the Jaghires, or lands and territories granted in lieu thereof: Alſo is provided,

9. That all Troops provided by the Honourable Company for the aſſiſtance of Ragonath Badjirow, or his Heirs, for the purpoſe above-mentioned, or any other that may hereafter be neceſſary, ſhall be paid and allowed for in the ſame proportion as is provided for by the Treaty of Surat, except the expence of carrying ordnance ſtores and proviſions, which are ever to be eſteemed diſtinct, and allowed as a ſeparate charge.

10. That from the day of ſigning the Treaty upon which theſe Articles depend, the contracting Parties ſhall eſteem themſelves as mutually bound to aſſiſt and ſupport each other in their juſt rights and full poſſeſſions, to the end of time; and the ſaid Ragonath Badjirow Peiſhwa doth, of his own free will and accord, further agree, for himſelf and his Heirs for ever, That in caſe the Engliſh Nation were at any time attacked either by a foreign or Indian Power in any part of their Settlements or Poſſeſſions in India, that he or his Heirs will and ſhall aſſiſt them with ſix thouſand horſe, free of all expence whatever, and with the whole of his Fleet, that may belong to the Port of Ghiriah.

The Peiſhwa deſired me to obſerve to your Honour, &c. that the groſs amount of the Jaghire proceeding from the Maratta's Government, amount at preſent, to about two crore of rupees per annum.

From the certain advantages that will ariſe to the Honourable Company by this propoſed Treaty, the Peiſhwa doubts doubts not, but the ſame will be readily agreed to; and as a principal part of it was framed ſo long ago as the beginning of laſt Auguſt, and at that time mentioned to your Honour, &c. it cannot be regarded as extraordinary that it is now renewed.

I am, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 108.

RESOLVED, That the following Letter be written to Mr. Briſtow.

To Mr. Briſtow.

Sir,

By a Letter received from Colonel Upton, under date the 7th of February, we are informed, that the Miniſters at the Poonah Durbar have peremptorily refuſed to accede to the terms of accommodation, which he was inſtructed to propoſe to them. That they poſitively inſiſted on the reſtitution of Salſette, and a renunciation of the four ſmall Iſlands adjacent to it; and would not agree to wait the reſult of a reference of this point to us; in ſhort, that they were determined to hear of Peace on no Conditions, that ſhould not be excluſively honourable, and advantageous to themſelves; Colonel Upton's Negociation is therefore entirely broken off; he was to receive his diſmiſſion, and retire to Bombay within ſix days from the date of his letter; but the further interval to be allowed before the renewal of hoſtilities was not then determined. The Miniſters having reſolved to ſend their Army again into the Field, we have no alternative left, but a vigorous proſecution of the War againſt them, in conjunction with Ragonaut Row, on the preſumption that the reſolution of the Miniſterial Party is final. We have agreed to ſupport the pretenſions of that Prince, and have taken every preparatory ſtep that has occurred to us, for providing means to carry on the War with vigour and ſucceſs.

The immediate march of the brigade from Owde to the frontier of the Province of Corah, neareſt to Calpee, appearing to us a meaſure likely to be attended with good effects, not only from the appearance of reſolution which it will convey to the neighbouring Powers, but alſo for the conveniency of detaching the party hereafter-mentioned, if the ſituation of affairs ſhould abſolutely require it, we deſire you will repreſent to the Nabob the ſtate of our tranſactions with the Marattas, and that we judge it neceſſary, for the ſecurity of his Dominions, to remove the brigade from its preſent cantonments to Corah. In this ſtation they will be ready to oppoſe any attempts which Radajee Scindia, or any other Maratta Chief, might be encouraged, by the preſent diſpoſition of the Company's Forces, or by other circumſtances, to make againſt his poſſeſſions; and in this light we deſire you will repreſent this propoſed movement of the brigade to the Nabob, as a meaſure calculated for his ſecurity, rather than for any direct purpoſe of our own.

As ſoon as you have obtained his conſent to the motion of the brigade, you will adviſe Colonel Stibbert, who is ordered to hold himſelf in readineſs to march.

We have written to all the neighbouring States to engage their aſſiſtance againſt the Miniſters at Poonah, or at leaſt to ſecure their neutrality.

Madajee Scindea, and Touckoojee Holcar, have been referred to you for particulars. If they have Vackeels at the Nabob's Court, you will ſound them with reſpect to their Maſter's attachment to Ragoba's intereſt, and endeavour to diſcover their real intentions, whether they mean to take any, and what part in the War. You will alſo open a direct correſpondence with their Chiefs; the object of which muſt be to explain to them our late tranſactions with the Miniſtry at Poonah. That not having approved of the Proceedings of Bombay in their Declaration of War againſt the Miniſterial Party, we had endeavoured, from motives of moderation and of general amity to the Maratta States, to reſtore Peace in that part of India. That for this purpoſe we had deputed Lieutenant Colonel Upton to Poonah with ample powers to conclude a Treaty with the Miniſters there, and offering to relinquiſh many important advantages ſtipulated by the Preſidency of Bombay in their Treaty with Ragonaut Row; but that the Miniſters, notwithſtanding the ſucceſs of our Arms in the laſt campaign, have peremptorily refuſed to liſten to any terms of accommodation, but ſuch as left us without any advantage of any kind, and which we could not accept without diſhonouring ourſelves in the eyes of all Indoſtan: That the pacific meaſures we had hitherto purſued had produced no effect, but to demonſtrate to all Indoſtan the moderation and juſtice of the principles on which we act. That we are now compelled by the determined obſtinacy of the Miniſters to renew the War: That being reduced to this neceſſity, we have reſolved to ſupport the cauſe of Ragoba with the utmoſt vigour, and with a general exertion of the whole Power of the Engliſh Arms in India: That our grand Object is Peace; and that we are determined to act in all quarters at once; and by the deciſion and rapidity of our Proceedings, bring the War, if poſſible, to a ſpeedy concluſion: That as we are well aſſured of the fidelity and attachment of Madjia Sindia, and Touckoojee Holcar to the cauſe of Ragoba, we have thought it adviſeable to give them the earlieſt knowledge of the actual ſtate of affairs, and of our future intentions; and that we hope and expect they will not fail to make an immediate and public Declaration in Ragoba's favour. That to encourage them to take this ſtep, we have ordered the Brigade in Owde to march towards the frontiers of their country; where it will be ready to give them effectual ſupport, if the events of the War ſhould make it neceſſary; and that you are inſtructed to receive and tranſmit to us any propoſals which they may think fit to offer for the advantage of the common cauſe. Your correſpondence with the Maratta Chiefs will be formed out of theſe materials. That you may not, however, be unprovided with ſpecific Inſtructions to guide you in your Negociations with them, we authorize you to acquieſce in any requiſition made directly by them for the aſſiſtance of our Forces to the extent of three battalions of Sepoys, to join and cooperate with them in ſuch military operations as they may recommend, and be diſpoſed to engage in, for the intereſt of Ragoba. At the ſame time we in confidence acquaint you, that this is a meaſure which nothing but the apparent neceſſity of affairs could induce us to adopt. You will therefore take care not to make any propoſals of this kind yourſelf, but merely yield your conſent to it, on their ſolicitation. In that caſe you will give immediate notice to Colonel Stibbert, who is furniſhed with directions to act in conformity to the advices he may receive from you,

We are, &c.

Fort William, 7th March 1776. (Signed) Warren Hoſtings, &c. Council.

Appendix. No. 108.

Mr. Francis—I yield my aſſent to the latter part of the propoſed letter to Mr. Briſtow, in which he is empowered to bind us to a meaſure which may engage the Company's Arms beyond the line of the Guarantee of the Nabob of Owde's Dominions, ſolely upon the ground of neceſſity.

Colonel Monſon—I agree to all the meaſures propoſed by the Governor General, as thinking the War now unavoidable, but moſt ſeriouſly lament the ſituation in which this Country is thrown by the precipitate and ill-adviſed meaſures of the Preſidency of Bombay. I can now deviſe no means by which we can extricate ourſelves out of this War, but by a vigorous exertion of all the Company's Force.

General Clavering—Since the commencement of hoſtilities between the Government of Bombay and the Maratta

Appendix, No. 108.

Maratta State, my utmoſt endeavours have been employed to put an end to them by a Peace. But as the Negociation is now broken off with the Maratta State, I think it an indiſpenſable duty in me to give my concurrence to meaſures which ſeem beſt calculated to extricate the Government of Bombay out of the difficulties in which they have engaged their own Government, as well as the other Preſidencies. I think it neceſſary to enter this Declaration to obviate any objection that may be made to me againſt my conſenting to carry the Company's Arms beyond the line of defence preſcribed by them. Nothing but the neceſſity of the caſe ſhould have obliged me to it; and to prevent our being dazzled by the lucres which Ragoba has thrown out to the Government of Bombay, or various ceſſions which he will make to the Company as ſoon as he is in complete poſſeſſion of the Maratta Government, I think that the Government of Bombay ſhould be inſtructed to make a renunciation of every ceſſion that he has made, excepting the Iſlands of Salſette and Baſſein and their dependencies, together with ſo much Territory in the Neighbourhood of Surat and Broach, as will be juſt ſufficient to pay the expences of thoſe two eſtabliſhments.

The Governor General—The particular appellation which Colonel Monſon has made of my name, in the aſſent which he has expreſſed to the preceding reſolutions, makes it neceſſary for me to diſclaim any ſeparate concern in them from the other Members of the Board. I conſider myſelf only as the Inſtrument of the Board in collecting and dictating their concurrent ſentiments. I think it neceſſary to ſay thus much, not only as I look upon the meaſures now propoſed to be adopted, as the joint compoſition of the Board, but as I wiſh moſt heartily that in all caſes which may ariſe that have a relation to the object now before us, we may always proceed with the ſame unanimity; however different our ſentiments have been on the paſt meaſures, chance or cauſes independent of this Board, have at length concentrated both our opinions, views, and wiſhes in the ſame point; and I declare, that as in the late debates I laid it down as a rule to follow rather than take the lead, in the ſupport of meaſures which did not originate from myſelf, or with my participation, in like manner it is my intention to yield up, my own opinion, and to join moſt heartily with the reſt of the Board in the future conduct of the War, excepting in ſuch points only as ſhall very materially affect the intereſts of the Company, or the ſafety of their Poſſeſſions. I think it neceſſary to remark upon Mr. Francis's Minute, that I ſhould give with equal reluctance my aſſent to the diſcretional Order propoſed to be ſent to Colonel Stibbert and Mr. Briſtow, for the march of a party of our Forces beyond the defenſive line of the Dominions of the Nabob of Owde, were not the preſent a caſe which requires the moſt vigorous exertion of every power of this Government, for extricating the Company from the troubles in which they are involved, or were the meaſures which has been propoſed applicable in my ſenſe of it, either to the letter or the evident ſpirit of the Company's Orders, which have invariably forbidden remote expeditions, on the expreſs conſideration of the danger to which their own Poſſeſſions were expoſed by the abſence of the Forces neceſſary for their defence. I think it not likely that the Maratt a Chiefs will require the aid of our Forces; but we have no other condition of our Alliance which we can either offer or aſſent to. Should they make the requiſition, the refuſal would impreſs them with doubts of our ſincerity; our acquieſcence would rivet them to the cauſe, and the report of ſuch a Junction, and of the Britiſh Forces arming in all quarters of Indoſtan and Decan, would give credit to the party which we have eſpouſed, and influence the other Powers of Indoſtan, who are now heſitating to which ſide they ſhall adhere, to unite with us in confidence of our power, and the probability of our future ſucceſs. Such a detachment cannot properly be called a diminution of our military ſtrength, ſince it conſiſts only of the native Troops, whoſe places will be immediately ſupplied with others. I ſhall only add, that every other propoſition reſolved on, in this day's Conſultation, has my entire and hearty concurrence.

Agreed, That Colonel Stibbert be adviſed of the Orders ſent to Mr. Briſtow, as follows:

To Colonel Stibbert, or Officer commanding the Army in the Field.

Sir,

The Miniſters at Poonah having refuſed to liſten to the terms of accommodation propoſed to them by us, and having endeavoured to impoſe Conditions on this Government, excluſively honourable and advantageous to themſelves, we take it for granted that Colonel Upton has, in conſequence of his refuſal to comply with ſuch Conditions, received his diſmiſſion from their Court, and that hoſtilities are actually renewed; on this preſumption, we have ordered Mr. Briſtow to obtain the Nabob's conſent, and to give immediate information of it to you, that you may march with the brigade under your command to the frontier of the Province of Korah, neareſt to the Paſs at Calpee; you will therefore hold yourſelf in readineſs for this purpoſe.

Mr. Briſtow has been further ordered to open a Correſpondence with Madajee Sindia and Tuccajee Holkar, with a view to engage them to eſpouſe the Intereſt of Ragoba; and in caſe of their ſolicitation for the aſſiſtance of a part of our military Force, we have authorized Mr. Briſtow to yield to ſuch requiſition, and to give immediate notice of it to you; upon the receipt of which, we deſire that you will detach from the brigade under your command a Force not exceeding three battalions of Sepoys, to join and co-operate with Madajee Sindia and Tuccajee Holkar, or either of them, as may be agreed on againſt the miniſterial party; and you will ſupply the place of ſuch Force, by raiſing an equal number of freſh battalions, to keep entire the ſtrength of the brigade.

We are, &c.

Reſolved, That the following Letter be written to Fort Saint George:

Gentlemen,

By a Letter received from Colonel Upton, under date the 7th February, we are informed, that the Miniſters of the Poonah Durbar have peremptorily refuſed to accede to the terms of accommodation which he was inſtructed to propoſe to them; that they poſitively inſiſted on the reſtitution of Salſette, and a renunciation of the four ſmall Iſlands adjacent to it; and would not agree to wait the reſult of a reference of this point to us; in ſhort, that they were determined to hear of Peace on no Conditions that ſhould not be excluſively honourable and advantageous to themſelves. Colonel Upton's Negociation is therefore entirely broken off; he was to receive his diſmiſſion and retire to Bombay within ſix days from the date of his Letter, but the further interval to be allowed before the renewal of hoſtilities was not then determined. The Miniſters having reſolved to ſend their Army again into the Field, we have no alternative left but a vigorous proſecution of the War againſt them, in conjunction with Ragonaut Row, on the preſumption that the Reſolution of the miniſterial party was final: we have agreed to ſupport the pretenſions of that Chief, and have taken every preparatory ſtep that has occurred to us for providing means to carry on the War with vigour and ſucceſs.

We recommend it to you to ſuccour them immediately with a reinforcement of two battalions of Sepoys, or more if you can ſpare them, either by the way of Anjengo, if the ſeaſon be not too far advanced, or by what other route you may think more eligible; and to alleviate any danger which you might apprehend from being deprived of ſo large a body of your military force, you will, if you deem it adviſable, raiſe new Corps to ſupply the place of ſuch as you may ſend on this ſervice, during their abſence; and we are willing to defray any extraordinary charge that you may incur on this account.

We have written to Nizam Ally Cawn, Hyder Ally, Morary Row, Moodajee Boonela, Suckajee Holkar, and Madajee Sinda, with a view of engaging their aſſiſtance in favour of Ragoba; or at leaſt to ſecure their neutrality. We requeſt that you will open a correſpondence with the three firſt, and concur in uſing your joint efforts with us to induce them to ſecond our views for the re-eſtabliſhment of Ragoba in the Government of Poonah.

Our Reſident at Oude has been ordered to open a like correſpondence with Madajee Scindia and Suckajee Holkar; and in order to keep them firm to our party, we have removed the brigade from Oude to the frontier of Corah neareſt Calpee, under the pretence of affording them any aſſiſtance that the exigency of the caſe may require.

While we lament the neceſſity which has compelled us to undertake this War, and which has fruſtrated our endeavours to maintain a general Peace in India, ſo ſtrenuouſly recommended by the Company, we rely on your efforts to co-operate heartily and effectually with us in bringing it to a ſpeedy concluſion.

We are, &c.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings, &c. Council.

Fort William,
7th March 1776.

Reſolved alſo, That Sir Edward Hughes be addreſſed as follows:

To Sir Edward Hughes, Knight, Commander of His Majeſty's Squadron in India.

Sir,

We formerly had the honour to acquaint you of the principles in which the Preſident and Council of Bombay entered into an alliance with Ragonaut Row, to aſſiſt him with the Company's Troops in ſupport of his pretenſions to the Peiſhwaſhip of the Maratta Government at Poonah.

That not having approved the proceedings of that Preſidency in engaging the Company's Arms inhoſtilities againſt the miniſterial party, we had deputed Colonel Upton to Poonah, with full inſtructions and powers to conclude a Treaty of Peace with that party, on terms reciprocally honourable and advantageous; but by a letter juſt received from Colonel Upton of the 7th February, we are informed that the Miniſters would liſten to no conditions but ſuch as they might think fit to impoſe for their own honour and benefit excluſively, and to leave us no alternative but to acquieſce in them with diſhonour to ourſelves, or to renew the War. Colonel Upton was to receive his diſmiſſion, and retire from the Poonah Durbar, in five or ſix days after the date of his letter; but no period had then been fixed for the renewal of hoſtilities.

On the preſumption that the declared reſolution of the miniſterial party to proſecute the War was final, and that Colonel Upton has actually broke his Negociations and retired to Bombay, we take the earlieſt opportunity of adviſing you that we have releaſed the Preſident and Council of Bombay from the reſtrictions which we had laid upon the operations of their army, and have authorized them to continue the War in conjunction with Ragoba againſt the Miniſters.

As this is a meaſure to which we are unavoidably reduced, after having ſought by every honourable means to prevent it, we are determined, by a vigorous exertion of our powers, to bring the War to as ſpeedy a concluſion as poſſible. We have therefore taken every preparatory ſtep that has occurred to us for carrying it on with ſucceſs, by providing ſupplies of men and money, to be immediately ſent to Bombay; and by writing to all the Country Powers, to engage their aſſiſtance in the cauſe of Ragoba, or at leaſt to ſecure their neutrality. We entertain great hopes that they will not oppoſe him, as we underſtand from repeated informations that moſt of the Chiefs of the Maratta State were wavering in their determination which ſide they ſhould eſpouſe. Appendix No. 108.

We have only to requeſt the favour of you to continue with His Majeſty's ſquadron under your command on that coaſt during the continuance of theſe troubles, and to grant all the aſſiſtance in your power to the operations of the Preſident and Council at Bombay.

We are, &c.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings, &c. Council.

Fort William,
7th March 1776.

Agreed, That the Governor General be requeſted to write to Nizam Ally Cawn, Hyder Ally Cawn, Moodajee Boofila, Moodajee Sindia, Succajee Holkar, and Morrary Row, to engage their aſſiſtance in the cauſe of Ragoba, or to induce them to remain neuter.

Agreed alſo, That Succajee Holkar and Moodajee Boofila be referred to Mr. Briſtow for particulars.

And agreed, That a letter be written to Ragoba, and forwarded to Surat, as follows:

Gentlemen,

If Colonel Upton ſhould have been obliged to break off his Negociations with the Miniſters at Poonah, and a continuation of the War ſhould in conſequence have been reſolved on, we deſire you will immediately forward the incloſed Letter by a ſafe conveyance to Ragonaut Row; but if on the contrary a Treaty of Peace ſhould have been concluded, you will deſtroy it.

We are, &c.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings, &c. Council.

Fort William,
7th March 1776.

To Ragonaut Row.

The peremptory and repeated injunctions which this Government has received from the Company, to maintain the Peace of all their Poſſeſſions in India, and eſpecially to avoid every occaſion of difference with the Maratta Nation, compelled myſelf and the Council, on the firſt advices of the engagements which the Governor and Council of Bombay had entered into with you, without our knowledge or participation, and of the War which was the conſequence of thoſe engagements, to ſuſpend the continuance of it, until we ſhould have uſed our endeavours by every fair and honourable means, to obtain a peaceable accommodation of all differences; and for this purpoſe Colonel Upton was deputed on the part of this Government with full powers to negociate and conclude a Treaty of Peace with the Miniſters at Poonah. It was with much reluctance that I found myſelf under the neceſſity of appearing to counteract your views, while the Negociation continued; but I had not been inattentive to your intereſts in the inſtructions which I gave to Colonel Upton, who had expreſs directions to ſtipulate ſuch conditions as you ſhould approve, and as might enſure your future ſafety and welfare. By letters lately received from the Gentleman, I am informed by the Miniſters at Poonah, either preſuming on our moderation, or relying with as much confidence on their own ſtrength, have rejected his Offers of Peace, and declared their intentions of renewing the War. How much ſoever I have ſought to avoid this brunt, while the orders of my Superiors impelled me to it; yet, as my endeavours have proved unſucceſsful, and as I now deem myſelf freed from all former reſtraints, I feel the higheſt ſatisfaction in offering you, in the Name of this Government, the perpetual Friendſhip and Alliance of the Company, and the aſſiſtance of their Arms in all parts of India, to replace you with full Authority in the Seat of your Government at Poonah; and for that purpoſe letters have been written to the Preſidency of Bombay, authorizing them to renew their Negociations with you for a Treaty of Alliance, the ratification of which is to be referred to myſelf and the Council appointed for the ſuperintendance of the Company's Affairs in India, that the conditions of it may be equally binding on all their Governments and dependancies; and orders have been given both to that Preſidency, to the Preſidency of Madras, and to the Commander of our Forces in the Provinces of Oude, to co-operate in the execution of your deſigns, and particularly to form connection with Nizam Ally Cawn, Hyder Ally, Morrary Row, Moodajee Booſila, Succajee Holcar, and Madajee Sindia. I have alſo ſent ſupplies, both of men and money, to Bombay, and have neglected no means to enſure you the completeſt ſucceſs; for the next I refer you to the Governor of Bombay, of whoſe zeal and attachment you have already received the ſtrongeſt aſſurance and conviction.

Appendix. No. 108.

We are, &c.

Agreed, That the following Letters be written to Bombay and to Colonel Upton:—

Gentlemen,

By a letter received from Colonel Upton, under date the 7th February, we are informed that the Miniſters at the Poonah Durbar have abſolutely and peremptorily refuſed to accede to any terms of accommodation, but ſuch as ſhould be excluſively honourable and advantageous to themſelves; being therefore left without any alternative, he was to receive his diſmiſſion from their Court in five or ſix days, when a further interval would be fixed for the renewal of hoſtilities.

On the preſumption that Colonel Upton's Negociations are entirely broken off, that he has retired to Bombay, and that hoſtilities are in conſequence renewed, we think it neſſceary to to take the earlieſt opportunity to releaſe you from the reſtrictions which we formerly laid on your operations, and to provide every means in our power for carrying on the War in conjunction with Ragoba with vigour. We therefore authorize you to treat with him, and to give him the ſtrongeſt aſſurances of our full aſſiſtance and ſupport, which he has alſo been given to expect in a letter from this Government, whereof we tranſmit you a copy incloſed.

One of the moſt important ſervices you can render to the Company, is to obtain the immediate poſſeſſion of Baſſein, provided it can be done by Negociation with the Killedar, and by offering him advantageous terms for himſelf; but we do not mean to make this the preſent object of your military operations, which ſhould be directed to one point only, the Reſtoration of Ragoba; nor would we have your attention drawn off to any other, till that ſhall be accompliſhed.

We recommend it to you to ſend into the Field all the force you can poſſibly ſpare (and if you deem it neceſſary) to bring a body of freſh Sepoys for the duty and defence of your own garriſons. Although we ſhall leave the detail and immediate conduct of the War entirely to your direction, while the ſcene of its operation lies in your neighbourhood; yet, as we are entruſted with the general controul and ultimate charge of it, as it is likely, from the nature of it, to involve the Company's Poſſeſſions in every part of India, and the means of conducting it, muſt principally reſt on the reſources of this Government, we think it incumbent upon us to require and inſiſt that you aſſign the Command of the Army to General Gordon, whom alone we deem fit to be intruſted with a charge of ſuch conſequence to the Intereſt, Honour, and Safety of the Company, by whoſe expreſs choice and nomination he was appointed to it; and we alſo recommend that you give him immediate orders to join the Troops with Ragoba, and march the combined Forces with all poſſible expedition to Poonah, ſuffering no object to divert his attention from this main point, which we hope will put a concluſion to the War. The occaſion is too critical and important to ſuffer us to ſtand on perſonal reſpects. We hereby declare that we ſhall conſider you anſwerable to the Company for the conſequences, if our preſent recommendation of General Gordon ſhould not be complied with.

We have written to Sir Edward Hughes, to requeſt that he will remain with his ſquadron on your coaſt, and afford you all the aſſiſtance in his power; to this requeſt, you will, of courſe, add your own ſolicitation to him, and we have no doubt of his compliance; we have alſo deſired the Preſidency of Fort Saint George, to ſend you as large a re-inforcement of troops as they may be able to ſpare, and if the ſeaſon will permit, to diſpatch them either by the way of Anjengo, or by other roads which they may prefer; you are as well able to judge, as we are, how far it may be prudent to depend on receiving this re-inforcement in time.

We have further written letters to Nizam Ally Cawn, Hyder Ally, Moodajee Booſila, Moodajee Scindia, and Succoojee Holkar, to engage their aſſiſtance, or at leaſt their neutrality in the preſent War. The two firſt of theſe Chiefs will receive applications to the ſame effect from Fort Saint George, and we have ordered our Reſident at the Court of Oude, to open a negociation with the two laſt, and if they ſhould concur heartily with us, he is authorized, on their ſolicitation for aſſiſtance from us, to grant them the aid of three battalions of Sepoys, to co-operate in any military operations which they may recommend, and be diſpoſed to engage in, for the ſervice of Ragoba. In the mean time, we have ordered the brigade in Oude, to march to the frontiers of the Province of Corah, neareſt to the Calpee Pais, profeſſedly to be in readineſs for this ſervice, if the ſituation of Affairs ſhould abſolutely require it alſo, but with a view to keep them in awe, if they ſhould be inclined to counteract our meaſures.

To ſupply you with funds for carrying on the War, we propoſe to remit to you immediately, either in ſpecie or bills five lacks of rupees, and one to authorize you to draw on us, to the amount of five lacks more, the whole to be ſolely appropriated to the operations of the War. And that we may be ſatisfied that theſe great ſupplies are not only expended with œconomy, but ſtrictly appropriated to the ſervice for which they are given, we expect that you will keep a ſeparate account of the diſpoſition thereof, and of all other ſums which you may hereafter receive from us on this account, and that you do tranſmit the ſame to us; for the reſt we leave it to you, to form new connections, and to induce the ſeveral Chiefs of the Maratta Empire to eſpouſe the cauſe in which we are now unavoidably embarked.

The ſucceſſion of events which have involved the Company in this quarrel, has ſprung from meaſures in which we had no concern, and for which we are not anſwerable; but while we lament the neceſſity to which this Government is reduced, of engaging in War, we are equally ſenſible of the expediency of puſhing it with vigour, and to this object, you may be aſſured our utmoſt efforts ſhall be directed.

We are, &c.

Fort William, 7th March, 1776. (Signed) Warren Haſtings, and Council.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have received your letters of the 2d and 7th February. From the contents of the latter, we conclude that your Negociation has been entirely broken off off with the Miniſters; that you are returned to Bombay, and that hoſtilities have, in conſequence, unavoidably taken place. We have, therefore, on this preſumption, releaſed the Preſident and Council of Bombay from their former reſtraint, authorized them to renew the Treaty of Alliance with Ragoba, and to ſupport his pretenſions to the Peiſhwaſhip, with all the Force they can ſend to his aſſiſtance; we have alſo deſired the Governor and Council at Fort St. George, to grant them a reinforcement of men, and have taken ſuch meaſures on our own part, as we thought neceſſary to give life and vigour to his cauſe, by writing to the ſeveral Country Powers, and removing the brigade from its ſtation in Oude, to the frontier of Corah, neareſt Calpee.

We wait with impatience the arrival of the further Advices which you promiſed to ſend us, and ſuppoſe they will contain news, either of your having quitted Poonah, or that the Miniſters have yielded to your Propoſals, and a Treaty has been concluded with them. On the receipt of this letter, we ſhall write further to you; in the mean time, we ſhall only add, that if this ſhould find you ſtill at Poonah, and that no Treaty has yet been finally concluded, you will conform to the Inſtructions which you have already received.

Fort William, 7th March, 1776. (Signed) W. Haſtings, &c. Council.

Mr. Francis—I would beg leave to recommend it to the Board, that in authorizing the Preſidency of Bombay to treat again with Ragoba, they may be confined to the agreeing upon preliminary Articles of a Treaty, which Articles they may execute with him; but that the definitive Treaty may be referved to be ſettled and executed with Ragoba by this Government, as it is probable that the views of this Council, particularly with regard to Territorial Acquiſitions, may not be ſo extenſive as we have reaſon to think may be propoſed by the Bombay Preſidency.

Agreed, That the above Propoſal lie for conſideration till next Council-day.

Warren Haſtings,
J. Clavering,
Geo. Monſon,
P. Francis.

APPENDIX, No. 109.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 11th March, 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

READ, and approved, the Conſultation of the 7th inſtant.

The Secretary having read the following Papers and Note from General Clavering on Saturday, ſent it, agreeably to his requeſt, in circulation to the other Members of the Board.

General Clavering deſires Mr. Auriel to circulate to the Governor General, and the other Members of the Council, the incloſed Paper, in order that they may form their opinion on the propoſed meaſure of ſending 30 of the artillery corps, and 50 of the firſt regiment to Bombay: the expence, the length of the voyage, and the late ſeaſon at which they can arrive at Surat, being taken into conſideration.

He will be able to inform the Board to-morrow, of the quantity of field-pieces and howitzers which are, in ſtore. By the return of the Field Bombay Train it appears, that there are

lb.	lb.	lb.	lb.	lb.	lb.

5, 7, 4, of which ſerviceable, 3; in the Field 4 and 4.

It is neceſſary to conſider the pay and batta of the Troops during this voyage, and their eſtabliſhment afterwards. The General recommends to the Governor General and the Members of the Board, to determine what batta ſhould be given to the private men, and what to the officers during the voyage, and after they join the Bombay Army, to prevent every occaſion of animoſity on account of the difference in the batta, received by their officers and ours.

The queſtion that ariſes is, Whether, firſt, any ſtoppages ſhould be made from the private, for the proviſions furniſhed to them on board.

2d. Whether any, and what, advance of batta ſhould be made to them to enable them to purchaſe neceſſaries for the voyage.

To enable the Board to decide on the two queſtions, he has procured the beſt information (not having any precedent before him) of what appears to be proper.

That on the ſuppoſition of a voyage of three months, one month's full batta ſhould be paid to the men in advance, and one month after their arrival at Bombay, and the third month appropriated towards the payment of their proviſions; afterwards, to conform to the allowances in the Bombay ſervice, which he underſtands is the ſame as ours.

With regard to the officers who will be entitled to the full double batta as ſoon as they go on board, it is propoſed that they ſhould have three months paid in advance; and after their arrival at Bombay, to be paid only the batta of the officers on that eſtabliſhment, but to have the aſſurance of Government that they will be entitled at their return to the ſame allowances as were given to the detachment which went to the Decan in the year 1768.

To whom are the officers to apply for orders when they arrive at Bombay? The Preſident and Council, General Gordon, or Lieutenant-Colonel Upton?

The Board will be pleaſed to decide immediately on theſe points, as the neceſſary orders muſt be given.

I approve entirely of the above propoſals. I think the officers and men of the detachment, ought to be put under the immediate orders of General Gordon as ſoon as they join the Army.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings, Philip Francis, Richd Barwell.

There are very many inſtances of Troops belonging to one Preſidency ſerving at another. Whatever has been the cuſtom, ſhould be followed as a precedent. The general orders to the Troops while at Bombay, muſt, as I conceive, be given by the Governor and Council, and communicated to them by the uſual channel of the Fort Major. The private orders will be given by the ſenior officer of the corps.

(Signed) Geo. Monſon.

I approve of the propoſals of ſending a ſmall detachment to Bombay, but refer it to the conſideration of the Board, whether it would not be more proper to make the whole detachment to conſiſt of infantry, as there appears, from the return, to be already a number of artillery men at Bombay, ſufficient for the ſervice. If the veſſel propoſed to carry the detachment ſhould touch at Madras, ſhe will be infallibly detained in her voyage, and obliged to go to the Southern Paſſage, which will prevent her arriving in time to be of real ſervice. The Indian Queen being in readineſs to depart immediately, appears the fitteſt veſſel for the purpoſe.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings, Richd Barwell.

I agree

Appendix. No. 109.

I agree to the propoſal made by the Commander in Chief, if on farther conſideration he ſhould think the number of artillerymen now at Bombay inſufficient.

(Signed) Philip Francis,
Geo. Monſon.

Agreed, That two braſs twelve-pounders, two braſs ſix-pounders, with carriages, limbers, tumbrils, and a ſpare elevating ſcrew for each gun, be equally divided on the ſhips Indian Queen and St. Helena.

Reſolved, That a lieutenant, and a lieutenant fire-worker, with thirty-artillery men, a lieutenant and an enſign, with fifty European infantry, be alſo ſent with the guns on the ſhips above-mentioned—half the number on each ſhip.

Reſolved alſo, That on the arrival of the Troops at Bombay, the infantry be put under the command of Captain Allan M'Pherſon, who is now with Lieutenant Colonel Upton. And Agreed, That a complete camp equipage be ſent with them.

Agreed alſo, That the quantity of proviſions ſpecified in the above paper, with every thing neceſſary for the voyage, be furniſhed from the reſpective offices, under the direct orders of the Comptroller.

Reſolved, That three months pay and double batta be paid in advance to the officers, from the date of their embarking. That on their arrival at Bombay, they ſhall receive the ſame batta as the officers on that eſtabliſhment. And reſolved, That they be aſſured, that on their return they will be entitled to the ſame allowance of batta, as was made to the detachment which went to the Decan in 1767.

Agreed, That the officers on their arrival at Bombay, ſhall receive their orders from the Preſident and Council, but when in the Field, from the Commander in Chief, if he be preſent, or from the officer commanding on the ſpot.

Agreed, That two months pay and double batta be iſſued to the non-commiſſioned and private of the detachment, one half to be paid to them, the other to remain in the hands of the officer commanding each corps, and to be iſſued on their arrival at Bombay, they are afterwards to conform to the allowances in the Bombay ſervice.

Mr. Francis's Propoſition in the laſt Conſultation, relative to the limitation of the power to be delegated to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, for negociating a Treaty with Ragoba, being now taken into conſideration, is unanimouſly agreed to.

The Board proceed to conſider the Articles propoſed by Ragoba in the letter recorded in the laſt conſultation from Colonel Keating to the Preſidency of Bombay, and tranſmitted to this Board by Colonel Upton.

Agreed to the Firſt Article.

General Clavering—I think the Treaty of Surat ſhould be confirmed as far as it relates to Salſette and Baſſein, and the Iſlands; but I am of opinion that no more territory ſhould be obtained in the neighbourhood of Broach or Surat, than what will be ſufficient to pay the charges of thoſe two eſtabliſhments. The Country of Guzzerut, in which I underſtand is centered a great part of thoſe ceſſions that have been yielded to the Company by Futty Sing, is open, and will always require a conſiderable body of troops to defend it. An eſtabliſhment of troops adequate to the protection of ſo large a diſtrict, always expoſed to the incurſions of cavalry, would abſorb the amount of the Revenues that may ariſe from them. This opinion I confeſs, is not conſonant to the Company's Orders, which limited their views on the weſtern ſide of India to the Maratta proportion of the Surat Revenues, but at that time Broach had not been taken, and the ſame reaſons which in the year 1769 influenced the Court of Directors to obtain the Maratta porportion of Surat, I cannot doubt would now prevail with them to acquire a ſufficient territory to ſupport the expence of Broach, had a Treaty with the Maratta State come under their conſideration ſince that time.

Governor General—I think it will be proper to confirm the Treaty as it ſtands. The Countries yielded by the Territory in the neighbourhood of Broach and Surat, appear to me of too little importance either to be inſiſted on, or relinquiſhed, unleſs the poſſeſſion of them ſhould be an impediment to the new Treaty.

Mr. Francis—As I unite the idea of ſecurity to that of acquiſition, it has been my invariable opinion, which I believe conforms to the declared policy of the Company, that the territorial poſſeſſions on the weſtern ſide of India ſhould be confined to Salſette and Baſſein, and the other ſmall Iſlands near Bombay, the entire Revenue of Broach, and a territory round Broach and Surat ſufficient to ſupport the expence of the Company's Eſtabliſhment in thoſe places. If however it ſhould be the opinion of the majority of the Board to accept for the preſent, (and in order to ſupport the immediate expences of the War) of the additional conceſſions propoſed by Ragoba; I ſhall not oppoſe it, as it will depend upon this Government, or the Company, to relinquiſh them hereafter.

Mr. Barwell agrees to accept this Article.

Colonel Monſon—The peremptory and haſty refuſal of the Poonah Durbar to the propoſals of this Government for Peace, leaves us no alternative; I therefore am of opinion, that all advantages tendered to the Company for their aſſiſtance in this War ſhould be accepted. I ſhould act on different principles, had we had option as to what conduct we might purſue. There can be no harm in accepting any ceſſation, as the Company may at any time, if they think them improper, relinquiſh them. I agree to accept this Article of the Treaty.

General Clavering.—I cannot agree to accept of more territory till the Court of Directors pleaſure be known upon it. At the ſame time I admit, that the acquiſition of the Concany Country would be very convenient, both for the ſupport of Bombay in time of War, for the ſupply of proviſions, and likewiſe a great protection to Salſette, in order that it may become an uſeful conqueſt to the Company, but I think myſelf bound by the peremptory Orders of the Company with regard to the acquiſition of territorial poſſeſſions not to yield my conſent to it.

Governor General—I diſapprove of accepting this ceſſion, as it will extend our poſſeſſions to a diſtance unwarranted by the general ſpirit of the Company's Orders, and diſproportional to our means of defence.

Agreed, That the Second Article be not accepted, as it would extend our poſſeſſions to a diſtance not warranted by the ſpirit of the Company's Orders.

To the Third Article.

The Board having reſolved not to accept the country, the gaut is unneceſſary.

To the 4th Article.

The Governor General obſerves, that this ſhould be totally diſapproved, as it can by no means be enforced but ſuch as would render the Company obnoxious to every perſon of conſequence in the Maratta State, whoſe confidence and attachment it is our intereſt to conciliate, not to alienate them from us by an oppoſition of intereſts and an encroachment on their rights.

Mr. Francis objects to it for the ſame reaſon.

Mr. Barwell—I would accept of it.

Colonel Monſon rejects it, becauſe he thinks it would involve the Company in a conſtant ſcene of War with the Maratta Jaghiredars.

General Clavering objects to it.

Agreed, That it be rejected, as it could be enforced by no means, but ſuch as would render the Company obnoxious to every Jaghiredar in the Maratta State, whoſe confidence confidence and attachment it is the Company's intereſt to conciliate, not alienate by an oppoſition of intereſt, and by encroachments on their rights.

To the 5th Article.

Mr. Francis—I ſuppoſe that prime coſt includes all expences to the landing of the cloth in India, and I agree to it.

Mr. Barwell agrees to it.

Colonel Monſon—In conſequence of our relinquiſhing the advantageous offers made in the former Articles, I think the quantity ſhould be increaſed to 15 lacks.

Mr. Barwell acquieſces in Colonel Monſon's propoſition.

General Clavering—I conſider Ragoba's ſituation to have been ſo deſperate when he made theſe propoſitions, that I am afraid little dependance can be placed on the performance of them. When he is reinſtated, I cannot object to offers which are ſo evidently advantageous both to the Company and to Great Britain.

Governor General approves of this, if it can be obtained with the free and unconditional aſſent of Ragoba.

Agreed to.

To the 6th Article.

Agreed to, underſtanding the putting Ragonaut Row in poſſeſſion of Poonah to be the ultimate object of the Treaty, and of all the operations entered into with him.

To the 7th Article.

Rejected. The ſupply of ten lacks of rupees, which the Board have already reſolved to ſend to the Preſidency at Bombay, being all they have in their power to ſpare, they expect that it be ſolely appropriated to the military operations of that Preſidency.

Article the 8th not agreed to.

To the 9th Article.

Agreed, that the monthly ſubſidy to be paid for the troops furniſhed by the Company, be fixed at two lacks per month, without reference to the number in the Field; but in conſideration of this, we will aſſiſt him with our Forces in all parts of Hindoſtan and the Decan, which will produce a much greater expence to the Company.

To the 10th Article.

The Board cannot agree to bind the Company to ſuch extenſive engagements as thoſe ſpecified in this Article; but as the whole is now going home to the Court of Directors, their orders ſhall be requeſted upon this Article.

Agreed, That another letter be written to the Preſident and Council at Bombay, incloſing a copy of the above Articles, with the Reſolutions of the Board upon them, and directing them to conclude a preliminary Treaty with Ragoba agreeable thereto.

The letter to Bombay having been drawn up by the Secretary, he ſent it in circulation for the approbation of the Board, as follows:

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council, at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

Underſtanding from the returns of your ordnance, which have been laid before us by the Commander in Chief, that you will have occaſion for field pieces to proſecute the War, we have ſent by the Indian Queen and Saint Helena, two braſs twelve-pounders and two braſs ſix-pounders, with an equal number of carriages, limbers, and tumbrils, alſo a ſpare elevating ſcrew to each gun; we have alſo embarked a lieutenant and a lieutenant fireworker of artillery, with thirty artillery men, a lieutenant and enſign, with fifty European infantry, and a complete ſet of camp equipage. This force is equally divided on each veſſel; and we have appointed Captain Allan M'Pherſon to the command of the infantry on their arrival at Bombay. We have agreed for their paſſage at 2½ rupees per man per day, and have furniſhed them with proviſions and other neceſſaries for the voyage, agreeable to the incloſed account; if any overplus ſhould remain, you will receive it from the commanders. Appendix. No. 110.

We have received from Colonel Upton, and read with attention, the letter which Colonel Keating addreſſed you, under date 24th January, containing propoſals from Ragoba for a new treaty; but conſidering the circumſtances under which they were drawn up, we wiſh in general to decline accepting them. Our ſentiments are expreſſed upon each ſeparate article, and we tranſmit a copy of them for your information. We authorize you to conclude a preliminary Treaty with Ragoba, conformably to the conditions now agreed to, and thoſe contained in the Treaty of Surat, and deſire that you will tranſmit the new Treaty ſo concluded to us, as we mean to make it the baſis of a definitive one, which we propoſe to execute with him ourſelves. You will aſſure Ragoba at the ſame time, that we do not mean by this mode to exact further conceſſions from him, or to enlarge the conditions; of this our intention he may be convinced, if he conſiders how ready we have been to relinquiſh ſpontaneouſly moſt of the advantageous offers which he made through Colonel Keating, but we do it with a view of rendering the engagements more ſolemn, obligatory, and laſting.

We preſume you underſtand of courſe, that the part we take in the preſent War, and the aſſiſtance we mean to afford to Ragoba, are founded on the ſuppoſition, that he does not depart from ſuch of the conditions propoſed by himſelf as we have aſſented to.

We are, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 110.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 11th March 1776.

ORDERED, That the Liſt of Stores be entered after the Conſultation.

General Clavering having propoſed the following additional paragraph to the above letter, the ſecretary forwarded the ſame to the Governor General, and the other Members of the Board, and received back their ſeparate opinions, as follow the paragraph.

Additional paragraph propoſed by General Clavering to the letter to Bombay.

" We ſhall direct Lieutenant Colonel Upton to ſend " the two companies of Sepoys, under the command of " Captain Wroe, which he took with him as his eſcort, " to ſtrengthen your army, and to command the " Troops from this Preſidency; and recommend it to " you that he may be appointed ſecond in command " in your army; his military talents may be exerted " uſefully in that ſtation, under Brigadier General Gor- " don; perhaps he may be able to augment the two " companies at Surat to a complete battalion. In that " caſe we doubt not but you will afford him all the aſſiſt- " ance in your power with the Chief at that place."

If this paragraph be approved of, and the meaſure included in the letter to Bombay, Colonel Upton ought to be made acquainted with the military arrangements that have taken place, and are propoſed from this Preſidency with reſpect to the third battalion to be detached from the brigade in the Province of Owde, to join Madajee Holcar, &c. and to acquaint him, that we ſhall direct the officer who may be appointed to command thoſe three battalions, to join the Bombay Army on the firſt favourable occaſion; under which circumſtances the command of thoſe battalions will of courſe devolve upon upon Colonel Upton, as belonging to the Troops from this Presidency.

J. Clavering.

Agreed to. (Signed) Geo. Monson.
P. Francis.

I object. (Signed) Richd Barwell.

I entirely disapprove of the proposition; and that I may not detain the letter to Bombay, I shall deliver my objections in a separate minute, with such other observations as I shall judge it necessary to make on the present draft of the letter to Bombay.

(Signed) Warren Hastings.

The above paragraph having been approved by a majority of the Board, it was accordingly inserted in the letter to Bombay, and the following letter was in consequence thereof written to Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We desire that you will send the two companies of Sepoys, which you took as an escort from hence into the field, under the command of Captain Wroe, to strengthen the army with Ragoba. We have embarked fifty artillery men and fifty European infantry from the Presidency for Bombay, and have appointed Captain M'Pherson to command the latter, on their arrival. The chief command of all the troops which we may furnish, will of course belong to you; and we have recommended it to the President and Council at Bombay, to appoint you second in command of the army with Ragoba, under General Gordon.

In case you should have it in your power, by recruiting new Sepoys, to augment your two companies to a complete battalion, we think this measure adviseable. We have removed the brigade in Oude to the frontier in the Provinces of Corah, neareſt Calpee, and authorized the commanding officer to detach a force, not exceeding three battalions of Sepoys, to the assistance of Madajee Scindia, or Tuckoojee Holcar, if they should make a requisition for them in support of the cause of Ragoba. In case of such a detachment being sent, we shall order the commanding officer to take the first favourable opportunity of joining the Bombay Army, when the command of them also will of course devolve on you.

We are, &c.

Fort William, (Signed)
11th March 1766.

The Governor General having sent the following note to the Secretary, with his dissent to the above appointment, it was circulated, and returned, with the opinions of the different Members as follow the dissent.

To T. P. Auriol, Esquire.

Sir,

I send you inclosed my dissent from the paragraph in the letter to Bombay, regarding Colonel Upton, which I desire may be sent round, and entered on the Consultations to go home by this dispatch.

I am, Sir,
Your most obedient Servant,

14th March 1776. (Signed) Warren Hastings.

I am sorry that so early an occasion should have presented itself, to compel me to object to any measure proposed by the majority of the Board, for the conduct of so important a service, as that in which we are now likely to be engaged; but how studiously soever I may endeavour to avoid an appearance of disagreement in ordinary cases, the present is of a nature and tendency which will not admit of such an acquiescence, without a sacrifice of my duty. I therefore declare my dissent from the resolution of the Board, as it is expressed in the letter to the President and Council of Bombay, of the 11th instant, in recommendation of Lieutenant Colonel Upton, for the eventual command of the army employed by that Presidency, against the Marattas; for the following reasons:

1st. Because a recommendation from this Government to that of Bombay, under the present circumstances of their affairs, and the consequences, both public and personal, which they will have cause to apprehend from a refusal to comply with it, has all the effect of an order.

2dly. Because this Government has no right to order or to prescribe to that of Bombay, the appointment to commands on their own service, nor any other measure of detail.

3dly. Because they cannot comply with such an order, without a deviation from the practice of the military service; and a breach of the Company's orders, which ought not especially to receive encouragement from the controlling Government.

4thly. Because Lieutenant Colonel Upton is junior in rank to three officers on that establishment, namely, Colonel Egerton, Lieutenant Colonel Cockburn, and Lieutenant Colonel Hay, of whose abilities this Board have had no experience, and cannot therefore be the judges.

5thly. Because this board have had no experience, and cannot be the judges of the comparative merits and abilities of Lieutenant Colonel Upton, which ought to have been established by unquestionable proofs, to entitle him to so extraordinary and invidious a preference.

6thly. Because it is contrary to the very principle on which the Board have already censured the President and Council of Bombay, for their partial appointment of Lieutenant Colonel Keating to the command, in prejudice to the rights of General Gordon, and contrary to that declared to them on this occasion, in the following words, "The occasion is too critical and important to "suffer us to stand on personal respects," unless it can be clearly demonstrated that personal respects were not the inducement for the recommendation of Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

7thly. Because it cannot fail to give high disgust not only to those officers who are immediately superseded by Colonel Upton, but to every other officer on the establishment, who will naturally look upon it, as a precedent which may operate hereafter to the general prejudice of the service, exclusively of the concern which every military man of spirit must feel for the honour of the corps of which he is a member; and surely this is not a time to give offence to those on whose zeal and attachment to the service, the safety of the Company's interests so essentially depends.

8thly. Because the immediate conduct and responsibility of the War depend wholly on the Presidency of Bombay, and the latter more especially, since the solemn Protest and Declaration signified to them in the letter from this Government, of the and 6th instant; but to dictate to them the irregular choice of an officer for the command of their army, is to preclude them from the means, and discharge them from the responsibility, since he will consider himself, and be considered by them, as supported by an authority superior to that under which he immediately acts, and therefore less accountable to them for his conduct, than one of their own nomination.

Lastly. Because the service on which Colonel Upton was originally employed, must obviously impress Ragoba with prejudices against him, and with suspicions of his attachment; and universal experience has shewn, that nothing has a more fatal tendency to defeat the success of great public measures, than a misunderstanding between those who are immediately charged with their execution. I think it but a justice due to Colonel Upton, and to myself, to declare, that though I have strongly objected to the indulgence, which it has proposed to shew him, I have no perſonal diſlike to him. On the contrary, I hold him in great eſteem, becauſe I know him to be poſſeſſed of the general eſteem of his brother officers, which is the beſt teſt in default of experience, of an officer's real merits.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings.

The proteſt entered by the Governor General, to the letter written to the Government of Bombay, recommending Lieutenant Colonel Upton to be appointed ſecond in command in their army, is grounded on a fact ſo very erroneous, that one cannot help ſuppoſing that in the hurry of his buſineſs, he has not given it an attentive peruſal.

He is pleaſed to ſay, that Lieutenant Colonel Upton is recommended to the eventual command; whereas the words are, that he is recommended to be ſecond in command, that the chief command is of courſe to devolve to him. Any one of the officers whom Mr. Haſtings has mentioned, may be ordered, on the death or removal of the chief, to take the command, without deviating from the expreſs ſenſe of the recommendation contained in our letter. As this Government is now ſending troops to join the Bombay Army, it is proper that an officer of rank ſhould command them. The two companies when augmented to a battalion, as the ſame letter imports, will, together with the Europeans detached from this Preſidency, form a body equal to a third of the forces in the field; and will be more than equal to them, if the three battalions which it is propoſed ſhould act with Madagee Sindia and Tocojee Holcar, ſhould ever join them.

But Mr. Haſtings now urges that this Government has no right to order or to preſcribe to that of Bombay the appointment to command in their own ſervice, or any other meaſures of detail. That this was not Mr. Haſtings's ſentiments on the 7th inſtant, the Conſultations will bear witneſs. He dictated the intentions of the Board to remove Colonel Keating, and to appoint Brigadier Gordon, in terms ſo harſh, that one of the Members objected to them; and on that account they were ſoftened.

Mr. Haſtings may plead on this occaſion, as he has done on others, when he has altered his opinion, that he endeavours to adopt the ſenſe of the Board when it is not totally repugnant to his own. This plan of conduct is evidently a ſafe one, becauſe it may accommodate itſelf to every future contingency. A few months hence he may diſapprove the meaſures that we are now taking to ſupport Ragoba, as he did thoſe which the Board unanimouſly adopted at firſt to oppoſe him.

Mr. Haſtings declares that he has no perſonal diſlike to Colonel Upton; but on the contrary, that he eſteems him. The diſlike and eſteem which is here denied and affirmed, may be weighed againſt each other by the words of the context, and credit given to that which ſhall preponderate. In one ſcale may be placed the allegation of inexperience, which to an officer is highly detrimental to his credit; and in the other, Mr. Haſtings's profeſſion of eſteem, becauſe he ſays he is poſſeſſed of the general eſteem of his brother officers; whether Mr. Haſting's profeſſion of eſteem thus eſtabliſhed, can compenſate the attempt to hurt an officer's reputation, muſt be left to Colonel Upton himſelf to determine; he knows his ſervices, and how unjuſtly they are depreciated. To efface, however, any impreſſion which may be made to Colonel Upton's diſadvantage during his abſence, by Mr. Haſtings's ſuggeſtion, it is ſufficient only to mention, that he was bred up in the King's Army; and on his arrival in India, was immediately employed on the expedition to the Deccan, under the command of Colonel Peach.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

The Governor General, in his diſſent to the letter to the Preſidency of Bombay, appears to me to have entirely miſunderſtood the recommendation of Lieutenant Colonel Upton's ſervices to them. The words of the letter are, "We recommend it to you that he (Colonel Upton) may be appointed ſecond in command in your army; his military talents may be exerted uſefully in that ſtation, under Brigadier General Gordon." This expreſſion by no means gives the eventual command of the army to Lieutenant Colonel Upton: in combined armies the ranks of officers are according to the dates of their commiſſion. I conſider the forces of the different Preſidencies, when united, to form an army of that nature. I therefore think Lieutenant Colonel Upton has a right to the rank derived from the date of his commiſſion at this Preſidency, when he ſhall be ſerving in any army where a part of the troops of this Preſidency are employed.

If Lieutenant Colonel Upton were to be ordered away, and the troops of this Preſidency continued on the Bombay ſervice, it would be an implied cenſure on him in this Preſidency. The Governor in his fourth objection has miſtated a fact; for Lieutenant Colonel Upton is ſenior in rank to two out of the three officers which he has mentioned. Lieutenant Colonel Upton has ſerved many years with an unimpeached reputation; and candour obliges me to think him, and I ever ſhall (until his public conduct may give juſt reaſon to alter my opinion) an officer to be truſted with the conduct of any command that his rank may entitle him to.

(Signed) Geo. Monſon.

I again object to the additional paragraph propoſed by General Clavering; and I think the Governor-General perfectly right in the objections he makes to the Recommendation of Colonel Upton.

(Signed) R. Barwell.

In military appointments, the recommendation of the Commander in Chief will always have conſiderable weight with me, as I think it ought to have with the Board. I have no knowledge, nor do I pretend to be a judge of Colonel Upton's merits as an officer; I therefore yield implicitly to the preſent opinion of General Clavering, who is the proper official judge of the neceſſary qualifications for a military command, ſince I have no perſonal knowledge of my own to oppoſe to it. A great part of the Governor's objections to Colonel Upton, ſeems to be founded on a miſtake of terms and facts. It is not expreſſed or meant that Colonel Upton ſhould command in chief in caſe of the removal of General Gordon; and I take for granted that Colonel Monſon is not miſtaken when he aſſerts, that he is ſenior in rank to two of the three officers mentioned by the Governor, neither is our recommendation of Colonel Upton, in my opinion, equivalent to an abſolute order. At the ſame time I expect it will be complied with, ſince, independent of the ſuperior authority veſted in this Council, it would be highly unreaſonable that, even on the footing of a combined army, the party from which the chief ſupport of the common cauſe is expected, ſhould have no officer in that army on whom they can directly depend. There is no ground for ſuppoſing that Colonel Upton will oppoſe or counteract that authority under which he is immediately placed, much leſs that the ſervice on which he was originally employed, muſt impreſs Ragoba with prejudices againſt him, and with ſuſpicions of his attachment. After failing in a Negociation for Peace, which he undoubtedly had at heart, it ſeems probable that the obſtinacy of the Miniſters, to which he will attribute his want of ſucceſs, will have filled his mind with diſguſt and reſentment. I have a right to oppoſe one ſuppoſition to another, and on this ground conclude that Colonel Upton will be cordially received by Ragoba, as a man ſlighted and diſappointed by the other party.

(Signed) P. Francis.

The Governor General's diſſent having been returned to him agreeable to his deſire, with the ſeveral obſervations

Appendix. No. 111.

tions of the different Members for his information, he ſent them back, with the following note to the Secretary.

I deſire the Secretary to ſend round my reply to the Minutes concerning the recommendation of Colonel Upton, that it may be recorded with them in this place.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings.

If I have miſunderſtood the intention of the Board in their Recommendation of Lieutenant Colonel Upton, the explanations which have been furniſhed me of it have not enabled me to diſcover my miſtake, ſince I ſtill conceive an appointment of ſecond in command to be the ſame in effect as an appointment to the eventual command.

I readily acknowledge the error which has been pointed out to me by Colonel Monſon, with reſpect to the ranks of Lieutenant Colonels Cockburn and Hay. I had been informed, that the dates of thoſe gentlemen's commiſſions were prior to Lieutenant Colonel Upton's; but I ſince underſtand the contrary from the ſame authority, on which I can ſafely rely. This removes a part, yet but a ſmall part of my objections. It was for the purpoſe of amending this part of my Minute that I wrote to the Secretary to return it; but I did not receive it back until the other Members had written their replies to it.

I ſhould be ſorry to waſte my own time, or to lay claim to that of the Court of Directors, by a minute refutation of the General's arguments; but I am compelled, in my own juſtification, to reply to a fact aſſerted by him, which is directly contrary to my reſolution of it. He ſays, that I "dictated the intentions of the Board to remove Colonel Keating, and to appoint Brigadier General Gordon, in terms ſo harſh that one of the Members objected to them, and on that account they were ſoftened."

As I remember this ſubject, and I think I can venture to truſt to my remembrance of it, the propoſal of recommending the removal of Lieutenant Colonel Keating, and the appointment of General Gordon to the command, originated with one of the other Members of the Board. I myſelf objected to the terms, in which it was propoſed, as pronouncing a ſevere cenſure on Lieutenant Colonel Keating, in which we were not warranted by any proofs before us.

The firſt draft of the letter to Bombay was not written or dictated by me. In that the paſſage relative to the preſent ſubject ſtood thus:

"As the general conduct of this war, and proviſion of reſources for carrying it on, now remain with us, and the honour and intereſt of the Company are ſo deeply concerned in the operations of the army, we think it proper to inform you, that we cannot place ſo much confidence in the knowledge and ſkill of Lieutenant Colonel Keating, as to truſt the future operations of the war to his charge: we therefore expect, and inſiſt upon it, that you aſſign the command of the army to General Gordon, and direct him immediately to join the troops with Ragoba," &c.—This paſſage I eraſed entirely when the Secretary brought the draft to me for correction, and ſubſtituted the following in its ſtead: "Although we ſhall leave the detail and immediate conduct of the war entirely to your direction, while the ſcene of its operations lies in your neighbourhood, yet, as we are intruſted with the general controul, and ultimate charge of it, as it is likely from the nature of it, to involve the Company's Poſſeſſions in every part of India, and the means of conducting it muſt principally reſt in the reſources of this Government, we think it incumbent upon us, to require and inſiſt that you aſſign the command of the army to General Gordon, whom alone we deem fit to be intruſted with a charge of ſuch conſequence to the intereſt, honour, and ſafety of the Company, by whoſe expreſs choice, and nomination, he was appointed to it. We alſo recommend, that you give him immediate orders to join the troops with Ragoba," &c.

This Extract is ſufficient to ſhew the principle, on which I joined in the recommendation of General Gordon, for the command of the Bombay Forces, and to prove that my opinions have been conſiſtent.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings.

APPENDIX, No. 111.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 11th March 1776.

MR. TAYLER ſends in the following letter:

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Members of the Council at Calcutta.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen.

As the refuſal of the Miniſters, to treat on ſatisfactory terms, has determined you to embrace the cauſe of Ragoba, and to commit the entire management of all future tranſactions with him to the Government of Bombay, I beg leave to repreſent to you, that before they are entirely terminated, many points of diſcuſſion may ariſe with different perſons, which will require much local knowledge of affairs in the weſt of India: as from my long reſidence, and the ſhare I have for ſome years paſt had in the adminiſtration of Bombay, I may make bold to ſay, that I poſſeſs this requiſite knowledge. You have done me the honour to make me fully acquainted with your views and ſentiments, and I have alſo been publicly deputed from the Government of Bombay to repreſent the Company's particular views and intereſts at that Preſidency; ſhould you, from theſe different circumſtances, deem me fit for the important charge of conducting future Negociations, I beg leave to tender my ſervices on this occaſion, not doubting, from the confidence ſhewn in the particular ſelection of me, and the approbation they have teſtified of my proceedings, the Governor of Bombay will readily concur in opinion with you, regarding the propriety of it.

I beg leave to obſerve, that as the future conduct of affairs is to be entruſted with the Governor of Bombay, they alone will become reſponſible for events; it ſeems but reaſonable therefore, that they ſhould have perſons on whom they can abſolutely depend, and in ſome ſhape command, employed under them; by your appointment of me, they will be perfectly ſatisfied in this point; and I beg leave further to remark, that as it may ſeem now material to impreſs the Peiſhwa with a confidence in us, my return to him, after having been eſpecially deputed to promote his pretenſions, will go far to effect this end.

Should you think fit, Gentlemen, to accept this offer of my ſervices, beſides the credit I ſhould hope to obtain by it with my honourable employers, the honour you do me in repoſing this confidence, will be a ſtrong additional incitement to exert all the ability and activity I may be poſſeſſed of, to ſettle matters in the weſt of India on the moſt permanent footing; and ſo much convinced as I am of your deſire to bring them to a ſpeedy concluſion, I beg leave to aſſure you, that this ſhall be a particular object of my attention, for which purpoſe I will proceed by the moſt expeditious route to join the Peiſhwa.

As by the preſent appearance of things I do not now ſee the neceſſity of my further ſtay here, I purpoſe, if it is agreeable to you, at any rate returning to Bombay; and take this opportunity to aſſure you, that I entertain the moſt grateful ſenſe of the many marks of reſpect and civility with which you have publicly and individually honoured and obliged me, during my reſidence here; I return you my thanks for them; and with the ſincereſt wiſhes that ſucceſs may attend all your undertakings,

I remain, very reſpectfully,
Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,
Calcutta, 11th March 1776. Your moſt obedient humble ſervant,
W. Tayler.

Agreed, That the following reply be written to Mr. Tayler.

To William Tayler, Eſquire.

Sir,

We have received the letter which you this day wrote to us.

Having already adviſed the Preſident and Council at Bombay very fully of our ſentiments in reſpect to the future Treaty to be entered into with Ragonaut Row, we think that it would be improper to charge you with any ſeparate commiſſion from this Government to negociate with him; but we leave it to you to return to Bombay in whatever manner you may judge moſt expedient, and to act according to the orders which you may receive from that Preſidency. We wiſh you a ſafe and pleaſant journey, and remain,

Sir,

Fort William, Your moſt obedient Servants,

APPENDIX, No. 112.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 1ſt April 1776.

General Clavering having propoſed the two following paragraphs to be added to the general Letter to be diſpatched by the Talbot, they were circulated, and returned to the Secretary, with the Minutes which follow them, and inſerted in the letter.

" As it does not ſeem clear to us, that either by the Act of Parliament, or by the Charter, a power is given to the Judges to iſſue a writ of Habeas Corpus, we ſubmit it to your opinion to take the ſentiments of your ſtanding council on this point.

" Some part of the conduct of the Preſident and Council of Bombay ſeems not to be free from objection. Whilſt they were under the injunctions of our orders, to obſerve the ſuſpenſion of arms, and to withdraw their army into their own garriſons, or at leaſt into the Pergunnahs belonging to them, Colonel Keating had furniſhed two eighteen pounders for the ſiege of Amadabad, and the Company's Troops remained the whole time encamped with thoſe of Ragoba."

I declare, that for my own part, I have no doubt of the powers inherent in the Supreme Court to iſſue writs of Habeas, but I cannot object to the reference propoſed to be made upon this point to the Court of Directors, if any other Member of the Board think that the Court are not poſſeſſed of ſuch a power.

I believe it will appear, that the ſiege of Amadabad was begun, and the two pieces of battering cannon lent for the ſervice, before the order arrived with Colonel Keating for the ceſſation of arms; that on the receipt of that order, Ragoba, at the inſtance of Colonel Keating, ſent orders to diſcontinue the ſiege. How thoſe orders were obeyed does not appear.

It is paſt a doubt that our forces did remain with Ragoba, becauſe he could not accompany them, nor be ſecure againſt hoſtilities if he had remained behind and they had quitted him. If this paragraph is agreed to I deſire that a copy of the letter from the Preſident and Council of Bombay, dated the 29th December 1775, which contains their reaſons for this meaſure, may be ſent a number in the packet, for the fuller information of the Court of Directors.

(Signed) W. H.
R. B.

I have no objection to the queſtion mentioned in the firſt of the two paragraphs propoſed by General Clavering, being ſtated as matter of doubt to the Court of Directors, if any Member of the Board has a doubt on the ſubject. For my own part, I cannot ſuppoſe that a Court veſted with ſuch extraordinary powers as thoſe of the Supreme Court of Judicature, ſhould want one ſo material to the liberty of the ſubject, and which, in England, is truſted to every Judge of the King's Bench and Common Pleas; I mean always when the perſon in whoſe favour the writ of Habeas Corpus is granted is legally an object of the juriſdiction of the Court. Appendix. No. 112.

I agree to the ſecond paragaph, and to the Governor General's motion thereupon.

(Signed) P. F.

If there be any doubts in the mind of any of the Members of the Board, with regard to the right of the power of the Supreme Court, to iſſue writs of Habeas Corpus, the reference may be made as ſtated by the General.

I think the ſecond paragraph ſhould be inſerted in the general letter, and I agree to the Governor General's motion.

(Signed) G. Monſon.

The following letter from Bombay, with its incloſures, was received ſince laſt Council, and circulated with a propoſal from General Clavering, that a letter ſhould be written to Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

On the 21ſt inſtant we were favoured with your letter dated the 20th October.

Colonel Upton has not yet imparted to us any intelligence of the progreſs or ſtate of his Negociation, but we have given him every information that we think can prove of ſervice to him in bringing it to a happy concluſion.

We have very ſtrongly urged to the Colonel, the propriety of inſiſting upon the Miniſters confirming our Treaty with Ragoba in every article, and ſettling honourable and ſatisfactory terms for him. We cannot more fully explain our reaſoning and ſentiments on this ſubject, than we have in the incloſed copy of our letter to him, to which we therefore beg leave to refer you.

A continuation of our correſpondence with Colonel Keating ſince the 29th ultimo, is now incloſed with duplicates of the papers tranſmitted with our addreſs of that date.

We are, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, (Signed) W^m Hornby,
20th January 1776. Preſident, &c. Council.

Ordered, That the incloſures be abſtracted, and entered after the Conſultation.

The foregoing letter having been returned from circulation to the Secretary, he prepared the draft of a letter to Bombay, which he circulated for the approbation of the Board, and received back the minutes which follow it.

Gentlemen,

Since cloſing our letter to you of yeſterday we have received yours of the 28th January.

From your correſpondence with Lieutenant Colonel Keating, which was incloſed in it, we are concerned to obſerve that the Miniſters at Poonah did not complain without reaſon of hoſtilities on the part of Ragoba, after the ceſſation of arms had been proclaimed. His perſiſting with any appearance of our concurrence after the period in the ſiege of Amadabad, is a circumſtance ſo inconſiſtent with the general aſſurances which have been repeatedly given by us, that we cannot avoid taking notice of it. It further appears by Colonel Keating's letter of the 4th November, that two of the Company's field cannon of 18-pounders, had been employed againſt that fort, which is an additional matter of ſurprize and concern to us, as it muſt at leaſt convey the idea, that the ſiege was carried on with your aid and participation, and that we connived at it. We think, for your honour and ours, that this matter ſhould be cleared up, and that if Lieutenant Colonel Keating acted therein without your ſanc-tion, he ſhould be made accountable for his deviation from the orders which you had given him to forbear all hoſtilities.

We are ſorry likewiſe to remark that our injunctions were not better obſerved for withdrawing our troops within your own Diſtricts. It is needleſs to urge to you the neceſſity of a compliance at all times with the general orders that we ſend to you, as without it the controlling authority veſted in us would become abſolutely nugatory, and rather tend to embarraſs the Company's affairs than promote them.

We are, &c.

I object to the letter propoſed to be written to Bombay, becauſe I am of opinion that the correſpondence between the Preſident and Council of Bombay, and Lieutenant Colonel Keating, does not afford grounds for charging either Ragoba or Colonel Keating, with having committed hoſtilities after the ceſſation of arms had been proclaimed, but it is very evident that the miniſterial forces did commit hoſtilities in more than one inſtance.

I cannot ſubſcribe to the cenſure paſt upon the Preſidency of Bombay, for ſuffering their army to remain with Ragoba after the orders received from this Board, becauſe I think they would have been highly culpable had they abandoned him.

(Signed) W. H. R. B.

I approve the letter to Bombay, as Colonel Keating's correſpondence furniſh the declarations which are made in it.

To the Honourable William Hornby, &c. Eſquire, Council, Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Agreeable to your orders, communicated to me by your Secretary, I now proceed to inform your Honour, &c. how the Honourable Company's two iron eighteen pounder cannon came to be employed in the ſiege of Ahmadabad, and why the ſiege was continued after the ceſſation of arms took place.

Early in the month of July 1775, and long ere the ceſſation of arms was thought of by me, Ragonaut Bajerow acquainted me, "That he had determined on "the reduction of Bowſett, a fort then in the poſſeſſion "of the miniſterial party, about twelve coſs from "Cambay; that he had appointed Ameen Khân, a parti- "zan of note, to command this ſervice, and deſired I "would furniſh him with the two eighteen pounder iron "cannon then at Cambay;" as I knew that Bowſett might be eaſily reduced, alſo that it was of great conſequence to Ragonaut Bajerow to have poſſeſſion thereof, I readily agreed to his requeſt, the more ſo, being ſenſible that the wiſh of your Honour, &c. was to ſupport him to the utmoſt. Ameen Khân received the cannon, three three hundred ſhot, and twenty barrels of powder, by my deſire, from Mr. Malet, and proceeded to Mamadabhad; there he was ſucceſsful, as I had the honour to acquaint you under 25th Auguſt. Flushed with this ſucceſs, inſtead of purſuing his firſt deſign, Ameen Khân marched againſt, and formed the ſiege of Ahmedabhad.

As ſoon as the ceſſation of arms was known to me, I requeſted of Ragonaut Bajerow to give orders to ceaſe hoſtilities againſt Ahmedabahad, and ſend the two eighteen-pounder guns to Cambay. This he aſſured me ſhould be done; and I can venture to ſay he kept his word, ſo far as iſſuing his poſitive orders; but it was his misfortune, as it ever happens to unfortunate Aſiatic Princes, to have his mandate little attended to when in diſtreſs, eſpecially by thoſe who were at any diſtance. Ameen Khân, ſoon ſenſible of Ragonaut Bajerow's true ſituation, no longer expecting his favours, or dreading his power, ſet up a kind of independence, and, by various excuſes, put off the return of the cannon, or raiſing the ſiege.

On the 25th October, I received a letter from the Honourable the Preſident, wherein he mentioned the two eighteen pounders, and deſired me, by every means, to get them returned to Cambay, that no time ſhould be loſt; I immediately wrote the incloſed note, marked No. 1, to my interpreter, then at the Durbar, and the ſame evening inforced the contents to Ragonaut Badjerow in perſon; and I can poſitively aſſure the Honourable Board, that no endeavours on my part have been wanting in order to recover the two cannon.

No. 2 is Ragonaut Badjerow's application to me, for the loan of the cannon, &c.; and No. 3 is his obligation to be reſponſible to your Honour, &c. for them. Theſe precautions, I flatter myſelf, will convince your Honour, &c. that I proceeded regularly regarding this buſineſs, and was actuated only by proper motives for the welfare of the cauſe I had the honour to be employed in.

I have the honour to remain,
With all poſſible reſpect,
Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen, &c.

Bombay, 21ſt June, 1776. Thomas Keating, Lieut. Col.

Note, marked No. 1, being a Meſſage from Lieutenant Colonel Keating, to the Peiſhwa, through his Interpreter at the Durbar.

Wiſwanath,

Preſent beſt reſpects to the Peiſhwa, and tell him, that I have juſt received letters from Bombay and Broach; the firſt give an account that Hurria Punt Furkia has marched from Brampore, and is coming to the northward. In the ſame letter the Governor orders me to bring our two eighteen pounders from Ameen Cawn to Cambay, and ſend them from thence to Surat, to be in readineſs in caſe we want them with this army. I therefore deſire you will give my compliments to the Peiſhwa, and requeſt he will give immediate orders for the two guns to be ſent directly to Cambay, otherwiſe the Governor will be very much diſpleaſed. The Broach letter is from the Chief, who ſays, that part of the Peiſhwa's people are plundering in the Occlaſeer Pergunnah, therefore I requeſt that he will give ſtrong orders that none of his troops do go near any country in our poſſeſſion, and order thoſe at or near Occlaſeer to return to the army, and aſſure him that I cannot accompany him in any march that leads us towards any of the Pergunnah in our poſſeſſion; and that, as ſoon as any of his troops begin to plunder them, I muſt withdraw our troops from his to give protection. As ſoon as you have done, come to me, as I want you on particular buſineſs.

Yours, &c.
25th October, 1775. Thomas Keating.

To Lieutenant Colonel Keating.

Sir,

We have duly received your letters dated the 22d, 24th, and 28th ultimo.

We have now received advice from Colonel Upton, of his arrival at Poonah Dhur, and of his having commenced his Negociation; and therefore think it neceſſary poſitively to direct, that you do not on any account commit any act of hoſtility againſt the miniſterial Forces, unleſs the Company's troops are actually attacked by them, which we are willing to believe will not be the caſe.

Colonel Upton has repreſented to us, that the Miniſters have complained to him of Ragoba's having detached a part of his army to beſiege Ahmedavad, and that ſmall parties of his forces are plundering and laying waſte ſome villages belonging to the Circar: and though we cannot but think the Miniſters have miſinformed him, eſpecially regarding the attack of Ahmedavad, which you acquaint us in your letter, dated the 4th November, the Peiſhwa had upon our remonſtrance promiſed to diſcontinue; we muſt nevertheleſs direct, that you give us without loſs of time, full and explicit information on theſe points; for the Miniſters declare, that on their part they have not detached a ſingle horſeman from the army that oppoſed the Engliſh, and Ragoba, ſince the receipt of the Governor General's firſt letter, now near ſix months ago, nor committed any acts of hoſtility againſt Ragoba.

We are

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Yeſterday I had the honour to receive your commands of the 8th inſtant, and agreeable thereto, now tranſmit the information you require.

This afternoon I had a conference with the Peiſhwa, reſpecting Amadavad, &c. he aſſured me, that agreeable to what I wrote your honour, &c. under the 4th November laſt, he had ſent repeated orders to Ameen Cawn, to deſiſt from further acts of hoſtility; that for a long time paſt, little or no moleſtation had been given to that place; place; that it is true the army ſtill continues cloſe to it, proceeding from the inſufficiency of authority to recall them, ſince he is not able to diſcharge any part of the large debt due to that army. He at laſt obſerved, that by the ceſſation of arms, his power is dwindled nearly to nothing.

Appendix. No. 113.

As to giving trouble to the villages under the Circar, he ſaid, that he ſuppoſed the Miniſters allude to his collecting money, &c. for the maintenance of his army, if ſo, they are right; but obſerves, that all he is able to raiſe, falls infinitely ſhort of a mere ſupport, and from Pergunnahs in his poſſeſſion, previous to the ceſſation of hoſtilities. He added, that he could not but obſerve, that the Miniſters holding ſuch language, is highly improper on every account, and particularly with reſpect to himſelf, extremely inſolent, knowing him, as they do, to have a lawful right to act ſo, and themſelves abſolutely his ſervants, uſurping a power they have not the ſmalleſt juſt claim to; and he deſired me to requeſt that your Honour, &c. will be pleaſed to write to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, not to countenance them in ſuch acts of haughtineſs, otherwiſe they will never be reduced to a proper ſtandard of behaviour, which muſt be very detrimental to the intereſt of the Honourable Company, as well as to him.

The Peiſhwa remarked, that the Miniſter's aſſertion, of never having detached any force againſt his ſince the period alluded to, is uniform with their whole conduct, glaringly erroneous; it being notorious, that two bodies of his troops have been deſtroyed by thoſe of the confederates, one under Mahomet Eſoff, in the Malwa Country, the other commanded by Chimman Row, on this ſide the Candiharra Gaut, as adviſed your Honour, &c. in my former addreſſes.

The Peiſhwa requeſts, that your Honour, &c. will be pleaſed to let him know from time to time the progreſs of the Negociation, and how it is likely to terminate.

I am, with the greateſt reſpect,
Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,
Your highly obliged,
And moſt devoted ſervant,

Camp, near Mandavie, 18th January 1776. Thomas Keating, Lieut. Col.

APPENDIX, No. 113.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, 1ſt April 1776.

THE Secretary begs leave to record in this place the following letter, received from Lieutenant Colonel Upton ſince laſt Council.

Gentlemen,

I had the honour to write to you on the 7th inſtant, and now take the firſt moment to remove the diſagreeable impreſſions that letter muſt have made. The miniſtry have at length agreed to the conditions mentioned in my letter of the 2d inſtant, but they intend writing to you, Gentlemen, to aſk an exchange for Salſette, and the ſmall Iſlands in the Bay, for which they mean to offer three lacks of country near to Broach or Surat: perhaps they mean alſo to make ſome further references, for they think all the demands made are of my own accord, as they are perſuaded you meant to aſk no country or conceſſions of any kind whatever from them.

I ſhall take care, however, that the Articles of the Treaty be clear, and not admit of equivocation, and this they readily agree to; they ſay, if they are inſiſted on, it muſt be ſo.

As Peace muſt be firmly and fully eſtabliſhed, there is no waiting any reference. As mentioned in my letter of the 2d inſtant, reſpecting the Guzerat Province, I ſhall examine all the Sunnuds minutely, and take copies of ſuch as are neceſſary, by which that country was made over to this Government, and alſo thoſe that have been ſince granted to the different Sirdars. When I am fully ſatisfied that Futty Sing had no right to make over grants of any parts of that country, I ſhall agree to the reſtoring of all made by him and Ragonaut Row, except what is now ſtipulated for, viz. the entire Pergunnah of Broach, and a country of the annual amount of three lacks of rupees, near or adjoining to Broach.

I am ſo deſirous of ſending this off, that I ſhall at preſent ſay no more, intending to write again in three or four days, by which time I hope to have the articles ready.

Poonah Dhur, 24th February 1776. I have, &c. (Signed) J. Upton.

P. S.—The Governor and Council of Bombay adviſing that a factory in Baſſein would be of no uſe to the Company, I have dropped that demand, but all foreigners are to be for ever excluded a reſidence thereon.

General Clavering having directed the Secretary to circulate his opinion, that a letter ſhould be immediately written to Colonel Upton, approving the terms of the treaty which he propoſes to conclude with the Miniſters, and to requeſt that the Members of the Board will give their opinions upon this propoſal; it was accordingly circulated, and the opinions of the Board returned as follows:

The approbation of this Board, is not neceſſary to the confirmation of any treaty, which may be concluded by Colonel Upton; neither would it be proper or conſiſtent to expreſs an approbation of it, before the terms of it were known; Colonel Upton having too imperfectly notified his intentions in this reſpect.

(Signed) W. H.

The terms of the treaty which Colonel Upton propoſes to conclude with the Miniſters, are, as I underſtand, that the ceſſion of Salſette and the Iſlands in the Bay, and the entire Pergunnah of Broach, and a country to the amount of three lacks of rupees adjoining to Broach, be made to the Company. It is neceſſary that we ſignify to him our ſatisfaction of thoſe terms, otherwiſe, if he ſhould receive our letter, which ordered him to continue to inſiſt on the Iſland of Baſſein, or at leaſt in exchange of Broach for it, he might be prevented concluding the treaty on the terms which he has adjuſted with the Miniſters.

(Signed) J. C.

I ſhall undoubtedly think this Government bound to ratify any treaty that ſhall be concluded by Colonel Upton, by which Salſette ſhall be ſecured to the Company. But I apprehend that as the treaty is not before us, we cannot now ſafely or regularly give any opinion upon it, and as it was to have been ſigned within three or four days after the 24th of February, the concluſion of it cannot be effected by any inſtructions ſent at this time.

(Signed) P. Francis.

I agree with the General's propoſition, becauſe I find that our letter of the 15th ultimo, did not notify to Colonel Upton the reſolution of the Board, to inſiſt on the ceſſion of Baſſein, but propoſed the exchange of it for Broach.

There is little probability that the negociation ſhall have been protracted, at the time in which this letter may reach Colonel Upton; but in conſideration of the bare poſſibility of it's arriving in time to prevent the loſs of Broach, I wiſh to empower him to accept the conditions mentioned in his two laſt letters, and to conclude the treaty upon them; theſe conditions I gather from his letters as follows:

The abſolute ſurrender of the Iſland of Salſette, &c. to the Company, with the ceſſion of that portion formerly enjoyed by the Marattas of the revenue of Broach, the entire Pergunnah of Broach, additional lands adjoining joining to it yielding a revenue of three lacks of rupees; to indemnify the Company for the expences of the War; to ſtipulate the excluſion of all European foreigners from Baſſein, and to obtain a Province for Ragoba, not leſs than that ſpecified in Colonel Upton's letter of the 2d of February; to this ſhould be added a ſolemn aſſurance of ſafety to Ragoba. An exemption from the Chout is not a proper object for this Government to require, becauſe it implies a right which has never been allowed to the Marattas.

Leſt I ſhould have miſtaken the terms of the General's queſtion, I think it neceſſary to explain my ſenſe of it; viz. that Colonel Upton be authorized, in caſe he ſhall not have concluded the Treaty with the Miniſters at Poonah, to conclude it on the terms which we underſtand to have owed their aſſent, by his letter now before us, and to pay no regard to our letter of the 15th ult. To this propoſition I agree.

(Signed) W. Haſtings.
R. Barwell.

Colonel Monſon—I ſhall think myſelf bound by any Treaty which Colonel Upton may conclude with the Miniſters; and I ſhall approve of any Treaty that he may make agreeable to the firſt orders which he received. Our ſubſequent orders to him have been to relinquiſh Baſſein and its dependencies, for Broach and its dependencies. If he ſhould have concluded a Treaty before the receipt of our laſt letter, it will be agreeable to the orders he received from the Board, excepting the ſingle inſtance of his inſiſting upon Baſſein; for which, in his letter 2d February, he propoſes to have an equivalent.

In conſequence of the above minutes, the following letter was diſpatched to Lieutenant Colonel Upton:

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 24th of February, which has relieved us from the ſuſpenſe in which we had been left by your former advices of the 7th; and we have in conſequence given orders for diſembarking the troops whom we had directed to proceed to Bombay.

If your Negociations ſhould ſtill remain open when this letter reaches you, we authorize you to conclude the Treaty on the terms which, by your letter now arrived, and that of the 2d of February to which it refers, we underſtand to have received the aſſent of the Miniſters, and to pay no attention to our inſtructions of the 15th ultimo.

25th March. We are, &c.

In conſequence of the Treaty of Peace having been concluded, General Clavering directed the Secretary to ſend round the following paper to the Members of the Board:

In Circulation.

That no time may be loſt in re-landing the troops who had been embarked for Bombay, particularly from the Indian Queen, which ſhip had gone down the river, General Clavering ſent an order early this morning to the Maſter Attendant for that purpoſe, as well as to return the ſalt proviſions which had been borrowed of Captain Snow. He hopes that theſe orders will meet the approbation of the Board.

I alſo requeſt the opinion of the Board, whether the treaſure ſhould be brought back from the ſhips, or ſuffered to proceed to Bombay. That Preſidency has been ſupplied this ſeaſon with 27 lacks, inſtead of the twenty which were promiſed. The next ſeaſon will not commence till the 1ſt of May.

(Signed) J. P. Auriol, Sec^y.

I refer to my minute ſent in circulation.

(Signed) W. Haſtings.

I think the treaſure ſhould be landed.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

I think the treaſure ſhould be landed. I have not ſeen the Governor's minute.

Half paſt 5 o'clock. (Signed) G. Monſon.

I have ſeen and approved the Governor General's propoſals.

(Signed) R. Barwell.

I think the treaſure ſhould be landed.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Appendix. No. 113.

Soon after the above was ſent in circulation, the Secretary received the following propoſal from the Governor General; which he alſo circulated, and received back the opinions as entered after it.

The Governor General ſubmits it to the conſideration of the Board, whether it may not be expedient to diſembark the detachments now on board the Neptune and Indian Queen, and remand them to the garriſon, as the object of their original deſtination no longer exiſts.

At the ſame time he wiſhes the Board to conſider, whether it may be ſo proper to repeal the deſtination of the treaſure and ſtores. In any probable ſituation of affairs, the former may be of conſiderable ſervice. If there is a Peace, it may be directed from the ſupplies of next year; if War, ſuch a ſupply will be immediately and indiſpenſably neceſſary. From the latter conſideration, he inclines to the opinion, that it would be proper to let the guns and ſtores alſo proceed. From the duplicity of conduct which we have already experienced in the Miniſters of Poonah, prudence requires that we ſhould guard againſt another reverſe, and ſtill afford ſuch aids to the Preſidency of Bombay, as may prove of eſſential uſe to them in the caſe of a ſecond rupture with the Poonah Government, and at the ſame time avoid the appearance either of ſuſpicion or deception on our ſide, which might be the conſequence of our ſending the detachments, if the Miniſters ſhould prove firm to their engagements.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings.

I approve. R. Barwell.

I think that the treaſure and guns ſhould be landed, and orders ſent to Bombay to withdraw their troops into their garriſons; and this order ſhould be inſiſted on.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

The guns, detachments, and treaſure, ſhould be landed. If letters are now written to Bombay, they ſhould contain orders to that Preſidency to adhere ſtrictly to the terms of the treaty, ſuppoſing it actually ſigned. It is my opinion, and, if neceſſary, I deſire it may be circulated as a motion from me, that the two ſhips ſhould be detained until we receive the letters by which Colonel Upton promiſes to ſend an account of the concluſion of the Treaty in three or four days.

(Signed) P. Francis.

I agree with Mr. Francis, that the detachment, the guns, their carriages, the tumbrils, limbrils, and ſtores, with the treaſure, ſhould be re-landed; and that if letters be now wrote to Bombay, that orders ſhould be given to that Preſidency to adhere ſtrictly to the treaty concluded by Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

I agree alſo to his motion, provided the owners of the ſhips can be prevailed on to detain them until we ſhall hear again from Colonel Upton; but not to lay an embargo on them.

(Signed) G. Monſon.

I cannot agree to Mr. Francis's motion. The expence will be great and uſeleſs. If the Preſidency of Bombay have not already received orders to conform to any treaty concluded by Colonel Upton, I have no objection to ſuch an order to be now written; although the obligation will not be ſtrengthened by it, ſince they are conſtitutionally bound to obſerve the terms of every treaty made by the Superior Government, and will be criminal if they infringe it.

(Signed) W. Haſtings.

Orders having been iſſued to the Maſter Attendant, to diſembark the troops from the Indian Queen and Saint Helena, the following letter was received from him.

Appendix. No. 114.

To J. P. Auriol, Eſquire

Sir,

The Indian Queen, Captain Boyle, having ſailed before the orders for diſembarking the troops, and for taking out the treaſure, could reach her, I tranſmit you incloſed the bill of lading for the treaſure, ſigned by Captain Boyle, who kept one bill, ſaying that it was neceſſary to do ſo, as he had not received any orders either for taking the troops on board, or for receiving the treaſure.

The other bill of lading was incloſed in the Governor General and Council's letter to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, received under a flying ſeal for that purpoſe; which letter when cloſed was delivered to Captain Boyle by Mr. Wallis, a maſter in the pilot's ſervice, ſent by me on that ſervice. The troops on board the Saint Helena were diſembarked as ſoon as the orders of the Board were received.

I am, &c.

Calcutta, 27th March 1776. H. Wedderburn, M^r^ Attendant.

APPENDIX, No. 114.

ANOTHER letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton having been received ſince laſt Council, it was circulated, and is now recorded as follows:

Gentlemen,

I am made very happy by ſending the copy of the treaty concluded with the Miniſters.

We waited ſome days for a lucky hour to ſign the articles, and during that period I had every reaſon to believe they wanted to recede from their agreements; they wiſhed and urged, by every little means they could deviſe, to make me refuſe the terms, which however I was not in the leaſt diſpoſed to do, and took care they ſhould not, though they inſiſted on crouding the articles with abundance of repetitions and ſuſpicions. I was attentive to their not being very glaring or too trifling, and then was obliged to admit them. I had drawn out the articles in Engliſh, but here we had many difficulties to ſurmount; they ſo perplexed me with doubts and alterations, that I was forced to give it up. They were made out in Perſian, a language underſtood, they ſaid, by all. The Engliſh is therefore a tranſlation from the Perſian, I could have wiſhed the reverſe.

The ſmall Iſland, Canary, I underſtand is not now in our poſſeſſion; in that caſe we do not get it; I find it is of no value. The Miniſters not knowing the Engliſh names of the ſmall iſlands in the Bay of Bombay, and my being unacquainted with the Maratta names, prevented our inſerting them nominally in the treaty. I have wrote to Bombay to get the Engliſh and Maratta names, and it is then agreed to inſert them: This is abſolutely neceſſary, to prevent any miſunderſtanding hereafter; as ſoon as I have got this information, I will forward the names to the Board.

The Miniſters write to you, Gentlemen, to offer a country of three lacks per annum in exchange for Salſette and the ſmall iſlands in the Bay. I told them of the impropriety of propoſing a country of much leſs value than the iſlands; they replied, they truſted entirely to the honour of the Gentlemen of Calcutta, who muſt be conſcious of their having no right to theſe Iſlands, and would therefore reſtore them; however they have thought fit to ſend a vackeel, who I ſuppoſe is authorized to make other propoſals; they have had little reaſon from me to hope ſucceſs in this negociation. They made me promiſe to write; and as we act, they ſay, from principles of honour and juſtice, enforce the arguments we have to urge for their being reſtored. I think they will of themſelves let none eſcape them, if I may conclude from what I have experienced of them.

I before wrote the impoſſibility of waiting a reply to my letter of the 5th January. The Miniſters have promiſed to write to procure letters from their principal Surdars, ſignifying their having received the treaty, and promiſing obedience to the articles of it. They ſay this was never done before, or treaties ever ſigned in any other manner than the preſent, and it will hurt them very much with the Peiſhwa's ſubjects.

Baſſein not being, as you imagined, poſſeſſed by us, has made you long ſince I hope give up all thoughts of our obtaining it; they ſay we cannot have the ſmalleſt claim to it, and that nothing but force ſhall ever get it from them. It will be impoſſible by any other means ever to obtain it. I underſtand it is not an iſland, as all along ſuppoſed, but a very conſiderable diſtrict, reaching from Salſette almoſt to Surat; a nullah at the back part of it, which fills in the rains, has given riſe to its being thought an iſland. The fort is very large, and ſtands on an iſthmus, divided from Salſette by a river, the breadth of which ſecures Salſette from ever being incommoded by this fort.

I obſerve this, as much pains has been taken to perſuade to the contrary, and the neceſſity of our having Baſſein for the ſecurity of Salſette.

The ſtipulations for Ragonaut Row amount to about ten lacks per annum; but they inſiſt on paying his houſehold troops, &c. as he might otherwiſe collect in a ſhort time money ſufficient to engage them in freſh troubles.

The Miniſters requeſt you will be pleaſed to appoint a gentleman to reſide at Poonah, to adjuſt all Ragonaut Row's buſineſs with them, as well as any public buſineſs they may have to tranſact with the Preſidency of Bombay, &c.

I incloſe a copy of one of the Sunnuds granted by Futty Sing, alſo the treaty concluded by him with Ragonaut Row; theſe I received from the Governor and Council of Bombay.

I have wrote to Futty Sing, to ſend me the copy of a Sunnud, for any diſtrict granted by him in the Guzerat Province to the Engliſh, alſo the copies of the Sunnuds by which he holds half of the Guzerat Country, that I may compare them with thoſe in the Peiſhwa's office. I have requeſted of him alſo to let me know how far he conſidered himſelf as proprietor of any part of that country; and if he ever thought himſelf authorized to alienate from the Maratta Government, any Pergunnah of Guzerat. Should this right be veſted in him, he will be careful how he denies it, as it may endanger to him the loſs of his Country altogether. I have deſired that theſe papers may be atteſted by the Caſi.

I have forwarded to the Governor and Council of Bombay, Extracts from the treaty of ſuch articles as concern that Preſidency, and requeſt that they would depute two gentlemen, to fix with the two perſons ſent from this Government, the boundaries of the Country ceded near or adjoining to Broach. The Marattas agree to our taking this diſtrict where we like, ſo that we do not pitch upon jaghire land: I have alſo tranſmitted to the Preſidency of Fort St. George, ſuch articles of the treaty as concern that Preſidency.

I was much concerned at not being able to inſert the Articles you propoſed for the Nabob of Arcot. The Miniſters are afraid it might engage them in ſome diſpute with the Engliſh, and they poſitively refuſed admitting it: they will be careful, however, in their conduct towards him. I incloſe the reaſons they gave at our laſt converſation on this ſubject. They ſay they are ready to treat with the Nabob, and if he will reſtore Tanjore, &c. through their mediation, which it ſeems they have propoſed to the Rajah, (a relation of the Ram Rajah's) they will then reſign part of the Chout, &c. I forward alſo another article the Nabob of Arcot deſired me to obtain for him.

As the articles of the treaty will be made out at Calcutta, to be ſigned by the Board, permit me, Gentlemen, to obſerve, that Ram Rajah's and Peiſhwa's ſeal (in one) is always at the top of all treaties; I mention this, that the Company's ſeal may not by any accident be otherwiſe wiſe fixed. The Miniſters or ſervants to this Government we never ſuffered to ſign or ſeal on the ſame ſide of the paper with the Peiſhwa. Except the exchange for Salſette ſhould take place, may I requeſt you will not alter the words of any of the articles, there are many that want it; but it is inconceivable what jealouſies and ſuſpicions theſe people harbour.

I am honoured with your letter of the 8th January, with the tranſlations of the letter from Saccaram Baboo, and Ballajee Pundit, and the reply, &c. and the copy of the letter from Soy Madee Row; alſo the packet for the Peiſhwa, which was forwarded to him. This is the only letter I have received from the Board ſince the one dated 9th of November 1775, adviſing that Mr. Chambers had permiſſion to come to Poonah, on the part of the Nabob of Arcot. That Gentleman was not deputed: the Nabob's buſineſs was tranſacted through his vackeel here.

This packet goes away by way of Maſulipatam; I diſpatched a letter by the ſame route on the 24th ultimo, and herewith ſend a duplicate of it.

In two or three days the Miniſters will forward ſome diſpatches on our camels, by way of Benares, when I ſhall have the honour to write again, and ſend duplicates of all letters, &c.

Poonah Dhur, 3d March 1776. I am (Signed) Upton.

APPENDIX, No. 115.

From Siccaram Pundit: received the 1ſt April 1776.

THE all-wiſe Creator and Protector of the Univerſe formed man ſuperior to all other of his creatures, and endowing him with reaſon, made him lord over all, and by the gift of ſpeech, adorned by the gem of veracity, put into his hands the authority over the whole terreſtrial world; it is conſequently the duty of all Magiſtrates, and thoſe inveſted with authority, to provide for, and protect the people of God intruſted to their charge. As this is not to be effected without making uſe of the apparent means, wiſe men eſtabliſhed the mode of correſponding with each other by letters and meſſengers. It was therefore my earneſt deſire to lay the foundation of ſuch a correſpondence with you, and although certain weak and little minds conſidered this deſign as the effect of timorouſneſs and want of ſpirit, yet in the ſight of wiſdom, it will be regarded as a proof of a great ſoul; and as it is incumbent on the firſt projector of any plan to carry it into practice, I was debating with myſelf on the means of effecting it, when your agreeable letter arrived, informing me that the King of England had given orders to all his ſervants in this part of the world, not to engage in hoſtilities, or form treaties, without the approbation of the Governor General of Bengal, and to take no ſtep which might be the cauſe of diſputes with any Chief of the Maratta Nation; that you had ſent orders to put a ſtop to the proceedings of the Bombay people, and to recall their troops from the field of battle; that you propoſed to depute ſome one to adjuſt all former cauſes of diſpute, and to negociate a ſtrict friendſhip in future, as ſoon as you learnt, if it would be agreeable to me; and that I, on my part, ſhould give directions to the forces of this Government, to refrain from all acts of hoſtility. The receipt of this letter, in an auſpicious hour, inſpired me with the greateſt joy.

I had afterwards the pleaſure of repeated letters from you, on the ſubject of the eſtabliſhment of a firm and laſting friendſhip, and the conciliation of the diſputes which ſubſiſted between the two ſtates.

Induced thereto by friendſhip, I recalled my Generals into the neighbourhood of Cundaſe, and waited ſeven months in expectation of your Deputy's, (viz. Colonel Upton) arrival. During this interval, the Engliſh from Bombay and Ragonaut Row, attacked Setajee Hankwar, a Chief in my truſt, and obliged him, being unable to oppoſe them, to enter into written engagements for the delivery of a ſum of money, and a certain territory. They moreover ravaged the whole country of Goujeraut, and arbitrarily levied large contributions. My Generals were deſirous of preventing this, but preferring your ſatisfaction to all other conſiderations, and relying on your promiſes, I poſitively forbad any act of hoſtility, and patiently bore the expences of crores of rupees to which the ſupport of the Army amounted. It cauſes me the greateſt ſurprize, that the Engliſh at Bombay, notwithſtanding your orders to them, continued in alliance with Ragonaut Row, and even increaſed their ravages. After the Colonel's arrival, they plundered Nowapeorah. This bad faith and diſobedience of orders, ſo contrary to the character I had heard of the Engliſh, at firſt greatly ſurprized me; but I have now learnt that this is nothing more than a report, which amuſes the vulgar; and that they don't act up to this character. Let what is paſt be forgotten. Appendix. No. 115.

On the 4th of Zekaida, (28th of December) Colonel John Upton arrived in the neighbourhood of Poorunder: ſome days were paſt in expectation of an anſwer from the Governor of Bombay; as ſoon as it was received, the Negociation was commenced. In reſpect to Ragonaut Row, the Colonel ſaid, that ſatisfaction muſt be given to him. Reflecting on the viciſſitudes of fortune, and the uncertainty of all human affairs, this requeſt of the Colonel's was agreed to. I incloſe you a copy of the memorandum relative to this affair, by which you will be fully informed of the ſubject. If this is complied with, it's well: but ſhould Ragonaut Row refuſe his aſſent, let ſtrict orders be given to all the Engliſh to afford him no manner of aſſiſtance, nor to protect him. Incloſed is the original memorandum of propoſitions made by the Colonel. He has made a requeſt of the iſland of Salſette. The circumſtances are theſe, In the firſt place, the ſaid iſland is the inheritance of Seremunt Sabib, and was recovered with infinite trouble out of the hands of the Portugueſe. Although the Governors of Bombay entered into a treaty, in conſequence of which the trade of all other Europeans was prohibited, and for the ſpace of 100 years their trade has flouriſhed there more than ever, by the encouragement of this Government, and though between the Government and former Chiefs, three ſeveral treaties have been contracted, and the ſincereſt and ſteadieſt friendſhip been ever ſhewed to their ſettlement; yet loſing ſight of all this, and obſerving a breach in this Government, and the Chiefs at the head of their armies engaged in contentions, they took the opportunity to ſeize perfidiouſly on Salſette. It is likewiſe ſtipulated in their treaties, that if any ſubject of this Government ſhall fly to them for protection, though it may be ever ſo neceſſary to afford it him, they ſhall nevertheleſs deliver him to the officers of Government. Diſregarding this, notwithſtanding they had been witneſſes of the conduct of Ragonaut Row (Thomas Moſtyn was preſent, and an eye witneſs of every tranſaction) and letters had been written from the Preſence to the Governor of Bombay, on the acceſſion of Seremunt Row Pundit Purdhan to the Muſnud, to which a letter of congratulation on this event was received in anſwer; I ſay, diſregarding every conſideration of good faith or friendſhip, they aſſiſted Ragonaut Row; they conſidered the poſſeſſion of Salſette as ſuperior to every conſideration. This event cauſed me the utmoſt aſtoniſhment. I am convinced that you will not inſiſt on this improper requeſt. By the inſtigation of the Bombay gentlemen, the Colonel is very earneſt on this point. I conſidered the engagements of the Engliſh as inviolable; it was the duty of friendſhip to have made the Bombay people ſuffer for their ill conduct, and to have obliged them to reſtore the Government poſſeſſions, that ſo others might have been deterred in future from breach of faith; and the integrity and juſtice of the Engliſh faith have been deeply implanted in the minds of their friends. This method of conciliation has been ſet aſide. You have moreover expreſſed in your letter of credence, a deſire that the honour and ſatisfaction of both parties ſhould be be equally attended to; but loſing ſight of this alſo, you have introduced the above demand. Notwithſtanding the ſuſpenſion of hoſtilities whilſt the affair of Salſette remains unſettled is highly impolitic; yet, as the protracting of the diſputes till an anſwer could be received from you who are at ſuch a great diſtance, would be very prejudicial to both parties; and as I place entire confidence in you, that you will undoubtedly give orders to the Government of Bombay to reſtore the place with all its wealth, thinking it adviſable, and importuned thereto by the Colonel, I have agreed to an expedient, and have referred the affair to your juſtice. The delivery of Salſette into the hands of the Government will be the means of a perfect conciliation. The peruſal of the ſecond article gave me infinite ſurprize; I was aſtoniſhed at this new pretenſion, which favours neither of friendſhip nor good faith. After long arguments and negociations on this ſubject, an expedient was found, and I at laſt was obliged in conſideration of your friendſhip and juſtice to agree to this alſo. It is accordingly inſerted in the liſt. Notwithſtanding Satojee Raukwar was inveſted with no authority for that purpoſe, he was compelled to execute a written engagement for the ceſſion of the country under him; and the diviſion of Broach in that country, which is the property of the Government is now demanded, and by another artifice this has been confirmed. I am aſtoniſhed that the Colonel ſhould propoſe ſuch heavy conditions of friendſhip.

He demands to be reimburſed the charges of the army. Juſtice points out that the perſon who violates his engagements, ſhould be reſponſible for the expences incurred on both ſides. In oppoſition to this rule, to demand it from us, is a new pretenſion introduced from Europe. The anſwer given concerning the defraying the expences of my army was, that ſuch demand was inconſiſtent with juſtice and generoſity, and that the Ryots of the Country would compenſate to the Government the charges which it had been put to. Were I to give ſuch an anſwer it would be juſt; but, prompted by ſentiments of generoſity, and out of regard to you, I have agreed to its being inſerted in the Treaty. You will act herein as the duties of friendſhip dictate to you.

He has addreſſed me on the ſubject of the Nabob Mahomed Ally Khan. Between us and the ſaid Nabob a ſtrict friendſhip had long ſubſiſted, and in the War with the French we afforded him every neceſſary aſſiſtance of Forces and Firmauns from his Majeſty; notwithſtanding which ſervices, the Chout, Serdaſemukky, &c. which he was from of old liable to, are many years in arrears. Morever he has ſeized on the country of Tanjore, Arnie, &c. the Raja of Bhoſilah, as well as on Ramnautpory, our place of worſhip, acts highly inconſiſtent with friendſhip. I am hopeful that you will write to him in effectual forms, to deliver Tanjore and the other places, with their Rajahs, into the hands of officers of this Government, and to adjuſt the affair of Chout and Serdaſemukky at Poonah. Where is the neceſſity of ſending the troops of this Government to that quarter? For theſe many years I have preſerved my friendſhip for him inviolable; but it is not enough that this ſhould be kept on one ſide only. If he will make payment of what is juſtly due from him, no unfriendly meaſures will be purſued by this Government. be yourſelf the judge of the propoſal relative to Bengal, and obſerve that Bhoofilah is a Chief over 25,000 cavalry, and the ſupport of our power, and that induced thereto by friendſhip for him, we have given up to him the Bengal tribute. It is incumbent on you not to be wanting in friendſhip to Bhoofilah.

To ſum up all in a few words; notwithſtanding the reaſonableneſs of our claims, and the juſtice of our cauſe, merely with a view of putting your profeſſions to the proof, the army was recalled from the field. We have long had an intercourſe of friendſhip with the Engliſh Chiefs, and at laſt, inſtead of receiving advantage therefrom are loſers by it. This has made me wiſh to tranſmit all theſe particulars, with copies of the treaties entered into by the Bombay people, together with your letter and Colonel Upton's propoſitions to the King of England and his Council, and to form ſuch an engagement with them, that no ſuch inſtances of breach of faith may occur in future. As you are inveſted with the authority of your Sovereign, and are deſirous of my friendſhip, I have firſt written to you.

In former times the Emperor Aurungzebe and other inland Powers, joined by the Portugueſe and other maritime Powers, conceiving evil deſigns againſt this Government, were defeated, and met with the juſt reward of their actions. Their breach of friendſhip was the cauſe of their ſo ſhortly loſing all their conqueſts. The Bombay people ſeeing the weakneſs of Ragonaut Row, and the minority of Seremunt Row Pundit Purdhan, took this opportunity of effecting their purpoſe. I have referred the remedy to your juſtice. Act in ſuch a manner that friendſhip may take firm root between us. If you ſuffer the affair of Salſette to remain unſettled, it will be prejudicial to the eſtabliſhment of friendſhip, and the cauſe of continual quarrels with the deſcendants of the preſent Chief. From the ſincere regard which I bear you, and with the greateſt integrity, I have fully explained my friendly ſentiments to you. I flatter myſelf, that on the peruſal of this letter you will write to the Governor of Bombay to reſtore the iſland of Salſette. Should you have any doubt of what I have written, my vackeel will ſoon arrive at Calcutta, and will explain every particular to you.

You may depend on this, that it is my earneſt deſire to obtain the Engliſh friendſhip.

N. B. In the above was incloſed copy of a letter from the Governor of Bombay to Madoo Row Pundit Purdhan, acknowledging the receipt of his letter, and congratulating him in the uſual terms on his acceſſion to the Peiſhwaſhip.

Memorandum of Eight Propoſitions made by Colonel John Upton.

1ſt Salſette and the four ſmall iſlands ſhall be ceded by treaty to the Engliſh. After which Siccaram and Bulojee Pundit, and the Bombay Gentlemen, ſhall write a full ſtate of the affair of Salſette and the four iſlands, to the Governor General and Council of Bengal. I will alſo write to ſupport your letter. If the Gentlemen of Calcutta will give up the iſland of Salſette, and the four ſmall iſlands in exchange for ſome other country, it is well, otherwiſe they ſhall remain in the poſſeſſion of the Engliſh. If the Gentlemen of Calcutta do not reſtore Salſette, &c. the Maratta Sirdars ſhall have no claim on the Engliſh, and ſhall not engage in quarrels with them. Salſette, with the other iſlands, ſhall remain in the hands of the Engliſh.

Names of the Iſlands.

Caranja,	Kennery,
Elephanta,	Hog Iſland.

2d. The Gentlemen of Calcutta having heard that the Port of Liſſey was fallen into the hands of the Engliſh, directed me, in conſequence, on no account to give it up. This account has proved to be a miſtake, and Liſſey is in the poſſeſſion of the Maratta Chiefs. I am therefore deſirous that an Engliſh Factory for the carrying on of trade be eſtabliſhed at Liſſey, and a part of that country, yielding a revenue of three lacks of rupees, be given to us. The factory ſhall not be included in this, but ſhall be agreed to ſeparately. No other European Nation ſhall be allowed to have a factory at Liſſey.

3d, The expences of the Engliſh army from the day of its joining Ragonaut Row, ſhall be paid me agreeable to a ſeparate account under the ſignatures of the paymaſters and officers of the army and the whole Council of Bombay.

4th, The Marattas ſhall never claim Chout or any of the countries under the Company's immediate authority.

5th, The affair of Ragonaut Row ſhall be ſettled in the manner on which we formerly diſcourſed.

6th,

6th, The Engliſh conquered Broach from the Mogul, that part of the Country belonging to the Marattas, and the Pergunnahs ſubordinate to Broach ſhall be unconditionally ceded to the Engliſh.

7th, With reſpect to the Nabob Wallah Jaw, Sirdar of the Carnatic. As he has long been the Ally of the Engliſh Company in every change of their fortune, it is neceſſary that the Marattas alſo conſider him in the ſame light as he is conſidered by the Engliſh.

8th, No claim of Chout or other Tax ſhall be made by the Marattas on any other Country which they ſhall cede to the Company.

From Ballajee Pundit; of the ſame tenor and date.

From Seccaram Pundit; received 4th July 1776.

Since Colonel Upton's arrival, I have addreſſed to you four letters, which contain a full relation of all particulars; but I am ſurprized that I have not received an anſwer to either. Let there be no delay in your correſpondence.

Being very anxious for the reſtoration of Salſette and the ſmall Iſlands, from the poſſeſſion of the Engliſh, I was deſirous of ſending a Vackeel to Calcutta. In the mean time, a copy of the Treaty which had been drawn out and tranſmitted to you by Colonel Upton, arrived under your Seal. The laſt Article, which has been written differently from our wiſh, I have peruſed. However, as the introduction of ſcruples, and a refuſal to exchange copies of the Treaty, might poſſibly be a vexation to you, and create ſuſpicions of a difference, I have, with a view to the eſtabliſhment of friendſhip, avoided the utterance, and even the admiſſion of a doubt into my breaſt; and accordingly, on the 3d of Rubby-ul-ſani, 1190 Hegira, I delivered one inſtrument of the Treaty, on the part of the Government, to Colonel Upton, and accepted for the Government the Inſtrument which was ſent from Calcutta. If an Article of the Treaty ſhould have been written in different terms, it is no matter; however, I am aſſured, when I reflect upon the ſincerity of your friendſhip that I ſhall obtain Salſette and the ſmall Iſlands, and that you will from your favour deliver them up. The ſettlement which has been made between Seremunt Row and the Engliſh, has founded a firm friendſhip, and will tend to the beſt effects. But I am very much ſurprized at two circumſtances which I will now deſcribe. My friend, the Governor of Bombay effaced all treaties from his memory; and in a time of Peace, when I had no ſuſpicion of his deſign, availed himſelf of the advantage which our family diſputes afforded, as well as of the infancy of Seremunt Row; and before the preſent War, ſeized Salſette by artifice. He felt no compunction at the diſgrace which ſuch a meaſure muſt unavoidably reflect upon the good faith of the Engliſh. Beſides which, he connected himſelf with Ragonaut Row, and the Engliſh took the field. When the War raged between us, and the flames of contention aſcended, you wrote to me, with a view of putting an end to it; and repeatedly to the Gentlemen of Bombay, directing them to withdraw their Army from Ragonaut Row. But there was nothing but evaſion on their part, till at length Colonel Upton arrived, and became ſenſible of the artifice and deceit of the Governor of Bombay. However, inſtead of correcting him, he demanded Salſette, the Country of Seremunt, ſince the negociation proceeded from you; and Colonel Upton inſiſted upon it, an article was inſerted in the treaty, reſpecting Salſette; for I thought that you would have ſhewn a reſentment at the infraction of treaties by the Engliſh at Bombay, and ordered the reſtoration of Salſette. But this has not happened; and you have written a laſt Article in the Treaty, that the Engliſh ſhall poſſeſs Salſette, and the Iſlands for ever.

Another circumſtance is this, I have heard that the Chief of Surat now entertains Seremunt Ragonaut Row, and two hundred dependants in Surat. This has the appearance of a great deviation; for it has been ſtipulated in former treaties, and you may have known it, that if any native refugee from the Maratta Government ſhall ſeek an aſylum with the Engliſh, he ſhall not be permitted to ſtay, but be delivered up to the Government's men; and an article in the late treaty expreſſes, that the former treaties which may not have been annulled or varied by the preſent, ſhall be held in full force. What the Colonel writes is not attended to and diſregarded. It is their purpoſe to detain Ragonaut Row. How then is the good faith of the Engliſh preſerved? The trade in this country was formerly in the hands of the Dutch Eaſt India Company; but the Government relying upon the good faith of the Engliſh, ſtopped their commercial dealings with the Dutch, and eſtabliſhed the trade of the Engliſh; and the Government has behaved always, ſo as to merit their friendſhip. I was aſſured, that if any other European nation ſhould attempt to ſeize places belonging to the Government, the Engliſh would afford it their aſſiſtance. But it appears that I was miſtaken, for the Engliſh at Bombay have themſelves ſeized places belonging to the Government, forgetful of their former and late engagements, and perſiſting in a reſolution not to reſtore them. Being ſure of unanimity amongſt themſelves, they are encouraged to raiſe diſturbances. You are wiſe, and prudent, and deſirous of my friendſhip; weigh well theſe circumſtances, and bring the Governor of Bombay to reaſon.

One of the good qualities for which the Engliſh are celebrated, is that of rigid adherence to what is right. For in the inſtance where Mahomed Ally Khân unjuſtly poſſeſſed himſelf of the country of Tanjour, and alſo where the Engliſh took the Robilla country, in both inſtances when the news reached the Company, they immediately reſtored thoſe countries. I therefore requeſt, that upon underſtanding fully all circumſtances with reſpect to Salſette, which is Seremunt's country, you will deliver it up entire, together with the Iſlands, to Seremunt the Peiſhwa. A country ſhall be granted in lieu of them in the vicinity of Broach, out of which the revenues are received without difficulty, and which will not require an expence of Sebundy or eſtabliſhment of ſervants. I requeſt that you will poſitively forbid the Governor of Bombay to permit Seremunt Ragonaut Row to remain at Surat. A compliance with theſe two requeſts will confer a pleaſure, attended with the beſt of conſequences to our friendſhip, and increaſe it by additional ſincerity and ſtrength.

I feel with pleaſure a regard for the Engliſh, which gains upon me by daily augmentation. What other perſon ſhall dare to breathe a different ſentiment? But you will learn all particulars from my Vackeel, who will arrive within a ſmall period. I requeſt that you will render me happy by frequent letters.

From Bollajee Jenardun; a letter of the ſame tenor and date.

APPENDIX, No. 116.

THE following Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton, which arrived on the 23d of laſt month, with the Treaty incloſed, was immediately circulated.

Gentlemen,

I have the honour to forward a copy of the Treaty of Peace concluded this day with the Marattas.

The conditions of it meeting with your approbation, will make me exceedingly happy.

Poonah Dhur, I have, &c.
1ſt March 1776. J. Upton.

Treaty between the Honourable the Eaſt India Company, and the Maratta State.

Poorunder, 1ſt day of March 1776.

Whereas differences have ariſen amongſt the Chiefs of the Maratta State, and the Government of Bombay having having taken a part therein, by ſending forces into the Maratta Dominions, which the Honourable the Governor General and Council of Fort William diſapprove; and being deſirous of conciliating theſe differences, have determined accordingly to enter into ſuch meaſures as may moſt effectually contribute to ſo deſirable an end: they have for this purpoſe therefore authorized, deputed, and given full powers unto Lieutenant Colonel John Upton, in the ſervice of the Honourable the Engliſh Eaſt India Company, to conclude a Peace between the Government of Bombay and the Maratta State. And Colonel Upton having accordingly arrived at Poorunder, has concluded a ſolid and firm Peace, on the part of the Engliſh Company, with the Miniſters Siccaram Pundit and Ballajee Pundit, on the part of the Peiſhwa Row Pundit Purdhaun, and all the Maratta Chiefs; and the following are the Articles of Convention which they have engaged into.

Appendix. No. 116.

Article 1ſt. Peace ſhall be eſtabliſhed and take place from this day, between the Honourable the Engliſh Eaſt India Company in general, and the Government of Bombay in particular, and Row Pundit Purdhaun, and his Miniſters Siccaram Pundit and Ballajee Pundit, on the part of all the Marattas; and the following Articles are to be obſerved inviolably by both parties.

Article 2d. The Peace is to be forthwith proclaimed between the Honourable Company and the Maratta State, at the Preſidency of Bombay, and at all its dependencies, at the head of the Engliſh Troops encamped at Mandavie, and in every part of the Guzerat Province where there are Britiſh ſubjects. The Maratta Government will alſo order proclamations to be made throughout all their dominions.

Article 3d. The Peiſhwa Row Pundit Purdhaun, and his Miniſters, being deſirous of having Salſette, and the ſmall Iſlands, ſubdued by the Engliſh in this War, reſtored to them, do offer to give in exchange, a country of three lacks of rupees, with its Chout, &c. in the neighbourhood of Broach. Colonel Upton having declared, that he could not reſtore the ſaid Iſlands, it is therefore agreed, that they ſhall remain as they now are; and that they ſhall write to the Honourable the Supreme Council of Fort William, and both parties engage to abide by their determination—If the Governor General and Council of Fort William do not reſtore them, they ſhall continue in the poſſeſſion of the Engliſh, and the Marattas will then give up all right and title to the ſaid Iſlands; ſhould the Governor General and Council of Calcutta reſtore Salſette with the ſaid Iſlands, the Engliſh will accordingly deliver them over to the Peiſhwa.

Article 4th. The Marattas do agree to give to the Engliſh Company for ever, all right and title to their entire ſhare of the City and Pergunnah of Broach, as full and complete as ever they collected from the Moguls or otherwiſe, without retaining claim of Chout, or any other demand whatever; ſo that the Engliſh Company ſhall poſſeſs it without participation, or claim of any kind.

Article 5th. The Marattas do agree (by way of friendſhip) to give for ever to the Engliſh Company, a country of three complete lacks of rupees, near or adjoining to Broach, on which there is to be no claim of Chout, or any other demand whatſoever; two perſons on the part of the Company, and two perſons on the part of Row Pundit Purdhaun, to proceed and determine the place and boundaries, when the Peiſhwa will give the Sunnuds.

Article 6th. The Peiſhwa and Miniſters agree to pay to the Company twelve lacks of rupees, in part of the expences of the Engliſh Army, in two payments, viz. ſix lacks within ſix months of the date of this Treaty, and the other ſix lacks within two years of the ſame date.

Article 7th. The Engliſh do agree, that every part of the Guzerat Country, ceded to the Company by Ragonaut Row, or taken poſſeſſion of by them, ſhall be forthwith reſtored, with all the forts and towns thereunto belonging, except what is ſettled by this Treaty; the country ceded to the Engliſh by Seaguor or Futty Sing Guicawar, ſhall alſo be reſtored, when it is proved by their letters and copies of the Sunnuds granted by the former Peiſhwa's, now in their (the Guicawar's) hands, that they do not poſſeſs power or authority to make ſuch ceſſions. The Pergunnahs of Chickley and Coral, with the town of Veriow, three villages of the Pergunnah of Churraſſey, and the village of Batta Gang, are to continue as pledges in the poſſeſſion of the Engliſh till the Sunnuds for the country of three lacks are made over. All treaties and agreements ſubſiſting between the Engliſh and Ragonaut Row, are hereby annulled, and thoſe of Seajee and Futty Sing Guicawars are to be alſo annulled, when the above-mentioned proofs are produced. And theſe Treaties are to be deſtroyed in the preſence of the Peiſhwa's Miniſters when they come to hand.

Article 8th. The Engliſh do agree, the Troops from the Preſidency of Bombay are to be marched immediately into their own garriſons and diſtricts.

Article 9th. It is agreed that Ragonaut Row is to diſband his Army within one month of this date; his followers and adherents, except his ſervants about his perſon, are to ſeparate within the ſame time; and proclamation is to be made by the Maratta Government, granting a full pardon to all the adherents and followers, and all ſuch as have been in arms with Ragonaut Row, the four following excepted, viz. Abajee Mahadu, Nair Cawn Gardie, Toolo Khedmutgar, and Kurry Sing Chokydar, who for crimes and miſdemeanors committed againſt the State, are for ever baniſhed the Maratta Dominions.

Article 10th. If Ragonaut Row refuſes to diſband his Army, the Engliſh are to withdraw their forces, and are not to aſſiſt him.

Article 11th. The Conditions of the Ninth Article being complied with, the Peiſhwa and Miniſters then conſent to eſtabliſh a houſhold for Ragonaut Row, conſiſting of one thouſand horſe and ſome foot, who are to be paid and relieved at the pleaſure of Government, but to obey all legal orders given them by Ragonaut Row; alſo two hundred domeſtics, to be choſen by Ragonaut Row and paid by Government. They will alſo cauſe to be paid to Ragonaut Row, to defray his other expences, three lacks of rupees, per annum, by monthly payments, at the rate of twenty-five thouſand rupees per month; conditionally, that he reſides at Cooper Gang, on the banks of the Gungha Gudomy. If at any time he may want to change his place of reſidence, application is to be made to the Peiſhwa, without whoſe permiſſion ſuch a change is not to take place; and he is not to cauſe any diſturbance, or carry on improper correſpondence with any perſon.

Article 12th. It is agreed that no aſſiſtance is to be given by the Engliſh to Ragonaut Row, or to any ſubject or ſervant of the Peiſhwa's, that ſhall cauſe diſturbances or rebellion in the Maratta Dominions.

Article 13th. The Peiſhwa Row Pundit Purdhaun, and his Miniſters, do declare, that the Chout of Bengal and its dependencies has, for time out of mind, been part of the Jaghire of the Bounſello, they therefore cannot withdraw it; but if the ſaid Bounſello, or any of his deſcendants or ſucceſſors, or any other perſon, cauſe diſturbances, by claiming or demanding the Chout on Bengal or its dependencies, they do engage never to aſſiſt them themſelves, or permit any Maratta Chief, dependant on them or the Rajahſhip, to give them any aſſiſtance.

Article 14th. It is agreed, That in caſe of ſhipwreck of any Engliſh ſhips or veſſels, or ſhips or veſſels trading under their protection, on any part of the Maratta coaſt, every aſſiſtance ſhall be given by that Government and the inhabitants to ſave as much as poſſible; and the whole that may be ſaved ſhall be returned, all reaſonable charges being defrayed by the owners. In like manner the Engliſh Company engage their aſſiſtance ſhould any Maratta ſhips or veſſels be ſhipwrecked on any of their coaſts.

Appendix No. 116.

Article 15th. The Treaties between the Government of Bombay and the Marattas, dated July 1739, and 12th October 1756, are to be held and continued in as full force as when they were firſt entered into, unleſs any article or articles of either of them ſhould, in other manner, be provided for by this Treaty; in ſuch caſe, ſuch article or articles are to be rejected, and thoſe of this Treaty abided by.

Article 16th. All other Treaties or Agreements, ſubſiſting between the Government of Bombay and the Maratta Government, not having undergone alteration, or otherwiſe provided for by this Treaty, are to be held and continue in as full force as when they were firſt entered upon.

Article 17th. It is agreed, that if Ragonaut Row has lodged any jewels belonging to the Peiſhwa Row Pundit Purabaun in the hands of the Engliſh they are to be reſtored, on the obligation being complied with for which they were lodged.

Article 18th. The Honourable the Engliſh Company ſhall be conſidered as the ſole Lords and Proprietors of all the places ceded by this Treaty, from the dates of the reſpective Sunnuds or grants, and are therein accordingly to exerciſe their own laws and authorities. And the Marattas are not to cauſe any diſturbance in any of the ceded countries, nor ſhall the Engliſh occaſion any diſturbance in the Maratta Dominions.

Article 19th. In the places hereby ceded to the Honourable Company, and in all the places reſtored to the Maratta Government by the Engliſh, it is agreed that both parties ſhall commence to collect the revenues thereof from the day in which they are delivered, and no demand of collection for any paſt time ſhall be made.

Article 20th. A Copy of this Treaty, under the ſeal of Colonel Upton, ſhall remain with the Miniſter of the Maratta Government; and a copy ſhall be ſent to Calcutta to be ſigned and ſealed by the Honourable the Governor General and Members of the Supreme Council of Fort William, and afterwards given to the Peiſhwa.

The Board now proceeds to conſider the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton, and recorded above.

To the 3d Article,

Reſolved not to relinquiſh Salſette and the other conquered lands.

Agreed, That this be added as a clauſe at the end of the Treaty.

Whereas it is declared by the 3d Article of the foregoing Treaty, that, "the Peiſhwa Row Pundit Purdhaun, "and his Miniſters, being deſirous of having Salſette "and the ſmall Iſlands ſubdued by the Engliſh in the late "war reſtored to them, do offer to give in exchange a "country of three lacks of rupees, with its Chout, &c. "in the neighbourhood of Broach." And further, that "if the Governor General and Council of Fort "William do not reſtore them, they ſhould continue in "the poſſeſſion of the Engliſh; and the ſaid Peiſhwa "Row Pundit Purdhaun and his Miniſters will then give "up all right and title to the ſaid Iſlands:" The ſaid Governor General and Council hereby declare their reſolution not to relinquiſh the ſaid Iſlands of Salſette, Caranja, Elephanta, and Hog; or to accept the territory offered in exchange for thoſe Iſlands. And the ſaid Iſlands are accordingly to remain for ever in the poſſeſſion of the Engliſh, by virtue of the preſent Treaty.

5th Article agreed to; underſtanding they are to put the Company in quiet poſſeſſion of this territory.

7th Article. The firſt condition approved of, with the following reſervations: That our withdrawing our troops and officers from the countries ceded by Ragoba or Futty Sing, ſhall be deemed as a performance of the Treaty regarding theſe ceſſions: with regard to the laſt condition of this Article; viz. And theſe Treaties are to be deſtroyed "in the preſence of the Peiſhwa's Mi-"niſters when they come to hand."

Mr. Francis propoſes that Colonel Upton be inſtructed to repreſent to the Miniſters, that as we have declared the former Treaty concluded by the Preſidency of Bombay with Ragoba void, and as it is in fact annulled by the preſent Treaty, we deem it highly offenſive to us, and totally uſeleſs to them, that we ſhould be required to deſtroy it in their preſence. That as Ragoba is in poſſeſſion of a duplicate of his Treaty, our deſtroying one copy of it can anſwer no end whatſoever, and may be liable to an interpretation derogatory to the dignity of this Government; that he ſhould therefore exert his utmoſt efforts to have the words above-mentioned omitted; but that if ultimately he ſhould fail of ſucceſs, we have left a blank ſufficient to inſert them: that in this caſe, and ſuppoſing the Miniſters to adhere inflexibly to the omiſſion of the words in queſtion, he is to declare to them, that we ſhall comply with the Article as it ſtands, when all the other terms of the Treaty are completely executed on their part.

Mr. Barwell—From what I have ſeen of the Treaty in general from what Colonel Upton mentions in his letter, I conceive there is no option in this Government to make any alteration in the terms of the treaty: in this idea I ſhall ſubſcribe to it. At the ſame time I would recommend from the opinion I entertain, that the Maratta Government, if ſincerely diſpoſed to a pacification, will gladly admit the principal points that it is expected the Engliſh ſhall bind themſelves to. I diſapprove entirely of all the matter introduced of a foreign nature; and think it ſhould be ſpecified, that the Engliſh Government is to reap ſuch ſpecific advantages, upon condition that they withdraw their forces from the aid of Ragoba; that articles of a treaty upon this ſimple principle ſhould be drawn out, ſuch as this Board can approve, and tranſmitted to Colonel Upton; leaving to him to judge the neceſſity of delivering that which he has ſent for our ratification or withholding it entirely, and inſiſting on their receiving of the one framed by this Government.

Colonel Monſon—I approve that the Propoſition made by Mr. Francis ſhould ſtand as an Inſtruction to Colonel Upton.

General Clavering—I agree to the Propoſition made by Mr. Francis. I could have wiſhed the exceptionable words had been omitted in the 7th article of this Treaty. If the Miniſters will agree to the omiſſion of theſe words, or to the ſubſtituting ſimply, that we annul treaties made by the Preſidency of Bombay with Ragoba and Futty Sing, my objections to it will be entirely removed; but at all events I had rather agree to the article as it ſtands, than engage in a war, if that is to be the alternative of our accepting or refuſing it.

Governor General—I do not agree to the clauſe in the 7th article, by which it is ſtipulated that the treaties with Ragoba and the Guicawars, ſhall be torn in the preſence of Peiſhwa's Miniſters; nor do I agree to the propoſition now made, to leave it at the option of Colonel Upton, to inſert the clauſe in the Treaty to be executed and ſent from this Government. The Miniſters can gain no real advantage from ſuch a conceſſion; but it would prove a real loſs to this Government, in the indelible diſgrace that it would ſtamp on them, for having conſented to ſuch an indignity. I am therefore of opinion, that the Treaty ſhould be executed without that clauſe; and that Colonel Upton ſhould declare to them, in the moſt peremptory terms, that we will not ſubmit to it. If they will go to war for ſuch a trifle, a trifle to them, but but of very great conſequence to us, they will go to war with us even in ſpite of the Treaty, which has left many pretences for it.

Agreed, That Colonel Upton be written to agreeable to Mr. Francis's Propoſition.

General Clavering—I cannot agree with the Governor General in opinion, that ſhould the Miniſters refuſe to comply with the omiſſion of the word "Conſent," or to ſubſtitute the other words, I propoſed, that an indelible diſgrace will be ſtamped on us for having conſented to ſuch an indignity. The Treaty in queſtion was made by the Government, and was of no effect, unleſs it has been confirmed by us. When every other means had failed of engaging the Company in a war with the Maratta State, it was no impolitic ſtep to embarraſs the Negociation with as many difficulties as could be created. It is proper the Court of Directors ſhould know, that the intrigues of the Preſidency of Bombay have been employed at this place, from the outſet of the Negociation to this time, ſometimes by diſplaying in the moſt lively colours the force of Ragoba, and that of his powerful dependants; at other times by depreciating the power of the Miniſters and their dependants; and laſtly, by poſitive aſſertions, that whatever demands we made of the Miniſters, they certainly would be complied with. The preparations that we were making only a few days ago, to enter upon this war, together with the great extent of the operations propoſed, will prove to the Company how nearly theſe intrigues were ſucceeding, and the immenſe difficulties and expence that we ſhould have been engaged in, if they had had their effect.

Governor General—All that the General has ſaid is ſo totally foreign from the queſtion before us, that I am at a loſs to reply to it; but as it immediately follows my minute, and begins with expreſſing a diſagreement from the ſentiments which I have expreſſed in mine, I cannot underſtand it, but as applying throughout to myſelf. If the General means to charge me with endeavouring to embarraſs the Negociation, it is a charge which he cannot know to be true, and which, from the teſtimony of my own conſcience, I declare to be without foundation; I could bring proofs of this even from the articles of the treaty which have been read; there are many paſſages in it which I diſapprove, and many expreſſions which I think highly injurious to us; yet having given full power to Colonel Upton to conclude a Treaty, and being almoſt as anxious at this time perhaps as the General can be, that the Treaty ſhould be concluded, I paſs them over without obſervation. I diſapprove of the clauſe which immediately precedes that to which I now except, becauſe it is a wanton and unneceſſary triumph on the part of the Marattas, and ought not to have been aſſented to by Colonel Upton, at leaſt the reaſon ſhould have been aſſigned inſtead of the ſimple expreſſion of the annihilation of an old Treaty being made the condition of a new, but as it expreſſes no more in effect, than we have already declared in our letters to the Poonah Miniſtry, I have conſented that it ſhould ſtand. But the clauſe in queſtion appears to me to be fraught both with the moſt diſgraceful and dangerous conſequences: I have hitherto only objected to the indignity of allowing a Treaty, ſolemnly executed by a part of the Britiſh Government, to be torn in the face of a public Durbar; but the conſequences appear to me to extend much farther; it appears evidently to be the deſign of the Miniſters to diſcourage and intimidate, by every artifice, all thoſe who may be hereafter inclined to form engagements with the Engliſh; for this purpoſe they have inſiſted on a declaration to be entered in the Treaty now executed with them, that the former Treaty with Ragoba's, the incompetency of which he could not know, is annulled, and to be publicly torn: the exception of four perſons from the pardon granted to Ragoba adherents in the 9th article; the fallacious conceſſions of the 11th, by which Ragoba is to become a priſoner at their mercy; and the 17th, by which we are made to give up to his enemies the jewels pledged by him under the faith of Government; are all proofs of the ſame dangerous policy in the Maratta Miniſters. I ſhall make no further reflections in this place on the Treaty as it now ſtands ſubmitted to us; I will agree to confirm it, ſo far as it reſpects conceſſions, which we can in honour grant, or which we have a right to yield. Theſe I do not conceive to be included in the obligation of the full powers granted to Colonel Upton. It will reſt with Ragoba to be a party if he chuſes in the Treaty; I ſhall therefore think myſelf obliged to confirm that part of the Treaty which reſpects him, but will not agree to the 17th Article, becauſe the pledge is not ours to give; yet as it is made an article in the Treaty, and the refuſal to comply with it, may be quoted as a pretence for breaking off the whole, I do propoſe that an equivalent in money, on a fair appraiſement, be given to the Miniſters in lieu of the jewels depoſited by Ragoba, but that they remain his property, to be diſpoſed of according to the original conditions on which they were truſted to our charge. The reſt of the treaty I am content to leave as it ſtands.

General Clavering—The Governor General has been pleaſed to apply the words I made uſe of, in my laſt minutes to himſelf. I will not contradict him, but ſhall appeal to thoſe very conſultations to which he has referred, for the full vindication of what I have aſſerted. I will not take up the time of the Board in refuting ſeveral circumſtances that appear in the Governor General's Minute, but ſhall content myſelf with remarking that, it appears to me, that he has totally miſtaken the meaning of the 17th Article, which only expreſſes that the jewels pledged by Ragoba are to be reſtored on the obligation being complied with. By the word "reſtore," it evidently can mean to nobody but Ragoba himſelf, at leaſt, that is the ſenſe in which I underſtand it. It matters not to whom the jewels belong; the fulfilling the engagement on our part can only be performed with the perſon with whom the engagements were made. It was Ragoba who lodged the jewels with the Government, and it is to him that they are to be reſtored, on his paying the money for which they were pledged.

Governor General—I have not miſunderſtood the meaning of the 17th Article; I have compared the Perſian original with the tranſlation, and I find both ſuppoſe a right in the Peiſhwa to the property of the jewels, which the Treaty ſays we are to reſtore. The context ſufficiently ſhews that the property ſhall be reſtored to the Proprietor of it. If in the oppoſite ſenſe, the Article would have run thus, "It is agreed that the jewels which were lodged by Ragonaut Row in the hands of the Engliſh, are to be reſtored on the obligation being complied with for which they were lodged."

Mr. Barwell—To prevent any interruption in the diſcuſſion of the different Articles of the Treaty, I concur with the Governor General in the objections he makes to the 17th Article, the reſt of the Treaty I ſhall make no objections to.

13th Article.

The Board do not think it adviſable to accept the conceſſions made by this Article, and agree therefore that it be left out in the Treaty: And Agreed, That Lieutenant Colonel Upton be directed to decline any explanation upon it; but if that cannot be avoided, to inform the Miniſter, our reaſons for omitting it are, that we apprehend it may be underſtood to contain an acknowledgement of a right which does not exiſt, and which they themſelves, we conclude, by propoſing the Article, have no thoughts of inſiſting on.

17th Article.

Mr. Francis—With reſpect to this Article, I think that Colonel Upton ſhould be directed to inform the Miniſters, that theſe jewels were depoſited with the Governor and Council of Bombay by Ragoba, and that we conſidered them as his private property; that we cannot therefore in juſtice or honour return them to any body but him; that we conſider it as not an object of importance in any other ſenſe: and if he finds that the Miniſtry inſiſts upon it, that he ſhall give them proper aſſurances, that upon a further reference to us, it ſhall be accommodated to their ſatisfaction.

nor

Agreed to this propoſition, and that the 17th Article be left out in the Treaty.

Ordered, That a Treaty be drawn out in conformity to that now received from Colonel Upton, with alterations made by the above reſolutions; and that a letter be accordingly written to Colonel Upton, as follows:

Sir,

We have received your letters of the 1ſt and 3d March, with a copy of the Treaty which you have concluded with the Peiſhwa.

As you inform us that the Articles of this Treaty are to be made out here and ſigned by us, we have accordingly drawn them up in the form of a Treaty which we had executed, omitting however the concluding words of the 7th Article, and the 13th and 17th Articles entirely.

With reſpect to the firſt omiſſion, we deſire that you will repreſent to the Miniſters, that as we have declared the former treaty entered into by the Preſidency of Bombay with Ragoba, void; and as it is in fact annulled by the preſent Treaty, and deem it highly offenſive to us, and totally uſeleſs to them, that we ſhould be required to deſtroy it in their preſence; beſides, as Ragoba is in poſſeſſion of a duplicate of this Treaty, our deſtroying one copy of it can anſwer no end whatſoever, and may be liable to interpretations derogatory to the dignity of this Government.

We think this a point of ſo much conſequence to us, that we direct you to exert your utmoſt efforts to have theſe words totally omitted, as they are in the incloſed treaty, but if you ſhould ultimately fail of ſucceſs, we have left a blank ſufficient for inſertion of the words in queſtion. You will declare to them, that we ſhall comply with the other terms of the Treaty when they are completely executed on their part.

As we do not think it adviſable to accept the conceſſion which is propoſed to be made to the Company by the 13th Article, we have cauſed it to be left out of the incloſed treaty, to which we apprehend the Miniſters can have no objection. We wiſh you to decline entering into any explanation with the Miniſters on the reaſons of this omiſſion; but if you cannot avoid it, you may acquaint them, that our motives for it, is the apprehenſion that it might be underſtood to convey the acknowledgment of a right which does not exiſt, and which they themſelves, by propoſing or admitting the article, we conclude have no thoughts of ever inſiſting on.

The cauſe of our not having aſſented to the 17th Article is, that the jewels in queſtion having been depoſited by Ragoba with the Governor and Council of Bombay, we conſider them as his private property, which we are bound to return to him; we cannot therefore in juſtice or honour part with them to any body elſe. We look upon this as an object of no importance in any other ſenſe, and deſire you will urge our reaſons to the Miniſters, and endeavour to induce them to acquieſce in them; but if you find that they ſtill inſiſt on this Article, you will give them proper aſſurances in our name, that upon a further reference to us, it ſhall be accommodated to their ſatisfaction; and immediately adviſe us.

We have added a declaration at the end of the treaty, importing that we are reſolved not to relinquiſh Salſette and the conquered Iſlands, in exchange for the territory offered to us in lieu of them near Broach. This clauſe will clear up and fix the point left undecided in the 3d Article.

All the reſt is exactly conformable to the draft which you have ſent us; but we think it neceſſary to obſerve, that we underſtand by the 5th Article the Miniſters are to put the Company in quiet poſſeſſion of territory therein ceded; and by the firſt condition in the 7th Article, that our evacuating and quitting poſſeſſion of the countries thereby ſtipulated to be given up, by withdrawing our troops and officers of all denominations from them, is all that is required on our part for the performance of it. Appendix No. 117.

Colonel Monſon having ſent a Minute to the Secretary two days after the above letter to Colonel Upton was written, he deſired that it might be entered immediately after the letter, and is as follows:

I ſign this letter with a declaration, that I do, with as much reluctance as the Governor General, give my conſent to an act that would fix indelible diſgrace on this Government.

The latter part of the 17th Article is in my opinion of no manner of conſequence, unleſs we make it ſo by our animadverſions.

The papers in queſtion I diſavow as treaties; they are ſtipulations entered into by perſons not veſted with an authority to make ſolemn engagements. If abrogating an unlicenſed act be conſidered as diſgraceful and diſhonourable to the Britiſh Nation, I am at a loſs to form a judgement of what may de deemed honourable for it.

The deſtroying of theſe papers in public will be ſo far from being a diſgrace to this Government, that it will be an honourable declaration to the Potentates of the Eaſt, that it is determined not to ſanctify any act done but by proper authority.

A doctrine eſtabliſhed on the principles laid down by the Governor General, would be annulling the power of this Government, and ſubverting the intention of the Act of Parliament. I ſhould have ſaid this on Monday, but was unwilling to take up the time of the Board in diſcourſe on points in which I cannot agree with him.

I muſt beg leave to obſerve, that not many days ſince he was as ready to yield up the honour of this Government to the Commandant of Chandernagore, as he ſeems in the preſent caſe deſirous to aſſert it.

(Signed) G. M.

Reſolved in the mean time, That a copy of the Treaty received from Colonel Upton be ſent to the Secretary of the Court of Directors, in a ſhort letter from the Secretary, which he accordingly wrote as follows, and diſpatched by the Talbot.

Sir,

By the commands of the Honourable the Governor General and Council, I have the honour to incloſe a copy of the Treaty concluded by Lieutenant Colonel Upton with the Peiſhwa and Miniſters of the Maratta State at Poonah; it arrived late laſt night, and was read this morning in Council. As a counterpart is to be made out here, executed by this Government, and tranſmitted to Poonah for the Peiſhwa, the Board have agreed to omit the concluding words of the 7th Article, together with the whole of the 13th and 17th Articles, for obvious reaſons which they have directed Lieutenant Colonel Upton to explain to the ſatisfaction of the Miniſters; and have further reſolved to add a clauſe to the Treaty, importing that they decline to accept the exchange of territory offered in lieu of Salſette and the ſmall iſlands adjacent to it.

I have, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 117.

RECEIVED the following Letter from Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Incloſed is a duplicate of the letter we had the honour to addreſs you on the 28th ultimo,

Appendix. No. 117.

We alſo tranſmit in a ſeries, copies of the letters that have paſſed between us and Colonel Upton ſince that date, and it gave us much ſatisfaction to obſerve by his letter, dated the 24th ultimo, that the Miniſters were reconciled to our forces continuing with Ragoba in their preſent ſituation, and perfectly ſatisfied that the terms of the Governor General's letter to Sacram Baboo, had been fully complied with. The Colonel obſerves, that was our army to be withdrawn entirely from Ragoba, the Miniſters would not fail to take advantage of it, and that they would, in ſuch caſe, have little occaſion to enter into any treaty.

From what information the Council has given us, it ſeems rather dubious whether any treaty will take place with the Miniſters. In the beginning of January he ſeemed to think the Treaty would be concluded in a few days, but in his ſubſequent letters, dated the 1ſt and 6th inſtant, he gave us to underſtand it was very probable it would not take place at all. In his laſt letter, dated the 10th inſtant, he ſays appearances are ſtill againſt it; though whatever circumſtances may have occaſioned the obſtacle to the concluſion of the Treaty, we begin to be alarmed leaſt it ſhould be ſurmounted by conceſſions very injurious to the Company. The queſtions he has put to us reſpecting Baſſein, and the ceſſions in the Guzerat Country, and the privileges neceſſary to be ſtipulated in caſe of factories being eſtabliſhed at that place and Jambooſeer, give us reaſon to imagine that he entertains thoughts of relinquiſhing thoſe ceſſions; and we therefore eſteemed it our duty to repreſent to him, that the intereſt of the Company required he ſhould inſiſt on the ceſſions made by the Treaty being confirmed; that he could not recede from his demand of Baſſein conſiſtently with your inſtructions, and that factories either at that place or Jambooſeer would be attended with no manner of advantage to the Company. No inveſtments can be provided there for Europe, and from the vicinity of the former to Bombay, and of the latter to our ſettlements of Surat and Broach, no increaſe of the vend for European commodities can be expected. We have ſufficiently ſet forth to him the importance of the ceſſions made by the Treaty, fully explained the political and commercial intereſts of this Preſidency, and given him likewiſe an ample account of the preſent ſituation of affairs, and we cannot depart from our opinion, that by a reſolute and ſteady conduct the Miniſters might be brought to confirm theſe ceſſions, and to reimburſe us the expence of the War, rather than break off the Negociation, unleſs he ſuffers them to amuſe him and gain time until Ragoba's Army diſbands for want of pay, but, as he recedes, they will advance.

Every argument that can be advanced to ſhew the neceſſity of a revenue being acquired for this Preſidency adequate to its expence, and how effectually this great end, might have been anſwered by our Treaty with Ragoba, has been already fully ſtated to your Honour, &c. both by us and Mr. Tayler; and it has alſo been fully repreſented to you how much the conſequence and dignity of this Preſidency will ſuffer by your entruſting the management of this Negociation to Colonel Upton, when a Member of our Board is expreſsly appointed by the Company reſident at the Marratta Court, and repeated in their late Commands by the Gatton. We can only lament that theſe repreſentations have not been attended with better ſucceſs; but we have this pleaſing reflection, that we have diſcharged our duty to the Company as far as we could, by giving Colonel Upton every information that our experience and knowledge of their intereſts at this Preſidency could dictate, to aſſiſt him in the execution of his important commiſſion.

During this long interval of inaction, our Preſidency has laboured under every diſadvantage that could have attended a ſtate of actual War with the Marattas. All intercourſe of trade, and correſpondence with their dominions, is more rigorouſly prohibited than during the continuance of the War, to the great detriment of the Company's and private trade, though we have repreſented to Colonel Upton the propriety of inſiſting upon the communication being opened. But the inconveniencies to Ragoba have been ſtill greater. His enemies being in poſſeſſion of Poonah and the Circar Treaſuries, deprive him of all reſources for the maintainance of his army, and his diſtreſs for money has lately aroſe to ſo alarming a height, as deſcribed in Colonel Keating's letter, dated the 6th inſtant, inſerted in the Correſpondence now forwarded, that to prevent the purpoſe being entirely defeated, for which we had ſo long continued our troops with him, we deemed it abſolutely neceſſary to advance him the ſum of eighty thouſand rupees, with which we hope he will be able to appeaſe the clamours of his army, at leaſt for a few days. This ſum we advanced upon the ſecurity of a ſupply of about 24,000 pagodas furniſhed him by the Nabob Hyder Ally, and which is ſince arrived upon one of the Company's cruiſers.

It appears to us to be evidently the intention of the Miniſters to protract the Negociation as long as they poſſibly can, in hope's of Ragoba's friends deſerting him, and his army diſbanding for want of pay, by which all their apprehenſions of his reinſtatement will be removed. We have more than once apprized Colonel Upton of this circumſtance, and enforced to him the neceſſity of making it a preliminary point with them, immediately to aſſign an adequate revenue for his ſupport during the Negociation, which we cannot think is an unreaſonable demand, as we preſume no treaty will be concluded, without ſtipulating proper terms for him, and it is but equitable that a portion of the revenues ſhould in the mean time be made over to him. The Colonel ſeems rather doubtful of ſucceſs in this point, and if at laſt he ſhould be unable to bring the Miniſters to proper terms, and be reduced to quit Poonah, we ſhall very much regret your not having complied with our requeſt for a reinforcement, which we think could not have failed giving a favourable turn to the Negociation, or at any rate would have been in readineſs to proſecute the War without loſing a whole ſeaſon.

We tranſmitted to Colonel Upton for his notice, a copy of Colonel Keating's letter, dated the 24th, containing ſome propoſals made by Ragoba. What Colonel Keating calls full powers from Ragoba, to treat with your Honour, &c. in the perſon of Colonel Upton, is no more than a letter from him to our Preſident, requeſting we will exert our influence to obtain conſiſtent terms for him; for we ſhould not think ourſelves at liberty to accept any ſuch powers from him.

We ſtill continue to receive complaints from our army, of the acts of hoſtility committed by the miniſterial forces, as you will find particularly mentioned in Colonel Keating's correſpondence.

The revenues are coming in very faſt from the ceded Pergunnahs, and we expect to receive in the courſe of this month, 2,86,000 rupees, from one aſſeſſment made on the diſtricts of Hanſood, Occlaſeer, and Jambooſeer, dependant on Broach; and by the end of next month we hope to be at a certainty how much the whole will produce this ſeaſon, which we will not fail to adviſe you of.

We have advices from Buſhier, dated the 28th December, when matters at Baſſora were ſtill in a very uncertain ſituation. The Turks were very obſtinate in their defence of the town, expecting relief from Bagdat, and Career Cawn ſeemed as determined to reduce it, declaring his intention of marching againſt it in perſon, rather than raiſe the ſiege.

We have, &c.

Ordered, That the correſpondence with Lieutenant Colonel Keating be abſtracted, and that it be entered after this conſultation, together with the correſpondence with Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

APPENDIX, No. 118.

Abſtract of the continuation of Colonel Keating's correſpondence, from the 24th January to 14th February 1776.

LETTER from, dated near Mandavie, 24th January. Tranſmits an explanation of the Articles of a new Treaty propoſed by Ragoba.

Letter to, dated 31ſt January. Futty Sing has kept up a conſtant correſpendence with the Miniſters; deſire he will keep a watchful eye over his conduct.

Letter from, dated Mandavie, 6th February. The Peiſhwa's diſtreſſes increaſe daily. The miniſterialiſts ſtill continue to commit ravages.

Letter to, dated 14th February. Determine to advance Ragoba 80,000 rupees.

Continuation of the correſpondence between the Select Committee of Bombay and Colonel Upton, from the 28th January.

To the Honourable the Preſident and Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I have received your letter of the 18th inſtant, with the copy of the memorial, &c. delivered to the Governor General and Council of Fort William. I am much obliged by the very full information you have been pleaſed to give me, and ſhall endeavour to make every uſe of it, to the honour and advantage of our Honourable Employers.

From a death in Siccaram Baboo's family, and a marriage in Ballajee Pundit's, a Durbar has not been aſſembled for ſome days paſt. I ſent to deſire they would immediately iſſue an order to the officers of their grabs and gallivats, not to moleſt any veſſels or boats with Engliſh paſſes or colours. The order was to be ſent off laſt night; they requeſt in return, that their veſſels, &c. may paſs unmoleſted.

I have perfectly ſatisfied theſe people of the propriety of our troops remaining where they are, and that the terms of the Governor General's letter have been fully complied with, by withdrawing our troops from Ragonaut Row's, and by your having publicly proclaimed the ceſſation of hoſtilities. Till the terms of the Treaty about to take place were made known, I obſerved to them, were we to withdraw our forces entirely, they would have little occaſion to enter into any Treaty. They were, as I have already ſaid, quite ſatisfied that our troops ſhould remain, obſerving ſtrictly that no hoſtilities were committed; was the army to be withdrawn entirely, they would immediately take the advantage of it. At firſt, they aſked this of me, till they were convinced of the impoſſibility of its being complied with.

I ſhall be much obliged to you, Gentlemen, to inform me, if the ceſſions made by Futty Sing were antecedent to your receipt of the Governor General's letter, ordering the troops to diſcontinue hoſtilities. Futty Sing has all along, according to the account of the miniſtry, and they offered to produce his letters, correſponded with them; and adviſed, that unleſs more troops could be ſent to him, he muſt give up ſuch places as were demanded: They ſay he was compelled to this, after the ceſſation of arms had taken place.

By my inſtructions you will obſerve, that the power of treating with either party is not veſted in me (except conditionally). I obſerve this, as you mention, "if I "ſtill prefer treating with the Miniſters at Poonah," &c.

I am afraid I ſhall not be able to get any eſtabliſhment for Ragonaut Row previous to the Treaty's being ſettled; they will have much to urge againſt it.

Poonah Dhur, 24th January 1776. I have, &c. &c. (Signed) J. Upton.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have received your letter dated the 24th ultimo.

Immediately on the ceſſation being proclaimed, we gave inſtructions to the commanders of all the Company's veſſels, not to moleſt any boats or veſſels belonging to the Marattas; and as no act of hoſtility has been committed on our ſide, there is not any occaſion to repeat theſe orders.

We are much pleaſed to find you are convinced of the propriety of the Company's troops not being entirely withdrawn from Ragonaut Row's before the concluſion of the Treaty; and we are ſenſible you will experience the good effects of this meaſure in your Negociation.

The ſeveral ceſſions from Futty Sing (except Batta) were made long before the receipt of the Governor General and Council's orders for diſcontinuing the War. The Treaty between him and Ragoba was executed on the 18th of July laſt, near Brodera; whereas theſe orders did not reach Bombay until the 12th of Auguſt; and it was ſtipulated in that Treaty, that the Guicawar ſhare of the Broach revenues, and the Villages of Corat, Chickley, and Veriow, ſhould be ceded to the Honourable Company. Futty Sing was before this openly connected with the miniſterial party; but when he found Ragoba ſupported by the Engliſh, he was glad to make his peace with him, and return to his allegiance. And theſe ceſſions were made to the Honourable Company for the ſervices rendered him, in accommodating matters between him and the Peiſhwa. He has lately made many profeſſions of his attachment to the Honourable Company; and in a letter to our Preſident at the time, expreſſed his ſatsfaction at the accommodation effected by Colonel Keating. The only ceſſion obtained ſince the ceſſation, was the Villiage of Batta, which is ſo connected with our other poſſeſſions, that a grant of it was requeſted from Futty Sing in the room of Sinore, a place producing a much more conſiderable revenue, which he voluntarily relinquiſhed, becauſe it was not ſo conveniently ſituated. We have alſo lately requeſted him to give up his pretenſions to the Autgoms, ſome villages ſituated in the very center of the Broach Pergunnah, which he does not ſeem to conſider as included in his grant of that diſtrict; but we are not yet apprized of the ſucceſs of this application. We never authorized, nor do we believe any compulſion was ever uſed to obtain theſe grants from Futty Sing.

We muſt again ſtrongly urge to you, the propriety of your inſiſting upon the Miniſters ſettling an eſtabliſhment for Ragoba immediately; for we may venture to foretell, that if you recede from this point, they will protract and retard the Negociation by every artifice in their power, in the hopes of Ragoba's army diſbanding for want of pay, which would intirely fruſtrate the good effects we, with ſo much reaſon, expected from our late meaſures; and we are alſo apprehenſive it will be a difficult matter to prevent an army without pay, in a plentiful country, from committing ſome irregularities, which the Miniſters will be very ready to term an infringement of the ceſſation.

We have lately received a letter from Colonel Keating, containing ſome propoſals made by Ragoba, of which we think it proper to tranſmit a copy for your notice, and likewiſe an extract from another letter alluded to therein; but the orders from the Governor General and Council arriving about the time, Mr. Forbes did not deliver Ragoba's propoſals.

You have never acknowledged the receipt of our letter, dated the 29th ultimo.

We hope you will prevail with the Miniſters, to give immediate orders for opening the communication.

I remain &c. &c.

Appendix. No. 119.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We ſhall now reply to your letter received laſt night.

We were ſtruck with the utmoſt ſurprize by the queſtions you put to us reſpecting Baſſein. We never imagined that you could entertain an idea of ſtipulating for our having a factory only at that place, when your inſtructions are ſo peremptory for your inſiſting upon the abſolute ceſſion of it to the Company. A factory there would not be attended with the leaſt benefit or advantage to them; and it is our opinion that the intereſt of the Company requires you ſhould inſiſt upon this ceſſion, and that you cannot, conſiſtently with your inſtructions, act otherwiſe. The papers you have been already furniſhed with, will ſhew you the importance of Baſſein, and the deſire the Company have for ſo many years expreſſed to obtain it. Salſette will never prove of much advantage, and the inhabitants will never think themſelves in a ſtate of ſecurity, unleſs we get poſſeſſion of Baſſein, and its dependencies, as deſcribed in Mr. Tayler's memorial, and we think that circumſtance only can effectually exclude other Europeans, from either forming a ſettlement there, or making themſelves maſters of the place. In the treaty concluded with the Maratta State, in October 1756, of which we obſerve you have got a copy, it was expreſsly ſtipulated in the firſt Article, that the Dutch, who was the only European Power we were then apprehenſive of, ſhould not form any ſettlement in their dominions; and we do not think that any treaty that can be formed with the Miniſters, will afford us better ſecurity againſt ſuch an event.

We were equally alarmed and concerned at the ſuppoſition you have made, that the ceſſions in the Guzerat Country ſhould not be retained by the Company. We have ſufficiently explained the importance of theſe acquiſitions in our letter dated the 18th ultimo; and in that letter, and the one dated the firſt inſtant, we particularly mentioned the names of the ceded places, and plainly diſtinguiſhed by whom, and when, ceded. For your full ſatisfaction, we will repeat theſe particulars; premiſing, that what is termed the Guzerat Province commences from the River Tappy, or Surat River, extending from thence to the northward, and that conſequently ſome of the northern ceſſions are not, ſtrictly ſpeaking, ſituated in that Province.

Ceſſions in the Guzerat Province by the Treaty with Ragoba, executed in March 1775.

Orpad.

Jambooſeer.

The Guicawar ſhare of the Broach revenues, and ſince confirmed by Futty Sing.

An annual collection from Occlaſeer of R^{s} 75,000, preſented by Ragoba ſince the concluſion of the Treaty.

Aſhmood, preſented in the month of June laſt.

Hanſood, granted in the month of July, with the proviſo that the Company's right ſhould not commence until the 6th October, it having been farmed out until that time.

Theſe two places, with Verſault and the remainder of the Occlaſeer revenues, were taken poſſeſſion of in the month of April, being mortgaged by the treaty, for ſecurity of the monthly ſtipend.

Verſault is ſituated to the ſouthward of Surat, and therefore is not in the Guzerat Province.

Ceſſions made by Futty Sing, agreeable to the ſtipulation in his treaty with the Peiſhwa; executed the 18th July.

Ragoba's grant of the Guicawar ſhare of the Broach Revenues, confirmed as above-mentioned.

Coral, near Broach.

Chickley and Veriow. } To the ſouthward of Surat River.

Ceded by Futty Sing in November.

Batta, ſituated between the Pergunnahs of Orpad and Hanſood, which it connects, and for that reaſon a grant of it was requeſted from Futty Sing.

We likewiſe, to prevent diſputes hereafter, ſolicited the grant of ſome villages called the Autgoms ſituated in the centre of the Broach Pergunnah, as Futty Sing did not ſeem to conſider them as included in the former Sunnud. We are not yet apprized of the ſucceſs of this application, though we think the Company's right to them indiſputable, as they formerly belonged to that province in the time of the Moguls. We before obſerved, that we did not imagine the ceſſions made by Futty Sing could be effected by your negociations, and we have forwarded to you a copy of the Governor General and Council's letter to us on that ſubject.

We cannot ſee any poſſible advantage that will ariſe to the Company, from having a factory at Jambooſeer. and therefore wiſh not for any privileges there, upon that footing; we might have formed a ſettlement there many years ago, had we thought it eligible.

The revenues of the northern Pergunnahs have been collected by and for the uſe of the Company, ever ſince the month of April laſt, and very conſiderable ſums have lately been received.

We have thus given you very explicit information on our parts; and are, &c. &c.

The Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, and Governor,

The Hon. Daniel Draper, Eſquire — Robert Gordon.

Andrew Ramſey.

N. B. Mr. Fletcher indiſpoſed, and Mr. Tayler, at Bengal.

MET to read the letter received laſt night from Colonel Upton, adviſing his having concluded a Treaty of Peace with the Miniſters, and incloſing an extract of ſuch parts of which, as he ſays relate to this Preſidency.

The extract of the Treaty was then read, and conſidered with the utmoſt attention.

It is remarked, as extraordinary, that although the treaty is dated the 1ſt inſtant, it was not received here until the 10th in the evening, and Ragoba has only a month allowed him to diſband his army.

The opinion expreſſed in our letters of the 15th and 26th ultimo reſpecting the extent of Colonel Upton's power with regard to the ceſſion of Baſſein, was founded upon his written inſtructions tranſmitted to us by the Governor General and Council, and not upon any private or verbal inſtructions he might have received at Calcutta, for we never imagined he had any inſtructions whatever reſpecting this Preſidency, which had not been communicated to us. If the Governor General and Council have wrote to him ſince Mr. Tayler's arrival in Bengal, we hope he would have had cauſe to have deviated from ſuch verbal inſtructions.

We cannot think that an eſcort of one hundred of the Company's troops, or the reſidence of an Engliſh gentleman at Poonah, will prove any ſecurity for the ſafety of Ragoba's perſon at Cocper Gung, if he ſhould venture to truſt himſelf in the power of the Miniſters; and their motives for the requeſt, concerning the advice to be given by Colonel Keating, Hurry Punt Furkia, appear very obvious.

As to the Miniſters ſending a vackeel thither upon the plea aſſigned by Colonel Upton, it appears very extraordinary; as we think the Treaty ſhould not be explained by a Maratta Vackeel.

We think the Miniſters might have placed ſo much confidence in us, as to have ordered the communication to be opened without waiting for advice of our troops having returned into garriſon.

Two Gentlemen will ſoon be appointed for the purpoſe mentioned in Colonel Upton's letter, but we apprehend the condition that the diſtrict to be ceded is not to be Jaghire land, will be a great obſtacle to our getting ſuch as may be moſt convenient and advantageous.

Colonel Upton muſt be acquainted with the Engliſh and Maratta names of the iſlands in our poſſeſſion.

It is then conſidered what orders are immediately neceſſary to be given in conſequence of the treaty; when the following occur to us:

The Peace muſt be proclaimed to-morrow morning at the head of this garriſon, and orders immediately ſent to the army and ſubordinates for the ſame purpoſe.

Orders muſt likewiſe be immediately ſent to Colonel Keating to march our troops into the Company's diſtricts dependant on Surat, and to give advice thereof to Hurry Punt, and whether Ragoba accepts the terms ſtipulated for him. Appendix, No. 119.

Ragoba muſt be apprized of theſe circumſtances and conditions, and acquainted that it is not in our power to continue our forces with him any longer: he muſt alſo be deſired to let us know his reſolutions and future intentions.

The further diſcuſſion and conſideration of the treaty is deferred till our next meeting, when it will be entered, with our ſentiments at large upon each article.

As it yet remains a doubt whether Salſette will be retained by the Company, no more money muſt be expended on works or buildings of any kind upon that iſland.

The Peace was this day proclaimed at the head of the garriſon.

Re-peruſed the Articles of the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton with the Miniſters at Poonah, when the Brigadier General lays before us ſome remarks and obſervations thereon; which are likewiſe read, and at his requeſt ordered to be entered after this Conſultation.

The Board then proceed to make their remarks upon the Treaty, which are ordered to be inſerted in this place, in columns oppoſite to each other.

Extracts from the Treaty concluded between the Honourable Company and Maratta State at Poorunder, the 1ſt day of March 1776.

Article 1ſt.

Peace ſhall be eſtabliſhed and take place from this day, between the Honourable the Eaſt India Company in general, and the Government of Bombay in particular, and Row Pundit Purdhan, and his Miniſters, Siccaram Pundit and Ballajee Pundit, on the part of all the Marattas; and the following articles are to be obſerved inviolably by both parties.

Article 2d.

The Peace is to be forthwith proclaimed between the Honourable Company and the Marratta State at the Preſidency of Bombay, and all its dependencies, at the head of the Engliſh Troops encamped at Mandavie, and in every part of the Guzerat province where there are Britiſh ſubjects. The Maratta Government will alſo order proclamations to be made throughout all their Dominions.

Article 3d.

The Peiſhwa Row Pundit Purdhan, and his Miniſters, being deſirous of having Salſette and the ſmall Iſlands ſubdued by the Engliſh in this war, reſtored to them, do offer to give in exchange a country of three lacks of rupees, with its Chout, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, the 15th March 1776.

Remarks made by the Honourable the Preſident and Council of Bombay on the Extracts of the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton.

Remarks on the 1ſt Article.

The name of the Peiſhwa with whom the Treaty is concluded, is not mentioned in this article; the term Row Pundit Purdhan being only titles annexed to that office, and applicable to every Peiſhwa. This appears to us a moſt material omiſſion; and though we ſuppoſe the infant, ſaid to be the Son of Narron Row, is the perſon meant, we think if Colonel Upton has received ſatisfactory evidence of his legitimacy, there ſhould have been an expreſs article in the treaty acknowledging him Peiſhwa. Colonel Upton has been totally ſilent on this part in his correſpondence with us; he alſo ſeems to have departed entirely from the clauſe in his inſtructions, dated the 16th of Auguſt, which directs as an indiſpenſable point, that whatever treaty he may enter into, with the Maratta State ſhall be ſigned nominally and individually by all the Chiefs; and we muſt conclude the treaty is only ſigned by the two perſons mentioned in this article: and this precaution was the more neceſſary in the preſent caſe, as the ſuppoſed Peiſhwa is an infant of two years of age.

Remark on the 2d Article.

This article has already been complied with on our part.

Remarks on the 3d Article.

Colonel Upton in this article has again acted in direct breach of his inſtructions, dated the 21ſt June and 17th July, which enjoin him in the moſt poſitive terms to inſiſt upon the ceſſion of Salſette and Baſſein. Indeed the reference at all upon this point, ſhould not in our opinion have been admitted upon

Appendix. No. 119.

&c. in the neighbourhood of Broach. Colonel Upton having declared that he could not reſtore the ſaid Iſlands, it is therefore agreed that they ſhall remain as they now are, and that they ſhall write to the Honourable the Supreme Council of Calcutta, and both parties engage to abide by their determination. If the Governor General and Council of Fort William do not reſtore them, they ſhall continue in the poſſeſſion of the Engliſh, and the Marattas will then give up all right and title to the ſaid iſlands. Should the Governor General and Council of Calcutta reſtore Salſette with the ſaid iſlands, the Engliſh will accordingly deliver them over to the Peiſhwa.

Article 4th.

The Marattas do agree to give to the Engliſh Company for ever, all right and title to their ſhare of the City and Pergunnah of Broach, as full and complete as ever they collected from the Moguls, or otherwiſe, without retaining claim of chout, or any other demand whatever; ſo that the Engliſh Company will poſſeſs it without participation or claim of any kind.

Article 5th.

The Marattas do agree (by way of friendſhip) to give for ever to the Engliſh Company, a country of three complete lacks of rupees, near or adjoining to Broach, on which there is to be no claim of chout, or any other demand whatever. Two perſons on the part of the Company, and two perſons on the part of Row Pundit Purdhan, to proceed and upon any conſideration, though we flatter ourſelves, as the Company have ſo repeatedly recommended to us, to obtain poſſeſſion of Salſette and the adjacent iſlands, the Governor General and Council will on no account agree to reſtore them. As for Baſſein, we muſt now give up all hopes of obtaining this favourite and deſirable object. Unleſs ſome advantages, unknown to us, are obtained for the other Preſidencies, we cannot think this reference will be agreeable to the Governor General and Council; and the inconveniencies and loſs to the Company at this Preſidency, from the delay occaſioned thereby, will be very great. Whilſt our retaining theſe poſſeſſions remains in doubt, no further ſteps can be taken for their improvement either in cultivation, population, or in ſtocking them with cattle, &c. which they ſtand much in need of; and the time now approaches for leaſing out the farms again, which we cannot expect can be done on any tolerable terms in this ſtate of uncertainty, ſo that at any rate the Company will loſe great part of the revenues for this ſeaſon. The compenſation offered for Salſette, &c. is alſo in every reſpect inadequate, as three times the propoſed exchange in the neighbourhood of Broach, or any where elſe, would be no equivalent for theſe iſlands, whoſe ſituation gives them advantages we could not meet with in any other territory. In caſe of differences with the Marattas, or a war with France, they will, in the former caſe, form an excellent and ſecure barrier to preſerve this iſland from all inſults, and ſupply us with a large quantity of grain; and in the latter, we ſhall have the advantage of keeping our military force more compact, and be able to withdraw a conſiderable number to reinforce this garriſon, which could not be done from a more diſtant poſſeſſion. The improvements made to the fortifications of Tannah, by forming a glacis and eſplanade, would alſo prove a powerful argument for not putting this place again into the hands of the Marattas. We muſt further remark, that in caſe we do retain Salſette, and the other iſlands, it will be abſolutely neceſſary to aſcertain the royalty of the river between the former and Baſſein, otherwiſe there will be a continual ſubject for altercation and diſpute; and, on the other hand, ſhould we relinquiſh this iſland by orders from the Governor General and Council, there ſeems to be a great defect in this article, in not recapitulating, in the latter part, that the Marattas ſhall at the ſame time give us the propoſed territory in exchange.

Remarks on the 4th Article.

This article appears ſpecious at firſt ſight; but when it is conſidered that the Poonah Government have no right or title whatever to any ſhare in the Town or Pergunnah of Broach, the value of this ceſſion is entirely deſtroyed. In the partition of the Guzerat country, made in the year 1759, between the Poonah Government and Damajee, the Father of Futty Sing, and Govin Row, the Town and Pergunnah of Broach were included in the ſhare allotted to Damajee, with whom and his ſucceſſors therefore, the ſovereignty and the power of ceding them only reſted; which was plainly acknowledged by Ragoba in the Treaty of Surat, as he therein only engaged to procure this ceſſion from the Guicawars for us; and by virtue of their Sunnuds alone, we have for ſome time enjoyed full poſſeſſion thereof. We cannot diſcover in the Treaty of Broderah, the ſmalleſt trace of the acknowledgment mentioned by General Gordon in his remarks upon this article. The Company do not therefore derive any great benefit from this article, further than a ſecurity againſt any demands the Miniſters might hereafter have made on this territory. If upon examination of the Sunnuds, as mentioned in the 7th article, it ſhould appear the Guicawars have a right to make ceſſions, this gift of the Miniſters will be of no leſs conſequence; and in this caſe, we hope Colonel Upton will inſiſt upon a proportionable territory being aſſigned in exchange, and the nearer to Surat the better.

Remarks on the 5th Article.

We apprehend much difficulty and trouble in carrying this article into execution; and we think either the places to be ceded, or the method in which the revenue of three lacks is to be aſcertained, ought to have been ſettled. The further clauſe mentioned in Colonel Upton's letter, that the country of three lacks ceded by this article, is not to be Jaghire land, will prove another very great obſtacle to any adjuſtment, or to and determine the place and boundaries when the Peiſhwa will give the Sunnuds.

Article 6th.

The Peiſhwa and Miniſters agree to pay to the Company twelve lacks of rupees, in part of the expences of the Engliſh Army, in two payments, viz. ſix lacks within * months of the date of this treaty, and the other ſix lacks within two years of the ſame date.

Article 7th.

The Engliſh do agree that every part of the Guzerat country ceded to the Company by Ragonath Row, or taken poſſeſſion of by them, ſhall be forthwith reſtored, with all the forts and towns thereunto belonging, except what is ſettled by this treaty; the country ceded to the Engliſh by Seajee or Futty Sing Guicawar, ſhall alſo be reſtored when it is proved by their letters and copies of the Sunnuds, granted by the former Peiſhwa's (and now in their Guicawar's hands) that they do not poſſeſs power or authority to make ſuch ceſſions. The Pergunnahs of Chickly and Coral, with the town of Veriow, three villages of the Pergunnahs of Chureaſſy, and the village of Batta Gang, are to continue as pledges in poſſeſſion of the Engliſh till the Sunnuds for the country of three lacks are made over. All treaties and agreements ſubſiſting between the Engliſh and Ragonath Row are hereby annulled, and thoſe of Seajee and Futty Sing Guicawars are to be alſo annulled, when the above-mentioned proofs are produced, and theſe treaties are to be deſtroyed, in the preſence of the Peiſhwa Miniſters, when they come to hand.

Article 8th.

The Engliſh do agree, that the troops now in the field, from the Preſidency of Bombay, are to be marched into their own garriſons and diſtricts.

Article 9th.

to our getting ſuch a diſtrict as may be moſt convenient and advantageous; the beſt lands adjoining to Broach being all Jaghire, and moſtly to Saccaram Bappoo Pundit, which accounts for this exception. Appendix, No. 119.

Remarks on the 6th Article.

The ſum of twelve lacks is very inadequate to the expences of the war, and the diſtant periods fixed for the payment very exceptionable, and even diſgraceful, as the Miniſters propoſing ſuch terms muſt have proceeded from an opinion that Colonel Upton would agree to any thing rather than continue the war. So many events may happen before the end of two years, that our hopes of receiving the ſecond payment are not very ſanguine; and if the Miniſters were not able to pay ſo ſmall a ſum in a much ſhorter time, their power cannot be very formidable. This article is alſo very defective in not ſtipulating where or to whom the money is to be paid.

Remarks on the 7th Article.

By this article the Company are at once deprived of Jambooſer, Hanſood, Ahmood, Occlaſeer, Orpad, and Verſaul, now in our quiet poſſeſſion, and producing a revenue of at leaſt fifteen lacks of rupees a year. We are to remain in uncertain poſſeſſion of Coral, Veriow, Chickly, and Batta, ceded by Seajee and Futty Sing, and to wait the diſcuſſion of a tedious adjuſtment before we receive the country of three lacks, made over to the Company by the 5th Article. But the moſt ſtriking inconſiſtency is, that the pledges aſſigned by the Miniſters to remain in our hands for this ſaid country, are (except the three villages of Chureaſſy) the very places juſt before ſtipulated not to be reſtored but in caſe of a certain contingency, and are alone in the gift of Guicawars, by virtue of whoſe Sunnuds they already belong to the Company, which Colonel Upton was not ignorant of. This very article ſhews it was a doubt with him, whether the Guicawars had or had not a right to make ceſſions; therefore he ſhould not have accepted ſuch doubtful ſecurity. Beſides, even if it ſhould be proved that the Guicawars have not a right to make ceſſions in the Guzerat country, it does not follow that the Miniſters have, though they will probably derive ſufficient influence from this very treaty to make the Guicawars diſavow their own acts, and produce any proof or voucher they may require, eſpecially as their own intereſt is ſo much concerned. We alſo apprehend it will be found very difficult to judge of the authenticity of letters and Sunnuds, in caſe of any colluſion between them and the Miniſters. Excluſive of the inſtance quoted in our remarks upon the 5th Article, we have other undeniable proofs that the Guicawars poſſeſs an unqueſtioned right to make ceſſions, as we have now in our hands four Sunnuds from Damajee Guicawar, by which we have collected revenues from ſo many diſtricts adjoining to Surat, ever ſince October 1759, one of which is Veriow: and another proof is the conduct of the Durbar, at Poonah, at which time we firſt became poſſeſſed of Broach, and concluded a treaty with Futty Sing, in February 1773, for although Mr. Moſtyn was then actually at Poonah in quality of Reſident for the Company, that Government did never, as that Gentleman aſſures us, make any objections to our treaty with Futty Sing, or call in queſtion his power of making any engagements he thought proper.

The ſtipulations in the latter part of this article, that treaties made by the Preſidency ſhall be deſtroyed in preſence of the Peiſhwa's Miniſters, we conſider it, as highly injurious to the honour of the Nation and the Company; and we cannot but reflect with aſtoniſhment, that Colonel Upton ſhould ever liſten, and much leſs agree, to ſo diſgraceful a conceſſion. The evil tendency of this unneceſſary, impolitic, humiliating, and diſhonourable condeſcenſion, is too obvious to need any further comment. However, the execution of it ſeems to reſt with Colonel Upton, for we cannot conceive that he will demand the original from us, to be applied to ſuch a purpoſe.

Remark on the 8th Article.

Orders have already been iſſued to carry this Article into execution, but we think the communication ſhould have been opened immediately.

Remarks

* The number of months for the payment of the firſt ſix lacks of rupees, is omitted.

Appendix. No. 119.

Article 9th.

It is agreed, that Ragonath Row is to disband his army within one month after this date. His followers and adherents (except the servants about his person) are to separate also within the same time; and proclamation is to be made by the Maratta Government, granting a full pardon to all the adherents and followers, and all such as have been in arms with Ragonath Row, the four following excepted, viz. Abagee Mahadu, Noor Cawn Gardie, Toola Hudmutgar, and Hurrig Sing Chokydar, who, for crimes and misdemeanors committed against the State, are for ever banished the Maratta dominions.

Article 10th.

If Ragonath Row refuses to disband his army, the English are to withdraw their forces, and not to assist him.

Article 11th.

The conditions of the 9th Article being complied with, the Peishwa and Ministers then consent to establish an household for Ragonath Row, consisting of 1,000 horse and some foot, who are to be paid and relieved at the pleasure of the Government, but to obey all legal orders given them by Ragonath Row, also 200 domestics, to be chosen by Ragonath Row, and paid by Government. They will also cause to be paid to Ragonath Row, to defray his other expences, three lacks of rupees per annum, by monthly payments, at the rate of twenty-five thousand rupees per month; conditionally, that he resides at Cooper Gang, on the banks of the Gungha Gudowry. If at any time he may want to change his place of residence, application is to be made to the Peishwa, without whose permission such a change is not to take place; and he is not to cause any disturbance, or carry on improper correspondence with any person.

Article 12th.

It is agreed, That no assistance is to be given by the English to Ragonath Row, or to any subject or servant of the Peishwa's, that shall cause disturbance or rebellion in the Maratta dominions.

Article 14th.

It is agreed, That in case of any shipwreck of English ships or vessels, or ships or vessels trading under their protection on any part of the Maratta coast, every assistance shall be given by that Government and the inhabitants, to save as much as possible; and the whole that may be saved shall be returned, all reasonable charges being defrayed by the owners. In like manner, the English Company engage their assistance, should any Maratta ships or vessels be wrecked on any of their coasts.

Article 15th.

All treaties between the Government of Bombay and the Marattas, dated July 1739, and the 12th October 1756, are to be held and continued in as full force, as when they were first entered into, unless any article or articles of either of them should in other manner be provided for by this treaty, in such case, such article or articles are to be rejected, and those of this treaty abided by.

Article 16th.

All other treaties or agreements subsisting between the Government of Bombay, and the Maratta Government, not having undergone alteration, or otherwise provided for by this treaty, are to be held and continued in as full force as when they were first entered upon.

Article 17th.

It is agreed, that if Ragonath Row has lodged his jewels

Remarks on the 9th, 10th, and 11th Articles.

Colonel Upton, in the first of these articles, has stipulated for what is out of his or our power to perform; for the disbanding Ragoba's Army must in a great measure depend upon himself, notwithstanding any advice we might give him for that purpose; and ten days of the limited month were expired before we received the treaty. The 10th Article is comprehended in the 8th, and must be complied with.

The provision made for him in the Seventh, is in every respect so inadequate to his rank and station, and so very inconsistent with what he had a right to expect, that we think he will never accept of it. If he does, he never can consider himself but as a State Prisoner, and there is every reason to believe his life would not be of long duration, considering that his household is to judge of the legality of his orders, and to be appointed, paid, and changed, at the pleasure of the very men who rebelled against him, and who must therefore dread the very idea of his ever regaining his former power. Many good consequences would have ensued, and the permanency of the Peace have been rendered much more secure, had the Colonel stipulated that Ragoba should have had the option of residing at Bombay, which the Ministers could not have objected to, had their intentions been good; and he would have proved a most useful instrument in our hands, to have alarmed their fears, and the best security for their observing the Peace.

However, as it seems very probable Ragoba will apply to us for protection, and the Governor General and Council, in their letter of the 20th October, have given us permission to afford him sanctuary, in case he should ever be necessitated to demand it, and as we think, it would reflect the highest disgrace upon the Company, to expose him to the mercy of his enemies, we shall receive him, upon his requesting it, with his family and domestics only; and it must be strongly recommended to Colonel Upton, in that case, to get his establishment continued to him here, that the Company may not be at the expence of supporting him. The four persons mentioned in the 9th Article must not be received. We think the whole of the stipulations respecting Ragoba particularly inglorious; and that the breach of faith to him will fix the most indelible stain on the honour of the British Nation through Indostan.

Remark on the 12th Article.

Must of course be complied with.

Remark on the 14th Article.

This Article is more advantageous for the Company than the stipulations made in former treaties on this head, as before, all wrecks were shared equally between the Marattas and us, and we therefore hope it will be faithfully complied with.

Remarks on the 15th Article.

If there had been any articles in the treaties herein mentioned, which interfered or clashed with the present treaty, it certainly would have been better to have pointed them out, than leave them to the construction of the contracting parties; though, however, it does not appear, that the treaties mentioned in this article do clash with the articles transmitted to us by Colonel Upton.

Remarks on the 17th Article.

This leaves open a door for much altercation and endless cavil;

jewels belonging to the Peiſhwa Row Pundit Purdhan in the hands of the Engliſh, they are to be reſtored on the obligation being complied with for which they were lodged.

Article 18th.

The Honourable Eaſt India Company ſhall be conſidered as the ſole lords and proprietors of all the places ceded by this Treaty, from the dates of the reſpective Sunnuds of grants, and are therein accordingly to exerciſe their own laws and authorities. And the Marattas are not to cauſe any diſturbances in any of the ceded Pergunnahs, nor ſhall the Engliſh occaſion any diſturbance in the Maatta dominions.

Article 19th.

In the places ceded to the Honourable Company, and in all the places reſtored to the Maratta Government by the Engliſh, it is agreed, That both parties ſhall commence to collect the revenues thereof, from the day on which they were delivered, and no demand of collections for any paſt tim eſhall be made.

John Upton,
Alex. Macpherſon,
Perſian Interpreter.

As the extracts of the Treaty ſent us by Colonel Upton are only ſigned by him and his Perſian Interpreter, he muſt be deſired to ſend us an authentic copy under the Peiſhwa's ſeal, as we may ſome time find it neceſſary to produce this Treaty.

After the moſt ſerious conſideration of all circumſtances, we are entirely of opinion that the Treaty is inadequate, and highly injurious to the reputation, honour, and intereſt of the Company, particularly in the ſtipulations reſpecting Ragoba: and we are afraid that Peace is very far from being ſecured on a permanent footing, even after ſuch mortifying conceſſions. We are ſatisfied the Miniſters, before they heard from Bengal, would have given a croreof rupees to have obtained ſuch terms; and even now, had Colonel Upton alarmed their fears by threatening to treat with Ragoba inſtead of them, we have not a doubt but much more adequate terms might have been obtained, and Ragoba admitted to ſome ſhare in the Government, according to his right: however, as the Treaty is concluded, and Colonel Upton has ſent us an extract of ſuch Articles as he ſays concern the Preſidency of Bombay, it becomes our duty to carry them into execution, as far as may depend upon us, and the neceſſary orders were therefore immediately given for withdrawing our forces from Ragoba, and proclaiming the Peace at this place, and the ſubordinate ſettlements.

Mr. Garden acquieſces in the propriety of affording an aſylum to Ragoba, on his requeſting it: but as he wiſhes the Governor and Council ſhould avoid engaging themſelves further than they can perform, he thinks they ſhould not commit themſelves in this inſtance, before they have communicated their intentions to Colonel Upton, as he fears the Miniſters may term this ſtep an infringement of the 12th Article of the Treaty.

The Board remark upon this, that the exigence of the caſe will not admit of their waiting for an anſwer from Colonel Upton, as the orders for withdrawing the army cannot be delayed, and the permiſſion for affording Ragoba an aſylum muſt accompany theſe orders, or it may arrive too late to be of any ſervice.

Andw Ramſay,

Brigadier General Gordon's Remarks and Obſervations on the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton.

Brigadier General Gordon having carefully peruſed the Treaty concluded between the Honourable Company and the Maratta Empire, begs leave to make the following remarks thereon:

That the 1ſt Article, immediately by reſtoring peace, is perfectly conſiſtent with the ſpirit and tenor of Colonel Upton's inſtructions, and the object of his embaſſy, as is the 2d Article, directing the general proclamation thereof.

By the 3d Article, Salſette, and all theother iſlands which were conquered during the war, are reſerved for the Company till the pleaſure of the Supreme Council is known. As it is to be ſuppoſed that they are well informed of the Company's ſentiments reſpecting Salſette, the poſſeſſion of it, which has been ſo long earneſtly wiſhed, is virtually ſecured by this Article.

The 4th article cedes to the Company the Maratta ſhare of the Broach revenues in the ampleſt manner. A conſiderable addition of annual income is thereby ſecured to the Company; all ſubject of contention from interference in collection is removed; and as by the 7th Article, the Peiſhwa and his Miniſters engage to prove, that the Guicawar's family have no right to make ceſſions, that power muſt be veſted in the Maratta Government eſtabliſhed at Poonah, which, indeed, ſeems to be acknowledged in plain terms by Futty Sing, in the treaty which he concluded with Ragonath Row on the 18th July 1775.

In the 5th Article, it is very honourable and advantageous, as the Company thereby gain perpetual poſſeſſion of a tract of country producing three lacks of rupees per annum, with power to chuſe the diſtricts moſt convenient and advantageouſly ſituated for them in the neighbourhood of Broach.

By the 6th Article, the Company are to receive from the Peiſhwa twelve lacks of rupees to defray in part the expences of the war. Two years ſeem rather a diſtant period for the payment of the ſecond moiety; but it ought to be attended to, that this war was carried on againſt the Peiſhwa and his Miniſters.

By the 7th Article, the Company agree to reſtore all the ceſſions made to them in the Guzerat Country by Ragonath Row and Futty Sing, on its being proved that they had no right to make ſuch ceſſions. If ſuch proofs are exhibited, juſtice directs that a reſtitution ſhould be made.

The Company are however in the mean time to retain poſſeſſion, particularly of certain villages and Pergunnahs, as pledges, till the Sunnuds for the country agreed by the 5th Article to be ceded to them for ever, are made over. If it is proved, that Ragonath Row and Futty Sing had no right to make the treaties which Remark on the 18th and 19th Articles.

Theſe Articles ſeem to have ſecured, upon good terms, the ſtipulations therein made; and we can only expreſs our hopes there will be no delay in giving the Sunnuds.

Appendix. No. 119.

they have done, it is reaſonable that they ſhall be declared null and void.

The 8th Article directs the drawing the Engliſh troops into garriſon. As a peace is concluded, that is certainly proper.

By the 9th Article, Ragonath Row is required to diſband his army, within a month from the date of the Treaty. This meaſure ſeems neceſſary to enſure Peace; and it is believed the deſperate ſtate of his finances would render it difficult for him to keep them together.

By the 10th Article, the Company engage, that if Ragoba ſhould refuſe to diſband his army, they will withdraw their troops, and not aſſiſt him. The expediency and neceſſity of this Article are evident; without it no Peace could take place.

The 11th Article provides an eſtabliſhment for Ranogath Row, on his complying with the terms of the 9th Article. On this it is to be remarked, that his guards, being paid and appointed by the Peiſhwa, and his Miniſters, muſt be totally dependant on them. Incenſed as they and he are againſt each other by repeated mutual injuries, he will have much danger to apprehend from being ſo entirely in their power. If therefore his annual allowance, which Colonel Upton ſtates to amount to ten lacks, was to be paid to himſelf, with permiſſion, either to retire to the place of abode fixed upon for him by the Treaty, or to any Engliſh ſettlement, it would tend to enſure the ſafety of his perſon; and ſhould he take the latter of theſe ſteps, the Company could always guard againſt his infringement of the Treaty.

The Company engage by the 12th Article, not to aſſiſt Ragonath Row, or any perſon in rebellion againſt the Maratta's dominions. This is certainly juſt, proper, and conſiſtent, as long as they adhere to the Treaty; as are alſo the ſtipulations contained in the 14th Article, reſpecting ſhips wrecked on the Engliſh or Maratta coaſts.

The 15th and 16th Articles contain confirmations of former treaties, except in ſuch parts as they are altered by the preſent one; as this is always uſual on ſuch occaſions, no remarks occur upon it.

In the 17th Article it is ſtipulated, that the Peiſhwa ſhall have any jewels belonging to him which have been depoſited as pledges by Ragonath Row, on fulfilling the conditions whereon they were lodged. This ſeems reaſonable and juſt, as perhaps they are a part of the regalia.

The 18th Article declares the Engliſh ſole lords and proprietors of the territory ceded to them, and this in the moſt expreſs terms.

The 19th aſcertains the time when each party is to begin to collect the revenues, which is done in the cleareſt manner.

Having thus gone through the Treaty, Article by Article, it remains to be conſidered, whether more advantageous terms ought reaſonably to be expected, when every circumſtance relative to the riſe, progreſs, and management of the war, the reſources for carrying it on, the preſent ſtate of the contending parties, Colonel Upton's inſtructions and the ſentiments of the Company, are attended to.

As to the firſt of theſe; the Brigadier General apprehends, that it will be difficult to defend the attack made on Salſette, by which the war was begun, on principles of good faith and juſtice. That on the 16th March 1775, previous to which Brigadier General Gordon had entered a diſſent, diſclaiming all ſhare of reſponſibility for the meaſures purſued when the Treaty was concluded and ſigned with Ragonath Row, he was by no means in a condition to fulfil his part thereof.

That the views and intentions of the Honourable the Preſident and Council, which it is to be preſumed had only for their object he advantage and intereſt of their employers, were by no means ſeconded by the officer intruſted with the command of the troops employed in ſupport of Ragonath Row. On the contrary, that officer, Lieutenant Colonel Keating, did, by repeated acts of violence and miſconduct, waſte much time and ammunition in wandering, without any object of importance to the ſervice in view, through the Guzerat Province, inſtead of marching towards Poonah, to which alone his operations ſhould have been directed; during which the lives of many gallant officers and men were loſt, large ſums of money ſquandered away, and all this without obtaining any one permanent or eſſential advantage. If a judgment therefore may be formed of what would have been done in a ſucceeding campaign by Lieutenant Colonel Keating, from what happened in his laſt, no great deal ought to be expected.

That the reſources of men and money whereof this Preſidency were poſſeſſed, ſeem not ſufficient for ſo vaſt an undertaking, paying due attention at the ſame time to the ſafety of their different ſettlements. The truth of this remark is plainly evinced by the repeated demands which the Board have been unanimous in making for large ſupplies from the other Preſidencies, to enable them to carry on the war.

That Ragonath Row, weakened by the defection of his friends, Govind Row, who was diſguſted by the Treaty of Broderah, in the utmoſt diſtreſs for money, and without a proſpect of relief in this abſolutely neceſſary article, is ill able to contend with his rich and powerful opponents, whoſe cauſe it is believed the Nizam is ready to eſpouſe with a large army.

The inſtructions given by the Governor General and Council to Colonel Upton, mark throughout their intentions immediately to eſtabliſh a peace; indeed it ſeems to be the grand object of his miſſion. That they have been led into a belief that Baſſein is actually in poſſeſſion of this Preſidency, is evident from the expreſs words of their inſtructions. This however being a miſtake, Colonel Upton is certainly at liberty to exerciſe the diſcretional power given to him reſpecting that place, which never was in the hands of the Company, and conſequently it cannot be reſtored, nor poſſeſſion of it relinquiſhed, by them.

The only reſtriction that Colonel Upton ſeems under about a proviſion for Ragonath Row and the Broach diſtricts, is, that he is not to prolong the Negociations for a day, for any conditions, except thoſe which are expreſsly mentioned. The only conditions expreſsly mentioned are, the keeping poſſeſſion of the conquered countries, and this is done by the 3d Article of the Treaty.

The pacific intentions of the Court of Directors, are ſufficiently evident from their deciſions reſpecting the Rohilla and Tanjore wars, and if poſſible ſtill more ſo from their expreſs commands, received by the ſhip Gatton, relative to Salſette, and to the very war wherein this Preſidency has juſt now been involved.

Brigadier General Gordon, from a review of all theſe circumſtances, begs leave to offer it, as his opinion, that the Peace concluded by Colonel Upton is, in whatever relates to the Company's intereſts, honourable, advantageous, and expedient. That the alteration which he has propoſed in theſe Articles, which relate to an eſtabliſhment for Ragonath Row, ſhould be recommended to Colonel Upton's particular attention, who is however ſufficiently and entirely juſtified by the letter of his inſtructions, for the ſteps which he has taken. And Brigadier General Gordon deſires to conclude his opinion on the whole of this buſineſs, by reminding the Board, that the Governor General and Council, charged as they are with the general care, management, and direction, of whatever appertains to the honour and intereſts of the Britiſh Nation throughout Indoſtan, may have views for the good of the whole, whereof a part cannot be competent judges.

Bombay, 15th March, 1776. Robert Gordon.

APPENDIX No. 120.

To the Honourable the Preſident and Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I HAVE received your letter of the 14th inſtant, and the copy of Colonel Keating's letter to you, dated the 6th inſtant.

Very repeatedly I have deſired of the Miniſters a ſupply of money for the uſe of Ragoba during the ceſſation of arms, but have never been able to procure a rupee. To me the requeſt appeared unnatural. I had no argument to enforce what I aſked. What have we to urge when deſiring our enemies to ſupply us with the means of carrying on a war againſt themſelves? It is true, Gentlemen, you have ſaid that it is but reaſonable that a portion of revenues, ſo unjuſtly withheld from Ragoba, ſhould be made over to the maintenance of him and his adherents.

The merits of this argument I ſhall not enter into; however good they appear at Bombay, I am afraid the force of them would be loſt at Poonah. The diſperſing of Ragoba's Army muſt be ſhortly expected: this evinces the neceſſity of concluding the Peace with all poſſible expedition; in two or three days it will either be eſtabliſhed or entirely broke off.

With your letter of the 15th inſtant I am alſo favoured. Permit me, Gentlemen, to refer you in turn to my inſtructions. You will perceive I am directed to act as appears to me beſt (particularly regarding this very Iſland of Baſſein) for the honour and benefit of the Company; and this I am determined to do. We have little juſt claim to any thing. If the Peace ſhould take place it will be both honourable and beneficial. You know as well as myſelf the ſenſe of the Governor General and Council regarding this war; you will therefore, Gentlemen, eaſily conclude what it muſt be reſpecting the Treaty they wiſh to have concluded with the Marattas: they are ever mindful of the honour as well as advantage of the Company.

Poonah Dhur, I have the honour to be, &c.
20th February 1776. (Signed) J. Upton.

Received the 23d following.

P. S. I have to requeſt the favour of your forwarding to me a copy of one of the grants or ſunnuds by which Futty Sing made over to the Company any part of the Guzerat Country, as the Miniſtry maintain no ſuch powers were ever veſted in him, and therefore that ſuch ſunnuds are of no force or value.

APPENDIX, No. 121.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

WE have received your letter dated the 20th inſtant.

As you therein acquaint us that the Treaty will either be eſtabliſhed or entirely broke off in two or three days, we ſhould wave entering further into the diſcuſſion of the queſtion, Whether you have or have not, according to your inſtructions, a diſcretional power to recede from the demand for Baſſein? did we not differ ſo widely in the conſtruction of your powers on this head, that we deem it neceſſary, in ſupport of our opinion ſo deciſively given, and to remove all imputation of omiſſion from us hereafter in this important point, to ſhew you upon what grounds it was formed.

According to the copy we poſſeſs of your inſtructions, dated the 21ſt June, the third paragraph, to which we ſuppoſe you mean to refer us, runs as follows: "If there "is any foundation for the intelligence which we have "lately received, and which we believe to be authentic, "of ſome ſignal advantages which have been gained by "Ragonaut Row over the miniſterial army, we appre- Appendix. "hend you may be able to obtain the ceſſion of Salſette No. 120. "and Baſſein, with the other conquered Iſlands, without "much difficulty; and in this caſe you may alſo have it "in your power probably to gain more ſubſtantial ad- "vantages to be yielded to the Company. Your next "object therefore muſt be to obtain a formal ſurrender "of the moiety held by the Marattas of the revenues "of the Town and Pergunnah of Broach; but we muſt "leave theſe, or any other poinſts which you may be able "to ſecure for the intereſt and advantage of the Com- "pany, to your diſcretion," &c. &c. This is the only paſſage we can diſcover in your inſtructions, in any ſhape tending to give you this diſcretional power with reſpect to Baſſein; though in our opinion the word theſe evidently relates to the other advantages to be ſecured in addition to Salſette and Baſſein, and does not include theſe places, the ceſſion of which in the preceding article is made a principal object of your deputation: but whatever conſtruction may be put upon that expreſſion, the intention of the Governor General and Council is clearly explained in the very next paragraph, in which your power of relinquiſhing theſe ceſſions is particularly excepted againſt in the following very explicit terms; viz.

"Though we do not mean abſolutely to inſiſt upon all "theſe conceſſions, if manifeſt advantages ſhould have "been gained againſt the Company's Arms, yet we are "determined on no account to relinquiſh the poſſeſſion of "Salſette and Baſſein; therefore ſhould the Peiſhwa hold "out againſt yielding them, you are at no rate to agree "to reſtore them, declaring to them, if neceſſary, that "the matter having been referred to the Honourable the "Court of Directors, it is impoſſible to relinquiſh theſe "places without their expreſs permiſſion."

But in the ſecond ſet of your inſtructions, of a much later date, this matter is, if poſſible, placed in a ſtill clearer light, and every poſſibility of a doubt of the Governor General and Council's intentions on this head removed. The copy tranſmitted us by them is dated the 17th July, and the paragraph we mean to allude to runs as follows:

Firſt, "The direct purpoſes of your appointment are "to negociate a Treaty of Peace between the Maratta "Government and the Preſidency of Bombay, and to "obtain a confirmation to that preſidency of the Iſlands "of Salſette and Baſſein to the Company. Theſe points "you are to conſider as indiſpenſable." We do not think that the Company's right to Baſſein, or the force of your inſtructions reſpecting it, are in the leaſt impaired by the circumſtance of our not having poſſeſſion, though the difficulty of prevailing with the Miniſters to conſent to this ceſſion may be increaſed; and we have already apprized you, how very anxious the Company are to obtain this acquiſition, without which, their views upon this coaſt will remain unaccompliſhed: therefore, upon the moſt thorough conviction, we perſevere in the opinion we before expreſſed, that you cannot agree to any treaty wherein this ceſſion is not included, without acting inconſiſtently with, and we will now add in direct breach of, your inſtruction.

We readily allow that if a treaty is to take place with the Miniſters, it had better be concluded before Ragoba's Army diſperſes, but we do not mean by this acknowledgment, that it is neceſſary a treaty ſhould be concluded at all events; we are far from conſidering Ragoba's cauſe as irretrievable, if the treaty with the Miniſters was off, and the Company to continue to ſupport him.

We will not ſay any thing on the Company's right to the ceſſions made by the Treaty, and that queſtion cannot be decided either by us or you.

We entertain the higheſt opinion of the Governor General and Council's regard for the honour and advantage of the Company; and we flatter ourſelves we poſſeſs the ſame, and are competent judges of both at this Preſidency.

Appendix. No. 122.

We incloſe a copy of the Treaty concluded with Futty Sing and Seeajee Row Shumſheer Bahader, by which the Guicawar ſhare of Broach, and the diſtricts of Corah, Veriore, and Chickley, were ceded to the Company; and alſo a copy of one of the Sunnuds executed by the latter in conſequence of the Treaty.

Sir Edward Hughes has acquainted us that His Majeſty's ſhip Dolphin will ſail for England about the 15th of next month.

We are, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 25th February 1776. (Signed) William Hornby, &c. Council.

To the Honourable the Preſident and Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letter of the 25th February, and with a copy of the Treaty concluded by Ragoba with Futty Sing, and Seagee Row Shumſhaw; alſo the copy of one of the Sunnuds executed by Seagee Row.

I am ſorry we differ ſo widely regarding the ſenſe of my inſtructions; you will permit me to obſerve, that the words "relinquiſh, reſtore, and confirm," imply having poſſeſſion, which never was the caſe; and I am quite clear alſo, that I have acted very conſiſtently with the (private verbal) inſtructions I received, before I left Calcutta, and I never had or ſeen cauſe to deviate from them.

The Treaty of Peace between the honourable Company and the Maratta Government was ſigned yeſterday afternoon; ſuch Articles of Convention as concern the Preſidency of Bombay I have the honour to forward.

Your influence with Ragoba, that he may quietly acquieſce in the conditions ſtipulated for him, will, I am convinced, not be wanting. If he expreſſes any fear or uneaſineſs at going to the reſidence appointed for his reception, with the Maratta Sirdars ſent to eſcort him, they conſent to his being accompanied by an Engliſh gentleman, with an eſcort of one hundred of our troops.

The eſtabliſhment made for Ragonaut Row amounts to about ten lacks of rupees per annum. It was impoſſible to procure for him any part in the government of this country. The Miniſters have moſt ſolemnly promiſed to live ever on friendly terms with him, unleſs he ſhould occaſion diſturbances in the country. An Engliſh gentleman being here, will be the ſecurity for their good behaviour towards him. The Miniſters requeſt, when the Engliſh army march into their own garriſons, &c. Colonel Keating will adviſe Hurry Pundit Furkia of it, and at the ſame time inform him if the conditions obtained for Ragonaut Row are accepted of by him, and if he is putting the part depending on himſelf in execution.

A vackeel will be ſent in a day or two from this Government to Bombay, to explain any thing that may not be fully comprehended.

Broach is the place appointed for the two Engliſh gentlemen and the two Marattas to meet at, to fix the boundaries of the ceded country, amounting to three lacks per annum. The perſons ſent by this Government will be furniſhed with a letter from me, ſignifying their being the people appointed by them to aſſiſt in carrying the agreement into execution.

As ſoon as advice is arrived at Poonah, of the Engliſh Army having marched into their own garriſons, they will order the communication to be opened.

I ſhall be much obliged to you, Gentlemen, to favour me with the Engliſh and Maratta names of the ſmall iſlands in or near the Bay of Bombay, now in our poſſeſſion. Not knowing them by each other's names prevents their nominally being inſerted in the Treaty. We are to keep only ſuch as we now poſſeſs.

Poonah Dhur, 2d March 1776. I have the honour to be, &c. (Signed) J. Upton.

Received 10th following, at night.

P. S. You will be pleaſed to appoint two gentlemen to proceed to fix the boundaries of the Pergunnah to be ceded near or adjoining to Broach. The Miniſters agree to our taking any diſtrict that is not jaghire lands.

J. Upton.

APPENDIX, No. 122.

SIGNED the following letters to Lieutenant Colonels Keating and Upton.

To Lieutenant Colonel Keating.

Sir,

We are now to acquaint you, that we received advice from Colonel Upton late in the evening of the 10th inſtant, that he had concluded a Treaty of Peace between the Honourable Company and the Miniſters at Poonah, on the 1ſt.

Incloſed is a copy of an extract from the Treaty, as tranſmitted to us by Colonel Upton; and it is neceſſary for us to give you the following orders in conſequence.

The Peace muſt be proclaimed at the head of all the Company's Forces under your command, agreeable to the 2d Article.

You are immediately to march our troops into ſuch quarters as will be aſſigned them by the Chief and Council at Surat within the Company's diſtricts. The detachments from Broach and Surat are to return to thoſe garriſons, and the remainder is to be held in readineſs to embark for the Preſidency, as opportunities offer.

The ſtipulations reſpecting Ragoba muſt be communicated to him in a proper manner; and the abſolute neceſſity of our ſeparating the Company's Forces from his, explained to him. The Honourable the Preſident has wrote to him upon this occaſion; and if he expreſſes any fear or uneaſineſs at going to the place appointed for his reception with the Maratta Sirdars ſent to eſcort him, the Miniſters conſent to his being accompanied by an Engliſh gentleman, with an eſcort of one hundred of our troops. Colonel Upton tells us, the Miniſters have moſt ſolemnly promiſed to live ever on friendly terms with him, unleſs he ſhould occaſion diſturbances in the country. You will loſe no time in acquainting us with what reſolution Ragoba may now take, and with his future intentions.

If Ragoba refuſeth to accept the conditions ſtipulated for him, in apprehenſion of danger to his perſon, and in conſequence thereof applies to you to be received into any of the Company's garriſons, you may receive him with his family, and a ſuitable number of domeſtics only; but the four perſons mentioned in the 9th Article muſt on no account be protected.

When our troops march into garriſon you will adviſe Hurry Punt Furkia thereof; and at the ſame time inform him, if Ragoba accepts of the conditions ſtipulated for him, and if he is putting into execution the part of defending himſelf.

The 13th Article is omitted in the extract ſent us by Colonel Upton.

You will acquaint us what part of the ſtipulated twenty-ſix lacks have been paid to Ragoba, by Futty Sing, and how you have diſpoſed of the goods and jewels you mentioned in your letter, dated the 30th Auguſt, to have retained in your hands on account of Ragoba's debt to the Company. We have received your letters, dated the 31ſt, 16th, and 25th ultimo.

We are your loving friends,

Bombay Caſtle, 15th March 1776. Wm. Hornby, &c. Council.

P. S. We have juſt received your letter of the 11th inſtant, to which the above will ſerve as a reply.

To

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

Late in the evening of the 10th inſtant, we received your letter of the 2d, with the incloſed extract of the Treaty you have concluded between the Honourable Company and the Miniſters at Poonah.

The 13th Article is omitted in the extract you ſent us; and as all the other Articles follow each other in a regular ſeries, we wiſh to know if this omiſſion is accidental.

The Peace was publicly proclaimed here on the 12th inſtant.

The intention of this letter is principally to incloſe a copy of a letter juſt received from Colonel Keating, which juſtified our apprehenſions that Ragoba would not accept the terms ſtipulated for him, as he is of opinion his perſon will be endangered by putting himſelf ſo much in the power of his enemies. We ſhall therefore afford him an aſylum with his family and domeſtics in one of the Company's ſettlements, agreeable to his requeſt, and the latitude given us by the Governor General and Council, in their letter dated the 20th October, of which you have a copy, for we think ourſelves bound by every tie of honour and humanity not to deny him the protection he has demanded; but we have given orders that the four perſons mentioned in the 9th Article muſt on no account be received.

We recommend it to you to endeavour to ſtipulate with the Miniſters, that Ragoba may have an eſtabliſhment continued to him, to the amount mentioned in your letter, viz. ten lacks of rupees per annum; and you muſt be ſenſible of the advantages that will reſult to the Company from his reſidence with us, as ſo long as he is in our hands the Miniſters will be very cautious in their conduct, though at the ſame time we ſhall not countenance him in fomenting any diſturbances againſt the Maratta State.

The Engliſh and Maratta names of the ſmall Iſlands in the harbour of Bombay now in our poſſeſſion are incloſed.

We are, Sir,
Your moſt obedient Servants,

Bombay Caſtle, 15th March, 1776. Wm. Hornby, &c. Council.

Received the following Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

The 9th inſtant at night I received a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton, a copy of which is incloſed.

Yeſterday I had a long conference with the Peiſhwa, who poſitively declares he will never accede to the terms ſtipulated for him by Lieutenant Colonel Upton. He writes to your Honour, &c. by this conveyance, and deſires me to repreſent to you as follows:

That on the known and long experienced good faith of the Engliſh Nation he had entered into a ſolemn Treaty and Covenant with the Honourable Company, whereby they are bound to puniſh his rebellious ſubjects, and to reſtore to him his juſt and lawful right, the Government of the Maratta Empire.

In reſpect to himſelf, he has agreed to grant certain advantages to the Honourable Company, the particulars of which are too well known to your Honour, &c. to need recapitulating, that nothing on his part has been wanting, or ever will.

By Lieutenant Colonel Upton's letter to him, he finds the ſtipulation alluded to, is neither more or leſs than his receiving from his rebellious Miniſters the paltry ſum of three lacks per annum, in conſideration of his remaining their diſcretional priſoner for the reſt of his life, which he has every reaſon to ſuppoſe would in ſuch caſe be of ſhort duration.

He has a firm reliance on the good faith of the Engliſh Nation, and relies on their fulfiling engagements made in the face of Heaven; but ſhould he by untoward fate be for a time diſappointed by means not in his power to account for, he is ſtill reſolved to reject every other propoſal, and appeal for Juſtice to England; in the mean time throws himſelf on the protection of the Britiſh Nation, in full confidence of receiving proper ſupport and maintenance at Broach, Surat, or Bombay, until the determination from England can be obtained. Appendix. No. 122.

Lieutenant Colonel Upton having mentioned to the Peiſhwa that the Circar of Poonah will be at the annual expence of ten lacks of rupees by his whole eſtabliſhment, he wiſhes the Company to receive it towards defraying the expence they may be put to on his account, until a final determination takes place.

He obſerved, as his firm opinion, that the terms agreed to by Lieutenant Colonel Upton were not voluntary, but compulſively obtained by the Miniſters, in conſequence of having him entirely in their power.

I have received a letter from Hurry Punt Furkia, informing me, that in conſequence of Lieutenant Colonel Upton having agreed to ſurrender to the Maratta Circar all the Pergunnah granted by Ragonath Row Peiſhwa to the Honourable Company, he is preparing to come as far as Sungar, to receive them from me. I replied, that I ſhall always act in ſtrict conformity to your Honour, &c. orders; and that as yet you have not inſtructed me relating to his expectations.

I am, with the greateſt reſpect,
Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,
Your greatly obliged,
and moſt devoted Servant,

Mandavie Camp, the 11th March 1776. Thomas Keating, Lieut. Colonel.

To the Honourable the Preſident and Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letter of the 15th inſtant, together with the paper containing the Engliſh and Maratta names of the ſmall iſlands in the Bay of Bombay, in our poſſeſſion; alſo Lieutenant Colonel Keating's letter to you, dated the 10th inſtant.

I forwarded extracts only of ſuch Articles as concern your Preſidency. The entire Treaty I take for granted will be ſent you by the Governor General and Council.

I am much concerned to hear Ragoba will not accept the terms ſtipulated. It was long before I could get the Miniſters to grant theſe; and I have endeavoured all in my power ſince to procure for him a change of abode. It was not likely they would agree to his reſiding in any of our ſettlements after what had paſſed; nor could it be expected that they would increaſe the ſtipend. They muſt always fear his ſtirring up freſh commotions; and they certainly would not themſelves furniſh him with the means. How would he have been provided for, had the army been withdrawn conformably to the original order?

The conditions of the Peace, ſtipulated with the miniſterial party, are "for our neutrality," what was agreed upon for it; Ragonaut Row, "if it made one Article in the Treaty, would of courſe be guaranteed by the Company; ſuch terms were to be obtained for him as it might appear to me reaſonable to expect, and which might not fruſtrate the immediate objects to my negociations."

You will excuſe, Gentlemen, my making theſe obſervations: I could not get other or better conditions for Ragonaut Row; and it was with the utmoſt difficulty I effected the buſineſs on which I was deputed.

You will of courſe, Gentlemen, uſe every argument to perſuade Ragonaut Row to accept the terms ſtipulated for him. The Miniſters make the moſt ſolemn proteſtations, that his perſon ſhall be ſafe, and that he ſhall receive every indulgence he can expect. They ſay Ragonaut Row and the world muſt be convinced, that they would not break a treaty ſo ſolemnly entered into with Gentlemen poſſeſſed of ſuch power, rank, and honour, as the Members of the Supreme Council are; and that they they aſked to have a Reſident, chiefly to ſee their obligations towards him (Ragóba) performed.

I am almoſt convinced the Governor General and Council will not conſent to his reſiding in any of our ſettlements; and am much afraid the Miniſters will withhold his ſtipend, unleſs he agrees to the conditions provided for him by the Treaty. I ſhall continue to exert myſelf in endeavouring to procure terms more agreeable to Ragoba, but with little hopes of ſucceſs.

To the Honourable the Preſident and Members of the Seleƈt Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letter of the 17th inſtant, together with the copy of Lieutenant Colonel Keating's letter of the 12th inſtant. I ſhall take the earlieſt opportunity of acquainting the Miniſters with Ragoba's determination.

I am writing to the Governor General and Council, and ſhall incloſe your letters for their information reſpecting Ragoba.

Received the following letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton:

Gentlemen,

I have the honour to forward a duplicate of the Treaty, alſo duplicates of my letters, &c. of the 3d inſtant.

I received a letter yeſterday from the Governor and Council of Bombay, alſo a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating to the Seleƈt Committee, Bombay, dated the 11th inſtant: Theſe I forward for your peruſal.

It ſhould ſeem by theſe letters, that great terms were expeƈted to be gained for Ragonaut Row, rather than that peace was to be concluded between the Preſidency of Bombay and the Maratta State for our neutrality.

I was long in getting the conditions now ſtipulated for Ragonaut Row; and this will not be matter of ſurprize, when we conſider how often he has been in arms againſt the State, even ſo long ago as in the Peiſhwaſhip of Madu Row, uncle to the preſent Peiſhwa: He was then defeated, taken priſoner, and pardoned; he has repeatedly offended and been pardoned; and why it ſhould be ſuppoſed now, when he is ſecured by ſo ſolemn a treaty, that his perſon ſhould be in ſuch danger, I cannot conceive. After what has paſſed they certainly would not let him reſide in any of the Company's ſettlements, nor would they furniſh him with the means of occaſioning freſh troubles to the State.

I incloſe my reply to the Seleƈt Committe of Bambay; I hope they will try every means to reconcile Ragonaut Row to accept the conditions ſtipulated for him.

I have not ſeen the Miniſters ſince the receipt of this letter. Ragonaut Row's reſiding in any of our ſettlements I am ſure will give great umbrage.

I ſend this packet by way of Maſulipatam. The Miniſters will diſpatch leters by may of Benares in a few days: I ſhall then adviſe how they receive the report of Ragonaut Row's refuſing the terms ſtipulated. Perhaps they may make ſome favourable alterations in them; but I think they will not. As I have repeatedly and very lately aſked this, they always replied they thought the conditions very proper. His future good behaviour, and nothing elſe, would ever get him any other.

Poonah Dhur, I have the honour to be, &c.

Secret Department.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

We had the honour to addreſs you on the 18th ultimo, and have ſince forwarded a duplicate of our letter under that date.

A continuation of our correſpondence with Colonel Upton ſince that time, is now incloſed, and though we imagine the advice from that gentleman of the concluſion of the Treaty, will have reached you before this letter, we incloſe a copy of the extract he tranſmitted to us, which we did not receive till the 10th inſtant.

Colonel Upton has differed very much in opinion with us in his interpretation of your inſtructions reſpecting Baſſein, from the tenor of which we ever conſidered that the ceſſion of that place was to be an indiſpenſable point in any treaty he might conclude with the Miniſters. Your directions on this head appear to us very clear and expreſs, but Colonel Upton argues that they were founded on the ſuppoſition of our being in actual poſſeſſion, which never was our caſe, and from whence we conclude he infers their force is deſtroyed. He added further, that he was quite clear, he had acted very conſiſtently with the (private verbal) inſtruƈtions he received, before he left Calcutta.

We have carefully examined our advices to your honourable Board, and are at a loſs to conceive upon what foundation you entertained the idea of our being in poſſeſſion of Baſſein; but though you do ſeem to have miſconceived this point, we were of opinion, that had the force of your orders to Colonel Upton, for inſiſting upon this circumſtance of our being in poſſeſſion, you had ſufficient time after the arrival of Mr. Tayler to have explained or altered his inſtruƈtions; we rather thought the peremptorineſs of your orders proceeded from your attention to the Honourable Company's commands to this Preſidency, dated the 31ſt March 1769 and 1ſt April 1772, reſpecting their views on this ſide of India, which will remain unaccompliſhed, until we are confirmed in the poſſeſſion both of Salſette and Baſſein.

Immediately upon receipt of the extraƈt of the Treaty, we ordered the Peace to be proclaimed at all the Company's ſettlements under this Preſidency, and at the Engliſh camp; and at the ſame time, gave directions for our troops being marched into garriſon agreeable to the 8th Article.

The Maratta vackeel mentioned in Colonel Upton's letter of the 2d inſtant, is not yet arrived.

The ſtipulations made for Ragoba were in every reſpect ſo inadequate to his rank and ſtation, and ſo very inconſiſtent with what he had a right to expect, that we never ſuppoſed he would accept of them, and conſent to put his life and liberty entirely in the power of his enemies, who muſt dread the idea of his ever regaining his former power. Many good conſequences would have enſued, and the permanency of the Peace been rendered much more ſecure, had the Colonel ſtipulated that Ragoba ſhould have had the option of reſiding at one of the Company's ſettlements, with a ſuitable appointment. This the Miniſters could not have objected to, had their intentions been good, and he would have proved a moſt uſeful inſtrument in our hands, for alarming their fears, and the beſt ſecurity for their obſerving the peace; however, we thought ourſelves bound by every tie of honour and humanity, and authorized by your letter of the 20th October, to afford him protection in caſe he ſhould apprehend his life in danger, and requeſt it, and in that caſe we ſhould have received him and his family; but though on the firſt intelligence of the conditions ſtipulated for him, he determined to throw himſelf upon our protection, as mentioned in Colonel Keating's letter, dated the 11th inſtant, yet on further conſideration, and after conſulting with his principal Miniſters and Officers, he ſignified the following ſentiments and reſolutions to our commanding officer, which he declared to be final.

That he had the moſt ample dependance upon us for the performance of the Treaty of Surat, the more ſo, as we muſt be perfectly convinced that he has punctually fulfilled every part of his promiſe, ſo far as had hitherto depended upon him:

That he is fully determined never to accept of any compromiſe, much leſs ſo inglorious a one as that mentioned to him by Colonel Upton:

That ſhould we refuſe to fulfil the Treaty of Surat, he then appealed to the Honourable Company for juſtice; and in the mean time was reſolved, as far as poſſible, and with God's aſſiſtance, to defend his juſt rights againſt the evil deſigns of his rebellious ſervants; and waved that part of his former reſolutions of placing himſelf under our protection, until the Company's determination could be obtained.—

Thus are our apprehenſions, that the peace would not be of a long duration, already in ſome meaſure confirmed, and a proſpect of a deſtructive war commencing on the very verge of the Company's poſſeſſions, which it cannot fail materially to affect. We have not yet heard of any ſteps taken by either party in conſequence of Ragoba's determination; but we underſtand it was founded upon his dependance of aſſiſtance from the Nizam and Hyder Ally, and the defection of one of the principal miniſterial officers, who has promiſed to join him with a large body of horſe. We leave to your Honour, &c. to judge, what muſt be the ſituation of this Preſidency, ſhould Ragoba prove ſucceſsful by the aſſiſtance of theſe powers, incenſed as he muſt be againſt the Engliſh for their breach of faith with him.

The Company by this Treaty will be deprived of Jamboofeer, Ahmood, Hanſood Occaſeer, Orpad, and Verſaul, producing a revenue, which could be collected with very little difficulty and expence, of at leaſt fifteen lacks of rupees a year. The ceſſions made by the Guicawars are alſo to be reſtored, when it is proved they had no right to make ſuch ceſſions (which we ſuppoſe they will readily allow, when it is ſo much for their intereſt, though we never before heard their right called in queſtion, and have held lands under their Sunnuds ſince the year 1759); theſe are Chickly, Coral, Veriow, and Batta, producing a revenue of about 1,98,000 rupees a year; but it is very remarkable, that although the Guicawar ceſſions are not to be reſtored but in caſe of the above contingency, and would of courſe remain in our hands until the doubt of Futty Sing's power was cleared up; yet are there four places with three villages in the Pergunnah of Churcaſy, belonging likewiſe we believe to Futty Sing, accepted as ſecurity for the performance of engagements entered into by the Miniſters at Poonah, and we are immediately to make reſtitution of the territories ceded by Ragoba, retaining only in our hands the above doubtful ſecurity for the performance of their part of the Treaty.

After the poſitive manner in which you were pleaſed to enjoin Colonel Upton, to inſiſt upon the ceſſion of Salſette and Baſſein, we were ſtruck with the utmoſt ſurprize, when we perceived that our retaining poſſeſſion of the firſt, and Caranja, Elephanta, and Hog Iſland, remains a matter of doubt. Our duty to the Company leads us to expreſs our hopes, in the moſt earneſt manner, that you will on no account agree to reſtore theſe places. The compenſation offered for them is in every reſpect inadequate; and three times the value of the propoſed exchange in the neighbourhood of Broach, or indeed elſewhere, would be no equivalent for theſe iſlands, whoſe ſituation gives them advantages we could not meet with in any other territory. Salſette is only divided from Bombay by a river, not above one hundred yards wide, and Caranja lays in our harbour directly oppoſite the caſtle; and in caſe of future differences with the Marattas, they will not only form an excellent and ſecure barrier to preſerve this iſland from all inſults, but we ſhall alſo have reſources of grain and proviſions within our own power; and in caſe of a war with France, or any other European power, we ſhall have the grand advantage of keeping our military force more compact, and ſhall be able at the ſhorteſt notice, to withdraw a conſiderable number to reinforce this garriſon, which could not be done from a more diſtant poſſeſſion. We have likewiſe made very conſiderable improvements to the fortifications at Tannah, by forming a glacis and eſplanade, which ſhould be a moſt powerful reaſon for not putting this place again in the hands of the Marattas; and we can with great ſafety aſſure your Honour, &c. that theſe iſlands will in a very ſhort time produce an infinitely more conſiderable revenue than the territory propoſed to be given in exchange; for all which reaſons, and the great deſire the Company have expreſſed to obtain theſe iſlands, we repeat our wiſhes, that you will not on no account agree to reſtore them. Appendix. No. 143.

The preſent inconveniency and loſs to the Company occaſioned by this reference will be very great. No further ſteps can yet be taken for the improvement of theſe iſlands, either in cultivation, population, or in ſtocking them with cattle, &c. which they ſtand much in need of; and the time is now approaching for leaſing out the lands again, which we cannot expect will be done on any tolerable terms, in this ſtate of uncertainty; ſo that at any rate, the Company will loſe great part of the revenues for this ſeaſon.

Since writing thus far, we have received another letter from Lieutenant Colonel Keating, which is added to his correſpondence now forwarded; wherein he acquaints us of his having communicated to Ragoba the full contents of the Treaty; and that when he was made ſenſible of his real ſituation, he declared, that from a confidence in the well-known good faith of the Engliſh Nation, he had repeatedly rejected offers of aſſiſtance from Nizam Ally and other powerful men, who were capable of reſtoring him to his right; and that he had nothing now left, but a reliance on the juſtice of the nation at large, to whom he ſhould carry his ſolemn appeal; and therefore claimed our protection and ſupport, until their determination was known. He is to proceed to this place as ſoon as proper opportunity offers.

Colonel Upton ſeems to think, that your Honour, &c. will not conſent to Ragoba's reſiding in any of the Company's ſettlements; but we beg leave to ſubmit to your ſerious conſideration, the everlaſting ſhame and diſgrace which will be entailed on the nation, if we were to ſurrender him up into the hands of his enemies, after having given him protection, and any accident was to happen to him in conſequence. We cannot conſider the proteſtations of the Miniſters as a proper ſecurity for the ſafety of his perſon, if he was to put himſelf abſolutely in their power, as ſettled by the Treaty.

Our troops were to march into garriſon on the 26th of this month; but the communication with the Maratta dominions ſtill remains ſhut.

We are, &c.

Appendix. No. 124.

APPENDIX, No. 124.

GOVERNOR GENERAL—I cannot help noticing the extraordinary alluſion made by Colonel Upton to the private verbal inſtructions which he ſays he received before he left Calcutta, which I remark in this place, for the purpoſe of declaring, that he received no private verbal inſtructions from me; and I move, that Colonel Upton be aſked to what inſtructions he alludes by this expreſſion, and from whom he received them?

Mr. Francis—It appears to me, that Colonel Upton does not appeal to any private verbal inſtructions, ſuppoſed to have been received by him, as if they were contradictory to, or inconſiſtent with the public orders of the Board; he could not but know that ſuch inſtructions were of no force, and he could not plead them as authority to act againſt his formal orders. As I underſtand it, he mentions them merely as a confirmation in his mind of the ſame, and conſtruction which he himſelf affixes to his orders. I do not believe that any Member of this Board would have taken upon himſelf to have exceeded thoſe limits; and I think the enquiry uſeleſs.

Mr. Barwell—As objections have been ſtarted to the motion, and the information can be of no public utility, any private ſentiments that may have been expreſſed on the tenor of the Board's inſtructions to Colonel Upton, are no more than the ſenſe of an individual of the Government which gave thoſe inſtructions: for my part, I have never preſumed to interpret the orders of this Government, nor to diſcuſs with Colonel Upton the particular part he ſhould act in carrying them into execution. Indeed I do not recollect I ever held any diſcourſe with the Colonel upon the ſubject of his inſtructions; but, as I have ſaid before, that as objections have been ſtarted to the motion, I am of opinion it ſhould be waved. The enquiry can anſwer no purpoſe.

Colonel Monſon—The queſtion propoſed to be put to Colonel Upton, can be of no public utility, and is in itſelf of no conſequence, any more than gratifying private curioſity; as the Governor General wiſhes to be informed to what Colonel Upton alludes, I have no objection to the queſtion being put to him.

General Clavering—The private inſtructions alluded to, refer to the Board's orders to retain poſſeſſion of Baſſein. When Colonel Upton left this place, it was believed by every Member of the Board that we were then in poſſeſſion of that place; and there was then no difference in opinion amongſt any of the Members on the propriety of the orders for eſtabliſhing a right to a place, of which we thought we were in poſſeſſion. From this circumſtance, I am convinced that Colonel Upton cannot mean that he had private orders from any individual Member of the Board, to relinquiſh a place which by his orders he was inſtructed to retain; he can only allude to thoſe general words contained in his inſtructions, that we left theſe or any other points which he might be able to ſecure for the intereſt and advantage of the Company, to his diſcretion. The latitude given to him by thoſe words, may probably have been repeated to him by every Member of the Board, in anſwer to certain doubts which he ſubmitted to the Board for explanation. If it could anſwer any purpoſe whatever, I would readily aſſent to the propoſition; but as I think it cannot, I agree with Mr. Barwell and Mr. Francis, that the enquiry would be uſeleſs.

The Governor General—I deſire to recall my motion; it was not from my own inclination that I made it.

General Clavering—As the Preſident and Council of Bombay acquaint us that they have offered Ragoba an aſylum in one of the Company's Factories, being authorized ſo to do by our letter to them of the 18th of October, and as his reſidence there may have conſequences either to diſturb the friendſhip lately eſtabliſhed between the Poonah Government and the Company, or at leaſt that it may occaſion a certain expence to the Government of Bombay for his maintenance, ſeeing that by the 11th Article of the Treaty lately concluded with the Poonah Government, he will not be intitled to receive any part of the ſums therein ſtipulated for him, unleſs he ſhall reſide at Coopergong, on the banks of the Gungba Gudowry, I could wiſh the Board would be pleaſed to conſider what inſtructions it will be neceſſary to give the Preſident and Council of Bombay, with regard to the two ſubjects above mentioned.

The Governor General—I beg leave to ſtate the propoſitions included in the General's minute, in diſtinct and formal queſtions; and beg the favour of the General to correct me if I err in my conſtruction of them, my meaning being to draw the ſubject into preciſe points, to fix the reſolutions of the Board upon them.

Queſtion 1ſt. Whether, by the following paragraph of our letter, of the 18th October, viz. "Admitting the "poſſibility of Ragoba's being reduced by any unfore-"ſeen misfortune, to ſeek refuge in ſome of your garri-"ſons, we would not have you underſtand, from any "directions yet tranſmitted you, that we mean entirely "to deſert him; on the contrary, you will find, by a "paragraph of the incloſed Inſtructions to Colonel Upton, "that our intention is to obtain a ſuitable proviſion for "him; we therefore deſire that you will afford him a "ſanctuary for himſelf and his domeſtics or attendants, "in caſe he ſhould ever be neceſſitated to apply to you "for your protection, in order to avoid any perſonal "danger;" the Preſident and Council of Bombay were authorized to grant the protection of their Government to Ragoba, under the ſituation of affairs at the time in which his application was made to them for their protection?

2d. Whether the Board ſhall approve of the protection granted to Ragoba by the Preſident and Council of Bombay, or whether they ſhall be directed to withdraw it from him?

General Clavering—I beg leave to add a third queſtion, which is, that if Ragoba be ſuffered to remain at Bombay, whether the Council at Bombay ſhall be authorized to grant him a penſion for his maintenance at the Company's expence?

Mr. Francis—I think that the Preſidency of Bombay were unqueſtionably authorized to give Ragoba a retreat within the Company's territories; and that there is nothing in the late treaty, which precludes us from granting him an aſylum at preſent; at the ſame time, ſeveral conſiderations induce me to wiſh, that that ſtep could have been avoided: the firſt, and principal one is, that, as long as he continues under our immediate protection, and particularly at Bombay, the reconciliation between us and the Maratta State will probably be open to jealouſies and ſuſpicions on their part, which at preſent may prevent a cordial union between us, and eventually be the occaſion of a rupture. If however Ragoba be at preſent at Bombay, I do not think that we are either obliged by treaty, or that it would be conſiſtent with our honour to diſmiſs him from thence; but as the utmoſt we are then bound to do, is to give him a retreat, it ſhould not be accompanied with any conditions burthenſome to the Company, or which may induce him to continue there. This contains my anſwer to the firſt and ſecond queſtions, and to the third I anſwer, No.

Mr. Barwell—To the firſt queſtion I anſwer, that I think the Government of Bombay was authorized.

To the ſecond, I am of opinion that this Government ought to approve of the protection offered to Ragoba.

To the third, That he ſhould not be allowed any penſion by the Company.

Colonel Monſon—To the firſt queſtion, the Preſident and Council of Bombay were authorized to give protection to Ragoba, under certain limitations, which were expreſſed in our letter of the 18th October; I think Ragoba was not in thoſe circumſtances, for he rejected the terms ſtipulated for him by Colonel Upton, and was reſolved, "as far as poſſible, with God's aſſiſtance, to defend his

" juſt rights againſt the evil deſigns of his rebellious ſubjects," and waved that part of his former reſolutions of placing himſelf under the protection of the Gentlemen at Bombay.

To the ſecond queſtion, I diſapprove of the protection given by the Gentlemen of Bombay, as I think it impolitic, and a meaſure by which they may involve the Engliſh Company in diſputes and differences with the Maratta State. A like protection given to a conſiderable perſon at this Preſidency, drew on them the reſentment of the Country Government, and annihilated the Company's eſtabliſhments in this country. The Gentlemen of Bombay, with ſuch a precedent before them, might have acted with more caution. I think them very cenſurable for the protection they have given Ragoba, as they might very well have avoided it, it having been previouſly refuſed by him. As I ſuppoſe that Ragoba is already at Bombay, I would adviſe that the Gentlemen of that Preſidency ſhould recommend to him to withdraw himſelf from under the protection of their flag, and on no account grant him any ſums of money for his ſubſiſtence.

General Clavering—The Preſident and Council of Bombay were certainly authorized by the letter of the 18th of October to afford protection to Ragoba during the time of the ſuſpenſion of arms, or until a treaty could be concluded with the Government of Poonah. The conditions contained in our letter were not to operate but in caſe of an unforeſeen misfortune happening to him, and they were accompanied with an aſſurance that we did not mean to deſert him, but on the contrary, that our intention was to obtain a ſuitable proviſion for him. This intention has been fulfilled by the ſtipulation contained in the 11th Article; I conclude therefore, that the Government of Bombay was not authorized, after the Treaty took place, to grant an aſylum to Ragoba; and I think they ſhould be told, that we do not approve of their altering the ſtipulation which has been made in his favour in the 11th Article.

The ſecond queſtion is anſwered in the above; and further, they ſhould be acquainted that we do not underſtand how Ragoba can be made a moſt uſeful inſtrument, as they declare in their letter of the 30th March laſt, in their hands, if they do not mean to employ him, to carry on intrigues againſt the Maratta State, and thereby endanger the continuance of the Peace, which we have juſt eſtabliſhed.

To the third queſtion, I am clearly of opinion that the Court of Directors will not approve of any penſion being granted him from the Company's Treaſury.

Governor General—To the firſt queſtion, I reply, that the Preſident and Council of Bombay were generally authorized by our letter of the 18th October, to grant their protection to Ragoba.

To the ſecond queſtion, That though I regret the neceſſity which impelled the Preſident and Council of Bombay to grant their protection to Ragoba, I ſtill approve of it, and think this Board ought to approve of it.

The third queſtion does not fall within my conſtruction of the controlling powers veſted in this Government over the other Preſidencies, who require not our authority for the diſpoſal of the Company's treaſure entruſted to their charge.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 9th May 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, and Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

Read, and approved, the proceedings of the 6th inſtant.

The Secretary having prepared the draft of a letter to Bombay, in conſequence of the Minutes of laſt Council, which was circulated and corrected by the Members of the Board, he now lays it before them for their determination. Appendix No. 124.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

We have received the letters which you addreſſed to us under dates of the 18th February and 30th March.

We obſerve with concern that Ragoba had reſolved to put himſelf under the protection of your Government, and to retire to Bombay. You alledge that you were authorized, by our letter of the 20th October laſt, to grant him an aſylum. We admit the fact, but we cannot allow that this authority could be interpreted to extend beyond the time of the ceſſation of arms, whilſt the negociation was carrying on. The terms of our letter were, " admitting the poſſibility of Ragoba's " being reduced by any unforeſeen misfortune to ſeek " refuge in ſome of your garriſons;" in that caſe " we " deſire you would afford him a ſanctuary for himſelf " and his domeſtics or attendants, if he ſhould ever be " neceſſitated to apply for your protection, in order to " avoid any perſonal danger." The ſenſe of theſe expreſſions is fully explained by the intermediate words, " that our intention was to obtain a ſuitable proviſion " for him." This proviſion has been ſecured by the 11th Article of the Treaty now concluded, and we think that the particular ſtipulation therein made in his favour cannot be conſtrued, but by a perverſion of our meaning, to underſtand an urgent neceſſity on which exigency alone our authority for his going to Bombay can be eſtabliſhed. If the uſe you mean to make of him, be as you ſay, to render him an uſeful inſtrument in your hands for alarming the fears of the Miniſters, we are apprehenſive that ſuch an effect being produced in them muſt of courſe expoſe the poſſeſſions of the Company to the danger of being involved in a new war. Can it be ſuppoſed that whilſt you are harbouring a perſon ſo obnoxious to the Miniſters, that they will receive a Miniſter on your part, or ſend one of theirs to your Preſidency?

We hope that theſe arguments will have their weight with you, but at all events we ſhall deem you anſwerable to the Court of Directors and the Britiſh Nation, if the Miniſters ſhould upon hearing of your intention, refuſe to ratify the Treaty, and renew the war in conſequence of it.

In your letter now before us, you maintain the independent right of the Guicawar to make the ceſſions which they had yielded by their treaty with you to the Company; and you ſay, that you never before heard this right called in queſtion; yet in the original plan of your treaty with Ragoba, as ſet forth in your letter to us of the 31ſt December 1774, the ſhare collected by the Guicawars from the territories of Broach is demanded of Ragoba as one of the conditions on which he was to receive the Company's aſſiſtance: and it further appears, by the 5th article of the treaty with Ragoba and Futty Sing, to which Colonel Keating made himſelf a party in behalf of the Company, that the Government and revenues of the Pergunnah of Broach were ceded to the Company by the former; which ceſſion Futty Sing is expreſsly directed not to diſpute.

If Ragoba, whom you then conſidered as Peiſhwa, had authority to make this ceſſion, it follows that Futty Sing is a dependant of the Maratta State, and that he can have no power to alienate any part of the territory under his immediate Government, without the authority of the reigning Peiſhwa.

With reſpect to our miſtake, in ſuppoſing that you were in poſſeſſion of Baſſein when we drew up the inſtructions given to Colonel Upton, as you ſay that, "you " are at a loſs to conceive upon what foundation we

Appendix. No. 124.

" entertained that idea," we muſt acquaint you that it took its riſe from the terms of your letters of 31ſt December, 1774, and 31ſt March 1775. In the former you ſaid that " you had inſiſted on the Company's " being put in poſſeſſion of the places to be ceded by " Ragoba as ſoon as the treaty ſhould be executed;" and in the latter, that, " the treaty with Ragboa had been " made out in the terms you propoſed, and executed, " and that the neceſſary Sunnuds were delivered for the " ſeveral diſtricts and territories the Company were en- " titled to, in virtue of it." And the information was further confirmed to us by our advices from Fort Saint George.

In reply to the reference made to us made by the Miniſters in the 3d Article of the Treaty of Poonah; we have already directed Colonel Upton to ſignify to them, that we cannot aſſent to the exchange of territory therein propoſed to be ceded in lieu of Salſette, and the ſmall Iſlands in the Bay, and we have inſerted an explanatory clauſe to this effect at the end of the Treaty which Colonel Upton tranſmitted to us for ſignature.

As we did not approve of ſome other parts of the Treaty, we have ſtruck them out, and enjoined Colonel Upton to ſtate our reaſons for ſo doing to the Miniſters, and to uſe his endeavours to obtain their conſent alſo to the omiſſion of them. The parts to which we refer are the concluding words of the 7th clauſe, and the 13th and 17th clauſes entirely. When the Treaty ſhall be executed with theſe alterations, Colonel Upton will furniſh you with a regular copy of it.

We are, &c.

Fort William, 6th May, 1776.

General Clavering—A doubt having ariſen in the minds of ſome of the Members of the Board on the reſult of the Governor General's firſt queſtion, entered on the conſultation of the 6th inſtant, viz.

Whether by the following paragraph of our letter of the 18th October, viz. " Admitting the poſſibility " of Ragoba's being reduced by any unforeſeen misfor- " tune to ſeek refuge in ſome of our garriſons, we " would not have you underſtand, from any directions yet " tranſmitted you, that we entirely mean to deſert him; " on the contrary, you will find, by a paragraph of the " incloſed inſtructions to Colonel Upton, that our inten- " tion is to obtain a ſuitable proviſion for him; we " therefore deſire that you will afford him a ſanc- " tuary for himſelf and his domeſtics or attendants, in " caſe he ſhould ever be neceſſitated to apply for your " protection, in order to avoid any perſonal danger"— the Preſident and Council of Bombay were authorized to grant the protection of their Government to Ragoba, under the ſituation of affairs at the time in which his application was made to them for their protection?

And as it is neceſſary that the letter to be written to the Government of Bombay ſhould be formed on the reſolution which a majority of the Board may take on that queſtion; I muſt beg it may be re-conſidered, and a clear and preciſe opinion given upon it.

Mr. Francis—The queſtion does not ſtate what application, nor when, becauſe there were different applications made by Ragoba when the terms of the propoſed treaty were firſt communicated to him; and before it was concluded he declared his reſolution of retiring into the Company's territories; which reſolution he afterwards waved. The intended draft of the letter to Bombay admits that they were authorized to receive him under the circumſtances mentioned in ours of the 18th October. I meant to condemn in the ſtrongeſt terms their receiving him at all ſince the concluſion of the Treaty, and I aſſign my reaſons for it; if he be at Bombay I do not think he can be forced from thence; but I think that we ought to enjoin that Preſidency, in the ſtrongeſt terms, not to give him any encouragement to ſtay there.

Mr. Barwell—I have no other opinion to deliver upon a re-conſideration on this ſubject, than which I have already recorded.

Colonel Monſon—I adhere to the opinion I gave to this queſtion at the former debate, which I think was clear and preciſe.

General Clavering—The permiſſion given in our letter of the 18th October, was reſtricted to the ceſſation of arms only; I am clearly of opinion that the Preſident and Council of Bombay are not authorized by that letter to receive Ragoba, after the concluſion of the Treaty with the Maratta Government; their intention in harbouring him there is obvious. If the Miniſters refuſe to ratify the Treaty on that account, the Preſident and Council of Bombay, who have given their ſanction to his reception there, contrary to the ſpirit and letter of our orders, muſt anſwer for the conſequences. An opinion given by any member of this Board, will not juſtify them to the public.

The Governor General—I adhere to my opinion already given; ſtill I object to the letter, becauſe it is not drawn up conformable to the reſolutions of the Board; but, to avoid a long debate upon this ſubject, I deſire that the general ſenſe of the Board may be taken, whether the draft ſhall paſs as it now ſtands or not?

Mr. Francis—As the doubt concerning the ſenſe of the Board, expreſſed in their reſolutions of the 6th, ſtill continues, I was going, in order to obviate all differences in point of form, to propoſe that thoſe reſolutions ſhould be annulled, and that the queſtion ſhould be taken up afreſh; but the Governor's motion ſeems to me to anſwer the ſame purpoſe; I agree that the letter ſhall ſtand.

Mr. Barwell—I cannot agree to a draft of any letter that does not conform to a vote of the majority of this Board. The preſent draft is not founded upon the reſolutions of the 6th; and until the reſolutions of the majority are fully and explicitly reſcinded, I ſhall be very cautious how I put my name to any letter that may in any reſpect counteract ſuch reſolutions of the majority.

Colonel Monſon—The firſt meaſure of the Board is to reviſe the proceedings of the preceding day, and every Member I conceive to have a right to correct, reviſe, or alter his opinion. The latter as it now ſtands is conſiſtent with a reſolution of the majority; I therefore approve of it.

General Clavering—I approve of the draft of the letter.

Governor General.—I object to it in point of form; the reſolutions of laſt Council ſhould be reſcinded, and the opinions contained in the draft of the letter now in queſtion taken as anſwers to the queſtions upon which thoſe reſolutions were formed; but as it is the ſubſtance and not the form to which I object, and as the ſecond reſolution, though not formally is ſubſequently repealed by the concluding part of the Minute delivered this day by Mr. Francis upon the firſt queſtion, I underſtand the whole reſolutions of the laſt day to be virtually repealed, and ſhall wave any further objections to it in this place.

Ordered, That the draft of the letter to Bombay, recorded in the former part of this conſultation, be written fair, and diſpatched.

APPENDIX, No. 125.

RECEIVED a letter from Colonel Upton, as follows:

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letter of the 12th February, and its continuation in cypher, dated the 15th February; alſo the preamble to the Treaty.

I am greatly concerned I was not before informed to how great a degree you was deſirous of poſſeſſing Baſſein; I perceive now you wiſh to have it almoſt at any honourable rate, though this knowledge would have perplexed me exceedingly.

No conceſſion on the part of the Company could have got us Baſſein; and eight-and-forty hours only were left to determine, whether we choſe to renew the war, or make peace, on the conditions I wrote on the 2d February laſt, which I with the greateſt difficulty had obtained, and thought very honourable and advantageous.

I conceived I fully underſtood the ſenſe you entertained of this war, and your abſolute determination to prevent the Company's being engaged in a general one with the Marattas, by putting an end to it. I thought, and ſtill hope, I underſtood my inſtructions thoroughly. Salſette and Baſſein were not to be reſtored. Our never poſſeſſing Baſſein, put it out of my power to reſtore it; and the Miniſters would not conſent on any terms to ſurrender it. If this was inſiſted on, hoſtilities were immediately to have been commenced; and the Miniſters ſwore, in the moſt ſolemn manner, that they would carry fire and ſword through Bengal, though the loſs of their own country ſhould be the certain conſequence; and that they would grant a reſidence to the French, even in Poonah itſelf. This might be the effect of paſſion only; but they ſeemed to have been making preparations for the carrying part of this threat into execution.

There was no time for a reference; peace muſt take place, and that without delay; beſides, I thought the conditions, as I have already obſerved, very honourable and advantageous.

Had the letters of the 15th February arrived ſoon enough for me to have propoſed the exchange for Baſſein, we ſhould have offered for it more than twice the value.

Broach, with the Marratta collections granted to us, and a country of three lacks per annum ceded (in fact in lieu of Baſſein) amount to about nine lacks and an half of rupees, beſides the twelve lacks granted towards defraying the expence of the war, which never would have been given whilſt we were making ſuch offers for Baſſein. Salſette we poſſeſſed, they could not get it from us: this was not the caſe with Baſſein.

Salſette and Baſſein are the property of the Peiſhwa by inheritance, independant of the Ram Rajah. This muſt have been a great bar to our ever obtaining them by treaty, while the Brahmins are in poſſeſſion of the Peiſhwaſhip; and was now a principal reaſon for their not ſuffering any propoſals to be made about Baſſein.

I yet lament, Gentlemen, not having been better acquainted with your ſentiments before the peace was concluded; though I hope, and am perſuaded, you will approve the meaſures I have taken.

I had the honour to write you on the 21ſt March, adviſing of the final determination of Ragonaut Row. Three days ago I received the accompanying letter from the Select Committee, of Bombay. You will perceive, Gentlemen, Ragonaut Row has again claimed the protection of the Engliſh. I have incloſed my anſwer to the Select Committee, alſo a letter from the Peiſhwa to me on this ſubject, and extracts, the Miniſters have ſent me of former treaties.

Your full directions to the Preſidency of Bombay are neceſſary, otherwiſe I fear the Articles of the Peace will with great difficulty be carried into execution.

The Miniſters ſay they cannot withdraw the army; that ſubſiſting this army (including the Nizam's forces) amounts to thirty lacks of rupees per month; that we occaſion this heavy expence to them by protecting or rather taking part in the diſputes between them and Ragonaut Row. They declared long ago, and deſired I might inform you, that ſhould it be the fate of Ragonaut Row to be taken by them in battle, his perſon ſhould ever be ſafe.

The Sunnuds and letters from Futty Sing are not yet arrived, the Miniſters expect them daily.

The Miniſters, Gentlemen, have been for ſome time paſt expreſſing their great deſire to write to His Majeſty; I conceive to prefer a complaint againſt the Preſidency of Bombay, for their unjuſt attack on Salſette, &c. (though they declare not.) They hear the Nabob of Arcot has made a firm friendſhip by this means, and they wiſh to do ſo alſo. I have ſatisfied them that full powers on the part of the King, as well as the Company, were veſted in the Supreme Council; they acknowledge this; but the Peiſhwa wiſhes to pay his reſpects to the Throne. They either have or will write to requeſt your permiſſion and aſſiſtance to their putting this wiſh in execution. Appendix, No. 125.

I have the honour to be, &c.

Paorunder, (Signed) J. Upton.
10th April 1776.

P. S. At the requeſt of the Miniſters who were deſirous of writing to the Honourable the Governor General, I have delayed till this day ſending off my packet.

I forward the copy of another letter from the Peiſhwa, on the ſubject of Ragonaut Row's reſiding at any of the Company's ſettlements.

(Signed) J. Upton.
13th April.

Copy of a letter, bearing the ſeal of Mahdoo Row Peiſhwa. Received by Colonel Upton on the 17th Suffer 1190 Hegira.

I have been informed by Captain Macpherſon, that the Governor and Council of Bombay have brought Ragonaut Row to that port, where they have intentions of detaining him; ſince by an expreſs Article of the Treaty he is excluded from the protection of the Engliſh, unleſs he lives in Coppercanoon, and it is ſtipulated, that not one of the Engliſh ſhall afford him aſſiſtance, notwithſtanding what has been written from Calcutta, and the powers with which you were inveſted, and the character of the Engliſh for good faith. Such a manner of regarding friendſhip and peace was never before heard of. You are prudent, and inveſted with powers from Calcutta, and will therefore attend to the terms of the Treaty agreed to, by yourſelf, and not afford Ragonaut Row a place amongſt the Engliſh.

Copy of a Letter, bearing the ſeal of Madhoo Row, the Peiſhwa, received by Colonel Upton, on the 23d Suffer, 1190 Hegira.

I underſtand that Ragonaut Row is accompanying the Engliſh army to Bombay, where he will be permitted to live by the Governor and Council. A peace was concluded with the Engliſh for this reaſon, that Ragonaut Row might live entirely out of the way of family diſputes, and by no means make himſelf a party therein. What is become of the peace now, if the Governor and Council of Bombay, who formerly aſſiſted Ragonaut Row, now carry him to Bombay? in what manner are the diſputes of our family ſettled, while the cauſe of thoſe diſputes remains with the Engliſh? Since the Governor General and Council have deputed you to this place, inveſted with full powers, the crime of intrigues, of which Ragonaut had been guilty, was at your deſire forgiven, and a ſuitable allowance ſettled for him. Whilſt he remains quiet, and fixed in the place aſſigned him, the terms of the Treaty ſhall not be infringed by me. He complains that his life is in danger. When engagements are entered into by men of character, ſhall they not be obſerved? Should he fall into my hands in the field of battle, his life ſhall be ſecure.

In a treaty which was concluded between this Government and the Engliſh of Bombay, the Engliſh engage not to protect, or in anywiſe aſſiſt refugees from us, and we engage to do the ſame; and the laſt Treaty, in its 15th and 16th Articles, conforms to all Sunnuds and Treaties which are not annulled or varied thereby, the ſame degree or validity as on the day when they were executed; and the ſpirit of the whole Treaty lately concluded is, that the Engliſh ſhall not ſupport the cauſe of Ragonaut Row; that they ſhall be entirely diſunited from him; that they ſhall not afford him a place in any of their ports; and that the family diſpute ſhall be left to me. I will write theſe particulars to the Governor General and Council of Calcutta, who have concluded peace with me. Should the Governor and Council of Bombay refuſe at your requiſition to ſeparate Ragonaut Row from them, give it under your hands, that they do not regard your words; and the Governor General and Council at Calcutta, will not aſſiſt the Engliſh at Bombay. What ſhall I write more? I before repreſented to you theſe circumſtances ſummarily, and have now repreſented them fully.

Appendix. No. 125.

Firſt Treaty concluded in the time of Serrimunt Pundit, and in the Government of Mr. Stephens, by Cap^n. Hecherbar, at Baſſein, in the year 1140, Bachupoory.

Article the 7th. The Engliſh ſhall not in any ſhape aſſiſt the enemies of the Circar (Maratta Government) not even if they ſhould be their own friends. In the ſame manner, the enemies of the Engliſh ſhall not be aſſiſted by the Circar.

Second Treaty concluded at Poonah on the part of the Engliſh, by John Spencer and Thomas Byefield, Eſquires, in the year 1157, at Beechipory.

Article 18th. The engagements which ſubſiſted in former years between the Circar and the Engliſh, ſhall now be in force between the parties.

Third Treaty between the Circar Row Pundit Purdhan and Charles Crommelin, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor General of Bombay, concluded in the year 1162.

Article 3d. The dependants of the Circar have been ſtrictly ordered, in caſe any of the ſervants of the Engliſh, whether principal ſervants or inferior, ſhall deſert from the Engliſh and come to them, to confine them, give notice to the General, and deliver them over to the Company's men. In the ſame manner, if any of the ſervants of the Circar, principal or inferior, except Europeans, ſhall ſeek the protection of the Engliſh at Bombay, the Engliſh ſhall alſo deliver them over to me. This is agreed between the parties. The Engliſh ſhall give their word to their ſervants, and carry them away.

A true tranſlation.
(Signed) Henry Vanſittart,
Act^g Perſ^n Tranſlator.

From Balajee Jundarun. Received 17th May 1776.

I hope that by the arrival of my former letter you have been informed of all particulars.

It is ſtipulated in the Treaty, that the Governor and Council of Bombay ſhall remove their army from an alliance with Serumunt Ragonaut Row, immediately upon the eſtabliſhment of the peace; but more than a month has elapſed, and the troops have not yet withdrawn from his aſſiſtance. Serrenaut is on his way to that quarter, and the Engliſh are united with him. What Colonel Upton has written for the removal of the army, has had no effect. Hurry Pundit ſent a letter, with a view of adding ſtrength to the peace; to which he received an anſwer from Colonel Keating, the commanding officer of the troops by Lait Loll.

Being guided by wiſdom and judgment, you have written various letters for the eſtabliſhment of a peace, and the ſettlement of difference, and probably ſome to the Governor and Council of Bombay; this is therefore ſurprizing. I deſire that you will write in ſuch terms to the Governor and Council of Bombay, as may conſtrain them to deſiſt from every act which may be inconſiſtent with the friendſhip between us; and direct them to make it their ſtudy to ſtrengthen the union.

Incloſed is Colonel Keating's letter; written on a ſeparate paper.

My friend, Hurry Pundit is obliged to retain a war eſtabliſhment, which is an expence to the Government of 30 lacks of rupees per annum: By whom ſhall we be indemnified for this enormous ſum?—The Engliſh have not yet deſiſted from hoſtilities; and collect by ſeverities in the ſeveral diſtricts of Guzerat. Should Hurry Pundit eſtabliſh the authority of the Maratta Aumils, it will be ſaid that he is cauſing variances. We have been treated in this manner before our very eyes. You will weigh theſe circumſtances in the balance of wiſdom, and write to the Engliſh at Bombay, ordering them to forbear hoſtilities.

Copy of a letter from Colonel Keating to Hurry Pundit. Received the 2 Saffer, 1190 Hegira.

I received your letter of the 22d and 24th Mohurram, on the 27th and 28th of the ſame month. Since the receipt of the firſt letter, which you wrote me on the occaſion of the late tranſactions, I have written to you theſe letters, which I hope have arrived ſafe.

I have there mentioned what was within the compaſs of my knowledge; but I have not to this time received my orders from Bombay, reſpecting the peace; but I very well know that the peace will not be approved by Serrimunt Pundit Purdhan Peiſhwa. He performs what it is incumbent on him to do; but what cannot ſeaſonably be done will be ſeen. You write, "Let the palm plantation of friendſhip and union flouriſh:" When the ſeed has not been ſown, how can we reap fruit? It is my wiſh that peace may be eſtabliſhed in the Zellæ, in a manner which may be right and proper.

Copy of a letter from Colonel Keating, in anſwer to Hurry Pundit, dated the 3d Suffer, 1190 Hegira; and received the 6th of the ſame month.

I have this day received orders from the Governor and Council of Bombay, together with the Treaty; the contents of which ſhall be explained to Serrimunt Peiſhwa. You will not march from the place where you now are, until you hear from me, nor croſs the Cuttil.

Since, agreeable to the Treaty, no part of the army is to moleſt any part of the other, you will give orders to all your army not to moleſt any of the ſervants who may paſs or repaſs of Serrimunt Peiſhwa. Should they meet with any moleſtation, it will be known that you have not acted according to the Treaty.

Written on a ſeparate paper.

Since the cloſe of my letter, Hurry Pundit has received a letter from Colonel Keating, the contents of which are ſo inconſiſtent with the Treaty that I cannot comprehend them. I am ſurprized, when your ſuperiors have inveſted you with the ſupreme authority over the different poſts, and you have delegated that authority in this inſtance to Colonel John Upton, by whoſe negociations a Treaty has been concluded, that the Governor and Council of Bombay ſhould diſregard it, and behave in contradiction to the rule of obedience. I therefore conceive it to be evident, that neither orders from Calcutta, nor even orders from the King of England, would affect them; for Colonel Keating, a commanding officer amongſt men ſubject to your orders, notwithſtanding your repeated letters and thoſe of Colonel Upton, perſiſts in a diſpoſition of enmity, and would not recede from his purpoſes. I refrained from hoſtilities eight months, five of which have paſſed in negociation, three in concerting peace, and more than a month has elapſed ſince the concluſion of peace. I have ſubmitted to a very heavy expence of my army from a deſire of friendſhip, but am under apprehenſions, if the Governor and Council of Bombay will not deſiſt from their meaſures at a time when Colonel Upton is here, how will they behave when he leaves me. I requeſt you will order them to obſerve the conditions of the Treaty.

Copy of a letter from Colonel Keating to Hurry Pundit, dated 8 Suffer 1190 Hegira, and received the 10th.

Agreeable to the orders I have received from Bombay I am now to adviſe you, that Serrimunt Ragonaut Baje Row Peiſhwa, in no reſpect approves the Treaty which has been concluded between him and Colonel Upton, and the Mutſeddies are by no means ſatisfied with it. By Article 9th he is to diſband his army within a month. The Treaty did not arrive till twenty-four days after its date

date, and Ragonaut was not before this time informed of it; ſo that the period remaining for the performance of this condition is very ſhort. He is now diſmiſſing his officers and uſing expedition, but he muſt exceed the time limited by two or three days, more or leſs; I therefore requeſt that you will not preſs him to an inconvenient haſte, nor come over from the other ſide of the Cuttil, but remain in your preſent ſituation until you hear from me. In the 9th Article it is written, that after Serrimunt Ragonaut Row ſhall have diſbanded his army, he ſhall, without meeting with any moleſtation, travel where he pleaſes, and that no one ſhall diſturb him: I therefore enjoin you to a ſtrict obſervance of this condition, that there may not be the leaſt deviation from it; ſhould there be any, it will be an infringement of the Treaty between you and the Engliſh.

From Saccarim Pundit. Received the 20th May 1776.

I have addreſſed to you various letters, the contents of which, you muſt have fully underſtood.

Although the behaviour of the Bombay Gentlemen did not merit the re-eſtabliſhment of friendſhip, yet your letters, the embaſſy of Colonel Upton, the aſſurances which he made of your friendſhip, and the conſideration of your dignity and ſuperiority over the other ſettlements, induced me to aſſent to ſome of Colonel Upton's propoſals, and refer others to your juſtice, as I have particularly informed you in the letter which I have before written on this ſubject. Colonel Upton wrote in the cuſtomary manner to the Gentlemen of Bombay.

The letters received from Colonel Keating by Hurry Pundit, of which I had before tranſmitted you copies, contain ſubjects of diſpute, and the Gentlemen of Bombay continue to ſupport Surrimunt Ragonaut Row, and are deſirous of carrying him to Bombay. This very much ſurprizes me, for it is not the nature of the Engliſh to be diſobedient to orders. However, they pay no regard either to your orders or Colonel Upton's letters, and perſiſt in their former unfriendly diſpoſition. If we are to judge by their behaviour, what opinion can be entertained of your orders? The rules which uſed to direct the Engliſh no longer exiſt. Conſider thoſe orders. It is neither acting up to the character of great men, nor to the principles of Sirdars; nor is it a cuſtom in Europe, that writing ſhould be one thing, and ſpeaking another, concluding a treaty another, and performing the conditions of that treaty different from all.—Under theſe circumſtances peace is impoſſible. My army has been without employment, and occaſioned a loſs to me of three crores of rupees, all which has happened in conſequence of your writing; beſides which the Country of Guzerat has ſuſtained much damage, and the Bombay Gentlemen have, in violation of other treaties, been exciting troubles. It very much ſurprizes me, that at a time when your letters have been received, and Colonel Upton has written preſſingly on the ſubject of ceaſing to ſupport Surrimunt Ragonaut Row, ſtill that this ſhould not have effected the leaſt change in their behaviour, except, indeed, by promoting ſtronger inclination to diſorders. What I have written may be the dictates of reſentment, but Colonel Upton, who has been witneſs to all tranſactions, will write to you. I hope, however, for the prevention of ſuch behaviour, that ſome effectual meaſures will be adopted in Europe, and by you, that it may never be experienced in future; and that you will poſitively forbid every Engliſhman to ſupport Serrimunt, or to have any connections with him, or to interfere in the affairs of our family, or obſtruct the collections of the Chout, which is the right of our Government; that you will order Saſhty to be delivered up, and write a favourable anſwer to the other particulars contained in my former letter, and which were referred to your juſtice, and that you will take ſuch meaſures for the eſtabliſhment of the affairs in this quarter as may found a laſting friendſhip and confidence between us.

APPENDIX, No. 126.

Appendix. No. 126.

To the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I HAVE the honour to incloſe the copy of a letter from the Peiſhwa, written to me in conſequence of my having made the Miniſters acquainted with the paragraph in your letter of the 31ſt of laſt month, reſpecting Ragonaut Row's having claimed your protection, and that he intended proceeding to Bombay. The Miniſters have alſo ſent extracts of former treaties, which I forward for your peruſal.

You will be pleaſed to obſerve, I had before informed the Miniſters with Ragonaut Row's final determination, of which you adviſe me in your letter of the 17th ult. This, therefore, in a great meaſure becomes a freſh engagement with Ragonaut Row, and I cannot help thinking, as I mentioned in my laſt, as an infringement of the Treaty—"We are not to take any part in the "Maratta diſputes"—as few obſtructions as poſſible ſhould be put in the way to prevent carrying into execution the Articles of the Treaty.

In the extract you have been pleaſed to forward me, of Lieutenant Colonel Keating's letter, dated 25th March 1776, I cannot help noticing the two following:

Paragraph 1ſt.—"This morning, agreeable to your "orders, peace between the Honourable Company and "the Poonah Miniſters was proclaimed at the head of "the Honourable Company's forces, now under my "command."

Is it poſſible Colonel Keating could have proclaimed the peace in the manner related by this paragraph? The firſt Article of the Treaty informs, when the peace had taken place, and the names of the Miniſters who acted on the part of the Maratta State. The ſecond Article directs, that peace ſhall be forthwith proclaimed between the Honourable Company and the Maratta State, &c. &c.

If Colonel Keating has proclaimed the peace in the manner he writes (between the Honourable Company and the Poonah Miniſters) it may be productive of doubts and many inconveniencies; what theſe may be, will occur to you, Gentlemen, without my further remarking.

Paragraph 5th:—"In conſequence of the claim of "Ragonaut Row, I made him acquainted that I had re-"ceived your Honour, &c. orders to afford him "protection; he will proceed to Bombay as ſoon as "proper opportunity offers. His own elephants, "horſes, &c. he means to ſend into the neighbourhood "of Broach, under eſcort of the detachment belong-"ing to that garriſon."

All I ſhall obſerve on this paragraph is, that it will be a fortunate circumſtance if the detachment eſcorting Ragoba's elephants, horſes, &c. is not attaked by Hurry Punt Furkia, or ſome detached part of his army; as (if Ragonaut Row did not accept the compromiſe) he had orders to be very attentive to his motions. I have not mentioned the latter part of this paragraph to the Miniſters, and wiſh it may have paſſed unnoticed.

I cannot cloſe this letter without obſerving, that I wrote on the firſt of laſt month to Ragonaut Row, informing him that peace was that day concluded with the miniſterial party, and acquainted him with the terms ſtipulated for him. To this letter I received his anſwer. Colonel Keating wrote to you, Gentlemen, on the 11th and 12th March, adviſing of Ragonaut Row's determination in conſequence of what was agreed upon for him; yet I perceive by the 4th paragraph of the extract of Lieutenant Colonel Keating's letter, that Ragonaut Row, had ſuppoſed he was to have been ſupported by the Engliſh ſo late as till the 24th March. To what end could Colonel Keating's prior converſations on the ſubject of the peace and ſtipulation have tended?

I underſtand the Miniſters have not ſent a vackeel to Bombay as they promiſed, to have explained any difficulties that might have ariſen, and they now refuſe to ſend one.

Poorunder, I have the honour to be, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 127.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, dated the 16th May 1776.

PRESENT.

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon.
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
And Philip Francis, }

THE proceedings of the 15th inſtant read, and approved.

Reſumed the conſideration of the letter from Colonel Upton, received and recorded yeſterday.

General Clavering—In the letter that was read yeſterday from Lieutenant Colonel Upton of the 10th April, he acquaints us, that our full inſtructions are neceſſary to the Preſidency of Bombay, to prevent their receiving Ragoba, otherwiſe he fears that the Articles of the Peace will with great difficulty be carried into execution. It is true the Board have already expreſſed their ſentiments on this ſubject in very ſtrong terms to the Gentlemen of Bombay: they have ſet before them the conſequences which they apprehend will enſue from their receiving Ragoba, and have left it with them to anſwer for the event. Such an admonition would probably ſuffice to enforce a compliance with our directions from the other Preſidencies; but the Preſident and Council of Bombay, who have preſumed to violate a ſolemn peace in oppoſition to the known intentions of the Court of Directors; who in the face of an Act of Parliament gave orders to commence hoſtilities, who ſigned the Treaty of Surat, and gave their ſanction to that of Brodea, concluded and guaranteed by Colonel Keating: who evaded our orders to withdraw their troops into their garriſons when Colonel Upton was deputed to Poonah, and ſtill more, who furniſhed their cannon to carry on the ſiege of Amadabad, during the ſuſpenſion of hoſtilities; I repeat, that after ſuch proof of contempt of all authority, I think it is not merely ſufficient to caution them, we ſhould add our poſitive orders that they ſhould ſend away Ragoba from the Company's ſettlements. If it ſhould be objected, that thoſe who have on ſo many occaſions been diſobedient before, will not ſcruple to be ſo again, under pretence of their faith being pledged to Ragoba, together with the danger which they affect to entertain for his perſon, it may be anſwered, that we have it particularly in charge to preſerve the peace of India, and that we cannot ſuffer the danger of expoſing the Company's poſſeſſions to the uncertain event of a war to ſtand in competition with their ſcruples, if they were even well founded.

They ought to know, that a great Nation is as jealous of its honour, as it is of its rights; that receiving the Pretender by any Potentate in Europe was deemed in England to be equivalent to a declaration of war; and that if it were permitted to the dependant parts of any State not to acknowledge the conditions of a treaty, or not to carry them into execution, a peace could never be eſtabliſhed or maintained between one Nation and another.

I ſubmit theſe conſiderations to the wiſdom of the Board, and whether it be not expedient to prohibit expreſsly the Preſidency of Bombay, to receive Ragoba in any of the Company's poſſeſſions, and in caſe he ſhould be there before this letter reaches them, that they be commanded to ſend him away.

Notwithſtanding Colonel Upton has already remarked, in his letter to the Preſidency of Bombay, of the 8th April, the impropriety of Colonel Keating's publication of the peace, which he ought to have proclaimed by virtue of the ſecond Article in the name of the Honourable the Eaſt India Company and the Maratta State, inſtead of that of the Poonah Miniſters; yet, leſt the Preſidency of Bombay ſhould not have altered the terms of the proclamation in their orders to their ſeveral ſubordinates, I beg leave to offer it as my opinion, that it would be adviſeable, in order to obviate all doubts and uncertainties concerning the authenticity of the Treaty, that they ſhould be directed to proclaim it expreſsly in the manner of the Maratta State.

I further ſubmit it to the conſideration of the Board, whether it would be likewiſe adviſeable to inform the Miniſters at Poonah, through Colonel Upton, with the orders we have given to the Preſidency of Bombay.

The queſtion contained in the General's Minute being put, the Members of the Board deliver their opinion as follows:

Mr. Francis—I have already delivered my opinion of the conduct of the Preſidency of Bombay, in offering a retreat to Ragoba, and of the conſequences which that meaſure may produce. If he be not actually at Bombay, I agree that we ſhould give them poſitive injunctions not to receive him; not that I think the terms of the Treaty expreſsly preclude us from ſuffering him to reſide within the Company's territories, but becauſe I deem it impolitic and hazardous. If he be now at Bombay, I would not order him to be removed by force; but I would inſiſt upon their not affording him the leaſt ſupport, countenance, or encouragement to remain; and I would declare them anſwerable for all the conſequences of their retarding the ratification of the Treaty. In that caſe I believe there is no likelihood of his remaining long in ſo diſgraceful a ſituation, or that the Preſidency of Bombay will venture to keep him. Our intention in this reſpect, and our reſolution never to afford Ragoba the leaſt aſſiſtance againſt the Maratta Government, may be fully explained to them by Colonel Upton.

I think, if Colonel Keating has proclaimed the peace in the terms mentioned by Colonel Upton, he is highly blameable, and that proclamation ſhould be again made in the manner propoſed by General Clavering.

Mr. Barwell—I think it is immaterial, whether Ragonaut Row be at this inſtant at Bombay, or in the Engliſh camp. He has already put himſelf under the protection of the Engliſh Government, and I think that protection ſhould be continued to him while he chuſes to remain under it. The circumſtances of Ragonaut Row, under which he chuſes to decline accepting the eſtabliſhment propoſed for him by the Poonah Miniſters, plainly indicate that his acquieſcence is denied ſimply under the apprehenſions he entertains of the acts of his enemies. The choice that is left to him, is to ſubmit himſelf, a ſtate priſoner to the people, whom he ſtiles himſelf his ſubjects, to put his life to the riſk, by unreſervedly placing himſelf in their hands, or to demand an aſylum with thoſe who were lately bound, under a ſolemn engagement, to place him at the head of the Maratta State. He has choſen the latter; and I think it will neither be conſiſtent with the honour or juſtice of this Government, to become either the inſtrument of his impriſonment or his death. If ſuch ſacrifices are expected from the Engliſh Nation, to purchaſe a peace from the ruling faction of the Maratta State, I diſclaim and proteſt againſt them; and I conceive the demand now made for the delivering up Ragonaut Row, as well as the continuing the Maratta army in the Field, as obvious marks of the ſpirit of enmity and reſentment that I expect will break out as ſoon as the Maratta Government is ſo eſtabliſhed as to allow the preſent ruling faction to purſue meaſures againſt the Engliſh, with the leaſt probability of ſucceſs. The letters from Bellajee Pundit and Siccaram Baboo, on the Treaty executed by them, I cannot view in any other light than as a ſtrong proteſt againſt the Treaty itſelf, and a plain, open, and avowed declaration, that they will eſteem the State authorized to proceed to hoſtilities, as ſoon as its political intereſts may admit of ſuch a meaſure. I am againſt the general propoſition for diſmiſſing Ragonaut Row from Bombay, ſhould he be there, or for directing that Preſidency to refuſe to receive him, ſhould he ſeek an aſylum in their ſettlement: at the ſame time I would give the ſtrongeſt aſſurances to the Poonah Government, that no aſſiſtance of any kind ſhall be afforded to Ragoba, or any pretenſions he may advance abetted by the Engliſh Government; but that they are determined, to the utmoſt of their power, to give ſuch ſecurity as they may be enabled to the perſon of Ragoba; and that they cannot, in juſtice or honour, refuſe him a reſidence in Bombay, or at any of the other Preſidencies.

proceed

I think ſuch a proclamation of the Treaty of Peace, as is recommended by the General, ſhould be directed.

Colonel Monſon—I agree to the firſt and ſecond propoſitions made by the General, they being in a great meaſure conſiſtent with an opinion I gave ſome few days ſince; they are the beſt proofs that can be given to the Maratta State, of the intentions of this Government to preſerve inviolate the late Treaty concluded with them. While Ragonaut remains in Bombay, they will have ſufficient cauſe to miſtruſt our intentions: he muſt have been received there with a view to encourage intrigue, and occaſion jealouſies and ſuſpicions between the Maratta State and the Engliſh Government. I approve of the two laſt propoſitions mentioned by the General.

Governor General—I object to all the terms of the General's propoſition; to the two firſt, namely, to refuſe to Ragoba protection if he ſhould require it, and if granted already, to withdraw it from him, becauſe it is contrary to good policy, and not required by the terms of the Treaty. I object generally to all, becauſe, from the very extraordinary declaration made by Siccaram Baboo, in his letter received the 1ſt April, read in Conſultation the 17th, and recorded in the Perſian Correſpondence, N° 6, I doubt the validity of the Treaty on the part of the Maratta State, and ſhall never think it binding on the Company while a latitude is avowedly claimed by the oppoſite party to declare it null, whenever the caprice or intereſt of the rulers ſhall excite them to break it.

General Clavering—Although the terms of the 10th Article in the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton, expreſs no more than that we ſhall not aſſiſt Ragoba, yet I agree with the Poonah Miniſters, in the letter from the Peiſhwa, in thinking that the ſpirit of the Treaty implies, that he ſhould not be received by us. This Treaty which confirms thoſe, between the Government of Bombay and the Marattas, dated in July 1739 and 12th October 1756, which are probably referred to in thoſe Articles which they have ſent to us; the firſt concluded with Mr. Stevens; the ſecond with Meſſrs. Spencer and Byfield; the third, which they have likewiſe referred to us, and which appears to be the ſame that is entered in the Book of Treaties, N°12, expreſsly declares in the third Article, "that whatever "people, Europeans of all nations excepted, who are in "the ſervice of Maddoo Row, ſhall be delivered up on "the ſame terms and conditions." If therefore the Gentlemen of Bombay thought themſelves bound by the conditions of former treaties, they certainly ſhould not have received him, unleſs they meant to give him up. I ſhould be ſorry to ſee the conditions of theſe treaties enforced ſo far although I cannot feel that reſpect for a man who has been repreſented to the Court of Directors by the late Preſident and Council as the murderer of his nephew. Mr. Barwell has ſaid, that he "conceives "the demand now made for the delivering up Ragoba, as "well as the continuing the Maratta army in the Field; "as obvious marks of the ſpirit of enmity and reſent- "ment that he expects will break out as ſoon as the Ma- "ratta Government is ſo eſtabliſhed as to allow the "preſent ruling faction to purſue meaſures againſt the "Engliſh with the leaſt probability of ſucceſs." If that ſhould be the ſtate of the caſe, though I cannot admit any deſign of delivering up Ragoba, he muſt allow that the Government of Bombay has reduced the Company into that diſagreeable dilemma of either not making peace with the Miniſters, or the ſupporting the claim of a man whom the late adminiſtration have declared in their letter to the Court of Directors, dated 17th January 1774, Par. 6, was "the murderer of his nephew;" and in another from the Select Committee, dated 17th March 1774, Par. 6, that "he had obtained the command by "exceptionable means." I leave the argument there, contenting myſelf with having uſed my utmoſt endeavours to eſtabliſh a firm peace with the Maratta State, in oppoſition to the various means that have been employed both at Bombay and at this place, to prevent its taking effect. Appendix. No. 127.

Governor General—I ſhall never acknowledge any implied terms by deductions from former treaties, in a Treaty expreſsly concluded between the preſent rulers of the Maratta State and this Government, as applicable to the perſon of Ragoba, who was the principal object of it; neither do I allow the conſtruction put on the 3d Article of the Treaty of 14 September 1761, which ſtipulates, "that the ſervants of Maddoo Row who deſert to "the Engliſh, ſhall be delivered up to him." Ragoba, the competitor of the Peiſhwa, can by no conſtruction be ſaid to be his ſervant. Much ſtreſs has been laid upon an expreſſion in one of the general letters of the late Preſident and Council, in which Ragoba is ſtiled the murderer of his nephew; as if it made it criminal in this Government to hold any connection with him: the words alluded to, are as follow: "By theſe advices we learn, "that there prevails great diſtractions among the Ma- "ratta Powers; that Ragoba, the murderer of his ne- "phew, has marched with an army of 60,000 men to "attack Nizam Ally." Theſe words, which have no immediate relation to their context, were certainly neither meant to convey a formal charge againſt Ragoba, nor an acquittal of his accomplices. The fact, as I have always underſtood it, and as it is generally admitted, is, that Ragoba obtained the Peiſhwaſhip by the murder of his nephew, perpetrated by the immediate authority of Siccaram Bappoo and his partizans; that theſe who were at that time in the poſſeſſion of the offices which they have ever ſince held, were the principal authors; and Ragoba, who at that time was a priſoner, was their accomplice; there is therefore at leaſt as ſtrong an objection to any kind of connection to the party of the Miniſters as with that of Ragoba; but in truth, I hold the objection to have no great weight on either ſide. The Company would have much to anſwer for indeed, were it neceſſary to adopt all the vices and crimes of thoſe with whom they have at any time been engaged by any political tie or connection; for the reſt, I declare that I do moſt firmly and ſincerely wiſh for a ſure and laſting peace with the Marattas; but I differ from the General and other Members of this Board in my opinion of the means by which it is to be effected; believing in my heart, that every conceſſion beyond the ſtrict letter of right, will eventually prove an acceleration of the breach which it is intended to prevent.

General Clavering—I have carefully examined all the records in this council, to aſcertain the fact of the murder of Narrain Row. Mr. Moſtyn, in his letter, 31 Auguſt 1773, to the Select Committee at Bombay, ſays, "That Ragoba was upon the ſtairs when his nephew "ran into his arms, and begged of him to ſave his life, "and take the Government." And in his letter, 9th September 1773, to this Government, he declares, "That "two Soubahdars, Mahomed Eſoof and Summer Sing, had "been brought over to Ragoba's intereſt, who had been "cloſely confined for ſome time paſt by his nephew, "fled to the palace with about 500 men, on pretence of "being muſtered; and after having cut off the guards at "the gates, ruſhed in and killed Narrain Row: about "an hour after, Ragoba was proclaimed in the town with- "out

Appendix. No. 128.

" out bloodſhed." He however adds, " That from " what he can learn, moſt of the Miniſters were con- " cerned in this affair." I perceive likewiſe in a letter from the late Vizier, entered in Conſultation 26 November 1773, that ſpeaking of this murder, ſays, " That the Peiſhwa was aſſaſſinated by order of Ragonaut Row." I do not ſuppoſe that the late Preſident and Council meant to convey any charge againſt Ragoba when they ſpoke of this fact to the Court of Directors on two ſeparate occaſions; they intended probably to inform the Court of Directors of the facts, as they underſtood them at that time.

Whether the Governor General has formed a different opinion of this buſineſs, I cannot conjecture; he probably can refer to the original correſpondence, which gave him the information.

Governor General—I ſhould be ſorry to loſe more of my own time, or to ſwell the public records with the diſcuſſion of ſo unimportant an argument; I ſhall therefore conclude my part of it by remarking, that I could produce from the Perſian Correſpondence, evidence as good as that of the late Vizier, againſt Siccaram Bappoo and his aſſociates; and by declaring, that my opinion of the concern which Ragoba had in the aſſaſſination of his nephew, was preciſely the ſame when I firſt heard of that event as now, as it will evidently appear, even in thoſe Minutes in which it is diſputed.

Reſolved, That the following Letters be written to Bombay, and to Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

To the Honourable Wm Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

By the letter which we wrote you on the 9th inſtant, you have been fully apprized of the ſentiments we entertain of the protection afforded by your Preſidency to Ragoba, and of the conſequences likely to reſult from it.

We have been adviſed by Colonel Upton, ſince the date of that letter, of the diſguſt which the news of this meaſure had given to the Miniſters. In the letters to him upon that occaſion, written under the ſeal of the Peiſhwa, they have exclaimed loudly againſt it, as being repugnant to our profeſſions of amity, and contrary to the obvious ſpirit of the Treaty. The diſtruſt and jealouſy which you have raiſed in their minds, cannot fail to work upon them, and to prevent any cordial union between us, and probably to produce more fatal conſequences if the cauſe of them be not removed; we therefore direct, that if this letter ſhould reach you before Ragoba has taken refuge in Bombay, or any of your ſubordinate ſettlements, that you on no account receive him; and in caſe he ſhould be actually at Bombay, or elſewhere within the limits of the Company's territories, when you receive this letter, we inſiſt that you do not afford him the leaſt ſupport, countenance, or encouragement, to continue there; and we muſt at the ſame time repeat, that we ſhall hold you anſwerable for all the conſequences of this imprudent ſtep ſhould it prove the cauſe of retarding the ratification of the Treaty, or be the occaſion of a renewal of the war.

We obſerve a paragraph in Colonel Upton's letter to you of the 8th April, expreſſing his ſurprize that Colonel Keating ſhould have proclaimed the peace as having been eſtabliſhed between the Eaſt India Company and the Poonah Miniſters, inſtead of the Maratta State. The impropriety of uſing theſe terms on our part, is ſo obvious, that we can ſcarcely credit Colonel Keating's having made uſe of them; but if he did, we direct that a Proclamation of Peace be made, if not already done, in all the Company's poſſeſſions under your controul, expreſsly in the name of the Maratta State.

We requeſt that you will cauſe copies to be made of all the treaties which are now in force between your Preſidency and any of the Country Powers, or which may at any time have been guaranteed by you, and take the firſt opportunity to tranſmit them to us.

Fort William, 16th May 1776. We are, &c.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have received your letters of 20th and 21ſt March, and 10th April, with a poſtſcript of the 13th.

We incloſe copies of two letters which we have written to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, and refer you to them for our ſentiments and directions, reſpecting the protection which they have tendered to Ragoba.

We deſire you will inform the Miniſters, that we have given peremptory directions to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, not to receive Ragoba under the Company's protection; and in caſe he ſhould be actually at Bombay, or at any of their ſubordinate ſettlements, when they receive our letter, we have ordered them not to give him the leaſt ſupport, countenance, or encouragement, to remain there. You will accompany this communication with the moſt ſolemn aſſurances in our name, that we are determined never to give him the leaſt aſſiſtance againſt the Maratta Government.

We are, &c.

Received the following letter from Fort Saint George.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

By the Swallow ſloop of war that arrived here yeſterday, we received a letter from the Governor and Council of Bombay, together with an extract of the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton with the Maratta Miniſtry at Poonah, copies whereof come incloſed.

As this event renders it unneceſſary for us to reinforce that Preſidency as we intended, with two battalions of Sepoys, we ſhall countermand the orders we had given thoſe troops, to hold themſelves in readineſs to march to Anjengo.

We have the honour to be, &c. &c.

My Lord and Gentlemen,

The laſt letter we received from your Preſidency was dated the 13th December, and we have not yet heard of the Grenville's arrival upon the Malabar Coaſt.

On the 1ſt inſtant Colonel Upton concluded a Treaty of Peace between the Honourable Company and the Miniſters at Poonah; and for the information of your Lordſhip and Council, we incloſe a copy of the Extract tranſmitted to us by him.

We have given orders for our troops returning into garriſon, and as opportunities offer we ſhall ſend round the detachment of Europeans, and Captain Kelly's battalion of Sepoys belonging to your Preſidency.

Received the following letter and incloſure from Fort Saint George.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We have this day received a letter from the Preſident and Council of Bombay; Copy thereof we have the honour to incloſe for your information.

We are, &c.

Fort Saint George, 2d May 1776. (Signed) Geo. Stratton, &c. Council.

To the Right Honourable George Lord Pigot. Preſident and Governor, &c. Council at Fort Saint George.

My Lord, and Gentlemen,

We have lately received a letter from the Governor General and Council, wrote upon a ſuppoſition that Colonel Upton's negociation was broke off, and that hoſtilities were renewed between us and the miniſterial party: In this caſe they have taken off the reſtraint they formerly laid us under, and ſeemed determined to proſecute the war with the utmoſt vigour. It appears they have ſignified their intentions upon this head to your Lordſhip and Council; and they have alſo declared to Ragoba, in the moſt expreſs manner, their reſolution to ſupport his cauſe.

Though by the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton, ſo contrary to their expectations, the ſtate of affairs is become very different from what it was imagined by the Governor General and Council at the date of theſe letters, we think our ſituation is ſtill rather precarious. Their declarations to Ragoba being very unreſerved, lead us to expect applications from him, which we ſhall be embarraſſed how to anſwer; and the overtures they have ordered to be made to Hyder Ally, Nizam Ally, Moodajee Bouncello, Mahadajee Scindea, and Tookajee Holkar, will naturally alarm the miniſterial party, and give them cauſe to doubt our ſincerity. We do not think the Miniſters ſhew much inclination to perform their part of the late treaty; and indeed we doubt their ability in ſome points. Their grabs have very lately made prize of ſome merchant boats from under convoy of a company's cruizer, and all intercourſe of trade or correſpondence with their dominions is ſtill prohibited. Ragoba is ſo largely in arrears to his army, that he will find the utmoſt difficulty in diſbanding them; and he has refuſed to accept the terms ſtipulated for him by Colonel Upton. Thinking his life would be endangered by putting himſelf ſo entirely in the power of his enemies, he has claimed our protection, which we eſteemed ourſelves bound, by every tie of honour and humanity, to grant him; and this the Miniſters pretend to term an infringement of the treaty.

There is alſo every appearance of further conſiderable commotions in the Maratta State, owing to a party being formed in favour of Subida, a deſcendant of the ancient Peiſhwa family, and next in ſucceſſion to Ragoba; with whom, it is ſaid, he means to aſſociate, in oppoſition to the Miniſters.

While affairs are in this uncertain ſituation, we think it highly expedient to maintain a reſpectable force, and to be provided againſt all events; we have therefore determined to defer returning the Madras detachment, as we at firſt intended, until we can judge how far this Preſidency is likely to be affected by any of the above circumſtances. APPENDIX, No. 129.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

WE had the honour to addreſs you on the 30th ultimo, by his Majeſty's ſhip Sea Horſe, and have ſince received your letter, dated the 29th January.

We have lately received repeated accounts that Sudaba, who has been kept in confinement for many years by the Poonah Government, has effected his eſcape from Rhutna Gheriah, and is already joined by ſeveral Maratta Chiefs, and a conſiderable body of forces. It is ſaid, that he claims the office of Regent of the Maratta State, either for himſelf ſingly, or jointly with Ragoba, during the minority of the young Peiſhwa, in oppoſition to the pretenſions of the Miniſters; but we have yet no further particulars of his proceedings than what are contained in the incloſed copies of two letters from the reſident at Fort Victoria. Sudaba is the ſon of Chimmajee Oppah, the brother of Bajerow, who was Ragoba's father, and conſequently next to Ragoba is entitled either to the Peiſhwaſhip or Regency of the Maratta Empire. At the famous battle of Paniput, in the year 1761, Sudaba was ſuppoſed to be killed; but ſome time afterwards a perſon made his appearance at Poonah, greatly diſfigured with wounds, who aſſerted that he was Sudaba, and of which, it is ſaid, he gave moſt convincing proofs; but the Government did not think proper to acknowledge him, and have kept him in confinement ever ſince. This is the perſon who is ſtarted up in oppoſition to the Miniſters, and we apprehend will occaſion much commotion in the Maratta State.

We have the honour to be, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 10th April 1776. (Signed) Wm Hornby, &c. Council.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Incloſed are duplicates of our letters, dated the 30th ultimo, and 10th inſtant.

We have ſince had the honour to receive your letter, dated the 7th March, with the incloſed copy of that to Ragoba, and we muſt confeſs we greatly regret, that affairs are not in the ſituation you imagined, becauſe the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton ſo contrary to your expectations appears to us inglorious and diſhonourable to the Company, and the terms thereof entirely inconſiſtent with your inſtructions to him.

We conceive our duty to the Company now calls upon us to give you our opinion of this Treaty, and it is grounded upon the Articles reſpecting Ragoba, the ſtipulation for our treaties being deſtroyed in preſence of the Maratta Miniſters, the valuable reſtitutions to be made, all the conditions on our part to be immediately performed, the diſtant periods aſſigned for the Miniſters performance of their part, the general ſuperiority given them throughout, the entire omiſſion of Baſſein, and the reference reſpecting Salſette.

The Treaty alſo appears to us to be defective in other eſſential points, which we think may affect its validity; the name of the Peiſhwa is not inſerted in the extract tranſmitted to us, the terms Row Pundit Purdhan being only titles annexed to that office, and applicable to every Peiſhwa; neither does it ſeem to us that the Treaty has been been ſigned nominally and individually by the Maratta Chiefs, agreeable to your inſtructions, which was particularly neceſſary in the preſent caſe.

We obſerved to Colonel Upton in the courſe of our correſpondence, that it was by no means neceſſary a Treaty ſhould be concluded at all events, as we were far from conſidering Ragoba's cauſe as irretrievable if the negociation with the Miniſters was to break off; and we have not a doubt, if the war had been proſecuted upon the vigorous plan you had adopted, it would ſoon have been brought to an honourable concluſion, the Company have ſecured great and ſolid advantages, and a general peace have been eſtabliſhed upon an equitable and permanent footing; which, we are ſorry to ſay, ſeems far from being the caſe at preſent.

We have not yet experienced any good effects from this Treaty. The Miniſters do not permit of any communication or intercourſe with the Maratta dominions; to the great detriment of the Company's, and private trade, and we hear lately, that no perſons dare apply for permiſſion to come to Bombay from the neighbouring parts, even with the trifling articles of vegetables and fruit. Within theſe few days, they refuſed permiſſion for Major Wear, of your eſtabliſhment, going to the hot wells for his health, which has ever hitherto been freely allowed of. This conduct does not ſhew much diſpoſition in the Miniſters to be upon terms of friendſhip with us, and is, we think very injurious to the credit and reputation of the Company, after the peace has been ſo long concluded; but the proceedings of the Maratta fleet afford ſtill leſs demonſtration of their pacific intentions.

They very lately took ſix merchant botellas, with Engliſh paſſes and colours, in their paſſage from Goa to Bombay, and carried them into Gheriah. Theſe veſſels had been under convoy of the Company's ſhip Gatton, which arrived here from the coaſt the 7th inſtant, but had ſeparated from her by ſome accident.

On the 4th inſtant the Terrible, in her paſſage from Bengal, fell in with their fleet off Gheriah. Their ſhips immediately run up on each quarter and under the ſtern of the Terrible, while their ſmaller veſſels carried off two merchant boats with Engliſh colours, notwithſtanding the commander acquainted the Maratta commodore they were under his protection. The Maratta commodore alſo demanded that the commander, or one of the officers of the Terrible, ſhould come on board his ſhip; which being refuſed, he made an effort to take two other veſſels which were under her convoy. But for your more full information of the whole tranſaction, we beg leave to refer you to the incloſed copy of the report delivered to us by the commander of the Terrible.

We have repreſented to Lieutenant Colonel Upton theſe infringements of the Treaty, and recommended to him to inſiſt upon the immediate reſtitution of the eight veſſels, and full ſatisfaction for the inſult offered to a Company's cruiſer; but we do not yet know what anſwer the Miniſters have returned.

Colonel Upton has acquainted us, in his letter dated the 8th inſt. that the Miniſters abſolutely refuſe to ſend a vackeel to Bombay, which he before adviſed us in his letter dated the 2d ultimo they intended doing, "to explain any thing that might not be fully comprehended."

Their reaſon for this refuſal proceeds from our having afforded the Company's protection to Ragoba, which they term an infringement of the Treaty; and Colonel Upton has likewiſe embraced that opinion, and taxed us with forming a new engagement with Ragoba, and with interfering in the Maratta diſputes. We flatter ourſelves your Honour, &c. will not view our conduct in this light, and that you will do us the juſtice to acquit us of theſe imputations; for, after the moſt attentive conſideration, we cannot diſcover that we have acted in the leaſt repugnant to any part either of this or former treaties, and we could not have denied Ragoba a ſanctuary, with any regard to the honour of the nation, or the principles of juſtice and humanity. We alſo conceived, that your orders of the 18th October were alone a ſufficient warrant to us, and theſe orders we long ago communicated to Colonel Upton, which makes us ſurprized at his ſupporting the Miniſters in ſuch a demand; inſtead of which we think they ſhould have ſuggeſted to him the propriety of ſtipulating in the Treaty, that Ragoba's place of reſidence ſhould be left at his own option. Ragoba is certainly under no obligation to abide by terms ſo full of danger to his perſon, ſettled for him without his authority or conſent; and the ſolicitude of the Miniſters to get him into their poſſeſſion evinces the juſtice of his apprehenſions: They refuſe giving him a ſingle rupee, unleſs he will accept the terms, and reſide at the place allotted for him. The language they make uſe of in their repreſentation to Colonel Upton on the ſubject, is very extraordinary; they deſire a certificate from him of our refuſal to give up Ragoba upon his application, and then that your Honour, &c. ſhall not aſſiſt us. This repreſentation is termed a letter from the young Peiſhwa; and if the Miniſters ſhould break with us in conſequence of our protecting Ragoba, as this menace ſeems to imply, we hope we ſhall be fully juſtified by your Honour, &c. in reſiſting them.

Excluſive of the other defects in the Treaty before-mentioned, we have further to obſerve, that the Miniſters have engaged for more than they have ability or right to perform. We mean, by ſtipulating to give up the Maratta ſhare of the Broach revenues, which is in the gift of the Guicawars alone, and thus ſwelling the Treaty with an imaginary advantage. In the diviſion of the Guzerat province, made in the year 1759 between the Poonah Government and the Guicawar family, the diſtrict of Broach was aſſigned to the latter, and we have held ſeveral ſmall places ever ſince by virtue of their Sunnuds, a copy or two of which we incloſe. After the reduction of Broach, we concluded a Treaty with Futty Sing in February 1773, wherein the proportion of revenues to be collected by each, was ſettled without any reference to the Poonah Government; and though Mr. Moſtyn was then at that Durbar in quality of Reſident for the Company, no objections were ſtarted againſt the right of the Guicawars to form any engagements they might think proper. Ragoba in his Treaty with us would only engage to obtain from the Guicawars a grant of their ſhare, and a vaqueel is lately arrived here from Futty Sing, to demand reſtitution of the ceſſions made to the Company by his Treaty with Ragoba, as the conditions thereof are not fulfilled, and this man poſitively denies all right of the Poonah Government to alienate the Guicawar territories.

Ragoba is now in Surat, and ſo greatly in arrears to his troops that he is not able to diſband them; and they are now in the neighbourhood of that city: it is not improbable but the miniſterial army may attack them. And to ſecure the Company's ſettlements from danger and moleſtation in the troubles likely to enſue, we have reſolved to quarter our troops in the garriſons of Surat and Broach, during the approaching monſoon, inſtead of bringing them to Bombay as we at firſt intended. This has obliged us to detain the Madras detachment.

We have not any further accounts of the proceedings of Sudaba ſince our laſt of the 10th inſtant. The party formed in his favour ſeems to be very conſiderable, and if this be the real Sudaba, which we have great reaſon to believe, he will prove a very dangerous adverſary to the Miniſters in conjunction with Ragoba; he was always eſteemed a perſon of uncommon capacity and abilities, and formerly conducted the adminiſtration of the Maratta Government with great reputation. The incloſed letter from the Reſident at Fort Victoria contains an account of his eſcape from the battle of Paniput, and of the circumſtances that happened to him afterwards, and affords ſome other proofs of his being the real Sudaba.

Your offers to Ragoba of the Company's alliance and

ſupport being very unreſerved, lead us to expect applications from him, which we ſhall be embarraſſed how to anſwer; and the overtures made to Hyder Ally, Nizam Ally, Moodagee Bouncello, Madajee Scindia, and Tookajee Holcar, will naturally alarm the miniſterial party, and make them doubtful of our ſincerity. When your intention of ſupporting Ragoba is publiſhed, it will doubtleſs add great weight to his cauſe, and weaken the influence of the Miniſters, by detaching many Chiefs who were before wavering.

From the above repreſentation we flatter ourſelves it will appear to you, that the preſent Treaty is diſhonourable and inſecure; that it is concluded on terms which your ſubſtitute was not authorized to agree to; that the Miniſters have not inclination or ability to perform their part; that they have even actually infringed it by taking our veſſels; that they themſelves, by taxing us with infringing it, and by their menaces, deem it void; that their Government is far from being univerſally acknowledged by the Marattas, and does not promiſe much ſtability; that there is every appearance of further conſiderable commotions in the Maratta Empire, by which the Company's intereſt muſt ſuffer; and that there is no other method of effecting a general peace but by their interference; we therefore requeſt you will take theſe circumſtances, and our preſent precarious and diſreputable ſituation, into your moſt ſerious conſideration, ſubmitting to you, whether it will not be more eligible and more conſiſtent with the honour and advantage of the Company, not to ratify the Treaty formed by Colonel Upton, but to permit us to enter into engagements with Ragoba upon the plan laid down in your letter of the 7th ultimo?

We requeſt you will favour us with your immediate and expreſs directions for our conduct; and that theſe advices may be conveyed to you with all poſſible expedition, we diſpatch the Drake ſnow with them, and alſo to afford Mr. Tayler an opportunity of returning to his ſtation, under whoſe orders we have therefore placed the commander; but ſhould Mr. Tayler have left Calcutta, we requeſt your Honour, &c. will return the veſſel to us.

A continuation of our correſpondence with Colonel Upton is incloſed; and our troops, being now in the Surat diſtricts, we have received no further letters from Lieutenant Colonel Keating.

We have the honour to remain, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 22d April 1776. (Signed) Wm Hornby, &c. Council.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Since cloſing our addreſs of the 22d inſtant, Futty Sing's vackeel therein mentioned, has delivered us a liſt of the demands he was inſtructed to make by his maſter; to which we ſhall return for anſwer, that we have referred the matter to you, and ſhall wait your determination. We therefore incloſe a copy of this paper, and requeſt to be favoured with your directions upon the ſubject.

Ragoba has alſo acquainted us, that he has received promiſes of aſſiſtance from Nizam Ally Khan, upon condition that we will engage not to aſſiſt the miniſterial party, and therefore requeſted we would give him an aſſurance to that effect. A copy of this letter is incloſed; and likewiſe of another received from Ragoba, requeſting that the jewels depoſited by him may be reſtored; but we ſhall wait your Honour, &c. directions on the ſubject of both theſe letters.

The great loſs that ariſes to the Company on the remittances made from your Preſidency in ſpecie, when reduced into Bombay currency, occaſioned by the high batta charged on Sicca rupees, and the expence of freight, induces us to requeſt, that in your future conſignments you will ſend us the Patna Sonat rupees, which for the above reaſon turns out a better remittance; and to relieve the Company from the expence of freight, we ſhall, in the month of Auguſt next, ſend round one of our cruizers to receive what treaſure you may have to ſend us on account of next year's ſupply; and in the mean time the Drake, as we before mentioned, will ſerve for that purpoſe. Appendix, No. 129.

We have juſt received your letter of the 11th ultimo, and beg leave to obſerve to you, that we diſavowed in the moſt expreſs manner, Ragoba's attack on Ahmadavad, and inſiſted upon our two eighteen-pounders being returned, which had been lent him by Colonel Keating long before the ceſſation of arms had taken place; this will be evinced by our letter to Colonel Keating, dated the 20th October, tranſmitted to you by the Talbot: and Ragoba, upon our remonſtrances, acquainted us, that he had ſent repeated orders to Ameen Khan, his officer before Ahmadavad, to diſcontinue the ſiege, and reſtore the guns; but that ſuch orders had not been obeyed, and that he had loſt all authority over that army, owing to their being ſo largely in arrears. We can aſſure you that we have avoided with the utmoſt caution giving the leaſt cauſe for complaint to the Miniſters on our part, and that we ſhall ever pay the utmoſt attention to your orders. The reaſons aſſigned for the deviation in the inſtance mentioned by you, will, we hope, prove ſatisfactory, the neceſſity being ſo obvious, and the good effects thereof acknowledged by Colonel Upton.

We have the honour to remain, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 24th April 1776. (Signed) Wm Hornby, &c. Council.

Demands made by Sadeſhew Punt, vackeel of Futty Sing Guicawar. Delivered in, the 2d of April 1776.

Firſt. I beg that your Honour will favour me with your letters to the Nabob of Surat; and Mr. Gambier to deliver the office of Choutea, relating to Secajee Row, Guicawar Shumſhier Bahadur, and Futty Sing Row Guicawar, to the people who they may ſend to take charge of the ſame on the receipt of your letters, and that they may not be moleſted therein.

Secondly. My maſter has granted you Sunnuds for the Pergunnahs of Chickly, Veriow, Batta, and three villages in the Pergunnah of Chureaſy; but as nothing has been ſettled; I deſire you will order them to be returned, and favour me with your written orders to the perſons in whoſe charge the above Pergunnahs are, to return them to the ſaid Secajee Row and Futty Sing Guicawar.

Thirdly. The amount paid by means of Colonel Keating, was in goods, gold, gold rupees, piece goods, caſh, jewels, &c. conditionally, that Ragoba ſhould get all my Maſter's Tannahs property ſettled; which was not done; my Maſter's buſineſs is unfiniſhed, and the money loſt, I therefore requeſt that you will either order the aforeſaid money to be returned, or get Ragoba Dadee to refund what he has received; you being a mediator will I hope ſee this done.

Fourthly. Nicorah Tupah has always been ſeparated, and never under Broach; notwithſtanding which, your Gentlemen at that place hinder my Maſter's people there. Your Honour will therefore ſend an order to them for to continue it to the Guicawar in the ſame manner as before.

Fifthly. The cuſtoms of Kem Cuttodrah, on the other ſide of the Tappee, belongs to my Maſter; whereas, now the Gentlemen of Surat and Broach have turned out our Chokydeers, and have placed their own there. Your honour will therefore order them not to hinder our Chokydeers, and to take away theirs.

Sixthly. Rodrajee Deſſoy of Chureaſy has ſeveral accounts to ſettle with my Maſter: he owes a balance, and we want alſo to receive of him ſuch revenues as he has recovered; but he has taken your protection, and become an Aumildar of Chickly. This is not right: becauſe my Maſter's credit will not be preſerved: your Honour will therefore write to Mr. Gambier, not to employ him in your buſineſs; he is a Zemindar, and muſt go to the Guicawar to ſettle with him.

Appendix. No. 130.

Further demands made by Sadeshew Punt, on account of his Master Futty Sing Guicawar. Delivered in on the 18th April 1776.

First. The Guicawar's share of the Pergunnah of Broach for the last year, remains in the hands of the English, which I beg may be paid to my Master Futty Sing.

Secondly. The merchants of Surat pay customs in the Phorza of that place, in which my Master has a share; some of them, under your protection, clear their goods without paying what is due to my Master. Your Honour will therefore I hope settle this business.

Translation of a letter from Ragonath Row, Bajerow Pundit Pradhum, to the President; dated from Surat the 7th April 1776, and received the 22d following.

After compliments:

I am arrived at Surat, and am so much distressed for money to pay my people, &c. that I cannot express it to you. I deposited in the hands of Mr. Gambier, when at this place before, my jewels to the amount of six lacks and a half of rupees, which I beg you will order to be returned to me, and I will then pawn them to carry on my expences for a few days. As these my said jewels were deposited in trusty hands, I hope that no dispute will be made about returning them no me. Luxaman Appajee will give your Honour every information about them.

Translation of another letter from Ragonath Row, Bajerow Pundit Pradhum, to the Honourable the President; dated from Surat the 9th April 1776, and received the same day as the above.

After compliments:

Jeffarood Dowleet Bahadre, an officer belonging to Nizam Ally Khan, corresponds with me; and now informs me, that the said Nabob is willing to come and assist me; but is afraid that you will take the part of the Ministers at Pronder: if this is done, the business cannot go on properly; he therefore requests you will give him your assurance, not to assist them on any account, and then my business will be done according to my wishes. I have acquainted him, that I shall request you to give me this assurance; and I have wrote Luxanam Appajee, in what manner he is satisfied, which he will tell your Honour. I therefore beg of you to write to the said officer, to Mr. Gambier, and to me, upon this business, agreeable to what I have mentioned above; then will my business be done, I shall look upon you as having effected it, and by it your name will be exalted. I hope the above mentioned letters will come soon, and you may depend upon my keeping them a profound secret; which I have no doubt will also be done on your part. I have sent to Luxanam Appajee a copy of my letter to Jaffarood Dowleet Bahadre, that he may shew it to your Honour. The Nabob of this place refuses to pay the amount of the Chout due to me; he wants a general release from my Camawisdar of my Chout in full, and then he will pay him a fourth part thereof. Although I am in the greatest want of money, I cannot get my just demands paid me; and Mr. Gambier does not interfere therein. The Nabob being under your protection, I cannot force him; therefore, request you will write to Mr. Gambier and the Nabob about this business.

APPENDIX, No. 130.

Governor General—As it appears to me inconsistent with the character of the Supreme Government, 1st. To continue a series of verbal disputations, much more to descend to its own justification with its inferiors, I submit it to the consideration of the Board, whether it would not be most becoming, as well as regular, to decline a reply to the strictures upon the Treaty which are contained in the letter from the President and Council of Bombay, dated 22d April, and merely to inform them, that we shall transmit them, with such remarks as we shall judge necessary, to the Court of Directors. As in many points my opinion agrees with that of the President and Council of Bombay upon this subject, I conceive myself not competent to answer their arguments, but shall leave it to such of the Members of the Board as may conceive themselves more immediately affected by the objections urged against the Treaty.

2d. I offer it as my further opinion, that a Peace and Treaty having been concluded with the Maratta State, the President and Council of Bombay should be informed, that we are determined to abide by the former, and the conditions of the latter, and that they should be peremptorily enjoined to abstain from every act that may be construed an act of hostility against the Marattas, and that upon the grounds we forbid their giving any protection to Ragoba's army, or to any part of it, or to allow it to encamp within any part of the Company's territories, as this could not fail to be imputed to them as a breach of the 12th Article of the Treaty.

3d. I offer it as my further opinion, that the assurance of our neutrality required by Ragoba, in the case of his accepting the offers of assistance made him by Nizam Ally Cawn, should be given to him, as it may prove the most likely means of inducing him to relinquish the protection of the British flag; and further, because I see no great cause of apprehension from his alliance with Nizam Ally; but the contrary, since it might eventually prove an impediment to his contracting the like engagements with Hyder Ally, who appears to have been even to the last the warmest friend of his party.

4th. I offer it as my further opinion, that the President and Council of Bombay should be authorized to restore to Ragoba the jewels deposited by him as a pledge in the hands of the Chief of Surat, as the engagement for which they were pledged has been set aside, and the charges of the war have in effect been transferred by the 6th Article of the Treaty from Ragoba to the acknowledged Peishwa.

5th. I offer it further as my opinion, that as this Government supposes the supreme authority of the Maratta State to be united in, and represented by, the Peishwa, and the possessions reclaimed by Futty Sing are all stipulated either to be restored to the Maratta State, or to be ceded to the Company, the President and Council of Bombay should be directed to reject the pretensions of Futty Sing, to the restoration of the Guicawar moiety of the town and Pergunnah of Broach, and for the Pergunnah of Chickley, Verion, Batta, and the three villages in the Pergunnah of Chaneasy, as inadmissible; the rest of his demands respecting matters independant of the Treaty and depending on circumstances, of which we are furnished with no materials to form any judgment, no instructions are required from us upon these points, the President and Council of Bombay will of course settle them in the most equitable manner; these being all points of a political nature, contained in the letters from the President and Council of Bombay, I beg leave to state them as distinct propositions for the substance of the letter to be written in reply to them.

Fort William, 20th May 1776.

Mr. Francis—The preservation of peace in India has at all times been inculcated by the Company's instructions to their servants, and ought to be the constant object of the policy of this Government; to which a controlling power over the political measures of the other Presidencies was given, as I conceive, for this express purpo e. A steady adherenee to the pacific system we have hitherto purſued, ſeems particularly incumbent on us at the preſent ſeaſon, when our advices from Europe give us too much reaſon to preſume, that the nation is already in a ſtate of anxiety and alarm, in which every man, who has a juſt ſenſe of duty to his King and Country, muſt take part.

I ſhould depart as widely from the dictates of this general duty, as from the real and immediate intereſts of the Company, if I conſented to any meaſures, which, by hazarding the ſecurity of the Britiſh Empire in India, might increaſe thoſe difficulties which now ſurround the Councils of the Nation. If the peace with the Maratta State had been leſs advantageous than it is, I think that every conſideration of juſtice, policy, and expediency, obliges us to carry it ſtrictly into execution. The Preſidency of Bombay have thought fit to call it inglorious and diſhonourable. The whole ſtate of facts, from the taking of Salſette to this time, will enable the Court of Directors to determine, whether this peremptory declaration is founded on ſolid reaſons, or on a partiality to former engagements, and an inclination to continue the war, at all events, in ſupport of Ragoba. We are not bound to juſtify our conduct to them; and on this point I agree with the Governor General, that it would ill become the dignity of this Government to deſcend to an altercation with them. But I think they ſhould be told, that, as we are reſolved to adhere ſtrictly to the terms of the peace, and as we alone are reſponſible for the conſequences of that reſolution, they on the other hand are anſwerable for nothing but their obedience, which we expect ſhall be inſtant and implicit; and that we are determined not to ſuffer the deciſion of peace or war in India to depend on any authority but that to which it is committed by the Legiſlature.

The preceeding opinion agrees with that of the Governor General, ſtated in the ſecond propoſition, ſo far as it goes; but I am further of opinion, that as Ragoba has not diſbanded his army, (which until the receipt of the preſent letter I took for granted) we are expreſsly precluded, by the 10th Article of the Treaty, from giving him any aſſiſtance; and that therefore he ſhould be peremptorily required to quit Surat, and the Company's territories.

I certainly would not take a voluntary part in any quarrel between Nizam Ally and the Maratta State; but I think that our giving the propoſed aſſurances to Ragoba might be liable to inconveniencies. Since we are determined to detach ourſelves from all connection with him, I would not take any ſtep that might furniſh the Maratta Government with the leaſt colour for ſuſpecting our good faith.

I think it would be beneath the dignity of this Government to retain Ragoba's jewels on account of the expences of the war; but if any ſums of money have been advanced to him perſonally, thoſe jewels, or a ſufficient portion of them, ſhould be anſwerable for the debt.

I ſee no objection to the remainder of the Governor General's propoſition.

(Signed) P. Francis.

Mr. Barwell—I adopt entirely the Propoſitions ſubmitted by the Governor General to the approbation of the Board; they appear to me to have no other object than giving ſecurity to the Company, and inſuring a good underſtanding between the Maratta State and the Engliſh Government. I think the Article that propoſes the reſtoration of the jewels lodged by Ragoba, ſhould be qualified; for in caſe the Company have any demands upon Ragoba for money advanced him, the jewels are the only ſecurity they hold for the payment of ſuch loans.

Colonel Monſon—I agree with the Governor General in his Propoſition, that it would be inconſiſtent with the dignity of this Board, to enter into altercation with the Preſidency of Bombay, upon matters which depend entirely upon the authority of this Board; but I am for acquainting them that our ſentiments of the Peace will not be altered by their interpretation of the Treaty; that we ſhall ſtate our opinion of it to the Court of Directors, with our reaſons for the propriety and neceſſity of making it; that we require obedience from them in all matters; and that we ſhall deem them reſponſible to their employers, for an infringement of the late Treaty; and if they ſhould be guilty of a violation of it, that we ſhall be under the neceſſity of exerting the authority veſted in us; that we clearly perceive they are bent on war at all events, and will give a juſtifiable cauſe for the re-commencement of hoſtilities, by giving protection to Ragoba, when at the ſame time that they received him, he kept his army embodied within a few miles of Surat, on the frivolous pretence that they would not diſband for want of pay; the firſt inſtance I have ever heard given as a reaſon for an army remaining together; the want of it is commonly the cauſe of their diſbanding. Such excuſes will undoubtedly be regarded by the Miniſters as a violation of the Treaty, and they will in conſequence renew hoſtilities, in which meaſure they will be juſtified by the Treaty.

The ſecond propoſition is already anſwered in the foregoing.

To the third propoſition: the ſituation of Ragoba does not entitle him to make any ſuch requiſition of us. I think it would be impolitic to make a declaration on this ſubject, as I think it might be conſidered as an inference in his favour, which would be contrary to Treaty.

To the fourth: the jewels ſhould be reſtored to Ragoba, on his repaying the money which has been advanced to him on their ſecurity.

I agree to the fifth propoſition.

General Clavering—In anſwer to the repreſentation made to us by the Preſident and Council of Bombay, that the Treaty lately concluded by Colonel Upton is diſhonourable and inſecure; and in anſwer to the opinion, which they have offered to us, that there is no way of ſecuring a peace that ſhall be at the ſame time honourable and permanent, but by the Company interfering, and ſuffering their Preſidency to contract new engagements with Ragoba. I think we ſhould confine our anſwer to the following points:

That we will not enter into a conteſt with them, whether the terms of the Treaty be honourable or not; that we are anſwerable to the Court of Directors for the rectitude and expediency of our meaſures, and only require of them a ſtrict compliance with our orders; and further, that we ſhould obſerve to them that it would be impoſſible for this Government ever to eſtabliſh a peace that can be permanent, if the different Preſidencies under the controul of this Government ſhall think themſelves at liberty to cavil on the propriety of our meaſures, and refuſe directly or indirectly to execute our commands: that the peace with the Maratta Empire, which they violated by the taking of Salſette, and their ſubſequent engagements with Ragoba, was as permanent as any that we could poſſibly make, were even their wiſhes to be accompliſhed of eſtabliſhing Ragoba in the Peiſhwaſhip, without which they ſeem to think that no peace can be permanent; but that on this occaſion, we will not heſitate to declare to them, that the peremptory orders that we now give them, to avoid every thing which may impede the concluſion of the peace with the Maratta State, proceed as much from our adherence to the poſitive injunctions of the Court of Directors, as to the conſideration of the embarraſſments in which the Crown of Great Britain is now involved, which renders the Peace of India more expedient than ever: that it appears to us that the refuge which they have afforded Ragoba and his army at Surat, will from their own account be attended with the moſt dangerous conſequences, ſince they think it not improbable that the miniſterial army may attack that of Ragoba: that we hope that the regard to good faith, which

which the miniſters have ſhewn during the ſuſpenſion of arms, will ſtill continue, notwithſtanding the provocation they have received; but that we cannot poſſibly anſwer that they will perſevere to maintain that reſerve, when they perceive that the Preſidency of Bombay do not intend to perform the conditions of the Treaty on its part.

The ſecond propoſition is anſwered above.

The third: I cannot agree to this propoſition, becauſe we are engaged by treaty not to interfere in the diſputes of the Maratta Government.

To the fourth: That the jewels ſhould be reſtored to Ragoba, upon his paying the money for which they were pledged.

To the fifth: the Treaty concluded at Poonah has directed what ſhall be reſtored and what retained; the Government of Bombay itſelf has acknowledged the powers of the Peiſhwa over the countries poſſeſſed by the Guicawars, and as I acknowledge no other Peiſhwa than him who is in poſſeſſion of the Government of the Maratta State, my opinion is, that the Government of Bombay ſhould literally comply with the terms of the Treaty.

Agreed, That the Reſolutions of the Board be collected from the foregoing opinions, in the following Letter to Bombay:

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

We have received your letters of the 10th, 22d, and 24th ultimo, by the Drake.

We think it unneceſſary to enter into any diſcuſſion with you on the terms of the Peace lately concluded with the Maratta State; had they been leſs advantageous than we are aſſured they will appear to the Company, we deem ourſelves bound, by every conſideration of prudence, policy, and juſtice, to adhere ſtrictly to them. The preſervation of peace in India has been at all times the object of the Company's policy, and is particularly inculcated in their inſtructions to us. The difficulties with which, as you cannot but know, the Councils of the Nation are now ſurrounded, make it indiſpenſably our duty not to increaſe them at ſo alarming a criſis, by engaging in meaſures which may affect the tranquillity of the Company's poſſeſſions in this part of the world. We alone are anſwerable to the Company for the conſequences of the pacific ſyſtem which we are determined to purſue; you, on the other hand, are anſwerable for nothing but your compliance with our injunctions, which we expect ſhall be inſtant and implicit.

We do therefore hereby expreſsly direct, that you conform ſtrictly to the terms of the Treaty, as far as depends on your Preſidency, and that you carefully avoid any ſtep whatſoever which may give occaſion of diſtruſt or jealouſy to the Maratta Government.

We had no doubt that Ragoba would have diſbanded his army before he received protection in Surat, until the arrival of your letter of 22d April. The reaſons aſſigned for his not doing it, ſeem to us very unlikely to produce the effect you attribute to them. We have heard of Indian armies diſbanding for want of their pay, but never that an army unpaid had long kept together. At all events, your granting Ragoba the Company's protection under ſuch circumſtances, and ſuffering his army to remain encamped within the Company's territories, is directly contrary to the 10th Article of the Treaty, and has but too evident a tendency to diſturb the union which has been formed with the Marattas. Your own words are ſufficient to confirm us in this opinion. You ſay, that "it is not improbable that the miniſterial army "may attack them (Ragoba's army) and that dangers "and moleſtations are likely to enſue to the Compa- "ny's ſettlements." To prevent conſequences ſo hazardous to the intereſts of the Company, we direct that you peremptorily do require him forthwith to quit Surat, and to retire out of the Company's poſſeſſions.

Although it is by no means our intention to take any part in the quarrels between the Peiſhwa and Ragoba, yet we deem it impolitic and unneceſſary to give Ragoba the aſſurances which he has demanded from the ſatisfaction of Nizam Ally. Such a declaration would be productive of no good conſequence to us, but might raiſe ſuſpicions in the Maratta Government of our good faith towards them.

With reſpect to the jewels pledged by Ragoba, which he has now applied for, we deſire, that after liquidating out of them any advances that may have been made to him from the Company's treaſury, you will order the reſidue to be returned to him.

As we ſuppoſe and admit by the Treaty, that the ſupreme authority of the Maratta State is united in and repreſented by the Peiſhwa, and as the poſſeſſions claimed by Futty Sing are all ſtipulated either to be reſtored to the Maratta State, or ceded to the Company, we deſire you will reject the pretenſions of Futty Sing to the reſtoration of a moiety in the revenues of the town and Pergunnah of Broach, and his demand for the Pergunnahs of Chickly, Veriow, Batta, and the three villages in Chuneaſy, as inadmiſſible. The reſt of his demands reſpect matters independant of the Treaty, and reſt on circumſtances of which we are not furniſhed with any materials to form a judgment of; we muſt therefore, leave it to you to ſettle them in the moſt equitable manner.

We have taken care to prevent the conſequences which you apprehend will reſult from the meaſures we had adopted when we wrote to you on the 7th March, by deſiring the Chief and Council of Surat to deſtroy the letter written to Ragoba in caſe a Treaty ſhould have been concluded, and by ſuſpending the diſpatch of the letters we intended to write to the other Chiefs until we found it unneceſſary to diſpatch them.

We are, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 131.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 6th June, 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.

Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

RECEIVED the following letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Gentlemen,

The Peiſhwa has not yet been put in poſſeſſion of any of the Pergunnahs reſtored by the Treaty. It was neceſſary, it ſeems, that our troops ſhould remain in Guzerat, for the ſecurity of the Company's poſſeſſions in that province; they are diſpoſed of in Surat and Broach; the commanding officer at Surat, and Ragonaut Row with him there, and his troops are encamped all around it.

The Miniſters could not conceive that this was ſeparating from Ragonaut Row, or not taking part in the Maratta diſputes; they had authoriſed Hurria Pundit (their commandant) to receive the Pergunnahs that were to be made over. He wrote almoſt daily to Colonel Keating, to know when he might advance to take poſſeſſion of theſe diſtricts, and was as conſtantly anſwered, that he muſt remain where he was, and on no account advance; if he did, it would be a breach of treaty, and he muſt anſwer the conſequences; or anſwer to ſome ſuch purpoſe.

Thus

Thus foiled, the Miniſters complained heavily; they inſiſted on writing to the Preſidency of Bombay, that they might know, at a certainty, if the Articles of the Treaty were to be permitted to be carried directly into execution. The anſwer of that Board was to determine the part the Miniſters meant to take, as well as my longer ſtay at Poonah.

The Miniſters had certainly very juſt cauſe of uneaſineſs; they loſt their collections in general—they were obliged to keep up their army—they loſt great part of their collections throughout their whole country, and their influence was every where viſibly on the decline: they began to ſuſpect that we had brought them into this lull, to take the advantage of it. It is very certain the Sirdars in general ſaid the Peace was not a firm one, and that the Miniſters had been impoſed upon.

Their being put in poſſeſſion of their Pergunnahs, which I hope will immediately take place, will reſtore that confidence and ſecurity they have for ſome time paſt been deprived of.

The accompanying letters and papers will inform you, Gentlemen, fully and progreſſively, how the delays have been occaſioned—To theſe permit me to refer you.

I incloſe the ſubſtance of a meſſage in confidence, to be made known to the Supreme Council only. It is a moſt vague, ſcandalous ſcheme, and even their ſincerity in it, greatly to be doubted. The vackeel inſiſted on its being forwarded to the Board. May I requeſt you will pleaſe, Gentlemen, to give me a few lines in anſwer, for the Nabob. The knowledge of this intended enterprize may be of material conſequence.

I am collecting and comparing Futty Sing's Sunnuds, &c. and the letters from the different Sirdars, acknowledging their having received, and their obedience to the Treaty. Theſe I ſhall have ready to ſend off with the Treaty, which I propoſe doing by Lieutenant Paterſon, as it will not be ſafe truſting them to Hicarrahs in the rainy ſeaſon, and as Lieutenant Paterſon's ſervices will be very little wanted at that time here.

Since writing the above, I have received the Treaty executed by you, Gentlemen, with a letter, dated 1ſt April. I have no doubt but I ſhall be able to get the Miniſters to aſſent to the alteration you require. A duplicate of this letter of 1ſt April being alſo ſent, makes me conclude ſome other letter was intended, and this duplicate by miſtake put up inſtead of it. I ſhall this day forward the packet for the Governor and Council of Bombay.

Poorunder, I am, &c.
6th May 1776. (Signed) J. Upton.

Mirza Jan and Mahomed Afzil Khan delivered the following Meſſage from the Nabob Fazil Beg Khaun Daiſſa, on the part of the Nizam.

29th April 1776.

If the Engliſh are deſirous of placing Ragoba in Poonah in the courſe of the rains, I will join him with the Nizam's troops. In the mean time Ragoba, with the Engliſh army, ſhould proceed to Bombay, which is only about 40 coſs from Poonah, and prepare their ſtores, &c. On their informing me that they are ready, I will join them with all expedition, and when he is placed in Poonah, the Engliſh will have what they deſire, viz. Salſette, Baſſein, a country of twelve lacks, the Maratta ſhare of Broach and its Pergunnah, with a country of ſix lacks in the neigbourhood of it, and keeping poſſeſſion of the country granted by Futty Sing; alſo be paid a lack of rupees a month for the army, during the time it may be with Ragonaut Row, with the payment of the twelve lacks agreed to, by Siccaram Bapoo. Ragonaut Row agrees to grant to the Nizam a country of thirty lacks, the fort of Aſſeer, the city of Burhampore, and the forts of Shoulapore and Mulhere. The particulars of theſe places are known to Kain ud Dowlah Bahadar, Soubadar of Surat.

If the Colonel agrees to theſe terms, he will, under pretence of going to ſee the preſent treaty carried into execution, leave Poonah, and proceed to Ragoba at Surat, where every thing will be ſettled through Kain ud Dowla. The Colonel is to keep up the appearance of friendſhip with Sacaram Bapoo, till the rains come on. Moribba Pumavier is joined in the ſcheme of fixing Ragoba in Poonah—no doubt, he has before mentioned theſe matters. Appendix. No. 131.

The Engliſh muſt protect Ragonaut Row, till all theſe circumſtances are ripe for execution.

The Nabob has twelve thouſand horſe and twelve thouſand infantry, with thirty guns, ready to join the Engliſh and Ragoba when required, after which Hurry Pundit and Saccaram Bapoo, &c. will not be able to face us; and, with the Bleſſing of God, we will fix Ragonaut Row in Poonah without bloodſhed.

After Ragoba is ſettled in Poonah, the Nabob does promiſe to make him grant to the Engliſh Company Sunnuds for the Cattack Country, and relinquiſh all claims to the Chout.

The Nabob has poſſeſſion of the fort of Aumeer, about 20 coſs from Naugpore, and if the Bhonſula ſhould make any oppoſition, he engages to ſubdue him, with very little trouble to the Engliſh, if they will aſſiſt him with the following troops, viz. Three hundred Europeans, two thouſand Sepoys, and ſix guns from Maſulipatam. He will pay theſe troops for the firſt year 30,000 rupees per month; for the ſecond year, rupees 40,000 per month; for the third year 50,000, and for the ſixth year 60,000 rupees per month, until the Cattack country is in ſubjection.

As a ſecurity to the Company for the due performance of all theſe conditions, the Nabob Dhauſſa will give his Son as a hoſtage to be in the hands of the Engliſh, lodged in the houſe of Hauſſin Ally at Maſulipatam, till the whole is fulfilled; and the Company to be ſecurity that Ragoba will perform his engagements with the Nizam.

But on the other hand, if the Engliſh are determined to keep firm to the preſent Treaty, and decline joining Ragonaut Row, the following conditions are propoſed:

That for theſe two months, till the rains are fairly ſet in, the time is to be taken up in ſettling about Ragonaut Row with the Saccaram Bapoo, &c.; he (Ragoba) is to continue in Surat till Govinrow (who is alſo well affected to his cauſe) comes near that place, when the Engliſh are to remove him from themſelves, and he will immediately croſs the Tapty and Nurbudda with Govinrow. Hurry Pundit will not be able to purſue him acroſs theſe rivers till the rains are over.

After the rains are ſet in; the Engliſh ſhould diſcharge two battalions of Sepoys, which will be entertained by Ragoba.

Hulkar and Sindea are ſincerely diſaffected to Sicaram Bapoo and Bellajee Pundit, and have propoſed to canton near Auringabad during the rains, and that if I would join Ragoba they would.

It is required, that as ſoon as the Nizam my maſter takes Ragoba by the hand; the Engliſh will not, in any degree whatever, aſſiſt Siccaram Bapoo or Bellajee Pundit, or afford them protection, even were they to offer them fifty lacks in money, and a country of fifty lacks of rupees more.

This to be given under the ſignatures and ſeals of the Councils of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay. When this treaty is cloſed, I will in the end of the rains join Ragoba with the Nizam's army, and with the Bleſſing of God fix him in Poonah.

But if the Colonel ſhould not agree to ſpin out the time as above, till the rains ſet in, or to Ragonaut Row's remaining in Surat until he could join Govinrow, or to diſcharging the two battalions of Sepoys, Ragonaut Row ſhould be embarked in a ſhip, and ſent to Maſulipatam, there to remain until I ſend for him, which I will do as ſoon as the above treaty, ſigned by the Surat Councils,

Appendix. No. 132.

Councils, arrives to my ſatisfaction, and place him in Poonah by the aſſiſtance of the Nizam's army.

If Sacaram Pundit and Bellajee Pundit ſhould ſay to the Colonel, It is agreed upon between you and us, that if Ragoba will not diſband his army, and reſide on the banks of the Gunga, the Engliſh are to ſeparate from him, Why don't you act accordingly? The Colonel muſt reply, That Ragonaut Row came under our protection, which we cannot refuſe him: but if he raiſes any commotions you muſt chaſtiſe him. The Engliſh will not aſſiſt him.

I ſhould now be able to place Ragonaut Row in Poonah, and the Miniſters could not prevent it; but the intention is, to ſecure the engagements of the Engliſh againſt aſſiſting or protecting them, as no other power will venture to do either.

After Ragonaut Row is ſettled in Poonah, I will be anſwerable for his duly fulfilling all the Articles of of the treaty entered into by Sicaram Bapoo and Ballajee Pundit alſo granting Sunnuds for the Cattack country, and relinquiſhing the Chout.

The Cattack country will be put in poſſeſſion of the Company, on their ſending troops, &c. as already mentioned. My ſon will be given as a hoſtage for the due performance of the conditions of the ſecond propoſal.

In a former treaty, it is agreed between the Engliſh and the Nizam, that the friends and enemies of one, ſhall be the ſame to the other. It is requeſted, that the Engliſh will be attentive to their former engagements, and now confirm them, and not join or aſſiſt any power on which he makes war.

If the Nizam ſhould carry Ragoba to Poonah, the Engliſh Company are not to give any aſſiſtance to Sicaram Pundit and Bellajee, or any of Row Pundit Pardhan's officers, nor take any part in the war; were they to offer them fifty lacks of rupees, and a country of fifty lacks of rupees more, no aſſiſtance or protection muſt be given them.

It is requeſted Colonel Upton will write to the Supreme Council of Calcutta, and get a treaty under their ſignatures and ſeals to that purpoſe.

(Signed) A^n Macpherſon, Perſ^n Interpreter.

The ſubſtance of Colonel Upton's reply to the Meſſage ſent by the Nabob Fazil Beg Cawn Dhauſſa, 29th April 1776.

If the Nabob had not joined the miniſterial army, and had ſent a vackeel to him on his arrival at Burhampore, or immediately after his arrival at Porrunder, it might have been productive of much better terms for the Company from the Miniſters, and the Nizam's treaty with them might have been ſecured to him: but the Nabob having joined Hurry Pundit with 24,000 men, and 30 guns, after his arrival, made the Miniſters talk high and indifferent to peace or war, conſequently the Colonel found much difficulty in ſettling a peace with them. Their coming now, after the Peace is eſtabliſhed with the Miniſters, to propoſe an alliance ſuch as is now offered, is ſo diſhonourable to the Engliſh, that he muſt decline agreeing with them in any one part of the terms they propoſe. That he would, agreeable to the Nabob's deſire, keep it a ſecret, and write to the Supreme Council; but he would not have the Nabob flatter himſelf with their doing any one thing to the prejudice of the Treaty they had lately entered into; and that he could aſſure him, they would not commit any action that would reflect diſhonour on themſelves or their Country.

APPENDIX, No. 132.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 20th June, 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant-General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

READ again, the letter and incloſures from Lieutenant Colonel Upton, recorded in Conſultation the 6th inſtant,

Reſolved, that the following letter be written to Lieutenant Colonel Upton:—

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 6th ultimo.

Although we approve of the anſwer which you gave to the propoſal delivered to you on the part of Fazil Beg Cawn, yet we wiſh that you had avoided giving ſo much countenance to it as you did, in promiſing to tranſmit it to us; you would have done well if you had peremptorily rejected it. For the future we direct that you hold no kind of communication or correſpondence, either with Nizam Ally Cawn, or any agent in his behalf, or, indeed, with any other foreign Prince or Power, during your continuance at Poonah, as ſuch an intercourſe would not fail to excite the jealouſy of the Maratta Government. The Preſident and Council at Bombay, in a letter dated 24th April, adviſed us of a requiſition made to them by Ragoba, which appears to have an intimate relation with the propoſals delivered to you by the emiſſaries of Fazel Beg, and was probably an effect of the ſame concealed plan. The words of their letter are—"Ragoba has alſo acquainted us, that he has received promiſes of aſſiſtance from Nizam Ally Cawn, upon condition that we will engage not to aſſiſt the miniſterial party, and therefore requeſted we would give him an aſſurance to that effect." In reply to this paragraph, we told them, that "although it was by no means our intention to take any part in the quarrel between the Peiſhwa and Ragoba, yet we deemed it impolitic and unneceſſary to give Ragoba the aſſurances which he had demanded for the ſatisfaction of Nizam Ally: ſuch a declaration would be productive of no good conſequence to us, but might raiſe ſuſpicions in the Maratta Government of our good faith towards them."

We have given you the above extract from our letter to the Preſident and Council at Bombay in this place, as it may ſerve you for a general rule, to be applied to every ſimilar caſe that may occur during the time of your Negociations. You will receive with this a copy of our letter 20th May, wherein this ſubject is contained.

As Ragoba refuſed to be a party in the Treaty, and has declined to accept the conditions ſtipulated for him in it, we have no right to complain of the deſign declared by the Miniſters to diſperſe his army; we hope, however, that the Preſident and Council of Bombay will have taken precautions to obviate an event ſo diſcreditable to their Government as the execution of this meaſure, whilſt Ragoba's troops remain within the Company's poſſeſſions, by formally requiring their removal from thence before any hoſtilities had taken place between the contending parties.

You do not inform us whether the letter you received from Lieutenant Colonel Keating, of which you complained to the Government of Bombay, had been written in reply to one from you, or what was the cauſe of it—we ſhould be glad to be informed of this circumſtance.

We are pleaſed to obſerve, in your letter to Bombay, dated the 4th May, that you had obtained an order for the reſtitution of the veſſels which had been taken upon the Maratta coaſt, and that the Miniſters diſavowed having given any directions which could have authoriſed the ſeizure of them.

We are, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 133.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 6th June 1776.

Extract of a letter from the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members Select Committee at Bombay, to Colonel Upton; dated 16th April 1776.

WE acted agreeable to the dictates of honour and humanity in affording the Company's protection to Ragoba, when he ſolicited it, and apprehended the ſafety of his perſon would be endangered by accepting terms ſtipulated for him without his authority or conſent; and we think the ſolicitude of the Miniſters to get him into their power evince the juſtice of his apprehenſions. His reſiding in one of the Company's ſettlements will be a much better ſecurity againſt his forming intrigues to the prejudice of the Miniſters, than we conceive their proteſtations would prove for the ſafety of his perſon was he to put himſelf in their hands. The letter from the Governor General and Council, dated the 20th October, is a ſufficient warrant, and we cannot allow that our merely giving him a ſanctuary is either an infringement of the Treaty, a new engagement with Ragoba, or taking any part in the Maratta diſputes.

Ragoba is ſo largely in arrears to his army that he will find the utmoſt difficulty in prevailing upon them to diſband. By our laſt advices the Company's forces were arrived at Domus, near Surat Bar, for the purpoſe of embarking for the Preſidency, but on account of the numerous bodies of forces in the Neighbourhood of Surat and Broach we have ſince thought it expedient to give orders for quartering them in thoſe garriſons during the approaching monſoons, to preſerve the Company's territories from moleſtations.

The communication with the Maratta dominions is ſtill kept ſhut, and all intercourſe rigorouſly prohibited, though the Company's forces have been ſome time within their own diſtricts. We do not think this ſhews any diſpoſition in the Miniſters to be upon terms of friendſhip with us, &c.

We have within theſe few days received a letter from the Governor General and Council, wrote upon a ſuppoſition that your negociation had been broken off and hoſtilities renewed. We at the ſame time received copy of a letter they had addreſſed to Ragoba, offering the alliance of the Company, and the aſſiſtance of their arms to fix him in the ſeat of his Government at Poonah. tranſcripts of both which we think it neceſſary to incloſe for your information.

By theſe letters the Govenor General and Council ſhewed the ſtrongeſt determination to proſecute the War with the utmoſt vigour, in conjunction with Ragoba, rather than make a Peace upon terms not honourable and advantageous; and it appears to be evidently their intention that the conditions for Ragoba ſhould have been ſuch as he would himſelf approve, and which would have inſured his future ſafety and welfare. We ſhall expect applications from Ragoba in conſequence of this letter.

Extract of a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton to the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee of Bombay; dated 22d April 1776.

The Miniſters abſolutely refuſe opening the commution into their country, till the army of Ragonaut Row ſhall be diſbanded or ſeparated entirely from the Engliſh.

The letter you have received from the Governor General and Council was in conſequence of my letter to them on the 7th of February. I had previouſly adviſed of the terms I ſhould inſiſt on ſtipulating for the Company. If the Miniſters refuſed theſe, the negociation was entirely to have been broken off. In conſequence of this refuſal the letter of the 7th February was written with my fulleſt remarks. I had no doubts if the Peace had not taken place, that the moſt vigorous meaſures would have been purſued to have ſecured an honourable Peace; there appeared no alternative, it muſt have been made ſword in hand. Appendix. No. 133.

You are already acquainted, Gentlemen, with my ſentiments regarding Ragoba's reſiding in any of our ſettlements. The Miniſters now inform me, that his army is in the neighbourhood of Surat. If this is true, it ſtands thus: Our army is in the Guzerat province (to this ſeparately there can be no objection;) the commanding officer, (and I preſume the greateſt part of the army) is in Surat; Ragonaut Row alſo with him there, and his army under cover of this garriſon.

I hope, and am almoſt perſuaded, there can be no truth in this information. It is expreſsly contrary to the true meaning of the 8th and 10th Articles of the Treaty. As I have repeatedly given my opinion on this ſubject, I ſhall not in future preſume again to oppoſe it to yours; but you will pleaſe to obſerve, that I muſt bear no part of the blame ſhould this mode of carrying theſe two Articles of the Treaty into execution, be attended with any deſtructive conſequences.

The accompanying paper, containing a converſation that paſſed laſt night with a perſon deputed by the Miniſters, will acquaint you better than I can otherwiſe do, with the ſenſe they entertain regarding the carrying into execution the Articles of the Treaty.

Copy of a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton to the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee of Bombay, dated 26th April 1776.

The Miniſters have requeſted of me to forward to you the copies of two letters received by Hurria Pundit from Colonel Keating.

The Miniſters have now got beyond complaining; they threaten; and I conclude will not wait many days longer inactive, if the Articles of the Peace are not permitted to be carried into execution. They are not only loſing their collections in the Guzerat province, but their influence throughout their whole country. Were they to attempt taking poſſeſſion of the reſtored Pergunnahs, they ſuppoſe it would occaſion ſome diſturbances between their troops and Ragonaut Row's, who are in the very neighbourhood of theſe Pergunnahs. This they ſay would be of little conſequence; but as the Engliſh troops are alſo near, and Ragonaut Row with them, of more fatal conſequences. They wait your reply to my letter of the 22d, and will then come to ſome determination.

The following is an extract of a letter I received yeſterday from Lieutenant Colonel Keating:

"It ever affords me the utmoſt ſatisfaction to engage in any buſineſs that redounds to my country's honour, and the intereſt of my honourable employers; but for reaſons that muſt be obvious to you, I muſt decline adviſing Ragonaut Bajerow to accede to the terms ſtipulated for him.

"Prior to our taking any part in the Maratta diſputes, Ragonaut Bajerow oft-times rejected terms preferable to thoſe the Miniſters now offer him. Before we gained any advantage over the confederate army, one of the agents made a propoſal for his being Regent, provided the Engliſh would guarantee their employments and property. This too he poſitively refuſed.

"During the life of Madow Row Peiſhwa, Ragonaut Bajerow declined a ſettlement of ſixteen lacks of rupees per annum, beſides the poſſeſſion of thirty-two forts, becauſe there was tacked to it a clauſe ſimilar to that of reſiding on the banks of the Gunga, which he eſteems as nothing leſs than a priſoner at the devotion of his enemies.

"It is at Ragonaut Bajerow's requeſt I now write you; and which I the more readily do, ſince Huria Punt Furkea, in one of his late letters to me, wiſhes to be informed which part of the Treaty Ragonaut Bajerow objects to, and what he wants. He objects to every part and point of the Treaty, and has appealed to the Supreme Council of Calcutta, the Honourable Company, and to his Majeſty, for redreſs; but as a long time muſt conſequently elapſe before a deciſion can be known, during which a proviſion for his maintenance is neceſſary, and being deſirous of preſerving the friendſhip of the Engliſh Nation, and avoiding a war ſo deſtructive to the Maratta Empire, and to commerce in all its branches, he is therefore come to this final reſolution, To accept either of the two following conditions, until an ultimate ſettlement takes place: the eſtabliſhment offered him by Mhadow Row Peiſhwa, with the difference of reſiding under the Engliſh protection; or the Poonah Shaw of the Guzerat province in its ruined ſtate.

Appendix. No. 133.

"If theſe conditions are agreed to, Ragonaut Bajerow is determined to remain in perfect tranquillity, until all matters are regularly ſettled, but if they are refuſed, to ſupport his juſt rights in the beſt manner he is able."

The army being withdrawn, I did not conceive Colonel Keating had any further part to take in the buſineſs of my deputation, as I never was informed by you, Gentlemen, that he was appointed to aſſiſt in carrying any part of the Treaty into execution. As this, however unknown to me, muſt have been the caſe, I am greatly ſurprized to find the executing or declining what you may have directed, has been ſo optional to the Colonel as the firſt paragraph of the extract plainly ſhews, the whole of which I cannot well comprehend.

The whole of this extract requires your conſideration, as an immediate war between the contending Maratta parties ſeems inevitable, without the ſpeedy exertion of your Preſidency. I am ſuſpected by the Miniſters of being privy to the deſigns of Ragonaut Row; nay, they now ſuſpect the Supreme Council muſt have had views further than to treat with them by all this delay, &c. and they have not the leaſt doubt of Ragonaut Row's receiving from Bombay every aſſiſtance.

My arguments, my aſſertions to the contrary, have loſt all their force: The conſtant anſwer is, Why the delay in carrying the Articles into execution? why do our troops all remain in Guzerat, Ragonaut Row received into Surat, and his troops encamped around it?

As I think myſelf no longer ſafe at Poonah, I have to requeſt the favour of your calling a Board and coming to ſome immediate determination reſpecting the making over the country, reſtored by the Treaty to the Peiſhwa in the Guzerat province. I ſhall impatiently wait the reſolutions of your meeting, which will determine my longer continuance or immediate departure from the place.

I have, &c.

26th April 1776.

Extract of a letter from the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay, to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated 27th April 1776.

Our troops have been long ago ſeparated from Ragoba's army, and have no connection with it; therefore, according to the promiſe of the Miniſters, we have a right to expect the communication being immediately opened.

We aſſure you, that it is entirely contrary to our inclination or deſire, that Ragoba's army continues ſo near to Surat; and we are very anxious to remove them, if we knew how to effect it. Directions will be ſent to the Chief and Council at Surat, to repreſent to him in the ſtrongeſt manner the impropriety of his troops remaining in their preſent ſituation, and to inſiſt upon their being removed to a proper diſtance; but from his preſent circumſtances we are apprehenſive little regard will be paid to his orders.

We remain in our opinion, that our giving Ragoba and his domeſtics an aſylum, is not contrary to any Article of the Treaty; His army continuing ſo near one of our ſettlements is, as we before ſaid, entirely againſt our inclination, and we will do all in our power to remove them. Any conferences he may have with Colonel Keating, can be of no conſequence, as the latter is entirely under the orders of the Chief and Council at Surat, and is now ſhortly expected at Bombay.

We hope you will not give the ſmalleſt degree of credit to the information of the Miniſters, that Ragoba has been ſupplied with guns and military ſtores; as we never gave the leaſt authority to Colonel Keating or any other perſon for that purpoſe.

They complain, without reaſon, of the Pergunnahs not being reſtored according to the Treaty; it is entirely their own fault that they have not received them long ago, as we ſent orders on the 16th of laſt month, to the Councils at Surat and Broach to evacuate them whenever perſons properly authorized on the part of the Miniſters came to receive them. For your ſatisfaction, we incloſe copies of theſe orders, which we know have been received at both ſettlements; and by the beſt advices, dated the 11th inſtant, from Broach, and the 20th from Surat, no agents had then arrived from the Miniſters for the above purpoſe. Colonel Keating had nothing to do with the Perguānahs.

Copy of a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton to the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee at Bombay, dated 4th May 1776.

Gentlemen,

I received your letter of the 27th ultimo, two days ago, and acquainted the Miniſters with ſuch parts of it as concerned them; viz. that their not having poſſeſſion of the Pergunnahs reſtored by the Treaty, was owing to their agents, who had not preſented themſelves to receive them: that orders had long ſince been ſent to the Chiefs of Surat and Broach, to give theſe Pergunnahs up, whenever they were demanded by perſons properly authorized by the Miniſters to receive them: that it was entirely contrary to your inclination, and without your concurrence, that Ragoba's army continued ſo near to Surat.

The incloſed copy of a letter from the Peiſhwa will inform you with their determination reſpecting Ragonaut Row's troops, which is to wait fourteen days, and then order Hurria Pundit Furkia to diſperſe them. They wait fourteen days, that yet ſufficiently longer time may be had to diſband them, and that they may avoid incurring the puniſhment they will be liable to, if found in arms after that date.

I have, &c.

Extract of a letter from the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay, to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated 1ſt May 1776.

However, to leave the Miniſters without the ſhadow of a plea for complaint, we now incloſe freſh orders for the reſtitution of the Pergunnahs in Guzerat, which you will pleaſe to deliver to them; and we have ſent directions to the Chief of Surat, to make the ſtrongeſt remonſtrances to Ragoba, on the impropriety of his troops remaining in their preſent ſituation, and to inſiſt upon their being removed.

The extract you have inſerted from Colonel Keating's letter appears to be an anſwer from one to you, which we have never ſeen. He never had any inſtructions from us to authorize him to write to you in the manner he has done, or to take any part in the buſineſs of your deputation, as you ſeem to take for granted.

It appears by the incloſed extract of a letter from Ragoba, that he has got ſome intimation of the late intentions tions of the Governor General and Council in his favour, and we conclude the Miniſters muſt have received the ſame intelligence; which, with the motives aſſigned in our laſt letter, will eaſily account for their late conduct.

Part of a converſation that paſſed laſt night between Colonel Upton and* Mhaderow Sadaſhew (on the part of the Miniſters) 22d April 1776.

Mhaderow complained heavily, that the Articles of the Treaty were not carried into execution on the part of the Engliſh; on the contrary, that Ragonaut Row was in Surat, and his army round the walls; that Colonel Keating was daily in conference with Ragoba, who was furniſhed with powder and all other military ſtores, even guns; that the Engliſh had not reſtored the Pergunnahs, &c. ceded by Ragoba, agreeable to the Treaty; and that all the Guzerat country was deſtroying and burning: that the Miniſters were deſirous of knowing what the Colonel ſaid to all theſe circumſtances, and what was to be done.

The Colonel replied, Some of theſe were circumſtances he was perfectly acquainted with, and that he was very much concerned to ſee them: but what they mentioned relative to military ſtores, &c. muſt be impoſſible; but that he had done every thing which depended upon himſelf, viz. concluding a Treaty of Peace with the Marattas on the part of the Engliſh, and making the repreſentations of the Miniſters as well as his own, of the full ſenſe and meaning of that Treaty, to the Governor and Council of Bombay; but that it was the buſineſs of the two Governments to carry the Articles into execution, which he made no doubt would be the caſe on the part of the Engliſh if they would have patience; and that he could aſſure them the peace was very firmly eſtabliſhed; but that he could not be anſwerable for the conduct of other people, which the Miniſters ſeemed to think, and had blamed him accordingly. —Yeſterday he (Colonel Upton) ſent to inform them that the Governor and Council of Bombay had adviſed him, that they had given Ragonaut Row protection in Surat; at the ſame time they wrote to him to aſſure the Miniſters that he could not cauſe any commotions in the Marratta State whilſt he remained under the Company's protection, and that they would only admit his family and domeſtics; that his army being round Surat was by no means by choice, but they were ſo much in arrears they would not diſband; further, that the Governor and Council of Bombay aſſured him that they would carry the Articles of the Treaty into execution without delay. If the Miniſters were not ſatisfied with this, they ſhould write the Colonel a letter that ſuch and ſuch Articles of the Treaty were nor carried into execution, and what they meant to do.

Mhaderow declared they would write no more letters on the ſubject, for they found no advantage from thoſe they had wrote; but that the Miniſters were deſirous of knowing what the Engliſh were determined to do, for their army had been idle at a lack of rupees a day for theſe ten months paſt, owing to the letters from Calcutta and the Colonel's arrival; and that now there was a heavy loſs to Government in the revenues of Guzerat not being collected; and that the Engliſh muſt not be ſurprized if they made the twelve lacks pay for part.

The Colonel ſaid, he could not help obſerving the Miniſters themſelves were in a great meaſure inſtrumental in many of the delays they urged againſt the Engliſh, by being conſtantly in the fort on the hill; I never giving him an opportunity of conſulting with them on any buſineſs. That it was now about a month ſince he had ſeen either of them, whereas it was his opinion they ſhould ſee one another very frequently till the buſineſs was over, even once a day if it appeared at all neceſſary; and that he would according to their repreſentations write to Bombay as often as three times a day if required.

Mhaderow ſaid that they were nowiſe dependant on the Engliſh; that he did not ſee the neceſſity of their meeting ſo often, as they neither expected or aſked any thing from them but to fulfil their engagements; that they were ill-treated by the Engliſh, for the Council of Bombay appeared to be preparing to do every thing in their power to take an opportunity of ſeizing upon more of the Maratta dominions: whether the Governor General and Council and the Colonel were concerned they could not pretend to ſay; but if the Supreme Council had not ſufficient authority over the Governor and Council of Bombay, ſo as to have their orders through the Colonel obeyed, they ſhould not have interfered, but have left them and the Government of Bombay to ſettle their own differences; but on the other hand, if the Colonel had power veſted in him, he ſhould either go to Bombay or depute a proper perſon to know the occaſion of delay to carrying the Articles into execution, and afterwards proceed to Surat, &c. to ſee them carried into execution; without which he was ſure nothing could be done, for Hurry Punt Furkia had wrote twenty letters to Colonel Keating about ſeparating from Ragoba with the Engliſh army, and to beg to be informed when he marched, that people might be ſent to take poſſeſſion of the country to be reſtored, and that he might be left to ſettle with Ragoba if he did not retire to Cooper Gang as agreed upon. That the only anſwers he could get to his letters were, deſiring him to continue with his army where he then was; that Ragoba was diſcharging his troops, and if he (Hurry Punt) marched with his army to diſturb them, it would be breaking the peace with the Engliſh. That theſe were ſuch evaſive anſwers as ſhewed little diſpoſition to amicable terms.

The Colonel declared to him, that he had acted all along upon the ſtricteſt honour with them in every reſpect; and that he again aſſured him that the Peace was firmly eſtabliſhed on the part of the Engliſh, which they would find if they would wait a little, the Articles being carried into execution; that however they might ſuppoſe themſelves ill-treated, he thought it nevertheleſs their buſineſs as well as that of the Engliſh to do every thing in their power to eſtabliſh the Peace, and in the mean time to forget as much as they could their grievances.

The Colonel aſked, When they had received a letter from Hurry Pundit? and begged to ſee the laſt. Mhaderow

Appendix. No. 133.

* On the firſt arrival of Colonel Upton at Poorunder, Mhaderow Sedaſhew was appointed by the Miniſters to reſide near him, and to tranſact any buſineſs between the Miniſters and the Colonel; and that whatever he ſaid or did was to be looked upon as ſaid or done by the Miniſters, in the fulleſt ſenſe.

row replied, They received them daily, and would ſend one of the laſt; but no good effects were expected from letters; they were afraid they would at laſt be reduced to the neceſſity of following the example of Hyder Ally, who ſecured his Peace with the Engliſh in a very honourable manner to himſelf.

The Colonel obſerved to him, that ſuch converſation was rather improper. He replied, It might be ſo; but he muſt obſerve to him, that it was the intention of the Miniſters, ſhould the war again take place, to carry fire and ſword throughout the whole of the country poſſeſſed by the Company in India, and entirely lay it waſte, be the conſequence ever ſo fatal to themſelves.

APPENDIX, No. 134.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 3d July 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Philip Francis, Eſquire.
Mr. Barwell indiſpoſed.

RECEIVED the following letter from Colonel Upton:

To the Honourable the Governor General and Council, Fort William.

Gentlemen,

I did myſelf the honour to write to you laſt on the 6th inſtant.

The Miniſters have conſented to omit the 13th and 17th Articles, and the concluding words of the 7th Article, and have ſigned the Treaty, which will be ſent in a few days by Lieutenant Paterſon, as I adviſed in my letter of the 6th.

They requeſted on their part that a few alterations might be made. I informed them, that the Treaty being executed by the Supreme Council, it was impoſſible for me to make or admit of any alterations. They therefore write to you, Gentlemen, requeſting this; but their principal motive is to continue the correſpondence about negociating for an exchange for Salſette: this they have much at heart, and I am perſuaded will offer largely to effect. They mean to ſend a vackeel to Calcutta, a man of more than uſual conſequence, with full power reſpecting this exchange: they intend he ſhall reſide always at Calcutta, as they expreſs a very great deſire of having a firm and laſting friendſhip with the Engliſh. May I be permitted to expreſs my wiſh, that in reply to their letter you will acquaint them their vackeel ſhall be received, and his propoſals heard; for though an exchange ſhould not take place, yet it will have the good effect of knowing how far it might anſwer to the Company, and will keep the door open for further conferences if neceſſary; it will alſo ſoften a number of rather diſagreeable circumſtances that have happened, and reſtore a confidence with Bombay, which is much required. I have to beg, Gentlemen, you will excuſe my having on this occaſion expreſſed my wiſhes; they are ſubmitted altogether from obſerving the neceſſity of harmony being reſtored between the Preſidency of Bombay and the Marattas.

The alterations the Miniſters wanted ſhould take place in the Treaty (which, as I could not comply with, they inſiſted I ſhould write to aſk might be granted) were in the third Article, the words "ſubdued by the Engliſh in this war," as they declare they were not at war with the Engliſh when theſe iſlands were taken. They want any other words rather than taken in war, or in this war. this had been diſcuſſed a hundred times before, and I had convinced them, that expreſſing it in other terms could not be admitted, more particularly as we did not know the Maratta names of the ſmall iſlands in our poſſeſſion in the Bay of Bombay, nor did they know nor would conſent to our inſerting the Engliſh names; that theſe iſlands had certainly been taken in war, and in this war for there was no ſeparating or making two wars of it; and further, to what purpoſe to them could tend the alteration, as they were now, as much as they then could be, at liberty to treat about theſe iſlands.

In the ſixth Article they ſay, the words "in part of "the expences of the Engliſh army" imply that ſome further ſum on that account remains due; this had alſo before been repeatedly matter of debate. I have quite ſatisfied them by ſigning a paper, that the true meaning of the ſixth Article is, that the Peiſhwa will have complied with his obligation reſpecting it when the 12 lacks are paid: in this Article therefore, now, no alteration is required; though a reply to their requeſt reſpecting the third Article may be neceſſary.

The Miniſters are adviſed by Hurry Pundit, that the greateſt part of Ragonath Row's troops have joined him: this has made them very happy, as they now expect ſoon to ſee an end to their diſturbances; for they conclude orders will ſoon arrive to forbid Ragonath Row's reſiding at any of the Engliſh ſettlements.

I incloſe extracts of letters from Hurry Pundit to the Peiſhwa, received about ſix days ago by which you will perceive they had then much cauſe of uneaſineſs.

The Miniſters required in no other manner to be put in poſſeſſion of the Pergunnahs to be reſtored to them than by our evacuating them, but they were not able ſecurely to take poſſeſſion whilſt our army was in the field, and Ragonath Row's not diſbanded, and remaining with or near the Engliſh troops.

You will pleaſe, Gentlemen, to direct where or to whom the 12 lacks of rupees, towards defraying the expence of the war, are to be paid. It was agreed to receive this money in Putachaule rupees, the current rupee of this country, which is in general here ſomewhat better than the Arcot rupee.

Some further papers are expected from Futty Sing; as ſoon as theſe arrive Lieutenant Paterſon will receive his diſpatches. I hope to have the pleaſure to acquaint you by him, that the Articles of the Peace have been all (except that of the 12 lacks) carried into execution.

I have juſt received the incloſed note; it is the firſt intimation I have had of Succaram Baboo's intention of retiring: I imagine (as he is old and infirm) he takes this method of letting Morobah Furnice ſucceed to his appointments, who has all along declined taking any ſhare in the buſineſs of Government with Succaram Pundit. It is evident, therefore, they look on their diſturbances as nearly at an end.—Permit me to requeſt you will forward theſe paſſports and letters as ſoon as convenient; I ſhould ſuppoſe they would not ſet out on their journey till the beginning of November. The name of the late Peiſhwa Madowrow's mother is Goupkaboy, and ſhould be inſerted in her paſs.

I have the honour to be, &c.

Poorunder, 27th May 1776. (Signed) J. Upton.

Reſolved, that the Board cannot conſent to any alterations at this time in the Treaty, which are in themſelves of no conſequence, and which could not be made without cancelling the Treaty already ratified on both ſides.

Reſolved, that the following Letters be written to Colonel Upton, and to Bombay.

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

Since our letter to you of the 1ſt inſtant, we have received ceived advices from Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated 27th May; and in conſequence of his deſire, that we would determine the mode and place of payment of the 12 lacks of rupees, ſtipulated for the expences of the war, we have directed him before he quits Poonah, to ſettle for the payment of it at your Preſidency, at the periods when it ſhall become due; and to prevent any diſputes reſpecting the value of the coins, we think it neceſſary to deſire that you will take whatever money ſhall be offered you on this account, giving a receipt for the ſame, in the ſpecies in which it may be paid; and if you ſhall think that there is any deficiency in the amount, you will be pleaſed to report the ſame to us.

Fort William, the 3d July 1776. We are, &c.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We had written to you on the firſt inſtant; but before the diſpatch of our letter, we received your's of the 27th May.

We cannot now give our conſent to the alterations in the Treaty which the Miniſters have deſired, they are in themſelves of no conſequence, and if agreed to, muſt cancel the Treaty which has been already ratified on both ſides.

As we have already deſired you to inform the Miniſters, that we had reſolved not to accept their propoſition for an exchange of territory, in lieu of Salſette, Caranga, Hog, and Elephanta; and a declaration to that effect was added at the foot of the Treaty: we cannot enter into any further negociation with them on that ſubject; but as all our proceedings muſt be referred to the ultimate deciſion of the Honourable Company, they will ſignify their directions in conſequence. However, we ſhould deem ourſelves wanting in candour, to ſuggeſt to the Maratta Government expectations which we do not believe will be realized; we therefore deſire you will intimate to them our opinion, that the Company will never conſent to relinquiſh theſe iſlands.

We are much pleaſed with the intention of the Miniſters to ſend a confidential vackeel to reſide in Calcutta, and deſire you to encourage this intention, by the ſtrongeſt aſſurances of our wiſh to maintain the peace eſtabliſhed between us, to cultivate their friendſhip, and to remove every ſubject of doubt or diſtruſt that may ariſe on either part; and we think nothing more likely to contribute to this end, than eſtabliſhing a direct communication between us in the manner which they have propoſed.

Before you leave Poonah we direct, that you ſettle the payment of the 12 lacks of rupees to be made at the Preſidency of Bombay, as it becomes due.

We have applied to the Nabob Vizier, and to Rajah Cheyt Sing, for the paſſports deſired by Succaram Pundit for himſelf, and Goupkaboy the mother of the late Peiſhwa, which will be forwarded to you by Mr. Briſtow and Mr. Fowke. We deſire that when you deliver them, you will aſſure both theſe people of our protection, and every mark of attention and reſpect in our power, if they ſhall chuſe to reſide either in the dominions of our ally the Vizier, or in the territories dependant on this Government.

This reſolution of Succaram Pundit, to proceed to Benares, and to leave the chief direction of the Maratta Government in the hands of Moraba Furneſs, a perſon who is generally ſuppoſed to be in the intereſt of Ragoba, appears to us ſo ſtrange, that we cannot account for it. We deſire that you will furniſh us with your opinion of this meaſure, of Succaram's motives for it, and of the effects which are likely to be produced by ſuch an event.

We are, &c.
Warren Haſtings,
R. Barwell,
P. Francis.

APPENDIX, No. 135.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations the 24th July 1776.

RECEIVED the following letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton:

To the Honourable the Governor General and Council, Fort William.

Gentlemen,

Lieutenant Paterſon will have the honour to deliver the Treaty executed by the Miniſters.

The name of the Peiſhwa having been but once mentioned in the Treaty (in the preamble) and that not appearing in the Engliſh tranſlation, the words "Maratta State" having been ſubſtituted, I thought it neceſſary to inſert it a ſecond time; and, with the conſent of the Miniſters, have accordingly again inſerted it (where he is mentioned) in the laſt line but one of the preamble.

The ſeaſon is too far advanced to delay Lieutenant Paterſon's departure any longer, as intended, in expectation of receiving ſhortly more arreſts from Futty Sing, who is ordered to come without delay to Poonah; and is to bring with him all the papers that have any relation to the buſineſs yet unſettled in the Guzerat country.

I herewith forward articles of obligation between the Peiſhwa and Guicawar family; alſo a letter, &c. from Futty Sing; and letters from Sundia, and Tucogee Hulker, in reply to the circular letter ſent by the Peiſhwa, on concluding the peace.

The Peiſhwa is in poſſeſſion of all the Pergunnahs ceded by Ragonaut Row, that were to be reſtored by the Treaty, except Jambooſeer, which we are to remain poſſeſſed of, until the country of three lacks is made over.

My laſt letter to the Board was dated 27th May, but not diſpatched until the 1ſt inſtant, owing to the Peiſhwa's delaying the Cauſſeds.

I have the honour to be, &c.
Poorunder, June 3d, 1776. (Signed) John Upton.

Ordered, That the Treaty be depoſited among the records in the Secretary's Office; and that the other Perſian papers be ſent to be tranſlated: and,

Agreed, That the following reply be ſent to Colonel Upton.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 3d ultimo, by Lieutenant Paterſon, with the Treaty, and the other papers which accompanied it.

In our letter of 1ſt July, we directed you to proceed to Bombay, and on your arrival there to uſe your endeavours to complete what ſhould remain to be executed of the Treaty; this done, we ſee no cauſe for your continuing longer at that place, but deſire that you return to this Preſidency by whatever route, whether by land or by water, you may prefer. If you ſhould chuſe to return through Poonah, you will not fail to repeat to the Peiſhwa and his Miniſters, in our name, the ſtrongeſt aſſurances of our reſolution to maintain the peace concluded with them, and to preſerve every condition on our part inviolate.

It did not occur to us, that, according to the univerſal practice of the Eaſt, a return of preſents would have been tendered to you by the Court of Poonah, on your departure from it; nevertheleſs, it may not be yet be too late, to inform you of the conduct which we wiſh you to obſerve on ſuch an occaſion. Although you are precluded by the law from accepting of preſents for your own uſe, yet as preſents have been made on the part of the Company, we ſhall approve of your accepting, in like manner, of any which ſhall be made to you from the Miniſtry at Poonah, in the name and on behalf of the Company.

Appendix. No. 136.

We deſire you will make the like aſſurances of friendſhip on our part, to any Chiefs of the Maratta State whoſe dominions you may paſs through, in caſe you ſhould reſolve to return by land.

APPENDIX, No. 136.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 22d July 1776.

RECEIVED the following letter from Bombay:

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Council at Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Since our laſt of the 10th ultimo, we have received your ſeveral letters, dated the 12th and 26th February, 11th and 16th March, and 16th April, with the conſignment of treaſure by the Indian Queen, and the bill incloſed in the laſt-mentioned letter.

This is chiefly to acquaint you, that on the ſhip Hodges we now return the detachment of Europeans under the command of Lieutenant Taylor, having ſhipped on board forty days proviſions for their uſe, as per incloſed account. We requeſt your Honour, &c. will ſettle with the commander for the paſſage of this detachment.

Ragoba's army is entirely diſbanded, and he is now in Surat, with two hundred only of his domeſtics and ſervants. We have ſtrongly urged to Colonel Upton to uſe his endeavours to induce the Miniſters to aſſign him a ſuitable eſtabliſhment to relieve the Company from the heavy expence they will otherwiſe incur by his maintenance.

The communication with the Maratta dominions ſtill remains ſhut, notwithſtanding the promiſe of the Miniſters that it ſhould be opened as ſoon as the Company's forces had retired into their own diſtricts.

By our advices from Surat and Broach, we conclude that the reſtitutions ſtipulated by the Treaty are by this time made.

We are, &c.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, dated the 5th Auguſt 1776.

Received the following Letter from Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

We incloſe a duplicate of our laſt letter, dated 10th inſtant, and have ſince had the honour to receive your letter, dated the 21ſt March, incloſing an extract from your Minutes of Council reſpecting the allowances to be made to the Bengal detachment.

This detachment we returned by the Hodges, as before adviſed, and we found the expence of the Madras battalion ſo great a drain upon our treaſury, and having no certainty of ſpeedy aſſiſtance from your Honour, &c. ſince you have been pleaſed ſo peremptorily to forbid our drawing upon you, that to prevent the inconvenience to which we might otherwiſe be expoſed, we determined to ſend back this battalion likewiſe, and a conſiderable part thereof has been already embarked, and the remainder will very ſhortly proceed.

We incloſe copy of a letter from Colonel Upton, received ſince our laſt, and of our reply, and we doubt not your Honour, &c. will concur with us in opinion, that there appears in the whole of this Gentleman's correſpondence, a too great readineſs to liſten to the trifling complaints of the Miniſters, and a want of confidence in our repreſentations.

Sudaba ſtill continues to the ſouthward, being prevented from advancing by the monſoon; he has lately ſent two vackeels here to requeſt the Company will aſſiſt him with a battalion or two of Sepoys, and a ſupply of ſmall arms. He ſays Ragoba's cauſe and his are the ſame, and that his object is to deprive the Miniſters of the power they have ſo unjuſtly uſurped, and to reſtore the family of Badjerow to their juſt rights. Sudaba is now in poſſeſſion of great part of the Conkan country, and his army is ſaid to conſiſt of about 18,000 men. We ſhall ſhortly write your Honour, &c. more fully on this ſubject.

Shortly after the return of Colonel Keating, we thought it incumbent upon us, in conſequence of your letter of the 11th March, to call upon him to explain the attack of Ahmedavad, and the circumſtance of two of the Company's cannon being employed upon that ſiege after the ceſſation of arms had taken place. Incloſed is a copy of his reply, which with our letter to him, dated 20th October, formerly tranſmitted, we hope will clear up this affair to your ſatisfaction.

Colonel Upton's letter will inform you, that the Miniſters have at laſt given orders for communication being opened between the Company's ſettlements and the Maratta dominions, but they have ſo long deferred it, that it will be of little advantage to our commerce till the opening of the ſeaſon.

We have the honour to be, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 30th June 1776. (Signed) Wm Hornby, &c. Council.

Ordered, That the incloſures be entered after the Conſultations.

Continuation of the correſpondence with Colonel Upton, from the 10th June.

To the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letter of the 2d inſtant.

The Miniſters have repeatedly declared, that they will ſtrictly obſerve the obligation they have engaged in reſpecting Ragonaut Row, but they will not make or admit of any alteration therein. I am afraid I have not ſufficient influence here to get his ſtipulated allowance, or any part of it paid, unleſs he complies with the conditions on which it was granted; I ſhall however try all in my power to effect this. The Miniſters have conſented, and given orders accordingly, to open the communication on the 18th inſtant, obſerving the ſame cuſtoms and duties as heretofore.

I have this inſtant received a letter from the Miniſters, acquainting me, that they are informed by Hurria Pundit that a thouſand cavalry, a thouſand other people with artillery, elephants, camels, horſes, &c. have been received into Surat with Ragonaut Row. I hope this is no more than report; and have to requeſt, Gentlemen, you will write me, that I may ſatisfy the Miniſters accordingly.

They adviſe me alſo, that a man, who calls himſelf Sadaſhow Row, is raiſing diſturbances in the Cokun country. I acquaint you with this to prevent the inconveniencies that might otherwiſe happen on the firſt opening of the communication.

The Miniſters further inform me, that Hurria Pundit had a vackeel at Surat, who has been ordered to retire. They wiſhed and hoped that the eſtabliſhment of the peace would have been ſucceeded by a full confidence and friendſhip. I have the honour, &c.

Poonah, June 1776. (Signed) John Upton.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have received your letter dated the 13th inſtant.

We ſtill hope you will meet with ſucceſs in your endeavours to obtain the ſtipulated allowance for Ragoba.

The Miniſters have ſo long deferred opening the communication, that the Company will not derive any commercial advantages from it this ſeaſon.

The fears of the Miniſters make them very ready to adopt ſuſpicions of our conduct upon every occaſion, and we could wiſh you would not ſhew ſo much attention to their frivolous complaints that reſpect us. We incloſe an extract of a letter from the Chief of Surat, which will remove all doubts reſpecting the number of people received into Surat with Ragonaut Row, but we know nothing of Hurria Pundit's vackeel being ordered to retire from thence. We are ſenſible the Miniſters entertain a belief that the Company approve of our ſupporting Ragoba, and that we ſhall renew the war in his favour after the rains; and through this medium do they view all our actions.

Two vackeels arrived here on the 17th inſtant from Sadaſhew Row; and we apprize you of this circumſtance, as we ſuppoſe the Miniſter's fears will inſtantly be alarmed; but you may aſſure them, that we ſhall not purſue any meaſures in conſequence that may be repugnant to the late Treaty, and which indeed is the proper anſwer to return to all their complaints.

Bombay Caſtle, We are, &c.
20th June 1776. W^m Hornby, &c. Council.

APPENDIX, No. 137.

Copy of the 48th paragraph of the ſeparate letter to Bengal, dated 15th December 1775.

BY this conveyance we tranſmit you copy of advices received from our ſervants at Bombay, relative to the capture of Salſette and Caringa, and to the ſubſequent ceſſion of thoſe places to the Company by Ragoba the Maratta Chief; and although the materials before us do not enable us to give you particular inſtructions on every point relative to thoſe important events, we however approve, under every circumſtance, of the keeping of all the territories and poſſeſſions ceded to the Company by the Treaty concluded with Ragoba; and direct that you forthwith adopt ſuch meaſures as may be neceſſary for their preſervation and defence.

Extract Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 3 July 1776.

Read again, the 48th and 49th paragraphs of the Company's general letter in the ſecret department, dated 15th December 1775.

The Board having, ſo long ago as the 31ſt May 1775, unanimouſly declared their opinion, That the Treaty formed by the Preſidency of Bombay was invalid; and having in conſequence of that reſolution concluded and ratified a Treaty in the name of the Company with the Miniſters of the Maratta State, are no longer at liberty to carry into execution the intentions of the Court of Directors, expreſſed in the 48th paragraph of their letter, by keeping all territories and poſſeſſions ceded to the Company by the treaty concluded with Ragoba, ſince many of thoſe territories have been ceded to the Maratta Government by the above Treaty with them, and cannot either be retained or reſumed conſiſtently with the public faith of this Government, except in the caſe of a direct violation of the Treaty on the part of the Marattas.

The Board are further of opinion, That the preſence of Colonel Upton at Poonah is no longer neceſſary; and that his ſervices may be more effectually employed at Bombay, for the accompliſhment of what yet remains to be carried into execution of the Treaty on both ſides, than by a longer reſidence at Poonah.

It is therefore reſolved, That the following letter be written to Colonel Upton. Appendix. No. 137.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We are of opinion, that your reſidence at Proondur is no longer neceſſary; but that your ſervice may be more uſeful at Bombay, in promoting the accompliſhment of ſuch Articles of the Treaty as remain ſtill to be carried into execution; we therefore direct, that you demand your immediate diſmiſſion from the Peiſhwa's Court, and proceed to Bombay as ſoon as you can with convenience, after the receipt of theſe our orders. You will inform the Miniſters, that we have judged your preſence to be no longer neceſſary at Proondur, as your interpoſition may be more effectually employed with the Preſident and Council at Bombay, in urging them to a ſpeedy compliance with the conditions of the Treaty, which remains to be accompliſhed on their part, and which we are ſorry to ſee have been ſo long delayed. You will alſo formally require of the Miniſters, to put the Government of Bombay in poſſeſſion of the territories, which are ſtipulated by the Treaty to be ceded to the Company, and to ſettle a proviſion for the payment of the ſix lacks of rupees, which, by the 6th Article of the Treaty, will become due on the 1ſt September next; but you muſt not expreſs or ſhew any diſtruſt of their intentions, nor ſuffer any thing which they may ſay to you in reply to your requiſitions, to induce you to defer your departure from Proondur. On your arrival at Bombay, you will exert your endeavours to effect the concluſion of the different Articles required by the Treaty, and remain there till further orders, to carry on, any negociations which may be neceſſary with the Miniſters.

Fort William, We are, &c.
1ſt July 1776.

Reſolved, That a copy of the 48th paragraph of the general letter, and of the above reſolution, be tranſmitted to the Preſident and Council of Bombay with the following letter:

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident, &c. Council at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

We have received your letter of the 18th May. The Honourable the Court of Directors having ſignified to us by the Greenwich their orders in conſequence of the capture of Salſette, and of the Treaty which at the date of your advices to them you were negociating with Ragoba, we think it proper to incloſe a copy of theſe orders for your information, and of the reſolutions which we have come to, on reading them.

As the Treaty of Poonah has not left us at liberty to follow the apparent intentions of the Court of Directors on this occaſion, we leave you to act agreeable to our reſolutions, which will point out the plan we have judged it neceſſary to adopt in conſequence of their directions; to which we muſt add, that if you ſhall not have put the officers of the Peiſhwa in poſſeſſion of the diſtricts ceded to the Maratta State by the 7th Article of the Treaty, before the receipt of this letter, we peremptorily repeat our injunctions, that you cauſe theſe diſtricts to be delivered up immediately, and that you admit of no further delay in this point, or in executing any Article that remains unaccompliſhed on your part, but obſerve with the moſt ſcrupulous fidelity every condition required of you by the Treaty.

Colonel Upton, whom we have recalled from Poonah, has been ordered before his departure, to require of the Miniſters the punctual execution of the ſtipulations on their part; but if they ſhould evade complying with his demand, or be guilty of any acts of hoſtility, we direct that you take no ſteps of your own authority to retaliate the injuries or affronts which may be received from them or their dependents, except you ſhall be compelled to it in your own immediate defence, but that you give us the earlieſt information, and wait for our inſtructions; contenting yourſelves in the mean time by amicable remonſtrances to the Miniſters to endeavour to obtain a ſuitable redreſs.

We have directed Colonel Upton to proceed to, and continue at, Bombay till further orders, that he may finiſh any negociations with the Miniſters which remain unſettled at the time of his departure. We recommend him to your attention; and as we have not communicated to him the orders of the Company, and the meaſures we mean to purſue, we requeſt that you will impart them to him on his arrival at your Preſidency.

We are, &c.

Fort William, 1ſt July 1776.

Mr. Barwell—I have no particular objection to the Reſolution of the Board, as far as it binds this Government to pacific meaſures: policy in the preſent ſituation of the Company's affairs requires it, and I think our utmoſt endeavours ſhould be uſed to ſecure the advantages expected to reſult from the Treaty concluded with the Poonah Miniſters; but I mean not, by ſubſcribing to this reſolution of the Board, to allow that this Government is not at liberty to adopt hoſtile reſolutions, and to ſeize the firſt opportunity that offers to execute the Company's intentions.

APPENDIX, No. 138.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 8th July, 1776.

READ, a letter from Mr. Tayler, as follows:

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Council at Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I have received from your Secretary a copy of the 48th paragraph of the Honourable Company's commands of the 15th December laſt, and of your reſolutions in conſequence of them.

With reſpect to the firſt, I can only ſay, that, in my conception, nothing can more forcibly expreſs their ideas of the ſituation in which they wiſhed to ſee their affairs in the weſt of India; and it is therefore with infinite concern I lament, that the Treaty concluded by Lieutenant Colonel Upton with the miniſterial confederacy, leaves them ſo widely diſtant from that ſituation. With the former orders of the Company before them, and this ſtrong confirmation of their ſentiments, I doubt not but the Government of Bombay would wiſh to bring them as near to it as ſuch part of the territories ceded by Ragoba, that remain in their poſſeſſion, will admit; and if they are deterred from ſo doing, by your declining that aſſiſtance enjoined by the orders of the Company, it is you alone who muſt be anſwerable for the conſequences.

In my own juſtification, I think myſelf bound, in behalf of the Honourable the Court of Directors, and the Bombay Preſidency, to remonſtrate and proteſt againſt your non-compliance; eſpecially as the conduct of the Miniſters, ſince the ſigning and concluding of the Treaty on the 1ſt of March, by having in the month of April taken ſeveral veſſels with our paſſes and colours (and ſome of them from under the convoy of the Terrible bomb ketch, whoſe captain is now here in command of the Drake) by their not having permitted any intercourſe or communication with Bombay till the 19th May, the date of my laſt advices, nor having till that time ſent any perſons to deliver the lands to be given in exchange for thoſe ceded to us by Ragoba, gives you as fair an opportunity as can be deſired, of placing matters on the reſpectable footing ſo much wiſhed for by our Honourable Maſters, inſtead of the very contrary one they are placed in by the Treaty negociated by Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

I muſt here beg leave to recall to your recollection the Treaty concluded by the Government of Bombay with Ragoba, and approved by you and their ſuperiors, the Honourable the Court of Directors; and contraſt it in a few inſtances with that negociated by Lieutenant Colonel Upton. By the Bombay Treaty, Ragoba, the rightful Peiſhwa, makes over to the Company for ever certain appointed diſtricts, the revenues of which amount to rupees 19,25,000, and with the villages of Corial, Chickly, Veriow, and Arnood, and the Chout of Surat, ſince obtained from him and Futty Sing, to about rupees 23,00,000 per annum; all which they were in poſſeſſion of, except Baſſein, eſtimated at 4 lacks; Lieutenant Colonel Upton obtains from rebels, who you are pleaſed to term the Poonah Government, ceſſions, ſome of them very vague, to the amount of rupees 9,50,000. The Bombay Treaty ſecures a laſting peace to the Carnatic and theſe provinces: Lieutenant Colonel Upton leaves them to be plundered and laid waſte, as ſoon as the rebels may find it convenient. The Bombay Treaty provides for and ſecures, by actual poſſeſſion of lands aſſigned for the purpoſe, the entire expence of the war in favour of the lawful Prince: Lieutenant Colonel Upton is content with the promiſe of 12 lacks, which will be about half the amount, and no ſecurity at all; and to conclude the hiſtory of Lieutenant Colonel Upton's Treaty, it is made with a man, (Saccaram Bappoo) who is immediately about to reſign his ſhare in the adminiſtration to Morabah Furneeſe, a declared partizan of Ragoba's, and retire to Benares, to paſs the remainder of his days under your protection.

I have only further, Gentlemen, to urge you to reconſider the groſs indignity you are offering to the Preſidency of Bombay, by directing that Lieutenant Colonel Upton ſhall reſide there, for the purpoſe of concluding whatever may remain unfiniſhed of the Treaty; and I beg you to recollect, that the Company have appointed a Select Committee there, expreſsly for conducting all political meaſures; and that by their having excluded you, ſince the Act of Parliament took place, from having any interference in reſtoring the King of Tanjore to his dominions, it is evidently their intention that you ſhould not interfere in the manner you think yourſelves entitled to do, in the affairs of the other Preſidencies; and from the very great difference in the ſentiments of the Court of Directors and your's, on the Treaty with Ragoba, it is alſo evident the Bombay Council have acted conformably to their repeated inſtructions and wiſhes, and ought not, if in compliment only to the Court of Directors, to be ſubjected to the diſgrace you are about to attempt to inflict on them.

I have the honour to be, &c.

Calcutta, the 5th July 1776. (Signed) W. Tayler.

The above letter having been ſent in circulation immediately after its receipt, the following opinions were returned upon it.

In anſwer to Mr. Tayler's letter, wherein he ſays he thinks himſelf bound in behalf of the Honourable Court of Directors, and the Bombay Preſidency, to remonſtrate and proteſt againſt our non-compliance with the orders of the Company, my opinion is, That we ought to deſire him to produce the powers with which he is veſted on the part of the Honourable Eaſt India Company, to authorize him to proteſt againſt the acts of this Government.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

Agreed. (Signed) P. Francis.

Mr. Tayler ſhall be required to produce the powers and authority to the Board, which entitle him to remonſtrate ſtrate and proteſt, on behalf of the Honourable the Court of Directors and the Bombay Preſidency, againſt the acts of this Government.

(Signed) Geo. Monſon.

Mr. Tayler has certainly exceeded the authority delegated to him by the Preſident and Council of Bombay, and indeed any which they could give; but I think it not unneceſſary to propoſe the queſtion to him which is the ſubſtance of the above minutes, as the Board well know, that he has not the powers alluded to in them; and in my opinion, the dignity of Government would be beſt maintained by a direct cenſure, than by the implication of it.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings.

Mr. Barwell—The Preſident and Council of Bombay expreſsly deputed Mr. Tayler, a Member of their Board and of their Select Committee, to this Government, for the ſole purpoſe of engaging its concurrence to the political meaſures, which were adopted at that Preſidency, to ſecure the proſperity and future welfare of the Company's ſettlements on the weſt ſide of India. Mr. Tayler has been received as the public Deputy of that Government, in behalf of which he now acts, and in ſupport of a policy, that a majority of this Board totally condemn; how far Mr. Tayler may be blameable in his repreſentations, I for my part will not pretend to decide, but leave to the Company to determine on the propriety of this addreſs now under conſideration, and whether it is conſonant to their views. I apprehend the paſſing a cenſure on Mr. Tayler by this Government is unwarrantable, and I judge unbecoming in the preſent inſtance, becauſe in ſo doing we vindicate opinions contradicting the ſenſe of the Company, who have approved of the Maratta War—a war that under any other circumſtances than the preſent, we muſt have countenanced and proſecuted; and which I fear will be revived by the Marattas at a period when we ſhall be deprived of that faction in their State, which now favours the Prince with whom we were lately in alliance.

I reluctantly add a ſhort obſervation on the preceding minute, ſolely for the purpoſe of obviating any miſconception of the opinion given in mine. The cenſure which I thought the Board might with propriety paſs on Mr. Tayler, was not for any ſentiments expreſſed by him, concerning the late Treaty, or the laſt orders of this Board, but for the tone of authority which he has aſſumed in his addreſs to the Board; in this he is ſurely wrong. Upon the former I did not mean to offer an opinion.

(Signed) Warren Haſtings.

Agreed, that the following letter be written to Mr. Tayler:

To Mr. Tayler.

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 5th inſtant. You inform us, that "In your own juſtification you think "yourſelf bound in behalf of the Honourable Court of "Directors, and the Bombay Preſidency, to remonſtrate "and proteſt againſt our non-compliance with the orders "of the Company."

We deſire you will be pleaſed to inform us, by what power or authority you deem yourſelf entitled to proteſt in behalf of the Court of Directors and the Preſidency of Bombay, againſt any act of this Government; and that, if you are poſſeſſed of ſuch power and authority, you will communicate to us the inſtruments or inſtructions which veſt you therewith.

As ſoon as we receive your anſwer to this enquiry, we ſhall conſider what reply it may be proper for us to make to the remainder of your letter.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Philip Francis, Eſquire,
Mr. Barwell indiſpoſed.

Read the following letter from Mr. Tayler:

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Council at Calcutta.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Yeſterday evening I received your letter of the 8th, and in reply do myſelf the honour to acquaint you, that I have been deputed to this place by the Honourable the Governor and Council of Bombay, who are the repreſentatives of the Company on that ſide of India, being appointed a Government on their behalf to conduct their affairs there, they cannot be ſuperſeded without altering the form of Government eſtabliſhed by the Company. I conceived the appointed of Lieutenant Colonel Upton to reſide at Bombay and to treat publicly, independent of them, to be a direct ſuperceſſion of that Government. In their letter of the 22d Auguſt they acquaint you of their having appointed me to repreſent to you at large the particular intereſts of that Preſidency, and as their Deputy and as a Member of that Government, I could not but be ſenſibly affected at ſuch a meaſure, and thought it my duty to remonſtrate.

As the orders of the Honourable the Court of Directors for maintaining the ceſſions made by Ragoba have not probably reached Bombay by this time, either by the way of Aleppo or Madras, and the Governor and Council, who will conceive themſelves fully authorized, will think it their duty to act immediately in obedience to thoſe orders, and muſt have taken meaſures accordingly before the receipt of your late directions for a contrary mode of conduct. I conſidered the embarraſſment they may ſuffer under ſuch circumſtances, and I thought it incumbent on me to urge you in the ſtrongeſt manner to alter your reſolutions; and I can with the greateſt truth aſſure you that I am actuated by no other motives than the zeal I entertain for the honour and intereſt of our employers, and the reputation of that Government of which I have the honour to be a Member; had I neglected to act as I have done I ſhould have expected their ſevereſt cenſure.

I muſt beg leave to add, that I am convinced, from the actions and declarations of Succeram Baboo, &c. ſince the Treaty, that it is not their intention to obſerve it longer than may ſuit their own convenience; and that if a proper truſt was repoſed in the Governor of Bombay, the Company's views on that ſide might ſtill be obtained with great facility; under the preſent circumſtances they will be obliged to ſubmit to every inſult, except an open attack, in any of the ſettlements for the ſpace of three months, which will be required to receive your determination.

It may be alledged, in favour of continuing the powers veſted in Lieutenant Colonel Upton, that the Miniſters will be averſe to negociate amicably with the Government of Bombay, but as a Treaty is now concluded with them, I cannot deſire a ſtronger proof of their unfriendly diſpoſition.

Calcutta, I have the honour to be, &c.
10th July 1776. (Signed) William Tayler.

Read again, the letter from Mr. Tayler, recorded in the laſt Conſultation.

Agreed, That the following reply be written to Mr. Tayler:

To Mr. Tayler.

Sir,

We have received your letter of this day.

Appendix. No. 138.

In your addreſs of the 5th inſtant, you declared yourſelf bound to proteſt and remonſtrate in behalf of the Court of Directors, againſt our non-compliance with their orders. In your preſent letter, you have not only dropped the word proteſt, but even ſhifted the object of your remonſtrance. Colonel Upton's continuance in a public character at Bombay has no relation to the point on which your proteſt was founded; neither have you produced any powers from the Company for making that or any other declaration in their behalf, againſt an act of this Government. We conclude, that ſuch powers have not been delegated to you, and that in aſſuming them you have acted without authority.

We ſhall avoid entering into an argument with you upon the general ſubject of your proteſt. We cannot, however, paſs unnoticed, the appellation of rebels, by which in your letter of the 5th inſtant, you repeatedly deſcribe the Government of Poonah. The Members of which that Government is compoſed are the ſame perſons with whom the Preſidency of Bombay entertained a Reſident, and whom they acknowledged, even after the recall of Mr. Moſtyn, as they informed us in their letter of the 31ſt December 1774, that, "the Preſident, "agreeable to their reſolution, would explain to the "miniſterial party at Poonah, the real motives for their "proceedings, and that they ſhould be aſſured in caſe "they gain the advantage in the preſent conteſt, by the "overthrow of Ragoba, that the Preſidency of Bombay "would reſign the Iſlands to them;" and finally, it is with theſe perſons that this Government hath negociated, concluded, and ratified a Treaty, by which the Preſidency of Bombay is bound, and for which we ſhall be anſwerable to the Court of Directors.

We do not underſtand to what order you allude, when you ſay that "ſince the Act of Parliament took place, "the Court of Directors have excluded this Govern"ment from any interference in reſtoring the King of "Tanjore to his dominions," nor conſequently can we admit the inference you draw from that order, "that "it muſt be their intention we ſhould not interfere in "the manner we think ourſelves entitled to do in the "affairs of the other Preſidencies." Your deciſion on the Company's intentions with reſpect to the diſpoſition of Tanjore, ſeems to us not leſs arbitrary and unauthoriſed than your proteſting without powers in behalf of the Court of Directors, againſt the acts of this Government. We alſo are of opinion, that you have equally miſtaken the inſtructions and wiſhes of the Court of Directors, previous to their directions of the 15th December laſt; and in ſupport of our opinion, we refer you to their letter of the 12th April, 1775, to the Bombay Preſidency, in which you will find the following paragraphs:

Par. 43. "There is no part of your conduct more "reprehenſible than that of engaging without abſolute "neceſſity, in military expeditions; the large ſums "which have been expended at Broach, and on the "Coolies, are an immediate inconvenience to the Com"pany, and the conſequences of your proceedings em"barraſſing in the higheſt degree; and after ſucceeding "againſt the place, it is mortifying to obſerve that our "affairs are in a much worſe ſituation than they were "before thoſe expeditions were undertaken, as we do "not find that the charges incurred in conquering the "country, and the expences of keeping the conqueſt, "are likely to be defrayed from its reſources in a rea"ſonable time, without oppreſſing the inhabitants."

Par. 53. "It is with much concern we learn from "your records, that we are not likely to obtain "Salſette from the Marattas by negociation. We how"ever, diſapprove your reſolution to take poſſeſſion of "that iſland by force, in caſe of the death or depoſition "of Ragoba, and hereby poſitively prohibit you from "attempting that meaſure under any circumſtances "whatever, without our permiſſion firſt obtained for "that purpoſe."

Prior to the receipt of a copy of this letter from the Court of Directors, we acted in obedience to their general inſtructions for the preſervation of the peace of India; but ſince that period theſe orders have been the more immediate guide of our conduct with reſpect to the object in queſtion.

With regard to the orders tranſmitted to Colonel Upton, our declared intention was, that he ſhould remain at Bombay to complete any Articles of his negociation with the Government of Poonah, which he might leave unſettled at the time of his departure; he is the immediate agent of this Government, and was deputed expreſsly on that ſervice; our employing him to conclude it at Bombay, could not be meant, nor ought to be deemed a ſuperceſſion of that Government; and if you conſider the offence which the State of Poonah hath juſtly taken at their receiving Ragoba with his army within the boundaries of Surat, after the concluſion of the Treaty, and the impoſſibility, from this circumſtance, of their deputing any perſon to Bombay, to carry into execution the Articles of the Treaty which were to be performed on their part, you cannot but ſeriouſly approve of a meaſure which places a Miniſter from this Government between your Preſidency and them, to effectuate thoſe ends which probably could not be attained by that Preſidency alone, without ſuch an interpoſition.

Mr. Tayler ſends in the following letter:—

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, &c. Council at Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

The 13th inſtant, in the evening, I received your letter of the 10th.

From a due deference to your opinion, it gives me much concern that you ſhould conclude I have acted without authority, in proteſting againſt your not complying with the orders of the Honourable the Court of Directors, dated 15th December, 1775, for keeping, under every circumſtance, all territories and poſſeſſions ceded to the Company by the treaty concluded with Ragoba, and adopting all ſuch meaſures as might be neceſſary for their preſervation and defence; but as a queſtion, I preſume it ſtill remains to be decided, with reſpect to the propriety of it on my part, by that Government under whoſe authority I immediately act, and ultimately by the Honourable the Court of Directors.

In vindication of my deſcription of the preſent Government at Poonah, by the appellation of rebels, permit me to refer you to the fourth article of your inſtructions to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated 17th July 1775, which begins with this paſſage:—"Ragonath Row "is the Peiſhwa or Chief Ruler of the Maratta State, "but was obliged, by the miniſterial party at Poonah, to "quit that capital, and they have ſince proclaimed in "his ſtead, the ſon of Narain Row, the late Peiſhwa, "who is ſtill an infant." Allowing this infant to be the ſon of Narain Row, which, when I had the honour of attending you in Council I acquainted you Mr. Moſtyn was aſſured he is not, Ragonath Row, during the minority of his uncle, Mhadow Row, and father, Narain

Row, was Regent of the Maratta Empire. At his acceſſion to the Peiſhwaſhip, on the death of Narain Row, it reſted with him to continue or remove Saccaram Bapoo and Bellajee Pundit from their offices: he continued them, and they acted as his Miniſters for ſeveral months, and now withhold the Government from him. Under the ſanction of theſe circumſtances it is that I venture to deſcribe them by the appellation of rebels.

The Honourable the Governor and Council of Bombay of themſelves and through me, have repeatedly aſſured you, that you might depend on their ſhewing the ſtricteſt obſervance to any directions you ſhould be pleaſed to ſend them, relative to the Treaty which Lieutenant Colonel Upton has been employed to negociate. As the Repreſentatives of the Company on that ſide of India, I muſt ſtill think that confidence ought to have been placed in them, and am ſure they are on every account entitled to it; and from the miniſterial party having ſued to them for peace, I am fully perſuaded, that had you been pleaſed to repoſe the neceſſary truſt in them, it could have been long ſince ſettled on more reſpectable, advantageous, and permanent terms than it now is.

Calcutta, I have the honour to be, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 139.

From Ragonaut Row, received 14th November 1776.

I HAVE diſpatched to you ſeven or eight ſucceſſive letters, but have not to this time been favoured with an anſwer to either, which ſurprizes me; indeed, from remaining in expectation of an anſwer I have incurred a very conſiderable loſs; and being remedileſs I left Surat, and am arrived at the fortreſs of Dummen. I have received repeated letters from the Sirdars of Poonah, but being unwilling to conſent to any of the propoſitions without advice, I have returned no anſwer. I have been informed by my vackeel at Bombay, that the Gentlemen of the Council at Bombay and at Calcutta have been directed by the Company in Europe to ſupport me agreeably to the former engagement; and the Gentlemen of Bombay have written to Mr. Tayler, deſiring him to obtain the permiſſion of the Council at Calcutta for this purpoſe. This has conveyed to me the greateſt ſatisfaction. I remain at the kella of Dummen in expectation of an anſwer. It is incumbent on you and the Gentlemen of the Council in Calcutta, to afford me ſupport, conformably to the orders of the Company; and ſignify your permiſſion to the Gentlemen of Bombay for the continuation of the war, for the rainy ſeaſon is now expiring. You will thence evince the uniformity of the acts of the Nation, and your fraternal connection, and it will add vigour to our friendſhip.

I repeatedly addreſs you on the ſubject of my concerns, but receive no anſwer, at which I am ſurprized. I requeſt that you will be prompted by friendſhip to favour me with a reply.

I have written other particulars to Wunkut Row, my vackeel, who will explain them to you. I cheerfully repoſe implicit confidence in you.

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident.

General Clavering indiſpoſed.

Received the following letters from Lieutenant Colonel Upton:—

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letter of the 16th May, with the copies of the letters to the Honourable the Preſident and Council of Bombay of the 16th and 20th May, and the packet for that Board, which arrived at the ſame time, and was immediately forwarded. Appendix. No. 139.

The Miniſters expreſs great ſatisfaction at the aſſurances you have given them, regarding Ragonaut Row, and hope, in conſequence of them, ſoon to ſee their country in perfect tranquillity.

Another competitor for power in this country, has lately ſprung up. The account the Miniſters give of this man is as follows:—That about eight years ago a man was confined for calling himſelf Sedaſhee Row Bow, ſon of Chamagee Ophab, who was the brother of Bajee Row, Peiſhwa, Ragonaut Row's father. He was then led through and about the city of Poonah four different times, to ſee if any one could recollect in him Sedaſhee Row. As nobody could, he was ordered into confinement.

Sedaſhee Row was ſaid to be killed in the battle of Paneput againſt the Abdallahs fifteen years ago, but it ſeems his body was never found. This man, who has taken his name, lately found means to perſuade the Killedar of the fort, where he was confined, to releaſe him; the Killedar is alſo in rebellion. Sedaſhee Row, as he is called (or more generally the Bow) has collected eight or ten thouſand men, and has poſſeſſed himſelf of part of the Cockun country (which extends from Salſette almoſt to Surat) and is alſo in poſſeſſion of three or four forts. The Miniſters have ſent an army to diſpoſſeſs him, &c. but they ſay the rains are ſo heavy in that part of the country, that their troops cannot poſſibly act until the rainy ſeaſon is over. They tell me they deputed about a month ago two men who knew Sedaſhee Row, to go to this man's camp, and ſee if he was really the perſon he gave himſelf out to be; if ſo, theſe men were authorized to aſſure him of the friendſhip of the Miniſters, and to offer him on their part the ſhare in Government he required: but theſe two men on their arrival in the Bow's camp were immediately confined, and the Miniſters have never been able to get any reply from them.

The Miniſters ſay now, that they are quite eaſy about Ragonaut Row, and as their whole country will be fully aſſured of the part the Engliſh have taken, they ſhall ſoon quiet this rebellion: however if it ſhould prove, as this man aſſerts, that he is really the ſon of Chamagee Ophab, they declare they will give him the firſt office in the State.

I am able, Gentlemen, in this buſineſs to ſay little more than what the Miniſters have related; I ſee very few people, and theſe are always on their guard when with me; their Government is too abſolute for much freedom reſpecting it. The principal people amongſt them ſeem to think this man an adventurer; the lower claſs are aſſured of his being Sedaſhee Row, and wiſh to ſee him fortunate: at all events, ſhould he ſucceed to the governing power of this country, his confirming the late Treaty will be neceſſary, as the Peiſhwa is a minor.

Ballajee Pundit requeſts you will be pleaſed to favour him with paſſes, &c. for himſelf and ſuite, of the ſame kind and extent as Siccaram Baboo's; he intends taking the earlieſt opportunity of going to pray at Benares, &c. Maduro Shedaſhew, the Miniſter's principal agent in the late negociation, makes the ſame requeſt.

Madurow Sedaſhew has repeatedly requeſted of me to adviſe you, Gentlemen, of a perquiſite always claimed by the heads of particular offices on the concluſion of a Peace, and has related the many inſtances where it has been complied with. I always anſwered, that the Engliſh had no ſuch cuſtoms; but even if we had, as we have given up a great deal more country than we have received, we ſhould claim from them this accuſtomed perquiſite. I told him of the impoſſibility of my making an application of ſuch ſort; he has begged he might be permitted therefore to write to me on the ſubject, and wiſhed I would ſend the letter to the Supreme Council. The incloſed is his letter, and explains his claim better than than I can do. May I entreat you will be kind enough, Gentlemen, to furniſh me with a reply to his requeſt; he will then be ſatisfied.

I am in daily expectation of hearing from Bombay, what meaſures they have taken in conſequence of your orders to them regarding Ragonaut Row. Lieutenant Paterſon ſailed from Bombay the 14th laſt month. He had charge of the Treaty, which I hope has been ſafely delivered.

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letter of the 20th June. A packet which arrived at the ſame time for the Honourable the Governor and Council of Bombay, was immediately forwarded.

The propoſal from the Nabob Fazil Beg Cawn, was never intended to be put in execution, unleſs it readily met with my ſanction: in this caſe, the buſineſs preparatory to it was to be forwarding, and the approbation and orders from the Supreme Council were to be waited for. I told the Nabob's vackeel, that the engagements now entered into by the Engliſh, would be moſt inviolably adhered to; that as I had promiſed, ſo his maſter's propoſal ſhould be forwarded to Calcutta; but that the Nabob would eaſily conceive how ſuch an attempt on the honour and good faith of the Engliſh Nation would be received. And alſo aſſured the vackeel, that if I heard of any motions being made to forward the preſent ſcheme againſt this Government, during my reſidence at Poonah, I would immediately adviſe the Peiſhwa's Miniſters of their danger; but if (as he had moſt ſolemnly promiſed me) the Nabob did not interfere or endeavour to counteract the engagements entered into by the late Treaty, I would never take any further notice about it. He departed, aſſuring me, that the thought would be immediately dropped, on his delivering my anſwer to the Nabob.

I have never correſponded with any foreign Power, but at the requeſt of the Miniſters, ſince my reſidence at Poonah. The jealouſies of the Miniſters towards me have been long ſince removed. Untoward circumſtances have been continually happening, but theſe on my part have been ſo candidly accounted for, that the Miniſters are perfectly ſatisfied of the good faith of the Supreme Council; and that my conduct has been ſtrictly honourable.

I ſhall moſt attentively, Gentlemen, obſerve your directions, and neither write, nor otherwiſe correſpond, with any of the Country Powers, ſo as to occaſion the leaſt jealouſy to this Government. At preſent they rather betray fears of our being too well acquainted with the diſtracted ſtate of their country, than jealouſies regarding their contentions with Ragonaut Row.

Colonel Keating's letter to me of the 14th April laſt was not in reply to any letter of mine, but as the Colonel obſerves therein at the requeſt of Ragonaut Bajerow. I incloſe my anſwer; alſo a copy of the Miniſter's denial of their ever having made ſuch propoſals for Ragonaut Row as were ſet forth in that letter; the original (under the ſeal of the Peiſhwa) is with me. I alſo forward a letter from me to the Honourable the Governor and Council of Bombay, dated 21ſt May. I hope, Gentlemen, theſe will furniſh every particular you were deſirous of knowing.

There is little or no change in the affairs of Sedaſhew Row ſince I had the honour to write laſt (19 July). He ſeems rather to be gaining ground; and the people in general are more perſuaded of his being really the ſon of Chummagee Oppah. Neither party can do any thing until the rains are over.

I am daily expecting letters from Bombay; when theſe arrive, I hope to be able to adviſe of Ragonaut Row's having left Surat. I ſhall wait the receipt of theſe letters, and then cloſe this. The accompanying letters, dated the 13th and 24th July, and 7th Auguſt, will fully acquaint you, Gentlemen, with the meaſures that have been purſued ſince the receipt of your letters; that to me, of the 16th May, and that to the Honourable the Governor and Council of Bombay, of the 20th May.

Gentlemen, Auguſt 26, 1776.

I have juſt received the letter from the Honourable the Preſident and Council of Bombay, which adviſes of Ragonaut Row's having left Surat. The following extract is all therein that relates to Ragonaut Row's departure.

Extract of a letter from the Honourable the Preſident and Council of Bombay to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated 19th Auguſt 1776.

"We ſhall wave any further reply to your letter, as "Ragoba has thought proper to retire from Surat of his "own accord, which of courſe will remove the jealouſy "the Miniſters had conceived at his reſidence there."

The Miniſters had complained to me two days before I received this information from Bombay, that Ragonaut Row had been permitted to make his eſcape from Surat, after having been covered and protected by the Engliſh for near ſix months (contrary to the true intent and meaning of the late Treaty they had entered into with us) which muſt occaſion to their State further troubles and great expence.

I had been conſtantly requeſting of the Miniſters to agree to a change of abode for Ragonaut Row, and to take off the troops allotted for his ſervice, which he looked upon in no other light than as a guard placed over him; and to increaſe his ſtipend, ſo as to enable him to ſupport his rank. The Peiſhwa's conſent had been obtained and ſent to Bombay the 22d inſtant, for Ragonaut Row's reſiding at Benares, unattended by troops; and an allowance of five lacks of rupees a year, or a jaghire to that amount, fixed upon him in the neighbourhood of Calpee.

Should this indulgence of the Peiſhwa's reach Ragonaut Row, I am of opinion he will not accept it, as his vackeel, who reſides at Bombay, wrote me a few days ago in terms, expecting his former demands were to be complied with.

I have, &c.
(Signed) J. Upton.

Gentlemen,

I had juſt cloſed the accompanying letter, when I was honoured with your letters of the 1ſt and 3d July; and about an hour after, the incloſed letter and extract from the Honourable the Preſident and Select Committee of Bombay arrived. You will perceive, Gentlemen, by this letter, the determined part (at all events) the Gentlemen at Bombay mean to take. This perplexes me exceedingly; for ſhould I take my immediate departure from this place, and proceed to Bombay, no arguments could ever induce the Miniſters to believe otherwiſe than that this determination of the Select Committee of Bombay was in conſequence of orders from the Supreme Council, and that I muſt all along have been privy to theſe intentions. I ſhould find it very difficult to perſuade the Miniſters, by letter from Bombay, that this matter would be adjuſted, when replies to my letters ſhould arrive from Calcutta. As it will neceſſarily be ſome time before either Jamboojeer, or the ceſſion made by Futty Sing, will be reſtored to the Peiſhwa, there would be little to apprehend, until your poſitive orders ſhould arrive, unleſs the reſolves of the Committee of Bombay be made known; and in this caſe I ſhould imagine a Maratta war inevitable, unleſs by my being on the ſpot they were ſatisfied that there muſt be ſome miſtake, and might perhaps be induced to wait its being adjuſted. On the other hand, ſhould the Council of Bombay determine to proſecute the war, it would be no longer ſafe for me to remain another hour at Poonah, enraged as theſe people are at the oppoſition they have already met with, in carrying into execution the part of the Treaty that relates to Ragonaut Row, and its conſequence, the defection of many of their Chiefs, who by the Miniſters' enemies have been made to believe that the war would be renewed when the rains were over.

I ſhall immediately write to the Select Committee of Bombay, to keep their reſolves for the preſent profoundly ſecret; but I am afraid it will be impoſſible for me to wait at Poonah, in expectation of your further orders to that Preſidency, which I ſhall nevertheleſs endeavour to do, if the riſk does not become too great; for it plainly appears, by the determined manner in which this letter from Bombay is worded, that I can be of little ſervice there, in forwarding the conditions of the Treaty. Another letter from them may perhaps ſatisfy me, that they mean to go no greater lengths than thoſe already mentioned; if ſo, I hope all may yet end well.

Mr. Fowke has forwarded paſſports from Cheyte Sing for Siccaram Pundit and Goupkaboy; as ſoon as thoſe from Mr. Briſtow arrive I will preſent them, and make the profeſſions of friendſhip and protection agreeable to your directions.

I will take the earlieſt opportunity of requeſting the Miniſters to ſettle a proviſion for the payment of the twelve lacks of rupees as it becomes due to the Preſidency of Bombay.

When I adviſed, that I imagined Morabah would ſucceed to the vacancy that Sacaram Pundit might make in the Adminiſtration at Poonah, it was from a natural inference, as at that time Ballajee Pundit was treating with him to engage him to come over to the miniſterial party; and as I underſtand he receives part of the emoluments of Ballajee Pundit's appointments, and it is ſaid nominally to be joined with him in the revenue department, though he has for ſome time declined acting, it never could have happened by the inclination of Siccaram Pundit, as there is a hatred between him and Morabah amounting to almoſt a mortal enmity. Perhaps the Bhow may be brought in, who, if the real perſon he gives himſelf out to be, has claim to the firſt appointment; and it is ſaid Siccaram Pundit is not averſe to it, though he will be ſtrongly oppoſed by Ballajee Pundit and Morabah. How theſe contending parties will adjuſt their differences time alone can diſcover; they ſtand in great need of ſome one related to the Peiſhwa, or of more exalted rank than the preſent people, at the head of the Miniſtry.

It is currently reported here, that the Bhow means to march to Poonah immediately upon the rains breaking up: the Miniſters alſo acquainted me, that they had heard of the Bhow's having ſuch intention; that they much wiſhed he would attempt putting it in execution, as they only wanted to get him out of his ſtrong holds, to be inſured of putting an immediate end to this rebellion. The Miniſters are daily augmenting the force that is acting againſt the Bhow. It is ſaid Ragonaut Row is on his march by the ſea ſhore to join the Bhow.

I obſerved, in my letter of the 19th July, that the Cokun country extends from Salſette almoſt to Surat; I then meant, and ſhould have ſaid, it was the part of the country that was likely to be the ſeat of war; for the entire Cokun country extends from near to Surat almoſt to Myſore, the capital of Hyder Ally's country, and I now underſtand that Sedaſhee Row poſſeſſes the greateſt part of this country.

I ſhould imagine a few days would make the travelling from Poonah to Bombay impracticable, as the pindarries (free booters) from the two armies are laying the country waſte all round, and making priſoners of all that fall in their way.

I wrote laſt night to Bombay, as there was no time to be loſt, and incloſe a copy of this letter. The reply will determine whether I muſt immediately proceed to Bombay, or remain ſome time longer at Poonah, though I think it very probable I ſhall be obliged to retire to Maſulipatam, and there wait your further orders; from whence; if occaſion ſhould require, I can with eaſe, in a journey of about thirty days, reach Poonah, and letters paſs in about thirteen or fourteen days (leſs if neceſſary) from Poonah to Maſulipatam. Appendix No. 140.

I ſhall do myſelf the honour to write again as ſoon as I receive a reply from Bombay.

In the preſent uncertainty you will be pleaſed, Gentlemen, to forward my letters by way of Maſulipatam. Should I go to Bombay, I ſhall adviſe the Chief of that ſettlement, and my letters will be ſafely conveyed to me.

General Carnac landed at Bombay on the 16th inſtant; his appointment is ſecond in Council, and to ſucceed to the chair.

I am, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 140.

IN conſequence of the intelligence contained in Lieutenant Colonel Upton's letters; it is reſolved, that the following letter be immediately written to Bombay:

Gentlemen,

We have juſt received advices from Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated the 28th ultimo, with which he tranſmits us a copy of your letter to him of the 20th Auguſt, and of his reply to it on the 27th.

We have read with great ſurprize, the reſolution declared in your letter to Colonel Upton, that "you were "determined at all events to keep poſſeſſion of ſuch of "the late ceſſions as are not yet relinquiſhed:" And we are equally alarmed at the fatal conſequences which may attend ſuch a notorious breach of a public Treaty, and conſequently violation of the national faith. We hope however that the arguments urged to you by Colonel Upton, and ſupported by our reſolutions, on receipt of the Company's orders reſpecting the Maratta War, which we communicated to you in a letter of the 1ſt July, will have had ſufficient influence on your conduct to prevent the execution of the meaſure you had reſolved on, or at leaſt to have ſuſpended the iſſue of any orders in conſequence thereof until this may arrive.

We now deſire you will call to mind, that the Treaty with the Maratta State has been executed under the ſanction and by the authority of an Act of Parliament; that therefore it is not only binding on all the Company's ſettlements in India, but even on the Company themſelves.

We claim and demand your aid, in ſupporting and maintaining the Treaty which is now in force; declaring at the ſame time that we ſhall hold you reſponſible for all the conſequences which muſt follow a breach of it on your part.

But we ſee no difficulty in reconciling the conditions of the Treaty with the object of the Company's orders, although thoſe orders are manifeſtly framed without any knowledge of the part we had taken. The interchange of Jambooſeer, and the other lands ſtipulated to be reſtored to the Marattas for the country adjoining to Broach, which is ſpecified in the 5th Article of the Treaty to be ceded on their part to the Company, will leave the Company in poſſeſſion of a territory obtained by peaceable means from the Marattas, equally convenient in point of ſituation, and not much inferior in value to that which the Company have empowered you to keep poſſeſſion of though originally obtained, and ſtill requiring to be preſerved, by force of arms.

If our poſitive injunction ſhould effect no change in the reſolutions you had agreed to, we deſire you will reflect on the means you are poſſeſſed of to carry on a war. You have repreſented to us that the ſtate of your treaſury is very low; yet your ſupplies from this Preſidency have been anticipated to a conſiderable amount. The returns of your troops prove, that the eſtabliſhment of your army is very deficient; and upon the whole we think your actual condition very far from being such as would in prudence justify your exposing the Company's possessions under your Government to the immediate hazards of a war, admitting that no other motives opposed your engaging in it.

We are, &c.

Agreed, That the following reply be written to Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have now before us your letters of the 19th July and 24th, 26th, and 28th August.

The information contained in the letter respecting the resolution of the President and Council of Bombay, has greatly alarmed us; and we may very anxiously wait for the subsequent advices which you have promised to transmit to us; yet we think it necessary to write immediately to Bombay, to prevent the execution of a measure, which may prove so fatal in its consequences to the interests of the Company.

We inclose a copy of our letter to that Presidency for your information; and as we cannot foresee the event which it may produce, we can prescribe no line for your conduct in case the Government of Bombay should still persist in their determination: but we leave it entirely to your discretion either to remain at Poonah, to demand your dismission, or to take any other measures which present circumstances shall point out to your judgment as most conducive to the good of the Company's service, your own safety, and that of the party under your command.

In your letter of the 19th July, you say, "At all "events, should he (Sedasheé Row) succeed to the "governing power of this country, his confirming the "late Treaty will be necessary, as the Peishwa is a "minor." We desire to know on what ground or information you have formed this alarming conclusion: we on our parts have always considered the Treaty as formed with, and binding on the Maratta State; without regarding in whose hands the actual power of the Government may now or at any time hereafter be lodged.

We are, &c. &c.

General Clavering indisposed.

READ, and approved the proceedings of the 10th instant.

Received the following letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton:

Gentlemen,

I had the honour to address you last on the 28th ultimo.

It is with great pleasure I forward the inclosed letter, which I received last night from the Select Committee of Bombay; I wish these Gentlemen had been a little more communicative; though I hope they now mean to do all in their power to facilitate the carrying the few remaining Articles of the Treaty into execution. The Ministers have still their doubts from this quarter; the accompanying letter from the Peishwa, which I received two days ago (and forwarded to Bombay) will inform you, Gentlemen, of some recent causes for these doubts; which, added to the prevailing report that assistance will be given by the English to Ragonath Row after the rains, must certainly occasion to the Ministers much uneasiness; and this they shewed very strongly, when I desired them to appoint a day for my taking leave. They have assured me, that whatsoever turn the affairs of their country may take, they are and shall be thoroughly convinced of the honourable part the Governor General and Council have taken; and that I may remain at Poonah entirely secure of their best opinion and in the utmost safety; I have accordingly consented to stay if (as I told them) it met with your approbation, until the Treaty shall be accomplished, or nearly so, or until a Resident shall be sent from Bombay.

I believe all thoughts of my going to Bombay must be given up, not only from the jealousy it would occasion here, but from the danger of the attempt: may I be permitted to add, that I think every inconvenience, without a single advantage to the business of the Treaty, might be apprehended, should I leave Poonah and go to Bombay; as it remains entirely with the Ministers to carry into execution the following stipulations, which are all that are now left unaccomplished, viz. the making over the country of three lacks near Broach; the producing the proofs of the Peishwa's right to the Guzerat country entire; and, making a provision for the payment of the twelve lacks. I have frequently represented to the Ministers how much we suffered by the dilatory method of carrying on the correspondence with Fort William, and have at last got their promise, that they will immediately lay daawks (I believe to Benares) by which means the letters will go from Poonah to Calcutta in about 17 days; this will give spirit to the business, and I should imagine three months might complete it. Futty Sing is expected at Poonah shortly: I have told the Ministers that I should refer the matter in dispute respecting his right to making grants of any part of the Guzerat country, and receive your orders concerning it; as I did not conceive, now the Treaty was ratified, the power of determining this business was vested in me. You will please, Gentlemen, to give me your particular instructions regarding this.

You will also, Gentlemen, be pleased to instruct me how to proceed should the Bhow be successful; though I see no great reason to expect this, it is nevertheless necessary to be provided against such an exigency. I hope, and think, I shall be able to remain at Poonah till I have the honour to receive a reply to this letter. Ragonath will not be able to occasion much disturbance in so short a time, and the Bhow's successes cannot affect me. You may depend, Gentlemen, on my giving the most early advice, should we meet with any future rebuffs in adjusting the conditions of the Treaty, or should this Government undergo any alteration, by change of Ministers, &c.

I acquainted the Ministers in the manner you directed, that the Peishwa's vackeel would be properly received, &c. at Calcutta; and they have requested that he may accompany me on my return to Bengal. From what I can learn, they have not yet been able to fix upon a man in whose abilities and attachment they can sufficiently confide, otherwise I suppose they would send him away sooner, for they were much pleased to find their desire of having a person reside at Calcutta so favourably received.

The passports from the Vizier are not yet arrived for Goupkaboy and Siccaram Pundit.

I have the honour to be, &c.

Poonah, 9th September 1776. (Signed) J. Upton.

P. S. I believe the most favourable reading may be given to the inclosed letter from the Select Committee of Bombay. I have again wrote to these Gentlemen for a fuller explanation, and herewith forward a copy of this letter.

Ordered, That the inclosures be entered after the Consultation.

Resolved,

Appendix. No. 141.

Reſolved, That the following reply be written to Lieutenant Colonel Upton:

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 9th ultimo.

We have already given it as our opinion, that your longer continuance at Poonah is unneceſſary; we ſee no grounds to alter that opinion, and cannot therefore conſent to your ſtay. We require you to demand your immediate diſmiſſion from the Maratta Court, if this letter ſhould find you ſtill at Poonah. You will, however, take care to do it in terms of the greateſt delicacy, and with ſuch cautions that it may not have an abrupt or unfriendly appearance.

We incloſe a letter from the Governor General to Siccaram Baboo, which you will deliver to him, and a copy is herewith tranſmitted for your peruſal.

Notwithſtanding any revolutions that may happen in the Maratta State, we conſider that State as well as ourſelves equally bound to abide by the Treaty, and to maintain the conditions of it, without any regard to the perſons actually in poſſeſſion of the ruling power, for the Government itſelf remains the ſame, whatever change of hands the adminiſtration may fall into.

On theſe principles you will ſee that we deem it totally unneceſſary to open any freſh negociation with Sudaba, in caſe that Chief ſhould prevail; nor do we ſee any ſubject which will remain for negociation, unleſs ſome conditions of the Treaty ſhould be unaccompliſhed, and he, diſclaiming the Treaty, refuſe to execute them. Suppoſing the party of Sudaba, or any other foreign party, to be eſtabliſhed in the Poonah Government, you will call upon them to execute the Articles of the Treaty remaining to be performed on their part, and you will take their reply as an acknowledgment or diſavowal of the Treaty; but you muſt be cautious to avoid expreſſing any doubt of the validity of the Treaty; or that the force of it can be impaired by any internal changes or revolutions in the Government of Poonah.

Fort William, We are, &c.

Referred to in Appendix No. 139.

Read the following letters from Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We have received your letters, dated the 6th, 16th, and 20th May.

It is with much pleaſure we can aſſert, that none of the bad conſequences have enſued which you apprehended from our receiving Ragoba into Surat, and on which you ground your directions for requiring him to withdraw from the Company's ſettlements: the Treaty has not only been ratified and exchanged, and orders given by the Miniſters for the communication being opened between the Company's ſettlements and the Maratta dominions; but we are not without hopes that Colonel Upton will prevail with them to aſſign an eſtabliſhment for Ragoba, as he mentions, in his letter dated the 13th June, that he would continue his endeavours for that purpoſe; and we have ſince again urged this point to him, but have not received his reply. Circumſtances therefore being thus altered, and the above conduct of the Miniſters implying an acquieſcence on their part to Ragoba continuing under the Company's protection, we have not ſignified to him the directions you have thought proper to give reſpecting him.

When the Peace was proclaimed at this Preſidency, the whole extract, as tranſmitted by Colonel Upton, was read verbatim to the garriſon, and we therefore ſuppoſe any further publication to be unneceſſary.

We have ordered copies to be made of the ſeveral Treaties you deſire, which ſhall be tranſmitted to you when finiſhed. The Grenville was diſpatched to England on the 27th ultimo, with directions to the commander to touch at Fort Saint George. We are, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, (Signed) William Hornby,
7th Auguſt 1776. &c. Council.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Our laſt letter was dated the 7th inſtant, of which a duplicate is incloſed; and we have ſince received your letters, dated the 20th and 27th June.

The veſſels taken by the Maratta fleet have not yet been reſtored, though the owners went down to receive them, with the orders from the Miniſters, which were entirely diſregarded.

The Aurora, an Engliſh merchant ſhip, was wrecked in the month of June laſt on the Marratta coaſt near Rutneah Gherry. The greateſt part of the cargo was landed; and as it is ſtipulated in the late Treaty, that the whole of what may be ſaved from Engliſh veſſels wrecked on any part of the Maratta coaſt ſhall be reſtored, we have ſent the neceſſary information to Colonel Upton, that he may demand full reſtitution; we alſo incloſe for your notice copy of a letter from the ſupercargo, giving a particular account of this accident, and of the treatment he received from the Marattas.

We conſider ourſelves as bound by the late Act of Parliament to tranſmit you every propoſal or political information, which in its conſequence may affect the Company's intereſt, and we were therefore ſurprized at the wiſh you expreſſed in your letter of the 30th June. We had no other concern in Ragoba's propoſal reſpecting the Nizam than merely tranſmitting to your Honour, &c. a copy of the letter we received from him on the ſubject, which had we ſuppreſſed, might have made us liable to your cenſure, and we do not ſee how this tranſaction, of which the Miniſters were totally ignorant, could create in them any jealouſy or diſtruſt.

We have from time to time given you an account of Sudaba's proceedings, as they have come to our knowledge; and as the event of his operations is likely to become of much importance to the Honourable Company, we wiſhed to be aſſured of his true ſituation as well as the identity of his perſon, and for this purpoſe Abdul Gunny was ſent down to Rutna Gurry, on the pretence of making enquiries reſpecting the Aurora's cargo: this man having been frequently employed on Government buſineſs at Poonah while Sudaba was in power there, was perfectly acquainted with his perſon; and from his report, and from every other circumſtance, there remains not a doubt with us, that the perſon now in arms in oppoſition to the Miniſters, is the real Sudaba; he is encamped for the rains two days march from Fort Victoria, with an army of about thirty thouſand men, and expects to be joined by a conſiderable body of horſe from the Rannee. It is thought he will march this way before he proceeds to Poonah to take in Baſſein, the Killadar of which place was put in by his father, and we hear is ready to admit him.

We incloſe copies of a meſſage from Sudaba, brought us by Abdul Gunny, and of a letter ſince received, in which he explains his deſigns, and expreſſes a ſtrong deſire of being joined by Ragoba.

From the preſent appearance of affairs, there is every reaſon to expect that Sudaba will very ſhortly become maſter of Poonah, and that the Miniſters will not be able to maintain their Government; and we therefore eſteem it our duty to requeſt your immediate directions for our conduct upon this event: he totally diſallows any right in the Miniſters to conclude a Treaty in behalf of the Maratta State; and we apprehend it is highly neceſſary we ſhould be early furniſhed with powers to enter into a negociation with him or Ragoba, or both jointly, which we beg you will furniſh us with. Our affording protection to Ragoba may be conſidered as a moſt fortunate circumſtance, as we ſtill hope to be able to ſecure the advantages for the Company ſtipulated in the Treaty of Surat, which we ſhould have forfeited all pretenſions to, had we denied him an aſylum in his diſtreſs.

The Preſident has received advice from the Chief of Surat, that Ragoba on the 9th inſtant had ſuddenly retired from that place entirely of his own accord. The incloſed extract from the Chief's letter will acquaint you with with the apprehenſions which led this unfortunate man to this precipitate ſtep, and we can give you no further information of his future intentions than is therein contained.

We incloſe a continuation of our correſpondence with Colonel Upton. The Latham arrived here from Great Britain on the 17th inſtant, and we now tranſmit an extract from the commands of the Honourable the Court of Directors, received by that ſhip. With theſe ſpecial orders before us, we cannot think of relinquiſhing Jamboſeer, or any other of the poſſeſſions which are not yet reſtored; and we have therefore, in obedience thereto, determined at all events to retain them, which we ſhall ſignify to Colonel Upton, that he may regulate his conduct accordingly. We have the honour to be, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 20th Auguſt 1776. (Signed) William Hornby, &c. Council.

Ordered, That the incloſures be entered after the Conſultation; and Agreed, That the following letter be written to Bombay:

To the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident &c. Council at Bombay.

Gentlemen,

We have received your letters of the 7th and 20th Auguſt; which have been in a great meaſure replied to by our's of the 30th ultimo.

We are pleaſed however to find, by a letter juſt received from Colonel Upton, dated the 9th September, that your reſolution to maintain poſſeſſion of the conquered countries on the continent from the Marattas had not been divulged, and that you had thought proper to countermand the orders given on that occaſion. We hope that you will not have taken any ſubſequent meaſures to preclude you from carrying the injunctions contained in our letter of the 30th ultimo implicitly into execution; and we again repeat the ſame, requiring your ſtrict obedience thereto.

We have directed Colonel Upton, in caſe the party of Sudaba, or any other party, ſhould have prevailed in the Government of Poonah, to demand the performance of any conditions of the Treaty which may ſtill remain to be executed on the part of the Marattas, and to receive their anſwer as an acknowledgment or diſavowal of the Treaty; but not to enter into any freſh negociations with them. We conſider the Maratta State to be bound by the Treaty; and that the engagements formed by it continue in force as long as the State itſelf ſubſiſts, notwithſtanding any internal revolutions in the Government, or any change of perſons in the actual adminiſtration.

We have further ordered Colonel Upton to demand his immediate diſmiſſion from the Court of Poonah, to return to Bengal. If he ſhould leave any Articles of the Treaty unaccompliſhed at his departure, as the caſe of carrying it into complete effect will of courſe devolve to you, we recommend for this purpoſe, as well as to maintain a continued amicable intercourſe with the Maratta State, that you appoint an Agent to reſide at Poonah; and we requeſt that you will be pleaſed to adviſe us of the perſon whom you may nominate to that ſtation.

Fort William, 14th October 1776. We are, &c.

P. S. We have this inſtant received your letter of the 14th September, with the ſeveral papers incloſed in it. We are very happy to ſee it thus confirmed to us, that you had anticipated our inſtructions of the 30th September, by repealing the orders which you had iſſued on the 20th Auguſt laſt.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, 14th October 1776.

INCLOSURES.

To Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We have received your letter dated the 27th ultimo.

The utmoſt ſecreſy has been obſerved, with reſpect to the meaſures we had reſolved to purſue, in conſequence of the Honourable Company's commands, communicated to you in our letter of the 20th; and we have now to acquaint you, that from ſome circumſtances which have ſince happened, we have thought proper to countermand the orders we had given on this occaſion.

We are, &c.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 21ſt October 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,

Richard Barwell, and Philip Francis, } Eſquires,

Lieutenant General John Clavering indiſpoſed.

Read, a letter from Bombay as follows:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Agreeable to what we mentioned in our letter, dated the 24th April, we now diſpatch the Eagle, one of the Company's cruizers, commanded by Captain John Hall, to receive on board whatever treaſure you may think proper to ſend round in part of the year's ſupply, and likewiſe to afford you an opportunity of conveying to us any ſums of money you may have taken up as loans for this Preſidency in conſequence of our letter dated the 30th of June.

Our laſt addreſs, dated the 20th ultimo, was forwarded in duplicate by the ſhips Saint Helena and Reſolution, and we have ſince received your letters, dated the 1ſt, 3d and 4th July.

We felt the utmoſt concern upon receiving from you, orders ſo very different in their tenor from thoſe of the Honourable the Court of Directors, in obedience to which we had formed the reſolution communicated to you in our laſt letter. From the high reſpect we entertain for both authorities, and the preſent critical ſituation of affairs, theſe very oppoſite orders occaſioned us much embarraſſment; though we think it incumbent on us to declare to you our opinion, that the orders of the Court of Directors ſhould ſupercede every other, and that we ſhould never heſitate a moment which to prefer, if we are ſo circumſtanced as to have an option, unleſs our obedience might tend to the manifeſt injury and danger of the Company's affairs. With theſe ſentiments, and a ſtrong perſuaſion that the conduct we had adopted would prove favourable to their intereſt, we do yet find ourſelves under a neceſſity of deviating from their orders, and of revoking our firſt reſolution, from an apprehenſion of the bad conſequences which muſt enſue ſhould your Honour, &c. perſiſt in the new alliance and withhold from us all further ſupplies, as from the peremptory manner in which your orders are conveyed we had every reaſon to expect. We have therefore countermanded the orders we had iſſued to the Chiefs of Surat and Broach for retaining Jamboſeer, &c. of which we alſo gave immediate advice to Colonel Upton.

Mr. Draper having differed in opinion from us reſpecting the conſtruction of the Company's orders, and diſſented from our reſolution in conſequence, we at his requeſt tranſmit you a copy of the diſſent he delivered on the occaſion. Brigadier General Gordon likewiſe concurred with Mr. Draper in both points, and delivered a Minute, of which the incloſed is a copy: and the other members members thinking it neceſſary to explain their ſentiments on the ſubject, we have the honour to tranſmit copies of the Minutes made by the Preſident, and Meſſrs. Carnac, Moſtyn, Stackhouſe, Garden, and Ramſay. Ragoba, after quitting Surat, proceeded to the ſouthward, and has already collected two or three thouſand followers: He is now at a fort which ſurrendered to him, a ſmall diſtance from Damaun, and we hear is negociating with the Portugueſe for their aſſiſtance. We cannot yet judge what probability there is of an alliance taking place between them; but this leads us again to lament that more attention was not ſhewn to Ragoba in the late Treaty. We foreſaw this event, with all its bad conſequences, if ſatisfactory terms were not ſettled for him, and urged this point to Colonel Upton in the moſt forcible manner in our letter dated the 18th January. This gentleman has ſince acknowledged, in his letter dated the 7th ultimo, that had Ragoba ſent a vackeel to him at Poonah, the conditions might perhaps have been made more agreeable to him; and we are ſorry that any ſuppoſed failure of ceremony on the part of Ragoba ſhould have had any conſideration in a point wherein the honour and intereſt of the Company were ſo much concerned.

Twelve or thirteen days after Ragoba had quitted Surat, the Miniſters made Colonel Upton the propoſal mentioned in his letter dated the 22d ultimo, reſpecting an increaſe of his ſtipend, and a change of abode. The diſtance between Surat and Poonah is not ſo conſiderable that they could poſſibly be ignorant of this circumſtance when they made the propoſal, of which we have further inconteſtable proof, by a body of three or four thouſand of their horſe marching ſuddenly from the gauts to within a ſmall diſtance from Surat; on the 20th ultimo, with a view, no doubt, to intercept him, whereas the above propoſal was made to Colonel Upton, at Poonah, on the 21ſt. This ſufficiently evinces the artifice of the Miniſters, and that Colonel Upton can receive no intelligence at Poonah but ſuch as is agreeable to them.

We obſerved, with the utmoſt ſurprize, your intention of recalling Colonel Upton from Poonah, to carry on his negociation from this Preſidency. His interference in political matters in the immediate ſeat of our Government, would be contrary to every rule of the ſervice, and would ſenſibly affect that conſequence and importance which is ſo neceſſary to be preſerved to the Members thereof. You will permit us to remark, that your ordering him to Bombay upon any ſuch purpoſe, implies a want of confidence in us, which we are not conſcious of having merited, and is not warranted by any neceſſity, as no part of the Treaty remains unaccompliſhed on our ſide.

We have advices from Broach, ſo late as the 31ſt ultimo, when the Maratta agents for ſettling the country of three lacks were not arrived, though the Pergunnahs lately ſubject to that Chiefſhip have been relinquiſhed ſo long ago as the 18th June. The Company muſt ſuffer conſiderably by the dilatory manner in which the Miniſters perform their engagements, as the ſeaſon is too far advanced to take the proper meaſures for the improvement of the revenues for this year.

Your Honour, &c. are pleaſed to acquaint us in your letter, dated the 3d July, that you had directed Colonel Upton to ſettle for the payment of the 12 lacks at this Preſidency; but though the time fixed for the firſt payment is already conſiderably elapſed, we have not yet received a rupee on this account; and Colonel Upton has propoſed to us to ſend a gentleman to Poonah for this buſineſs, which does not appear to be agreeable to your intentions.

Sudaba continues moving to the northward, and, as we at firſt underſtood, with an intention of joining Ragoba, but we know not as yet what effect the latter's negociation with the Portugueze may have on his conduct. On his paſſing fort Victoria he paid a viſit to our Reſident, and with profeſſions of much friendſhip to the Honourable Company, he offered a grant of two villages contiguous to that ſettlement, which we however have directed our Reſident to decline. We are perſuaded you will ſee the propriety and neceſſity of furniſhing us with immediate inſtructions and powers for negociating with Sudaba, as recommended in our laſt letter, for upon his becoming poſſeſſed of Poonah, which in all human probability will be the caſe in a few months, the Miniſters will not be in a condition to comply with the Treaty made by Colonel Upton, nor will the Company have any right to the poſſeſſions ceded by Ragoba. Appendix. No. 141.

The incloſed copy of the ſailing orders will apprize you of the inſtructions given to the commander of the Eagle.

Since writing thus far, we have received a letter from Ragonath Row, as per copy incloſed, which confirms our intelligence of his having commenced a negociation with the Portugueze. He however promiſes to return to us in caſe we will give him aſſurances of effectual aſſiſtance.

We have the honour, &c. &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 14th September 1776. (Signed) Wm Hornby, &c. Council.

The above letter having been acknowledged in a poſtſcript to the letter written to Bombay on the 14th inſtant; Ordered, that duplicates of that letter be prepared and diſpatched.

Incloſures in the Letter from Bombay.

The Preſident's opinion.

The Preſident with much reluctance agrees to countermand the orders ſent under the 20th Auguſt, to the Chiefs of Surat and Broach, for keeping poſſeſſion of ſuch of the Pergunnahs, &c. as had not already been delivered to the agents of the Poonah Government, as it is contrary to the expreſs orders of the Court of Directors. For that he has every reaſon to expect no aſſiſtance from the Governor General and Council of Calcutta, or that they could permit the Governor and Council of Madras to do it, who are much better ſituated to aſſiſt us with troops, as they are ſoon got over to this coaſt; at the ſame time it gives him real concern to think, that we are neceſſitated to give up, in a manner all the advantages we had acquired for the Honourable Company (and which they had been long ſo much in want of on this coaſt) and at a time he believes, were we to eſpouſe Ragoba's cauſe, he might be fixed in Poonah, without any, or very little, oppoſition: at this time there is the greateſt likelihood, that Sudaba will not be many months before he gets thither, when the Treaty that has been made by the preſent Miniſters at Poonah will be void and of no value, and of Rogoba's likewiſe; nor are we entitled to any thing from it, if he ſhould be ſeated without our aſſiſtance.

Mr. Carnac's opinion.

Whatever may be my ſentiments as to the propriety of the Treaty with Ragonauth Row, or of the meaſures for the requiſition of Salſette and its dependencies, it is not my inclination, nor perhaps would it become me, to paſs a retroſpective opinon upon matters for which I have no degree of reſponſibility, and which have been ſubjected to the verdict of the Court of Directors. My duty only calls upon me to give my moſt ſtrenuous aſſiſtance with the other Members of Council, that the preſent views and orders of our Honourable Employers may be complied with to the fulleſt extent that our means and circumſtances will admit of. It is not to be wondered at, that the Court of Directors ſhould have ſo long and ſo earneſtly had at heart the obtaining of Salſette, with the adjacent iſlands; being from every local advantage, its vicinity to Bombay, it compactneſs, the facility of its being adminiſtered under the immediate eye of the Preſidency, a treaſure for which they can have no equivalent; and that being poſſeſſed of it, and therewith, as they they had reaſon to ſuppoſe, of the important fort and diſtricts of Baſſein, they ſhould be ſo earneſt for the preſervation of them. Indeed their orders on this head ſeem ſo explicit as to leave no plea or evaſion, unleſs under the conviction of the impoſſibility of their being executed, or that our obedience may tend to the manifeſt injury and danger of the Company's affairs; as for inſtance, the involving ourſelves in a war, which the low ſtate of our finances, and the conſiderable diminution of our European force, render us very ill able to ſupport; and we are got into an unhappy dilemma, from the claſhing of the orders received from home with thoſe received from the Supreme Council; which is to me a matter of the moſt ſerious concern, as I have the higheſt veneration for the authority by which it is conſtituted, and a ſingular reſpect for the Gentlemen who compoſe it; from a perſuaſion that they have the moſt honourable intentions towards the public, and a zealous regard for the intereſts of the Company. Into this dilemma we would not have been brought, had our army proceeded to Poonah the laſt campaign, agreeable to the main object of our Treaty with Ragonauth Row, and which was pointedly recommended in your inſtructions to the officer commanding that army. Had this been done, it is more than probable that Ragonauth Row would have been ſecurely ſeated in the Peiſhwary; that the miniſterial confederacy would have been cruſhed; and that there would have been no competitor, with whom to enter into new engagements. There appeared to be but one opinion at the firſt committee held after the receipt of the general letter per Latham; but Mr. Draper has ſince entered a diſſent, in which the moſt weighty reaſon offered for deviating from the orders of our Honourable Maſters, ariſes from an apprehenſion, that we may draw upon ourſelves a Maratta war: but it is now become problematical at leaſt, whether an adherence to the former Treaty would not be the moſt likely means of avoiding it; for, if your intelligence of Sudabah is to be relied upon, and that he really means, as is ſaid, to cooperate with Ragonauth Row, we have cauſe to expect, that ſo ſoon as the ſeaſon for action commences, the face of things in the Maratta Empire will be changed, the Miniſters will be reduced to the ſame deplorable ſtate Ragonauth Row has been in, and he in his turn will be triumphant. There is indeed an objection almoſt inſurmountable againſt our continuing firm to Ragonauth Row, though but ſlightly touched on by Mr. Draper; namely, that if the Gentlemen of the Supreme Council perſiſt in the new alliance, we may and probably ſhall have our reſources from Bengal cut off, without which we are in no condition to give him that effectual aſſiſtance as he may think ſufficient to merit the confirmation of the conceſſion ſtipulated in the Treaty of Surat.

Appendix. No. 141.

Minute made by Brigadier General Gordon.

The Brigadier General continues of the ſame opinion he has ever been, that the conditions of the laſt Treaty with the Maratta Government, ſo ſolemnly ratified and confirmed by the Supreme Council, ſhould be ſtrictly complied with and adhered to on our parts, unleſs it ſhould be broke through by the Maratta Government. The Court of Directors could not know of Peace being concluded, nor the circumſtances that attended it, when their laſt general letter by the Latham was wrote. The countries ceded by Ragoba were all conditional of his being made Peiſhwa, and of his being re-eſtabliſhed by us in the Government of Poonah, which on our part was never done or attempted, as the troops never marched that way, until after the ceſſation of arms was declared. Should this preſent Treaty of Peace, concluded between the Maratta Government and the Supreme Council, be broke through, under pretence of other orders from the Court of Directors, no Country Powers would truſt us in future, as they would then have experienced the Supreme Council having overturned the Treaty made between Ragoba and this Preſidency, and now the Court of Directors had overturned the ſucceeding Treaty of Peace, concluded between the Supreme Council and the Maratta Government.

To the Honourable Will^m Hornby, Eſquire, Preſident and Governor, &c. Council, Bombay.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

On recovering from my late indiſpoſition, I obſerved, from the Minutes of Council and correſpondence during that interval, that your Honour, &c. had on the 20th inſtant reſolved that the 38th, 39th and 40th paragraphs of the Honourable the Court of Directors their commands, dated the 5th April laſt, received by the Latham, contained ſpecial orders for keeping poſſeſſion of all ſuch territories ceded by Ragoba, as were not then relinquiſhed, notwithſtanding the late Treaty of Peace concluded by Colonel Upton with the Maratta State; and that you had diſpatched poſitive orders to the Chiefs of Surat and Broach, on no account whatever to deliver up Jambooſeer, and ſuch other ceſſions as then remained in our hands, and were to be relinquiſhed agreeable to the Treaty: alſo that you had wrote, conformably to the above-mentioned reſolution, to the Governor General and Council, and to Colonel Upton. The firſt notice of your Honour, &c. having taken ſuch meaſures, affected me very ſenſibly, as I had peruſed the afore-mentioned commands, without perceiving that they ought to be conſtrued in that manner; and the more I have conſidered the ſubject, the more neceſſary it has appeared to me to differ in opinion with your Honour, &c. for my juſtification with the Honourable the Court of Directors, and the Governor General and Council.

I conclude your Honours, &c. have been influenced in the above reſolution, by knowing that the Court of Directors had received intelligence by the Northamberland, that the Governor General and Council had appointed a ceſſation of arms, and that Colonel Upton had proceeded from Calcutta, with full powers to conclude a peace at Poorunder; alſo, that you think a particular ſtreſs ſhould be laid on the words, "under all circumſtances," contained in the 35th paragraph; but it appears to me, that the Honourable Court by no means intended thoſe paragraphs to convey ſpecial orders, to counteract any thing Colonel Upton might have done; not chuſing to take it for granted, that he would be able to conclude a peace, as had very near proved the caſe, but rather, according to our advices, to conſider us in a ſtate of war, and enjoin us to attend to the ſecurity and preſervation of the ceſſions we were entitled to by the Treaty with Ragoba; the Directors well knowing, that if Colonel Upton ſhould conclude a treaty, it would operate according to the late Act of Parliament, till they could be informed of the conditions, and give their definitive orders thereon.

I allow that the above-quoted words, "under every "circumſtance," are very comprehenſive; but I can by no means concur with your honour, &c. that they relate to our preſent peaceable ſituation, I am rather induced to think that they are expreſſive of the Directors' approval of the ſeveral ſtipulations contained in the Treaty with Ragoba, and that when they become acquainted with our preſent circumſtances, they will be ſorry to find that your Honour, &c. have conſtrued thoſe words in the manner you have done, and in ſupport of my opinion, that they meant only in a general way to reply to our advices then before them; conſidering us in a ſtate of war, without ſuperſeding and unhinging every thing eſtabliſhed by the Treaty, I beg leave to refer your honour, &c. to the ſeveral expreſſions contained in theſe three paragraphs graphs relative to the ſecurity and preſervation of the ceſſions made by Ragoba, on a ſuppoſition that we enjoyed them by that tenure only, for as above obſerved, they well know that we muſt ſubmit to the controlling power of the Governor General and Council as to war and negociation, till their definitive orders might be received.

The expreſſions alluded to above, for my believing that the Honourable Court choſe to confine their orders, as conſidering us in a ſtate of war inſtead of peace, as is now the caſe, are the laſting ſecurity and preſervation of the poſſeſſions acquired from Ragoba, mentioned in the 38th paragraph; their approval of keeping them, and directions to the Governor General and Council, and Governor and Council of Fort Saint George, for adopting meaſures moſt proper for the preſervation of thoſe territories according to exigencies, as comprehended in the 39th paragraph; and requeſting countenance and ſupport from the King's ſhips, for the ſecurity of thoſe poſſeſſions, as noticed in the 40th paragraph, which ſurely are not at all applicable to a ſtate of peace and tranquillity.

Having thus fully ſtated to your Honour, &c. the reaſons which have induced me to differ in opinion with you regarding the Honourable Court's paragraphs, I am now particularly to aſſign the reaſons for my diſſenting to the reſolution you took the 20th inſtant, and all conſequences which may reſult therefrom, viz.

Firſt. Becauſe in my opinion, your honour, &c. reſolution is a direct and manifeſt infringement of the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton, as well as of the ſtrict orders lately given by the Governor General and Council, for avoiding every meaſure which might even give the Marattas diſtruſt or jealouſy.

Becauſe, in our ſituation, conſidering the advantages reaped and to be reaped by the Treaty, the reſolution is both unreaſonable and impolitic; unreaſonable conſidering the advantages of the Treaty, and impolitic on the two following accounts.

Becauſe, I take it for granted, we ſhall forfeit the receipt of the 12 lacks of rupees ſtipulated to be paid; ſix lacks of which would have been due the firſt of next month.

Becauſe, the ceſſion of the country of three lacks per annum, contiguous to Broach, will of courſe likewiſe be forfeited; the peaceable enjoyment of which would in my opinion be far preferable to the Pergunnah of Jamboofeer, the only one we ſhall probably retain in conſequence of the reſolution, though eſtimated at five lacks per annum; as I am of opinion more than the difference will be abſorbed by maintaining it by force of arms; and your Honour, &c. well know that Jamboofeer has been continued with us, merely as a ſecurity for the country of three lacks, without being allowed to collect the revenues.

Becauſe, I think we ought religiouſly to have proceeded in the execution of the Treaty, or at leaſt to have temporized till we could hear further from the Court of Directors, or the Governor General and Council, but I ſhould have preferred the former conduct.

Becauſe, we are at this place about 29 lacks of rupees in debt, accumulating at an intereſt of ¾ per cent. per month; alſo becauſe the Governor General and Council furniſhing us with ſufficient ſupplies of money, in caſe of the peace being diſturbed by the above reſolution, I think very uncertain.

Becauſe, on the 31ſt ultimo the Company's remains of Europe goods amounted to about ten lacks, to the amount of three lacks have ſince been received by the Latham, and the purchaſers remains under the 31ſt ultimo amounted to nearly eight lacks; the realizing of which I apprehend will be much obſtructed, and that the trade of private merchants will equally ſuffer.

Becauſe, the number of European troops ſince the attack of Tannah is reduced from 1996 to 1416.

Becauſe, the ſtate of public affairs at home prevented any number of recruits being ſent this ſeaſon, and the ſame reaſon may unfortunately ſubſiſt the next year. Appendix No. 141.

I beg that a copy of this my diſſent may be tranſmitted to the Governor General and Council by the firſt opportunity; and am very reſpectfully, &c.

Meſſrs. Moſtyn, Stackhouſe, and Garden, join in opinion with Mr. Draper, that temporizing meaſures, as far as prudence will admit, ſhould be obſerved, and every means uſed to avoid a war; and were we convinced that the perſons with whom Mr. Upton has concluded a treaty could poſſibly ſupport themſelves in the Government, we ſhould be alſo of his opinion in every other point: but we firmly believe the Miniſters will not be able to continue in Poonah many months longer, for there remains not a doubt with us but Sudaba will, as ſoon as the ſeaſon opens, get poſſeſſion of the Government, more eſpecially as there is a proſpect, that Ragoba means to join them by coming to the ſouthward; and ſhould this be the caſe, we apprehend they will not want our aſſiſtance, conſequently we can have no right to the poſſeſſions granted by the Treaty made with Ragoba, nor can the Miniſters comply with their's. Thus ſituated, and the Company's expreſs orders by the Latham before us, we cannot help thinking the reſolution of the Board laſt Council day the propereſt meaſure we can adopt in the preſent unſettled ſituation of affairs; though, for the reaſons given in the general minute, we are obliged to deviate from the Company's orders.

Mr. Ramſay's Minute.

If the Maratta Empire was now in the ſame ſettled ſtate it was in before the death of Narron Row, and the preſent Government at Poonah in a condition to fulfil the Treaty concluded by Colonel Upton, however inadequate in ſome reſpects that Treaty may be, Mr. Ramſay would entirely concur with Mr. Draper, that the unanimous reſolution of the Board at their laſt meeting, for retaining Jamboofeer, and ſuch other territory as has not yet been reſtored to the Marattas in conſequence of that Treaty, would be impolitic and unreaſonable, and the reaſons Mr. Draper has brought in ſupport of that opinion, would in that caſe weigh moſt forcibly; but circumſtanced as we now are, Mr. Ramſay cannot heſitate a moment in declaring it as his opinion, that we ought to retain every poſſeſſion we poſſibly can, conſiſtent with the orders of our employers, who, though they knew of Colonel Upton's miſſion, and muſt ſuppoſe it probable, from the tenor of his inſtructions, he would conclude ſome deciſive terms with the Poonah Government, are notwithſtanding pleaſed to approve, under every circumſtance, of our keeping poſſeſſion of the territories ceded to them by the Treaty with Ragoba. A pacific ſyſtem, Mr. Ramſay will ever hold to be moſt for the Company's real intereſt, and would therefore wiſh to avoid every meaſure which would tend to involve them in war; but in the preſent ſituation of affairs it ſeems next to a certainty, that the preſent ruling Government at Poonah cannot long exiſt. Subadab is ſaid to be at the head of a very formidable force, and ready to ſupport our late ally Ragoba in his pretenſions to the Peiſhwaſhip: this latter it is further ſaid is negociating with the Portugueſe for aſſiſtance; which ſhould they grant, and he ſucceed in eſtabliſhing himſelf at Poonah without our aid, we cannot have the leaſt ſhadow of right to withhold from him the ceſſions made by the Treaty of Surat. In ſhort, from the preſent diſtracted ſtate of the Maratta Empire, it can ſcarcely admit of a doubt, that in order to ſecure the poſſeſſions we already hold, as well as to preſerve the Company's influence in theſe parts, we ſhall neceſſarily be obliged obliged to take an active part in the troubles which are likely to enſue; in which caſe the ill conſequences which Mr. Draper apprehends from keeping poſſeſſion of Jambooſeer, &c. can have no weight. As to our infringing Colonel Upton's Treaty, it is notorious, and will fully appear by our records, that every thing has been done on our part to carry it into execution in the fulleſt extent, while no one ſtep appears to have been taken for that purpoſe on the part of the Poonah Government: on the contrary, our veſſels have been inſulted, the communication ſtill continues ſhut, all intercourſe of trade and correſpondence is ſtill ſtopped, and we ſuffer every inconvenience attending an actual ſtate of war; to which if we add their having made over countries not their own, which may probably hereafter involve us in troubles with the Guicawar family, ſufficient grounds are not wanting to invalidate the Poonah Treaty, without hurting the national faith. If the Governor General and Council ſhould judge it eligible to take advantage of the preſent criſis, thoſe gentlemen have already been fully adviſed of every thing that has paſſed in our neighbourhood, and we may therefore hope ſhortly to receive their orders what conduct we are to purſue; but as the ſeaſon for action is now approaching, and we may be under an indiſpenſable neceſſity of taking ſome ſteps for the Company's intereſt, Mr. Ramſay thinks their ſpeedy and expreſs orders ſhould be again requeſted, and a letter in duplicate immediately diſpatched to them for that purpoſe, although he much fears the diſtance is ſo great as to render it impoſſible to give orders with that preciſion which the nature of affairs may require; which makes it much to be wiſhed that the Governor General and Council would have ſufficient confidence in this Board to give us a latitude to act as from circumſtances may be deemed moſt for the Company's intereſt; having regard at the ſame time, as far as the ſituation of affairs will poſſibly admit, to the general views and orders of the Governor General and Council.

APPENDIX, No. 142.

To Siccaram Pundit: written 14th October 1776.

I HAVE received your letter, wherein you adviſe me, that the conſideration of my authority over the other ſettlements had induced you to aſſent to ſome of Colonel Upton's propoſals, and refer others to my juſtice, and deſire that I will forbid every Engliſhman to ſupport Ragonaut Row, or to interfere in the concerns of the family, or obſtruct the collection of the Chout; and that I will order Shaſty to be delivered up; you alſo adviſe me, that with a view to the preſervation of friendſhip you accepted the copy of the Treaty, which was executed in Calcutta, and delivered a counterpart to Colonel Upton; and that you are aſſured that you ſhall obtain Salſette and the ſmall iſlands: theſe, and all the other particulars I very clearly underſtand.

When a treaty has been agreed to, and executed on both ſides, I am ſurprized that you ſhould ſtill diſpute the points which have been decided by the Treaty. The Engliſh have performed no act, whether in their conduct towards Ragonaut Row, or in any other inſtance, which is not ſtrictly conformable to it, nor ſhall it ever in any reſpect be violated on our part; but near a twelvemonth has elapſed ſince Colonel Upton has arrived with you, and the Treaty has long ſince been executed by both parties. Nothing now remains but the performance, which will depend on you and the Governor of Bombay, who is connected more particularly than the Engliſh in any other ſettlement with the Maratta Government. Strict orders have been written to him on this ſubject, and the authority of this Government has been exerciſed to command a rigid obſervance of every ſtipulation. The preſence therefore of Colonel Upton can be no longer neceſſary. Indeed it is improper, as it conveys the appearance of a doubtful friendſhip, and that the object of this negociation is not completed. Conformably therefore to the orders which he has received, I conclude that he will before this time have taken his leave and departed: I have now written to him, that in caſe he ſhall ſtill be with you, he do immediately, having received his diſmiſſion, return to Bengal; and I requeſt that there may be no delay in giving him his diſmiſſion, that the mouths of falſe and deſigning men may be ſtopt; and that the world may ſee that every difference which formerly ſubſiſted between your Government and the Engliſh is totally effaced, and a firm friendſhip eſtabliſhed for ever. This is my wiſh, as it is alſo my firm and unalterable reſolution to maintain the Treaty in every article of it inviolate; nor ſhall any change in the affairs of that quarter, of which there are many rumours, influence me to depart from this reſolution: and relying on your honour and friendſhip, and on the good faith of the Maratta Government, I am aſſured that it has received a ſanction which will conſtitute the obſervance a ſacred obligation on you and your nation for ever.

APPENDIX, No. 143.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 9th December 1776.

READ the following letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton:

Gentlemen,

I now incloſe what correſpondence I have had with the Select Committee of Bombay, ſince I had the honour to write laſt on the 10th September, alſo copies of two letters I received from the Peiſhwa; theſe will inform you regularly of the meaſures that have been taken ſince that time to fulfil the obligations of the late Treaty; and I have added, for further information, remarks on the letter from the Select Committee of the 21ſt September.

I have at laſt the great ſatisfaction to adviſe of my having brought the Treaty nearly to a happy concluſion. The Peiſhwa has conſented to make over the Pergunnahs of Hanſood, Occlaſeer, and Deſhora, for the country of three lacks. His Miniſters ſay the annual amount of the revenues of the diſtricts exceeds three lacks, but a freſh eſtimation is to be made, as ſhall be agreed upon between the commiſſaries on each ſide; and the ſurplus (if any) taken off any parts of theſe diſtricts as our commiſſaries ſhall name. I hope, therefore, this buſineſs will readily be adjuſted, as I cannot myſelf ſee a ſingle difficulty. Objections cannot well be made by the Gentlemen of Bombay to theſe Pergunnahs, becauſe they before propoſed receiving thoſe of Hanſood, and Occlaſeer; and in obſerving the value ſet upon Deſhora by our commiſſaries, I made a point with the Miniſters of its being added. It was impoſſible to get either Ahmood or Jambooſeer, they both belong to Siccaram Bappoo, and I am told, ſhould he be diveſted of theſe, he would have very little landed property left; beſides, Jambooſeer is worth upwards of four lacks and a half per annum, according to their revenue books.

From the Miniſters declaring, that their late large diſburſements had almoſt exhauſted their treaſury, and deſiring ſome longer time might be allowed for the payment of the firſt ſtipulated ſix lacks, and alſo finding that I might importune long before this money would be paid, I propoſed their making over the collections of Jambooſeer for the payment of the whole twelve lacks, and their leaving Jambooſeer in our poſſeſſion for the ſecurity until this money ſhould be paid. To this they have conſented, and for the more ſpeedy payment have added their annual collections in and about Surat. Upon the ſum of twelve lacks being paid, either by the collections on Jambooſeer, &c. or otherwiſe we were immediately to reſtore that Pergunnah. This was agreed upon until the pleaſure of the Superior Council ſhould be known; and I have accordingly adviſed the Select Committee of Bombay, and have alſo informed them of what Pergunnahs the Peiſhwa is willing, and has given his orders to his Commiſſaries, to make over for the country of three lacks.

This letter goes by Coſſids, laid every fifteen or twenty coſs, to Benares, and I imagine will reach Calcutta in about eighteen days.

I ſhall endeavour to wait for further inſtructions at Poonah, but if I find this impracticable, I will ſtay at Auringabad, diſtant about ſeventy or eighty coſs, through which place the Coſſids paſs.

The Peiſhwa writes to you, Gentlemen, to aſſiſt him with two battalions of Sepoys, and promiſes in return to ſend at any time, on demand of the Superior Council, a body of cavalry, to act as the Engliſh may require. He has been induced to make this requeſt of two battalions of Sepoys, from the friendly profeſſions you have been pleaſed to make, and becauſe his enemies have been enabled to head againſt him, from Ragonaut Row's having been ſo long ſupported by the Preſidency of Bombay, after the Treaty was concluded. The Miniſters ſay if their requeſt is complied with, it will be every where known the part the Engliſh take, and their diſputes ſoon end; this requeſt was intended to have been made two months ago, when Ragonaut Row firſt made his eſcape from Surat; their reaſons might be ſomewhat ſtronger then for aſking this aid: I obſerved this to the Miniſters, but they inſiſted on ſending their letter, and deſired me to write to endeavour to enforce their requeſt.

Neither vackeel or letter has arrived from Futty Sing, except what has been already forwarded. I imagine the man keeps back until he ſees which party will get the better; though the Miniſters will not acknowledge this, they excuſe his delays from his being kept at home, and conſtantly employed defending his country againſt his brother. As before, I have again aſſured the Miniſters, that the proofs reſpecting the Peiſhwa's having the ſole right to the Guzerat country, muſt be found ſatisfactory by you, Gentlemen, before the ceſſations made by Futty Sing can be reſtored.

It is now ſix weeks and upwards ſince Sedaſhew Row has been in poſſeſſion of almoſt the whole country between Bombey and Poonah. An advanced party of his was for ſeveral days within five coſs of Poonah: Sedaſhew Row has never himſelf been nearer than about eighteen coſs. Skirmiſhes are happening daily between the two armies; the Peiſhwa's troops are ſaid in theſe generally to have been victorious. Orders are ſent to the Peiſhwa's army, to march to where the Bhow's grand army is poſted, and make a general aſſault. The Miniſters expect this will take place in three or four days; they are to make ſeveral attack, and to endeavour to cut off a retreat to the Bow. Sinda and Tucojee, who have been ſome time at Poorunder, are to command theſe attacks. Imrut Row, Ragonaut Row's adopted ſon, is with the Bhow. Ragonaut Row is ſaid to be near the Portugueſe ſettlement of Daman.

Moribah left Poonah, and went to a fort of his own, about twenty coſs diſtant, fourteen days ago. I cannot learn what his intentions are, though it is generally thought he will either join Ragonaut Row or the Bhow; the two latter have not yet met. I ſhould think it impoſſible (having nearly the ſame object in view) that they can act in concert. I had written thus far, when the Miniſters ſent to deſire me to defer writing to Calcutta for three or four days, as they would re-conſider the ſubject of their letter, before they ſent it off. I therefore diſpatch this by way of Maſulipatam, as, upon a reviſal, I think it the more proper route; beſides, theſe people have already ſo long delayed writing, that it is not impoſſible their letter may not be ready yet theſe ſix or eight days, and I wiſh to adviſe immediately of what has been already done towards carrying the Treaty into execution.

I hope I ſhall receive a reply from Bombay, to my letter of the 19th, ſoon enough to ſend off with the Peiſhwa's letter. Appendix, No 144.

The paſſports from the Vizier have arrived for Goupkaboy and Siccaram Bappoo; and have been preſented, together with thoſe from Chete Sing, to Siccaram Bappoo, who expreſſed his warmeſt acknowledgements for this favour.

I have been honoured, Gentlemen, with your letter of the 24th July; and am greatly obliged by the indulgence, in permitting me to chuſe my route on my return to Bengal, which I ſuppoſe ſhall be by Hyderabad and Maſulipatam.

Poorunder, I have, &c.
26th October 1776. (Signed) J. Upton.

Ordered, That the incloſures be inſerted after the Conſultation.

Agreed, That the following letter be written to Lieutenant Colonel Upton:

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 26th October, with its ſundry incloſures.

We have only to acquaint you, that we have approved the accommodation which you have made with the Miniſters, for the mortgage of the territory of Jambooſer, and the Peiſhwa's collections in and about Surat, for the payment of the twelve lacks of rupees ſtipulated by the 6th Article of the Treaty, to be paid by the Maratta Government to the Company.

We are, &c.

Reſolved, That the following letter be written to Bombay:

Gentlemen,

Since the date of our laſt letter to you from this department, we have received advices from Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated 26th October, wherein he acquaints us, That he had obtained from the Maratta Government a ceſſion of the Pergunnahs of Hanſood, Oclaſeer, and Deſbora, as the territory of three lacks, ſtipulated by the 5th Article of the Treaty, to be yielded to the Company; and that he had made an accommodation with that Government, by which the country of Jambooſeer, together with the Maratta collections in and about Surat, have been mortgaged for the payment of the twelve lacks of rupees, agreeable to the condition of the 6th Article. We cannot but approve of this mortgage, as it affords a good ſecurity for the diſcharge of the ſum to be paid by the Peiſhwa, and is leſs liable to cauſe diſputes with his Government than any other mode he could have propoſed. As Colonel Upton will moſt probably have left Poonah, on his return to Bengal, before the arrival of this letter, we think it proper to repeat our recommendation, that you will appoint ſome perſon to reſide at the Peiſhwa's Court after his departure, with inſtructions to correſpond with us on any material occurrences which may come to his knowledge.

We are, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 144.

Extract Bengal Secret Conſultations, 23d December, 1776.

Letter from Colonel Upton.

Gentlemen,

I HAD the honour of addreſſing you laſt on the 26th October.

The Miniſters have at length got their letter ready; they have declined aſking the aſſiſtance of troops, as now their inteſtine diſturbances are nearly at an end. There is ſome excuſe for the delay of this letter; the information from their different Sirdars in the Cockun country, which are arriving daily, kept them from closing it, as they wished to advise fully, and with certainty.

Appendix. No. 144.

The Peishwa is very desirous of a Resident being sent to Poonah.

They now see the reason why the Council of Bombay decline sending one. The Ministers desired me to be very particular in making this request.

Sidashu Row was totally defeated on the 27th ultimo, he was taken prisoner by one of their Sirdars, Ragoojee Angria, who commands a fort on the sea shore, just as he had put off to have escaped, as is said, to Bombay. The inclosed letters will inform so very particularly of every transaction since I had the honour to write last, that little is left for me to say.

I have not yet received an answer from Bombay, to my letter of the 19th ultimo, which was sent by way of Surat; but that no time might be lost, I dispatched extracts of such parts of this letter as related to the cession of the country of three lacks, and of the manner proposed by the Peishwa for payment of the twelve lacks, by the direct road to Bombay. I shall do myself the honour, Gentlemen, to write immediately on the adjustment of these particulars.

As there is every appearance of hostilities soon commencing between the Presidency of Bombay and this State, I shall endeavour to convince the Ministers to how little purpose I now remain at Poonah, and that my services may be more effectually employed in their behalf at Calcutta. That I cannot render them any here, is certain; therefore I imagine they will consent to my departure. I have convinced the Ministers, that the Government of Bombay will soon receive such orders as will put an entire stop to all acts of hostility; and that they might be assured, in the mean time, no assistance would be afforded them from any of the other Presidencies.

The Ministers are sensible they can sustain no other injury than that of the immense expence incurred by keeping up a large inactive army, before the orders will arrive; but they observe, as these Gentlemen have thought proper to disobey the orders that have been heretofore sent, and disregard such solemn engagements as the treaties now subsisting between the two Nations, they shall have still every thing to apprehend that can be effected by their intrigues; their arms they seem to disregard.

The Peishwa has ordered Sadashu Row, to be brought to Poonah. I hear they again intend shewing him to the people.

Ragonaut Row is still in the neighbourhood of the Portuguese settlement, Daman. He has wrote to the Ministers lately, and proposed accepting a Jaghire, either in the Candeish country, or near Jansi: as the Ministers will agree to this, they expect soon to see him settled. He has at present very few people with him, and is almost surrounded by about fifteen thousand of the Peishwa's troops.

In a few days the Peishwa intends sending an army of forty or fifty thousand men, under Hurry Pundit and the Pretinctly, against Hyder Ally.

As I expect to leave Poonah very shortly, I have to request you will be pleased, Gentlemen, to order my letter to be forwarded by way of Masulipatam.

Poonah, 13th November 1776. I have, &c. (Signed) J. Upton.

Translation of a letter from Mhada Row Peishwa, to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, received 8th November 1776.

A seditious man, who assumed the name of Sedashu Row, assembled an army, plundered the whole Cockun country, and brought the war to the very environs of Poonah. But Madajee Sindia and Banrow Panue, two of the officers of the Government's army, after repeated defeats, plundered his army, and pursued him to the sea. He attempted an escape with some of his party in a boat, but Ragojee Angria, one of our chief officers, being informed of it, followed, and at length seized him, and was bringing him to the capital. While he was prosecuting this design, he received a letter from the Governor of Bombay, in the following terms:—"He "(Sedashee Row) was on his way to Bombay, and you "have carried him with you. Our charge is now in "your hands. Send him, and give him liberty to see "us."

This circumstance has affected us with the greatest surprize, for it is engaged both in the former treaties, and in the late Treaty concluded between the Maratta Government and the English, that neither of the contracting parties shall harbour or aid the rebels of the other; and that the deserters shall be mutually delivered up. What relation does the Governor of Bombay bear to that seditious man, which should incite him to desire to see him—and what does he mean by writing such a letter?

Another matter of complaint is as follows:—About a thousand of his adherents, after the defeat, crossed a branch of the sea near Salsette, and placed themselves and the elephants, horses, and baggage of their leader, under the protection of the fort of Salsette, when Bheim Row arrived in pursuit of them as far as the hithermost shore. Mr. Halsey, the chief of Salsette, wrote two or three letters to the commanders of our army, one of which I inclose. I request that you will do me the favour to transmit a copy of this letter, with a letter from yourself, containing a circumstantial relation of all these facts to the Governor and Council of Bombay, that they may deliver up to our officers all the rebels, who are now harboured by the English, either in Bombay or Salsette, or other places; and forego their desire of seeing the rebel, as well as refrain from every fact which may be inconsistent with the treaties, or injurious to the good understanding which subsists between the two States. By this means the friendship will be established on a firmer basis. Inclosed is a letter which I have written to the Governor of Bombay, on the subject of those proceedings. You will forward it to Bombay, and desire a compliant answer immediately, for had any deserter from the English entered my country, and you required him, I would have delivered him up. A copy of the letter addressed to the Governor of Bombay, is inclosed for your inspection.

Translation of a letter from the Peishwa to the Honourable the Governor of Bombay.

The words used in the preceding letter, from the beginning to "one of which I inclose," are repeated here; the first person in what respects the Governor of Bombay being substituted for the third. Brimrow having charged Mr. Halsey, the chief of Salsette, with the elephants, horses, and baggage belonging to the rebel, went away to perform other business for the Government. You are required to deliver up the rebels who are harboured by the English in Bombay, Salsette, &c. to our officers, and refrain from such acts which are inconsistent with the Treaty, and injurious to the good understanding which subsists between the two States, by which means friendship will be established on a firmer basis.

P. S.—Dispatch an answer complying with the contents of this letter speedily, or should you have other intentions, inform me, that I may write accordingly to the Supreme Council in Calcutta.

Translation of a letter from John Halsey, Esquire, Chief of Salsette, to the Commander of the Peishwa's army.

The village of Calvan is situated within the range of the Salsette guns, I cannot therefore permit you to carry on a war there, but request that you will neither send your men into it, nor attack it with fire-arms; should you do so, we shall be under the necessity of firing firing from the fort. On this we have reſolved—be it your part to preſerve the friendſhip.

Dated 19th Ranzaun, 1190 Higera.

Letter from the ſame to Bhuns Row Bhauree.

I have received two letters from you. I before wrote to deſire that you would not make war, and deſired in the ſame manner of the men who were near Calvan, that they would not make war with you; they came of their own accord into our dependancies, and I cannot deliver them to you; ſome of your Chiefs and Bramins, through fear of Serrimunt Rajeſherry Bhow Sudabah, came into this place for a ſhort time, we likewiſe gave them protection. Thoſe men were demanded on the part of the Aumildars of Sudabah, and we refuſed to give them up to them. What ſhall I write more? Let friendſhip ever ſubſiſt.

Lieutenant Colonel Upton's letter having arrived in time to be forwarded to the Court of Directors by the Shrewſbury, a copy of it was ſent a number in that ſhip's packet.

APPENDIX, No. 145.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, dated 30th December, 1776.

RECEIVED the following letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Gentlemen,

I trouble you with this, purpoſely to acquaint you that Ragonath Row went to and was received at Bombay, about twelve days ago, to the very great ſurpriſe and concern of the Peiſhwa's Miniſters, who at the very time thought their domeſtic diſturbances quite at an end by having agreed to fix on Ragonath Row the Jaghire he had requeſted.

I have wrote to the Seleƈt Committee of Bombay, to know the particulars of this extraordinary event, and am expecting their reply daily, but would not defer adviſing you, Gentlemen, for one day, of ſo material a circumſtance as this, of Ragonath Row's being received into Bombay, ſo obviouſly in breach of the late Treaty.

Sida Shu Row is on his way to Poonah, eſcorted by Sindia: he is permitted to travel with his cuſtomary retinue, as the Miniſters declare he ſhall ſuffer no indignities, till they and the public ſhall be ſatisfied that he is not the perſon he has given himſelf out to be.

The paragraph in my letter of the 19th July, where I mentioned the neceſſity of confirming, &c. was altogether meant on the part of this country, to reſtore peace and tranquillity to it, and to accelerate the accompliſhment of the Treaty. Reſiding as a Miniſter at this Court, when ſuch event ſhould have taken place, I ſhould have conceived it neceſſary and uſual, to have mentioned the treaties ſubſiſting between the two Nations, and the making and receiving the cuſtomary profeſſions of friendſhip.

I have been honoured by the receipt of your letter of the 30th September, with the copy of a letter of the ſame date, to the Governor and Council of Bombay, my laſt to you, Gentlemen, was dated the 13th November.

This goes by the Peiſhwa's dawk, and I hope will be in Calcutta in twenty days at fartheſt.

Poonah, 24th November 1776. I have the honour to be, &c. (Signed) J. Upton.

Read the following letter from Bombay:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

We have received your letter, dated the 30th December, and the incloſed papers.

The extracts we have now the honour to tranſmit from our Secret Conſultations will place in their proper light the circumſtances mentioned in your letter, of our giving protection to ſome of the defeated adherents of Sudabah, our interpoſition with Ragojee Angria in his favour, and our receiving into Bombay the perſon of Ragonaut Row. We are perſuaded, that when you have given theſe extracts a candid peruſal, the impreſſion made on your minds by the repreſentation you have received from Poonah on theſe points will be entirely removed, and that you will no longer conſider our preventing a handful of wretched Sepoys from being ſlaughtered under the walls of a Britiſh fortreſs as repugnant to any Treaty, but as an act dictated by humanity, and warranted by the law of nations. We ſent the meſſage mentioned in our Minutes to Ragojee Angria, after he had by treachery got Sudabah into his poſſeſſion, becauſe the latter had been promiſed our protection, and we eſteemed it our duty to endeavour to ſave him from being murdered, which we concluded would be the caſe if he was ſent to Poonah, by the perfidious Angria; but we diſclaim any declaration of war in caſe of his refuſal to deliver Sudabah up. Appendix No. 145.

We beg leave to obſerve, that we are not anſwerable for any thing the adherents of Subadah may have thought proper to write to his confederates.

Without entering into any diſcuſſion of your authority to give us an order to expel Ragoba from Bombay, and putting out of the queſtion the diſgrace and bad conſequences which would have attended ſuch a meaſure, and every conſideration of honour and humanity by which we eſteemed ourſelves bound to protect him, it appeared to us quite unadviſeable, and warranted by no political neceſſity, to compel him to depart, as Colonel Upton had acquainted us, under the 12th December, that the Miniſters ſeemed well pleaſed, and for the preſent ſatisfied with the aſſurances he had made them at our deſire in conſequence of Ragoba's having taking refuge here; and we had reaſon to hope, from the profeſſions they made, that ſatisfactory terms would ſoon be ſettled for him, Mr. Moſtyn being then ſhortly to proceed to Poonah, to whom this point would be given in eſpecial charge. We therefore have not ſignified your orders to Ragoba, and we flatter ourſelves Mr. Moſtyn will meet with ſucceſs, and that your intentions will thereby be anſwered, as it is very pleaſing to us whenever we can promote the execution of them. Mr. Moſtyn ſet off for Poonah the 14th ultimo, and arrived there the 29th: he had not then had an audience from the Peiſhwa, but was to proceed to Poorunder in two days for that purpoſe. He adviſes the death of Ram Rajah on the 24th ultimo, which may probably occaſion ſome alteration in the Poonah Government. We incloſe copy of his inſtructions, which we hope you will approve, and that they will convince you of our diſpoſition to preſerve a good underſtanding with the Maratta State.

Much has paſſed between us and Colonel Upton on the ſubject of the evaſive conduct of the Miniſters in complying with the 5th Article of the Treaty. In the beginning of December laſt he adviſed, that he had ſettled with them that the Pergunnahs of Ahmood, Hanſood, and Deſbora, ſhould be made over to the Company, and that if the revenues of theſe places amounted to more than three lacks, the exceſs ſhould be deducted from Amoor or Hanſood; on the contrary, if there was any deficiency, it was to be made up by grants of villages from the Pergunnah of Occlaſeer. This was a very fair, equitable agreement, and we then hoped the buſineſs was entirely concluded in an advantageous manner to the Company; but owing to ſome colluſion between the Poonah agents at Broach and their principals, the country is not to this hour made over to the Company. That you may have full information of our proceedings, and be better able to judge what meaſures to purſue, we now tranſmit copies of all the papers on this ſubject ſince the ſettlement made by Colonel Upton, and the letters from Meſſrs. Carnac, Boddam, and Ramſay, now at Broach, and hope that our conduct will be ſatisfactory to you.

In the above papers you will obſerve the demand made by the Miniſters for the poſſeſſion of Jamboſeer, which is equally oppoſite to the agreement made with Colonel

Appendix. No. 146.

Colonel Upton, and if complied with, would leave the Company without any ſecurity for the twelve lacks on the country ceded by the 5th Article.

Since writing the above, we have been honoured with your letter, dated the 27th January.

What we have already wrote, and the extracts above referred to, will in a great meaſure ſerve as a reply to one of them; and we can only further obſerve, that we ever underſtood it to be the cuſtom of all nations, and we think it inconſiſtent with reaſon and common ſenſe, not to permit of hoſtilities being committed within the reach of the guns of a fortification, which induced us to give the orders we did to the Chief and Council at Tannah, and not any intention of invading the territorial rights of the Marattas.

By the extracts of our Minutes, it will appear that Ragonaut Row eſcaped from the fort of Tinapore, where he was beſieged by his enemies on board an Engliſh veſſel, and came in perſon to Bombay, to ſolicit our protection, without any encouragement or invitation from us. The fort ſoon afterwards was taken by the Poonah forces.

In deference, Gentlemen, to the ſentiments you have been pleaſed to expreſs of the late revolution at Madras, we will in future addreſs our letters for that Preſidency "To the Honourable the Preſident and Council of Madras," inſtead of the addreſs we have hitherto continued, declaring however, that we ſtill retain the opinion of that tranſaction expreſſed in our letter of the 17th November.

Mr. Draper having differed from us on this point, we, at his requeſt, tranſmit copy of his diſſent, and acquaint you, that he ſtill continues of the ſame opinion.

The extracts you have requeſted in your letter of the 30th December, being exceedingly long, and having very few aſſiſtants in our public offices, it is out of our power to comply at preſent with your deſire, but we now tranſmit a copy of the treaty now in force between this Preſidency and Hyder Ally, the others having been already ſent to you at different times.

We have, &c.

Bombay Caſtle, 14th April 1774. (Signed) Wm Hornby, Preſident and Council.

APPENDIX, No. 146.

Extract Bengal Secret Conſultations, 30th November 1776.

Reply to Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

WE have received your letters of the 13th and 24th ultimo.

It is with much ſurprize we read the information contained in them, reſpecting the conduct of Mr. Halſey, Chief of Salſette, in threatening to fire on the Peiſhwa's forces, if they ſhould continue their operations againſt Calvan; and of the Governor of Bombay, in ſending deputies to Ragojie Angria, one of the Maratta Chiefs, to demand the perſon of Sudaba. Theſe facts are ſo contrary to that repeated injunction to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, and to their aſſurances in reply, that we cannot give credit to the reports which have been made to you, until we are furniſhed with the explanation of them, which we have required from the Preſidency.

We have alſo given poſitive orders to the Preſident and Council, to require and compel Rogoba to quit Bombay, or any of its dependencies that he may be in, at the receipt of our letter.

We muſt obſerve, that the letters written by the Miniſters ſince the concluſion of the Treaty, are filled with reproaches againſt the Government of Bombay, for acts committed by them previous to the date of it; all which ought to have been cancelled by the Treaty. They likewiſe put the moſt unfavourable conſtructions on every report which is made to them, concerning the conduct of the Engliſh. Theſe circumſtances mark a diſpoſition to enmity in the Miniſters, which is the more obvious to us, from your aſſertion, that you will endeavour to convince the Miniſters to how little purpoſe you now remain at Poonah: "that it is certain, that you cannot "render them any ſervice there, and you therefore imagine they will conſent to your departure;" and from their declaration, "that the reaſon you have not left "Poonah, is, that no other perſon has been ſent from "Bombay to reſide there." What can we conclude from theſe expreſſions, but that you are detained there by compulſion. We hope this is not the caſe; but on the ſuppoſition that it is, a letter has been written to the Peiſhwa, requiring your immediate diſmiſſion: And we hereby poſitively order and command you, if you ſhall be at Poonah on the receipt hereof, to take your leave immediately of the Maratta Court, and return to this Preſidency.

Fort William, 30th December 1776. We are, &c.

Reſolved, That a letter be written to Bombay, as follows:

Gentlemen,

We have been informed, by a letter from Colonel Upton, dated the 13th November, and by letters from the Peiſhwa and his Miniſters, which were received at the ſame time, that Mr. Halſey, the Chief of Salſette, had threatened to fire on the Peiſhwa's forces, if they attempted to carry on their operations againſt the village of Calvan; that he had given ſhelter to about a thouſand of the adherents of Sudabah in Salſette, whom he refuſed to deliver up, on the requiſition of the Peiſhwa's officers; and that two deputies on the part of your Government had arrived with Ragojee Angria, and demanded the perſon of Sudabah in his name; making a declaration of war in caſe of refuſal.

By a letter juſt received from Colonel Upton, of the 24th November, we are further informed, that Ragonaut Row had taken refuge in the iſland of Bombay, twelve days previous to that date; and that he had actually been admitted there.

Theſe acts, if they have really paſſed, are ſo repugnant to the repeated injunctions we have given you, to your repeated aſſurances in conſequence of them, to the Treaties of Peace concluded with the Maratta State, and to the powers which are veſted in this Government by Parliament, that we cannot give entire credit to the report of them, however good the authority may appear to be from which they are received; but we conſider theſe ſubjects of too much importance to withhold the immediate communication of them from you: And for your better information, we incloſe copies of the ſeveral papers alluded to; among theſe you will perceive the tranſlation of an intercepted letter, ſaid to have been written from one of the adherents of Sudaba, reſiding at Bombay, to his confederates, encouraging them with aſſurances of ſupport from your government.

We deſire that you will inform us very minutely of the real circumſtances to which all theſe repreſentations refer; and in the mean time we think it neceſſary to repeat our moſt earneſt and poſitive injunctions, that you abſtain not only from every act of hoſtility againſt the Maratta State, but from every occaſion which may tend to renew the former breach between us, except in the caſe of your being actually attacked by them.

If it be true, that Ragonaut Row has received the protection of your Government, and ſhall be at Bombay, or in any of its dependencies, when you receive this letter, we peremptorily order and inſiſt, that you immediately require and compel him to depart therefrom. It is our fixed determination, that the Peace which has been eſtabliſhed ſhall not be broken by any act of ours, or our dependants. We expect that you will join heartily, with us in this reſolution, and that your endeavours be united to ours, in preſerving a good underſtanding with the Maratta Government.

We

We requeſt that you will furniſh us with extracts from your Conſultations of all your Minutes, debates, and reſolutions, upon the ſubject of your tranſactions with the Marattas, ſince the commencement of your firſt correſpondence with Ragoba; but as we deem it of conſequence, that we ſhould be immediately apprized of the circumſtances which have a relation to the facts alluded to in the beginning of this letter, you will be pleaſed to tranſmit to us, as ſoon as poſſible, exact copies of all your proceedings upon thoſe ſubjects; particularly ſpecifying the names of the Members preſent at each Conſultation, and their ſeveral opinions.

Fort William, 30th December 1776. We are, &c.

To Siccarom Pundit: written 6th January 1777.

I have received your letter wherein you inform me that Salſette was perfidiouſly ſeized by the Engliſh of Bombay, in violation of the Peace which ſubſiſted between two States; that they then gave their aid to Serrimunt Ragonaut Row; in conſequence of which diſturbances enſued, and that by means of Colonel Upton, whom I had deputed for that purpoſe, a Peace was concluded; that the Engliſh did not obſerve the Treaty in withdrawing themſelves from Ragonaut Row, but carried him near the fort of Surat, where he remained with his army for three months and twenty days after the concluſion of the Peace; that his army was afterwards diſbanded, but he was ſheltered under the Engliſh protection during the time that your army continued in thoſe parts; and that when the rainy ſeaſon arrived, and that your army was withdrawn, they in conſequence of my peremptory injunctions diſmiſſed Ragonaut Row, but gave no intimation of it to you. You add, that this can by no means be conſidered as an act of friendſhip, but on the contrary, that it aſtoniſhed you. You alſo adviſe me, that a victory has been obtained by the Peiſhwa's forces over a ſeditious man, who had aſſumed the name of Sedaſhew Row, and created diſturbances in the Cucun country; and that this man after his defeat had been taken priſoner by Ragojee Angria, one of your Chiefs; but that about a thouſand of his adherents had taken refuge in Salſette, whom Mr. Halſey, the Chief of that place, had refuſed to deliver up; and that he had moreover threatened to fire on the Peiſhwa's troops, if they perſiſted in carrying on their operations ſo near as Calvan.

You inform me in a poſtſcript of the ſame letter, that Ragojee Angria had adviſed you of the arrival of two deputies with him from the Governor of Bombay, to demand the perſon of Sedaſhew Row, who had declared that the conſequence of not ſending him immediately would be war.

I rejoice to hear of the ſucceſs of the Peiſhwa's arms, and of the reſtoration of Peace to the Maratta dominions; and I congratulate you with pleaſure on both theſe events, but my joy is conſiderably damped by the unexpected reports above-mentioned.

The conduct of Mr. Halſey in threatening to fire on your army, and of the Government of Bombay, in ſending perſons to demand the perſon of Sedaſhew Row, if true, are both acts inconſiſtent with the Treaty, and with the friendſhip which now ſubſiſts between us; but they are ſo contrary to the peremptory injunctions which have been given, and to the repeated aſſurances received from that Government, that I do not know how to give credit to them till I hear from Bombay: I have written to the Governor there for an explanation, and as it would be wrong to condemn him unheard; I muſt ſuſpend my determination till I am furniſhed with his reply. In the mean time, you may reſt aſſured that I ſhall ſuffer no real acts of hoſtility or violence to be committed againſt your Government by the Engliſh in any quarter.

At ſuch a time as this, we muſt expect that falſe reports will be made to us, either from motives of ſelf-intereſt, malice, or diſtruſt; and it is the point equally of friendſhip and of prudence to be on our guard, that we do not ſuffer ſuch repreſentations to make any impreſſion on our minds, unleſs they are ſupported by undoubted authority. Appendix, No. 146.

This I have laid down as a rule for myſelf, being in my heart determined to maintain the Peace which has been eſtabliſhed between us. It is with this view that I muſt expreſs to you my regret in obſerving ſymptoms of a very different diſpoſition in you. It is one of the duties of friendſhip, and a principle of good policy, when peace is concluded, to give the cauſes of war to oblivion, becauſe the remembrance of them cannot exiſt without a deſire of revenge; yet every letter that I have received from you ſince the ratification of the Treaty, has been filled with epithets of reproach, and exaggerated enumerations of injuries, which if received, that Treaty ought to have cancelled for ever. Not content with this, you raiſe up new pretenſions, which are equally oppoſite to good faith and to juſtice.

I too could recriminate, and on better grounds, but I forbear, becauſe my eyes look only to peace, and the confirmation of it: I have repeatedly deſired that you would grant Colonel Upton his diſmiſſion, you now declare that the reaſon of his ſtay is, that the Governor and Council of Bombay may ſend a deputy to Poonah to ſatisfy you that Colonel Upton afterwards ſhall receive his diſmiſſion, otherwiſe the Council of Bombay will ſoon break the engagements ſubſiſting between the Maratta State and the Engliſh.

What am I to underſtand by this, but that Colonel Upton is detained by compulſion, and that under the ſpecious appellation of a Reſident, you require a hoſtage from Bombay in his room? That I may not injure you by ſuch a concluſion, however juſtified by your own declaration and too ſtrong appearances, I have now given peremptory orders to Colonel Upton to return, and rely on your honour that no impediment or objection will be made to it on your part, but I have hopes that he will already have received his diſmiſſion from you, and that what I have written on the ſubject is unneceſſary.

I have taken notice of your raiſing up new pretences, the inſtance which I ſhall allude to is this, you deſire to be furniſhed with a letter to the Governor and Council of Madras, ordering them in poſitive terms, to ſee that Raja Tulkajee be firmly eſtabliſhed in his Rajaſhip, and that Raminautpore be reſtored to him. Raja Tulkajee is a ſubject of the Carnatic; the Company, out of tenderneſs to him, were induced to give particular orders for his being reſtored to the poſſeſſions which he now holds —he has been accordingly reſtored to them. In all the time of our correſpondence and negociations, the name of Tulkagee has not been mentioned. On what grounds or what purpoſe is this ſubject now introduced? Though I do not hold myſelf accountable to any power but the King of Great Britain, or the Company, whoſe ſervant I immediately am, for any conduct that may be obſerved to the Raja of Tanjore, either by the Soubah of the Carnatic, or by our Government, yet I make no ſcruple to aſſure you, that I ſhall ever conform to the faith of Treaties, and to the dictates of juſtice in all my dealings with the Raja, as well as in my tranſactions with any other Powers; nor has he any cauſe to complain of the want of either.

To Balajee Pundit.

Of the ſame tenor and date.

Extract of the Secret Letter from Bengal; dated 6th January 1777.

Par. 4. You will obſerve by the letter from Colonel Upton, dated 13th November, which arrived juſt in time to be tranſmitted to you by the Shrewſbury, that the Miniſters at Poonah have charged the Chief of Salſette with threatening to fire at the Peiſhwa's troops, if they perſiſted in carrying on their operations ſo near as the village of Calvan, which, though lying on the Continent, appears appears to be within cannon ſhot of the fort: and with granting protection to about a thouſand of Sudaba's adherents, who had fled to Salſette after his defeat; and that they alſo accuſe the Governor of Bombay of having ſent two deputies to demand the perſon of Sudaba from Ragojee Angria, one of the Maratta Chiefs, who had taken him priſoner, with a menace of war in caſe of refuſal. By a letter ſince received from Colonel Upton, under date the 24th November, we underſtand that Ragonaut Row had gone to Bombay, and actually been received into that iſland.

Appendix. No. 147.

5. Theſe facts in general, but particularly that reſpecting the deputies, appear too extraordinary to gain any credit from us; however we thought them of ſo much conſequence as to make an immediate communication of them to the Preſident and Council of Bombay, from whom we have required a full explanation of the circumſtances to which they allude, and extracts of all their proceedings upon the ſubject, ſpecifying particularly the names of the Members preſent each Conſultation, and their ſeveral opinions.

6. Whatever grounds may have been afforded to the Miniſters for complaint in theſe inſtances, we cannot but remark ſtrong ſymptoms of indiſpoſition on their part, in the continual and exaggerated repetition of former injuries, the remembrance of which ought to have been obliterated by the Treaty, in the exceptions made by them to the conditions of the Treaty itſelf, in the introduction of new pretenſions, under colour of a family connection with the Rajah of Tanjore, and in the too ſtrong reaſons they have given us to ſuſpect them of taking advantage of our confidence in their good faith, to detain Colonel Upton by compulſion, and under frivolous pretences, notwithſtanding our peremptory orders for his return. This laſt concluſion we ground on the following paſſages in the letters laſt received from the Peiſhwa and Colonel Upton, which we cannot give any other conſtruction; viz.

Extract from the Peiſhwa's letter.

" You have deſired that I will give Colonel Upton " his diſmiſſion; the reaſon of his ſtay is, that the Go- " vernor and Council of Bombay may ſend a deputy " here, perſonally, to ſatisfy us; Colonel Upton ſhall " afterwards receive his diſmiſſion, otherwiſe the Coun- " cil of Bombay will ſoon break the engagements ſub- " ſiſting between the Maratta State and the Engliſh."

Extract from Colonel Upton's letter; dated 15th November.

" As there is every appearance of hoſtilities ſoon com- " mencing between the Preſidency of Bombay and this " State, I ſhall endeavour to convince the Miniſters to " how little purpoſe I now remain at Poonah, and that " my ſervices may be more effectually employed in their " behalf at Calcutta; that I cannot render them any " here is certain, therefore I imagine they will conſent " to my departure."

A letter has been diſpatched to the Peiſhwa, requiring the immediate diſmiſſion of Colonel Upton; and another to Colonel Upton, ordering him to take his leave of the Maratta Court without further delay. To both theſe we beg leave to refer you.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 13th January 1777.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

General Clavering having objected to the ſixth paragraph of the general letter prepared for the Triton, the Secretary received the following letter and Minute from him on that occaſion, and copy of the Minute was ſent a number in the packet.

To Mr. Auriol.

Sir,

I ſend you my proteſt to the ſixth paragraph in the letter to the Court of Directors, written in the Secret Department, and deſire it may make a number in the packet. I am, &c.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

I proteſt againſt the ſixth paragraph of the letter going from the Secret Department to the Court of Directors by this diſpatch, becauſe I conceive the Board is not warranted by any act of the Government of Poonah, or declaration of their Miniſters, to draw the concluſions, that are inferred, and even expreſſed in this paragraph, that " we have reaſon to ſuſpect they mean to take ad- " vantage of our confidence in their good faith, to " detain Colonel Upton by compulſion."

If we conſider the two letters referred to, there is nothing that can imply the conſtruction that is given to them: the word " diſmiſs" in the Peiſhwa's letter, and " conſent" in Colonel Upton's, import the ſame meaning, which is no more than expreſſing the uſual ceremony in Indoſtan, of granting diſmiſſion or leave to go away to inferiors by ſuperiors. If we refer to the public conduct of the Maratta State, we have no reaſon to complain of their violation of treaties or their breach of good faith: they ſtrictly obſerved the ſuſpenſion of arms, though it was not maintained on the part of the Preſidency of Bombay: they have endeavoured to fulfil the Treaty concluded with Colonel Upton, though it has been all along evaded by the Government of Bombay; firſt, by giving refuge to Ragoba at Surat; then ſecretly negociating with Sudabah, and protecting his followers; and laſtly, by affording an aſylum to Ragoba himſelf in Bombay. If after the ſacrifice of Salſette, the territory near Broach, and what was ſtill more degrading to them, the offer to pay the expences of the war, by giving up certain territories till they were liquidated, nobody can blame the Peiſhwa for uttering complaints, that he made all theſe ſacrifices without obtaining what he had a right to expect, Peace. The concluſions therefore drawn from any expreſſions of complaint in the Peiſhwa's letters are ungenerous, and rather imply an intention to quarrel with him than he with us.

APPENDIX, No. 147.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 27th January 1777.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

READ, the following letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letter of the 14th October; the letter that accompanied it from the Governor General for Siccaram Bappoo, was received by that Miniſter, with warm expreſſions of ſatisfaction—You forgot, Gentlemen, to write to Ballajee Pundit; I made ſuch neceſſary obſervations as occurred on the occaſion, and left him very well pleaſed.—The Miniſters reſiding generally ten coſs diſtant from each other, in ſome meaſure makes it neceſſary to write to them ſeparately, but it is more particularly ſo from their eſteeming themſelves equal in office, to avoid a jealouſy that a ſeeming preference given to either would cauſe.

I wrote laſt on the 24th ultimo, purpoſely to adviſe of Ragonath Row's being at Bombay; and I have received one letter only ſince that time from thoſe Gentlemen, dated the 20th November.

The following is all therein, that relates to Ragonaut Row: "Ragoba has put himſelf under our protection, "and he now reſides at Bombay."—I have now the honour to incloſe what letters have paſſed ſince my letter of the 13th November—theſe contain the meaſures that have been purſued towards the completion of the 5th Article of the Treaty, &c. &c.

The Miniſters promiſe I ſhall take my departure immediately on the receipt of replies to my letters to Bombay, of the 17th and 19th November—The laſt contained the Peiſhwa's repreſentations of the active part taken by the Preſidency of Bombay, in the contentions of their country, and requiring their reaſons for ſuch conduct.—I am expecting theſe replies daily, and ſhall be ready to depart immediately after having acquainted the Miniſters with the ſentiments and intentions of the Government of Bombay towards them.

I hope it has not been forgot to name a Reſident for Poonah; the Council of Bombay decline ſending one, without an order from the Superior Council, and the buſineſs of the two Governments cannot well be tranſacted without one.

I am convinced the Miniſters will have as little connection as poſſible with Bombay, until their preſent jealouſies and prejudices are removed; to effect this, will be full employ for a Reſident, I fear for many months.

The reply from the Governor of Bombay to the Peiſhwa's letter has diſguſted exceedingly; the Miniſters think the language very free for a public letter between nations at peace with each other, and expreſs the greateſt ſurprize that the Council of Bombay ſhould aſſume to themſelves the right of arbitration in the diſputes between the Peiſhwa and his ſubjects; they ſay they ſee no end to the diſaffected ſubjects of the Peiſhwa flying to Bombay, and receiving countenance and protection.

Sedaſhee Row arrived at Poonah a few days ago—the Miniſters intend enquiring into the identity of his perſon in a very public manner, in two or three days.

Since writing the above, I have received a letter from the Select Committee of Bombay, dated the 30th November, a copy of which I have the honour to incloſe.—I have again requeſted the Miniſters to fix an early day for my departure, and I expect to be on my journey in five or ſix days from this date. I have &c.

Ordered, That the incloſures in the above letter be entered after the Conſultation.

Reſolved, That the following letter be written to Bombay:

Gentlemen,

By a letter dated 5th December from Colonel Upton, we have, to our great regret, received a confirmation of the reports which he formerly communicated to us, and which we in conſequence intimated to you in our letter of the 30th ultimo. Colonel Upton having now tranſmitted to us copies of the correſpondence which paſſed between you and him, and between your Preſidency and the Maratta Government, we think theſe documents too well authenticated to admit of our entertaining any doubts of the facts as they were before repreſented. We incloſe a tranſlation of the letter from Mr. Hornby to the Peiſhwa; but as we apprehend that the ſenſe of it may have ſuffered ſome variation from the repeated tranſlations into different languages which it has undergone, we requeſt that you will furniſh us with a copy of the original draft as it was written in the Engliſh.

In your letter to Colonel Upton of the 20th November, we obſerve the following paſſages:

1ſt. "Sudaba's people having fled for protection im- Appendix
"mediately under the guns of Tanna Fort, you, as a No. 147.
"military man, muſt very well know it would have "been totally inconſiſtent to have permitted them to be
"attacked in that ſtation."

2dly. "Ragoba has put himſelf under our protection,
"and he now reſides in Bombay."

As the aſſertion contained in the firſt of the above quotations ſeems to imply a claim which may produce future diſputes with the Maratta Government ſimilar to that which has lately happened, we requeſt that you will inform us on what principles you found ſuch a claim, as it appears to us to be an invaſion of their territorial rights.

Our duty requiring us to foreſee, and to prevent as much as lies in our power, every occaſion of difference between your Preſidency and the Maratta State, we think it incumbent on us to demand this information from you, that we may be able to lay down a certain rule for your guidance, by which the peace of India may not be broken.

As the propriety of your receiving Ragoba depends ſolely on the neceſſity of the circumſtances which gave occaſion firſt, we deſire that you will communicate to us, in the moſt explicit manner, all the tranſactions which led to this meaſure, particularly whether protection was granted to him at his own ſolicitation, and in conſequence of his appearing in perſon to claim it, or if he was encouraged or invited to come to Bombay by any act of your Government.

INCLOSURES.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.

Sir,

We received your letters, dated the 19th and 20th ultimo; the former did not reach us till the 6th inſtant.

We incloſe for your notice a liſt of the ſeveral diſtricts contiguous to Broach, with their computed annual revenue. This liſt was tranſmitted to us by our Commiſſioners, who have therein ranked the diſtricts agreeable to the priority of choice they give to each. The revenue aſſigned to each of theſe places is founded upon experience of their real value, whereas the eſtimation formerly ſent you was framed merely from the information of Ragoba's agents, before we were put in poſſeſſion, and accordingly, as you will obſerve, much exceeds what we have ſince found they will produce. However, we are willing to accept the places offered, if the Miniſters will make up the deficiency by an aſſignment of ſome other convenient territory; and if, contrary to our expectation, the annual revenues of Oulaſeer, Hanſood and Deſharah ſhould exceed three lacks, we will in like manner conſent to reſtore the difference. We have accordingly given the proper inſtructions to our commiſſioners.

The method propoſed by the Miniſters for diſcharging the twelve lacks of rupees, is ſatisfactory to us, and we ſhall give the neceſſary orders for an exact account being kept, of all receipts from Jambooſeer and the Surat Chowkies.

We ſhall make enquiry reſpecting the circumſtances complained of by the Miniſters, when we ſhall give you our anſwer; but the laſt article immediately relating to ourſelves is without foundation.

We are, &c.

N. B. The above is a copy of the liſt of diſtricts mentioned in the letter from the Select Committee of Bombay to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated 7th November 1776.

To the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I have been honoured with your letter of the 7th inſtant, and have acquainted the Peiſhwa's Miniſters, that "you are willing to accept the places offered, pro- "vided the Miniſters will make up the deficiency "by an aſſignment of ſome other convenient territory; "and if the annual revenues of Oulaſeer, Hanſood, and "Deſborah, ſhould exceed three lacks, you will in like "manner conſent to reſtore the difference."—The Peiſhwa conſents to this, and inſtructions are accordingly ſent to the agents at Broach.

In the liſt of diſtricts that accompanied your letter, Hanſood and Oulaſeer are eſtimated at one hundred and forty-five thouſand rupees per annum, excluſive of their preſent aſſignments and tributes to Surat and Broach. Not knowing on what account there were aſſignments or tributes on theſe places, I aſked information from the Miniſters, and to what amount aſſignments, &c. on them were made? But they knew as little of this matter as myſelf; however they have promiſed very particularly to examine revenue books; in the mean time I have to requeſt, Gentlemen, you will be pleaſed to favour me with ſuch particulars as have come to your knowledge concerning theſe aſſignments and tributes.

Hanſood and Oulaſeer are now valued at little more than half their former eſtimation, which you ſent me on the 18th January, and then you had been in poſſeſſion of theſe places (from the preceding month of April) nine months or upwards. The Miniſters, as well as myſelf, ſuppoſe this ſo very ſhort valuation, muſt be owing (for they eſtimate thoſe places to the full as high as in your liſt of the 18th January) to the decreaſe of inhabitants, or to other cauſes incidental on war. They ſay the inhabitants will of courſe ſoon return, and the country as ſoon recover itſelf, when peace and tranquillity ſhall be reſtored to theſe Pergunnahs. They farther obſerve, and with great juſtice, that were the Pergunnahs they cede, to be eſtimated by the collections that were made there, during the late war, or even now in their ruined ſtate, they might give diſtricts to the real value of eight or ten lacks of rupees, inſtead of three lacks, as ſtipulated. You will pleaſe to favour me, Gentlemen, with your opinion on this ſubject, that I may endeavour to form that of the Miniſters to it, or acquaint you in what they differ, that proper directions may accordingly be ſent to the commiſſioners. The Miniſters in this buſineſs are very ready to meet half way; I think we ſhould not be backward in giving them the meeting, as the advantages are all on our ſide. A report prevails here that Ragonaut Row is at Bombay; I am convinced of the almoſt impoſſibility of its being true. The Miniſters told me two days ago, that they had agreed to fix on Ragonaut Row a jaghire in the Canduh country, or near to Janſi, that would be quite ſatisfactory to him; and that they expected this would be ſettled in eight or ten days.

I now forward two packets that arrived laſt night from Fort William. The Governor General and Council have ſent for my peruſal a copy of their letter to you of the 30th September. The very powerful arguments they make uſe of, are now I hope no longer required; nevertheleſs I have taken the liberty, in addition to them, to acquaint you, Gentlemen, that the commiſſion by virtue of which I had the honour to negociate with the Maratta Government, is given by the Superior Council, the ſeal of the Company affixed thereto, and in it is inſerted expreſsly; "We the Governor General and Council of "Bengal, in virtue of the powers veſted in us by the "Legiſlature of Great Britain, &c. &c. have deputed, "you," &c. &c.

I have to requeſt, Gentlemen, you will honour me with a reply to this letter as ſoon as you can conveniently. I am, &c.

Poonah, (Signed) J. Upton.
17th November 1776.

To the Honourable the Preſident &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

In my letter of the 17th inſtant, I acquainted you that a report prevailed here that Ragonaut Row was then at Bombay. I am exceedingly concerned to find this report confirmed by a letter I have juſt now received from the Peiſhwa. He deſires you may be made acquainted with the contents of this letter, and that your anſwer may be immediately procured; for theſe purpoſes therefore, I have incloſed a copy of the Peiſhwa's letter, and have to requeſt, Gentlemen, you will favour me, as expeditiouſly as poſſible, with the reply to the Peiſhwa's accuſations; ſome of which are, admitting the truth of them, but too obvious, in my opinion, infringements of the Treaty. The Peiſhwa's Miniſters think them highly ſo, both of late and former treaties, and complain accordingly.

Poonah, I have, &c.
19th November 1776. (Signed) J. Upton.

Tranſlation of a letter from the Peiſhwa Mhaderow to Lieutenant Colonel Upton; received the 19th November 1776.

I have juſt now heard that Ragonaut Row arrived at the port of Bombay on the 28th of Ramzaun, and the Governor of that place gave him an aſylum in the ſaid port. He alſo before gave protection in the above port and Salſette, to the followers of the ſeditious, with elephants, horſes, and baggage, belonging to Sircar.

Theſe actions are very foreign to the meaning of the Treaty under the Company's ſeal, concluded by you between the Sircar and all the Engliſh.

Prior to this I received letters from the Superior Council of Calcutta, that "we will not give Ragonaut "Row a reſidence in any of the Company's ſettlements; "and all the Councils of the Engliſh ports will act ac- "cording to treaty."

It is entered in the preſent and former treaties, that the rebels of each ſide ſhall be delivered up to one another.

Notwithſtanding theſe Treaties, which are exiſting and preſent with the Sircar, the above meaſure by the Governor of Bombay is cauſe for aſtoniſhment. What can be the meaning of giving habitations to the enemies of the Sircar; cauſing the ruin of the Sircar's dominions; conſtantly raiſing new ſeditions, and throwing my buſineſs into diſorder? and what connection has the Governor and Council of Bombay with this buſineſs?

In order to remove the diſturbances which were between the Sircar and the Council of Bombay, you brought brought a credential letter from the Superior Council of Calcutta; we placed an entire dependence on it, and peace and friendſhip was eſtabliſhed between the Sircar and all the Engliſh. Notwithſtanding this, the Governor and Council of Bombay are repeatedly acting in this inconſiſtent manner—then how can the writings or engagements of the Engliſh be depended upon?

You ſhould in friendſhip write diſtinctly the purport of this to Bombay, and procure a clear anſwer immediately, that meaſures may be taken accordingly.

It has happened well, that during your preſence, breaking the engagements appeared on the part of the Engliſh of Bombay. To this moment, on the part of the Sircar, no deviation from the Treaty has occurred; never was ſuch improper conduct as this heard or ſeen in Chiefs of high rank.

Prior to this the Council of Bombay broke the engagements of former Governors, took poſſeſſion of Salſette; &c. ruined the Guzerat country and other places belonging to the Sircar, and in conſequence of the aſſiſtance they gave to Ragonaut Row, we ſuſtained the expence of crores, but for the ſatisfaction of the Superior Council of Calcutta, it was dropped. Now the Council of Bombay are again in the ſame manner beginning miſchief. If they will not immediately withdraw their hands from all actions that are contrary to treaties, what advantage is there in making a treaty with the Engliſh?

Meaſures ſatisfactory to Ragonaut Row, had nearly been concluded, and it was hoped that all the family diſturbances would have been at an end, when Ragonaut Row, without notice or cauſe, took the road to Bombay: it is moſt extraordinary!

We took ſo much pains that he might be ſettled comfortably and ſatisfactorily—had we wiſhed otherwiſe our army was round him. Probably the Sircar's enemies will ſay he went to Bombay, his life being in danger, but this was never the caſe, and if any perſon thinks ſo, it is without foundation.

An anſwer to this letter is neceſſary. What more is to be wrote?

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton

Sir,

We received your letter, dated the 8th inſtant, with the incloſed papers.

Sudabah's people having fled for protection immediately under the guns of Tannah fort, you, as a military man, muſt very well know it would have been totally inconſiſtent to have permitted them to be attacked in that ſituation, or to ſuffer any hoſtilities to be committed on either ſide, and therefore on the miniſterial forces drawing up near to Sudaba's, and preparing to attack them, the Chief of Salſette ſent their officer the letter you forwarded us. The river between Tannah fort and the Maratta ſhore, which is ſtiled in the Peiſhwa's letter a branch of the ſea, is little more than piſtol-ſhot over, and the miniſterial forces, as we have been aſſured by a Gentleman on the ſpot, were drawn up within cannon ſhot from the fort. We were induced by humanity alone to receive the people of Sudabah into Salſette, to preſerve their lives from the ſwords of their enemies, and ſhould have acted in like manner to the Poonah forces, had they been reduced to the ſame ſituation.

On the 30th ultimo Sudabah, after his defeat at Razimatahee, arrived in this harbour from Bellapore, and requeſted protection; which was promiſed, but the Preſident being then abſent at Salſette, he declined coming on ſhore, and went to Mandrem, a place at a ſmall diſtance from hence, intending to wait there till the Preſident returned. Here he was invited on ſhore to refreſh himſelf by Ragojee Angria, with profeſſions of the utmoſt friendſhip and regard, and, as we are aſſured, under the moſt ſacred obligation not to moleſt him, which Ragojee Angria moſt treacherouſly violated when he got him in his power, and after ſtripping him of jewels to a great amount, impriſoned him in his fort of Colabba. Immediately on receiving this intelligence, a meſſage was ſent to Ragojee Angria to demand his releaſe, as we were certainly bound in honour to do, Sudabah being at that time under the Engliſh protection, which he had ſolicited, and we had promiſed him. Our meſſage, however, was not attended with ſucceſs, and we conclude Ragojee will ſell his priſoner to the Miniſters.—Ragoba has put himſelf under our protection, and now reſides at Bombay.

Tranſlation of a letter from the Honourable William Hornby, Eſquire, Governor of Bombay, to the Peiſhwa—Received 13th Shewal 1190.

After the uſual compliments:

The letter which you ſent is received. You write, that an exciter of commotions had taken the name of Sedaſhee Bowe: if you do not know that he is Sedaſhee Bowe, I now make it appear, that he is the true Sudaba, regarding which I am perfectly ſatisfied, and this is ſufficient for me. You alſo write that Ragojee Angria ſeized upon the Bowe in his retreat. This is a miſtake, from this reaſon, that he came to the port of Bombay merely to meet me, but I was not at that time in Bombay: on this account he was going to ſtay at Undery till I ſhould come to the Iſland of Bombay. On the way to Undery, Ragojee Angria agreed to ſome friendly propoſals, and requeſted that he ſhould come on ſhore, after which Angria acted in a treacherous manner; it is therefore reaſonable that the above Angria ſhould be reprimanded and puniſhed. The ſaid Bowe came to meet me, he was prevented by him. On receiving this intelligence, I wrote to Angria that "I am expecting him, and give him leave to come to me," but the ſaid Angria did not permit him to come, therefore the remembrance of this ill behaviour from the above Angria, will be kept engraved upon my mind.

I did not conſider the Bowe as a ſeditious man, I even knew him as a friend to the Sircar, and he has met with very unmerciful treatment from the Sircar. You further write that protection has been given to ſome of the Bowe's people in Salſette. This that you ſay is true; and this is alſo true, that the people of your Sircar ran away from the Bowe, came, and protection was given to them. Mr. John Halſey acquainted me, that he wrote letters under his own ſignature to the Sircar's Chief, one according to that you ſent, and two others. Humanity always gives the Great a deſire that perſons who come in affliction ſhould meet with protection. I have acted accordingly, and will alſo act in future. This is all to be ſaid to you. You may write whatever you ſee beſt, and wherever you pleaſe. What more is to be wrote? &c.

To the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

Since the receipt of your letter of the 7th ultimo, I have been continually urging to the Miniſters the neceſſity of their naming ſome other Pergunnah, leaſt it ſhould be found on a freſh eſtimation, that the Pergunnahs already allotted for the country of three lacks, ſhould not yield ſufficient revenue.

Appendix. No. 147.

Ahmood I requeſted particularly might be the additional Pergunnah. I obſerved, that our motive for aſking this preferably, was its contiguity to Broach, and that I thought they ſhould be equally deſirous that our diſtricts ſhould intermix as little as poſſible. The Miniſters therefore at my repeated ſolicitations have conſented that Deſborah, Ahmood, and Hanſood, ſhall be the ceded Pergunnahs; with this reſerve, that ſhould the revenue of theſe three Pergunnahs exceed three lacks, villages to the amount of the ſurplus will be withheld by the Sircar; on the other hand, ſhould there be a deficiency of revenue in theſe Pergunnahs, the Peiſhwa conſents to make over villages from the Pergunnah of Occlaſeer to complete the ſum of three lacks.

I incloſe the copy of the Peiſhwa's inſtructions on this occaſion to his agents at Broach; alſo an account of the aſſignments or tributes (as received from the Miniſters) on Hanſood and Occlaſeer, in which is included the yearly revenue of the Pergunnahs of Deſborah, Ahmood, Hanſood, and Occlaſeer, as collected by the Maratta Government.

I now hope, Gentlemen, every obſtacle to the completion of the 5th Article of the late Treaty is removed, and that the ceded country of three lacks will be immediately made over to the Honourable Company.

My continuance at Poonah will be no longer than till I am honoured with your replies to my letters of the 17th and 19th of laſt month, and an acknowledgment of the receipt of this letter, which I have to entreat you will favour me with as ſoon as poſſible.

Tranſlation of inſtructions from the Peiſhwa Madeurow to the Maratta agents at Broach, for making over the country of three lacks.

You were formerly diſpatched to give the Engliſh Company a country of three lacks of rupees; I now write that the Pergunnahs of Ahmood, Hanſood, and Debegebareh, are ſettled with Colonel John Upton to be given to the Engliſh Company. An account of the full revenues of them in former years, is taken from the Sircar's office, and ſent you. In conjunction with the Engliſh agents, the Zemindars and Kanugows of the ſaid Pergunnahs are to be called, and the above account ſhewn; and you will alſo enquire particularly into their full revenues in former years, according to their papers.

If the full revenues of the ſaid Pergunnahs ſhould exceed three lacks, you will retain villages to that, Ahmood or Hanſood for the Sircar. If the full revenues of the three Pergunnahs ſhould happen to be ſomething leſs, villages to that amount are to be given from the Pergunnah of Occlaſeer.

If the Engliſh ſhould wiſh to fix the revenues according to the preſent year, whereas thoſe Pergunnahs were laid waſte by the march of the armies of Ragonath Row, the Sircar and the Engliſh, the preſent collections are not equal to the revenues of former years, but their collections will hereafter become as before.

It is entered in the Treaty, that Pergunnahs of a complete revenue of three lacks, ſhall be given to the Engliſh.

Colonel Upton has wrote to the Council of Bombay concerning this, and the Council of Bombay will write accordingly to the Chief of Broach.

You are, agreeable to the above, to deliver to the Engliſh of Broach, a country of a complete revenue of three lacks of rupees, and take their receipt in the name of the Sircar, and come away.

(Signed) An Macpherſon, Perſian Interpreter.

To Lieutenant Colonel Upton.—Secret department.

Sir,

We have already very fully explained our motives for firſt affording protection to Raganath Row, and theſe ſtill continuing to operate upon us with equal force, we could not deny him an aſylum when he again ſolicited it.

We cannot ſuppoſe any perſon who has been in the leaſt converſant with the natives of Aſia, can be ſo totally unacquainted with their genius and diſpoſition, as not to allow, that treachery and perfidy are the peculiar characteriſtics, and moſt particularly ſo of the Marattas, who are the moſt treacherous and perfidious of all Aſiatics. No one poſſeſſed of this knowledge can ſuppoſe for a moment that Ragoba's life would not be in danger, were he to truſt himſelf in the power of the Miniſters, his profeſſed enemies, who muſt dread even the poſſibility of his future elevation, and ſurrounded as he would be, by perſons entirely at their devotion. Convinced by experience of the truth of theſe ſentiments, we could not heſitate in receiving a perſon to whom we had once pledged the faith of the Company, and who abſolutely came himſelf to implore our protection. We only mean to extend this protection to his ſecurity from perſonal danger, until the Miniſters can ſettle ſome terms that are ſatisfactory to him; for you muſt be ſenſible it is far from our deſire that he ſhould reſide here, and we ſhall be very glad whenever he can be removed from the Company's ſettlements with ſafety to himſelf.

If therefore the Miniſters will ſettle any terms agreeable ble to Ragoba, it will afford us real ſatisfaction, and we will with great readineſs not only communicate to him, but uſe our influence to perſuade him to accept any conſiſtent offers they may make him.

And as we are very deſirous to give all poſſible ſatisfaction to the Poonah Government, and to remove, as far as we can, all doubts the Miniſters may entertain in conſequence of Ragoba's reſidence at Bombay, we requeſt you will aſſure them in our name, that Ragoba only reſides here as a private perſon for the ſecurity of his perſon, and that we will not in any ſhape countenance or promote any ſchemes or deſigns to their prejudice, or in the leaſt infringe the late Treaty; of which, as we have before ſaid, we cannot allow our affording him mere perſonal protection to be any breach.

We will ſend you an accurate account of all the aſſignments or tribute paid from Hanſood and Occlaſeer to Surat and Broach, as ſoon as we receive the neceſſary information from theſe places.

We eſteem it worthy of remark and even of ridicule, that the letters you receive from the Poonah Government are ſtiled the Peiſhwa's letters, conſidering that the perſon meant is only an infant not three years of age. Artful as the Miniſters are, they may hereafter think it convenient to diſavow theſe letters, and it appears to us to be more proper and agreeable to the form obſerved by all Governments, that letters from the State ſhould be wrote in the name of the Regent, or the perſons who conduct the adminiſtration during the minority.

P. S.—We have juſt received your letter of the 27th inſtant.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 26th February 1777.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

Received a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton, as follows:

Gentlemen,

I had the honour to addreſs you laſt on the 5th December 1776.

I have the great pleaſure to acquaint you, Gentlemen, that I have taken my public leave of this Court; but at the very repeated entreaties of the Miniſters, I am under the neceſſity of waiting the arrival here of Mr. Moſtyn, who is appointed from Bombay, Reſident at the Maratta Durbar. I expect he will be at Poorunder within eight days. I ſhall have the honour to attend him once or twice to the Peiſhwa's Durbar, and then ſet out on my return to Bengal.

You will perceive, Gentlemen, by the correſpondence I have had with the Select Committee of Bombay, how very fully I have been employed in reconciling the differences ſubſiſting between that Preſidency and the Maratta Government, very particularly regarding the reception of Mr. Moſtyn, as Reſident on the part of the Honourable Company at this Durbar. The Peiſhwa's Miniſters, however reluctantly, have at laſt conſented to receive this Gentleman, being determined to convince that every part of their conduct ſhall tend to the re-eſtabliſhment of that peace and good friendſhip which heretofore ſubſiſted between their State and the Preſidency of Bombay. The Miniſters ſay Mr. Moſtyn's continuance in a public character at their Durbar, muſt depend on the mode in which he conducts himſelf towards their State. As they have conſented to receive him, and reſted it in this manner, I have no doubt of his reconciling what little jealouſies or differences there may be, which I hope are chiefly imaginary.

The perſon who was called Sidaſhew Row underwent a public examination of five or ſix days, and was ſentenced to loſe his life, which was put in execution on the 17th of laſt month, and little more is now ſaid of him here than had no ſuch perſon ever exiſted. As it may be ſatisfactory to you, Gentlemen, to know the accuſations brought againſt this man, and what he had to urge in vindication of himſelf, I incloſe the firſt day's examination, as related by an intelligent hircarrah, who was ſent to obſerve in what manner the proceedings were conducted.

I have the honour to be,
Gentlemen,
Your moſt obedient ſervant,
J. Upton.

Poorunder, the 22d January 1777.

Ordered, That the Incloſures in the above letter be entered after the Conſultation.

Agreed, That Lieutenant Colonel Upton's letter lie for conſideration.

Sir,

We have juſt received your letter, dated the firſt inſtant, and ſhall immediately ſend the neceſſary directions to our commiſſioners at Broach. We hope with you, that no further obſtacle will now ariſe to the entire completion of the 5th Article of the Treaty.

To Lieutenant Colonel John Upton.

Sir,

We have before repeatedly repreſented to you the little effect that has attended the orders the Miniſters tell you they have iſſued, for reſtoring a free communication of trade and intercourſe with the Maratta dominions; the entire ſtoppage of which, notwithſtanding theſe orders, has been ſeverely felt by the Honourable Company, and threatens ruin to many individuals. The principal European and country merchants of this ſettlement have repreſented to us, in the moſt ſtrong terms, the melancholly ſtate to which the trade of this iſland is reduced, owing to the total obſtruction of our trade with the Maratta country; and we think it highly neceſſary to incloſe for your notice, a copy of the memorial they have delivered us on the ſubject, in which we aſſure you the facts are not in the leaſt exaggerated; and our regard for the intereſt of the Company calls upon us to recommend to you, in the warmeſt manner, to inſiſt upon the Poonah Government giving the moſt ſpeedy and effectual orders, without any prevarication, for opening the communication with the Maratta country in the ſame manner as before the war commenced; and we muſt obſerve, that this conduct is totally inconſiſtent with the profeſſions the Miniſters ſo frequently make of amity and good inclination toward the Engliſh, and contrary to the ſpirit and meaning of the late Treaty.

We likewiſe incloſe a letter this day delivered to us by the agents for the concerned in the ſhip Aurora, before mentioned to you. By the defeat of Sudaba, the Miniſters are deprived of the plea they before made for evading reſtitution; and we think the honour of the Company is engaged to procure full ſatisfaction for the ſufferers, agreeable to the expreſs tenor of the treaty concluded by you; and we therefore think it highly proper proper you ſhould exert your moſt ſtrenuous efforts in their behalf. The liſt of the Aurora's cargo was before forwarded to you.

The Chief and Council at Broach acquaint us, under the 29th ultimo, that the Maratta agents had not then received any orders from Poonah, in reſpect to the ceſſion of the Pergunnahs mentioned by you in your letter, of the 19th October; and the Gentlemen at Surat likewiſe acquaint us in a letter dated the 5th inſtant, that the Maratta Amuldar had refuſed paying him the collections from their Chowkies in that city, alledging, that he had received no orders from the principals. This is evaſive, trifling conduct; and we would adviſe you to require the Miniſters to deliver to you the proper orders for their officers, and either to forward them yourſelf or tranſmit them to us, for we are inclined to believe the Miniſters have deceived you, and have never iſſued the orders in queſtion, as the Maratta Pundits are urging with all poſſible expedition the recovery of the revenue for this ſeaſon from the Pergunnahs intended to be ceded to the Company.

We hope the Miniſters will make you ſome propoſals reſpecting Ragonath Row, that may be ſatisfactory to him. What can be their objections to his reſiding in one of the Company's ſettlements, and aſſigning to him a ſuitable ſtipend there? If you would gain this point, we think it would be rendering a moſt eſſential ſervice to the Honourable Company.

Bombay Caſtle, 11th December 1776. We are, &c. (Signed) W^m Hornby, &c. Council.

To the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I am honoured with your letter of the 30th ultimo. I have given, Gentlemen, in your own words, the profeſſions you wiſhed ſhould be made to the Peiſhwa's Miniſters, regarding Ragonath Row: with theſe they ſeem well pleaſed, and for the preſent ſatisfied.

The Peiſhwa's Miniſters will order the vackeel, now reſiding at Bombay on the part of the Sircar, to lay before the Honourable the Preſident and Council, terms of reconciliation between the Maratta Government and Ragonath Row. They will offer ſuch conditions as (they ſay) heretofore appeared acceptable to him, and to make them the more ſo, they now conſent to his reſiding at Benares, and enjoying there the jaghire, as full as they had lately propoſed fixing on him, had he reſided in the Maratta dominions. The Miniſters profeſs themſelves much obliged, Gentlemen, by the offer you have made of uſing your influence with Ragonath Row to accept ſuitable conditions towards an accommodation. They hope theſe now given in commiſſion to the vackeel, will prove ſatisfactory to him, and wiſh to be favoured with your reply regarding them, as ſoon as convenient.

The Miniſters wiſh and requeſt, before I leave Poonah that I would fix with you, Gentlemen, the method of correſpondence between your Preſidency and this Government, in order that the late treaty may be fully and expeditiouſly carried into execution; and they now requeſt a letter, either to the Peiſhwa or his Miniſters, to ſatisfy them that there will be no delay in the accompliſhment of it, and expreſſive of your friendly intentions towards this Government. The letter from the Honourable the Preſident to the Peiſhwa, dated the 10th of the month Shewel (the 23d November) has occaſioned a good deal of uneaſineſs, which they much wiſh ſhould be removed before my departure. I have therefore to entreat, Gentlemen, you will ſignify to the Peiſhwa or his Miniſters, your intentions of adhering ſtrictly to the treaty lately entered into with the Maratta State; and that you will propoſe to them, that a friendly correſpondence may be immediately opened for this purpoſe. As I am very particularly requeſted by the Miniſters to ſtay here until your letter to them ſhall be received, I ſhall eſteem myſelf much obliged by its being diſpatched with all poſſible expedition, and could wiſh to have it incloſed in the reply to this letter.

Mabadagel Ram Chunder is the perſon appointed agent on the part of the Circar, to reſide at Jamboſeer. The Miniſters requeſt receipts may from time to time be given to him, of ſuch collections as may be made by the Honourable Company upon Jamboſeer; alſo for the payments he may make from the Choukies in and about Surat.

I have the honour to be,

Poonah, the 12th December 1776. (Signed) J. Upton.

To Lieutenant Colonel John Upton,

Sir,

We have received your letter dated the 12th inſtant.

The Maratta vackeel has not yet laid before us any propoſals for an accommodation between the Poonah Government and Ragonath Row; when he does, we ſhall uſe our influence with him to accede thereto, if we think them reaſonable, and that he can accept them conſiſtent with his perſonal ſafety. Benares appears to be a very eligible place for his reſidence, if a method can be ſettled for conducting him thither in ſafety. He will be very apprehenſive of undertaking the journey over land, and being a Brahmin, his religious ſcruples will make him very averſe to proceeding to Bengal by ſea.

It is our wiſh and deſire to maintain the moſt friendly intercourſe and correſpondence with the Maratta State, of which the Preſident now aſſures the Miniſters, in a letter, which agreeble to your deſire is incloſed to you; and we ſhall expect the like friendly conduct on their part.

As a proof of the ſincerity of our intentions, we are ready to depute a gentleman to reſide at Poonah, as heretofore, the moment the Miniſters expreſs a deſire that we ſhould, and provided they will give us aſſurances that they will receive and treat him in a manner ſuitable to the character he will be inveſted with, of Repreſentative for the Honourable Company.

We ſhall iſſue the neceſſary orders for receipts being given for all collections received from Jamboſeer and the Surat Chowkies.

Bombay Caſtle, 18th December, 1776. We are, &c. (Signed) W^m Hornby, &c. Council.

To the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I have been honoured with your letters of the 11th and 18th inſtant. My letter of the 12th nearly replies to theſe, and I make no doubt, on the arrival of a Reſident every thing relative to the intercourſe and trade between the two Governments, (which only remains unreplied to) will be adjuſted to the ſatisfaction of each; I promiſe, no endeavours of mine ſhall be wanting during my ſtay here, to put theſe objects in a train of eaſy adjuſtment to the gentleman who may be appointed to this reſidence on the part of the Honourable Company.

The Miniſters, to convince of their friendly intentions towards your Preſidency, readily accept the offer made, of deputing a gentleman to reſide at Poonah as heretofore; and now write on the part of the Circar, expreſſing their deſire that he ſhould depart inſtantly, and that they will receive and treat him in a manner ſuitable to the character he will be inveſted with, of Repreſentative for the Honourable Company.

If this gentleman takes his departure from Bombay agreeable to this requeſt and your promiſe, I ſhall have the honour to ſee him at Poorunder, as I have conſented to continue here ſome days longer for this purpoſe, thinking, and indeed being perſuaded, that may be of mutual advantage to the two Governments; very particularly ſo, I hope, to our own.

I have to intreat, Gentlemen, you will be kind enough to meet immediately, if poſſible, on the receipt of this letter, to give the Reſident his diſpatches, that I may not be deprived the pleaſure of giving him every aſſiſtance in my power on his arrival at Poonah.

The Miniſters have given orders for bearers being laid from Panwelly to Poonah, for the greater eaſe and diſpatch of the journey.

Poorunder, I have, &c.

Sir,

This is purpoſely to incloſe a copy of a letter we have juſt received from the Engliſh Commiſſioners at Broach.

We ſhall wave remarking on the manifeſt duplicity in the conduct of the Miniſters, at a time when they are making ſuch profeſſions of the moſt ſtrong deſire to have every Article of the Treaty fully accompliſhed. We think it however proper to repeat the recommendation in our letter of the 11th inſtant, to procure the proper orders from the Miniſters, and to forward them to us, that they may be tranſmitted to Broach by a ſea conveyance, to prevent any chance of their being intercepted, which might be the caſe if ſent over land. The proper ſunnuds ſhould be likewiſe ſent us for the ceded countries.

We requeſt you will inform us, from what term the collections of the country of three lacks are to be conſidered the property of the Honourable Company.

To Lieutenant Colonel John Upton.

Sir,

We have been favoured with your letter of the 29th ultimo, and we at the ſame time received a letter from the Poonah Government, requeſting that a gentleman might be ſent to reſide there as heretofore.

The Miniſters have in their letter expreſſed a deſire that Mr. Moſtyn, our former Reſident, might not be the perſon appointed for this charge. We are rather at a loſs to diſcover what objections they can have to this gentleman; but we are inclined to believe their repugnance to him proceeds from a ſuſpicion that he was privy to the attack on Salſette, or that it was concerted at his inſtigation. This idea, if entertained by them, is totally without foundation. We do aſſure you, that this ſcheme was not ſuggeſted by any advices from him; that it was determined upon previous to his leaving Poonah, by a reſolution of Council, to which he was an entire ſtranger; and that he was only ordered from thence a few days before the attack commenced, without even any intimation being given him of the reaſon for his recall. Theſe circumſtances we requeſt you will ſtate to the Miniſters, and we are perſuaded they will entirely remove their objections to Mr. Moſtyn; and as the Honourable Company's nomination, and his knowledge and experience of the Maratta politics, point him out as the proper perſon to reſide at Poonah, we have reſolved to depute him thither, as Reſident for the Honourable Company at the Maratta Durbar.

Even allowing the Miniſters had cauſe for ſuſpicion of Mr. Moſtyn's propoſing ſchemes to the prejudice of their Government, all former animoſities ought to be removed by the treaty that has lately taken place, and we cannot allow them to preſcribe who we are to employ upon any commiſſion to the Poonah Durbar.

Our motive for the attack upon Salſette was founded upon ſome intelligence we had received from Goa, that the Portugueſe were actually preparing an armament to reduced it; and as we were then in expectation of procuring the ceſſion of it by treaty from Ragonaut Row, we took that ſtep to ſecure the poſſeſſion of it for the Honourable Company, which you may communicate to the Miniſters, if you think neceſſary.

Mr. Moſtyn will ſet out for Poonah with all convenient expedition after the proper paſſports are received for him and his attendants, which we requeſt you will expedite. He will bring with him a company of Sepoys. Appendix. No. 147.

To the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

I have been honoured with the receipt of your letters of the 31ſt December and 3d inſtant.

I acquainted the Peiſhwa's Miniſters with the contents of the commiſſioner's letter: they aſſure me that the poſitive orders they ſent to their agents for immediately making over the Pergunnahs, (as adviſed in my letter of the 1ſt December) are carrying with all poſſible expedition into execution; and they have been informed by the Suba of Guzerat, of the receipt of theſe orders by him, and that they ſhall be immediately complied with.

On the arrival of the Reſident at Poonah, the Miniſters will fix from what time the ceded diſtricts are to be conſidered the property of the Honourable Company; they never meant any collections ſhould be made by the Circar after the ratification of the treaty, on the diſtricts that were to be ceded, and declare their ignorance of any having been made ſince that time.

I have acquainted the Miniſters, Gentlemen, with your arguments in favour of Mr. Moſtyn being received as Reſident on the part of the Honourable Company at the Maratta Durbar, and urged every thing that occurred to me in ſupport of them. I am ſorry to be obliged to inform you with the abſolute refuſal of the Miniſters to receive this gentleman. I incloſe the copy of a letter I received from the Peiſhwa laſt night, by which you will obſerve how deſirous they are of receiving any gentleman as reſident except Mr. Moſtyn. I alſo incloſe a proper paſſport for the gentleman (and his attendants, &c.) who may be deputed.

I diſpatch this letter with all poſſible expedition, and have to requeſt you will favour me with an immediate reply, as the Miniſters are deſirous of knowing who is to come Reſident, and when his departure from Bombay is to take place, before I leave Poonah, which is fixed for the 18th inſtant.

Permit me, Gentlemen, to return many thanks for the repeated informations and aſſiſtance you have honoured me with, during my negociations at this Court. I have to beg you will be perſuaded, that the utmoſt deference and attention has been paid by me to every advice and recommendation you were pleaſed from time to time to favour me with ſince my arrival at Poonah, and that I have ſuffered greatly whenever I was unable to effect your wiſhes with the Maratta Government.

I make no doubt, and moſt ſincerely wiſh, that on the arrival of a Reſident at this Durbar from your Preſidency, the free intercourſe and harmony which heretofore ſubſiſted between the two Governments, may be again reſtored.

All the particulars of the letter from the Council of Bombay, in regard to ſending Mr. Moſtyn, and his recommendations for the Circar's Durbar, are fully underſtood from you.

The Governor of Bombay has been wrote to by the Circar, not to ſend him. Let them ſend a truſty perſon here on the part of the Company; we do not fix upon him by name; but, excluſive of Mr. Moſtyn, every truſty perſon that the Council of Bombay ſhall ſend here, will be treated as heretofore by the Circar, only Mr. Thomas Moſtyn muſt never be ſent, as he is not acceptable to the Circar. If the Council of Bombay are attentive to the friendſhip of both ſides, they will, according to the above, diſpatch another truſty perſon immediately this way.

A letter is received from the Suba of Guzerat regarding the country of three lacks, that "agreeable to the "Circar's orders, I am now delivering the Pergunnahs "of three lacks to the Chief of Broach." This is wrote for your information. What more is to be wrote?

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 9th inſtant.

The Honourable Company's eſpecial appointment of Mr. Moſtyn to reſide at the Maratta Durbar; the knowledge and experience he has acquired of their views and intereſts during a long intercourſe with that Government; his perſonal acquaintance with the Miniſters and every other perſon of conſequence in the Durbar, and with their characters and diſpoſitions; are ſuch forcible reaſons for ſupporting our appointment of that gentleman, that we cannot conſent to ſet him aſide from an appointment which he has ſo long filled with reputation to himſelf, and with the approbation of our honourable Maſters and this Preſidency, even to the ſatisfaction of the former Poonah Government, ment, upon ſo trivial a foundation as the letter to you from the infant Peiſhwa, which only contains an objection in general terms to Mr. Moſtyn, without a ſingle reaſon from what cauſe it is derived. In the preſent ſituation of affairs it is particularly requiſite that the Company's Reſident at Poonah ſhould poſſeſs the moſt complete knowledge of the genius and diſpoſition of the perſons he has to negociate with; and we apprehend Mr. Moſtyn's qualifications for this ſtation, which induces us o appoint him to it, are very principal reaſons with the Miniſters for objecting to him. We have reſolved herefore to abide by our appointment; and we ſhould not think ourſelves juſtified to our honourable Maſters, were we to depute any other perſon to Poonah, unleſs ſome ſpecific objections are made to him, that we can deem admiſſible. We alſo conſider this conduct of the Miniſters, in refuſing to receive a Member of our adminiſtration, and pretending to make a merit of not objecting to any other perſon, as very unprecedented, and inconſiſtent with that harmony they profeſs themſelves ſo deſirous ſhould ſubſiſt between the two Governments.

We wiſh you a moſt ſafe and pleaſant journey to Bengal; and remain, Sir, &c. &c.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.

Lieutenant General John Clavering,
Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

Read the following letter from Bombay:

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We have been honoured with your letters, dated the 30th September, 14th October, and 9th December.

The ſudden depreſſion of Sudaba's party, and his ſubſequent death, of which Colonel Upton would be enabled to adviſe you with more certainty than you could have done, have added much ſtability to the preſent Poonah Government, and removed the expectations we conceived from Sudaba's rapid progreſs of a ſpeedy revolution taking place therein.

Colonel Upton having intimated to us his intention of quitting Poonah and the Miniſters expreſſed a deſire that we ſhould depute a gentleman to reſide there, we accordingly, in conformity to your recommendation, reſolved again to fix a Reſident, at the Maratta Court, and appointed Mr. Moſtyn, our former Reſident, for this ſervice, of which we gave immediate advice to Colonel Upton. We were not a little ſurprized at receiving ſoon afterwards letters from the Poonah Government, objecting in general terms to Mr. Moſtyn being the perſon ſent thither, but without aſſigning the ſmalleſt reaſon for their repugnance to receiving this Gentleman; we therefore thought we could not with propriety ſet him aſide from an employment to which he was expreſsly appointed by the Honourable Company, and had long filled to their approbation and with reputation to himſelf, unleſs the Miniſters could point out ſome ſpecific objections to him, that we could deem admiſſible; neither could we with credit permit the Miniſters to refuſe in ſo unprecedented a manner, to receive a Member of our adminiſtration without aſſigning ſome ſufficient cauſe. And judging that the knowledge Mr. Moſtyn acquired in his former reſidence, which ſo peculiarly qualified him for this commiſſion, was a principal reaſon with the Miniſters to wiſh ſome other perſon might be deputed, we reſolved to adhere to our appointment; and we have now the pleaſure to adviſe that they have conſented to receive him, and he will ſoon proceed, furniſhed with proper inſtructions for his conduct, of which we ſhall tranſmit you a copy; and he will be particularly directed to correſpond punctually with your Preſidency.

We ſhall likewiſe direct Mr. Moſtyn to do all in his power to promote the moſt friendly correſpondence with the Poonah Government; and we hope a ſuitable and permanent accommodation will be effected between that State and Ragonaut Row, who ſtill reſides at Bombay, whereby all future jealouſies will be removed and the Honourable Company relieved from the expence incurred by his reſidence. We are, &c.

Bombay, 1ſt February 1777. (Signed) Wᵐ Hornby, Preſident, and Council.

Read the following letter from Lieutenant Colonel Upton:

Gentlemen,

I have been honoured with your letters of the 9th and 30th December.

By the papers that accompanied my letters of the 5th December and 22d January, you will have been ſatisfied, Gentlemen, of the truth of the reports that were heretofore made to me regarding the demanding by the Governor of Bombay the perſon of Sadaſhee Row from Raggujee Angria, and the part taken by the Chief of Salſette in the Maratta diſputes.

I much fear the order you have been pleaſed to ſend to the Preſidency of Bombay reſpecting Ragonaut Row, has not been received, as the Council have as yet been ſilent on this head. To prevent any bad impreſſion this may make on the Miniſters, I ſhall this day forward to Bombay the paragraph of your letter of the 30th December, that regards Ragonaut Row.

On the receipt, Gentlemen, of your laſt letter, I obſerved to the Miniſters, as I had repeatedly done before, the impropriety of their cenſures on the Government of Bombay, for acts committed before the peace was concluded, all of which were of courſe cancelled by the Treaty. They acknowledge the impropriety of this, and ſay they ſhould not have been ſo frequent in their reproaches, had not the part taken by theſe gentlemen, ſince the concluſion of the peace, been ſo very active againſt their Government: their anger, they add, might have led them too far, but they hope there will be no occaſion to repeat their grievances. This, Gentlemen, is the purport of their anſwer to me now, and was ever the ſame, when I before obſerved on the unfitneſs of ſuch upbraidings.

wiſh it may appear by my correſpondence with the Select Committee of Bombay (ſince my laſt letter of the 22d January) that ſome advantages have been derived to the Honourable Company, by my continuance at Poonah. A complete lack is gained by the period fixed for commencing our collections upon the ceded country of three lacks; and in this a matter is adjuſted that might have been attended with ſome difficulty.

I leave Poorunder to-morrow, on my return to Bengal. Had I done this ſooner it muſt have been without the conſent of this Government, which I conceive, Gentlemen, could not have met with your approbation.

I am requeſted by the Preſident and Council of Bombay, to forward the accompanying packet.

To Lieutenant Colonel John Upton.

Sir,

Concluding you have not yet left Poonah, we think it neceſſary to tranſmit to you a copy of a letter received by your Preſident from the Peiſhwa, under the 19th inſtant.

This letter having been conveyed to us in a manner ſo different from the former ones from the Poonah Government, and the purport thereof being directly contrary to the advices from you, which mention that the Pergunnah of Jambooſeer is to remain in our poſſeſſion until the payment of the twelve lacks, we ſhall therefore pay no attention to it, until we hear again from you.

To the Honourable the Preſident, &c. Members of the Select Committee, Bombay.

Gentlemen,

My deſire of being at Poorunder on the arrival of the Reſident from Bombay, has till now detained me, and afforded me the opportunity of receiving your favour of the 22d of laſt month.

I have the honour to incloſe a letter from the Peiſhwa to the Honourable the Preſident, which aſſures, that the Maratta Government mean ſtrictly to abide by the agreement made regarding Jambooſeer continuing in our poſſeſſion until the twelve lacks ſhall be paid, as expreſſed in the Peiſhwa's letter to me, received the 18th of October laſt; a copy of which accompanied my letter of the 19th October.

It ſeems the Miniſters were apprehenſive that the collections of Jambooſeer might fall ſhort from a concluſion that their Zemindars would take advantage of the Engliſh Chiefs being unacquainted with the former ſums they were accuſtomed to pay, and take that opportunity of reducing the annual revenues of their reſpective diſtricts: to avoid this inconvenience the Peiſhwa now writes, propoſing two methods for making the collections upon Jambooſeer, and wiſhes, Gentlemen, to know to which you give the preference.

In the accompanying letter from the Peiſhwa to the Honourable the Preſident, he agrees that we commence our collections on the ceded country of three lacks, from the firſt of the preſent year, and that we are to account for no collections made upon Jambooſeer prior to that date which I conceive muſt be found very ſatisfactory.

I have received a letter from the Honourable the Governor General and Council in which they ſignify their approbation of the manner in which the twelve lacks are to be paid by the Maratta Government to the Honourable Company.

We have yet no intelligence of Mr. Moſtyn's being on his journey; at this, ſome ſurprize is expreſſed by the Miniſters: I purpoſe ſtaying here two days, or three if neceſſary, after this gentleman's arrival.

Sir,

The Peiſhwa in his letter to the Preſident having requeſted that a duplicate of our orders to the Chief at Broach, reſpecting the country of three lacks and the Pergunnah of Jambooſeer, might be ſent to him, we have complied with his deſire; and incloſe likewiſe for your notice, a copy of the orders we have given on the occaſion to Meſſrs. Carnac, Boddam, and Ramſey, who have now the ſole adminiſtration of the Honourable Company's affairs at Broach and its dependencies.

Gentlemen,

I have been favoured with your letters of the 12th and 13th inſtant with their ſeveral incloſures.

I have the honour to forward, under the ſeals of this Government, a copy of further orders which the Peiſhwa is now ſending to his agents at Broach; theſe I hope will remove every difficulty: the Peiſhwa's Miniſters declare they have no other wiſh, than that the ceded country of three lacks ſhould be made over in the moſt equitable manner: for which purpoſe theſe further orders will be diſpatched to their agents as expeditiouſly as poſſible.

You forgot, Gentlemen, to forward to the Peiſhwa a duplicate of your orders to Broach; I have however ſupplied the omiſſion, by giving a copy of thoſe you ſent for my information, and have wrote a few lines myſelf to Meſſrs. Carnac, Boddam, and Ramſey, to be ſent therewith.

I am greatly concerned to hear Mr. Moſtyn has been ſo much indiſpoſed as to diſable him from travelling; it is pity that the expediency of ſending Mr. Moſtyn's deputy to Poonah with proper powers, till Mr. Moſtyn might have been in condition to have come himſelf, ſhould never have occurred. From the ſtrong repreſentations you ſo repeatedly made of the neceſſity of a free intercourſe between your Preſidency and Poonah, the removal of jealouſies, and the re-eſtabliſhment of commerce with the Maratta dominions, I ſhould have conceived you would have readily embraced the firſt opportunity that offered, to carry ſuch very deſirable meaſures into execution; but you are, Gentlemen, certainly the beſt judges how to act in the immediate concerns of your own Preſidency.

Much has been expected, and many things have been recommended to me during the correſpondence I have had the honour to hold with your Board, permit me now to recommend, that ſome gentleman be deputed to Poonah as ſoon as poſſible, until Mr. Moſtyn can make the journey himſelf; and I am convinced the good effects of ſuch meaſure would be immediately felt. Whatever jealouſies there now may be, between the two Governments, would ſoon diſappear. So long a time having elapſed, and no Reſident ſent, occaſions ſtrange ſurmiſes amongſt the Maratta Chiefs.

I ſhall wait at Poorunder to be honoured, Gentlemen, with your acknowledgment of the receipt of this letter in which I have to entreat there may be no delay; and you will be pleaſed to carry on your correſpondence in future as has been ſettled, either with the Peiſhwa or his Miniſters, as my ſhort ſtay here will prevent my tranſacting any further public buſineſs.

Poorunder, I have, &c.

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 19th inſtant, and as you have expreſſed your deſire that the receipt thereof may be immediately acknowledged, we diſpatch this Pattamar for no other purpoſe not having yet had time to take your letter into conſideration.

We repeat our wiſhes that you have a pleaſant and ſafe journey to Bengal; and are, &c.

Received the following letter from Mr. Moſtyn, at Poonah:

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

Agreeably to my inſtructions from my ſuperiors at Bombay, I diſpatch this purpoſely to inform you of my arrival near Proondur yeſterday, and that I ſhall have my firſt audience this evening.

Incloſed I have the honour to tranſmit you copy of a letter from the Committee at Broach, directed to Colonel Upton, or the Engliſh Reſident at Proondur. You may depend on my utmoſt endeavours being exerted for the ſettling this buſineſs, as well as with reſpect to the diſtrict of Jambooſeer, depoſited with us for the payment of twelve lacks of rupees, conformable to what the Peiſhwa wrote to Colonel Upton under the 18th October laſt.

From what intelligence I could get on the road, I do not find that there is any alteration in the ſtate of affairs at this Durbar ſince Colonel Upton left it, which was on the 7th ultimo. I ſhall conſtantly keep you adviſed of all material occurrences; and remain with reſpect, &c.

Curreet, near Proonder, the 4th April 1777. (Signed) T^s Moſtyn.

P. S. Should I have occaſion to addreſs your Honour, &c. in cypher, I ſhall make uſe of the Honourable Company's great cypher N° 1. letter A.

To Lieutenant Colonel John Upton, or to the Engliſh Reſident for the time being at Poorunder.

Sir,

We have received your favour of the 18th ultimo, incloſing copy of a letter from Bombay Preſidency to our addreſs, the original whereof reached us ſome time before.

In obedience to their orders, we have repeatedly aſſured the Maratta agents that we are ready to conform to the tenor of the inſtructions communicated to them from the Peiſhwa, agreeable to the copy tranſmitted by you to the Governor and Council, the 1ſt December laſt, viz. To accept the propoſed diſtricts of Ahmood, Hanſoot, and Deſoorah, and give and receive according as they may exceed or fall ſhort of the ſtipulated amount of three lacks, which we propoſed to have aſcertained by the average produce of the three enſuing years; but the agents inſiſt on our abiding by their eſtimate of R^s 3,33,000, and that there muſt be a deduction from Ahmood, for the ſurplus of R^s 33,000, and they will admit of no alternative, although our Commiſſioners here, who have accurately inſpected the revenues for a ſeries of years paſt, maintain they will not exceed R^s 2,10,000.

We are ſorry to obſerve, there muſt be ſome colluſion on the part of the Miniſters, as the inſtructions conveyed directly to the agents differ widely from the copy tranſmitted by you, and ſeem to authorize their ſervants in their obſtinate refuſal to accede to our reaſonable propoſals. We have the honour to be, &c.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.

RECEIVED the following letter from Fort Saint George.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

We have the honour to incloſe you intelligence received in a letter from the Nabob, which, after giving an account of the ſituation of affairs at Poonah, repreſents Hyder Ally Cawn to be raiſing troops and preparing for war, and that the Poligars and Zemindars were ordered to attend at the paſſes towards the Panyinghaut: this however, is in a great degree weakened by advices we have received through another channel, copy of which we incloſe you, which repreſents Hyder's preparations to be in conſeqnence of apprehenſions of the Marattas.

We alſo ſend you copy of a letter, our Preſident has received from the Rajah of Travencore, together with a copy of his anſwer. He is included in the treaty with Hyder, as being dependant on the Carnatic.

We underſtand that the French have received at the iſlands, troops and ſtores from France, and that barracks are building at Pondicherry. They moſt probably look forward to diſpute with us the Government of this country, and conſidering their views with thoſe of Hyder Ally, who has reduced many of the petty Princes around him, we ought to prepare ourſelves againſt the deſigns of either. Were we able, when neceſſity ſhould require to take the field, with a well regulated and well paid army, with good conduct, we might hope one vigorous campaign would reſtore peace to the country. We are ſenſible of the neceſſity of peace, and every endeavour ſhall be uſed towards a continuance of it.

We have reſolved on the increaſe of the number of our battalions, by reducing the preſent eſtabliſhment of a thouſand men in each to ſeven hundred, which will enable us to garriſon the forts of the Nabob under our charge, and to take the field at a ſhort notice with two battalions of Europeans, three companies of artillery, and nine battalions of Sepoys; and theſe joined by the Nabob's cavalry, would, we think, be ſufficient againſt any forces that could be brought againſt us—but troops cannot be maintained, military operations cannot be conducted without money, and herein we fear we ſhall fail. The balances due from the Nabob, the Rajah and our revenues, until September 1777, with the amount of bills to be drawn on the Company, amount to 28,34,000 pagodas, and our diſburſements, in caſe of peace with the amount of our inveſtment, would leave a balance in our hands not inconſiderable were the whole to be received; but the very great ſcarcity of ſpecie, from the conſiderable exports which have been made to China and Europe, fills us with apprehenſion that our receipts from the Nabob and from the Company's lands will fall ſhort of the eſtimated ſums.

The very report of a force of 1,500 Europeans and 12,000 black troops aſſembled, with the means of payment, in our treaſury, would command reſpect from all, and would be likely to deter any from attempting to diſ-turb the Carnatic, the neceſſity of ſuch a fund has long appeared, and in our letter of the 29th March laſt we had the honour to write to you, how ſerviceable to us ſuch aſſiſtance might prove. We beg leave to repeat the ſame repreſentation to you, and if the ſtate of your treaſury can admit of your ſupplying us, we ſhall reſerve it for the ſupport of an army, in caſe we ſhould be obliged to take the field.

When we reflect on the Company's ſituation here, we confeſs it is hard upon them to be at the riſque, and then to advance for the defence of the Carnatic; but no alternative occurs, for the Nabob's reſources being in his lands when troubles enſue, nothing conſiderable can be obtained from him, as we have often experienced. We have recommended to him the reduction of every unneceſſary expence; he has diſmiſſed part of his Sepoys, and we underſtand he is making other arrangements, which will greatly relieve his preſent difficulties.

We ſhall only add, that had we not ſupplied Bombay and Bencoolen with the ſum of nearly four lacks of pagodas during the years 1774 and 1775, we ſhould at this time have had a conſiderable ſum in our treaſury.

Since writing the above, ſome intelligence has come in, which we have now the honour to incloſe,

Fort St. George, We are, &c. &c.

Ordered, That the Incloſures in the above letter be entered after the Conſultation.

INCLOSURES.

From his Highneſs the Nabob to Governor Stratton.

2d November 1776.

I have ſent you incloſed a copy of the news received from Seringapatam, by which you will diſcover the intentions of Hyder Ally Khan.

What can I write more?

Copy of the news of Seringapatam.

News is arrived from Poonah that Sukharam Bapoo, Nana, Phaar Nueſo, and other Chiefs, are in the forts of Peorundhar and Poonah. As yet no preparations are made; they have raiſed a few troops, but have not money to pay them. Ragonaut Row has quitted the Engliſh at Surat, and intends coming here.

Sedaree Row has collected a numerous force, and has taken the country of Hookum, with all the forts, &c. and is arrived near Poonah. Tranquillity is therefore fled from that quarter. From Madras we hear that the former Governor, Lord Pigot, is in confinement, and is at variance with the Nabob and the Engliſh, and alſo that the Nabob is greatly harraſſed by his creditors, and his army, for their money, which has very much rejoiced the Chief here, he is raiſing cavalry and infantry, and collected a large quantity of ammunition and ſtores, and has ſent orders to all his people on the borders, and at the paſſes of the Payinghaut, to hold themſelves in readineſs. After the Duwallee they are determined to march. An expreſs on a camel was ſent with letters to the chiefs of Cudapa, Chittaldorook and Sanoor and all the Zemindars and Poligars, to deſire they would come immediately with all their troops, ammunition, ſtores, &c. I am very certain their deſigns are againſt the Carnatic; but time will diſcover. They are here ſo particularly ſevere with the news-writers, that if it was known, any one wrote ever ſo little, he would certainly ſuffer death. Notwithſtanding this I have wrote theſe particulars: and if in future another opportunity ſhall preſent itſelf, I will embrace, otherwiſe you will conſider theſe circumſtances as true and be upon your guard.

Intelligence received from Hyder's country, brought by hircarrahs who left Seringapatam 17th October, and arrived at Madras 4th November 1776.

Hyder Ally and Teepoo Saib are at Seringapatam.

When Hyder Ally was at Bunkaporam, he had news that his brother-in-law, named Small Cawn Saib, Motarow, and Hurtur (formerly the head of the Myſore country) having conſidered with each other; upon that Hyder Ally left about 5,000 horſe at Bunkaporum, and Darvady with 4,000 horſe, and 8,000 Sepoys at Paraguddy, which he gave to the command of a Moorman. Hyder Ally then went to Seringapatam, and on his arrival there, people ſay he killed the ſaid Small Cawn Saib with his own hands. This man was Killedar of Seringapatam fort. On a certain day, when Hyder Ally went to Hurtur's as was his uſual cuſtom, Kurtur aſked him, Why do you keep me always in confinement? if you will carry me along with you to camp, I ſhall have an opportunity of walking? Upon hearing this Hyder Ally told him, very well; but after that Kurtur died in about 15 days, whereupon Hyder Ally appointed a boy of eight years of age (a couſin of Kurtur's) in Kurtur's room; and lately being a Doſſarah feaſt (uſually given to boys) Hyder Ally ſent for the boy (now the head or maſter) and ſhewed him much reſpect and civility, after which he ſent him to his houſe with great pomp. Appendix. No. 149.

The particulars of the force that ſerves in Hyder Ally's camp, are as follows, viz.

Horſe - - - -	15,000
Sepoys - - -	20,000
Portugueſe, - - -	500
French Soldiers, - -	150

The above force is ſtationed in the following places:

6000 horſe in Gungapellah on the eaſt ſide of Seringapatam,
4000 horſe about the villages,
8000 Sepoys at Seringapatam,
5000 Poligar Peons, D°

And the reſt of the force in the Pavaguddy and Marwaddie. The whole of the Poligar's army that ſerve him, will be about 20,000 Peons.

In this year the ſtrong current of the Cavarce river carried away the bridge of the ſmall fort of Seringapatam, and they are now repairing it.

Hyder Ally has given orders to the head Conicoplys of every village, and the managers, to ſettle all the Pergunnahs accounts, and to collect all the balances due from the inhabitants of his Circar; which they are now doing; beſides this, Hyder Ally has wrote to the different Polligars to pay him the following ſums due to him, or more properly that he obliges them to pay annually, Pags.

The Chittracuttoo Polligar, -	200,000
The Roya Durgum D° -	100,000
The Jemindar of Ponganoer, -	23,000

He has alſo wrote to ſeveral other Polligars in the ſame manner. He is making ready his camp: the people ſay, that about 20,000 Maratta horſe had marched as far as the river Kiſtna, and which and Hyder Ally is making there preparations, for it is ſaid the Marattas will ſoon be in theſe parts, that is the Seringapatam country.

Note, Pavaguddy and Marwadne are diſtant about 120 miles north of Seringapatam.

Copy of an extract from an Arzdaſht of Mahomed Bahadre, Naib of the fort of Mullebharry; dated the 19th of Zekaida (31ſt December) and received the laſt of the ſame month: forwarded to Mr. Stratton in a letter under date the 12th of January 1777.

A PERSON of credit in the Talook of Mullebharry lately ſent ſome people of his own, accompanied by two hircarrahs on my part, towards Ballagaut, to learn the real ſtate of Hyder Ally's affairs, and I alſo wrote a letter

Appendix No. 150.

ter for the same purpose to Cunkunny Durkwalah. From his answer and the accounts given by the agents sent on this business, I learn that Shasram, the brother of Murrar Row at the head of 80,000 Maratta horse, had entered Hyder Ally's country by the village of Adelly, situated on the confines. In this village Hyder Ally had a garrison of 3000 horse under the command of Kishen Row the son of Ramajee Pundit: the Maratta army surprized him in the night and got possession of the villages, together with Binkapore and Mullery.

Besides the 30,000 men above-mentioned, another army of 60,000 cavalry have entered the country on the side of Culkey.

As soon as Hyder received this intelligence, he sent his numerous army under the command of his Son Tuppoo and his brother-in-law Mukdoom Khan, to engage the Marattas, and is himself at Seringapatam to defend that fort. This is undoubtedly fact.

By the blessing of God and your Highness's auspicious fortune, the troubles which are now fallen on Hyder Allan Khan must put a stop to the evil designs he has formed.

Whatever further I am able to learn I shall transmit your Highness.

Extract of a letter from Mr. Robert Adams to the Resident at Onore; dated Seringapatam 20th September 1775, and received at Onore the 30th, per Anchers.

The Nabob yesterday told Badjee Row in the Durbar, that his and his brother's wits were gone for taking assistance from the English, a good for nothing deceitful people, who do not mind breaking any firm agreement, and that their assistance was of no value; on which Badjee Row and Pursing Punt told him, their wits were not gone, unless it was because they had eaten the rice and drank the water of this country, and that the English assisted Ragoba when he was deserted by his people, and no one else would assist in either men or money, but that the English had done both, and collected for him 50,000 horse, and he hoped they would in a short time be in Poonah, and if he chose to march he might, if not, they, Badjee Row and his brother, would go without him, on which the Nabob was silent, and promised he would march with them after the Dussora.

There is great reason to suspect the Nabob is tampering with the ministerial party and the Nizam to our prejudice; he has lately wrote to the latter, observing to him how the English took Bengal, Arcot, &c. therefore should they be suffered to place Ragobah in Poonah, the riches of that town must fall into their hands; all the powers and countries from Calcutta to Cape Comorin must be subject to the English, therefore now is the time to frustrate them; and that he may depend they will be on both the Nizam and himself in a short time.

From Lord Pigot to the King of Tanjore.

THE English East India Company disapproving of the late conduct of their servants with respect to Tanjore, have thought proper to direct me to replace you upon the throne of your ancestors, upon certain terms and conditions to be agreed upon for the mutual benefit of yourself and the English East India Company, without infringing the rights of Mahomed Ally Khan, Nabob of the Carnatic.

I have in consequence of these orders from my masters concerted measures with the Nabob, so as to carry them properly into effect; and Colonel Harper, who will deliver you this, when he has relieved the Nabob's troops, will appoint for your protection such guards as may be thought necessary.

I request of you to allow me a few days after hearing that the English are in possession of Tanjore before I say more to you, than to assure you I will study to do every thing that is for the mutual benefit of you and my employers, and I hope you will permit the Nabob's officers to continue in the management of affairs, until I have again the honour to write to you.

To the Right Honourable Lord Pigot, President, and Governor, &c. &c.

My Lord,

The letter which your Lordship has honoured me with, and which was delivered me by Colonel Harper, has given me a joy which no tongue is able to express—overwhelmed with the transport of joy, I am as one who is raised from the dead. When I seemed to be cut off from all the cheering hopes of seeing better days, then it was that God by his over-ruling Providence turned my sorrow into joy. Your Lordship has been the happy instrument Providence, has made use of to restore me to my former dignity and the throne of my ancestors. I shall therefore from henceforth look upon you as my father, and venerate you under that most amiable character as long as I have a being.

Convinced that whatever your Lordship shall think proper to determine or regulate will be to my real advantage, I shall cheerfully resign my concerns to your kind hands, and willingly acquiesce in your determination.

As by your generous regard for my happiness, your honourable name must and will be had in the most grateful remembrance by me and my family; so I hope it will be celebrated over the world.

I remain, &c.

Letter to the Honourable the Court of Directors for affairs of the Honourable the United Company of Merchants of England trading to the East Indies.

Honourable, Military Department.

1. We paid our respects to you by the Ankerwyke and Hillsborough, under date the 14th February, and then acquainted you that the Nabob had admitted your troops into the garrison of Tanjore the 9th of that month.

2. No persuasions however could induce him to concur in restoring the Rajah. He said he would not oppose the execution of your orders, but would never consent to give up the Tanjore country. So circumstanced, we determined, in consequence of the orders you had been pleased to send us by the Grenville, to restore the Rajah by your authority; and we thought proper to entrust the execution of those orders to our President. He set out the 30th March, and returned from Tanjore the 5th May; and we have now the pleasure to tell you that the Rajah is put into possession of the whole country his father held in 1762, when the treaty was concluded with the Nabob.

3. His fort is not only garrisoned by your troops, but his country protected by them also: he has on this account engaged to pay into your caſh 400,000 pagodas annually, and will keep no other troops himſelf but what are neceſſary for his guards, the number not to exceed 500. We have the greater ſatisfaction in informing you of this, as every meaſure we have taken has been at his requeſt.

4. And the incloſed copy of the Rajah's letter will, we flatter ourſelves, give your Honours perfect ſatisfaction. We did not think it right to accept any additional country near Devy Cotah. We have complied with the Rajah's requeſts in all other reſpects; and our Preſident begs leave to aſſure you, that he cannot expreſs how grateful the Rajah is for the juſtice you have done him, nor how much he merits your countenance and protection.

Country Correſpondence 1776.—Extract of Intelligence from the Decan received 30 July 1775.

THE deſign of the Decan Sirdars now is, after croſſing the Nurbudder, to collect together all the armies of the Decan, and being joined by Nizam Ally Khân to make one powerful effort by a general engagement with the European army; and that the ſtruggle for the Chiefſhip of the Decan may at once be decided in favour of him to whom the Almighty giveth the victory.

Madhajee Sindha has reſolved to join whatever party finally prevails.

Ragonaut Row has laid ſiege to Burrooda near Goujeraut, which Futty Sing Guickwar, who is in the place, is prepared to defend. After the rains he propoſes to proceed into the Decan. Nizam Ally Khân is encamped near Ellichpore, and has put to death Iſhmael Khân the Chief of that place, as well as Rukkun-ul-Dowlah, his own Dewan. Madhajee Booſila having viſited Nizam Ally Khân entered into a friendſhip with him, which has been ſince broken, and their former enmity renewed, by Nizam Ally's having aſſaſſinated Uſeph Gardee, the murderer of Narrain Row, who was an aſſociate of Madhajee Booſila. Nizam Ally Khân is now inclined to aſſiſt the Sirdars of the Decan, but is kept in ſuſpence through fear of the power of the Europeans.

The Proceedings of the 14th inſtant read, and approved.

Lieutenant Colonel Upton attending, according to the order of the laſt Council Day, is called in, and delivers to the Board the following paper:

Information, and requeſts of the Nizam to the Honourable the Governor General and Council of the Superior Council, as delivered by himſelf to Lieutenant Colonel Upton, dated 13th April 1777.

The following circumſtances will ſhew our ſteady attachment to the Engliſh.

Treaties of the ſtrongeſt nature were in force between us and the Peiſhwa Maderow and Narrain Row. When the latter was murdered Ragonaut Row wrote twice, acquainting us of what had happened, and declared in the moſt poſitive manner, his intentions were to abide ſtrictly by the above treaties; being therefore under no apprehenſion from that quarter, we ſent our army to ſettle ſome diſturbances in Berar, and remained at Hyderabad with the neceſſary guards only, but what was our ſurprize when we were informed that Ragonaut Row was on his march towards Buder with a large army. We were conſequently under the neceſſity of withdrawing the forces from Berar, and marching with all expedition to Buder. On our arrival there we ſent a vackeel to Ragonaut Row, to know the cauſe of ſuch an extraordinary meaſure after his letter to us, and to aſk him if he was ſure he had left all quiet at Poonah, after what had happened ſo lately there? however if this ſudden attack was in expectation of finding us unprepared for war, he had better ſend a perſon on whom he could fully depend, to look at our troops and artillery, by which he would be convinced that we were ready for the field. He complied, and a Peace was concluded agreeable to the former treaties; we returned to Hyderabad, and he marched towards the Kiſtna: but the very day we parted he began to burn and lay waſte the country on this ſide the river, after which he croſſed it, and had a meeting with our brother, whom he endeavoured to perſuade to join him in arms againſt us. Our brother aſked him what he could mean by making ſuch ſtrange propoſals to him, when he had but juſt concluded a Peace with the Circar? and anſwered him in every reſpect becoming our brother. The Maratta Miniſters, Succaram Pundit and Ballajee Pundit, wrote us at the ſame time of his extraordinary conduct, and that they were determined to return to Poonah, and wait with patience till the widow of Narrain Row, who was pregnant, ſhould be delivered, and if the child ſhould prove a boy, they begged for our aſſiſtance to ſupport him in preſerving his birthright. Seeing there was no dependance to be placed on Ragonaut Row, as well as our deſire of placing the ſon of Narrain Row on the Muſnud, we ſent an army to join them, and Ragonaut Row was drove acroſs the Ninbunda; however, he returned, and was again forced back, and his followers diſperſed, except the Guicowars, who found means to carry him to Surat, where a treaty of alliance was concluded between him and the Engliſh, promiſing their aſſiſtance to carry him to Poonah.

Soon after this we received an addreſs from the French, requeſting that we would, as in former times, accept of their ſervices. We ſent no written reply to this addreſs, but deſired the vaqueel who brought it, to acquaint them, that there was a treaty ſubſiſting between us and the Engliſh, declaring our enemies their enemies, their enemies ours.

They anſwered, that the Engliſh had in ſome degree infringed that treaty, by joining Ragonaut Row, againſt whom the Circar had an army in the field; but we declared that we would take no ſteps which ſhould appear contrary to the treaty with the Engliſh, and particularly as we were about this time informed that there was a Council ſuperior to all the others arrived at Calcutta, whom we were perſuaded would not deviate from former treaties; we therefore determined to wait till we ſhould fully learn their intentions; at which the French were greatly diſappointed.

Some time after we were informed, that propoſals of Peace were made between the Engliſh at Surat and Hurry Pundit; and we received a letter from Ragonaut Row, requeſting we would ſend an army to aſſiſt him, and that he would give us in return a country of fifty lacks, and ſeveral forts. We replied, we would ſend no army to join him, but if he choſe it, we would uſe our influence with the Miniſters of the young Peiſhwa, to get a jaghire ſettled upon him.

We ordered Ziffer ul Dowlah the Dhouſu, with an army, to join Hurry Pundit, with ſtrict orders to prevent as much as poſſible, any battles or ſkirmiſhes between the Engliſh and Maratta armies, till we ſhould fully underſtand the diſpoſition of the Superior Council, and upon no account to join in the war without further orders from us.

When

Appendix. No. 151.

Appendix. No. 152.

When we were informed that the Superior Council had deputed a Sirdar of high rank to Poonah, to negociate a Peace with the Miniſters of the young Peiſhwa, we were convinced of the juſtneſs of our former conjectures, that they would not approve of the treaty of Surat with Ragonaut Row; and ſent orders to Ziffir ul Dowlah to return with the army under his command.

After the treaty was concluded, Ragonaut Row being received into Surat gave the Miniſters great uneaſineſs, from which they were ſoon relieved by the orders from Calcutta, and his having quitted that place; but when he was received into Bombay, they began to think there was no end to their troubles; and from the two following motives, ſent to invite the French to enter into an alliance with them; the firſt, that they might prepare againſt any future attempts which the Engliſh of Bombay might make to aſſiſt Ragonaut Row; the ſecond, to join them in recovering what they conſidered their ancient right, the chout, from the Nabob of Arcot.

The French being diſappointed in their expectations from the Cirear, promiſed to enter into an alliance with the Marattas, particularly againſt the Nabob of Arcot, and conſequently the Engliſh, provided they would act as follows, viz. That the Marattas ſhould march an army into the Carnatic, from which a large detachment ſhould be ſent to the neighbourhood of Pondicherry, which is to alarm the French, and they are immediately to ſend to the officer commanding the Maratta army, to know his demands; he will reply, that he inſiſts upon the French joining the Marattas againſt the Nabob of Arcot, to recover their chout; the French will give out that they had nothing left but to comply, and will under this pretence of neceſſity ſend an army to join the Marattas.

We have alſo been informed, that a ſhip with five French officers of rank arrived lately at a Maratta iſland. The inhabitants required their immediate departure; but the French aſſured them that they had particular buſineſs with the Peiſhwa's Miniſters at Poonah, and deſired notice might be ſent with all expedition of their arrival; which the Chief of the iſland did; and we have intelligence that elephants, camels, &c. are now ſent to the ſea ſhore neareſt the above iſland, to carry the French officers to Poonah.

Our attachment to the Engliſh has made us think of the following plan to prevent the Marattas from attacking the Carnatic; viz. That Ragonaut Row ſhall be continued at Bombay, until the Poonah Miniſters agree to ſettle a reaſonable jaghire upon him, in the Kandee country, which will be ſo near our dominions that we can threaten to join Ragonaut Row with an army the moment they ſhew any intention to march againſt the Nabob of Arcot, which will prevent their ſending their army from home.

Another very material circumſtance which we ſuppoſe the Engliſh are not acquainted with, is, that Moodaje Bonſla, who claims a right to the choute of Bengal, is wiſhing for an opportunity to march a large army into that province, which muſt greatly injure the Engliſh. However our real deſire of being upon the moſt friendly terms with the Engliſh nation has induced us to fall upon a plan which will enable us to thwart Moodajee's intentions on Bengal, viz. Suckojee Boonſla, the ſon of Rajajee Boonſla, claims a prior right to the Chiefſhip of Napore, &c. This young man was ſome time ago under our protection; but having concluded a Treaty of Peace with Moodajee we ſent him to Poonah, to prevent jealouſies while the other continues quiet; but the moment he attempts to diſtruſt the Engliſh we will acquaint him that our intention is to place Suckojee on the Muſnud, which will thoroughly prevent his deſigns on Bengal, &c.

It is imagined the French are in alliance with Hyder Ally to attack the Nabob of Arcot, and the Engliſh of Madras, and ſhould Ragonaut Row be turned out of Bombay before the Miniſters have made a proper proviſion for him, he will certainly join Hyder Ally.

It is our particular deſire to tranſact all buſineſs concerning the Circar immediately with the Supreme Council, and that no other ſhall interfere.

In order to ſtrengthen the friendſhip ſubſiſting between us and the Engliſh, we ſhould be glad to have the following Article inſerted in the Treaty if agreeable to the Superior Council, viz.

Should the Circar have any ſervice to perform in the Decan, the Engliſh are to join and aſſiſt the Circar's army, except againſt the Marattas, and ſhould the Company have any ſervice in the Decan towards Arcot, the Circar's army will join to aſſiſt the Engliſh army, except againſt the Marattas.

APPENDIX, No. 152.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 17th October 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident,

Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires,

Lieutenant General John Clavering, indiſpoſed.

READ, and approved, the proceedings of the 14th inſt.

The Governor General lays before the Board the following Minute:

Many ſhips have been wrecked on the coaſt of Oriſſa, near point Palmiras, which from the ſhoals and the currents at certain times of the year, joined by the violence and artifices of the inhabitants, is the moſt dangerous part of the navigation of the whole coaſt: ſeveral inſtances of theſe diſaſters come within our knowledge, and as the fact is notorious, I think it unneceſſary at preſent to accompany the propoſal which I am going to make, with a liſt of the ſhips that have thus unfortunately ſuffered, but will endeavour afterwards to furniſh it.

I now ſubmit to the conſideration of the Board, the propriety of ſoliciting the Rajah of Berar to grant a portion of land adjoining to that part of the ſea coaſt, in property to the Company, for the eſtabliſhment of a ſmall fort and garriſon for the protection of ſhipping, and for the preſervation of the lives of the ſeamen, and the cargoes of the veſſels that may be wrecked upon it.

If the Board concur in opinion with me, I think no time ſhould be loſt in making the application, in order to render it uſeful before the next rains. The preſent juncture alſo ſeems favourable; the Rajah of Berar has now a vackeel here, and he himſelf is ſolicitous to cultivate the friendſhip of this Government. Should he comply with our requeſt, the advantages to trade are obvious; ſhould he refuſe it, which I think is not unlikely, I ſhall never propoſe to make an eſtabliſhment in his dominions, without his conſent; but it will, I am convinced, at leaſt make him ſeek to palliate the refuſal by forming ſome eſtabliſhment of his own, to protect and prove an aſylum to our ſhipping, which is the only object I have in view.

I cannot pretend to aſcertain exactly the military eſtabliſhment which it may be neceſſary to keep up for the protection of this grant, in the event of its being made to us; this will depend upon many local circumſtances which cannot be at this time foreſeen.

For the better information of the Board I deliver in a map of the coaſt in the neighbourhood of Point Palmiras.

To Madhajee Bhoofela.

Many ſhips have been caſt away upon the coaſt of Cannice and Boojing, their cargoes plundered, and the ſeamen and paſſengers impriſoned and ill-treated by the Zemindars of thoſe parts, who appear to be a lawleſs and ſavage race, neither acknowledging any Government, though nominally ſubject to your authority, nor obſerving any rule but the gratification of their own rapacity. Many inſtances have happened within my knowledge, ledge, of ſhipwrecked perſons who have ſuffered cruel treatment and impriſonment from the Zemindars of Cannice and Boojing, and in particular of one captain of a veſſel, named Rogers, who with many of his people were baſely murdered by the Rajah of Boojing, as appeared by the teſtimony of the few ſeamen who eſcaped, and who left the ſaid Rogers and their ſhipmates in confinement, and who have never ſince been heard of.

Theſe are actions which are a diſgrace to every civilized Government, and inconſiſtent with the juſtice and humanity which diſtinguiſh your character; at the ſame time I am convinced that it is not in your power to apply the effectual remedy to them, your reſidence being too remote and the country uncultivated, and almoſt inacceſſible but by ſea; I ſhould long ſince have puniſhed the authors of theſe atrocious crimes, but they call themſelves your ſubjects, and this conſideration has reſtrained me; beſides, it is not vengeance for the paſt that I want, but a prevention of the like evils for the future. For this purpoſe I requeſt that you will permit me to erect a proper building for the ſafeguard of the coaſt, for the directions of the veſſels in their paſſage, and for the protection of the lives and cargoes of ſuch as may be wrecked in that neighbourhood, and that you will grant to the Company a Sunnud for the perpetual poſſeſſion and property of the land which lies between the river of Banka and the Mahanudee, running in a line with the ſea coaſt above and below it. For this I will conſent to pay you the ſame rent which you now receive from the preſent occupiers of it, or any other rent or equivalent which you ſhall judge reaſonable; my wiſh being to make you the partaker with me of an act of extenſive humanity and hoſpitality, in which you may ſuffer no loſs, and in which I cannot derive any other gain than in the benefits of the commerce, to protect which is the object of this propoſal, as the rude ſtate of the country itſelf will render it totally uſeleſs and unprofitable, either as a fund of revenue or internal traffic.

On this ſubject Beneram Pundit will alſo addreſs you, and can inform you of other particulars from his own knowledge and enquiry.

The Board agree to the Governor General's propoſal.

From Moodhajee Bhooſila; received 28th March, 1777.

What you write on the ſubject of inſuring the ſecurity, ſafety, and protection of merchants and traders, from the dangers of the voyage, and from the calamities of pillage; and that the Zemindars of Coojung and Runka have ſeized and appropriated the cargoes of ſuch ſhips as have been wrecked on the ſea coaſt, and ill-treated and impriſoned the crews and paſſengers; that the puniſhment of this race of people, and affording redreſs to the unfortunate ſufferers, has been delayed by reaſon of the difficult acceſs of the country, the authority they have eſtabliſhed in thoſe parts, and the remoteneſs of my reſidence is, through the ſincere friendſhip and attachment you bear me, expreſſed in ſo delicate a manner, and with ſo much attention to the honour and rights of my government, as is highly pleaſing and agreeable to me. Such conduct is incumbent at all times on the Ornaments* of the Muſnud of Government.

As I delight in juſtice, and am a friend to the whole race of mankind, the happineſs and proſperity of the people, and ſecurity and protection of the human race in general, whether travellers or fixed reſidents, are the objects of my moſt earneſt deſire and attention. By the happy influence of this good diſpoſition, notwithſtanding the ſmall number of my allies, and the great number of my enemies, victory accompanies me every where, and peace and friendſhip court me on every ſide.

When weighed in the balance againſt the heroes and conquerors of the Decan, whoſe horſes make no more of a journey of 1,000 coſs, than if it were a party of pleaſure of 100, what power have the Zemindars of Coojung and Runka to breathe forth ſentiments of enmity, to take any baſe or improper ſtep, or to plunder and murder any one? Appendix. No. 152.

Once before that evil-diſpoſed Zemindar cloathed himſelf in rebellion, and refuſed to ſubmit his neck to the yoke of obedience; but at laſt, by the terror of the avenging army, he was ſubdued and rooted out. Having found a favourable opportunity, he again eſtabliſhed himſelf there, and entered the paths of ill, which he ſtill treads in.

On the firſt intelligence of this, and on the peruſal of your friendly letter, I diſpatched the moſt expreſs orders to Madajee Hurry, Subadar of Oriſſa, to proceed without a moment's delay, at the head of a powerful army, to extirpate that fooliſh rebel, the author of all the evil, and to afford protection and ſecurity to all merchants and traders, whether caſt on ſhore by ſhipwreck, or paſſing backwards and forwards, and on no account whatever to ſuffer them to be troubled or moleſted, but ſo to act as to give ſatisfaction to them. The ſaid Subadar has lately written to me, that conformable to my orders he is ſet out to chaſtiſe and extirpate him; and that he ſhall very ſoon reduce him to obedience, or ſhall entirely extirpate him. Probably this news has alſo been tranſmitted from thoſe parts to you; if not, it will be. You will ſet your mind at perfect reſt on account of the merchants and traders, as the Subadar will exert himſelf with the utmoſt induſtry.

As I am conſtantly deſirous of the agreeable news of your health and welfare, the receipt of your friendly letters will relieve me from anxiety, and afford me the greateſt pleaſure.

From Moodhajee Bhooſila; received 28th March, 1777.

Your very agreeable letter, every character of which conveyed to my mind a pleaſing ſenſe, and refreſhed the flower-garden of friendſhip and union, the copiouſneſs which the trueſt friendſhip induced you to give to it; your congratulations on the marriage of the illuſtrious youth, and on the ſucceſs of my arms; your hearty acceptance of my preſents, agreeable to the liſt which accompanied them; and after learning the particulars entruſted to Beneram Pundit, aſſuring me under your hand, that the conviction of the ſincerity of my friendſhip is firmly engraved on the tablet of your heart; and that you have therefore no other view but to cultivate and ſtrengthen the root of friendſhip which has been planted, and that with reſpect to the money, I ſhall receive an anſwer through Beneram Pundit. This letter, filled with ſuch expreſſions of regard, arrived at a happy period, and cauſed my heart to overflow with pleaſure, encreaſing my friendſhip an hundred fold. At the time of its arrival I was diligently engaged, in conſequence of intimation from Madhoo Row Pundit Purdhaun, in levying forces, and preparing ſtore of arms and artillery for the purpoſe of ſettling the affairs of Mundellah, the Rajah of which is lately dead without children, and has left no legitimate heir, either on the father's or mother's ſide, nor any one fit to be placed on the Muſnud. I have now raiſed near 15,000 expert cavalry, and have diſpatched an advanced detachment, which I ſhall follow in perſon in three or four days. It has been alſo determined to ſend the auſpicious youth, Ragojee Bhooſila, with 5,000 horſe to Poonah, to pay a viſit to Madhoo Row Pundit Purdhaun, a meaſure which our long and ſteady friendſhip renders abſolutely neceſſary. He is already ſet off, and is advanced twenty coſs on his journey, and will proceed there by long marches.

The purport of a precept which adds luſtre to the principle of friendſhip is this, "Give preſents, and thereby encreaſe friendſhip." This we have mutually performed, and it is known to the Nabob Nizam ul Dowlah and to Madhoo Row Pundit Purdhaun, the two moſt powerful Princes of the Decan, that ſuch an intercourſe ſubſiſts; that preſents, ſuch as elephants, jewels, cloths, and cheetas mutually paſs between us, and that our friendſhip and engagements are firmly eſtabliſhed: and the ſaid Nabob, when we ſat together in diſcourſe, dwelt very long on this ſubject. He obſerved the excellent diſpoſition of the Engliſh chiefs is highly pleaſing and praiſe-worthy, in that, with whomſoever they form friendſhip, or enter into engagements—ſhould the whole courſe of Nature be changed, they would faithfully adhere to them.

In a word, as our friendſhip is arrived to ſuch a degree of perfection, and the fame of it, is ſpread to all ranks of people, it is equally neceſſary to us both, as well as for our mutual intereſt, to preſerve it inviolate. I am ſteadily fixed on every occaſion in this path, and your good faith, your candour, and uprightneſs, have been by the contents of your letter deeply engraved on my mind, as on a ſtone; our friendſhip will daily take deeper root. I am in expectation of an anſwer from the auguſt King of England to a letter expreſſed in terms of friendſhip, which was formerly diſpatched—He will certainly ſend one, which will afford me the higheſt degree of pleaſure.

APPENDIX, No. 154.

Extract of a Letter from the Governor and Council in Bengal, in their Secret Department, to the Court of Directors of the Eaſt India Company, dated the 24th February 1775.

Par. 2. WE then informed you of the declining ſtate of the Vizier's health, according to the intelligence we received from Mr. Middleton, and that in his opinion he could not ſurvive long. On the 6th inſtant, by letters from Colonel Galliez, we were informed he was actually dead. The Colonel had previouſly apprized us of the imminent danger in which the Vizier lay, and we had diſpatched inſtructions to him to ſupport the pretenſions of Mirza Amanny, the Nabob's eldeſt and only legitimate ſon in the ſucceſſion in caſe of his father's death, and immediately to move the brigade down to Fyzabad to prevent any diſturbance in the city on the occaſion; we at the ſame time ordered the third brigade to march up from Barrampore to Dinapore, that it might be nearer to the frontier in caſe any ſervice ſhould be required.

Conf. 3d Feby.

3. We confirmed theſe inſtructions after the news of that event having actually taken place, and further directed Colonel Galliez to continue his negociations for the payment of the money due by the late Vizier; and alſo on this occaſion to keep a watchful eye over the foreigners who had been entertained in his ſervice, and to endeavour to engage the new Nabob to diſmiſs them totally; we have further enjoined him to diſcourage the offer of any preſent from the Nabob to the army or to individuals.

Conf. 6th Feby.

4. Juſt before the Vizier's death, he wrote a letter to the Governor General, which was afterwards tranſmitted to its addreſs by Mahomed Elich Khan, his Miniſter and favourite ſervant, accompanied by one from himſelf. By theſe letters it appears that Mirza Amanny, otherwiſe called Aſoph ul Dowlah, had his father's poſitive nomination to the ſucceſſion; and though by all accounts he poſſeſſes neither the qualities of the heart or head, equal to the ſtation to which he is thus called, we have not as yet any reaſon to think that his right will be diſputed.

Ditto Ditto

5. In conformity to thoſe aſſurances which we gave in our laſt letter to your Honourable Court, we have had in deliberation the line which on this important event it may be moſt proper for us to purſue for drawing from it the greateſt poſſible benefit to the Company's affairs. We have already determined that the ſpecific conditions of our former alliances with the Vizier, expired with him; and that although we owe friendſhip to the preſent Nabob, as heir to his father, we are not bound to any ſpecial ſervices to him. In this eſſential point it is neceſſary to mention, that the ſentiments of the Board were not unanimous, as will appear upon the proceedings. Our preſent engagement goes no farther than to a ſimple acknowledgment of his title, and therefore ſhould he apply to us for aſſiſtance and effective ſupport, we mean to afford it only on ſuch terms and ſtipulations as to us ſhall appear moſt advantageous to the Company, and honourable to the Britiſh name. As this is a ſubject of great magnitude and importance, we have choſen to enter upon it in Council, with all the deliberation which it requires. The ideas of the different Members will appear in the Conſultation referred to in the margin; they are not given in as concluſive opinions, but as ſentiments ſubject to be canvaſſed, modified, and corrected, and tending only to throw lights on the ſubject, before the final determination of the Board—when that determination takes place, you ſhall be duly adviſed.

Conf. 23th February.

14th February

6. Mr. Briſtow, who has ſet out for his Reſidency at the Court of the new Nabob, will be furniſhed with ample inſtructions on theſe heads; in the mean time we have charged him particularly with the buſineſs of ſettling the payments of the different ſums due by the late Vizier, and given him ſuch further directions for his general conduct at the Nabob's Court as we thought neceſſary. We alſo furniſhed him with copy of a report from Mr. Middleton, of the characters, views, and intereſts of the principal perſons there, which cannot fail of being uſeful to him on his firſt arrival. Mr. Middleton arrived at the Preſidency in the end of laſt month, with the 15 lacks of rupees, which we have formerly adviſed you he had received from the Vizier; this money is in part payment of the 40 lacks ſtipulated for our aſſiſtance in the Rohilla war.

31ſt January

7. We have alſo advice, that the aſſignment of five lacks of rupees, granted by the Vizier on Raja Cheit Sing, has been received on the Company's account at Benares, and is on the way down to the Preſidency.

Ditto

8. Colonel Galliez adviſes us of his having received three lacks of rupees from the late Vizier, in further acquittal of his engagements on account of our aſſiſtance in the late war.

3d January

9. Some time before the Vizier's death, he applied to Colonel Galliez to know whether we would permit a battalion or two of Sepoys, or any body of the Company's troops to return into the Rohilla country, ſhould he have occaſion to make ſuch a requiſition.

31ſt Ditto

11. Notwithſtanding our orders to Colonel Galliez were very preciſe to keep the brigade together, we were ſorry to find that he had, without leave from us, or even any previous intimation of his deſign, detached two battalions of Sepoys to Cawnpore, for the purpoſe of aiding the Nabob to reduce the rebellious Zemindars in the province of Corah; a ſervice we diſapproved of much; and had alſo marched one battalion to Fayzabad, and detained it there without any apparent purpoſe. We thought this diſregard of our orders worthy of our particular reprehenſion, and we wrote him accordingly, giving him at the ſame time a caution to avoid ſuch detachments for the future, as by thus dividing his ſtrength he might endanger the ſafety of the whole troops under his command.

APPENDIX, No. 155.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 6th June 1775.

Tranſlation of the propoſed Articles of the Treaty with the Nabob Aſuf ut Dowlah.

THE Nabob Aſuff ut Dowlah, Ieayaa Cawn Behadre, Hozeblus Jung, on the one part; and the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, and the Members of the Supreme Council of Fort William, for and in the Name of the Engliſh Eaſt India Company, on the other part, agreeable to the following Articles:

Firſt. That univerſal peace, firm friendſhip, and perfect union, ſhall for ever be eſtabliſhed between the Nabob Aſuf ut Dowlah and the Engliſh Eaſt India Company; the contracting Powers, with a view of maintaining a reciprocal friendſhip in the future, ſhall not for any cauſe, or under any pretence, encourage the Reiats and the Inhabitants of their Soubahs in committing hoſtilities and diſturbances, and every thing ſhall be avoided by the ſaid Powers which might occaſion them. Their friends and enemies are mutual; and any perſon who ſhall run away and take refuge in the country of one of the ſaid parties ſhall be given up to the other, and no aſſiſtance afforded him.

Second. The aforeſaid Nabob engages never to entertain or receive in his dominions Coſſim Ally Cawn, the former Soubahdar of Bengal, and Sumroo, the murderer of the Engliſh; even in caſe of his getting them into his hands, he will out of friendſhip make them priſoners, and deliver them up to the Engliſh Company. He alſo engages, not for any cauſe or under any pretence, to entertain Europeans of any nation in his ſervice, without the conſent of the Engliſh Company: that he will prevent, oppoſe, and ſend back ſuch as offer to come in, to paſs through, or remain, or ſhall now be in his dominions without the perwannah of the Engliſh Company. The Europeans of every nation in the ſervice of the ſaid Nabob are hereby diſmiſſed; and now and in the future he engages never to entertain the ſaid Europeans; and to deliver up to the Engliſh Company ſuch of their ſervants who have deſerted or may deſert, in caſe of his apprehending them.

Third. If the King ſhould write any thing relative to the affairs of the Nabob Aſuff ut Dowlah to the Engliſh Serdars, they will attend to the ſatisfaction, advantage, and inclination of the ſaid Nabob, and not conſent to what the King may ſay or write. In like manner, if the King ſhould write to the Nabob Aſuf ut Dowlah, relative to the affairs of the Engliſh Serdars, he will attend to their ſatisfaction, advantage, and inclination, and not conſent to what he may ſay or write.

Fourth. The countries of Corah and Allahabad ſhall always and for ever remain in the poſſeſſion of the Nabob Aſuf ut Dowlah, on the ſame footing as the Subah of Owde; and they ſhall on no account in the future be diſturbed by the Engliſh; nor will they ever requeſt a dam or derrum, or any thing from the ſaid countries. The Engliſh Serdars engage to defend the Soubah of Owde at all times, and Corah and Allahabad until the pleaſure of the Court of Directors ſhall be known.

Fifth. The ſaid Nabob, for the defence of his country, as above ſpecified, declares that he has given up of his own free will and accord, unto the Engliſh Company, all the diſtricts dependant on Rajah Chyte Sing, together with the land and water duties, and the ſovereignty of the ſaid diſtricts in perpetuity. That the Engliſh Company ſhall, after one month and a half from the date of this treaty, take upon them the ſovereignty and poſſeſſion of the diſtricts under Rajah Cheyte Sing, as hereunder ſpecified, viz.

Sircar Benares,	The diſtricts of Juanpore,
Sircar Chumar,	Bighpore Bahdore,
Sukteſſgun,	Mullbooz Kawſs,

The Sircar Gawzypore,
The Pergunnahs of Seckunderpore, Jeride, Shaay, Abad, Toppa, Surchebur, &c. as formerly.
The Mint and Cutwally of Benares.

Sixth. The Nabob Auſuf ut Dowlah, for the aid and aſſiſtance of the Engliſh troops when ſtationed with him, ſhall pay monthly from the date of this treaty, for the charges of a brigade, the ſum of two lacks ſixty thouſand Owde ſicca rupees, of the 16th year, agreeable to the preſent currency. If in future this currency ſhould be aboliſhed, the decreaſe or increaſe of batta ſhall be mutually given and received by the parties. The particulars of a brigade are, viz. Appendix. No. 155.

Two battalions or one regiment of Europeans,
One company of artillery, and Six battalions of Sepoys.

The aforeſaid Nabob ſhall, whenever the Engliſh troops paſs the boundaries of the Company's provinces, at his requeſt pay the ſtipulated ſum monthly, from that time until their return to the aboveſaid boundaries.

Seventh. If the aforeſaid Nabob ſhall ever require the aid and aſſiſtance of the Engliſh Company, for the defence of any other of his countries, beſides thoſe above ſpecified, he will fix ſomething for the Company proportioned to the ſervice.

The Engliſh Company and all the Engliſh Serdars engage to perform whatever Articles are now mutually ſettled, and in the future, during the life of the Nabob Auſſuf ut Dowlah, they will never vary or depart from them. They will not, in any reſpects or manner, make requeſts of any thing now contrary to the tenor of this treaty.

The parties mutually ſwear according to their reſpective faiths, to abide by theſe engagements. Dated the 20th of Rubby-ut-Euril, 1189 of the Hegira, or the 21ſt of May 1775.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, dated 7th December 1775.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſquire, Governor General, Preſident,
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis, alſo deliver in their ſeparate addreſs to the Court of Directors, per Saliſbury, as follows:

Minute from General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis.

Fort William, 21 November 1775.

Since our arrival in this country, it has been one of our principal objects to give the Honourable Court of Directors an inſight into the real ſtate of their affairs in every branch and department: we muſt now requeſt their attention to a ſhort and general review of our conduct, the effects it has produced, the difficulties in which this Government is involved, and the ſtate of the country.

Notwithſtanding the conſtant oppoſition we have met with from the Governor General and Mr. Barwell, we believe it will appear that our labours have not been uſeleſs to the Company: ſome ſalutary meaſures have been carried into execution—ſome abuſes have been checked, or corrected—ſome important advantages have been obtained—much more might undoubtedly have been done, if the ſyſtem of Government in which we found Mr. Haſtings involved, had permitted him to co-operate heartily with our endeavours for the public ſervice.

We are ſenſible that in the regular courſe of Government the meaſures of the Council ſhould originate with the Governor; and that it is the duty of his colleagues to adviſe and aſſiſt him.

We came into this country filled with the moſt favourable impreſſions of his conduct, and determined to ſupport his adminiſtration: the records of the laſt twelve months will we hope juſtify our departing from this reſolution, and taking that lead in the conduct of buſineſs, which naturally belongs to his ſtation. The repreſentations ſent home will give the Company but a faint idea of the accumulated difficulties with which we have been perplexed or oppoſed; we therefore hope that in reviewing our meaſures, large allowance will be made for the diſadvantages under which we have acted.

1ſt. We began with recalling the Company's troops from a ſervice equally unjuſt, impolitic, and diſhonourable. In this inſtance the approbation of our conduct is anticipated, in terms as ſtrong and preciſe as we ourſelves could have dictated, by the general letter of the 7th of March laſt: no condemnation can be more ſevere than that which the Court of Directors have paſſed on the Rohilla war, and on the conduct of the late adminiſtration, even on their own ſtate of the facts: what judgment will the Company form of the meaſure, and of the perſons who planned it, when they ſee our repreſentation of it?

2d. As ſoon as it was poſſible for us to obtain ſufficient lights into the nature and inſtitution of the Bank, we reſolved to aboliſh it. In addition to the arguments ſuggeſted to us by the Court of Directors, we ſoon ſaw reaſons for taking that ſtep, which probably were not ſuſpected at home.

3d. We put an immediate ſtop to an arbitrary inquiſition into the titles by which the inhabitants of Dacca held their lands in the city. We have reaſon to believe that this inquiſition, which in fact was undertaken by the ſole authority of Mr. Barwell, and without the ſanction of the late Preſident and Council, would have depopulated Dacca, and ſpread a general alarm, productive of the ſame effect, through all the provinces.

4th. In order to relieve the Company from the burthen of their bonded debt, we ſet out with a plan of reducing the intereſt upon the whole debt, from eight to five per cent. a conſiderable portion of the capital has alſo been diſcharged. Unleſs our expected reſources fail us, and ſetting aſide the caſe of a foreign war, which it ſhall be our ſtudy to avoid, or of a domeſtic calamity which we cannot foreſee or prevent, we have great hopes of being able to congratulate the Company in the courſe of the enſuing year, on the total annihilation of their bonds, or at leaſt on the acquittance of ſo conſiderable a part of them, as to leave a debt too trifling to deſerve their attention.

5th. We have enquired with unwearied diligence into the frauds and corruptions almoſt univerſally practiſed, and connived at under the late adminiſtration. In this branch of duty the Governor General and Mr. Barwell were able to have given us the ſureſt lights, and the moſt effectual aſſiſtance; in this branch of duty they have moſt ſtrenuouſly thwarted and oppoſed us: we lament the ſucceſs of our enquiries, they are invidious in their nature, and cannot fail to load us with the enmity of individuals. If the importance of a ſervice were to be meaſured by the labour and anxiety of the perſons who perform it, we ſhould not ſcruple to ſay, that our efforts in this line of duty particularly entitle us to the ſupport and approbation of the Company.

6th. The Board of Ordnance planned and recommended by the Commander in Chief will, we believe, be found a beneficial inſtitution. Where conſiderable ſavings are the object, regularity is the firſt ſtep to œconomy; the operation of a year or two muſt be allowed to prove the advantages of this eſtabliſhment; in the mean time the expence incurred by it, is trifling.

We are happy to obſerve that our opinion of the impropriety of employing the Commiſſary General to furniſh contingent ſupplies to the army, is confirmed by the ſtrong diſapprobation which the Court of Directors have expreſſed of this meaſure in the caſe of Colonel Macleane: we have anticipated their orders on this head, by the regulations under which the above ſupplies are now furniſhed.

7th. The principles on which we have condemned the war in which the Preſidency of Bombay have engaged themſelves with the Marattas, and the ſteps we have taken to obtain a ſecure and honourable peace, will we doubt not be honoured with the entire approbation of the Court of Directors: they were founded on the knowledge we had of their pacific ſyſtem of policy, and in effect we have the happineſs to ſee them implicitly confirmed by the ſentence paſſed on the Rohilla war. On the ſame principle we refuſed the alluring offers made to us by the Subah of the Decan, to relinquiſh the Peiſhcuſh paid to him by the Preſidency of Madras, and to give the Company his aid for the conqueſt of Cuttac.

8th. The motives on which we have reſtored Mahomed Reza Cawn to the office of Naib Subah, have been clearly explained. To recover the country Government from the ſtate of feebleneſs and inſignificance to which it was Mr. Haſtings's avowed policy to reduce it, was no eaſy taſk. According to the Governor General's plan, we ſhould have confined the only man perhaps of real abilities and extenſive knowledge in the country, to the important office of ſteward to the Nabob's houſhold, at a time when a Miniſter of the Government was wanted, and when the adminiſtration of criminal juſtice through the country was at a ſtand. The meaſure ſeems to us indiſpenſably neceſſary, and promiſes ſucceſs. In recommending Mahomed Reza Cawn to his preſent poſt, we preſume to think that we have rendered an eſſential ſervice to the Company.

9th. The permanent advantages ſecured to the Company by our treaty with the preſent Subahdar of Oude, are equally conſpicuous and important; they have extorted an acknowledgment from the Governor General, with which he has not been accuſtomed to honour any meaſures but his own. In return for an acquiſition of twenty-two lacks a year for ever, with an increaſe of fifty thouſand rupees to the monthly ſubſidy of the brigade, beſides many other advantages and honourable ſtipulations, hardly any thing is granted on our part, but a perſonal guarantee of the ſame countries to the ſon, which we were before bound to guarantee to the father. The frontier country of Ghazipore muſt at any rate have been defended by our arms, in caſe of an invaſion, whether the revenues of it had been ceded to the Company or not. Theſe revenues are in effect a clear gain to the Company, and a ſeaſonable relief to the declining circulation of Bengal. The meaſure is ſtrictly and excluſively our's: the original plan was oppoſed in every ſtep by the Governor General and Mr. Barwell. It gives us the higheſt ſatisfaction to obſerve, that by the terms of the treaty, the guarantee of the Nabob's dominions, and the ſervice of the Company's troops, were exactly confined within the ſame limits which the Court of Directors, in their laſt letter, have thought fit to preſcribe to us, in our engagements with the Vizier.

In ſpite of numberleſs diſcouragements, our endeavours to ſerve the Company have not entirely miſcarried: if more ſhall be expected from us, the power and the means muſt be proportioned to the end. Conſidering the reſiſtance and oppoſition we meet with from every quarter, we are in truth unable to determine whether any and what powers are left to this Government. If by our authority as Duan, confirmed to us by Parliament, a farmer be confined for arrears of rent, the Supreme Court of Judicature take the cauſe out of our hands, decide upon the merits, and diſcharge the priſoner: if we diſmiſs the Judge Advocate, he applies to the Supreme Court for a Mandamus to reinſtate him in his office: if we diſmiſs the Secretary of our own Board, we ſee him encouraged to bring an action for his ſalary againſt his ſucceſſor: if we order a Britiſh ſubject to repair to the Preſidency, he pleads the protection of the Supreme Court of Judicature, and declines or refuſes to obey us: if, for reaſons of the moſt ſerious political importance, we endeavour to ſupport the authority of the country Government, and the ſovereignty of the Soubah, we have not only the foreign factories, but the Supreme Court of Judicature to contend with: they publicly deny the exiſtence of ſuch a Government; and affectedly hold out the perſon and authority of the Prince to the contempt of the world.

According to the doctrines maintained by the judges, there is ſcarce any act of Government, however neceſſary or expedient, which, if it tends to controul the actions or to thwart the intereſt of individuals, may not expoſe the Members of the Council to actions in the Supreme Court. We even doubt whether we are authoriſed to prevent any perſons from quitting the provinces and going up the country, though we ſhould be certain of their intention to enter into the ſervice of a foreign Power; in theſe circumſtances many uſeful and obvious regulations for the benefit of the country muſt neceſſarily be left unattempted. A general re-coinage has been repeatedly recommended to us by the Court of Directors: ſuch a meaſure is without doubt indiſpenſably neceſſary; but it is of a nature too delicate and important, and likely to be attended with too many difficulties in the execution, to be undertaken with ſafety by a divided Government, with a hoſtile Court of Judicature. Appendix, No. 157.

We could point out a number of other objects, which would deſerve our attention, and of abuſes which call upon us for redreſs; but this is not a ſeaſon for a mere majority of a Council to undertake any meaſure for the public ſervice, in which the learned in the laws of England can diſcover any thing to cavil at.

While a ſtandard is publicly hoiſted againſt our authority, and every individual in the country invited to repair to it; while protection is given to every man who denies or reſiſts the authority of Government; and while the Governor General takes a willing and decided part in every meaſure that tends to degrade the Council, and to diſarm us of our lawful powers, we are not ſanguine enough to expect that any efforts of our's ſhould be equal to the execution of the truſt repoſed in us; we cannot anſwer for the collection of the revenues; we cannot anſwer for the internal government of the country, nor for the ſafety of the ſtate. Our utmoſt endeavours ſhall ſtill be exerted to preſerve the peace, and to promote the welfare of the country, until the neceſſity or expediency of a new arrangement ſhall be determined at home. But, diveſted as we are of all power, we owe it to our ſafety and character to diſcharge ourſelves in the moſt ſolemn manner from all reſponſibility.

APPENDIX, No. 157.

Extract Bengal Secret Conſultations, 29th February 1776.

THE Governor General delivers in his Minutes ſent to the Honourable the Court of Directors, by the Hillſborough.

To the Honourable the Court of Directors, &c.

Honourable Sirs,

Incloſed I have the honour to ſend ſeparate obſervations on three Minutes of General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis; one belonging to the General, and two to the Revenue Department; and all bearing date the 21ſt November 1775.

I have the honour to be,
Honourable Sirs,
Your moſt obedient and
faithful humble ſervant,
(Signed) Warren Haſtings.

Fort William, the 20th January 1776.

Obſervations on the Minute of General Clavering, Colonel Monſon, and Mr. Francis, dated the 21ſt November 1775.

Hitherto the letters and Minutes of the Gentlemen of the Majority addreſſed to the Court of Directors have been been confined to one unvaried theme, the condemnation of my conduct, and of the meaſures of the laſt adminiſtration. They have now changed the ſubject to the enumeration of their own ſervices; but even in this they have not loſt ſight of their original object; as the ſum of their merits on which they lay claim to the applauſe of the Court of Directors, amounts to little more than a diſavowal of the principles, and a ſubverſion of the meaſures of the late Government.

Appendix. No. 157.

They begin with aſſerting generally, that "ſome ſalutary meaſures have been carried into execution; ſome "abuſes have been checked or corrected; ſome important advantages have been obtained." Theſe general poſitions are afterwards particularized in the following inſtances:

1ſt. The recall of the troops from the Rohilla war.

2d. The abolition of the bank.

3d. The ſtop put to the inquiſition into the titles by which the inhabitants of Dacca held their lands in that city.

4th. The reduction of the intereſt on the bonded debt, from 8 to 5 per cent. and the payment of part of the capital.

5th. The inquiſition into the frauds and corruptions, almoſt univerſally practiſed and connived at under the late adminiſtration.

6th. The board of ordnance.

7th. The condemnation of the war in which the Preſidency of Bombay had engaged with the Marattas.

8th. The appointment of Mahomed Reza Cawn to the office of Naib Subah, and the reſtoration of the powers of the Nizamut.

9th. The Treaty with the Nabob of Oude.

When this liſt ſhall be read by thoſe whoſe wiſdom planned the ſyſtem eſtabliſhed by Parliament for the controlling Government of India, and compared with the expectations which they muſt have naturally formed from ſo great and extenſive a deſign, they may be led to think very differently from the Gentlemen of the Majority, of ſuch ſervices; and be diſappointed to find, that inſtead of converting the great powers granted to the Governor General and Council to the confirmation of the Britiſh dominion, and the improvement of the Britiſh property in India, their time and attention, in a long period of thirteen months, have been occupied on no greater objects than negative meaſures; the temporary adjuſtment of the right of property in a heap of old ruins; the ſubſtitution of a new treaty, in violation of former engagements; and attempts to uſurp or depreciate the merits of their predeceſſors.

To ſhew that theſe are the amount of the ſervices which have been ſo pompouſly diſplayed, I ſhall take the liberty to examine them in their order.

1ſt. The Majority improperly claim a merit in having withdrawn the troops which were employed in the Rohilla war, before that ſervice was accompliſhed. It was imprudent in every ſenſe; it was highly prejudicial to the Company's intereſts, if that ſervice was undertaken on expedient and allowable grounds. It was unjuſt if that Government was bound by previous engagements to proſecute it to a concluſion; and yet more unjuſt if it has ſince exacted the ſum ſtipulated as a part of theſe engagements.

I cannot admit either the juſtice or decency of binding the Court of Directors to the interpretation which the Majority have been pleaſed to force on their orders. I underſtand the paragraph of the general letter of the 3d March, to be an approbation of the Rohilla war. I underſtand the diſapprobation expreſſed in their letter of the 7th of March, to apply to a ſubject totally different from it, to a ſuppoſition that the troops which were employed in the Rohilla war had quitted the country which was the ſeat of it, and had croſſed the Ganges, to engage in an indefinite ſervice beyond the preſcribed line of their operations. Theſe cenſures aroſe from a miſinformation, or from a miſconception of the words of a letter from the late Select Committee; and I preſume, that the explanation given them in my letter of the 25th November, which went by the laſt ſhip, will have totally removed all their diſpleaſure upon this head.

2d. The Anſwer from the Provincial Councils to the Queries ſtated to them, proved that ſome advantages had been produced from the inſtitution of the Bank; and that it was not attended with any inconveniencies to juſtify the Majority's haſty abolition of it.

3d. This hardly merits a comment: The Council at Dacca had ordered an enquiry to be made into the titles by which the inhabitants of the city of Dacca held the lands occupied by them. Mr. Francis warmly eſpouſed the cauſe of the occupants. The Board ordered the enquiry to be ſuſpended, and this very important act of the Governor General and Council, which probably was never heard of ten miles from the ſpot which was the object of it, is blown up into magnitude, and is held up as a meaſure which, by the critical interpoſition of the firſt powers of Government, reſcued the city of Dacca, and all the provinces, from depopulation.

4th. This is an uſurpation of the merits of the late adminiſtration. The reduction of the intereſt of the bonded debt was unneceſſary. The payment of the principal was effected by the treaty of Benares; by the Rohilla war; by the ſavings made by the former board of inſpection in the civil and military expences; by the reduction of the Nabob's ſtipend; by the ſuſpenſion of the King's tribute; and by the other œconomical regulations of the late Preſident and Council. I again defy the Gentlemen of the Majority to produce a ſingle inſtance in all their meaſures by which a rupee was gained to the Company, or a rupee ſaved to them. I beg leave to refer to the Conſultations of the 10th of February, 3d of March, and 26th of July 1774, which ſucceſſively ordered, that the bonds of 1769, 1770, and 1771, including all of prior dates, amounting altogether to 38,16,933. 10. 9. ſhould be diſcharged; and to my minute, which was entered in Conſultation of the 26th January 1775, recommending the diſcharge of the whole, by means which the different balances of the treaſuries ſince the date have proved to have been effective. But my recommendation was rejected, and the propoſal of General Clavering, which was delivered to the Board on the ſame day, for paying off part of the debt by new loans of a reduced intereſt of 5 inſtead of 8 per cent. was adopted. In the proſecution of this plan, the debt, on the 31ſt December laſt, was reduced to 62,51,280. 0. 3. bearing 5 per cent. intereſt; and it is certain, that had mine been followed none would have remained, ſince the balance of caſh in all the treaſuries on that day amounted to rupees 97,97,199. 8. 17. 2.

My propoſition for liquidating the bonded debt was founded on an eſtimate of receipts and diſburſements drawn out by the accomptants general, which ſtated the probable balances in the Company's treaſuries, on the 31ſt December laſt, at rupees 18,71,365. 5. 11. after cancelling the debt, and providing for every expence. Many flaws in the eſtimate were pointed out; and the Company were warned againſt giving credit to the flattering account of their affairs which I had laid before them. I endeavoured to ſupport the probability of the eſtimate by arguments; and the Gentlemen of the Majority to controvert the principles upon which it was formed. What was then a ſubject of debate may now be preciſely aſcertained; and the Court of Directors will pleaſe to obſerve, by the accompanying ſtate No. 1, that although the Salt and ſeveral other branches of revenue failed in yielding thoſe funds which were expected, the eſtimate was formed with ſo much moderation that the ſurplus balances in the Company's treaſuries on the 31ſt December turned out actually to be near fifteen lacks of rupees more favourable to the Company than what I had ſuppoſed it. While I congratulate the Company upon this proſperous ſituation of their affairs, I have only to regret, that they ſhould have continued ſo long to be burthened with a debt at intereſt, which the ſtate of their finances could long ere now have cancelled.

5th. I cannot but allow that the labours of the Majority to obtain accuſations againſt the former Agents of the Company, have been carried on with unremitted attention. For this grand object the management of the current buſineſs, and the adminiſtration of juſtice throughout the provinces, have been neglected.

I do not admit that "the importance of a ſervice is "to be meaſured by the labour and anxiety of the per-"ſons who performed it," but by the utility which may be derived from it. Let it be ſhewn by what obligation, either of office or neceſſity, the Gentlemen of the Majority were preſſed into ſo regretted a ſervice; let it be ſhewn how it has operated either in its immediate effect on the preſent intereſts of the Company, or tends to influence the future; and that the ſame zeal which has animated them in their ſearch of paſt abuſes, hath equally incited them to attend to the diſcharge of the truſts which have been directly committed to them; that the revenue has been improved; that new ſources of profit have been diſcovered; that inordinate expences have been reduced; that the diſpatch of current buſineſs has been promoted; that juſtice has been adminiſtered; that the diſcipline of the army has been attended to; in a word, that any one important object of government has been vigorouſly purſued; but if theſe duties are neglected by the rulers of a country, it will avail them little to plead in excuſe, that buſied in arraigning the conduct of their predeceſſors, they were unable to attend to their own.

6th. I ſhould be ſorry to object to any meaſure of the Gentlemen of the Majority that appears to have œconomy or real buſineſs for its object. I ſhall not now offer any judgment of the utility of this inſtitution; this can only be proved from the ſavings which it may produce; and as the operation of a year or two is required for this effect, I am diffident in forming conjectures at ſo diſtant a period, when I reflect with regret on the many plans from which I myſelf expected to have derived credit, but which have been blaſted while I was rearing them to maturity.

The remarks repeated under this head, upon the impropriety of employing the Commiſſary General to furniſh contingent ſupplies to the army, appear to me as much out of place as unluckily applied to an encomium on the Board of Ordnance, which is liable to the very ſame objection, as the members who compoſe it, excepting thoſe of the ſuperior council, conſiſt of the heads of thoſe offices which are placed under its immediate controul and ſuperintendancy.

I ſhall avail myſelf however of this occaſion to vindicate both the late Preſident and Council and Colonel Macleane, from the cenſures to which this appointment has given occaſion, by requeſting that the Honourable Court of Directors will be pleaſed to read the letter of Colonel Dow upon this ſubject, addreſſed to the Board of Inſpection on the 23d May laſt, of which I have annexed an Extract, N° 2. and I will venture hardily to pronounce upon the ſtrength of it, that whatever reductions may hereafter take effect in this hitherto unbounded ſtream of military expence, they will derive their origin from the grant of the contingent ſupplies to Colonel Macleane, and to his integrity in the proviſion of them, notwithſtanding the ſeverity with which the conduct of the board in this inſtance has been condemned. Appendix, No. 157.

7th. The Honourable Court of Directors will be the beſt judges of the merits of the Gentlemen of the Majority, in the ſteps they have taken to degrade the Preſidency of Bombay in the eyes of the Marattas, and to deprive the Company of the advantages which might have been ſecured to them, even with an honourable peace, which there is every reaſon to believe might have been much ſooner obtained by more vigorous meaſures.

8th. I do not think that the uncontrolled adminiſtration of criminal juſtice ought to be entruſted to any native; if it ſhould Mahomed Reza Cawn may be as fit for it as any other. As to the country government, it muſt ever, in my opinion, continue feeble and inſignificant while the real power is in our hands, and the nominal authority is veſted in a perſon who receives his ſalary from us, and is removeable at our pleaſure.

9th. The new Treaty with Aſof ul Dowla is certainly advantageous to the Company, if the conditions of it can be fulfilled; but of this I ever did, and do ſtill, entertain a doubt, notwithſtanding the acknowledgments which it is ſaid to have extorted from me, but which I do not remember to have expreſſed, and now diſclaim; for I cannot deem it honourable to have extorted from the Nabob, conceſſions inconſiſtent with our former treaties, to which the neceſſity of his ſituation alone obliged him, however unwillingly, to ſubmit. The faireſt opinion which I could now give of thoſe conceſſions, would be to repeat the ſubſtance of my minutes, entered on our proceedings of the 13th of February and 3d of March. To thoſe I refer as prophetic (if I may ſo expreſs myſelf) of the effects which have been ſince experienced from the conditions of that treaty.

The remainder of the Minute to which this is a reply, conſiſts of little more than a repetition of the complaints which have been before repeatedly made againſt the Supreme Court of Judicature; yet I may not paſs them without reply; but I ſhall make it as brief as poſſible, placing it in oppoſite columns to the caſes which are ſtated in the Minute.

If by our authority as Duan, confirmed to us by Parliament, a farmer be confined for arrears of rent, the Supreme Court of Judicature take the cauſe out of our hands, decide upon the merits, and diſcharge the priſoner.

This I ſuppoſe alludes to the caſe of Comaul o Dean Cawn. He appealed to the Court againſt an act of oppreſſion, and was a proper object of their juriſdiction.

If we diſmiſs the Judge Advocate, he applies to the Supreme Court for a Mandamus, to reinſtate him in his office.

Which the Court refuſed to grant.

If we diſmiſs the Secretary of our own board, we ſee him encouraged to bring an action for his ſalary againſt his ſucceſſor.

I know not who encouraged Mr. Stewart. His friends I believe have attempted to diſſuade him from bringing his action into the court, thinking it imprudent and likely to prove hurtful to his intereſt. But it was not in the power of the court to prevent it.

If we order a Britiſh ſubject to repair to the Preſidency, he pleads the protection of the Supreme Court of Judicature, and declines or refuſes to obey us.

Not knowing to whom or to what fact this ſentence alludes, I cannot reply to it.

If for reaſons of the moſt ſerious political importance, we endeavour to ſupport the authority of the country government and the ſovereignty of the

The perſon and authority of the Nabob (I know not who made him a prince) ought to be held out of the contempt of the world, if theſe are employed like a ſanctuary to protect debtors the Soubah, we have not only the foreign factories, but the Supreme Court of Judicature to contend with. They publicly deny the exiſtence of ſuch a government, and affectedly hold out the perſon and authority of the prince to the contempt of the world.

Appendix. No. 158.

According to the doctrines maintained by the Judges, there is ſcarce any act of government, however neceſſary and expedient, which, if it tends to controul the actions or to thwart the intereſt of individuals, may not expoſe the members of the council to actions in the Supreme Court.

We even doubt whether we are authorized to prevent any perſons from quitting the provinces and going up the country, though we ſhould be certain of their intention to enter into the ſervice of a foreign power.

In theſe circumſtances many uſeful and obvious regulations for the benefit of the country, neceſſarily muſt be left unattempted.

A general re-coinage has been repeatedly recommended to us by the Court of Directors. Such a meaſure is without doubt indiſpenſably neceſſary; but it is of a nature too declicate and important, and likely to be attended with too many difficulties in the execution, to be undertaken with ſafety by a divided Government, with a hoſtile Court of Judicature.

debtors from their creditors, and criminals from the purſuits of juſtice. I know no other uſes which the Nabob's name and authority can be applied to.

I do not believe that any doctrines have been delivered in the Supreme Court to warrant this concluſion of the Majority, nor do I apprehend that the members of the board are liable to any ill conſequences from the decrees of the court upon any ſuch of their acts as, although not ſtrictly legal, ſhall have ariſen merely from error in judgment, and do not evidently tend to purpoſes of oppreſſion, ſince there is always an appeal to a ſuperior tribunal.

The right of preventing Europeans from paſſing through theſe provinces to enter into the ſervice of any foreign powers, has not been yet before the court, but I do not conceive it to be a matter of difficulty. The opinion of the Chief Juſtice, delivered in the caſe of Paveſey, applies only to the right of our government to expel unlicenſed vagabond foreigners from the country. I cannot let this occaſion paſs without remarking, that the conduct of the judges, in the caſe juſt referred to, manifeſts in the moſt ſtriking manner the candour and temper with which they examine the acts of this government, and their endeavours to ſupport its authority.

This will appear from the Attorney's report entered in the Conſultation of the 23d December, in the Secret Department.

It will require leiſure and attention to carry into execution the orders of the Court of Directors for the improvement of the coinage of this country; but no doubt with reſpect to the probable interference of the Court in the execution of ſuch a meaſure either has proved, or can prove an impediment to it.

The remainder of their minute is pure declamation, and of a kind which I find it difficult to anſwer, in the want of determined facts, which might ſerve as a colour for their alluſions; where is a ſtandard hoiſted againſt their authority? and by whom have the people been invited to repair to it? Who affords protection to perſons denying or reſiſting the authority of Government? What are the proofs that the Governor General has taken "a willing and decided part in every meaſure that "tends to degrade the Council, and to diſarm them of "their lawful power?"

They form an invariable and decided majority at the board, and arrogate to themſelves the whole authority of the ſtate, to the utter excluſion of Mr. Barwell and myſelf. The collection of the revenues; the internal government of the country; and every political arrangement, are at their abſolute diſpoſal; and every meaſure they have adopted has operated in its fulleſt extent. It will avail them but little with their employers and the public, to declare that they diſcharge themſelves from all reſponſibility, when it is as manifeſt as the light of the ſun, that they act as they pleaſe, without any preſent power to controul or oppoſe them.

Philip Francis, }

Honourable Sirs,

I THINK it my duty to inform you, that the intelligence which I have received for ſome days paſt, from Delhi, Akburabad, Dige, &c. ſeems to confirm a report, that the Marattas are aſſembling in large bodies to the ſouthward, with an intention of moving towards theſe parts. It is ſaid that a body of 25,000 horſe have already arrived at Jainnigur, under the command of Beher Jee Sydeah, ſon-in-law to Maddo Jee Sydeah, and that they have exacted large contributions from Pretta Sing, the Rajah of that diſtrict: another body is ſaid to be advanced on this ſide of Jainnigur, within twenty or thirty coſs of Dige; that theſe bodies have been invited by Ringut Sing, the Chief of the Jauts, beſieged in the fort of Dige by Nijif Cawn, to come to his relief, and that their deſign is to give the army of Nijif Cawn battle. Several bodies are likewiſe reported to be advancing towards Jaane; that ſome ſmall parties are arrived in that neighbourhood, and at Calpee; and that they are become very troubleſome to the Nabob's troops under the command of the Goſſaine Rajah, Himmit Behader now lying before Jaanſee. It is alſo ſaid that vackeels are arrived in the Nabob's camp at Etawa, demanding the chout for the provinces of Korah, and the Doab, &c. But as Mr. Briſtow is on the ſpot, and in the way of more information than what I am, I muſt beg leave to refer you to his correſpondence for this particular, as well as for ſuch other private matters relative to theſe advices, which at this diſtance may not have come to my knowledge.

Sir,

We have received your letters of the 14th ultimo and 3d inſtant. We approve of your having complied with the requiſition of Mr. Briſtow, for two companies of Sepoys to be detached to Pertagur, to aſſiſt the Aumil of that place in ſecuring the receipt of the collections, to enable him to diſcharge the Nabob's Tuncaws in favour of the Company; and we leave it to your diſcretion to grant aid to Mr. Briſtow on all future occaſions

Received the following letter from Colonel Stibbert.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

The following is the continuance of the Maratta intelligence which I had the honour to tranſmit to your Honourable Board, in my letter of the 3d inſtant.

They have made no great advances this way ſince their arrival at Sainagur, and which I before had the honour of acquainting you with. Their deſign ſeems to be to give aſſiſtance to Rigeet Sing, beſieged by Nizzif Khan in Dege, and to relieve the fort of Jaanſee, belonging to them, beſieged by the troops of the Nabob, under the command of the Guſſain Rajah. In an aſſault made by Nizzif Khan on the out-works of the fort at Dege, he effected a lodgement near the Kumehir gate, and took four pieces of cannon from the Jauts; but in a ſally which was ſoon after made by Ringeet Sing, at the head of a body of his garriſon, Nizzif Khan's troops were repulſed, and the out-works retaken, notwithſtanding his coming up with a freſh body to their aſſiſtance, when an obſtinate engagement enſued, with an immediate loſs to Nizzif Khan of five hundred men and upwards, and near one thouſand of Ringeet Sing's. Juſwant Sing is the only Maratta Chief, by theſe accounts, who has as yet joined the Jauts; but on the arrival and joining of the other Chiefs moving towards Dege, I think it is moſt likely that Nizzif Khan will be obliged to raiſe the ſiege. With reſpect to the fort of Jaanſee, I do not yet hear of any conſiderable bodies being arrived in that diſtrict, but ſhould the force which it is ſaid is moving towards its relief join, I think it is probable the Nabob's troops will be under a neceſſity to retire. This, Sirs, is the whole intelligence worthy your peruſal, which has come to hand ſince I had the honour to addreſs you laſt.

I have the honour, &c.

Camp, near Belgram, February 11th, 1776. (Signed) G. Stibbert.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

In my addreſs of the 26th ultimo, I mentioned Nudjif Cawn's having returned to the ſiege of Dike, the ſucceſs of which is at preſent doubtful, as the Jauts make a brave defence. The incloſed copy of a letter of intelligence will, I hope, give the Honourable Board an idea of the ſpirit with which it is conducted on both ſides.

By this day's news I underſtand a mine has been ſprung by Nudjif Cawn to little effect. He purpoſes to work another, and the Jauts to countermine it. Myrza Hellyle is again returned to this camp, with a requeſt to the Nabob for aſſiſtance; but he has as yet had only a complimentary audience, in which no buſineſs has been canvaſs'd. It is very ſurprizing that the war between Nudjif Cawn and the Jauts is ſupported thus long, as both are exceedingly diſtreſſed for money, and hardly ever have any ſupplies beyond the day. Nudjif Cawn has above thirty-five thouſand horſe and foot before Dike; the Jauts near thirty thouſand to defend it; and the fort is ſo extenſive that proviſions are introduced without the leaſt difficulty. Nudjif Cawn points his artillery chiefly againſt Gopall Gur, which is ſituated on an eminence, and when once taken he thinks he ſhall eaſily command the reſt of the works. Appendix. No. 158.

Sabiter Cawn is treating with the Sikes for the ceſſion of part of his country, upon the condition of their entering into an alliance with him. He has lately quarrelled with Abdul Ahul Cawn, in conſequence of which he has ſolicited a reconciliation with Nudjif Cawn, and wants to induce him and the Sikes to join him to invade Rohilcund, in the hope of recovering the dominions taken from him by the late Vizier; but I fancy his negociations will avail little.

The Nabob, although I have repeatedly urged him upon the ſubject of Bolow Row's letter to me, a copy of which I forwarded in my addreſs of the 26th ultimo, yet he has hitherto come to no determination. I humbly conceive his Excellency cannot have a better opportunity to make an honourable peace than the preſent, that the Marattas themſelves ſolicit for it.

I have however not neglected my negociation with Bolow Row, but requeſted him to point out the terms on which he wiſhes for peace: his anſwer I hourly expect.

I have the honour, &c.

To the Honourable Warren Haſtings, Eſq. Governor General, and the Members of the Honourable Supreme Council at Fort William.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I addreſſed the Honourable Board on the 19th inſtant, and am ſorry to mention a diſagreeable event which occurred yeſterday.

The Nabob had diſmiſſed Meer Afzul's corps, which had been ſtationed on the other ſide the Jumna for ſome time paſt with the Goſſanes. There were five months arrears of pay due to them, which his Excellency engaged they ſhould have in fifteen days; the men conſidered this delay an artifice to deprive them of their right, refuſed to admit of it, and four thouſand of them marched from their ſtation to within ſix coſs of our camp. The day after their arrival, the Nabob went in perſon amongſt them, and thought he had ſettled the whole affair for only a part of the pay, on the receipt of which they were to give up their cannon and arms, and to diſperſe. The perſons employed by his Excellency in conducting the negociation, had carried falſe meſſages; and when the Nabob found the next day that the matchlock-men would not give up their arms, he reſolved on cutting them all to pieces. I heard of this by chance, at ten o'clock at night, and immediately waited on him to diſſuade him from it, as it was an act that could not do him any credit. He urged their diſobedience of orders, in leaving their ſtations contrary to his injunctions; and that if after he had ſettled the matter once, and they refuſed to abide by what they had agreed to, and he ſuffered their conduct to paſs unnoticed, his army would be conſtantly in actual mutiny. I anſwered, he muſt expect it, unleſs he paid them; and repreſented, in the ſtrongeſt terms I could, that his cutting them to pieces would diſaffect his troops in general, and that I thought it probable they would not fight in ſuch a cauſe, as they might naturally ſay, the ſame would be their ſituation another time. I obſerved on theſe occaſions there were a few who ſpirited the reſt; and recommended to his Excellency to pick out thoſe men and puniſh them, but to pay and diſmiſs all thoſe who had no other hand in the mutiny than being led into it by perſuaſion, and ignorance of the conſequences. I ſat with his Excellency till one o'clock in the morning, without being able to diſſuade him from his reſolution; he therefore ordered the Miniſter to march againſt them early the next morning, with about 15,000 men, with directions, that if they gave up their arms and accepted of about twenty thouſand rupees, he would ſuffer them to go away unmoleſted, otherwiſe there ſhould not be a man of them left alive. The matchlock-men would gladly have compounded for a part of their pay; but when about two lacks were due to them, and they even doubted their obtaining the ſmall ſum that was offered after they had once grounded their arms, they were therefore rendered deſperate; all treating was at an end, and they reſolved on meeting their fate. Out of four thouſand fifteen hundred refuſed to fight, and left the camp; ſo that the engagement was ſupported by two thouſand five hundred, who did every thing that men in their deplorable ſtate could. They had been for ſome days paſt reduced to the greateſt diſtreſs for the neceſſaries of life, were weak, and terrified by the numbers they had to oppoſe.

Notwithſtanding all the diſadvantages they laboured under, the Nabob got the victory by a chance. He was repeatedly repulſed, ſome guns were even taken from him, and his army put to the route; when a tumbril blew up, and threw the matchlock-men into confuſion, upon which his Excellency's troops broke in upon them and carried the day.

The Nabob had about three hundred men killed; of the matchlock-men there were ſix hundred, many wounded, 800 were taken priſoners, and releaſed to-day, the reſt eſcaped; as his Excellency's troops fought with ill-will, and ſuffered them to get away, otherwiſe a man could not have been ſaved.

The eleven old battalions, that is, thoſe under Jaoo Lall and Buſſant, who are formed into two brigades, were not in the engagament, but drew out when the news of the Nabob's troops having given way reached them. The men in general declared it was not to attack the matchlock-men, they only meant to defend the camp. Upon the whole, this act, as might be expected, has given great diſcontent amongſt the troops, and it is the general cry, that they are never to expect their pay, but when they can exact it. It is well known I adviſed the Nabob againſt the meaſure, and I flatter myſelf the credit of the Britiſh nation was never at a higher pitch in this country than now. The Nabob's behaviour at Mindijaut is a ſtriking contraſt to that on the preſent occaſion.

On my return from the Nabob the night before the affair, a deputation of five of the matchlock-men preſented me a petition juſt as I entered my tents, which I refuſed to receive; but underſtood from them that it contained a requeſt for me to get them their pay. After what had paſſed I could not interfere further. I told them they were the Nabob's ſervants, and that the Company had nothing to do with them.

I have the honour to be, &c.

APPENDIX, No. 159.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 8th January 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monſon,
Richard Barwell, } Eſquires.
Philip Francis, }

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I ADDRESSED the Honourable Board on the 6th inſtant.

In my letter of the 11th October I particularly explained the ſtate of foreign affairs at this juncture; the attention of the diſaffected perſons to the Nabob's Government and the neighbouring Powers is much raiſed, owing to our march. Nudjif Cawn has principally, from this cauſe, diſcontinued his attacks againſt Dike, and arrived at Santruſh fort, ten coſs diſtance from it: on hearing of the Nabob's intentions to march to Cole, he diſpatched a vackeel to him, a perſon much in his confidence, to enquire what he purpoſed by it, as he had to expect no foreign enemy in that or any other part; that his own Aumils were, if any perſons, ill-diſpoſed towards him; but they were to be found in other quarters of his dominions: he expreſſed his deſire of preſerving his friendſhip with him, but ſhould the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowla break through it, he was ready to do the ſame, and meet him in the field. His Excellency has not returned any anſwer, though I believe he does not now intend to march to Cole, at leaſt he may avoid doing it, without any reflection on his character, by its being ſaid that he is terrified into the meaſure by Nudjif Cawn. It ſeems Coſſim Ally Cawn is come to Delhi, at his Majeſty's ſummons, by the inſtigation of Abdul Abut Cawn. His Excellency conſidering his ſtrict alliance with the Company, thought it inconſiſtent to have an interview with the King, whilſt Coſſim Ally Khan followed the Court; he therefore gave it as a reaſon for his purpoſing to march to Etawa, and alſo for countermanding Nyaz Ally Cawn, who he has directed to join him: his preſence in that part of the country will tend much more to eſtabliſh his affairs, than the effecting of an interview with the King at Cole, which would be his deſign, as well as to lay plans of poſſeſſing himſelf of part of Nudjif Cawn's country in that neighbourhood. Abdul Abut Cawn might apparently agree in any propoſal of the Nabob's, but it would be with a deſign of ingratiating himſelf into his favour, in order to obtain the management of his affairs; he is artful and inſinuating, and an interview with the King, when this man is to conduct it, will always be productive of much intrigue.

The Nabob, by marching to Etawa, will ſubſide the jealouſy of Nudjif Cawn, with whom he may accommodate all differences, and have the opportunity of reſtoring his authority in the Doab: whereas though Nudjif Cawn may want money, yet his reputation, and the conſtant war his troops have been engaged in, will, when joined with the rebels, give at leaſt an equality, if not a ſuperiority againſt the Nabob. I believe that Nudjif Cawn himſelf would be glad of the opportunity to ſettle his own country; but Abdul Abut Cawn has conſtantly correſponded with the Nabob and Murtezzah Cawn, and I am apt to think he has encreaſed their jealouſy of Nudjif Cawn, by inſinuating he entertained deſigns, which have never once occurred to him. It is certain the granting refuge to Elich Cawn and Baſheer Cawn, and his correſponding with the Goſſeines, might have given ſome grounds. The Nabob has nevertheleſs on his ſide acted the ſame part in receiving many of Nudjif Cawn's diſaffected ſervants.

In regard to Coſſim Ally Cawn, I imagine he will not be of much ſervice to any party, for by the beſt intelligence I can obtain, he muſt have very little money left. It is true he has offered his Majeſty twenty lacks in jewels, which I rather conſider a boaſt to ſerve a temporary purpoſe, than what he will be able to ſupply. I herewith incloſe copies of letters which have paſſed between his Excellency and the King relative to him. They ought to have been forwarded ſome days ago, but were neglected to be given me by the Nabob's moonſhy. I thought it unneceſſary to trouble the Honourable Board with Murtezza Cawn's correſpondence, which is juſt in the ſame ſtyle.

By marching immediately to Etawa, the Nabob will awe the Goſſeines, and in caſe Syndea has really intentions of joining them, he will at leaſt ſecure the rents of the lands on this ſide the Jumna. The Goſſeines wiſh it to be believed that Sindea will invade the country, and have even proceeded ſo far as to have their vackeel propoſe to the Nabob to put him in poſſeſſion of the diſtricts of Kalpy, upon the pretences of attaching him to his Excellency's intereſt, and that he is entitled to them, from the three Maratta Chiefs, Tocojy Holker, Byſagg, and the ſaid Sindea, having divided them amongſt themſelves on their invaſion of Hindoſtan. Admitting that the Nabob was to equal his moſt ſanguine expectations, and at preſent obtain the peaceable poſſeſſion of the countries on the other ſide the Jumna; the having extended his dominions to that diſtance, will prove an inducement to him to involve himſelf in ſchemes of conqueſt, in which it is probable, unleſs ſupported by the Engliſh, that he will fail of ſucceſs. The Honourable Board will be better able to judge of this matter on recurring to events ſince his Excellency's ſucceſſion; for although the example at Myady Gaut had every effect that could be wiſhed, to ſubject his troops, yet he himſelf neglects the opportunity he now has of putting them under ſome kind of diſcipline, which makes it that they have no confidence in him, and the people whom he will have to deal with well know it. It alſo happens to be his Excellency's misfortune, that in camp there is not a man capable of commanding the army. Buſſaunt Ally Cawn appears to be the fitteſt perſon, but by the opinion of moſt military gentlemen with whom I have converſed, he can hardly have ſufficient experience for ſuch a truſt.

The ſtate of the country on the other ſide the Jumna, is as follows: the Goſſeines have made an acquiſition of what yielded the Marattas twenty-five lacks of rupees a year, and taken Moat, an exceeding ſtrong fort, their birth place, and was poſſeſſed by Ender Gyr, the man who adopted them as his ſons: they are laying in a ſtore of proviſions and ammunition in it; and though they have offered to attend on the Nabob, yet their conduct is as independent as ever: they were much preſſed by the Marattas at the beginning of the campaign, but they have latterly defeated ſeveral parties. Anoop Gyr is now at Moat, and Amrow Gyr is gone towards Shahabad, on the frontiers of Nudjif Cawn's dominions, upon the pretence of making the ſettlement of that country. Mahood Ally Cawn, the Nabob of Corah, is ſuſpected by many people to be diſaffected to the Nabob; his Excellency himſelf and the Miniſter ſay they can depend upon his attachment; but he entertains a conſtant correſpondence with the Goſſeines, and Bundlecund Rajah talks of croſſing the river inſtead of meeting the Nabob, and is fortifying a place in his diſtrict, ſtrong by ſituation, called Behaadeh. His troops are attached to him, and know in a mutiny that happened at Rajgyr gaut, that he underhand encouraged the ringleaders, and was indirectly acceſſary to the entrance of the pay of the matchlock-men.

The poſſeſſions of the Rajah's of Bundlecund are to the ſouthward of the diſtricts of Kalpy. The anceſtor of the preſent incumbents was Rajah Chutter Saul, who had two ſons named Kyrdaſaw, who held ſixty lacks of the country, and Puggut Rajah, who held fifty D°.

Lacks 110

Mahomed Cawn Bunguſh, the father of Ahmud Cawn Bunguſh, the Nabob of Ferokabad, attacked theſe Rajahs, who called upon the Marattas to aſſiſt them, which they did, and overcame him, but they ſeized a third part of the country, and then there remained nearly as follows:

To Kyrdaſaw - - - - - - -	42 Lacks
Juggut Rajah - - - - - - -	32 D°
	74 Lacks.

Hindoput is the grandſon of Kyrdaſaw, and had two brothers, one named Aumaun Sing; he killed the other: Keit Sing is now in confinement. Hindoput's reſidence is at Punna, and in his dominions is the famous fortreſs of Callinger: he at firſt held per annum, - Lacks 42 Appendix. No. 159.

He has ſince poſſeſſed himſelf of part of the countries of the under-mentioned Rajahs, Gomaun Sing and Comaun Sing, and of the Rajah of Dattya - 18

Gomaun Sing poſſeſſes Bander and Ajihgur, per annum, lacks - - - - - - 12 — Theſe two Rajahs are the ſons of Kyrut Sing by different mothers, and grandſons of Juggut Rajah.

Comaun Sing poſſeſſes Chicarry fort and diſtricts, amounting to lacks per annum - - 10

Gudji Sing poſſeſſes Jyteporé - - - 6 — The ſons of Peher Sing, the brother of Kyrut Sing.

Maun Sing Collipehar - - - - 3

Lacks per annum 91

The above Rajahs entertain an enmity to one another, and are all equally ſolicitous of obtaining the Nabob's countenance and protection. The Ranna of Goad poſſeſſes the ſame ſentiments; he now holds a country of about ſeven lacks of rupees a year; he had more formerly, as well as a large ſum of ready money, both of which he has loſt and ſpent.

The above circumſtances, together with the facts I have ſtated in my former addreſſes, will I hope fully explain the Nabob's ſituation. The Miniſter, on mature conſideration, is I believe fully convinced his Excellency would do better to ſettle his affairs by negociation, than by himſelf taking the field againſt an enemy. This reaſon has principally induced him to form the following plan:

To place the country on the other ſide the Jumna, in the hands of the Ranna of Goad, or of one of the Bundlecund Rajahs, upon a leaſe for life, of a fixed rent per annum; whatever ſurplus may accrue, to be his emolument, and all charges to reſt with him; the Nabob to take upon him the guarantee of the country againſt a foreign enemy. If upon the whole, the rent pays the expence of the troops kept to defend it, it is all that can be wiſhed; and I do not deſpair (if this plan be executed) of ſeeing it one time or other ſave his Excellency's country from being the ſeat of war. The determination regarding the propereſt perſon, is to be deferred until the Nabob ſhall reach Etawa; the only propoſal yet made is twelve lacks a year, by Gomaun Sing.

With Nudjif Cawn the Miniſter purpoſes to adviſe his Excellency to preſerve a good underſtanding, which he may very eaſily do; in reſpect to other Powers there is apparently little to be apprehended from their intentions.

The intelligence of an invaſion by Timur Shaw is premature; and it is unlikely the Sykes will not attack the Nabob.

His Excellency's ſtay at this place will I expect be very ſhort. I have the honour, &c. &c.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

In my addreſs of yeſterday's date, I informed the Honourable Board of the embaſſy Nudjif Cawn had ſent to the Nabob; the concluſions of his negociations will in a great meaſure depend on the ſentiments of the Honourable Board, and I ſhall therefore ſubmit what has paſſed to their conſideration.

Myrza Hellile, the ambaſſador, was charged with powers to ſettle an interview between the Nabob and Nudjif Cawn, but as theſe two Princes entertained great doubts of each other, they would not either of them venture into the dominions of the other, without a poſitive aſſurance of perſonal ſafety. Unleſs the Company ſhould be the guarantees of any engagements to be entered into on this head, it appeared impoſſible to come into terms. Myrza Hellile therefore expreſſed his maſter's commands, to apply to me for this aſſurance, and yeſterday night waited upon me in form. The Nabob, accompanied by his Miniſter, did me the honour to meet him; him; when he explained his master's readiness to set aside the jealousy and distrust which for some time appeared to have lost him the friendship of the Nabob Asoph ul Dowla. Although variances might occur on trifling matters, yet in any thing material he wished to preserve a good understanding: he assured it to be both his master's and his Excellency's interest, for that the Marattas, from whom we might expect an invasion whenever their affairs would admit, were their mutual enemies.

Myrza Hellile afterwards addressed me; said, his master was the well-wisher of the English, to whom he considered himself much obliged; to be sure his Jaghire had been withheld from him, and there was a coolness in the treatment his master had met with, which he thought he did not deserve by his conduct, and that if e failed in any point it was unintentional, as he entertained the highest respect for the English.

The Nabob took upon him to answer Myrza Hellile: he urged, in regard to his own connection with Nudjif Cawn, that he was really injured by him in receiving his rebellious subjects, particularly Basheer Cawn and Elich Cawn, who had embezzled large sums, and whom he had placed so high in his confidence as to grant to the latter the Government of Pydeabad, and to the former that of Rotuck, &c. He then expressed himself in very warm terms of his alliance with the English, whom he supposed were offended with Nudjif Cawn, because he had treated him ill. Mirza Hellile, and the Nabob, after this entered very warmly into the argument, when his Excellency abruptly took his leave, desiring me to write a letter of assurance of personal safety to Nudjif Cawn, and that he would agree to the Company's being the guarantees; for although he had a reason sufficient to complain of Nudjif Cawn, yet he still wished to be upon good terms with him; other particulars, such as the place of holding their interview, and the mode, he left to be decided by himself, Mirza Hellile, and Murtezza Cawn.

After his Excellency left us, we entered more coolly into the discussion of the subject. For my part I acknowledge the strict alliance that the Company had formed with the Nabob, which exceeded the limits it had borne with the late Vizier; still I said this alliance was no bar to their friendship for other Princes to whom they entertained favourable sentiments, so long as no cause was given to alter them.

In regard to the particular business with which Mirza Hellile was entrusted, the English were ready to enter into any measure that might tend to Nudjif Cawn's or the Nabob's advantage, or the peace of Hindostan in general; but I could not upon any verbal message write a letter of assurance of personal safety to the Nabob Nudjif Cawn, unless the terms of the interview were previously requested of me directly from him, as well as concluded and assented to in writing. I desired him to observe I did not say this with a view of offending him, for though he had brought no letter of introduction to me, yet I could have no doubt of his character, and weight and consequence with Nudjif Cawn, at least the Nabob Asoph ul Dowla's acknowledging him, as his ambassador was alone sufficient to me, for paying him every attention; I therefore recommended it to him to express my sentiments in these terms to his master.

I further proposed to Murtezza Cawn, and Mirza Hellile to have Etawa fixed upon for the place for the interview, and that the latter should set off as this morning, there being no time to lose, especially as the Nabob had many affairs to settle, and the sooner they were commenced upon, the better.

My proposals were agreed to without any objection, and the rest of the conversation passed upon general subjects. Mirza Hellile set off as had been settled.

I beg to be favoured with the commands of the Honourable Board, regarding my conduct between the Nabob and Nudjif Cawn. Possibly they may apply to the Company to be the guarantees of any treaty of alliance they may enter into together; but I will avoid it if I can; and in case I should consent to such a proposal, it shall be only conditional until the pleasure of the Honourable Board be known.

The assurance of personal safety, should it take place, will I hope be approved of; at least the Nabob could hardily acquiesce in the Company's being the guarantees, unless he means strictly to abide by any promise he may make on this head.

I have the honour, &c. &c.

Sir,

We have received your letters of the 6th, 13th, and 14th ultimo; and shall now give you directions with respect to the case stated in the latter, which we desire you will consider as a general rule for your conduct on all such occasions.

We approve of your being present at the meeting of the Nabob and Nudjif Cawn; and we desire you will interpose all the good offices in your power, to create as good understanding and friendship between them; but we forbid your engaging the Company in any new treaty whatsoever with foreign Powers, or in the guarantee of any treaty which they may enter into among themselves, without obtaining the express orders of the Board for that purpose.

Extract of Bengal Secret Consultations, the 8th April 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Hastings, Governor General, President.
Lieutenant General John Clavering,
The Honourable George Monson,
Richard Barwell, } Esquires.
Philip Francis, }

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I wrote last on the 11th instant. I have to acknowledge the Honourable Board's letter of the 26th ultimo. I hope to be very shortly able to transmit a statement of the Nabob's revenues.

Mirza Hillile, Nudjif Cawn's Ambassador, continues to urge me very strongly to obtain the Company's guarantee to a treaty of alliance between his master and the Nabob Asup ul Dowlah, which I have constantly declined in terms to avoid disgusting him as much as possible.

He now openly avows his master's want of confidence in the Nabob, on whom he lays no sort of dependance in any engagements he may enter into.

The Minister seems at present to think that it is good policy to support Nudjif Cawn, in order to attach him to the Nabob's interest. The reason on which he grounds this opinion is, that he is, by late intelligence, likely to take Dike, as the Jauts have had some convoys of provisions intercepted, and the soldiers desert the garrison in great numbers. As to the impression made on the fort by the mine Nudjif Cawn was conducting, or by his artillery, all attempts by these means have failed; by what I understand the event is still doubtful; but appearances are more favourable to him than to the Jauts.

In my address of the 1st instant, I informed the Honourable Board of the junction of Sabiter Cawn and the Sikes, and that Abdul Coſſim, Abdul Abut Cawn's brother, had marched to oppoſe them. The event has been very fatal to the King. The account of the battle which has happened is ſo fully expreſſed in the incloſed paper of intelligence, N° 1, that I refer the Honourable Board to it for particulars; I muſt obſerve, in regard to the Nabob, that prior to this event he had ordered Lettafut to march to Delhy, in hopes of obtaining the Vizarut, and to comply with the King's ſolicitation to ſend him a body of troops. I did not know of the ſtep until it had taken place, otherwiſe I could have perſuaded his Excellency againſt it, or adviſed him to aſſiſt Abdul Coſſim; for he has now, by not co-operating heartily with the King, ſuffered the worſt conſequences to enſue. I think it not improbable that Sabiter may be tempted to invade Rohilchund. His fortune is deſperate, and the recovery of his loſt dominions an object he has much at heart; beſides, he ſeems to think that the Nabob has taken part againſt him, and therefore he ſhall be juſtified in commencing hoſtilities: whenever he does it, probably a number of the Rohillas will join him. I before informed the Honourable Board, that in conſequence of the breach between Abdul Abut Cawn and Sabiter Cawn, the latter was reconciled to Nudjif Cawn. Now the Nabob is apprehenſive, that in caſe Dike ſhall be taken, Nudjif Cawn will be able to attend to enterprizes againſt him, and perhaps join Sabiter Cawn. The ſending of Lettafut to Delhy is in fact in ſupport of Abdul Abut Cawn's meaſures, and therefore diſguſting to Nudjif Cawn; but there appears in the Nabob's conduct, in this whole affair, an obſcurity which I cannot underſtand; and I ſuſpect there was ſome other motive for it than the avowed one. There is a great contradiction I know in the obſervations on it on both ſides. Mirza Hillile mentions it as a ſtep highly detrimental to his maſter, as giving aſſiſtance to his declared enemy; and that he ſolicited the Nabob to ſend Lettafut to Dike. His Excellency on the contrary ſays, Nudjif Cawn wrote to him to let him go to Delhi; whichever may be true I ſhall not pretend to decide, but the duplicity of their conduct diſcovers the great jealouſy ſubſiſting between them, in which I ſhall not interfere further than to prevent them from coming to hoſtilities. Upon conſidering the march of Lettafut, in my humble opinion it was in every reſpect an injudicious ſtep.

The reconciliation of Nudjif Cawn with Sabiter Cawn, and the probability there is of his ſucceeding againſt Dike, alarm the Nabob, and he himſelf now wiſhes the Company would become guarantees of the treaty betwixt them. The Miniſter requeſted of me to promiſe it, but I declined, ſaying it was a matter of that importance, that I muſt have inſtructions previouſly from the Honourable Board. I further obſerved it was a moſt delicate point for the Company to be the guarantee of a treaty between two of the greateſt Princes in Hindoſtan, and ſhould not be haſtily entered into before the parties were firmly reſolved on conforming to it. Upon the whole, the negociation is in ſuch a ſituation, that if the Honourable Board are ſtill reſolved on not interfering, I believe, from the preſent ſtate of affairs, that I can evade doing it without any great detriment to the Nabob.

I have the pleaſure to incloſe a paper of intelligence relative to the Marattas, N° 2. The Chief, Jeſſwent Row, whoſe troops plunder about Joynagur, is the ſame perſon who was unitedwith the Rajepoots againſt Nudjif Cawn. Jeſſwent Row pretends that he has no command over his men; but it is ſuſpected they have his ſecret inſtructions to act in this manner in order to exact money; he himſelf is with Haſhhally Ram Bohra, the Rajpoot General.

I incloſed the copy of a letter I this day wrote Colonel Stibbert on the arrival of the brigade, or a detachment at Putahgur, as Colonel Stibbert ſhall judge neceſſary. I hope the rebels will ſoon be diſperſed.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I have the pleaſure to inform the Honourable Board, that the rebels at Pertabgen are diſperſed without the march of the brigade, and that his Excellency has in conſequence deſired of the Commanding Officer to countermand it. I have, &c.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 15th April 1776.

Received the following letter from Mr. Briſtow.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I had the pleaſure to addreſs the Honourable Board on the 21ſt ultimo, ſince when the Nabob reſolved on immediately putting under the command of Britiſh Officers altogether ſeven of his eſtabliſhed battalions of Sepoys. In conſequence of this reſolution, Captain Erſkine yeſterday had his corps completely delivered over to him, and Captain Hoggan received one battalion; the other he will have in Rohilchund, where it is now ſtationed, to which country both he and Captain Erſkine will march, as a force of at leaſt two regiments is neceſſary to awe the Sikes and Sabiter Cawn from attempting an invaſion.

The very large funds which will be required to raiſe and ſupport ſo conſiderable a body of cavalry as ſix regiments, are much beyond the Nabob's ability to undertake at the preſent juncture. He has therefore directed only two regiments to be immediately formed, and whenever his finances will admit of it, he propoſes to raiſe additional ones. In the interim, that the ſervices of the Britiſh officers may not be loſt, the Miniſter wiſhes to have battalions of Sepoys put under the command of the ſupernumeraries, and to effect this point recommended it to the Nabob to have them all recalled from the recruiting ſtations to head quarters; a meaſure that I hope will meet with the approbation of the Honourable Board, as I humbly conceive, if theſe officers are employed to effect the Nabob's ſervice, it matters little whether in the cavalry or infantry; the introducing of them into the latter is hardly any additional expence, at the ſame time that it eſtabliſhes the diſcipline of his Excellency's army, and ſtrengthens his Government; ſome of the cavalry officers alſo expreſs an inclination to change into the infantry, in whoſe room his Excellency may, whenever it will be neceſſary, apply for others. The Honourable Board having offered to lend him other officers on applying for them, I thought myſelf authorized to aſſure the Miniſter they would be granted.

The eſtabliſhment of the artillery corps on the moſt formidable footing, being of the greateſt conſequence, Captain Hill was conſulted on the plan: I have the pleaſure herewith to incloſe it, his Excellency having ſigned and approved of it; I humbly ſubmit it to the conſideration of the Honourable Board; the Golunder Company being to ſupply the place of Europeans, I hope the pay allotted them upon the footing of Sepoys will be admitted. The Subahdar is thought a neceſſary officer, becauſe a very conſiderable charge will always reſt with him, and in time of actual ſervice, as there is only one European officer, his being of ſome weight and conſequence in the corps will be abſolutely neceſſary. This eſtabliſhment is founded nearly upon a proportion with that of the brigades; one of the Nabob's companies of artillery being about a third of one of our's.

The men put under the command of the officers ſeem ſo well ſatisfied that I have little doubt of their being very obedient. I am apprehenſive of the bad ſtate of the arms of the Nabob's battalions, excepting thoſe taken from the mutineers at Mindy Gaut, which are alſo old and nearly unſerviceable; the whole were made at the late Vizier's foundry at Fuzabad, when the Frenchmen who had the charge of it, either from the want of proper artificers, or the impoſſibility of preparing the metals properly, never did bring them to any perfection. The country-made muſkets, I am told, hardly ever laſt any time, and the metal is ſo bad that the greater part burſt if fired a number of times ſucceſſively: a ſurvey is not yet completed of the arms of the battalions delivered over to Captains Erſkine and Huggan, but I fear they muſt be detained a few days to have them repaired and exchanged, ſo as to be ſerviceable. His Excellency has ordered all his muſkets from Fyzabad (about four thouſand) to be immediately ſent him, though I do not ſuppoſe there will be much above two thouſand ſtand out of them good for any thing. The artillery attached to theſe two regiments will go away complete as to the number of guns, and I hope it will be poſſible to get the weight of metal, agreeable to the eſtabliſhment. I expect to have to write to the Honourable Board more fully on theſe heads in a ſhort time; I have ſecured a tuncaw of R' 2,60,000 on the Naib of Rohilehund, which will ſuffice for the detachment to that province, for I hope at leaſt five months, eſpecially as the battalion ſtationed there, which is to be put under Captain Huggan, has already aſſignments made for it.

The firſt battalion delivered over to Captain Webber has been ſince put under Lieutenant Connellan for the body guard, which makes now altogether five battalions with Britiſh officers. I have, &c.

Agreed, That Mr. Briſtow be replied to as follows:

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 2d inſtant.

Having already written to you fully on the ſubject of the eſtabliſhments propoſed for the Nabob's troops, we ſhall not take notice of the ſtatement you have tranſmitted to us.

We acquieſce in the Nabob's intention to employ a part of the cavalry officers in the command of his infantry, until it may ſuit him to furniſh them with horſe, provided he adopts the plan for appointing them, which we have already laid down for thoſe recommended to Sepoy commands; and as you have promiſed that when he ſhall raiſe the cavalry he may have other officers to command it, in lieu of ſuch as may prefer to remain in the infantry, we aſſent to this alſo.

We are very deſirous to ſee a ſtate of the Nabob's account with the Company, and we therefore deſire you will immediately prepare and tranſmit it to us, adjuſted to the lateſt period; we further direct that you forward to us as ſoon as poſſible, a complete account of the ſubſidy; that you continue regularly to furniſh us with monthly accounts of the ſame, and in future every quarter, with a regular account current.

There has been a battle between the Nabob Nijiff Khan and Nole Sing, in which the latter was defeated, and fled.

READ, and approved, the Conſultation of the 25th inſtant.

Received the following letter from Mr. Briſtow.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I addreſſed the Honourable Board on the 9th inſtant: and this day had the pleaſure to attend his Excellency three miles out of camp, to meet the Kelaat of the Vizarut, with which he was cloathed on the ſpot, in a tent pitched for that purpoſe. The Vizier expreſſed more ſatisfaction on the occaſion than ever I yet ſaw him. He had the ceremony conducted with great ſtate, and on receiving the Kelaat fired a royal ſalute.

In my laſt addreſs I mentioned the plan intended to be purſued for the defence of this country, and the proſecution of the war with the Marattas, in caſe they would not liſten to the Vizier's propoſals for peace. On maturely conſidering the force to be put under Britiſh officers, four battalions of infantry were deemed inadequate to the ſervice, for which reaſon ſeven more of thoſe under Buſſant were recommended by the Miniſter to be delivered over to their charge, and it has been accordingly done, including the body guard; there are now altogether twelve battalions under Britiſh officers.

The Marattas expreſs an inclination for peace; it is however judged neceſſary to guard againſt the worſt, and therefore Muhboob has been ordered to march to Kalpy, there to remain till further orders; and for the defence of Cora, as was before planned, the Nabob has requeſted of Colonel Stibbert to order two battalions to that province. The principal reaſon for urging the Vizier to act with vigour and ſpirit at the preſent juncture, is the approach of the rains, at which ſeaſon the Marattas cannot act, and it is probable they will be glad to conclude a peace.

The diſpoſition of the officers is not yet completely made by the Vizier, ſo that it is impoſſible for the Adjutant-jutant-General to furniſh a general return. No time will be loſt in doing this, but I believe I may inform the Honourable Board, that there will not remain above two or three of the officers unprovided for.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Briſtow to the Governor General and Council; dated Camp, near Etawah, 9th April 1776.

The King's affairs are reduced to the loweſt ebb; for beſides the near proſpect of loſing the ſmall extent of country which he poſſeſſed, he will have every thing to fear from his diſcontented troops, who have now ſix months arrears due to them, which his Majeſty has no apparent means of being able to diſcharge. The only ſecurity he has left for the ſafety of his perſon and the city, is the preſence of Lettaupick with him, which may prove a check to the mutinous ſpirit of his troops, and prevent it from breaking out into any open acts of violence. The rage of the ſoldiery is ſuppoſed to be chiefly directed againſt Abdulabad Cawn, as to him they impute the ill, unprovided ſtate, in which they were ſent againſt the enemy, and conſequently conſider him as the author of their late diſgrace. The withholding of their pay they likewiſe ſuppoſe to be owing to the ſame perſon. The Sikes and Sabiter Cawn have already ſent agents into ſome of the King's and Nudjiff Cawn's diſtricts, adjacent to where the body of their army at preſent is; an Aumil on the part of Sabiter Cawn, and a Mutuſuddee on that part of the Sikes, act jointly in each diſtrict, but the ſhares to accrue to the ſeveral parties have not yet been finally ſettled between them. At one time it was agreed to by the parties, that Sabiter Cawn's ſhare ſhould be ten ſixteenths, and that of the Sikes the remaining ſix. The latter, however, whoſe numbers are increaſed within theſe few days, now refuſe to abide by that diviſion, ſo that the matter remains undetermined, and it appears not improbable may occaſion ſuch a miſunderſtanding as may terminate in an abſolute rupture of the two allied Powers. This point Abdulahed Cawn is labouring with all his might to bring about, and exerting every artifice to excite and foment mutual jealouſies, to that end; it is ſaid that his artifices have had their effect with the Sikes already. Of this people there may be now collected together about ten thouſand, and more it is reported will join them ſhortly: they are all irregular cavalry, but the beſt mounted of any troops in Hindoſtan. Sabiter Cawn may have about twenty thouſand foot and horſe, ill accoutred, worſe diſciplined, ill provided with arms and ammunition, and many months in arrears. The defeat of the King's troops does not appear to have been in any reſpect owing to their want of conduct or courage, but to their being ill provided, and alſo overpowered by numbers. The body of the united army of the Sikes and Sabiter Cawn is marching towards Sarranpore, a part of the king's territories, diſtant about eighteen coſs from the Nabob Auſuf ul Dowla's frontiers; ſmall parties of them have even come on this ſide. One in particular plundered a village near Sutulgur, whereupon one of the battalions which Captain Hoggan is to command, and a body of horſe, were detached by Soorut Sing to defend that part of the country. I underſtand the enemy have ſince withdrawn theſe detachments, and I hope the force under Captain Erſkine will put an effectual ſtop to any further attempts. Mulla Reim Daad Cawn has collected near twenty thouſand of his countrymen, and is ſeizing Hauſey Haſſar, a diſtrict belonging to Nudjif Cawn, to the ſouth weſt of Delhi. Buſhen Cawn being totally unable to ſtand his ground, has joined Nudjif Cawn. The apprehenſions the King himſelf entertains from his ſituation, the Honourable Board will be apprized of from the incloſed papers, viz.

N° 1. Copy of three of His Majeſty's Shokas, to the Nabob and Moktar ul Dowla.

2. Copy of a Shoka to the Reſident, with the Nabob Aſuf al Dowla; as alſo a letter from Abelulahed Cawn to the ſame.

Appendix. No. 162.

N. B. Theſe papers are not to be found.

The grant of the Vizerat upon the terms ſpecified in one of the above Shokas, was by no means his Majeſty's free gift, but entirely owing to his diſtreſſed ſituation. He entertains great hopes of aſſiſtance from the Nabob, which it appears to me his Excellency can hardly, with prudence and ſafety to himſelf, afford his Majeſty; a conſiderable part of his troops having been reformed, his country being ſtill in an unſettled ſtate, and his finances low. The defence of his own dominions will indubitably be the firſt conſideration; and in Rohilchund, excluſive of the force under Captain Erſkine, he will ſcarcely have twelve thouſand men to collect the revenues and defend the province.

Extract of a Letter from Colonel Stibbert.

SINCE I had the pleaſure of addreſſing you laſt, on the ſubject of Maratta intelligence, &c. nothing has occurred ſo particular as to cauſe the immediate attention of the Honourable Board. The internal diviſions ſeem to prevent thoſe bodies that were moving this way, from making further advances. Biher Jee with about 25,000 men, is ſaid to be encamped at Todah, which is about 40 coſs from Dege.

Reingate Sing continues to importune them to come to his aſſiſtance at Dege, which Muzzif Khan ſtill lies before with his army; and it is reported that the garriſon is greatly diſtreſſed for proviſions. With reſpect to Jamee, beſieged by the Goſſaines, a large body of Marattas are ſaid to be advanced within ſome few coſs of it, which is the laſt intelligence I received from thence.

The chaſtiſement given by the Nabob to the Nuzzif Pultan, which you have been fully acquainted of, from Mr. Briſtow, has been productive of circumſtances favourable to the plan of his receiving our officers, and alſo towards reſtoring order and regularity among his troops. Every thing in his camp ſince that time has been perfectly quiet.

I have the honour to be with profound reſpect, &c.

(Signed) Giles Stibbert.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I addreſſed the Honourable Board the 17th inſtant, and incloſed them the copy of a letter I had received from the Nabob, on the ſubject of a detachment which he requeſted might be made from the army for the defence of the Cora province, together with a tranſlation thereof, and my anſwer accompanying. I do myſelf the honour of tranſmitting you the copies of two letters I received yeſterday from Mr. Briſtow, the one in the morning, dated the 16th inſtant, incloſing to me a ſecond letter from the Nabob during the march of the above detachment; the other of the 17th, by an expreſs dawk at 11 o'clock at night, informing me of the aſſaſſination of Muſtar ul Dowlah, his Excellency's Miniſter.

By the private intelligence which I have received this morning, he had been invited to an entertainment at the houſe of Buſſunt Ally Khan, the 17th inſtant, in the morning, when intending to depart after the repaſt at noon, Buſſunt and his friends prevailed upon him to repoſe himſelf in his Tiah Connah (a room built under ground to retire to, in the heat of the day), when he and ſome others ſoon after followed him, who immediately plunged their daggers into his belly, and killed him on the

the ſpot. Buſſunt, after the murder had been committed, about three o'clock went to the Nabob, who had juſt before been informed of the aſſaſſination of his Miniſter, who aſked him how he dared to come into his preſence? and ordered his attendants to draw their ſwords, and put him to death, which was immediately executed. About this time intelligence was received, that the battalions of Sepoys were in motion, and advancing, upon which his Excellency ſet out immediately to meet them; and on enquiring from the commandants the occaſion of their being under arms, they replied, for his ſafety; which, after having aſſured them was unneceſſary, he ordered to return to their encampment, which they without heſitation complied with; his Excellency on his return, ſent for Saidit Ally, his next brother, whom he was informed had fled to Fayzabad: on which he diſpatched a party of horſe to bring him back, but whether they overtook him or not is not mentioned; neither is it ſaid what were his motives for taking this ſtep, but I ſhould rather apprehend it was from a fear of his perſon in the general confuſion.

In conſequence of theſe tumults, and not knowing what further deſigns might be intended, I ſhall not think it prudent to ſend off from the army, the afore-mentioned detachment required by the Nabob, till I am aſſured of every thing being reſtored to its former tranquillity; in the mean time I have wrote Mr. Briſtow, adviſing him, in caſe of his Excellency being under any apprehenſions for his own ſafety, to recommend to him to retire to this camp, from whence I ſhall take care to ſend a ſufficient eſcort to meet and conduct him here, on his acquainting me of ſuch his intentions.

I have the honour to ſubſcribe myſelf, with the utmoſt reſpect, &c.

Reſolved, that the following reply be written to Colonel Stibbert:

To Colonel Giles Stibbert, commanding in the field.

Sir,

We have received your letters of the 6th March and 19th ult°, but that of the 17th, to which you refer in the laſt, is not come to hand.

We do not approve of detachments of more than 500 men being ſent from the Camp on any occaſion, except it may be found neceſſary for the protection of the camp itſelf, or to provide ſubſiſtence for the army. We therefore poſitively forbid your granting any detachments for other ſervices. On the preſent occaſion we believe it would be totally unneceſſary, as we have directed that the whole brigade ſhould march, if the Nabob has no objection, to Allahabad, which place is contiguous to the province of Corah, where he wanted to ſtation the two battalions, for which he had applied to you.

Fort William, 2d May, 1776. We are, &c.

Received the following letter from Mr. Briſtow.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I did myſelf the pleaſure to addreſs the Honourable Board on the 17th inſtant; ſince that I have made the ſtricteſt enquiry into every circumſtance of the aſſaſſination of Muctar ul Dowlah, in order if poſſible to aſcertain the authors and motives of it, as well as the extent it was meant to be carried to. So uncertain, however, muſt be the reſult of all enquiries in affairs of this dark nature, where the ſecret could have been entruſted but to a few, who would be afraid to divulge, nay, would certainly attempt to miſrepreſent, and where reports alſo might be ſpread, by the deſigns or idle ſuſpicions of others, which might be divulged as authentic facts. I ſhall not therefore preſume to decide, but ſubmit the whole to the judgment of the Honourable Board. The following previous circumſtances come within my own knowledge.

On Javo Loll's diſgrace, Buſſunt having obtained his offices, became a formidable opponent of the Miniſters, and they mutually endeavoured to overſet each other. Buſſunt joined himſelf with Tipper Chund, the treaſurer Amro Gyr, and the Telinga Rajas. Theſe people uſed every argument they could think of with the Vizier, to induce him to diſgrace the Miniſter; particularly they urged to him, that inſtead of having eſtabliſhed his Government upon a permanent footing, Muctar ul Dowlah had embroiled him with all the old and confidential ſervants of his late father, and that relying on his connection with the Engliſh, and the ſecurity he might derive therefrom, his views of influence, and independence of his maſter, knew no bounds. The Vizier was ſo much affected by theſe ſuggeſtions, that he reſolved on diſplacing the Miniſter, but firſt did me the honour of aſking my advice as to the propriety of the ſtep; I replied, that if the Miniſter had failed in his duty, the meaſure would certainly be right. I obſerved, that he had had many difficulties to contend with, particularly the ſuggeſtions of ill-affected people about his Excellency's perſon, who were continually counteracting every advice and meaſure he recommended. I particularly quoted the inſtance of the Goſſayne, whom he had continued a long time in office, to the great loſs of his Excellency in his revenue, and probably might prove the cauſe of ſome difficulty and trouble in ſettling matters with the Marattas, from whom, by prudent meaſures, he might ere this have had it in his power to have exacted a peace on his own terms. I aſked his Excellency what particular offences his Miniſter had been guilty of? To this he replied, None; but that he was diſguſted with, and determined on removing him. I took the liberty to obſerve, in a reſpectful manner, that I had always found Muctar ul Dowlah ready in forwarding the Company's buſineſs, and hoped that as his Excellency did not alledge his having committed any crime, he would aſſure me, his life at leaſt ſhould be ſafe, and, if poſſible, an honourable proviſion made for his ſubſiſtence: that otherwiſe, perſons who could not know the real motives for his Excellency's conduct, might impute his Miniſter's diſgrace to his attachment to the Engliſh. Both the Vizier and the Miniſter entered into a very warm diſpute before me, and I with very much difficulty effected a reconciliation. All this happened a very few days before the aſſaſſination. During the altercation, Muctar ul Dowlah repeatedly mentioned his apprehenſions of loſing his life by Buſſunt, who he ſaid had offered to break into his houſe with two companies of Sepoys, and kill him, and that whenever he had lately gone out, he always feared to be taken off. The Vizier told him, he was totally ignorant of any offer of the kind, and that it muſt be all falſe, and inſiſted on his being reconciled with Buſſunt, which was apparently effected, for Buſſunt afterwards ſpent three or four hours every day at his houſe.

The Miniſter nevertheleſs reſolved on having Buſſunt diſmiſſed from all his offices, as, after what had happened, he could not think himſelf ſafe with ſuch a perſon about the Vizier; Buſſunt, apprized of his intentions, determined to take the firſt ſtroke, and perpetrated the aſſaſſination.

From the late rupture between his Excellency and the Miniſter, I own I was led to conclude that the former muſt at leaſt have intimated to Buſſunt, that his aſſaſſination would be agreeable to him, and that without ſuch an intimation, and even aſſurances of his pardon and favour, he would not have dared to attempt it; but I own I am at preſent at a loſs what to think, and the more I reflect on the circumſtances following the murder, the more I find the matter involved in obſcurity.

Immediately on the fact being committed, it is certain that Buſſunt went to the Nabob's, came out immediately after having ſeen him, and got the artillery and troops under his command in readineſs. It is ſaid that when in the Nabob's preſence, the Nabob abuſed him for the crime he had committed, and diſmiſſed him in the moſt opprobrious manner Buſſunt alledged to him, that others and not himſelf had committed the murder. After getting the troops ready, Buſſunt returned to the Nabob with his uncle and five or ſix of his companions, entering the preſence with a naked ſword in his hand. The Nabob then aſked him, if he intended to murder him too? to which he replied, No; and gave away his ſword to his uncle ſtanding by him. The Nabob immediately ordered his people in waiting to put Buſſunt to inſtant death, which was not executed without one of the Nabob's people being wounded in the ſcuffle by Buſſunt's uncle and his comrades, who were ſuffered to eſcape. I ſhould have mentioned, that previous to Buſſunt's entering a ſecond time into the preſence, and immediately on his going out, the Nabob gave orders for his guards to be at their ſeveral poſts, and in readineſs.

Mirza Saadat Ally, as he himſelf writes me, went, on the firſt news of Mucktar ul Dowlah being killed, to the Nabob's, and being refuſed admittance, turned back.

The Nabob himſelf aſſerts, that he was not refuſed admittance, and that he ſent a very urgent meſſage to him to come. It was told me as a fact by ſome people, that he did not hear of Buſſunt's death until he had entered the court-yard, and that this news occaſioned his returning; however, he inſtantly fled, and though the Nabob in an hour or two afterwards deſired me to write to him, perſuading his return, with aſſurances of kind treatment, and alſo to ſend Mr. Grant to eſcort him, no intelligence could poſſibly be got of his route till late laſt night, when I received a letter from him, informing me of his arrival at Gaulior, a place in the poſſeſſion of the Marattas, about thirty-four coſs from hence. Another circumſtance I have heard was, that the aſſaſſins of Mucktar ul Dowlah, immediately after having committed the act, went to Saadat Ally. Some ſay, as they mounted their horſes, which had been previouſly ſaddled, they talked "of having the buſineſs of two or three other people to do," but this I cannot poſitively aſſert to be a fact.

The opinions as to the authors and abettors of the late aſſaſſination, have been various, but the principal ones are the three following, namely, that the Nabob himſelf either gave the orders to Buſſunt, or intimated that it would not be diſagreeable to him; led to this ſtep by the evil ſuggeſtions of ſome near his perſon, by the quarrel he had lately had with the Miniſter, and the latter's haughty conduct. Another opinion given is, that Mirza Saadat Ally was the author of the whole, and made uſe of Buſſunt to cut off Mucktar ul Dowlah only, as a previous ſtep to the taking off the Nabob himſelf. To ſupport this, they alledge that Buſſunt, the night before the fact was committed, went in the dreſs of a knotch girl to Saadat Ally's houſe, and that there had been a cloſe, though moſt private correſpondence between them for ſome time; they alſo inſiſt on his flight, which they aſſert was on hearing of Buſſunt's death, as a ſtrong proof of his guilt; laſtly, there are ſome who ſuppoſe that both the Nabob and Saadat Ally were concerned; that the Nabob, urged by reſentment againſt the Miniſter, and fear of Buſſunt, ordered the murder; that Buſſunt thinking himſelf ſecure ſo far from all inſtant ill-conſequences, had betrayed the deſign to Saadat Ally, with whom he had concerted alſo to take off the Nabob when he ſhould have got the troops ready, which he imagined the Nabob would not hinder his doing, under pretence of preventing diſturbances from Mucktar ul Dowlah's ſoldiery. There are ſcarcely any that ſuppoſe Buſſunt was led ſolely by motives of revenge, for the mortifications and diſgraces he had ſuffered from Mucktar ul Dowlah. Perhaps the prevalence of this opinion may be partly owing to the bad conſtructions the ill-natured part of the world are apt to put on all tranſactions which cannot be clearly aſcertained, but are of this dark nature, and therefore ſuppoſe plots and machinations, much deeper than ever really exiſted. Appendix. No. 162.

His Excellency did me the honour to conſult me, on the meaſures to be taken after Mucktar ul Dowlah's death. I ſuggeſted to him the propriety of dividing the conſequential offices amongſt different people, and not ſuffering ſo uncontrollable a power as the late Miniſter's to be lodged in the hands of any one man; I alſo adviſed the Nabob not to give the command of his battalions to one man, but to keep them under his different commandants. I am in great hopes that the battalions put under Engliſh officers, will ſoon be accuſtomed to their command, and prove obedient troops. This I think will take place with very little difficulty, as I recommended to his Excellency to put the pay of the native officers on the ſame footing with the Company's, as they before received leſs; his Excellency has accordingly conſented, and it is a meaſure that will attach the troops much to our officers for their ſubſiſtence. Aſſignments have been granted me on the Douaul country, where they will be ſtationed.

Letters, the evening of the aſſaſſination, were ſent to the different Aumils, confirming them in their offices. This country, and the army, are at preſent in peace and quietneſs.

The Vizier conſulted me on the conduct he ſhould obſerve to Saadut Ally; he made two propoſals, either for him to reſide at Fyzabad, in which caſe he ſhould inſiſt on his being confined to his houſe, or to retire into the Company's territories. It was obſerved, that after what had happened, his being about the Vizier's perſon would be the occaſion of eternal jealouſies; and his Excellency very candidly confeſſed to me, that he could not be at eaſe in his mind, if he ſhould remain with him. I thought for Saadat Ally to be at Fyzabad would be equally dangerous, as there are always a numerous body of troops, and many of the principal people of the country at that place; circumſtances which would open a channel for intrigues and ſuſpicions; it was therefore determined to make him the offer of retiring into the Company's territory, and I am authorized by the Vizier to propoſe it to him, and tell him a jaghire of one lack of rupees a year, and his travelling charges to his intended place of reſidence, will be allowed him. I hope this arrangement will meet the approbation of the Honourable Board; I humbly conceive it a political one, that will for ever ſecure the Vizier's alliance to the Company. I ſhall to-day write to Saadut Ally; and beg to know what place in the provinces the Honourable Board deem fitteſt for his reſidence, in caſe of his returning at my inſtance.

The Vizier having attended to my advice, has in all offices diſpoſed of, ſince the death of his Miniſter, diſtributed them amongſt his late father's adherents. For inſtance, the Duan Khana, a principal office, from the head of it attending conſtantly about him, has been given to Huſſun Reza Cawn. By what I could ever ſee of this man, he bears the appearance of attachment to the family, and even uniformity in his conduct. The late Miniſter, on his firſt admiſſion into office, uſed every means to induce this man to join his party, by the dread of his power, or the hopes of emolument to himſelf. He poſitively refuſed, but has throughout conducted himſelf with reſpect to the Vizier, and not intrigued, as others have done, to overſet his government.

The artillery remains in the hands of a ſeparate Daroga; and Tipperchund, the Treaſurer and Paymaſter, having loſt his places for his intrigues againſt the Miniſter, is put in again.

Theſe meaſures ſeem all to have a good tendency, and the Vizier has himſelf attended to buſineſs ſince the Miniſter's death. But I know well his diſpoſition, that this can be conſidered only a temporary effort; and unleſs there are one or two capable men about him, affairs will will revert to their late ſtate of anarchy and confuſion. Huſſun Reza Cawn will find ſufficient employment in his attendance on the Vizier; and I conceive it out of his line to regulate the finance and military departments; the latter, Tipper Chund has been long accuſtomed to, and is very capable of conducting; but for the finance it will be a very difficult point to fix it on a regular ſyſtem. The Duan Surat Sing, in the late Vizier's time, had much authority in this branch; having the controul of all accounts, and being well verſed in all the uſages from long experience, he was exceedingly uſeful. But this man having acquitted himſelf well in the Government of Rohilchund to withdraw him from thence would in my humble opinion, eſpecially at this ſeaſon of the collections, be an unadviſable meaſure; I think the more ſo, as his place may be ſupplied by his ſon-in-law, who has been educated under him in office, and equally capable with Soorut Sing.

Appendix. No. 162.

There are no Adawlects in this country, but the execution of juſtice reſts with the Aumil and Cutwal. There is generally a Cutwal in each town, or any village of conſequence; he is totally ſubordinate to the Aumil, and I am ſorry to ſay, in the execution of juſtice, there is hardly any deciſion made, but what is biaſſed by money.

Upon a review of the offices through which the buſineſs was tranſacted at the preſence in the late Vizier's time, the principal ones were the Dewanny and Treaſury, but a check upon theſe being neceſſary, the Vizier did think proper, before I left him, to eſtabliſh the office of Amanut: the duties of which will be to ſee that no innovations are made in the fixed eſtabliſhment, either military or civil; and that no final adjuſtments of accounts ſhould be conſidered legal, without the Superintendant's ſignature.

I humbly conceive it to be in every reſpect the plan to ſupport the heads of office in their ſeveral departments, and to keep every man ſolely in his own line, not to ſuffer him to interfere in buſineſs in general, as has been too much the caſe, and one cauſe of the confuſion that reigned. As a mode of obviating any inconvenience from the want of proper perſons for the executive part of the buſineſs, there ought to be one or two able men about the Nabob's perſon, without any oſtenſible offices; to receive and preſent petitions, ſettle all contracts, conclude all agreements for farms, judge of the proper perſons for Aumils, and other departments of government; to ſee that the buſineſs of each office is regularly conducted, and report the ſtate of them, are duties it would be impoſſible for the heads of offices themſelves to do, as taking up too much of their time, which ſhould be uſefully employed in the minutiæ of their own departments. I think it would be improper, for whoever were about the Vizier in theſe capacities, to have a deciſive authority, which was the great evil in Mucktar ul Dowlah's adminiſtration. They ſhould poſitively not have the adjuſting of a ſingle point, without the Nabob's ſanction. The great labour in all buſineſs is to collect materials, which, when once done, it is eaſy to decide on; and I ſhould imagine this would not be an undertaking beyond the reach of his Excellency's induſtry or inclinations. The late Vizier obſerved this plan in his conduct, and the perſons whom he entruſted were Elich Cawn and Baſheer Cawn. The day after the death of the Miniſter, when the fitteſt perſon to tranſact the executive part of the Government was conſidered upon, nobody was thought ſo capable as Elijé Cawn; he is the likelieſt man to reconcile the parties at Court; a man of unwearied application, and well known. Beſides this, it might be further expected by his means to effect a reconciliation with the Begum, a very material object, and I believe what his Excellency has much at heart. Mucktar ul Dowlah being out of the way, it was generally ſuppoſed he would return; he was in conſequence wrote to by his agent, and has conſented; but I look upon it to be a doubtful matter. In regard to the part I ought to take in this negociation in the name of the Honourable Board, I am much at a loſs, as Elijé Cawn paid great inattention to the protection before granted him; but in this caſe there is great allowance to be made for circumſtances, particularly the Nabob's inclinations, and the advantages to be reaped by the public.——I hope to meet with excuſe for the freedom with which I have expreſſed my ſentiments; but I conſider the Company's intereſt ſo cloſely connected with this Government, that I could not avoid being thus particular on ſo material a point.

Mr. Chandler has attended the Vizier, and the intent of the Nabob's leaving me here, is to mediate the peace with the Marattas; the only nation from which I think the Nabob has now reaſon to apprehend any attacks. From theſe I think there can be no real danger, as the very formidable force of eight battalions of Sepoys, under Britiſh officers, with a proportionable artillery, is ſurely ſufficient to defend this country. Relative to military matters I ſhall write the Honourable Board very fully before I leave this, as it has been an object of my ſtay, to ſettle the accounts, and have the neceſſary arrangements to take place.

Whilſt I ſhall remain here his Excellency has thought proper to direct all orders from me to be obeyed by the army.

I have the honour to be, with the greateſt reſpect,

Read the following letters from Colonel Stibbert:

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

In conſequence of the defection of the Gaſſeins, the march of Hemet Bahadar, with his troops towards Agra, who has ſince joined Nudjiff Cawn at Deg, and their abandoning to the Marattas the diſtricts on the other ſide the Jumna, that were entruſted by the Nabob to their Government; and alſo on account of freſh bodies of Marattas arriving from the ſouthward, I beg leave to inform you that I have been applied to by his Excellency for two or three battalions of Sepoys, to march into the Corah province for the protection and defence thereof, whilſt he is employing his own troops in oppoſing the enemy, and recovering his authority in the aforeſaid diſtricts; a copy of which application I herewith do myſelf the honour of tranſmitting to the Honourable Board, together with a tranſlation thereof, and my anſwer; which I hope will meet with their approbation.

Propoſals of peace having however been ſince offered, and a negociation ſet on foot between his Excellency and the Maratta Chiefs, he has on this account deſired that the movement of the above detachment may be deferred, till he makes his further requeſt for their ſo doing. What thoſe propoſals are, the Honourable Board will learn from Mr. Briſtow. The plan propoſed by his Excellency for proſecuting the war, ſhould a peace be not brought about, is ſo fully explained in his Excellency's letter, that I ſhall not trouble the Honourable Board concerning it. In this caſe, I beg leave to aſſure them, that I ſhall take the moſt particular care, that no infringement or violation may be made of the peace lately concluded between the Company and the Maratta Power, and that their troops are no further employed than in defence of the guaranteed provinces.

and

I have the honour to be, with great reſpect, &c.

April 17, 1776.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I did myſelf the honour of addreſſing the Supreme Board, on the 19th inſtant, informing them of the aſſaſſination of the Vizier's Miniſter, and the diſturbances which have lately happened at the Durbar. I then acquainted them, that every thing at that time had the appearance of being reſtored to tranquillity, which I now have to confirm, from the accompanying letters received this day from the Nabob and the Reſident, as well as from my own private intelligence.

In conſequence of which I have ordered the detachment of two battalions of Sepoys, which his Excellency has requeſted for the defence of the Korah province, to march the day after to-morrow, under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Parker, to whom I have given the accompanying Inſtructions, which I hope will meet with your approbation.

I have had no further intelligence concerning the treaty on foot with the Marattas, than what Mr. Briſtow has informed me in his incloſed letter. My intelligence from Calpee and Jahauſe ſay, they are daily eſtabliſhing themſelves in the diſtricts on the ſide the Jumna, and that a ſmart action has lately happened between the Deteah Reja and Luckman Row Pundit, in which many men were killed on both ſides. His Excellency marched with part of his army for his capital at Lucknow, the 23d inſtant, and has ordered boats to be got ready for his croſſing the Ganges at Manamow, abour eight coſs from hence, where I am informed he propoſes making ſome little ſtay. Sadit Ally, whom you have been acquainted of, went off on the report of the Miniſter's death; I have received an account this morning arrived the 20th inſtant at Futtybad, within ſeven coſs from Agra, and that Elize Cawn, on hearing of it, ſent tents and people out to meet him; but whether he miſtruſted Elize Cawn, or for what cauſe, it is ſaid he took another route, and it is ſuppoſed has proceeded on to Nezib Khan at Dege.

Reſolved, That the following reply be written to Colonel Stibbert.

To Colonel Stibbert, commanding the forces in the field.

Sir,

We have received your letters of the 18th and 25th April. By the laſt we perceive that you have ordered the two battalions of Sepoys to march to Korah, in conſequence of the Nabob's deſire. This ſtep being directly contrary to our poſitive orders, notified originally to Colonel Galliez, under date the 10th February, 1775, and delivered over to you with the general inſtructions which you received from your predeceſſor in that command, we cannot refrain from teſtifying our diſpleaſure, and cenſuring your conduct for this diſobedience. We muſt inform you, that whenever our orders are peremptory, we expect they ſhall be implicitly obeyed. We are the more ſurprized at your conduct on this occaſion, becauſe it appears by your letter of the 14th January, that you were thoroughly apprized of the full force of theſe orders. We hope that the battalions which have marched, did not go without the boundaries of the guaranteed provinces in their way acroſs the country from Belgram to Corah, and deſire you will acquaint us with the route they took. We are, &c.

Tranſlation of a Letter from his Excellency the Narval Aſoph ul Dowlah.

You are well acquainted with the account of the Marattas having come to the other ſide of the Jumna in conſequence of the ingratitude of the Guſain. If now we ſhould be negligent, they will gain opportunity and leiſure, and collect together a conſiderable force. Now is the time to repulſe and expel them, when the pleaſure of God to oppoſe and chaſtiſe them is no difficult taſk; the plan that I have been conſidering on I will here communicate to you. To detach from hence four battalions, together with a proper train of artillery, to the other ſide of the Jumna, and to ſend alſo four more battalions and 1000 horſe from Korah, which are under the command of Mehboob Ali Khan; beſides which, having an intention of reſigning the country on the other ſide of the Jumna, to the Rana Zemindar of Gohud, with whom I am on friendly terms, he will be preſent and ready with ſome thouſands of horſe, and if it be neceſſary I myſelf will alſo march. Appendix. No. 162.

The fighting army of the Marattas amounts to 5 or 7000, beſides ten or twelve thouſand Pindarahs, in the whole about 17 or 18,000 men, ſo that I am on no account apprehenſive of their coming. Mihbo'b Ali Khan brings 4 battalions from Korah, and leaves only one there; there will not remain an army ſufficient for the defence of that place. On this account therefore do I trouble you to deſire that you will ſend two or three battalions from the Engliſh camp, for the protection of Korah, I myſelf at preſent not having any other troops which to replace Mihboob Ali Khan's battalions, the march of which is abſolutely, ſince otherwiſe my affairs muſt go to ruin; and God forbid that the Marattas conquering in that quarter, they ſhould afterwards (as certainly would be the caſe) form the deſign of invading this country alſo, and ſpreading wide trouble and diſturbance, in the end ſeizing upon the Soubahs.

Tranſlation of a Letter to his Excellency the Nawab Aſoph ul Dowlah.

Your favour, intimating the ingratitude and treachery of the Guſſain Unoap Gir (Rajah Himut Behadur) and the diſturbances created on the other ſide the Jumna by the Marattas, as alſo your deſign of ſending an army from your camp, and Mihboob Ali Khan with four battalions and ſome horſe from Korah, ſhewed its face in the midſt of expectation.

Learning of the troubles excited by the Marattas, I was much affected; I ever implore the Almighty for your ſafety and the deſtruction of your enemies; and God forbid that any diſturbance be in the Subahs; I ſhould be unmindful of the friendſhip that ſubſiſts between you and the Engliſh nation; in conſequence therefore of your demanding two battalions to march to Korah, in order to maintain peace and order in that quarter, I ſhall direct the required force to be in readineſs to repair thither; and I am in all reſpects the obeyer of your noble pleaſure, &c.

Tranſlation of a Letter from his Excellency the Nawab Aſoph ul Dowla Wuzier ul Mamalik.

I fully comprehend what you ſay, with reſpect to your having before this put two battalions in orders to proceed to Korah, agreeable to my deſire; for the protection of that place, but that hearing of the martyrdom of Moacker ul Dowlah, which much troubled and afflicted you, you have delayed their march, and wait for a letter from me on the ſubject. The detaching of the battalions is extremely neceſſary and adviſable, for as much as I have poſitively ordered Mihboob Alli Khân to march with expedition to Calpee, and I have furthermore empowered Mr. Briſtow, who for this purpoſe remains behind me, to treat the Marattas either with peace or war, as he ſhall think proper. Hence it is not fitting that the march of the battalions be any longer deferred.

I eſteem your deſiring me to reſide in the Engliſh camp till all diſturbances be quelled, as the reſult of hearty kindneſs and friendſhip. Through the favour of God no troubles now ſubſiſt. Whatever was decreed has happened; the reſt is happineſs and welfare.

I have

Appendix. No. 162.

I have now (April 23) marched from Etawa towards Lucknow, in order to ſettle all my affairs and properly regulate my Subahs. I have left behind me in the Doab, &c. a conſiderable force, and expect, through the favour of God, that every thing will turn out well.

To Colonel Stibbert, commanding the army in the field.

Sir,

I have been favoured with your letter of the 19th inſtant, and have the pleaſure to inform you, that appearances at preſent, both in the Nabob's troops and thoſe under the Engliſh officers, promiſe the utmoſt tranquillity. His Excellency wiſhes you to diſpatch the two battalions to Corah as ſoon as poſſible; he ſets off for Lucknow by the Manairon road to-morrow morning, and has promiſed to write to you before he ſets out, in anſwer to your letter which I delivered. There is as yet no certain intelligence arrived where Saadit Alli is fled to. The preſent tranquil appearances render it (I ſhould ſuppoſe) unneceſſary to ſend any force as an eſcort to his Excellency. I ſhall ſtay here for ſome days, in order if poſſible to adjuſt matters with the Marattas. Mr. Chandler has been directed to attend the Nabob on his journey; if therefore you ſhould have any buſineſs relative to my department, to tranſact with his Excellency, be kind enough to make Mr. Chandler acquainted therewith, who has my directions to expedite every matter of that kind to the utmoſt of his power.

I am, &c.

Camp, near Etawa, April 22d, 1776.

(Signed) John Briſtow, Reſident at the Court of the Nabob of Oude.

Lieutenant Colonel Parker.

Sir, Camp, Belgram, April 25th, 1776.

You will pleaſe to proceed with the 15th and 16th battalions of Sepoys, directed to march, and croſs the Ganges the 27th inſtant in the morning, under your command, to Korah, where on your arrival you will encamp your detachments in any of the topes you may find moſt commodious and convenient for this purpoſe, adjacent to, or within two or three coſs of that town.

His Excellency the Vizier having ordered his troops from Korah under the command of Mahoob Alli Khan, to march to Calpee, and attack the Marattas on that ſide, who have lately ſeized upon the diſtricts belonging to his Excellency on the other ſide the Jumna, while a detachment of his army marches againſt them from Etawa, in conjunction with the Rana of Gohud; in caſe a peace ſhould not be concluded between them, (a treaty being now on foot for adjuſting matters between the Vizier and them) the ſervice to be performed by your detachment is to be an awe upon, and to prevent any inſurrections ariſing among the Zemindars in the Korah province, and alſo defend the ſame ſhould it be attacked by any enemy during the abſence of Phouzdar Mahamed Aly Khan and his forces.

You are on no account what ever to croſs yourſelf, or ſuffer any parties from your detachment to croſs the Jumna, or march out of the Korah provinces, and to avoid as much as poſſible dividing your force; ſhould it at any time be neceſſary ſo to do, you are immediately to inform me thereof, alſo by a regular correſpondence of all occurrences that may from time to time fall out and happen during your command. I am to recommend to you in the ſtrongeſt manner, to pay the ſtricteſt attention to the diſcipline and conduct of your men, and that no irregularities or oppreſſions are committed by them, or ſubjects of complaint of any ſort given to the inhabitants or country people.

I am, Sir,

Your moſt obedient, and humble ſervant,

(Signed) Giles Stibbert, Colonel, Commanding the Army.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, dated the 12th Auguſt 1776.

Read the following letter from Mr. John Briſtow.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

The Vizier's real reſources (if properly managed) are ſo much ſuperior to thoſe of any foreign Power, that I entertain little doubt of his withſtanding any attacks that might be made on him; notwithſtanding which, the preſent reduced ſtate of his army gives an opening which may never happen again, and if it were ſeized, might be productive of much loſs and trouble to him, both in Rohilcund and the Doab; the forces now ſtationed there are inadequate to their defence, and the rains alone, I believe, prevent his Excellency's enemies from invading thoſe provinces. To ſome of Nudjif Cawn's troops, ſix, to others eleven, months arrears were due, only a ſmall portion of which he has been able to pay; and as for theſe three months to come he cannot poſſibly expect any conſiderable collections, I humbly conceive it to be very poſſible, that, rendered deſperate by diſtreſſes, he might be induced to undertake operations againſt the Vizier. His troops though mutinous, laying at Dike as they now are, without even the proſpect of a ſubſiſtence, would in all likelihood follow his ſtandard with alacrity, on any new enterprize, in hopes of plunder. Their ſituation cannot be well worſe than it is, and it appears to me, that it muſt be indifferent both to them and to Nudjif Cawn himſelf, what ſervice they undertake, ſo that it even only has the ſhadow of ſucceſs. Runjut Sing has been ſoliciting at Onpine for aſſiſtance, and it is ſaid, Mahajy Syndea promiſes him twenty-five thouſand men, and that they are really marched, with an intention to come ſtraight to Dike. I remember on many former occaſions the Jauts have propagated reports of expected ſuccours from the Marattas, when they were never really meant to be ſent, ſuch I conceive to be the preſent caſe. The Marattas rarely move without ſome proſpect of the payment of their troops; the Jauts have abſolutely no money for them, and at this ſeaſon of the year for the Marattas to march to their aſſiſtance, in hopes of drawing their ſubſiſtence from the country, (which has been a long time the ſeat of war) it is very improbable they would think of doing it. Theſe reaſons, and the diviſions which I underſtand ſubſiſt in the adminiſtration at Poonah make me rather diſcredit the reports of Mehajy Sindea's ſuccours. If though there be any truth in his march, I think there muſt be more intended than the avowed cauſe of aſſiſtance to the Jauts, from whom he cannot expect any advantages adequate to the expence of the enterprize. I look upon it, that this muſt be a cloak to his invading the Vizier's territories, by which he might gain his ends, and revenge the diſgrace thrown on the arms of the Marattas, by the loſs of the Doab. I know they ill brook this, and whatever willingneſs they may profeſs to conclude a treaty of amity with his Excellency, I believe they are in this only awed by his alliance with the Company.

Admitting Nudjif Cawn to be free from danger from other quarters, there are people about him perſonally inveterate againſt the Vizier, whoſe fortunes are deſperate, and will loſe no opportunity of raiſing his jealouſy. The Goſſayne Baſheer Cawn, and all the Vizier's ſubjects who have left his ſervice in diſguſt, may be reckoned amongſt this number; and if he be deprived of all hopes of a proviſion from this quarter, I look upon it Saadit Ally might from his rank and abilities become really formidable; he at preſent is greatly diſtreſſed, and I am convinced would be happy to return. His agent has repeatedly urged me to remit him fifty thouſand rupees, to bear his expences to the Company's territories; I have not yet been able to obtain any honourable terms for him from the Vizier, but his remaining with Nudjif Cawn, with whom his only object can be to interrupt the peace of his brother's Government, is a matter of that great conſequence, that I humbly ſubmit it to the conſideration of the Honourable Board. I am convinced in my own mind Nudjiff Cawn would be glad to be at variance with the Vizier, as he has given a very ſtrong proof of it, in the late negociation of the Niabut of the Vizarut. His Ambaſſador Mirza Hellyle, ſolicited for this appointment in the moſt urgent ſtyle, whilſt we were at Etawa. The Vizier for ſome time refuſed it him, until the King's approbation was previouſly obtained; but Mirza Hellyle got over this difficulty, and received the Kelaat the day before his Excellency left that place. The mutiny in the army a ſhort time after broke out in the Doab, and the Vizier's affairs had an unfavourable appearance, upon which Nudjif Cawn refuſed to put it on, nor did he do it until very lately.

His Majeſty, according to his laſt year's plan, has fixed on a day to take the field the 14th of the lunar month. It is ſaid the Sikes are collecting a numerous army, with which they have agreed to join him; that they had previouſly refuſed to attack Nudjif Cawn, but offered readily to undertake any enterprize againſt the Vizier. Fyzulla Cawn has for ſome time been treating with them, and is ſuſpected of having encouraged them with hopes of entering into their views of invading Rohilcund; and in order to cloak his raiſing a large body of troops, he does not himſelf entertain above the number of five thouſand, ſtipulated by the treaty with Sujah ul Dowlah, but he authorizes his Zemindars and ſervants to do it in their names. It is further ſaid that Sabitar Cawn is invited to join in the confederacy; what dependance is to be laid on this intelligence, I cannot ſay, but it appears to me abſolutely neceſſary that the Vizier ſhould loſe no time in putting his army, eſpecially that part, under Britiſh officers, on the moſt reſpectable footing, for in leſs than two months, the rains will ſubſide, and the country be open to the attacks of his enemies.

Lucknow, I have the honour, &c.

Received the following letter from Lieutenant Colonel Goddard.

Gentlemen,

I have the honour to acquaint you, that from accounts received of the junction of a body of Seiks, with Zabta Chawn's army, and of their united forces having moved to Sucker Taal, on the banks of the Ganges, there is reaſon to apprehend he is meditating an attempt to invade Rohilcund, and it is reported he has already ſeized upon a great number of boats, for the purpoſe of croſſing his army: I do not however think he will carry his deſigns into execution till after the rains, a paſſage being at this ſeaſon extremely hazardous, and indeed almoſt impracticable.

His Excellency the Vizier has in conſequence of the above intelligence directed me to proceed to Daranagur with the body-guard under the command of Lieutenant Connellan, and Lieutenant Clarke's battalion of Sepoys, which is all the force I can at preſent poſſibly collect, the five new-raiſed battalions ſtill continuing under the command of Colonel Stibbert: I am hopeful the Board will ſee the expediency of ordering that part of the Vizier's army to be delivered over to me, particularly as there is a proſpect of their ſervices being ſoon required, and I could wiſh to accuſtom them early to that mode of diſcipline and ſubordination I intend they ſhall hereafter continue to practiſe. I need not urge any thing further on this ſubject, as I flatter myſelf the Board will have acquieſced with my former addreſs concerning it. Appendix, No. 163.

I expect the two battalions above-mentioned will reach Furruckabad about the 20th inſtant, by which time I ſhall be able to judge with more preciſion of the deſigns of Zabta Chawn, and ſhall endeavour to inform myſelf of every material circumſtance, which ſhall be faithfully tranſmitted to you. From the preſent appearance of affairs, I am firmly of opinion his intentions are fixed on recovering the former poſſeſſions of his nation from the Vizier, and from every account I am inclined to believe Fyzoolah Cawn will join him in the attempt. Should that really be the caſe, with the addition of Captain Erſkine's regiment now at Danaragur, and Captain Hoggan's, alſo ſtationed in that quarter, joined to the two battalions already with me, I ſhall be of force ſufficient not only to prevent their effecting a paſſage over the Ganges, but to oppoſe them fairly in the field.

I beg leave to inform you, that in obedience to your inſtructions, I have done all in my power to controul the enormous expences of the army, and ſhall continue to pay the ſtricteſt attention to that taſk, and your future directions reſpecting it.

I take the liberty to ſubmit to your conſideration, how far it would be concluſive to the ſettlement and regularity of the troops, after their late diſtracted and diſperſed ſtate, the aſſembling them in one place for the preſent; and having modelled and diſciplined them, I would propoſe that the infantry might be divided into two bodies, one to be ſtationed for the protection of Rohilcund, and the other in the Doab, where they would be ſeparately powerful enough to repel any invaſion; or ſhould occaſion require, might eaſily move to the aſſiſtance of each other.

I take the liberty to point out to you, the immenſe expence ariſing from the number of ſtaff appointments in the army, and to ſubmit to your deciſion, how much it would contribute to diminiſh the expence, the annulling the poſt of Adjutant and Quarter Maſters to each battalion of infantry; a meaſure which will not, I am convinced, be attended with any injury to the diſcipline of the troops, and muſt be of manifeſt advantage, by curtailing the very heavy charges now incurred on account of their great allowances and contingencies.

I alſo beg leave to repreſent to you, the ſervice it would be of, to the artillery, to have an officer of approved ſkill and experience, appointed to command that corps. As it is a body on which the chief dependance is to be placed, and which may be ſaid to conſtitute our greateſt ſuperiority over the country arms, I am exceedingly anxious for its improvement, and conceive the enlarging that eſtabliſhment, and augmenting the number of artillery officers, would be a meaſure highly beneficial to the ſervice.

Belgram, I have the honour, &c.
Auguſt 12th, 1776. (Signed) Thomas Goddard.

Reſolved, That the following reply be written to Lieutenant Colonel Goddard:

To Lieutenant Colonel Goddard.

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 12th inſtant. In our's of the 29th ultimo, we informed you of the orders we had given to Colonel Stibbert, to deliver over the new-raiſed battalions to your charge and command; though we have no doubt that theſe orders would arrive in due time, yet to guard againſt the poſſibility of any accident, we now incloſe a duplicate of our letter to you, and have alſo ſent a duplicate of that to Colonel Stibbert.

Appendix. No. 164.

We very much commend the attention you have ſhewn already to controul the contingent expences of the Nabob's army under your command, and you may reſt aſſured of our firmeſt ſupport in the proſecution of ſo neceſſary a ſervice.

The offices of Adjutant and Quarter Maſter, are conſidered in every well-regulated army ſo eſſential to the diſcipline and accommodation of the men, and to the preſervation and arrangement of the ſtores, that we cannot judge of the propriety of aboliſhing them on the ſole ground of œconomy, but we rely entirely on your prudence and diſcretion in forming and regulating the Vizier's diſciplined troops; we therefore leave it to you to reduce thoſe appointments, if upon more mature deliberation you ſhall think it adviſeable.

We cannot poſſibly ſpare more artillery officers at this time from our own ſervice; you will therefore uſe your diſcretion, in diſtributing commands in the Nabob's artillery in ſuch manner as may beſt ſupply the want of a commandant, or a greater number of ſubaltern officers, until it may be in our power, ſhould it hereafter be deemed neceſſary, to increaſe their number.

By Colonel Stibbert's return, tranſmitted to the Commander in Chief, we are ſorry to obſerve the ſlow progreſs made in raiſing the recruits of the new regiments, eſpecially of that under the command of Captain Home, which is deficient 1011 men. We need not mention the neceſſity to recommend to you the greateſt diligence and expedition in completing theſe corps, as ſo little time will be left to diſcipline them before it is likely they may be wanted for ſervice.

As we think it probable that many of the officers of the battalions lately diſbanded, may apply to be admitted into the ſervice of the new eſtabliſhment, we recommend it to you to be particularly attentive to the characters of the officers whom you may appoint to commands in them; and if you ſhall find that any perſons who have received commiſſions had formerly diſtinguiſhed themſelves in the late ſeditions, you will remove them immediately, diſmiſs them from the ſervice, leſt their example and influence ſhould introduce the ſame ſpirit of mutiny among the ſepoys under your command, which has been carried to ſuch lengths in the Nabob's army, and which has too frequently been experienced in his diſciplined corps, even during the government of the late Vizier.

Fort William, 28th Auguſt, 1776.

We are, &c.

The Governor General delivers in the following Minute:

From the repeated accounts which have been received of a combination formed by the King, the Marattas, the Seiks, and the Rohillas, to invade the dominions of the Vizier after the concluſion of the rains, and from the too great notoriety of his inability to oppoſe an invaſion by any force of his own, the probability of ſuch a deſign is at leaſt ſo apparent as to merit the attention of this Board to the means of guarding againſt it; for this purpoſe I ſubmit to their conſideration the expediency of engaging the Nabob Nudjif Cawn in the intereſts of the Company and of the Vizier, and of concerting with him a plan for our common benefit and ſafety. The firſt ſtep to this object would be obviouſly the confirmation of his penſion, and the payment of the arrears which are due of it, both as the means of fixing his attachment and enable him to make it ſerviceable to the common cauſe; but I think it would be improper to make further advances on this point until his anſwer ſhall be received to the letter which was written to him on the 13th June laſt. As there is no time to be loſt, and as the accompliſhment of any alliance with Nudjif Cawn which can be converted to purpoſes of ſolid utility, muſt depend upon the previous arrangement of many points, which can only be ſettled in a perſonal negociation with him, I recommend that a perſon be deputed for this purpoſe to Nudjif Cawn, who may learn and report to the Board his ſituation and views, and thoſe of the other Powers in his neighbourhood, and who may treat with him upon the conditions of his alliance, and the meaſures to be adopted in conſequence of it; I do not think it neceſſary or proper to appoint a public commiſſion for this buſineſs, but recommend that it be privately entruſted to ſome English gentleman in the ſervice of the Company, who may be previouſly known to Nudjif Cawn, and with whom he may treat with confidence.—I will take the liberty to remark, that I ſhould have conſidered it as falling within the ordinary powers and duties of my ſtation, to have formed all the preparatory lines of a meaſure of this nature, by my own authority, for the ſake of ſecrecy and diſpatch, and to have reported my proceedings to the Board, with all the materials which I had collected, when they were ripe for execution; but in the preſent conſtitution of this Government ſuch a power may be deemed improper, I therefore only recommend the meaſure for the approbation of the Board, and will name the perſon whom I would wiſh to propoſe for the ſervice, when I know whether the meaſure itſelf ſhall be approved.

Ordered, That the above Minute lie for conſideration until to-morrow.

APPENDIX, No. 164.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 29th Auguſt 1776.

RE-CONSIDERED the Governor General's minute delivered into the Board yeſterday.

Mr. Francis—By a reſolution of this Board, in which I did not concur, it has been already determined to reſtore Nudjiff Cawn's penſion, on the condition of his diſmiſſing from his ſervice certain perſons juſtly obnoxious to this Government. I ſtill think that this alone is not ſufficient to entitle him to ſuch a mark of our favour, and that further meaſures will be neceſſary to ſecure the attachment of a man of his qualifications, and to make him really ſerviceable to us and our ally, the Nabob of Oude. I do not therefore object to the propoſed deputation in itſelf, but reſerve any further opinion of it until I underſtand on what plan, and under what inſtructions, the perſon deputed is to act; I cannot aſſent to any which may have a tendency to engage the Company's troops beyond the line of our preſent guarantee.

Mr. Barwell—I approve of the Governor's propoſal, to depute an Engliſh Gentleman to learn and report Nudjiff Cawn's views and ſituation, and to treat with him on the condition of his alliance, and the meaſures to be adopted in conſequence of it. In this I do no more than adopt the ſentiments of the Company, who have particularly directed this Government to uſe its endeavours to benefit the general cauſe by the abilities of Nudjiff Cawn. I concur with the Governor General, that we cannot order the payment of the arrears of Nudjiff Cawn's ſalary, nor proceed a ſtep further in that particular, before we receive his anſwer to our letter of the 13th June.

General Clavering—The combinations which the Governor General mentions to be forming by the King, the Marattas, the Seicks, and the Rohillas, to invade the dominions of the Vizier after the concluſion of the rains, I do not find to be yet ſo well eſtabliſhed as to be admitted as a truth on which we can depend. In a letter, which I beg leave to deliver in, from Colonel Stibbert to Colonel Goddard, the invaſion of the Vizier's dominions is treated as very problematical. Whether the intention of invading the country be real or not, I do not think we can place any dependance on the attachment of Nudjiff Cawn, whilſt he entertains two ſuch implacable enemies of this Government near his perſon, as Sumroo the aſſaſſin, and Mador the deſerter; till he ſhall therefore have performed his promiſe of diſmiſſing from his confidence thoſe two perſons, I cannot agree to maintain any intercourſe whatever with him.

The Governor General—I have always underſtood, and I believe it to be certain, that Nudjiff Cawn has been compelled, by an unavoidable neceſſity, to retain Sumroo in his ſervice. That the firſt motive of his receiving him, was to prevent his enemy Abdul Abed Cawn, who was then in treaty with Sumroo, from employing him in his ſervice, of which Nudjiff Cawn apprehended that his death or ruin were the ſole objects; and that the long war in which he has ſince been engaged with the Jauts, and his own internal weakneſs from the want of money, have put it out of his power to comply with the urgent requiſitions which this Government has made to him for the diſmiſſion of Sumroo, who has been principally, if not, as I am informed, always employed in remote ſervices, and now maintains himſelf in a degree of independancy, but never poſſeſſed any ſhare in his maſter's confidence, nor even the public appearance of it; but I agree nevertheleſs with the other Members of the Board, in requiring this as a preliminary and indiſpenſable condition of our further alliance with him. The ſpecific advantages which I expect may be derived from the propoſed deputation, will beſt appear in the following rough draft of the inſtructions which I have prepared for the purpoſe. I muſt add in this place, that although I cannot expect the Board ſhould place implicit confidence in the reports which I have mentioned, of the junction of the King, the Marattas, the Seicks, and the Rohillas, yet I have received reports through various channels, in confirmation of this intelligence, contained in the letter from Colonel Goddard, recorded yeſterday, which leave me without a doubt of the formation of ſuch a confederacy.

Read, the rough draft of the inſtructions propoſed by the Governor General.

Ordered, That they be copied fair, and ſent round for the further conſideration of the Board. And,

Agreed, That an Engliſh Gentleman be deputed to treat with Nudjiff Cawn, on the ſeveral points expreſſed in the Governor General's minute of yeſterday.

Governor General—I beg leave to recommend Major Hannay for this ſervice, as a perſon well-informed of the political ſtate of affairs in that part of India, perſonally known to Nudjiff Cawn, and in every reſpect well qualified to anſwer the purpoſes of ſuch a commiſſion.

Mr. Francis—I have no objection to Major Hannay.

Mr. Barwell—I acquieſce in the Governor's nomination.

General Clavering—I ſhould have no objection to Major Hannay's going there, or any where elſe, where it might be thought his ſervices could be uſefully employed, if it was not for the reaſon I have already given, for holding any communication with Nudjif Cawn whilſt Sumroo is his chief confidant. Under theſe circumſtances, I think it an indignity to the Company to depute an officer to Nudjif Cawn, and a degradation of the officer himſelf, to be admitted into Nudjif Cawn's preſence, under the auſpices of an aſſaſſin.

Reſolved, That Major Hannay be appointed to proceed on the deputation above-mentioned.

Mr. Francis—I underſtood the previous diſmiſſion of Sumroo and Mador to be the baſis of the propoſition; without which I could certainly have no thoughts of treating with Nudjif Cawn.

Governor General—The General's objection ſuppoſes me to have propoſed, what is the moſt foreign from my intentions. I ſhould hold it, equally with him, a diſgrace to this Government, and an indignity to its repreſentative, to employ any officer, or other ſervant of the Company, in a perſonal negociation with Nudjif Cawn, were Sumroo at the ſame time admitted into his preſence; but to put this point beyond a doubt, I would propoſe that the diſmiſſion of Sumroo be formally required by Major Hannay, before he paſs the boundaries of our own dominions, and that in default of his compliance, Major Hannay be forbidden to proceed. I cannot extend this propoſition to Mador, and the other Europeans in the ſervice of Nudjif Cawn, becauſe I doubt whether it may be in his power to diſmiſs them until he ſhall have acquired that addition of ſtrength and authority which may be expected from the renewal of his connection with the Engliſh, and from the credit which it will give him with the other powers of Hindoſtan.

The Governor General's motion is agreed by Mr. Francis and Mr. Barwell.

General Clavering—I object to it, becauſe I think the ſame end may be anſwered, by writing from hence, without expoſing the honour of this Government to be affected by the return of a deputation which all Hindoſtan will know was expreſsly ſent to invite Nudjif Cawn to an alliance, on conditions which he would not accept.

Governor General—I had already propoſed, that this commiſſion ſhould not be of a public nature; and however the exiſtence or object of it may be ſuſpected, it can never injure the credit of this Government, that an individual, not charged with any declared authority, ſhall have proceeded to the frontier of our own dominions, for purpoſes which the world cannot be informed of, even though he ſhould be obliged to return from thence, without having accompliſhed the real end of his miſſion. Were there time for it, I ſhould be equally inclined to write to Nudjif Cawn, and to wait for his anſwer to the propoſition of receiving a Miniſter from this Government, and to the preliminary condition of any future treaty which may take place between us; but ſuch a delay would fruſtrate the deſign of the meaſure; nor have I the leaſt apprehenſion that Nudjif Cawn will not thankfully agree to receive Major Hannay, or that he will refuſe to diſmiſs Sumroo ſo ſoon as it ſhall be required of him as the conditions of their meeting.

Reſolved, That the diſmiſſion of Sumroo be formally required by Major Hannay, before he paſs the boundaries of the Company's dominions, and that in default of Nudjif Cawn's compliance with this requiſition, that Major Hannay be forbidden to proceed any further.

General Clavering—If ſo public a meaſure as the appointment the Board is now making, could be conſidered even in Calcutta, the letter which Major Hannay is directed to write to Nudjif Cawn, and which as uſual will be read in his public durbar, muſt infallibly pronounce the intentions of this Government, and muſt expoſe it to the contempt of all India, in caſe Nudjif Cawn ſhould refuſe to ſend away both Sumroo and Mador, as he himſelf engaged to do by his former letter; beſides, I foreſee that the King, whoſe ſervant Nudjif Cawn is, will be juſtly incenſed at ſo partial a diſtinction in favour of him, whilſt he himſelf is entirely neglected by us. I ſtill conſider the King as much the natural head of the empire of Hindoſtan, as the Emperor of Germany is of the German empire; Princes who are more potent than him, may neglect his orders, but all of them ſeek, on one occaſion or another, to obtain his favour, and the honour which he has to beſtow.

Governor General—I am far from expecting that Major Hannay's deputation ſhall be concealed in abſolute ſecrecy; and upon this occaſion I cannot help lamenting the unhappy ſtate of this Government, which binds the hands of the firſt and executive Member of it from employing ſuch preparatory means for the advancement of its intereſts or its immediate ſecurity, as in the nature of them require to be conducted with the ſtricteſt ſecrecy; but in my opinion it will be ſufficient that Major Hannay's deputation be not publicly made known before it ſhall have taken effect; neither will it be neceſſary for Major Hannay, in notifying his approach to Nudjif Cawn, to ſay that he comes with a public commiſſion; this will be ſufficient to guard it againſt any diſgrace on the failure of it. I for my own part will never join in any act which ſhall give juſt cauſe of offence to the King Shaw Allum; and while I perſiſt in thoſe ſentiments, I ſhall little regard the impotent reſentment of a man to whom I owe no allegiance, and ſhall be always ready to ſupport the engagements of the Company, even with thoſe whom he may call his ſubjects, and even againſt his perſon, if by an oppoſition to theſe engagements, he ſhall oblige this Government perſonally to oppoſe him. I ſhould be loſt in ſo wide a field as I ſhould be led into, by the diſcuſſion of the King's rights, and the obligations of this Government to maintain them; but with reſpect to the different treatment which is due from us to him and Nudjif Cawn, a very few words will ſuffice. The King ſeparated himſelf from his connections with the Engliſh, in oppoſition to the ſtrongeſt remonſtrances which were made to him on their part; Nudjif Cawn refuſed even to accompany the King, or to ſeparate himſelf from the Engliſh, until urged by them to both, as a meaſure which the King's ſafety, under the circumſtances of ſuch a reſolution, rendered indiſpenſably neceſſary, and which their intereſts did not oppoſe. I move that a letter be written to Mr. Briſtow, to inform him of the deſign of Major Hannay's commiſſion, ſo far as it reſpects the Nabob of Oude, and to direct him to correſpond with Major Hannay, and to concert with him the means of rendering it effectual, but to conceal the contents of this information until it ſhall be neceſſary to reveal them.

Mr. Francis and Mr. Barwell agree to the Governor General's motion.

General Clavering diſapproves of every ſtep that may be taken in conſequence of the appointment that has been made this day.

Agreed, That the following letter be written to Mr. Briſtow, for the purpoſe mentioned in the above motion

Sir,

Having thought proper to appoint Major Alexander Hannay, to proceed on a deputation to the Nabob Nudjif Cawn, in order to treat with him on ſundry matters, we direct that you correſpond with Major Hannay, and uſe your endeavours to concert means to render his negociation effectual. For this end, we tranſmit you a copy of his inſtructions, as far as they relate to the Nabob of Oude: but we deſire you will conceal the contents of this information, and the nature of Major Hannay's appointment, until it be found neceſſary to reveal them, or at leaſt until he ſhall arrive at the court of Nudjif Cawn.

We are, &c. &c.

The inſtructions propoſed for Major Hannay having been circulated agreeable to the orders of the Board, after the breaking up of this day's Council, they were received back, with the remarks hereafter entered; and being agreed to by a majority of the Board, were written fair, and delivered to Major Hannay.

Sir,

The Board having nominated you their Deputy to the Nabob Nudjif Cawn, you will wait upon the Governor General for your credentials, and repair with all poſſible expedition to the Court of that Prince.

We recommend your ſtricteſt attention, and the utmoſt exertion of your zeal and abilities, to obtain the following points, the objects of your deputation:

1ſt. You will give the Nabob the ſtrongeſt aſſurances, in the name of this Government, of their earneſt deſire to renew the friendſhip and alliance which formerly ſubſiſted between him and the Company, and of cementing and increaſing both, on conditions of mutual ſupport and advantage.

2d. You will require of him to diſband all his European forces, and particularly to diſmiſs from his ſervice the aſſaſſin Sumroo; you will acquaint the Nabob that we conſider his compliance with theſe two requiſitions, as preliminary and indiſpenſable to any treaty which may hereafter be concluded with him, ſince no degree of good faith can ſubſiſt between us, whilſt he employs the ſubjects of nations at enmity with the Engliſh, and gives protection to a man, whoſe name is held in ſuch juſt and univerſal deteſtation by them.

With reſpect to Sumroo, we cannot conſent even to your proceeding on the propoſed negociation, whilſt that man is retained in his ſervice. We therefore direct that you previouſly direct a letter to the Nabob, informing him of your intention to viſit him, without formally notifying the authority with which you are inveſted; but to acquaint him, that you are precluded by the poſitive orders of this Government, from entering his territories, until he ſhall have firſt diſmiſſed Sumroo from his ſervice. And you will wait until you receive his reply, and an aſſurance of his having complied with your requiſition.

3d. You will repreſent to the Nabob, that we have obſerved with much concern a coolneſs and diſtruſt prevail between him and the Government of Oude, ſince the period of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah's ſucceſſion; and as nothing can ſo effectually contribute to the ſecurity and advantage of his own and the Vizier's dominions, as a cloſe union and unreſerved confidence, and a mutual participation of benefits, you will tender your good offices for accompliſhing ſo deſirable an end, either by offering our mediation, or by concerting with our Reſident at the court of the Vizier, the means of effecting an immediate reconciliation; and for this end you will make exact and regular communications with our Reſident at that court, of all your proceedings upon ſuch points as have a tendency to eſtabliſh a coalition, which we ſo ardently wiſh to effect, between the Vizier and Nudjif Cawn.

4th. You will obtain from Nudjif Cawn, as early as poſſible, the ultimate conditions on which he is willing to form a laſting alliance with the Company. As he may previouſly demand the confirmation and arrears of his penſion, you will acquaint him, that our determination thereon, by the inſtructions of the Court of Directors, neceſſarily depends on his anſwer to the laſt letter written to him by the Governor General; and you will obſerve to him, that as treaties of alliance between different States can have no other ſolid baſis nor ſecurity for becoming permanent, than that of mutual advantage, we ſhall expect, in return for the pecuniary benefits he may derive from the Company, the moſt effectual ſupport he can afford to the ſecurity of their dominions, on which, in fact, that of his own muſt eſſentially depend, by contributing with his whole force, where it may be practicable, to repel the hoſtile deſigns of the Marattas, or any other Power who may riſe in arms againſt them.

5th. You will concert with the Nabob Nudjif Cawn, the beſt probable plan of defenſive operations for oppoſing any invaſion of the Marattas or other Powers in the enſuing campaign, but you muſt guard againſt his entertaining any expectation of actual aid from us, by informing him that we are not permitted on any account whatever to carry the arms of the Company beyond the limits of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah's dominions of Oude, Corah, and Allahabad.

6th. You will uſe your utmoſt endeavours to gain and tranſmit to us from time to time, the moſt exact information of the natural ſtrength, ſituation, forces, and revenues, and the characters, intereſts, connections, and deſigns, of the princes who reſpectively govern the countries in the neighbourhood of Nudjif Cawn, and particularly of ſuch whoſe immediate vicinity, or other circumſtances, may involve them in the tranſactions of his Government.

The

The following paragraph is added in conſequence of Mr. Francis's minute, and the aſſents thereto hereafter entered.

The intent of your deputation being merely to concert meaſures of a defenſive nature with Nudjif Cawn, we poſitively reſtrain you from liſtening to any propoſals which may be made to you of a different tendency.

We are, &c. &c.

Mr. Francis—I conſider the propoſed deputation to have no object but defenſive meaſures only; I ſhall never concur in any other; I think that an article ſhould be inſerted in theſe inſtructions, poſitively reſtraining Major Hannay from liſtening to any propoſals whatſoever of a different nature.

(Signed) P. F. R. B.

I readily agree to the clauſe propoſed by Mr. Francis, although I think the ſubſtance is clearly and fully expreſſed in the concluding ſentence of the 5th article of the inſtructions.

(Signed) W. H.

I have already entered my objections ſo fully to the meaſures to be purſued in conſequence of theſe inſtructions, that it remains only to me to repeat my diſſent and proteſt to any new treaty with Nudjif Cawn; the object and extent of ſuch new engagements having not yet been communicated to us. Nudjif Cawn is an adventurer who has made his fortune on the ruin of the Jauts, a people like the Rohillas, who have never given us any offence, whoſe ſtate was a barrier to Bengal, but whoſe total ruin ſeems to be determined in order to form a large eſtabliſhment for Nudjif Cawn.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 23d September 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.

Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires,

General Clavering, indiſpoſed.

The general letter in this department having been reviſed and approved by the Members preſent, it was ordered to be ſent to General Clavering; and having been communicated to him, he declared his diſſent to the 13th, 14th, and 15th paragraphs reſpecting Nudjif Cawn; and afterwards delivered in the following Minute, a copy of which was ſent a number in the packet with the general letter.

I object to the 13th, 14th, and 15th paragraphs of the letter in the Secret Department to the Court of Directors. My objection to the firſt is, that it is not conformable to the reſolutions of the Board: to the ſecond, that it contains facts not authenticated: to the third, that it ſeems calculated to induce the Court of Directors to believe that Bengal requires the alliance of Nudjif Cawn, to protect it againſt the Marattas, or ſome other Power which may riſe up againſt it.

Explanation 1ſt. On the 10th June it was reſolved to reſtore Nudjif Cawn his penſion, on two conditions: the firſt, That he ſhould ſend away all the Europeans who are ſo offenſive to the Engliſh: the ſecond, That he ſhould diſmiſs Saudit Ally Cawn from his camp: although the 13th paragraph refers to the conſultation of the 10th June, the laſt condition is totally omitted. It has been in like manner excluded from the inſtructions to Major Hannay.

Explanation 2d. The confederacy ſaid to be in agitation againſt the Nabob's dominions, has been mentioned by Mr. Briſtow and Colonel Goddard, but it has been as much ſlighted by Colonel Stibbert. It conſiſts, according to the Governor General's Minute, entered on conſultations of the 29th Auguſt, of the King, the Marattas, the Seiks, and the Rohillas. After having ſeen on ſo many occaſions, the King's power and authority vilified by the late adminiſtration, I was not a little ſurprized to ſee his name mentioned as a dangerous Power in this formidable alliance. I as little expected to ſee the name of the Marattas introduced, becauſe we have lately concluded a treaty with them; and according to all appearances, they are more deſirous of our friendſhip than we can be of theirs. The Seiks are ſo far from wiſhing to quarrel with us, that they are diſpoſed to court our alliance; and with regard to the remains of the Rohillas, although they have no reaſon to reſpect our good faith, or to admire our juſtice, yet I believe they are not ſo formidable as to become the objects of an embaſſy and a public treaty.

Explanation 3d. If I have well comprehended the inſtructions, the treaty which is to be made with Nudjif Cawn, is to be formed on the baſis of mutual intereſts; namely, that we are to give him money, and he is to give us his aſſiſtance in caſe Bengal be attacked by the Marattas, or any other Power who may riſe up in arms againſt us. Whether the money we are to pay him is to be limited to two lacks, or to be increaſed, is not expreſsly ſaid; but I ſhould conjecture, from the tenor of the firſt and fourth articles, that the latter is intended; and indeed when one conſiders that by the treaty of Illahabad, in the year 1765, he was already entitled to receive the ſum of two lacks, and that this ſum had been repeatedly offered to him, no other inference can be drawn but that more is intended to be given him by the new treaty. The words I refer to in the firſt article, are, "the cementing and increaſing the friendſhip and "alliance which formerly ſubſiſted between the Com-"pany and him, on conditions of mutual ſupport and "advantage." The fourth article is more explanatory, and therefore it ſhall be inſerted entire.

Explanation 4th. "You will obtain from Nudjif "Cawn, as early as poſſible, the ultimate conditions "on which he is willing to form a laſting alliance with "the Company. As he may previouſly demand the "confirmation and arrears of his penſion, you will ac-"quaint him that our determination thereon, by the "inſtructions of the Court of Directors, neceſſarily de-"pends on his anſwer to the laſt letter written to him "by the Governor General; and you will obſerve to "him, that as treaties of alliance between different "States can have no other ſolid baſis nor ſecurity for "becoming permanent than thoſe of mutual advantage, "we ſhall expect, in return for the pecuniary benefits he "may derive from the Company, the moſt effectual "ſupport he can afford to the ſecurity of their domi-"nions, on which in fact that of his own muſt eſſen-"tially depend, by contributing with his whole force, "where it may be practicable, to repel the hoſtile de-"ſigns of the Marattas, or any other Power who may "riſe in arms againſt them."

Underſtanding therefore that by the new treaty, he is to have an additional ſubſidy, and in return he is to give us the aſſiſtance of his whole force, when required, for the defence of theſe provinces, it ſeems to me natural to ſuppoſe, that the Gentlemen who formed and agreed to theſe inſtructions, do ſuppoſe that the formidable confederacy which is to be counteracted by this treaty, is rather directed againſt the Province of Bengal than againſt our Ally the Vizier; who is only held forth as the object of it in the Governor General's Minute, entered in Conſultations the 29th Auguſt.

Theſe are the reaſons on which I have objected to the three paragraphs in the general letter.

With reſpect to the propriety of making even a defenſive treaty with Nudjiff Cawn; as a public meaſure, it cannot avoid being condemned; it does not appear prudent to confide on the fidelity of a man who openly appeared in arms againſt the Engliſh camp in the year 1772, who ſtill detains in his army Sumroo, the aſſaſſin of the Engliſh at Patna, together with Mader and the other Engliſh deſerters. Would his diſmiſſing them now be any proof of his attachment to us? Could it be thought ſafe to bring into theſe provinces for their protection, an army of banditti, who are daily mutinying for their pay, and living by rapine? If there was a neceſſity of introducing foreign troops into theſe provinces, every reaſon requires that we ſhould give a preference to thoſe commanded by Britiſh officers in the ſervice of our ally the Vizier; they could give us no umbrage. Our being able to avail ourſelves of their aſſiſtance, in caſe of an exigency, was not one of the leaſt of the advantages which we ourſelves propoſed in forming thoſe corps, and which have ſo happily coincided with the views of the Court of Directors, in their orders to us received in this ſeaſon, directing us to "recommend to "the Nabob of Oude, to permit ſome part of his "cavalry to be commanded by officers of the Com-"pany."

Appendix. No. 164.

Hitherto, I have only conſidered the intended treaty as a meaſure burtheniome to the Company, but eventually dangerous, on a ſuppoſition that Nudjif Cawn's troops were permitted to enter into Bengal. I will now take a review of it as it may affect the Company, indeed more remotely, but ſtill not with leſs danger.

In the year 1773, Nudjif Cawn was yet no more than an adventurer, not poſſeſſing a ſpot of land. At the fatal Congreſs at Benares was laid the foundation of his power, on the ruin of the Jauts; as was likewiſe that of the Vizier by the deſtruction of the Rohillas. In the year 1774, while the Engliſh troops were marching to extirpate one nation, Nudjif Cawn's army beſieged and took the ſtrong fort of Agra, belonging to the Jauts, aided by ſome troops of the Vizier, and aſſiſted by Major Polier, with the approbation of the Governor General.

In the following ſeaſon he purſued his advantage, and took from the Jauts another ſtrong fort called Deig. It ought not to appear ſurprizing, that thoſe people who were formerly conſidered as the allies of the Engliſh, but now abandoned by them, ſhould, as the laſt reſort of deſpair, apply to the Marattas for their aſſiſtance.

That very different ſentiments from thoſe which have been lately adopted in Bengal, were entertained formerly by Lord Clive, who I believe underſtood the politics of India better than any Engliſhman who has ever been in the country, will appear by a letter from the Select Committee to the Court of Directors, dated 8th September 1768.

During Lord Clive's reſidence in the Bahar Province, "a Congreſs was held at Chapra, at which his Lord-"ſhip, General Carnac, Suja Dowlah, and the King's "Miniſters, aſſiſted. Here was laid the foundation of "a Treaty between the Company, the Vizier, and the "Jaut, and Rohilla Chiefs, for their mutual defence "and ſecurity againſt all attempts of the Marattas to "invade their ſeveral dominions; but his Lordſhip and "General Carnac, from conſideration of the little ad-"vantage the Company would deduce from ſuch diſtant "allies in caſe of an invaſion, choſe to leave this matter "unfiniſhed, and to entruſt Sujah Dowlah with the ma-"nagement of ſuch treaties as he might think conve-"nient for his own and the Company's welfare; but he "is not to conclude any thing, nor to enter into any "abſolute engagements, without having previouſly ac-"quainted the Preſident of every propoſal, and obtained "his approbation."

Lord Clive's views are clear: he wiſhed to preſerve the independant nations of the Jauts and Rohillas, as allies of the Engliſh, and to put them under their protection, but avoided making any ſpecific treaty with them, becauſe he knew, that from their great diſtance, they never could be of uſe for the protection of Bengal. After having raiſed the power of Nudjif Cawn to an height as to become formidable both to the Vizier and to ourſelves, it is at laſt judged adviſable to make the moſt indecent advances to him; I call them indecent becauſe he has not made any reply to the letter that was written to him on the 10th of June; becauſe we are ſtill uninformed whether he will ſend away Sumroo, Mader, and the other Europeans, or diſmiſs Saudit Ally Cawn from his Durbar; and becauſe Nudjif Cawn, though now an independant Chief, is ſtill in the ſervice of the King, by whom it will be conſidered as the higheſt indignity to ſee an officer of high rank deputed to his ſervant, while he himſelf is neglected; the King will naturally ſay, "What has Nudjif Cawn done for the Company? He "did not grant the Dewannee of Bengal to them, or "give them Sunnuds for the five Circars."

To the objection of Sumroo and Mader remaining with Nudjif Cawn, the Gentlemen who have planned this deputation will reply, that they have provided againſt the diſgrace and diſhonour that would enſue from an Engliſh officer being introduced to that Chief in the preſence of thoſe perſons, by directing that Major Hannay ſhall not proceed further than Chunar until he hears of their diſmiſſion.

At all events we have committed our honour into the hands of Nudjif Cawn, and it now remains with him now to diſgrace us, and to give Sumroo the triumph of ſetting our power at defiance.

Whatever oſtenſible motives have been aſſigned for this embaſſy in the Governor General's Minute of the 29th Auguſt, and have been introduced in the general letter to prepare the Court of Directors for it, I cannot help ſuſpecting, that much more is intended than what has been diſcovered either to them or to us.

I form my conjectures from two circumſtances: firſt, from the precipitation with which the deſign of this embaſſy was opened and carried into execution: the ſecond, by the omiſſion of Saudit Ally Cawn's name in the inſtructions. On the 28th Auguſt, the Governor General ſhewed me his Minute, which was to introduce this buſineſs, and told me he intended to bring it before the Board the next day; accordingly it no ſooner appeared, than the propoſal contained in it was agreed to by one reſolve, the nomination of Major Hannay by a ſecond, and the inſtructions by a third.

I could do no more than proteſt againſt them all ſeverally. I had already repreſented to the Governor General, that he was rejecting a former reſolution of a full Board during the abſence of Colonel Monſon, which was not to enter into any further correſpondence with Nudjif Cawn till he had complied with two conditions ſtipulated on the Conſultations of the 10th June, namely, his ſending away the obnoxious Europeans, and diſmiſſing Saudit Ali from his Durbar. As the gaining this laſt point from Nudjif Cawn, had been the chief inducement of the Board to make him any propoſals whatever on the 10th June, it muſt appear to every one very remarkable, that this particular condition ſhould be omitted in the inſtructions.

When the terms of the letter which was written to Nudjif Cawn on that occaſion by the Governor General, are examined, my ſuſpicions that ſomething more is intended by permitting Saudit Alli to remain with Nudjif than what we have been allowed to know, will not appear ill-founded.

"It is for this reaſon that nothing may remain to caſt "even a ſhadow of doubt between us, that I earneſtly "recommend to you to prevail upon Mirza Saudit Ally "Cawn, either to return to his obedience, and to the "preſence of his brother Aſoph ul Dowlah Bebader, or "to accept of the aſylum which has been offered him in "the province of Bengal, but on no account let him re-"main with you, for although thoſe who know you and "knew him, will entertain no ſuſpicions of your inten-"tions, the uninformed part of the world will attribute "ſuch appearances to hoſtile deſigns in both, and that "opinion

" opinion may be in the end productive of real miſun-
" derſtandings."

I will now leave the Court of Directors to draw their own concluſions, whether my ſuſpicions on the above circumſtances be well or ill founded.

APPENDIX, No. 165.

Bengal Secret Conſultations, 23d September 1776.

RECEIVED the following letters from Mr. Briſtow.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I addreſſed the Honourable Board the 9th, 10th, and 11th inſtant, and am now to acknowledge their letter of the 22d ultimo.

In going to Fyzabad to procure an interview with the Begum, I had no intention to interfere between her and the Vizier; I only went to be preſent when any ſettlement might take place, without which the Begum never would have been ſatisfied, as ſhe looked upon the guarantee of the Company as her ſecurity. My rule of conduct at Fyzabad not having exceeded this line, and as the five lacks were on the Company's account, I hope the Honourable Board will for theſe reaſons approve the event of this negociation.

The King has diſmiſſed the two battalions which were formerly under the command of Captains Brooke and Stuart, and given the two Commandants recommendatory letters to the Vizier, to whom I introduced them. They urged that General Barker promiſed, that (ſhould they behave well) they ſhould be re-admitted into the Company's ſervice whenever they chole to leave his Majeſty's, and Colonel Goddard had already addreſſed the Honourable Board on this ſubject; but as the Vizier deſired on my introducing them, he has written to the Governor General for permiſſion to entertain them. I do not well ſee how his Excellency can raiſe any battalions, as I believe he will find ſome difficulty in paying the army he has already on foot.

I have, &c. &c.

Lucknow, 18th Auguſt 1776. (Signed) John Briſtow, Reſident at the Vizier's Court.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I had the honour to write on the 18th inſtant.

In my letter of the April laſt, I informed the Honourable Board of the flight of Hemmut Bahadre with his troops to Agra, and as he had placed Aumils of his own in the Vizier's conquered countries to the ſouth-weſt of the Jumna, the Government on that event fell into diſorder; the Vizier wiſhed to have retained the country, but his army was at that time ſo mutinous, and the principal perſons of his Court diſaffected, that he really had not, though there were above thirty thouſand men upon the ſpot, a force that he could entruſt the undertaking to. The Marattas benefited themſelves by this; they in the courſe of twenty days retook the fort of Moat, and all that had been conquered on the other ſide of the Jumna, excepting a ſmall diſtrict adjacent to Etawa, which they were prevented doing, wholly from its peculiar ſituation, ſurrounded and defended by creeks and nullas which fall into the Jumna; the Vizier can hardly be ſaid to govern it; he has, 'tis true, an Aumil in the diſtrict, to whom the Zemindars pay no rents, and in defiance of his authority retain two forts, called Cammele and Saſſaon: it was to reduce theſe forts that Captain Stuart croſſed the Jumna.

The Vizier's loſs of the conquered countries, and the ceſſation of arms entered into with the Marattas, ſet aſide the ſcheme planned with the Rana of Goad. The Rana however conſiders himſelf a dependant of the Vizier's, and in caſe of the Marattas attempting to invade theſe countries he might be made a very uſeful ally.

I have, ſince I laſt wrote the Honourable Board relative to the negociations of Rajah Punſhbar Pundit, the Maratta vackeel, had repeated converſation with him on the ſubject of a treaty with the Vizier, on the terms of which I cannot bring him to any reaſonable determination. He always enlarges upon the friendſhip which the Peiſhwa wiſhes to preſerve with this Court, and his willingneſs to enter into a treaty with amity, but he cannot think of entering into one, ceding the province of the Doab. He ſays, it is a ſmall extent of country, and no object for the Vizier to retain, and thereby diſguſt a nation which can bring into the field an army of one hundred thouſand men; I urged to him, an examination into paſt proceedings is not the way for him to eſtabliſh a friendſhip between the Vizier and his maſter, as both would be equally ſolicitous to ſhew the good grounds on which they had intended to act; that for my part I was perſuaded the Engliſh were anxious to ſee their differences ended to their mutual ſatisfaction; the beſt way to do which, in my opinion, was to look to what appeared adviſable at the preſent juncture. His maſter could hardly expect that Aſuph ul Dowlah ſhould cede countries he was in actual poſſeſſion of, whilſt he had a force to defend them; and that he had done a great deal in giving up all thoughts of the country, on the other ſide the Jumna, which I recommend as the boundary to both their dominions. The diſtricts in which the forts of Cammaté and Saſſoon are, I particularly excepted, and ſtipulated to be the Vizier's, being in his poſſeſſion.

This paſſed in a converſation I had with him yeſterday; and he obſerved upon it, that he had received his inſtructions, and if theſe were intended to be the terms for the treaty, he begged permiſſion to return to Poonah, from whence every article might be ſettled; but he had not powers to do it. In my ſeveral interviews with him, he has often propoſed for the Engliſh and the Marattas to act in conjunction, and make joint conqueſts up to Lahore. It appears to me, that the Marattas do not wiſh to make any treaty with the Vizier, but to leave the matters in diſpute between them in the preſent ſtate, until ſuch time as their own affairs will admit of their making a vigorous attack. By the general purport of the intelligence we got from the Decan, I can hardly think any thing of the kind is likely to happen this year. The moſt the Marattas have hitherto done, was to promiſe the Jauts the aſſiſtance of fifteen thouſand men, who were magnified to twenty-five thouſand, and ſaid to have marched from Ougywe, whereas, I do not really underſtand, if any have marched, that their numbers exceed four or five thouſand. At any rate at preſent it is only Mehajy Sindea who has entered into this undertaking. In regard to the inſinuations of the Maratta vackeel, who would have it be thought that his maſter would go any lengths ſooner than give up the Doab, I ſincerely believe, that if the Vizier was unconnected with the Company, their Aumil Below Rore would at this time ſend detachments into that province. But the awe in which foreign Powers are held by our troops, is the ſole cauſe of the Vizier's ſecurity, otherwiſe there is a general league already formed againſt him, and the execution of it would be at a ſhort period. The copy of the treaty propoſed by Punſhun Pundit, I do myſelf the pleaſure to incloſe.

Nudjif Cawn is at Dike endeavouring to ſatisfy his troops, without effect. I believe as he has not yet met with any treaſures in the fort, he declares his intention of going ſhortly to Delhi, accompanied by Saudat Aly, to pay his reſpects to the King. It is the common converſation at his Durbar, that the intent of this journey is, in conjunction with Zabita Cawn, to form a plan of operations againſt the Vizier's dominions. Appearances are preſerved with Nudjif Cawn at this Court, but Zabita Cawn threw off the maſk in conſequence of a negociation that had been for a long time carrying on with him through Littipat, to conclude a treaty of amity, which he poſitively refuſes, unleſs Nudjif Abad ſhall be given up to him. He has diſpatched a vackeel, to offer three

Appendix. No. 165.

Appendix. No. 166.

three lacks to the Sikes, on their joining him; but it is not thought that he will ſucceed in getting any conſiderable body, as they have diviſions amongſt themſelves. Fyzo'la Cawn was wrote to by Somet Sing, and charged with entering into the views of Zabita Cawn; he was likewiſe made acquainted, that Captain Eryſkine had ſtopt a Hircarrah, who took upon him his name, was entruſted with letters from one of his dependants to the Sike Chiefs, and that he himſelf had directed this Hircarrah to aſſure them verbally of his friendſhip: in anſwer to this, he aſſerts that he does not ever correſpond with any body but the Vizier and the Engliſh; however, he ſent a particular juſtification of his conduct through his vackeel at this Court; to the incloſed copy of which, N° 2, I beg leave to refer the Honourable Board. I likewiſe incloſe copies of Lattafut's letters to the Vizier, incloſing one from Zabita Cawn, which amounts to little leſs than a declaration of war. I ſuppoſe Zabita Cawn may be able to collect thirty thouſand men, but they are not ſubject to any ſubordination, ill armed and ill provided with ammunition; and he himſelf is eſteemed a man of leſs military genius than any Prince of Hindoſtan; but his uncle who is with him is a very able officer.

Upon a review of the ſituations of the Vizier's enemies, I cannot entertain the leaſt apprehenſions of any real danger to his dominions, particularly as there is now no doubt but that ſubordination and diſcipline will be introduced amongſt the troops under the command of the Britiſh officers. They are every where put upon the ſame footing with regard to pay, as in the Company's ſervice; their ſubmitting to the reduction of it, is, I think, a ſtrong inſtance that the ſpirit of mutiny is entirely broke through. The troops being thus brought into a ſtate to be ſerviceable to the Vizier, he wiſhes much to collect a formidable force in the Doab and Robilcund. His enemies are numerous, and if their declarations are to be credited, inclined to attack him; and if thoſe provinces ſhould long remain in their preſent defenceleſs ſtate, it will be a temptation to them to make attempts; whereas by a judicious diſpoſition at this early period, every bad conſequence may be avoided. The plan approved by the Vizier, is to form two regular brigades, conſiſting of a park of artillery, ſix battalions of Sepoys, and one regiment of cavalry, in each of the frontier provinces, to be commanded by the Britiſh officers; but the raiſing of five battalions having been given over by the Honourable Board's advice to Colonel Stibbert, the Vizier cannot diſpoſe of them until they be delivered up to him by Colonel Stibbert, for which he is very anxious, and wrote ſome days ago to the Governor General on the ſubject. By his own deſire, I alſo trouble the Honourable Board with a repetition of his requeſt; and further, that he hopes orders may be ſent to Colonel Stibbert to deliver them over.

I have, &c.

P. S. I forgot to mention to the Honourable Board, that in conſequence of Zabita Cawn's declarations, and the inclination all foreign Powers ſhew to attack the Vizier, he has been pleaſed to authorize Colonel Goddard to aſſemble and diſpoſe of his troops in Robilcund, as well thoſe under Britiſh officers as not, in caſe of an invaſion being attempted.

READ a letter from the Nabob Nudjif Cawn, received the 22d inſtant, and recorded N° 242, in the book of Perſian correſpondence.

The Governor General lays before the Board the following Minute:

Although I have been ſome time ſince informed of the circumſtance mentioned in Nudjif Cawn's letter, reſpecting the requeſt made by the Nabob Uſoph al Dowla to him, for the protection of Saadut Ally; and the Members of the Board will probably recollect my having verbally intimated the ſame; yet as the Nabob Aſoph al Dowla has ſince repreſented Saadut Ally as an object of jealouſy, and complained of the protection granted to him by Nudjif Cawn, I move that a letter be written to Major Hannay, containing an additional inſtruction to him, to urge Nudjif Cawn to uſe every means to prevail upon Saadut Ally to leave his Court and withdraw from his dominions, offering him an aſylum in ours, if he ſhall have any objection to return to thoſe of his brother; but that Major Hannay be cautioned not to ſee Saadut Ally, or to hold any private or direct communication or correſpondence with him; alſo that a letter be written to the ſame effect to Nudjif Cawn.

Agreed to the Governor General's propoſal.

Reſolved, That the following letter be written to Major Hannay, and that the Governor General be requeſted to write to Nudjif Cawn.

To Major Alexander Hannay.

Sir,

In addition to the inſtructions we have given you for conducting the negociation with which you are entruſted; we direct that you urge Nudjif Cawn, by every means that may occur to you, to uſe his endeavours to prevail on Mirza Saadut Ally to withdraw from his dominions, and return to the Court of his brother the Nabob of Oude; authorizing him, if Saadut Ally ſhould, from any apprehenſion of danger to his perſon, object to truſt himſelf within his brother's territories, to offer him an aſylum within the Company's poſſeſſions: but we deſire that you will neither ſee Saadut Ally, nor hold any communication or correſpondence with him directly or indirectly.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.

Richard Barwell, Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

General Clavering indiſpoſed.

General Clavering ſends in the following Minute relative to Nudjif Cawn:

General Clavering—The letter which has been lately received from Nudjif Cawn, and read the 24th inſtant, is an anſwer to the letter written to him on the 10th June laſt, in which the Board offered him his penſion on two conditions, namely, the ſending away the offenſive Europeans, and the diſmiſſion of Saudit Ally from his Court. In his anſwer he has poſitively refuſed complying with either of the conditions. The offer of thoſe conditions was the reſult of an unanimous reſolution of the Board, Colonel Monſon being then preſent; which reſolution not having yet been reſcinded by any other reſolution, the orders now given for treating with Nudjif Cawn, before he has complied with them, are not only informal with reſpect to the propriety of the Board's proceedings, but are more, a high indignity to the Government itſelf. It appears to me, that the formal manner of proceeding ſhould have been to have moved the Board, that notwithſtanding the direct refuſal that Nudjiff Cawn had given to the two conditions which had been propoſed to him on the 10th June laſt. Major Hannay ſhould ſtill purſue his negociation with Nudjiff Cawn; this method of proceeding would have brought the matter fairly before the Board, to have learnt from the Governor General his reaſons for proſecuting a negociation ſo apparently derogatory to the dignity of the Government. The public reaſons aſſigned by the Governor General in his Minute of the 28th Auguſt, are founded on the apprehenſions which he then entertained of formidable alliances, that were contracting by the Seiks, by Zabita Cawn and the King, againſt the dominions of our ally Aſoph ul Dowlah; although I myſelf was convinced at the time, from the correſpondence of Colonel Stillers, that no danger was to be apprehended from the neighbouring Powers, to diſturb the peace of Aſoph ul Dowlah's dominions, yet I was very much pleaſed to find that opinion confirmed by the laſt letter received from Colonel Goddard, and read on the 24th October laſt, wherein he mentions, that the Nabob has ſo little to apprehend an attack from any of his neighbours, that he recommends to this Government that the Nabob ſhould be adviſed to lend his aſſiſtance to the Ranna of Geud, now attacked by the Marattas. If this be the real ſituation of affairs in that country, and that the Maratta Empire be ſo diſtracted with inteſtine diviſions as to be incapable of invading Bengal, I confeſs I cannot perceive what public reaſons can be offered for perſevering in a deſign of forming an alliance with a man who ſo openly ſet our friendſhip at defiance, by entertaining in his ſervice every enemy to this Government, and to procure whoſe aſſiſtance, in caſe of an invaſion of Bengal by the Marattas, is the object of the treaty propoſed to be formed with him. If nothing more however is meant than to procure a lucrative commiſſion for Major Hannay, I ſhould imagine that other means might be deviſed for that purpoſe without ſacrificing the honour and reputation of this Government. To that end, as doubts are entertained that the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah has himſelf authorized Nudjiff Cawn to afford his brother Saudit Ally his protection, I beg leave to recommend that a letter be written to Mr. Briſtow, to communicate to him the ſuggeſtions of Nudjiff Cawn, and to know whether in fact the Nabob has authorized him to grant his protection to his brother; becauſe were that to be the caſe, I ſhould no longer be ſo ſtrenuous as I am for his removal from Nudjiff Cawn's camp; in my own opinion he only remains there in order to be near at hand, to foment diviſions in the Government of Aſoph ul Dowlah, and perhaps to attempt ſomething more, ſhould a favourable occaſion offer.

Governor General—I object to the propoſals made by the General, to communicate to the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah the aſſertion made by Nudjiff Cawn, that the protection granted by him to Saudit Ally was at the Nabob's own inſtance, becauſe it can ſerve no purpoſe but to create an animoſity between them; but I ſhall approve of Mr. Briſtow's being directed to enquire into the truth of the aſſertion, as he may obtain it by other means, and if he can, to obtain and ſend us a copy of the letter alluded to by Nudjiff Cawn, if any ſuch was ever written.

Agreed, That the following letter be written to Mr. Briſtow.

To Mr. Briſtow.

Sir,

In a letter which we have lately received from Nudjiff Cawn, he informs us that the protection which he ſtill continues to afford to Mirza Saudit Ally, is in compliance with the ſolicitations of the Nabob Aſoph ul Dowlah, who has written to him on this ſubject, and deſired him to keep Saudit Ally from forming other connections. As this is a circumſtance with which we could wiſh to be more particularly acquainted, we deſire you will enquire into the truth of it; and endeavour to obtain and tranſmit to us, without making any direct application to the Nabob himſelf, a copy of the letter alluded to by Nudjiff Cawn, if any ſuch was ever written. Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, the 30th December 1776.

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

Agreeable to the orders contained in the Honourable Board's letter of the 30th ultimo, I have enquired into the truth of Nudjiff Cawn's having been ſolicited by the Vizier to grant his protection to Sadut Ally, and prevent him from forming other connections; and I find it to be very true, that his Excellency did write in this ſtile to Nudjiff Cawn. In my humble opinion the view he had in it was merely to keep up appearances, for in caſe he had requeſted that Sadut Ally might either have been delivered up or not received by Nudjiff Cawn, he was convinced his requeſt would not have been complied with. When the Goſſagne and Duſhein Cawn fled, Nudjiff Cawn pretended to receive them out of regard to the Vizier; and the Vizier on his part again has in ſome inſtances received Nudjiff Cawn's rebellious ſubjects in the ſame way. They both of them in their correſpondence acknowledge theſe acts as reciprocal favours, but they have nevertheleſs been the cauſe of increaſing their jealouſy and diſtruſt of each other. For the information of the Honourable Board relative to Sardat Ally's reception by Nudjiff Cawn, I have procured copies of the following letters, which I do myſelf the honour to incloſe, viz.

One from Nudjiff Cawn to the Vizier.
From Mirza Khalyle ditto.
The Vizier's anſwer to the above.

In procuring the copies of theſe letters, I have uſed the neceſſary precautions to prevent his Excellency from being informed of it.

I have the honour to be,

Lucknow, 18th Nov. (Signed) John Briſtow, Reſident at the Vizier's Court.

Honourable Sir, and Gentlemen,

I am happy to inform the Honourable Board, that on a review of the ſtate of foreign affairs there is a great proſpect of ſecurity to his Excellency; but as many circumſtances have occurred of which it may be neceſſary to give particular information, I ſhall endeavour to explain the Vizier's preſent ſituation in the fulleſt manner.

Notwithſtanding the appearances kept up between his Excellency and Nudjiff Cawn, I have great reaſon to think they ſtill entertain the ſame jealouſy of each other as formerly. In regard to the Vizier, I do not ſee any cauſe that he has to be apprehenſive of Nudjiff Cawn, as he ſtill continues in great diſtreſs for money, and has been compelled to give up a certain extent of country to the Sikes, to prevent their joining Zabiter Cawn; the circumſtances relative to which are as follow:

In the month of Auguſt laſt I informed the Honourable Board of the conduct obſerved by Zabiter Cawn in reſpect to the Vizier. He did certainly endeavour to form alliances with the view of invading Rohilcund; but the awe with which the name of the Britiſh officers commanding ſo conſiderable a body of his Excellency's troops ſtruck all foreign Powers, together with the low ſtate of Zabiter Cawn's own affairs, entirely overſet it. Upon this his old enmity to Nudjiff Cawn revived, and he exerted his utmoſt abilities to attach the Sikes to him, in order to invade and diſpoſſeſs Nudjiff Cawn of his dominions. Abdul Abud Cawn increaſes their animoſities all in his power, by writing inflammatory letters againſt Nudjiff Cawn, both to the Sikes and Zabiter Cawn. The ſcheme ſeemed to have ſucceeded, for the Sikes, in conjunction with Zabiter Cawn, entered Hanſy, Nudjiff Cawn diſpatched Nudjiff Cooley Cawn from Dike (where he himſelf then was) with a conſiderable part of his army to oppoſe them.

The league appeared ſo formidable, that Nudjiff Cawn

Appendix. No. 166.

even propoſed to march in perſon, and had really moved his encampment three coſs out of Dike with this intent, when he received intelligence that Nudjiff Caolly Cawn had concluded a peace with the Sikes on the 18th inſtant, granting Gohana and Hanſay diſtricts, yielding about eleven lacks revenue, as jaghires to their two principal chiefs, Gudge Sing and Hummer Sing, in conſequence of which they had renounced their alliance with Zabiter Cawn.

I ſhould imagine Zabiter Cawn will hardly be able to extricate himſelf from his preſent difficulties, for Abdul Abud Cawn has it not in his power to aſſiſt him, and his own army is very unequal to Nudjiff Cawn's; it is however impoſſible to ſpeak with preciſion of the turn affairs are likely to take, from the little dependance to be placed on the Sikes, who, ſhould they find it their advantage, would in all probability re-unite with Zabiter Cawn, eſpecially as I underſtand their negociations with Nudjiff Cawn are not finally adjuſted. Beſides Gohana and Hanſy as jaghires, they are in treaty for Hiſſar and Rotue, as farms; a compliance with this may perhaps determine them to abide by the Peace. Nudjiff Cawn has for ſome time declared his intentions of going to Delhi to pay his reſpects to the King; at which Abdul Abud Cawn expreſſes great apprehenſions, leſt it ſhould be with a deſign againſt his life, or to diſplace him from about his Majeſty's perſon. I am however of opinion, that he will not go, at leaſt for the preſent, as the unſettled ſtate of his country, and the war with Zabiter Cawn, require his preſence elſewhere.

The Sikes, on concluding the Peace, ſent Nudjiff Cawn all the original letters which they had received againſt him from Obeul Abud Cawn, and thus increaſed the breach between them.

Saudut Ally ſtill continues with Nudjiff Cawn, but is extremely diſſatisfied with his ſituation. Some ſhort time after his arrival, he obtained for his own ſupport and that of the two battalions which deſerted to him from Etaya, the diſtrict of Ryana, yielding a nominal revenue of nine lacks of rupees a year. Nudjiff Cawn now wants him to give it up, and promiſes him Meeret in lieu of it, as a jaghire. The fact is, that he wiſhes to be rid of him, for Meeret is a diſtrict in Zabiter Cawn's poſſeſſion, which muſt be conquered before it can be diſpoſed of to him. I have every reaſon to believe that he would be happy to return, but am ſorry to obſerve that the Vizier is ſtill as much averſe to it as ever.

On this ſubject however I mean to make an ultimate and full repreſentation to his Excellency, and then forward his reaſons at large for refuſing to conſent.

The low ſtate of Nudjiff Cawn's treaſury has compelled him to reduce his army very conſiderably indeed; a great number of his people have deſerted him, in particular Madoc, who is now in the ſervice of the Rhana of Ghode.

In regard to the Sikes, they make profeſſions to the Vizier, of preferring his alliance to that of all other Princes, and propoſed a treaty with him, in which he did not acquieſce; he approved of their profeſſions of attachment, and ſaid, he ever wiſhed to continue upon the beſt underſtanding with them, and ſo long as they did not interrupt the peace of his dominions, he ſhould not form any deſigns againſt them. Soorut Sing conducted this negociation, and it was particularly given him as a reaſon for rejecting a treaty that it was unbecoming the dignity of the Vizier, the whole body of the Sikes hardly amounting to ſeven thouſand men, their Chiefs numerous, and none of them of the leaſt conſequence.

It is aſſerted, and the Vizier himſelf gives credit to it, that Fyzulla Cawn entertains a correſpondence with all foreign Powers, in order to form an alliance againſt him: in my humble opinion it appears to want foundation. Fyzulla Cawn is certainly in a better ſituation than he ever was before the war with Sujah ul Dowlah, and I cannot ſee what inducement he can have for defection. Before the war, he had I underſtand a country of about ſix lacks, laſt year he collected from his preſent dominions above ſixteen lacks; and this year he has laid an increaſe of two annas in the rupee, which I am informed he will be able to realize without diſtreſſing the country. He is eſteemed a man of great abilities as a financier, and he does not ſeem to want them in any other branch of government; it is therefore impoſſible he ſhould be ſo weak as to forfeit the Vizier's friendſhip, on which his exiſtence depends. He has however been made to believe, that the Vizier wiſhes to deprive him of his territories; and it is by ſome imagined, that conſidering this as a fact, he is ſeeking alliance to guard againſt it.

In the intelligence of Timur Shah, he is ſaid to have ſent an Ambaſſador to that Court with a particular commiſſion, inviting him to invade Indoſtan, and offering to join and pay him a lack of rupees a day after he ſhall have reached Lahore. But admitting Timur Shah to be ever ſo well inclined to this expedition, the Sicks would oppoſe his paſſage through their country; Timur Shah is himſelf now in Cabul.

I am very happy to inform the Honourable Board, that there is not any appearance of the Marattas being this year able to create the leaſt diſturbances to the Vizier, as the preſent diviſions in their own government will employ their whole attention; the Rhana of Ghode laid ſiege to the fort of Goalier, which is in their poſſeſſion, and was obliged by Baboo Holcar to raiſe it; but after Madoc joined him, became too ſtrong for Baboo Holcar, whom he compelled to retreat, and in a ſkirmiſh he had with him, the Rhana took five guns and two elephants and ſome horſes; a negociation was afterwards propoſed for a treaty of peace, to ſettle the terms of which the Rhana deputed a perſon of his confidence to the Maratta Camp: but by this day's intelligence I learn that they treacherouſly way-laid him, and I ſuppoſe the war will now be continued. The Rhana has made repeated applications to the Vizier for the aſſiſtance of two battalions of ſepoys, which his Excellency refuſed to grant; his principal reaſons were the lowneſs of his treaſury, and the very weak ſtate of his own government in all parts, but in the Daub particularly, owing to the refractory behaviour of the Zemindars, who, under the protection of their forts, have hitherto kept that country in a conſtant ſtate of warfare againſt the Aumil. The Rhana profeſſes a very ſtrong attachment to the Vizier; whoſe intereſt it might be to ſupport him in caſe his own affairs would admit of it; but no poſitive engagements had been made to him to give him reaſon to expect aſſiſtance. As the Vizier aſked my advice on this ſubject, I perfectly agreed with him in regard to making the ſettlement of his own government the firſt object of his attention, and I thought it the more adviſeable to confirm him in his reſolution, as the Honourable Board had directed me to recommend it to his Excellency, not to employ the troops under Britiſh officers on any ſervice but the defence of his own dominions, and he had no other to ſend upon this expedition. I did not know likewiſe whether a Britiſh officer commanding a detachment againſt the Marattas might not be conſidered as improper, after the treaty concluded at Poonah.

From the above relation of facts, the Honourable Board will, I hope, be ſatisfied of the little cauſe the Vizier has to fear the attacks of any foreign enemies. The ſituation of his own court is much the ſame as it was, for his favourites have ſo much influence in the government, that the ſame abuſes ſtill exiſt, and it will be extremely difficult to convince him of the inconveniencies and loſs which reſult from them. The meaſures of the Miniſters perpetually claſh with the intereſts of the favourites, who oppoſe every thing they propoſe to the Vizier. I ſhall in a few days write the Honourable Board fully on the ſtate of this Government, and have for that purpoſe procured a complete ſtatement of the receipts and diſburſements which I am tranſcribing into Engliſh, and to which I muſt refer for particulars.

It is with much concern I obſerve the want of diſcipline, which ſtill reigns in that part of the Vizier's army, not under Britiſh officers; two battalions marched a ſhort time ago from their ſtations to this place, and demanded their pay, which, if they were not granted, they threatened to plunder the town. The Vizier was obliged to comply with their demands, and when he wanted to diſmiſs them for their mutinous behaviour, they refuſed to give up their arms, unleſs his Excellency would promiſe through me not to uſe any violence towards them. The night of the mutiny I was ſent for at ten o'clock by the Vizier, to be the arbitrator between him and the mutineers; which office I however unwilling took upon me, in order to prevent a diſturbance at Fyzabad; the troops have gone to great extremities, and compelled the Begum to pay them a conſiderable ſum of money. The particulars of this diſturbance the Honourable Board will underſtand from her letter to me on this ſubject, copies of which I have herewith the honour to incloſe N° 1. The Vizier, the night before laſt, received intelligence, that after the mutineers diſperſed, the Begum had thought proper to put her own people into all the offices in the town, and diſplaced his: that ſhe had confined a Soubadar and ſome Sepoys, who were guards in the ſtore houſes, ſeized the gates, and publiſhed to the world, that ſhe had bought the town for the money the troops had exacted from her. The Vizier was extremely mortified at this intelligence, and ſent at paſt eleven o'clock at night to let me know that he had ſome very particular buſineſs to ſpeak to me about, and before I could return him an anſwer to his meſſage, he did me the honour to call on me. He complained heavily of the Begum's behaviour, and declared, that if it was not for the treaty he had made with her through the Engliſh, he would immediately order her two principal Eunuchs to be capitally puniſhed; he at firſt determined to ſend the body guard to Fyzabad, and retake poſſeſſion of the town, but changed his mind on my aſking him, whether there was a probability of any further diſturbance; he anſwered there was not the leaſt, as the troops concerned in the mutiny were all diſperſed, and another battalion had been ordered to Fyzabad, which would be arrived there by that time. After many propoſitions, he at laſt reſolved on ſending the Miniſter Huſſein Reza Cawn, to which I adviſed him, knowing the Begum was well affected towards him, and that he would act with moderation. The Vizier inſiſted on my immediately writing her a letter, that Huſſein Reza Cawn might ſet off with it before day-break. I incloſe a copy of it, N° 2. I am inclined to think the Begum's conduct has been exaggerated in order to cauſe ill-will between her and his Excellency; but I hope the Honourable Board will approve the part I was obliged to take to moderate matters.

I have the honour, &c.

Lieutenant General John Clavering, indiſpoſed.

READ the following letter from Major Hannay:

Honourable Sir, and Sirs,

I beg leave to acquaint you, that I arrived here laſt night, and that by this morning's dawk I received the Nawab Nudjif Khan's reply to my addreſs of the 1ſt ultimo; a copy of which I have the honour to incloſe for your peruſal. It is ſo fully deſcriptive of his ſituation, the difficulties with which he is ſurrounded, and how he is circumſtanced with regard to Sumroo, that it requires no comment. His ready compliance with the pleaſure of the Board, in the diſmiſſion of Maddox, and the French in his ſervice, I humbly apprehend to be a favourable indication of his diſpoſition to conform to that mode of political conduct which adminiſtration may be pleaſed to recommend as moſt agreeable to the intereſts of the Company; and I do not entertain a doubt but he will fulfil his promiſes with reſpect to the fate of Sumroo as ſoon as the neceſſity of his affairs will admit. Nudjif Kooly Khan, who is his principal military officer, is now detached againſt a numerous army of the Seiks who are aſſembled in the neighbourhood of Delhi; and Sumroo's troops compoſe a very conſiderable part of the corps which is under his orders. Sumroo is in perſon preſent with his troops; and under theſe circumſtances, I beg leave to ſubmit to your wiſdom, how far it is in Nidjif Khan's power at this juncture, which has every appearance of being ſo very critical to his fortunes, and even exiſtence, to diſmiſs Sumroo, or bring him to the juſt puniſhment of his enormities. Appendix. No. 167.

I have acknowledged the receipt of Nidjif Khan's letter, and acquainted him with my having tranſmitted a copy of it to your Honourable Board, but that the obedience I owe your poſitive commands precludes my proceeding further.

I ſhall remain here until I have the honour to receive your further orders, and if they are not to proceed, I beg leave to offer my moſt earneſt aſſurances that my utmoſt zeal and abilities ſhall be exerted to bring the buſineſs of my commiſſion to a happy iſſue.

Chunargur, I have the honour to be, &c.

Copy of a letter from the Nabob Nudjif Khan to Major Hannay; dated 22d Shawbaun, 18th year of the King's reign.

I have received your letter, adviſing me that you have taken leave of the Gentlemen of the Council, having their permiſſion to pay me a viſit; and that you will ſet out in two or three days. You have written that the entertainment of Sumroo is a breach of friendſhip with the Engliſh, and that while he remains with me you cannot carry into execution your deſign of paying me a viſit. You well know that the entertainment of Sumroo was a breach of friendſhip in the ruling Powers of Hindoſtan; (here follows an exact copy of extract from the letter to the Governor General, entered in Perſian correſpondence N° 242, from "whence I took my leave," &c. to "unſatisfactory ſervice.") I will alſo expel Sumroo in time, but he is not at preſent in my army. Proceed therefore on your journey, and afford the ſatisfaction of an interview. Impart to me your ſentiments and purpoſes, and obſerve the true ſtate of affairs here; and having ſatisfied yourſelf beyond all doubt, inform the Gentlemen of the Council whether I am ſincere, or whether you diſcover an appearance of deceit. I am faithful and true in my friendſhip and attachment: But ſhould I immediately break with thoſe men, the good which I have effected by my efforts and labour in a courſe of years, would at once be annihilated; and my enemies who are now in ambuſh, would excite more trouble than before. It is therefore neceſſary that I ſhould conſult experience, by preventing the flames from blazing and the miſchief from enſuing. I have already accompliſhed one object, and will in time accompliſh the ſecond, be aſſured of it: and until I have the pleaſure of ſeeing you, favour me with your kind letters.

The Secretary lays before the Board the following Note and Minute from General Clavering:

Sir,

Appendix. No. 167.

Sir,

The ſtate of my health not permitting me to come to the Board as I intended to-day. I deſire you will lay the incloſed Minute before the Governor General and Council, for their conſideration.

Calcutta, Nov. 4th, 1776.

I am, &c.
(Signed) J. Clavering.

The diſapprobation that I have on all occaſions ſhewn to the meaſures of deputing an officer of high rank to Nudjif Cawn, before an anſwer could be received from him whether he would accept the conditions propoſed to him in conſequence of an unanimous reſolution of the Board on the 10th of June laſt, ſo fully evinces the propriety of my oppoſition to the reſolution taken by the Board to ſend Major Hannay on that commiſſion, that I need not add any further arguments to juſtify it. The anſwer received from Nudjif Cawn, addreſſed to the Governor General and Major Hannay, are preciſely what I expected, that he would not diſmiſs either Sumroo the aſſaſſin, or Madoc, or Saadut Ally Cawn; I muſt therefore beg leave to propoſe that a queſtion be ſubmitted to the determination of the Board, whether the unanimous reſolution taken on the 10th June ſhall be reſcinded, or not?

The Board muſt remember, that the only reaſon aſſigned by the Governor General in his Minute of Auguſt, for propoſing that a treaty ſhould be entered into with Nudjif Cawn, was a ſuppoſed league forming by the King, the Seiks, and the Rohillas, to attack the dominions of our ally the Vizier. If the Board will take the trouble of reading the laſt letter received from Colonel Goddard, they will ſee, that ſo far is he from apprehending any danger to the Vizier's dominions from any of the neighbouring Powers, that he has propoſed that the Board would adviſe the Vizier to march his army to the aſſiſtance of the Rana of Goad, attacked by the Marattas. He is beſides confident that the troops commanded by Britiſh officers in the Vizier's ſervice, are fully ſufficient to ſecure the tranquillity of the Nabob's country againſt the ambition of any of his neighbours.

In this ſtate of affairs therefore, the expediency of a ſubſidiary treaty with Nudjif Cawn ſeems to be entirely unneceſſary, either for the protection of the Nabob's dominions or thoſe of the Company, the object of the propoſed treaty.

If the Board ſhould be of opinion, that the reſolution of the 10th June ſhould be reſcinded, and that Major Hannay ſhould proceed to the preſence of Nudjif Cawn; I beg leave to recommend that they would fix his appointments, in order that the Court of Directors may know by the firſt ſhip the expence of this deputation, as well as the new grounds on which the treaty is to be formed.

(Signed) J. Clavering.

The Governor General—I object to reſcinding the reſolution, becauſe it remains as it originally ſtood, unchanged by the objects of Major Hannay's appointment. The letter from Nudjif Cawn is by no means a proof either of his diſaffection to us, or of his diſinclination to comply with our requiſitions. It appears from the words of his letter, that he has actually diſmiſſed Madoc and the other Frenchmen who were in his ſervice: I am informed by other channels, that he has diſmiſſed them; and I knew and foreſaw that the removal of Sumroo could not be effected without much difficulty and danger, yet I ſhall not propoſe any deviation from Major Hannay's original inſtructions, nor ſhall I recommend or conſent that he proceed to the Court of Nudjif Cawn while Sumroo remains in his ſervice. As the General has deſired that Major Hannay's allowances may be fixed, I recommend that his preſent allowances be confined to the eſtabliſhed batta of his rank, and rupees 100 for a Moonſhy; and from the time of his paſſing the boundary of the Company's poſſeſſions, that his allowances be fixed by thoſe allowed to Colonel Upton, in the proportion of their reſpective ranks; I would further recommend, as it appears that the account of Major Hannay's expences is to be referred to the Court of Directors, that the Paymaſter General be directed to draw out an account of the expences incurred by Colonel Upton's deputation from the day of his departure, that they may be the better enabled to judge of the propriety of the expence incurred by Major Hannay, by a compariſon with thoſe.

Agreed, That the Reſolution of the 29th Auguſt be not reſcinded.

Reſolved, That the following letter be written to Major Hannay.

To Major Alexander Hannay.

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 19th October, incloſing a copy of Nudjif Cawn's reply to your firſt addreſs.

We are ſtill of opinion, that it would be highly improper for you to proceed to the Court of Nudjif Cawn whilſt Sumroo remains in his ſervice; we do not think fit therefore to make any alteration in your original inſtructions.

As long as you continue on your preſent ſervice at Chunar, you will only draw the eſtabliſhed pay and allowances of your rank, and 100 rupees for a Moonſhy, but we ſhall augment them from the time of your paſſing the Carumnaſſa, if future circumſtances ſhould admit of your proceeding to Nudjif Cawn, in proportion to thoſe which were fixed for Colonel Upton.

We are, &c.

4th November 1776.

Extract of Bengal Secret Conſultations, 2d December 1776.

PRESENT,

The Honourable Warren Haſtings, Governor General, Preſident.
General Clavering,
Richard Barwell, } and Philip Francis, } Eſquires.

Read, and approved, the proceedings of the 11th ultimo.

General Clavering having ſent in the following Minute before the diſpatch of the Naſſau, a copy of it is ſent a number in the packet by that ſhip.

General Clavering's Minute in anſwer to the Governor General's of November 4th inſtant.

The Governor General objects to the reſcinding the reſolution of the 10th June "becauſe, (he ſays) it remains as it originally ſtood, unchanged by Major Hannay's appointment," viz. That till the perſons who are ſo obnoxious to the Engliſh, namely, Sumroo and Madoc, as alſo Syded Ally Khan, were removed from Nudjiff Khan, no treaty of alliance ſhould be entered into with him. The Governor General muſt excuſe me if I take the liberty of contradicting him, and declaring, that by the omiſſion of Syded Ally in the inſtructions to Major Hannay, the reſolution does not now remain as it originally ſtood, and therefore it ought either to be reſcinded or enforced; if reſcinded, then the exception in Major Hannay's inſtructions would only include Sumroo and Madoc, and not Syded Ally; if enforced, the latter would be included in the exception with the former. The Governor General further ſays, that Nudjif Cawn's letter is by no means a proof of diſaffection to the Company, or his diſinclination to comply with our requiſitions; tions; I cannot conceive what idea the Governor General can form of affection or complying with our requiſitions, when he will not allow that Nudjiff Cawn entertaining Sumroo in his ſervice, a man who was a murderer of the Engliſh at Patna, is not diſaffection, or his evading to ſend him away is not a refuſal of our requiſition. In regard to Madoc and the other Frenchmen in his ſervice, I think the words of Nudjiff Cawn's letter are very equivocal; but I have written to Colonel Stibbert to be informed preciſely of the fact, whether they be ſent away or not.

If the Governor General foreſaw, as he declares, the difficulty of removing Sumroo from Nudjiff Cawn, why, it may be aſked, was he in ſuch a hurry to ſend the deputation to him, particularly as he does not mean to recommend or to conſent that Major Hannay ſhall proceed to the Court of Nudjiff Cawn whilſt Sumroo remains there? Had he thought proper to have retarded the Major's departure till that information could have been received, he would at leaſt have ſaved the difference between half and double full batta of a Major, which is 22 and 10 rupees per day, that Major Hannay will draw more at Chunagur than if he had remained at the Preſidency; the Governor General may think ſuch a ſum trifling, as 8,000 or 9,000 rupees per annum, but it was inattention to theſe and ſmaller ſums that occaſioned the immoderate expence of the military eſtabliſhment before.

The deſign of giving Major Hannay the ſame appointments when he paſſes the Company's territories that Colonel Upton has, is certainly juſt, as the Governor General muſt deem the journey to Agra equal in length and difficulty to that to Poonah, and the Majeſty of Nudjiff Cawn equivalent to that of the Maratta State. But ſuppoſing even that Sumroo and every other impediment were actually removed to the Major's acceſs to this powerful Prince, it is proper that the Company ſhould have the ſatisfaction of knowing what the new motive for the treaty is to be.
